In 1943, Dr. Manley married Dorothy Shepard of Durham, daughter of Mrs. Charles H. Shepard and the late Dr. Charles H. Shepard, the former superintendent of Lincoln Hospital. Mrs. Manley, a graduate of Fisk University and the Hampton Institute Library School, is active in civic organizations of Durham.

Miss Read, who will retire, June 30, has served as president of Spelman College for 26 years. During her administration, the college has made remarkable progress, Mr. Arnett stated, with reference to academic standards, financial resources, and physical plant.

In the last five years, additional land has been acquired; a new Health and Recreation Building with an up - to - date swimming pool has been erected; and a dormitory, beautiful in design and equipment, built in memory of Mrs. Abby Aldrich Rockefeller, has just been completed.

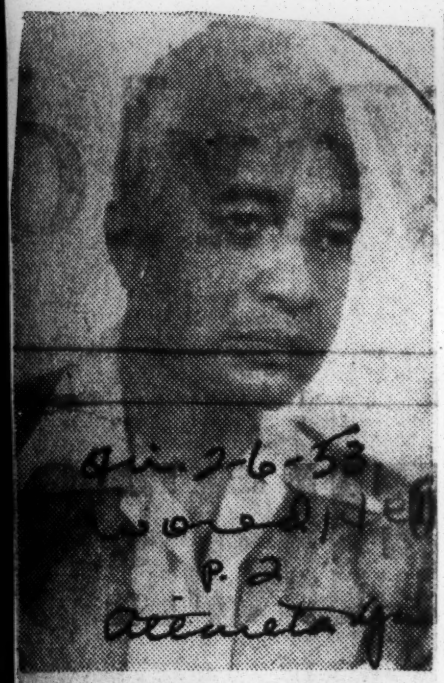
Stillman College To Get $1,000,000

Southern Presbyterians have raised $2,050,731 to be used in educational and evangelistic work among Negroes, it was announced yesterday.

Half of the money raised will go to Stillman College, Tuscaloosa, the denomination's only Negro college. The other million dollars will be used to develop congregations among Negroes, the announcement said.

The campaign to raise money for Negro work was launched May 17, with a goal of $2,000,000 by Sept. 1, but the amount was over-subscribed in less than two months.

The campaign was conducted under the leadership of an assembly-wide committee headed by three lay chairmen. These are: The Rev. P. D. Miller, Atlanta; R. A. Farnsworth, Winston-Salem, and Mrs. Alexander Maitland, Richmond, Va. Headquarters was set up in Atlanta with the Rev. Richard R. Potter as director.



DR. JAMES O. HOPSON

Dr. Hopson Named Acting Dean Of Talladega College

TALLADEGA, Ala.—(SNS)—Dr. James O. Hopson has been named acting dean of Talladega College.

The anouncement was made here Tuesday, February 3 by the office of Dr. Arthur D. Gray, president of the 86-year-old institution. Mr. Hopson, temporarily fills the deanship which was left vacant when Dean James T. Cater, was virtually retired last year in a faculty reorganization. He was pulled down to professor, retired for two years, after which his retirement becomes final.

Dr. Hopson directs the Talladega Little Theatre and has been connected with the college for 10 years. He is president of the Southern Association of Dramatic and Speech Art. He is a native of Pittsburgh Pa. and holds a doctorate from the University of Pittsburgh.

In the same faculty shake-up which saw the dismissal of Dr. A. D. Beittel as president, Dr. Gray an Alabama-born 1929 Talladega graduate emerged as the institution's eight but first Negro president.

Two-Day Program Marks Inauguration Of New President

TALLADEGA, Ala.—Inaugural week, April 8-10, will bring a series of events and many guests to Talladega College. On Wednesday, April 8, divisional meetings of the Board of Home Missions and of the executive committee (Dr. Gray, chairman) of the Congregational-Christian Churches will be held during the day.

The Little Theatre will present Arthur Miller's All My Sons in De Forest Chapel, Wednesday evening. The cast, now in rehearsal, features four leading players: Jacqueline Guinn, Cleveland, Ohio; Aeronita Belle, Houston, Tex.; Roland Yates, Tampa, Fla.; Malbour Watson, Birmingham, Ala.

* * *

ON THURSDAY, April 9, morning and afternoon sessions of an Educational Conference will be open to guests and the college family in DeForest Chapel. The theme of the conference is Higher Education and Problems of Contemporary Civilization.

At 8:00 P. M., the music department and choir directed by Frank Harrison will present a concert in DeForest Chapel.

Inaugural ceremonies will begin at 2:00 P. M., on Friday, April 10. Among the visiting college presidents expected in honor of Dr. Gray is Dr. Buell G. Gallagher, recently inaugurated president of New York City College.

A reception will be held in the home of Dr. and Mrs. Gray at 4:00 P. M.

Visitors and alumni are invited to all events except board meetings.

Dr. Gray Ridicules False Basis Of Judging People

Dr. Arthur D. Gray, president of Talladega College, ripped isolationism, politically and racially, in his Periclean Club forum speech last Friday night at Sixteenth Street Baptist Church.

The Alabama-born eighth and first Negro president of Talladega College ,discussing the "Basis of World Understanding," said it rested upon (1) the recognition of the inescapable dependence of all men; (2) the profound fact of the universal dignity of every human being and (3) the dynamic requirements of the spirit.

He stressed the point that more consideration must be placed upon the worth and value of man instead of material things, dollars, atom bombs, and guns.

Dr. Gray ridiculed the false basis of judging groups and individuals, seeking to classify them on the basis of pigmentation, family background, education, achievements and accomplishments, and economic possessions. "Color is the caner at the heart of America," he said.

"The most important, urgent thing for world understanding is right relations," the guest speaker declared. He surveyed the "dark side to the subject of world understanding" by relating that there are millions of people who have never had enough to eat, who are sick, without faith. He said that it must be recognized that the person who lives in the palace and the one who resides in a hut; those living in splendor create anxiety and confusion.

He raised the question, a state of affairs like this, what can bring sanity, balance and understanding. His answer was that by each nation and individual recognizing the interdependence, dignity and spirit of man, such a goal was possible.

His speech was 36 minutes long. In it he questioned the soundness of a highest level political leader who suggested during the presidential campaign to "Let Asians fight Asians." He said that Chester Bowles, retired Ambassador to India, won friends for American by simple acts of sending his kids to the Indian school, having them ride bicycles instead of going in fine automobiles to school and by inviting Indian children to parties in the Embassy. He said it was regrettable that a change in administration ended the services of a man like Bowles. In passing, he noted that it was one of the darker races on whom the American Army dropped the first atom bomb.

The guest speaker said one could not make a friend out of a man he looks down on by giving him some money. He suggested it would take more than dollar to win understanding for Americans abroad. He saw the treatment of minorities in this country as part of the problem necessiating solution as a step to world understanding.

"Nobody achieves anything by himself. There is no such thing as a self-made man or a man pulling himself up by his own bootstraps." He cited this to point out the false thinking of people. "Nobody goes to prison alone. Nobody goes to college along." Some helps to make another whatever he is," speaker suggested.

He suggested that some nations act like there is nobody else in the world but them and that the biggest country is just as helpless as the smallest country. "There can never be an isolation or nations nor of race,' Dr. Gray declared.

"Nobody is going to be what he ought to be until every one can be what he ought to be."

On the race question he said, "The majority is not to sneak off and become a success without us."

The guest speaker was introduced by Mrs. Mabel L. Neely. Mrs. S. J. Jordan, Periclean Club president, expressed appreciations. The Fairfield Industrial High School Choir under the direction of Miss Cornelia Perry furnished music. The Rev. Luke Beard, host pastor, gave the invocation and the benediction.

Mrs. Mabel Barker Murphy presented the essay winners, their coaches and principals.

Recognized by Mrs. Jordan were Dr. J. King Chandler III, president of Daniel Payne College; Dean B. B. Hardy of Stillman College and Dr. F. D. Patterson, president of Tuskegee Institute. She also presented the members of the host club.

8TH TALLADEGA PRESIDENT:

Dr. Gray Installed

TALLADEGA, Ala. (ANP) —Dr. Arthur D. Gray last week was formally installed as the eighth president of Talladega College during week-long ceremonies at the 86-year old institution.

The former pastor of Good Shepherd Congregational church in Chicago officially became president Friday, April 10. He succeeds Dr. Buell Gallagher, now president of City College of New York.

In his acceptance speech, Dr. Gray traced the history of the church-related institution. His subject was "The Vocation of the Church-Related College." In his address, he compared the church school to the tax supported school. Among other things, he said:

"The distinctive vocation of the church-related college stem's out of its insight into the meaning of the nature of the education process. It not only sees the educational process as an instrument for the enlargement of man's total life—it is also freest to employ this instrument.

"The tax-supported school can only give lip service, it any, to the moral and spiritual aspects of our heritage. To be sure, the church-related college is not fully engaged upon its task. In some instances, it is not even aware of its vocation.

"However, this may be, the majesty and the validity of this aspect of education is clearly before us. Life is not mastered by mind alone. Knowledge must have a character and the mind of spirit. The spiritual and intellectual enlargement of the whole man is both journey and destination. This is our reason for existence."

Other Speakers

The Educational Conference which preceded the inauguration featured two outstanding speakers, Dr. Howard W. Hintz, of Brooklyn College, New York, and Oliver J. Caldwell, assistant commissioner for international education, U.S. Office of Education, Washington, D.C.

Others who appeared on the Educational Conference program included:

Dr. Samuel C. Kincheloe, of the Chicago Theological Seminary; Dr. Felton G. Clark, president of Southern University; F. D. Patterson, president of Tuskegee Institute; Bahadur Singh, counsellor of the Indian Embassy, and Walter G. Daniel, of the office of education, Federal Security Agency.

DR. GRAY BECOMES TALLADEGA HEAD

Alumnus Is Inducted as Eighth President of College—First Negro Chosen for Post

BY JOHN N. POPHAM

Special to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

TALLADEGA, Ala., April 10—Dr. Arthur Douglass Gray was inaugurated today as the eighth president of Talladega College in academic ceremonies on the campus beforee 500 students, faculty members, visiting educators and delegates from thirty-three colleges and universities.

The new president is an alumnus of Talladega and the first Negro to head the college since it was founded in 1867 by the American Missionary Association of the Congregational Church. He also is a graduate of the Chicago Theological Seminary and prior to accepting the college presidency was pastor of the Congregational Christian Church of the Good Shepherd in Chicago.

Talladega has an inter-racial faculty and its doors are open to students of any race. For several years there have been white students enrolled at Talladega as both regular and exchange students from non-Southern areas.

Dr. Gray, in his inaugural address, stressed the role of the small church-related college in giving to a free society "a broader view of its total cultural heritage and the realization that a guided missile and a guided heart are not the same."

He also asserted that "some of the loudest advocates of academic freedom are in reality enemies of the free society," and added that freedom could not be defended "by the use of undemocratic methods, nor can it be maintained apart from moral responsibility."

Dr. Gray urged educators associated with church-related colleges to spurn the assertion that "their sun has set" and give positive emphasis to developing a recognition of their "special responsibility in training pioneers in new frontiers of thought, which is primarily a moral and spiritual undertaking."

He decried the "current tendency to make a whipping boy of the specialist in our educational training programs." It is "absurd to think that our highly technical society can dispense with the specialist," he added.

"My quarrel is not with specialization, but with ill-trained specialists," Dr. Gray declared. "The abysmal ignorance of specialists outside their own fields is the scandal of our democratic society.

"It is not enough to know the last word about war or engineering, there must also be knowledge about the other realities of the world in which we now live. It is the unique task of the church-related college to provide the faith which knowledge requires to enable it to evaluate the heritage which is ours."

The presentation of the president-elect at the opening of the inaugural ceremonies was made by Dr. Donald P. Cottrell, Dean of Education at Ohio State University. The formal investiture was made by George W. Crawford, attorney from New Haven, Conn., chairman of the Talladega College board of trustees.

Among the college presidents attending the ceremony were Hollis F. Price of LeMoyne College in Memphis, Tenn.; Dr. Rufus E. Clement, Atlanta University; Dr. Hardy Liston, Johnson C. Smith University in Charlotte, N. C.; Dr. Joseph F. Drake, Alabama A. & M. College; Dr. James A. Colston, Knoxville College; Dr. Felton G. Clark, Southern University, Baton Rouge, La., and Dr. George W. Gore Jr., Florida A. & M. College.

Among members of the board of trustees on hand were Judge Hubert T. Delaney of the Domestic Relations Court, Charles M. Bliss, Bank of New York, the Rev. Dr. William F. Frazier and Dr. Phillip M. Widenhouse, all of New York City; Dr. Theodore K. Lawless, Chicago; Arthur D. Shores, Birmingham, Ala., and D. Jane Ellen McAllister, Vicksburg, Miss.

Stay South, work for race, Talladega graduates urged

TALLADEGA, Ala., May 28—A Birmingham Negro attorney has called on Talladega College graduates to "accept the challenge of the new South—a garden spot that can prove to the entire world that a free democracy is essentially a faith of freedom of equality of human dignity and brotherhood."

Calling on Southern Negroes to throw off the "defeatist attitude that the people are stronger than we," Atty. Arthur D. Shores told graduates that the South we knew before World War II is almost non-existent.

"The race problem is melting away in the face of world opinion and efforts of the Negro to obtain recognition as a first-class citizen," Shores said. "There has been reemphasis on the Preamble to the Declaration of Independence, that all men are created equal, and new meaning and emphasis given to the 14th Amendment; there have been tremendous industrial developments, a rising standard of living, increasing Negro urbanization, increasing articulation of the Negro in national and local politics, and the rise of the "new Negro," all of which are hastening the changes."

Atty. Shores pointed out that only five Southern universities, Alabama, Georgia, Mississippi, Florida and South Carolina, still do not admit Negro students, and predicted that those doors would be opened "within a much shorter time than many of us anticipate."

He also predicted that the Supreme Court would rule segregation to be a violation of the United States Constitution, and "On that day the South will move swiftly toward a realization of a greater racial brotherhood.

Administrators At Talladega

TALLADEGA, Ala. —A meeting of the Administrators' Conference of American Missionary Association Colleges was held at Talladega College in mid-November.

The Conference, which follows acter, which we value so highly, is an informal pattern meets annually to discuss problems and plans shared by all the colleges. Its major emphasis is that of looking toward and improving for the future.

Discussions and achievements in recent years have included program planning; the establishment of specialization centers in certain of the schools, such as Fisk; consideration of an exchange teacher program, and provision for exchange of graduate students; cooperative purchasing and the establishment of a budget conference for presidents, treasurers and business managers. One center of discussion in the 1953 meeting was accreditation.

Administrators attending the conference at Talladega were Dr. Phillip M. Widenhouse, executive secretary of the A. M. A.; Dr. Albert Dent and Dr. Robert Thornton, president and dean of Dillard University; Dr. W. H. Jones, vice president of Tillotson College, Houston, Texas; Dr. Harold Warren, president, and Dean A. A. Branch of Tougaloo College, Mississippi; Dr. George N. Redd, dean of Fisk University; Dr. Paul Collins, dean of Le Moyne College Memphis, Tennessee; and President Arthur D. Gray, Acting Dean James O. Hopson, and Dean of Guidance Broadus Butler, Talladega College.

Talladega

Receiving Charter—Dr. Arthur D. Gray (left) receives the charter of Talladega College from Dr. George W. Crawford, chairman of the Talladega board of trustees. Dr. Gray becomes the eighth president, and the first Negro president of the college.

First Negro President

Talladega College Hails Dr. A. D. Gray

By ROBERT M. RATCLIFFE
(Courier News Editor)

TALLADEGA, Ala.—Talladega College, a center of refinement and culture, honored one of its favorite sons here last Friday. Dr. Arthur Douglass Gray was inaugurated eighth president of the historic institution during impressive ceremonies held in DeForest Chapel.

History was made here on this beautiful, tree-lined campus when the distinguished Dr. Gray stepped forward to accept full responsibilities as chief executive of the 86-year-old college.

He is the first Negro and first graduate of Talladega to assume this high post.

Dr. Gray moved into the president's office of Talladega last September, succeeding Dr. A. D. Beittel. He came here from Chicago where he served as pastor of the Church of the Good Shepherd since 1944.

He is a 1929 graduate of Talladega and at one time served for two years as assistant to the president of Talladega and as alumni director.

* * *

THE PROCESSIONAL began at 2 P. M., moving from the library to DeForest Chapel. Dr. Philip M. Widenhouse, general secretary of the American Missionary Association, delivered the invocation. The college choir under the expert direction of Prof. Frank Harrison, rendered an anthem, "I Believe in One God."

The act of inauguration was conducted by Dr. Donald P. Cottrell, dean of Ohio State University, who presented Dr. Gray, and by Dr. George W. Crawford, chairman of the Talladega College board of trustees.

Dr. Crawford officially declared the mild-mannered Dr. Gray president of Talladega after presenting to him the chain and seal used by the college twenty years ago, and the charter and other historic documents.

"The trustees of Talladega rejoice that they are able to place this college in such capable hands," Dr. Crawford told the new president.

GREETINGS TO Dr. Gray were made by James Mullen, student council president; Charles H. Haynes, professor of history; Mrs. Eula Cokely, professor of elementary education; Dr. J. C. Blair, of the State Department of Education; Dr. Howard Stone Anderson, president of the Board of Home Missions of the Congregational and Christian Churches, and Robert Cashman, moderator of the Congregational and Christian Churches.

Benediction was delivered by Dr. Joseph F. Drake, president of Alabama A. and M. College.

Following inaugural ceremonies the president's reception was held in the president's home. Alumni staged a reunion Friday night in Seymour Lounge.

In his masterful inaugural address, President Gray discussed: "The Vocation of the Church-Related College."

"Education, like every other instrumentality of free men, faces the dilemma of crisis and hope. The crisis side of the dilemma is self evident," he said.

"Our dilemma of crisis and hope is climaxed in our pursuit of peace through preparation for total war. The number of young people who must spend their normal college years in military service steadily mounts. This calls for a re-examination of our whole educational system. It is a sober fact that we now live in a world where the hydrogen bomb is the barometer of human hopes and values.

"We live in an age in which the church-related college is no longer taken for granted. There was a time when it had no serious rival for the loyalties of men. That day has passed. There was a time when its Christian concept of education for free men was cherished. It is no longer cherished. Many accept its bounty and spurn its faith. Only the naive think of America as a 'Christian nation' or of Western civilization as a 'Christian civilization.' We might as well face the fact that the church-related college is engaged in a life and death struggle.

"Not the least among our foes are budgets that won't balance. The majority of liberal arts colleges are operating in the red. The church-related college is no exception. Following the lead of the United Negro College Fund cooperative fund raising plans are being launched in twenty states. The day has passed when the college president playing a lone hand can beat the bushes and flush enough financial game to keep the college family on a steady diet, while other college families look askance at their presidents for failure to bring the bacon home.

"Upon what then, are we dependent for our survival? There are some who advocate the abandonment of our historic role holding that we must adjust ourselves to the realities and enter into competition with tax-supported institutions by straining every resource to make ourselves small-scale reproductions of these schools. In opposition to this point of view, I want to speak in support of the idea that our salvation depends not upon the apostasy of aping, but upon fidelity to the vocation which is ours. Let us have no part in the assertion that the sun of the private and church-related college has set. Neither should we of the so-called Negro colleges of the South fear and oppose the integrated school. Conversely, let us work ardently for the day of its full realization knowing that some of us are as qualified to be integrated as some of them.

"Whatever common methods and goals we share with secular institutions, and they are many, the distinctive vocation of the church-related college is to be the enlarger of man's total life. In other words, we have the special responsibility of developing pioneers in new frontiers of thought. That, I hold, is primarily a moral and spiritual undertaking."

Educators on Talladega Panel

An educational conference was conducted Thursday in DeForest Chapel in connection with the inauguration of Dr. Arthur Gray as eighth president of historic Talladega College.

Featured speakers were Dr. Howard W. Hintz of Brooklyn College, Bahadur Singh, counsellor of the Indian Embassy, and Oliver J. Caldwell, assistant U. S. Commissioner of Education of the Office of Education in Washington, D. C.

Discussion chairmen were Dr. Felton G. Clark, president of Southern University, Baton Rouge, La.; Dr. Walter G. Daniel of the Office of Education, Federal Security Agency, and Dr. F. D. Patterson, president of Tuskegee Institute.

* * *

DR. SAMUEL C. KINCHELOE of the University of Chicago presided at both sessions of the conference.

"The highest function of the college is to produce good persons," declared Dr. Hintz. In order to produce good persons, Dr. Hintz stressed the development of two important qualities: "love of man and love of truth."

"To have a true democracy, we must train the leaders of tomorrow," Mr. Singh told his audience. "It is the pattern of society that has made democracy meaningless," he said.

Mr. Caldwell's discussion concerned primarily with what education might do to help the American people meet their international responsibilities. In this respect, he said American educators have a tremendous obligation.

Mr. Caldwell was born in Foochow, China, of American parents.

Talladega Choir Makes Big Hit

Frank Harrison proved himself the true artist and master director Thursday evening in DeForest Chapel on the beautiful campus of Talladega as he coaxed soul-touching music from the seventy-eight-voice college choir.

Mr. Harrison heads the Talladega department of music.

The tall, dignified Harrison and his brilliant students presented an evening of music, a program that drew long and sincere applause.

The evening of music was one of the highlights of the three-day inaugural ceremonies staged for Dr. Arthur Gray, new president of the college.

* * *

MR. HARRISON was ably assisted at the piano by Rose Marie Rushin and Evelyn Daniel and at the organ by Roland Braithwaite.

The evening of music was well timed and perfectly executed. First section of the program offered Lessie Weaver and Daphne Duval at the organ; a difficult piano solo by Ada Marie Jarnagin, and two bass solos by Edward Gant. Each of these was well accepted by the capacity audience. ....

The Harrison-directed Talladega Choir was marvelous, one of the best ever seen on any college campus.

The audience sat in rapt attention as the choir rendererd "Song of Destiny," "My Spirit Sang All Day," "Madam Jeanette," and "Go Down Death."

"Song of Destiny" was an excellent rendition and "Go Down Death, which featured Doris Chatmon on the drums, was one of those exciting numbers that sent sensations through one's body.

Clyde Miller, tenor, also was featured.

Talladega Players Thrill Audience

Under the expert direction of Dr. James O. Hudson, director of dramatics at Talladega College, the Little Theatre of Talladega staged "All My Sons" in a flawless manner last Wednesday night in DeForest Chapel.

The play was the first public affair given on the quiet campus in connection with inaugural ceremonies of President Arthur D. Gray.

* * *

THE PLAY was a powerful indictment against war profiteering at the expense of U. S. Air Force pilots.

Jacqueline Guinn, a senior, of Cleveland, Ohio, left a sick bed to star in the role of Kate Keller. She was excellent in her important appearance on the stage.

Roland Yates, Malbour Watson and Aeronita Bell also handled their heavy roles exceedingly well.

Others rounding out the fine cast trained by Dr. Hopson were William Davis, William Nesbitt, Ella Law, Theodore Meadows, Clarice Horton and John Morrow Jr.

The production staff consisted of sixty-eight Talladega students.

Role Of College Cited By Gray At Inauguration

BY EMORY O. JACKSON
Editor, Birmingham World

TALLADEGA COLLEGE, Talladega, Ala. — (SNS) — "The distinctive vocation of the church-related college is to be the enlarger of man's total life ..... (with) ..... the special responsibility of developing pioneers in new frontiers of thought."

Dr. Arthur D. Gray, eighth and first Negro president of Talladega College in his inaugural address Friday, April 10 gave the foregoing definition of the mission of the church-connected liberal arts college.

He also pointed out that "Education...faces the dilema of crisis and hope," namely:

(1) "...The current controversy over academic freedom...(in which) ...some of the loudest advocates of academic freedom are in reality enemies of the free society. They undermine the foundation upon which it rests. Freedom cannot be defended by the use of undemocratic methods, nor can it be maintained apart from moral responsibility."

FREEDOM OF SPEECH

"I believe in freedom of speech...for others as well as for myself," said the new president. He added, "I have convictions on all of the major issues of life and I intend to state them in the fairest and most responsibile way I can. I expect the teachers and students of Talladega to do likewise."

Crisis number two is "our deification of machines and gadgets...A guided missle and a guided heart are not the same."

This (3) "dilema of crisis and hope is climaxed in our pursuit of peace through preparation for total war...This calls for a re-examination of our whole educational system. It is a sober fact that we now live in a world where the hydrogen bomb is the barometer of human hopes and values."

Subject of his speech was "The Vocation of the Church-Related College."

He suggested that the church-assisted college has an emphasis to stress and a role to play separate from the secular institutions of learning.

SERIOUS RIVAL

"We live," the eighth president observed, "in an age in which the church related college is no longer taken for granted. There was a time when it had no serious rival for the loyalities of men. That day has passed. There was a time when the Christian concept of education for free men was cherished. It is no longer cherished. Many accept its bounty and spurn its faith. Only the naive think of America as a 'Christian nation' or of Western civilization as a 'Christian civilization'. We might as well face the fact that the church-related college is engaged in a life and death struggle."

Among the foes of the church-linked college, "are budgets that won't balance. The majority of liberal arts colleges are operating in the red."

He rejected the idea of survival by entering into competition with the tax-supported college by making "ourselves small-scale reproduction of these (state-provided) schools." Dr. Gray placed himself on the side of "the idea that our salvation depends not upon the apostasy of aping but to the fidelity to the vocation which is ours."

"Let us have no part in the assertion that the aim of the private and church-related college must be. Neither should we of the so-called Negro colleges of the South fear and oppose the integrated school. Conversely, let us work ardently for the day of its full realization knowing that some of us are as qualified to be integrated as some of them."

To his concept of the liberal arts college as "the enlarger of man's total life he added that" the education we impart must be the enabling of students to know, evaluate, uphold, and extend the total heritage of free men."

CHIEF ANTAGONIST

"Over-specialization, fragmentation and disunity," he said, are the chief antagonist of this kind of education. However, he conceded a proper place for specialization in the scheme of education. "In our singletrack obsession to become specialist, we have failed to become persons. The abysmal ignorance of specialist outside of their own field is the scandal of our democratic society. It is also a commentary upon the short-sightedness of education in general. It is absurd to think that our highly technical society can dispense with specialist. We need not see as our model the 'point after touchdown' specialist, but we are required to give men and women the technical skills needed for competent mastery of the vocation. My quarrel is not with specialization, but with ill-trained specialist. We know how to develop skilled technicians, but have failed miserably in producing responsible, integrated persons."

"The character of knowledge is as important as the content of knowledge...Our backwardness in the field of race or human relations cannot be attributed to a lack of information. As a result of countless studies and surveys we know as much about race as we do about anything. Cold facts... cannot kindle the fire of brotherly action. It just isn't true that if people know each other they will love or even tolerate each other.

"In fact, just the opposite can be true. Modern psychology simply gives academic prestige to a truth announced centuries ago but our Judeo-Christian faith; that underneath the surface of life there are demoniac forces which knowledge alone cannot exercise. Knowledge of ethics does not insure ethical behavior. Neither library nor laboratory can immunize against gnorance. Understanding of law is often used to circuvment law."

"It is the unique task of the church-related colleges to provide the faith which knowledge requires to enable it to evaluate the heritage which is ours.'

"We talk much today about educating the whole man, but are seriously remiss in bringing before him all of the live options of history. Indispensable to a literate people is knowledge of our inheritance, acquaintance with our contemporary institutions, and understanding of the nature, methods, achivements and limitations of the natural and social sciences."

"There is virtual unanimity of belief," Dr. Gray asserted, "that acquaintance with man's total heritage is valid goal of education for free men...Education which bipasses religion is mis-education because it ignorance or fact of life and history...Ultimates lie behind every human experience...The democratic process about which we talk so much and which is so vital to our American way of life is a spiritual concept...Unless education has a goal beyond vocation its embarkation is in vain. Only an informed faith can set upon a valid pilgrimage in life."

"The tax-supported school," Dr. Gray declared, "can only give lip service, if any, to the moral and spiritual aspects of our heritage. To be sure, the church-related college is not fully engaged upon its task. In some instances, it is not even aware of its vocation."

"Knowledge must have a character and the mind a spirit. The spiritual and intellectual enlargement of the whole man is both journey and destination. This is our vocation. This is our reason for existence."

125 School Principals In Tennessee Conference

NASHVILLE—More than 125 principals, representing nearly all the state of Tennessee, convened at Tennessee State university for a principal conference July 6-17.

Jointly sponsored by the Southern Education Foundation and the State Department of Education, the conference was directed by Dr. Charity M. Mance, Tennessee State university professor of education and psychology and constultant on teacher education.

Dr. C. Charity

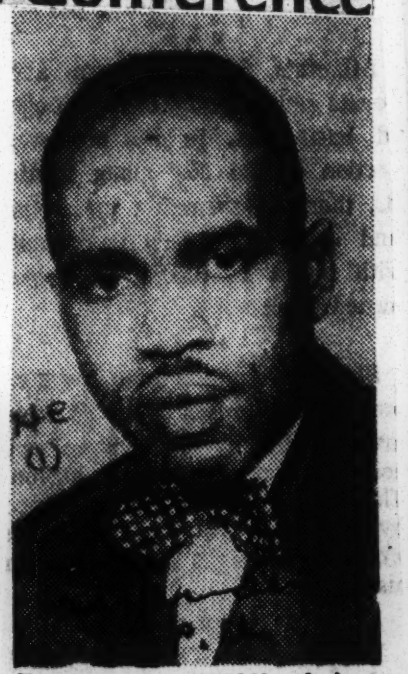
The primary aim of the conference was to organize a principals' study council to serve as a medium through which principals may work cooperatively on local school problems.

Cite Advantages

Dr. Truman Pierce, director of the Southern States Cooperative Program in Educational Administration and professor of education, Peabody College, Nashville; Dr. A. D. Albright, co-director of SSCPEA, also professor at Peabody, and W. E. Turner, State Director of colored education, presented different aspects and advantages of principals' study councils.

Primary to the organization of the study councils, several purposes were formulattd and adopted. The council aims to promote better relations among principals as leaders with other professional groups; to con duct and/or affect educational experimentation and other types of research on common problems, and to serve as a medium of exchange for research findings.

Staff consultants for the conference were Lee L. Campbell visiting professor from Knoxville college, J. O. Perpender, Lane college; N. O. Crippend, Tennessee State university and W. E. Turner.



BENSON L. DUTTON, chairman of the School of Engineering, Tennessee State university, Nashville, has been invited to participate in a conference of the National Manpower Council at Arden House, Harriman campus, Columbia university, Harriman, N. Y., Oct. 7-11. A native of Philadelphia, Dutton has headed the Tennessee State school of engineering since its establishment in 1951.

Boley Girl Is Engineer Now

Maurine Y. Lee, of Boley, Okla., first lady engineering graduate, cheerily recollects problems that are no longer problems with her male classmates for she is now the proud possessor of the sheepskin that represents her Bachelor of Science in Electrical Engineering at Tennessee State University in Nashville, Tenn.

(Clanton Ill Photo)

Name Athletic Field After Educator

Tenn. State U.'s First Prexy, W. J. Hale, to Be Memorialized

By CATHERINE L. SMITH

NASHVILLE—William Jasper Hale, first president of Tennessee State University, and chief administrator for three and one-half years, will be honored when the university athletic field becomes the W. J. Hale Stadium, Wednesday, Nov. 25.

William J. Hale, 36, principal of St. Elmo High School of Chattanooga, was recommended as president of the newly chartered normal school by State Supt. R. L. Jones, member of the State Board of Education.

"Professor Hale was made president of this institution before a single cornerstone was laid or a single brick placed in the wall," commented Past Commissioner of Education, P. L. Harned in an address.

WHEN THE institution opened its doors June 19, 1912, with an enrollment of 248 students, there were only three buildings, a handful of rocks, and a pioneer educator's dream.

The continuous expansion of the "college on the hill" was due to the inordinate sense of business acumen that was one of the more dynamic traits of past-president Hale.

At the beginning of the school's operation, Davidson County appropriated $80,000 and Hale guaranteed $20,000 from the Negro people of Nashville for buildings. The State of Tennessee followed suit and appropriated $87,000 more.

In 1922, under Hale's administration, the normal school was raised to the status of a four-year teachers college, and was empowered to grant the bachelor's degree. The first degree class in June, 1924, graduated eight students and the next year saw the enrollment of 1,173 an increase of 300 per cent from the original enrollment of 248.

ANOTHER EXAMPLE of Mr. Hale's aggressiveness was in 1925, when the General Education Board appropriated $100,000 for the Agricultural and Industrial State Normal College.

President Hale guaranteed an additional $65,000 from the Negro citizens on condition that the State Legislature appropriate $160,000 for additional buildings. The total of $325,000 for these buildings enlarged the physical plant from three to fourteen structures.

The growth, development and influence of the institution continued under the hands of President Hale, and under his successor, Dr. W. S. Davis, Tennessee State University has become known as one of the most progressive state institutions.

AWARDED THE Harmon Foundation Medal in 1930, in recognition of his services toward Negro education in the South, Mr. Hale was commended in an editorial of the East Tennessee News, which said, "President Hale has rendered efficient and unselfish service in a most vigorous manner to the Negro citizenship of Tennessee and the Southland.

Sixty-eight years of age when he ended his earthly career in 1944, President Hale is survived by his widow, the former Hattie K. Hodgkins, and three children: Gwendolyn, daughter, and William Jr. and Edward, sons.

Tennessee State University

Down in Nashville, Tenn., on the campus of Tennessee State University, they are beginning to call the newly dedicated $1,500,000 gymnasium and health building the little Madison Square Garden. It was officially dedicated the day before Thanksgiving and the event attracted dignitaries and newspapermen from all over the country.

With President W. S. Davis in the saddle, Tennessee State unreeled attraction after attraction for three days last week. First, there was Dorothy Maynor in a concert on Tuesday night to officially usher in homecoming activities. Wednesday saw the dedication of the ultra-modern gym, breaking of ground for a new agricultural building, naming the $100,000 poultry farm for retired sports editor Frank (Fay) Young of Chicago, and naming the football stadium after the late President W. J. Hale. Wednesday night, President and Mrs. Davis entertained visiting newspapermen.

Thanksgiving morning found the alumni breakfasting in the university cafeteria and then a gala parade which featured Tennessee and Kentucky bands and six high school bands. Thursday afternoon the Tennessee Tigers trounced Kentucky and Thursday night the floor of the new gym was turned over to dancers who cavorted to the tunes of Buddy Johnson's band.

In between all of this there were receptions and cocktail parties and a big sendoff for Tennessee Coach Henry Arthur Kean. Friends gifted him with a "98" Oldsmobile and his nice wife was surprised with a ranch mink stole.

It was an enjoyable Thanksgiving week at Tennessee State University.

Tenn. State's Poultry Plant Named for Scribe

Game Enthusiast 'Fay' Young Gave Funds for Colleges

By CATHERINE L. SMITH

NASHVILLE—Tennessee State University's Mammoth dedication and homecoming exercises will feature a merited tribute in the naming of its $104,000 poultry plant for the Negro dean of sports and game fowl enthusiast, Frank (Fay) Young.

Veteran sports writer Young conceived the idea many years ago that there was a specific need for greater variety of fowl in land-grant colleges.

Recognizing this need and because of his love for this hobby, he began to donate foundation stock out of his own earnings to several land-grant colleges. Alcorn, Tuskegee and Tennessee State were a few of the beneficiaries of "Fay's" generosity.

* * *

THE GENTLE "madness," intense satisfaction, zeal and conscientiousness that this "veteran of ink" has displayed in his vocation of sports writing have been duplicated in his "brain-child" avocation of game and fowl donations.

Just as he has demanded no by-line in his sports stories, and in many cases insisted that none be given to him, he has been equally unassuming of the gratitude from the recipients of these foundation stocks of fowl.

From "Fay" Young's gift of two breeds of geese, the Chinese and Toulouse; the Rouen and Pekin breeds of ducks and the ring-necked pheasant, Tennessee State's flock has developed to 201 varieties of fowl and sixty-five pheasants.

The department also maintains three breeds of chickens, the New Hampshire, Rhode Island Red and single-comb White Leghorn. These are all pedigreed birds and are developed from parents that have produced 200 or more eggs per year.

* * *

COMPLETING THE flock are two varieties of turkeys, the large broad-breasted Bronze and the small Beltsville White. The department is also breeding quail for repouplating areas of Tennessee in cooperation with the Fish and Game Commission.

The $104,000 poultry plant, completed in 1951, that will bear the name of Frank A. Young, is located on an eight-acre plot and is made up of nineteen major buildings with ranges for the various poultry and water fowl.

Three incubators, egg-grading machine, mechanical pickers, automatic scalders, feed-mixing machines and chicken battery for testing feed are just some of the modern equipment used for teaching and experimentation in incubation, brooding laying, nutrition, genetics, disease diagnosis and control, poultry grading and marketing.

* * *

IN THE last four years, individuals from Tennessee State's multiplying flock have won blue ribbons in every fair in which they have been shown.

This is evidently one of the end results of the motto by which Early J. Thornton, head of the poultry division, operates. He has stated, "A bird that is well fed, well bred and kept healthy will earn a profit for its master."

The growth and evident productivity of A. and I.'s poultry plant may in some measure be credited to Fay Young's original contributions. Perhaps the dean of the sports clan has used the philosophy of Pope, "Do good by stealth and blush to find it fame," as his hobby guide.

Nevertheless, the administration of Tennessee State feels that such specific contributions in both his sports and poultry loves should have some reward.

* * *

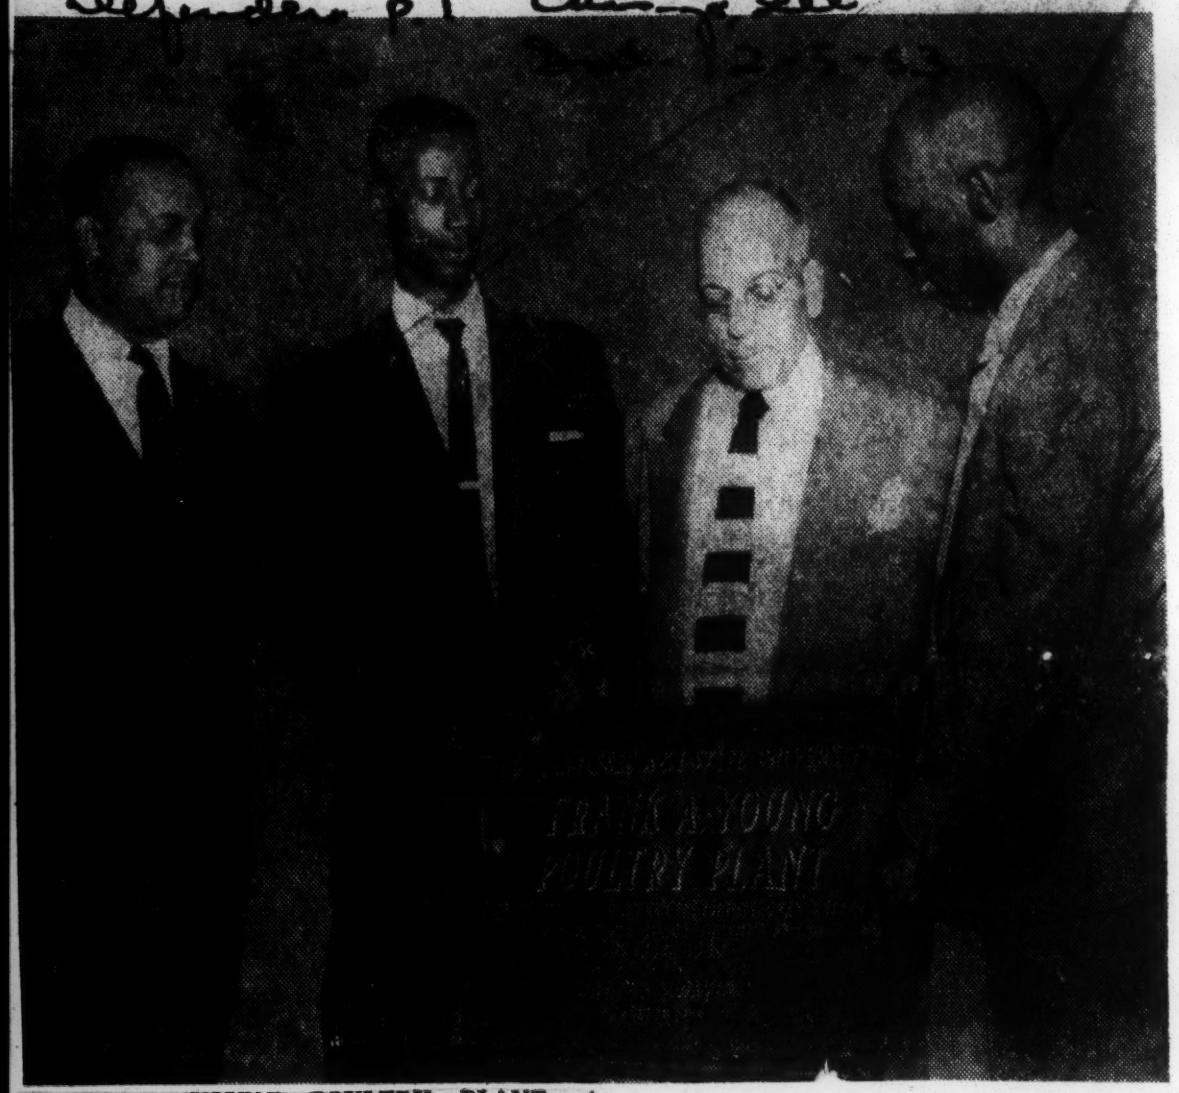
DR. W. S. DAVIS, president of A. and I. has said, "In recognition of your contributions, we are mindful of what you have meant, over a great number of years, to the development of the character, sportsmanship and manhood of our youth through your professional services as one of America's greatest sports writers."

To this end, the poultry plant of Tennessee State University will become on Thanksgiving Day, the Frank A. Young Poultry Plant.

HONOR OF 'FAY' — This beautiful pond, placed on the campus of Tennessee A. and I. State University in Nashville for the school's huge flock of fowl, is part of the giant plant that has been named in honor of Frank (Fay) Young, veteran sports scribe, who is generally considered to be the "dean" of Negro sportswriters. Young is now retired.

Thanksgiving Week will find big doings on the campus of Tennessee A. and I. State University. The university will dedicate its million-and-a-half-dollar gymnasium and pay special tribute to head coach Henry Arthur Kean. Friends are buying Kean a new car. The occasion will attract scores of college presidents and newspapermen.

Tenn. U. Honors 'Fay' Young



FRANK A. YOUNG POULTRY PLANT at Tennessee A and I State university, Nashville, is dedicated at Thanksgiving Day ceremonies. Left to right are university President W. S. Davis, New Farmers of America president, Frank (Fay) Young, sports-editor emeritus of the Chicago Defender, for whom the plant is named, and Early Thornton, head of the A and I department of poultry husbandry. Young donated foundation stock to Tennessee and several other southern colleges.

St. Louisan Out In Tex. College Feud

HOUSTON, Texas (ANP) — Carter Wesley, editor of the Houston Informer newspapers, last week came to the defense of Dr. R. O'Hara Lanier, president of Texas Southern university, in the latter's troubles with some members of TSU's faculty, which resulted in the dismissal of two faculty members and the placing on probation of two others.

The board of directors, four white men and three colored men, took the action against the faculty members at a recent board meeting.

Dismissed were Dr. Campbell Upthegrove, head of the department of history, and Dr. John Carter, a former St. Louisan, an instructor in the department of foreign languages.

Placed on probation were Curtis Mayo and his wife, Mrs. Estelle Mayo, both music instructors.

Spurgeon Bell, chairman of the board, declined to give the reasons for the action against the four members of the faculty.

However, the root of the dispute at TSU apparently had its origin in the manner in which records are being kept. An auditor for the state, C. H. Caviness, said property and personnel records at the university are "inaccurate, inadequate and improperly maintained."

Wesley, in an editorial in the Informer, disagreed. He said:

"Now let's have a look at the matter of personnel records. Surely Mr. Caviness knows that incorrect personnel records are not due to inability of anybody in the president's office to keep the records. Everybody knows that a 12-year-old could keep the records, if the records could be gotten into the office.

"The auditor knows that the trouble has been that the heads of departments at TSU have not flowed the records to the president's office as they should, and that in many instances, they have sent in records that were not accurate. The immediate remedy for this would be discipline . . .

"Any honest citizen knows that if the heads of departments persist in failing to send in the records on time, or accurately, the only sensible thing to do is to hold up their checks until they send the records in, or to take some other such discipline. Obviously, there is more to this than the matter of personnel records . . ."

Wesley's mentioning of holding up of checks was in reference to reports that Dr. Lanier intended to withhold the pay checks of certain faculty members.

The TSU president had charged, at a board meeting, that there were certain teachers on the faculty who "would stop at nothing to discredit the university."

Tex. Pharmacy School Gets National Rating

HOUSTON, Texas — Dr. R. O'Hara Lanier, president of Texas Southern university, and Hurd M. Jones, dean of the school of pharmacy received notice from Dr. P. [illegible] Costello, Secretary of The American Council on Pharmaceutical Education, that the school of pharmacy has been accredited and placed in class "A."

Denounce Attacks Against Dr. Lanier

HOUSTON — Inclement weather failed to dampen the spirits of some 200 pro-Lanier citizens at the Emancipation Park Auditorium Sunday.

The mass meeting, called by the Harris County Council of Organizations, was for the "bringing out the facts and some things that newspapers have not printed," M. W. Plummer, former investigator for the district attorney, said.

It was pointed out that the Tex. as Southen University administration is presently under investigation by a five-man committee of board members of the institution. The probe was ordered by Governor Allan Shivers upon request of the all-Negro 22nd District of the American Legion in Texas. The Legion requested the investigation after the local Herman Rochelle Post made charges against the administration.

* * *

"We must stand behind a man (Dr. Lanier) who is willing to go forward," Attorney Plummer said. He stated that the TSU president shall not go the way of Dr. Ebey. Dr. Ebey was recently released as deputy superintendent of the Houston Independent School District. It has been rumored that Dr. Ebey was released for his belief in integration in education.

During the meeting, W. E. Terry, president of the National Alumni Association of TSU, strongly denied that 75 to 80 instructors have been discharged from the institution during the past five years. He stated that during the said period of time, 27 have resigned to accept better positions, a large group have been released because of cuts in operative budgets, and only 11 have been fired.

Mr. Terry pointed that some of the former personnel were fired because of dunkedness, failure to pay just debts or conduct unbecoming a professor.

* * *

Mr. Terry denied charges that American history was not being taught at Texas Southern. He stated that two or more American history courses have been added to the curriculum since Dr. Lanier took over the reins of prsidency.

Mr. Plummer said that although these courses are not required of all students, it is not the fault of the president.

Speaking in a sharp manner, Mr. Plummer, a graduate of TSU's School of Law, denounced charges that TSU is like "little Russia". 'As to the charge that Dr. Lanier and the student body are imbued with Communistic or un-American ideology, it just isn't so,", he declared. He pointed out that Dr. Lanier has never been accused of un-American activities. He said that prior to his arrival at TSU, the noted educator had held several important jobs in government service as well as education.

Another graduate of TSU's School of Law, Henry E. Dole, took the stand for Dr. Lanier. Attorney Doyle said that Communism is a term used to describe "everybody who wears a tie we don't like.

"If Dr. Lanier's accusers don't prove the charges in black and white we're not going to sit idly and see this brilliant scholar and gentleman fired," Mr. Doyle said. Mr. Doyle pointed out that if the American people are afraid of Communism it is because they know that democracy is not functioning properly. "The best way to fight Communism is with good old working democracy," Attorney Doyle reminded the audience.

Mr. Doyle told the group that he attended a Jim Crow law school so that he could fight segregation later. He reminded the many pro-Lanierites that their sons and daughetrs have just as much right to go to the University of Houston as to TSU. The speakers critized the newspapers for allegedly failing to report the facts in the Lanier incident.

George T. Nelson, an official of the Barbers Union Local 946, asked "why is the (Houston) Chronicle so interested in the prolems at TSU and not so much in those of Rice Institute, Texas, and the University of Texas?"

W. H. Hollis, an insurance executive, charged that a certain Negro publisher has been going out of the way to attack Dr. Lanier's policy.

To insure that he would not be labeled as a Communist, Mr. Hollis said, "I'm a capitalist and therefore not a Communist, but I am for Dr. Lanier and 98 per cent of the Negroes are for Dr. Lanier also.

Sid Hilliard, local businessman and chairman of the Harris County Council of Organizations, introduced the speakers and gave a brief history of the organization.

Current Events

BY CARTER WESLEY.

PIECES THAT FIT "to make a house" are showing up rather definitely in the Negro American Legion's drive against President Lanier. First it comes out that at the time the charge was made Upthegrove was one of the executive vice presidents of the local chapter that originated the charges.

Next, it came out that Tillman Henderson, who has disliked Lanier since the days when they were both at the Houston Negro College, was one of the influential members of the association and the committee.

Then more recently somebody told us that Armstead, state chairman, who lives in Houston and is very influential in the Houston chapter, had a daughter who finished TSU, but did not get work at TSU. Our informant said that Mr. Armstead was very angry with President Lanier.

Quite some weeks ago a very reliable person told us that Mr. Armstead had told him last year that he was against President Lanier. Well when you put all these reports, rumors and statements together and look at them, what do you see? You see first a flash of light that illuminates the problem that has been bedeviling you, namely, as to why this same old charge against President Lanier has seemingly taken on new life and such great hold in the American Legion.

Upthegrove, who was one of the originators of the charge some two or three years ago, which was always ending in a fiasco, was in with Henderson, who would be glad to help with anything that would hurt Lanier. If the Armstead story is true, you had a natural.

So you see that any charge against Lanier would get to the local with a committee and with leaders in the local as bitter as these are reported to have been. Then you take this local's charges to the district convention over which Armstead presides, and you could see that with a presiding officer favorable to the passage, the resolution against Lanier would be a certainty.

Then the district brings the charges to the state meeting. Who in the district meeting, or the local meeting, would have nerve enough to get up and speak against the resolution, knowing that it was supported by the administration and the powers-that-be?

To finish the picture, The Chronicle Sunday morning had the statement that Armstead, "always fighting Communism," was active in the state convention. The Communist angle was perhaps brought in as a predicate for the state's adopting the original resolution against President Lanier. But the state did not pass it.

I have never liked manufactured, artificial charges or procedures against any man. If the things they say are true about Lanier, the facts ought to be sufficiently clear, and evidence should be sufficiently adduced in the five or six other times when the same charges have ben heard. Decision should not be made on trumped-up artificially-made charges.

Dr. R. O'Hara Lanier Cleared In Probe Of Texas Southern

HOUSTON, Texas — (ANP) — Dr. R. O'Hara Lanier, president of Texas Southern university here and his administration were given a clean slate last week by a special investigation committee of the university's board of directors.

The committee had been investigating charges brought against the administration for several months. The investigation did not come as a result of an order by the governor of Texas; it came from the board itself.

Although the report of the committee did not refer directly to Dr. Lanier, there was little doubt that it had reference to him.

It found no evidence of subversive activity and only two small sources of internal friction. This latter was removed with the resignation of two members of the faculty. They are:

French F. Stone, business manager for the past four years, and John H. Robertson, executive assistant to the board.

One of the charges leveled against Dr. Lanier's administration was that the business affairs of the university were run in a slip-shed manner.

However, in accepting the resignation of the business manager and Robertson, Spurgeon E. Bell, outgoing board chairman, emphasized there was "no question of the honesty or integrity of these men."

In commenting on its findings, the committee said in part:

"We want to emphasize that we find absolutely nothing evidencing any subversive or communistic affiliation or association by the administration and find no evidence of any subversive or communistic teaching at the university.

"We find that there is no unrest or turmoil among the faculty generally or the student body. We find that there were too small areas of friction, which we believe have been eliminated by recent action of the board.

"There is no feeling of insecurity on the part of those who are willing to do their job. The policy of the board and the administration under it is to furnish continuous employment to all who contribute adequately to the university. The laws of Texas do no permit any fixed tenure."

Another source of controversy at TSU was over the teaching of American history. The board recommended that a course in American history be a requirement for undergraduate study. Previously it was required only of students of pharmacy, pre-medicine and secondary education.

Besides investigating all charges brought against the Lanier administration, the board created a position of administrative assistant to president and personnel officer.

Bell will resign as chairman of the board, Aug. 31. Mack H. Hannah will succeed him.

Gets Clean Slate

Board Clears Lanier

By J. DON DAVIS

HOUSTON, Tex. — The long controversy over the administration of Dr. R. O'Hara Lanier as president of Texas Southern University was temporarily ended Wednesday when the school's board of directors announced that an investigation uncovered no subversive activities at the school and only two "small areas of friction."

The board surmised that the two areas of friction were eliminated with the resignation of French F. Stone, business manager for the past four years, and John H. Robertson (white), executive assistan to the board.

Chairman Spurgeon Bell said there was no question of the honesty or integrity of the resignees.

In a statement to the Courier, Dr. Lanier said he would continue to work towards development of a first-class university despite any barriers that his foes might attempt to create.

* * *

ANOTHER OF the "areas of friction" was in the social science department. "That," Chairman Bell said, "was cleared with the firing of Dr. Campbell Upthegrove several months ago.

Charges that there was unrest among the faculty and student body were nullified by the investigating committee's report that "We want to emphasize that we find absolutely nothing evidencing any subversive or communistic affiliations or associations by the administration of the university and find no evidence of subversive or communistic teaching at the university.

"We find that there is no unrest or turmoil among the faculty or the student body in general. We find that there were two small areas of friction which we believe have been eliminated."

Charges that Dr. Lanier had not grant long term contracts, the reported asserted that the laws of Texas do not permit any fixed tenure laws.

* * *

THE INVESTIGATION of the school consumed four full days of hearings, during the full months that it was conducted.

Chairman Bell said every single complaint about the university had been investigated.

He continued that while TSU professors are given one-year contracts, there is nothing binding in the way of tenure available to the teachers.

He expressed belief the teachers feel secure in their jobs as long as they function properly.

Mr. Bell resigned as chairman during the board meeting. He was recently judge of the 125th Judicial District Court; Mack H. Hannah, Port Arthur businessman and Liberian consulate in that port city.

Dr. H. D. Bruce of Marshall became vice chairman. Mr. Hannah is a Negro. Dr. Bruce is white.

Tomorrow's Challenge

TSU's Fine Arts Program Among Best

By H. A. Bullock

One of the great contribution Dr. Lanier's administration of Texas Southern University in making to Negro education in the South is seen very vividly in the unique Fine Arts program sponsored by the University. Using to full advantage his subtle technique of giving a person a chance to express his talents to the highest degree in service maintaining a talented staff, capable of inspiring teachers and students to greater achievement in public art appreciation. For this noble effort, both Dr. Lanier and Dr. Hadley Hartshorn, his Dean, should be congratulated.

THE FINE ARTS FESTIVAL, held at the University during the period of April 19-26, clearly justified the confidence which the President has placed in his staff. For the fifth consecutive year, TSU presented to the Texas public the art expressions of teachers and students throughout the State. And as the President said, "This has poved ot be a two-way wholesome and rewarding method by which the aesthetic and cultural development of a people can be fostered."

Dr. James E. Dorsey, Chairman of the Dividion of Fine Arts and Director of the Festival, reports that twenty-one choral organizations, seventeen bands, and eight dance groups took part in the program. In addition to representation of high schools of the Houston metropolitan area, there were pupil participants from the schools of San Antonio, Corpus Christi, Waco, Tyler, Beaumont, and many other cities and towns.

* * *

Opening with a splendid lecture on the value of fine arts in education, presented by Dr. William E. Jones of Texas State College for Women, the program moved through the presentation of high school dance groups, one-act plays, piano recitals, a Shakespearean movie, choral renditions, to band, organ, and operatic selections. One of the finest features of the program was the student faculty art exhibit held on the second floor of the Administration building.

The great value of this type of program can not be overestimated. It makes upon young people the kind of impression all of us consider of value. Having from five hundred to one thousand high school students make a pilgrimage to the University each year, where they can display their talents before appreciative groups, not only develops their talents but also softens their personalities and reshapes their personal value. No child with a deep artistic appreciation has ever become a delinquent. In fact, the delinquent career of many a boy has been interrupted by placing a concert horn to his lips, a painters brush between his fingers, or a song in his heart.

This is probably the reason why Dr. Patrick, Supervisor of Physical Education in the Houston Elementary Schools, was so interested in the program. According to our information, she expressed a desire to have a similar festival for Houston Elementary schools. Apparently, she would like to see more teachers study the dance so as to incorporate this activity more into the physical education program.

* * *

THE TSU Fine Arts program, therefore, has its great value for the purpose and direction it is giving to the art programs of public schools. We have examined the letters written by high school music teachers to Dr. Dorsey in accepting his invitation to participate. In each instance, the public school's participation is the culmination of a program the school has already perfected wthin its own organization as an integral part of its music curriculum. This, to us, is a brilliant example of educational leadership manifested by Texas Southern University.

By the way, the brilliant young nationally known painter TSU is fortunate to have on its Fine Arts staff, in the person of John Biggers, is a most interesting personality. In a later issue, we shall present a picture of this young artist so that the public might know something of the philosophy that inspires the beauty of is paintings.

Texas Southern

Feud Grows On Campus

HOUSTON, Tex.—Disgruntled faculty members of Texas Southern University were to have been granted private audience at a special meeting of the board of directors here Wednesday of this week.

Interested persons, predicting an "explosion," are watching action carefully as events begin to take definite shape here at the university.

THE MEETING of the board was called after a request by Dr. R. O'Hara Lanier, president of the university. Dr. Lanier had called for a full investigation of accusations made against him following a controversy which resulted from a faculty committee decision banning a book review of Whittaker Chambers "The Witness." Dr. Lanier upheld the decision of the committee.

"We were victims of what is known in football parlance as a 'mousetrap'," the president told the Courier. "My decision made on the holding of the book review on the college campus would have resulted in an attack on the administration. I feel it was a deliberate attempt on the part of certain dissatisfied faculty members to embarrass my administration and the college."

Dr. Lanier asserted that it is his desire to uncover this concerted attempt that caused him to call for a full investigation of the affair by the board of directors.

LEADING THE attack on Dr. Lanier is Editor C. W. Rice of the Negro Labor News. Rice, in front page editors, has openly charged Lanier with "mismanagement" and "race baiting."

The entire controversy, which has been smouldering for years was fanned into flames with the book review action.

"We were placed in a position where 'you lose if you do, and lose if you don't'," Dr. Lanier said. "Consequently, it became necessary to consider the relative losses involved in the decision which we might make."

Two Fired!

Dr. Lanier Still Boss

Board of Directors Uphold TSU President

HOUSTON, Tex. — Dr. R. O'Hara Lanier, president of Texas Southern University, was sustained in his every move when the school's board of directors met Wednesday. Two department heads were fired, and others may be added to the ousted list.

The rhubard that was expected, failed to materialize when all of Dr. Lanier's recommendations were unanimously approved by the board.

The department heads fired are Drs. Campbell L. Upthegrove and John H. Carter, head of the history and foreign language departments, respectively.

The T. Curtis Mayos, music instructors were reemployed for the summer session. Their status for the regular session is questionable. They recently figured in charges that they contributed to the immorality of a student.

Business Manager French F. Stone was asked to speed up machinery to collect $120,000 incurred by delinquent payments of armed forces veterans students registered by the university.

Dr. Lanier was sustained in his upholding of a faculty committee that rejected a review of Whittaker Chambers' book, "The Witness." A small group had set up an argument that Lanier was dictatorial in denying permission to have the book reviewed on the campus.

A-Rating For TSU School Of Pharmacy

HOUSTON, TEXAS — (ANP)— The American Council on Pharmaceutical Education has extended an "A" rating to the school of pharmacy of Texas Southern university, it has been announced.

According to Dr. R. O'Hara Lanier, president of the university, "The new accreditation is the result of competitive effort on the part of our board, the faculty of the school other institution officials and the dean of the school.

"Superior teaching by the faculty of the school of pharmacy—is reflected in the manner in which the graduates pass the boards."

Established in 1948 as a part of the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences, the School of Pharmacy has steadily advanced from six students in 1948 to more than 70 students in 1953.

After the school moved into its present $433,000 building last September and added $150,000 in new equipment, an inspection was made of the school this spring, and the "A" rating achieved as a result.

Students graduated in the school's first class in May, 1952 are now employed in Oklahoma City, Dallas, Marshall, Houston, St. Louis and Fort Worth.

TEXAS EDUCATOR CLEARED

No Trace of Communism Found at Southern University

Special to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

HOUSTON, Tex., Aug. 20—An investigating committee has announced today that it found no evidence of subversive or Communistic affiliation, association or teaching at Texas Southern University here.

The committee concluded a four-day hearing yesterday and as a result the Board of Directors has given a clean bill of health to the Negro university's president, Dr. R. O'Hara Lanier, former United States Minister to Liberia.

"Two small areas of friction" were found, the committee noted, but said that these had been eliminated by recent action of the board. This apparently alluded to the resignation demanded by John H. Robertson, of Directors by John H. Robertson, executive assistant to the board, and Frank F. Stone, business manager. The investigation was undertaken by a committee of the university's board after the Herman Rochelle Post of the American Legion here charged there was unrest on the campus and hinted at the possibility of un-American teaching.

Texas Southern Univ. In Two "Warring Camps" On Shakeup

TWO WARRING CAMPS SAWL

NEW YORK — (ANP) — Four years ago, when a Negro writer on a white daily voiced an honest criticism of the then new Texas State University for Negroes, (more recently Texas Southern University) with especial emphasis on the inadequacy of the law school, he was fired.

That incident was brought forcibly to the front last week when two faculty members were dismissed and two others placed on probation because of campus discord that poses a threat to the future of Texas Southern University and to the state's educational segregation policy.

The university's board of directors, four whites and three Negroes, took the action at secret sessions. Dismissed were Dr. Campbell Upthegrove, head of the department of history and Dr. John Carter, an instructor in the department of foreign languages. Curtis Mayo and his wife, Mrs. Estelle Mayo, both music instructors, were placed on probation.

The board's action capped a dispute that erupted a few weeks ago when the university president, Dr. R. O'Hara Lanier, charged at a board meeting that certain individuals would stop at nothing to discredit the university. He promised to name names at a closed board meeting.

Following the board's action, it was disclosed that during the five years Dr. Lanier has served as president of the university 63 persons have left the faculty. A half dozen white members of the board of directors have resigned before the end of their terms.

Dr. Lanier was appointed president of the university on May 2, 1948. The school was created by the legislature in 1947 under a bill signed by the late Gov. Beauford Jester. The state took over what had been Houston college for Negroes and began development of a 53-acre campus.

Actually the university grew out of the efforts of a Houston Negro, Herman Marion Sweatt, to enter the University of Texas Law School at Austin. With the help of the N. A. A. C. P., he won his case in the U. S. Supreme court. However, the mandamus was suspended for six months pending action by the University of Texas to provide a law school for Negroes.

The school was established at Austin, but separated from the school for white students. Sweatt later enrolled for courses but did not complete them.

Since Texas Southern was established, it has been the university's policy to offer any course requested by a Negro student, if that course were taught at the university in Austin. Even if only one student requested the course, it was given.

Last week, this policy was dropped by the board of directors and there were indications that the action might lead to a break-down in undergraduate segregation in tax-supported Texas colleges. This is what many Texas Negroes want. Informed circles at the university is part of a plan to discredit it so much that it will lose many of its students and be forced to shut down.

The objective of such a plan would be the opening of the University of Texas A. and M. College to Negro students on the basis that comparable educational opportunities were not available at a Negro institution in the state.

Graduate students have been admitted to the University of Texas at Austin on a certificate from Texas Southern that the courses were not available at Houston. Negro students also have been admitted to the University of Texas medical branch at Galveston and the dental branch at Houston.

But that isn't all the school's difficulty. State Auditor C. H. Gavness has called for separation of the university's business management from the office of the president. Cavness charges that property and personnel records at the university are "inadequate, inaccurate and improperly maintained." A committee of the board of directors has had the charges under consideration since early last month when the dispute centering around Dr. Lanier flared into the open.

The auditor also accused the university administration with failure to use "due diligence" in determining and collecting amounts due for nonresident tuition, supplies, food, rent, books and other services.

He said the situation had not been remedied although he had received such assurances from the president.

Harking back to the criticism of the New York reporter, he said not only was the new law school inadequate, but he saw no possibility of its ever becoming commensurate with the magnificent law school of the University of Texas.

Letters of protest poured into the newspaper office with prominent officials of Texas taking the greatest umbrage. They led the attack and when they finished, the reporter was out.

Dr. Lanier who at one time was an assistant administrator to Mrs. Bethune in the National Youth Administration, resigned that job to accept one with Dr. Malcolm McLean, who was elected president of Hampton Institute. Under Doctor McLean Dr. Lanier progressed to become his assistant. When Doctor McLean was ousted after his innovations offended Hamptonites, Dr. Lanier for a while, was acting president.

At one time, it was thought he would be named to the permanent position. However, the Texas offer looked more promising and Dr. Lanier accepted the post. Ever since taking over, Dr. Lanier has had to fight opposition within his staff and without.

CARTER WESLEY COMES TO DEFENSE OF UNIVERSITY HEAD AS REGENTS PAN FACULTY

Two Teachers Dismissed and Two Placed On Probation in University Brawl

RECORD TANGLE NOT FAULT OF PRESIDENT

HOUSTON, Texas — (ANP) — Carter Wesley, editor of the Houston Informer newspaper, last week came to the defense of Dr. R. O'Hara Lanier, president of Texas Southern university, in the latter's troubles with some members of TSU's faculty, which resulted in the dismissal of two faculty members and the placing on probation of the others.

The board of directors, four white men and three colored men, took the action against the faculty members at a recent board meeting.

Dismissed were Dr. Campbell Upthegrove, head of the department of history, and Dr. John Carter, an instructor in the department of foreign languages.

Placed on probation were Curtis Mayo and his wife, Mrs. Estelle Mayo, both music instructors.

Spurgeon Bell, chairman of the board, declined to give the reasons for the action against the four members of the faculty.

However, the root of the dispute at TSU apparently had its origin in the manner in which records are being kept. An auditor for the state, C. H. Cavness, said property and personnel records at the university are "inaccurate, inadequate and improperly maintained."

Wesley, in an editorial in the Informer, disagreed. He said:

"Now let's have a look at this matter of personnel records. Surely Mr. Caveness knows that incorrect personnel records are not due to inability of anybody in the president's office to keep the records. Everybody knows that a 12-year-old could keep the records, if the records could be gotten into the office.

"The auditor knows that the trouble has been that the heads of departments at TSU have not sent the records to the president's office as they should, and that in many instances they have sent in records that were not accurate. The immediate remedy for this would be discipline . . .

"Any honest citizen knows that if the heads of departments persist in failing to send in the records on time, or accurately, the only sensible thing to do is to hold up their checks until they send the records in, or to take some other such discipline. Obviously, there is more to this than the matter of personnel records."

Wesley's mentioning of holding up of checks was in reference to reports that Dr. Lanier intended to withhold the pay checks of certain faculty members.

The TSU president had charged, at a board meeting, that there were certain teachers on the faculty who "would stop at nothing to discredit the university."

WE WERE GLAD to get a copy of pending House Bill No. 141, intended to "eliminate the disadvantage to .... Texas Southern University occasioned by its exclusion from the benefits of the state tax to finance buildings at state institutions of higher learning; authorizing the collection of tuition and laboratory fees at said institution, and the substitution of special building-use fees in lieu thereof for a specified time; authorizing the issuance of bonds or warrants by the respective governing bodies of said institutions to provide buildings and other permanent improvements, and prescribing the terms and conditions upon which such bonds and warrants may be issued; providing that this act may be cumulative of other laws, and auhorizing a collection of certain tuition and laboratory fees upon stated conditions; with the usual saving clause.

The bill would break a bottleneck that now has the school bound up and prevents it from expansion. But in a larger view of the matter, I think the bill will be found to be a misfit for TSU, because the bill is designed for junior colleges and lesser colleges than the University of Texas. The original constitutional provision was for the University of Texas to enable it to create higher learning for the youth of the state, and that word "youth" must, under the Constitution, include Negroes. The right of TSU to be included in the constitutional provision is even a higher right than that of A. and M. College, and equally as high as that of the University of Texas. That we have to accept the bill is due to the fact that the NAACP has never been willing to go to the root of our educational problem by insisting (1) that Negroes should be admitted to all phases of UT(2) if the courts should find against that, that any university established for Negroes must be equal in sharing the constitutional provisions originally providing funds. While we appreciate Mr. Miller's effort in relieving our situation, we nonetheless must face up to the fact that we ourselves have been negligent in not having cleared this matter through appeals to the court to get proper interpretation of the original constitutional provisions, and we must also assume the responsibility of ultimately clearing this matter by such appeals to the courts.

Texas Southern And PV Included

By ARTHUR DeWITTY

Presidents of six colleges, named in a release concerning criminal complaints filed in connection with fraudulent college degrees and credits issued at Mary Allen, denied any responsibility or culpability in connection with or for said frauds and forgeries in connection with transcripts.

President Glass of Texas College said the investigator had come to his school to check on transcripts, which were supposed to have been sent from Texas College to Mary Allen.

Mr. Glass said he took the investigator to the records and let him check to see that no such transcripts had been isued from Texas College. He also gave the investigator the benefit of his own knowledge and experience in eliminating the false records racket when he first came to Texas College.

President Davis at Butler said investigators had come to his school to check on transcripts supposedly sent to Mary Allen; that some of the transcripts were bona fide and some were fraudulent. He explained that printed forms might be stolen from the office, or in some instances properly filled out forms for work done might be sent on to a school and doctored.

Dr. Scott at Wiley said the investigator had sought information on two supposed transcripts; that they had been checked against the teachers' grade records for the class, and when no such grades were found, transcripts were invalidated. He said he was happy to cooperate.

President Curry of Bishop said no investigator had been on his campus up till Saturday at noon. This reporter found that since Dr. Curry had been at Bishop special precautions had been taken to insure that the credits of Bishop would be sound.

President Evans of Prairie View said no investigator had been on the campus as yet, but that when he saw the news story with Prairie View's name listed, he had immediately written to M. K. Dixon, chief of the Public Safety Department at Austin, telling him that Prairie View would be glad to cooperate with him in any way....

President Lanier at Texas Southern University said that his school had no intimation that transcripts that had been sent in to it were false until the investigators came on the campus, and that his whole official family cooperated and were glad to help ferret out any false records that had ben sent in to TSU.

Dr. Scott at Wiley issued this formal statement:

"There have been only two cases at Wiley where credits.. were questioned by the Texas.. Education Agency during my.. administration. I was glad to.. get this information and to co-.. operate fully with the Texas Education Agency. In each of these cases, the teachers' report records (grade sheets) were check .., and where they did not show that the the credits had been earned, the credits were invalidated."

Dr. Curry at Bishop issued the folowing tatement:

"In the fifteen months that I have been President of Bishop College I have had no knowledge of any investigation or of any complaints regarding our student records.

"We shall be glad to cooperate with the Texas Education Agency in any effort to ferret out the truth."

DUMB AND EVASIVE

Only one of the seven colleges refused to state that the school itself was not involved in the allegations of fradulent use of transcripts, and that was Mary Allen College. The reporter was referred to Dean Nicholas, who was supposed to be the spokesman and active head in the absence of the president.

The dean admitted that he.. was, but denied that he had a right or authority to admit that investigators had been on the.. campus, to admit that there had been allegations of wrong-doing on the part of people who were connected with the school, had been connected with the school, or who were in association or contact with people who had been connected with the school.

Indeed, to listen to Dean Nicholas, he did not know anything, had not heard anything, and had not seen the two investigators who had spent from two to four days at a time on Mary Allen campus.

He would have the reporter believe that all this investigation was going, with these men shuttling from Mary Allen to various colleges and back to Mary Allen, and, the dean, present at all times, did not know anything about it at all. The gentleman had heard nothing, had seen nothing, and was saying nothing.

* * *

He did say that Mrs. Richards would know all about it, but he immediately added that she was in Tyler, then when we looked as though we might go to Tyler to catch her, he said he thought probably she was in Groveton, but he was not sure where she was. ...

When he was asked for Mrs. Holmes, who had recently been on the campus and was one of those involved, he said that she had moved away, first saying she was probably in Groveton, and then he became vague and did not know where she was, except that he knew she had moved out of Crockett.

Somehow, in interviewing the various presidents, though no single one of them picked out Mary Allen to blame, the sum total of the statements seemed to indicate that Mary Allen was the center of the fraud.

In Crockett it was said that Mrs. Crezette King was threatening to sue The Informer for its story a week or so ago on the matter. Also it was said that The Informer had made a deal to protect Batts, one of those originally named. Truth is that Batts said he took a lie test in Austin, which was negative, and that the sworn statement made by Perry involving him was disregarded. Saturday Mrs. Crezette King was not home, and her son said she would not be home until evening.

HOW IT WORKS

Diplomas have been sold for years in Texas. The Gilmer-Aikin law made degrees and credits valuable in terms of dollars and cents.

It was not surprising that with such a hunger for degrees, and crooks who would stop at nothing to pick up some easy money, the fraudulent system would develop. The surprising thing was that it spread so wide and lasted so long before it was detected.

* * *

One president said that sometimes credits were forged by the simple method of stealing blanks from the school that they wanted the credits to show from, and then filling them in with the records desired and.. such forgeries as were neces-.. sary. ....

This same president said that in some instances bona fide transcripts were just doctored.

Another president said that credits, allegedly from his school, never went from his school, and in fact there were none issued in any way, but somebody wrote into the transcript of various teachers that needed records a list of credits, as if the proper transcripts had ben sent from the school.

* * *

One president said that a prominent teacher in East Texas had said in his presence, "I can get a degre from any school in this state." This president said he had challenged it, and that the man said, "I didn't say that your school would give me the degree from it, but I would get one from it just the same."

The investigation showed that the thing had developed to the point where they had fake seals, rubber stamps made out for any signature or name they needed, sometimes used portable typewriters to type into transcripts in colleges additional and forged information, and then to have the transcript carried back to the files of the particular college.

* * *

The investigation also brought to life the fact that in many places in East Texas teachers do not get the Gilmer-Aikin rate, but they get whatever the school officials agre to pay them, with somebody getting the difference.

It is being freely predicted now that many people who have prominent jobs are going to lose them, when it comes out that their diplomas are false. This makes it hopeful that many people who have been denied jobs may get a chance now for honest employment.

Everybody felt relieved that the colleges themselves, and the administrators of the colleges, were given a clear slate and freed from any connection with the crookedness and the frauds.

Fake Diploma Racket Discovered in Texas

AUSTIN, Texas. — A diploma mill racket for Negro teachers was revealed here Friday by state police.

Investigations made at the request of Texas Education agency already have resulted in filing of charges against six persons, all Negroes.

N. K. Dixon, chief of the Department of Public Safety Internal Security division, said the alleged offenders all live in East Texas. No Dallas people are involved, he added.

A. C. Cason, Department of Public Safety investigator, said the limits of the case are still undeveloped and that further charges may be filed.

J. W. Edgar, state commissioner of Education, added there "are indications that a good many people are involved."

The state lost some money by local districts paying teachers whose college degrees were faulty, Edgar said. He added that the districts where teachers were employed may have to make good the loss. The state guarantees every teacher with a bachelor degree $2,400 a year under the Gilmer-Aikin p[illegible] years ago a master degree guarantees $2,625 starting pay.

Counting automatic raises for experience, a master degree entitles the teacher to $1,000 a year extra pay in 26 years.

Investigators said that the officials of Negro colleges were fooled by fraudulent record of school credits. Two faculty members were involved in one college.

Dixon named as schools on which fake degrees or credits were drawn state-supported Texas Southern university and Prairie View college. Private schools named were Texas college and Butler college at Tyler, Bishop and Wiley college at Marshall and Mary Allen College at Crockett.

"Administrations at every school have given us 100 per cent cooperation in investigating these cases," said Dixon.

The investigators said that outside solicitors contacted people who wanted to buy a college degree and through collusion with persons inside a college were able to fake credits on which diplomas were awarded.

Lanier Under Fire At Texas Southern

HOUSTON, Texas — An educational crisis has hit Texas with a force that threatens serious consequences for the future of several Negro colleges and universities.

The uncovering of a fake transcript and diploma mill that touched seven colleges was coupled with smouldering dissatisfaction with Dr. R. O'Hara Lanier's administration of Texas Southern university in Houston.

The Texas department of public safety unearthed the ring which was [illegible] transcripts and diplomas to Texans. Six persons were charged with bootlegging the documents since 1949. Institutions involved are:

Texas college, Butler, Wiley, Bishop, Texas Southern university, Prairie View, and Mary Allen.

CLEAR SCHOOLS

Investigators said the institutions as such were cleared of blame. It was reported that Mary Allen college served as "feeder" in supplying the false transcripts.

The probe indicated the ring apparently operated in a private school which investigators did not name. Two faculty members and a "contact man" braintrusted the racket, it was reported.

Charges have been made against persons who falsified, sold and bought the transcripts or diplomas. Names were not released.

UNREST AT TSU

The unrest at Texas Southern university threatens to end the five year life of the school which grew out of the celebrated Sweatt case. It was disclosed that 63 persons had left the faculty since the university for Negroes was opened following a Supreme court ruling in the Sweatt case.

The latest uproar came when Dr. Campbell Upthegrove and Dr. John Carter were fired and Curtis and Estelle Mayo, husband and wife, were placed on probation. Upthegrove was head of history department, Carter a foreign language instructor and the Mayos music teachers.

The action came from the university board of trustees shortly after Dr. Lanier charged that certain individuals "would stop at nothing to discredit the university."

It could not be learned whether these four faculty members were the "certain individuals" referred to. The board offered no reason for the firings.

Some observers saw the Texas Southern incident as another in a chain of events leading toward eventual integration in all Texas state supported colleges and universities.

Texas Southern's policy until recently was to offer any course to Negroes that were denied them at the University of Texas or Texas A and M college. In some instances some courses were set up for a single student. Now, the board has ruled there must be at least twelve persons enrolled before a course can be offered.

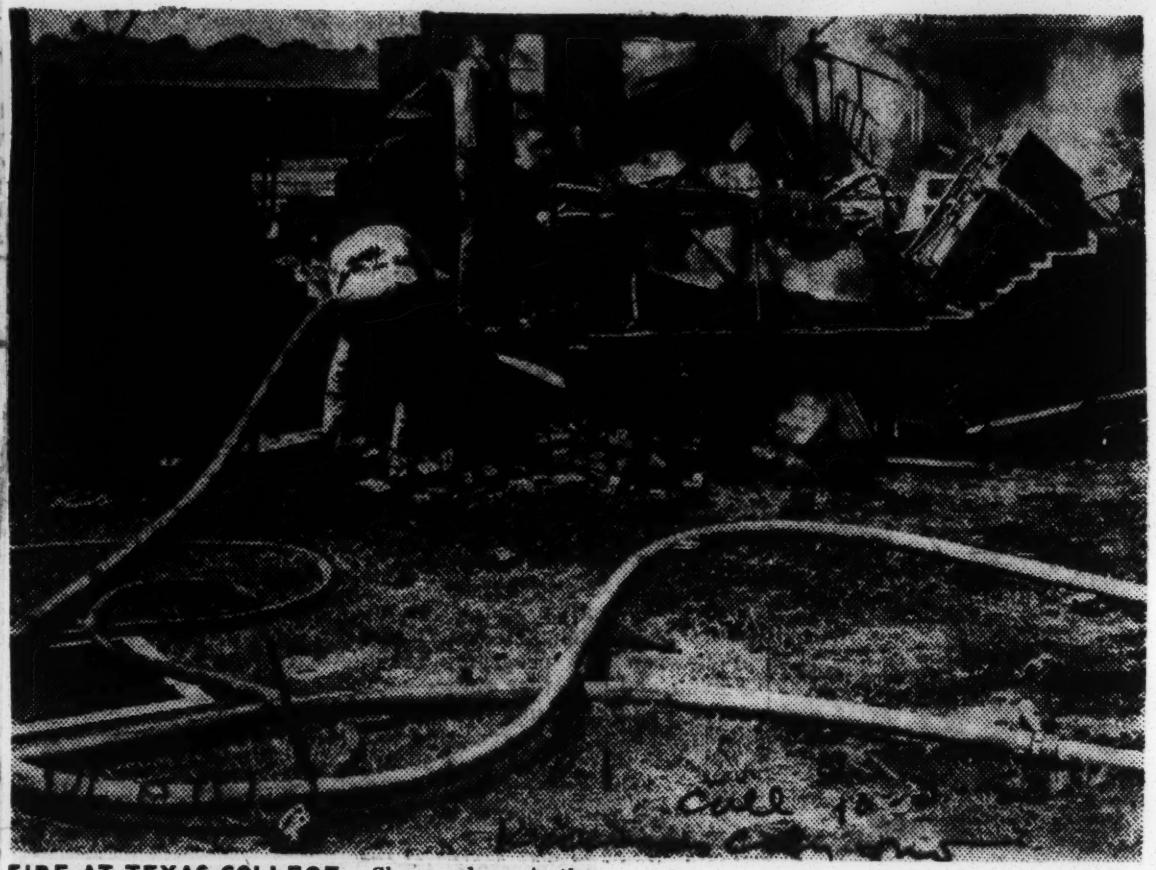
Graduate School Okayed At Texas

TYLER, Texas — Dr. R. I. McKinney, ex-president of Storer College in West Virginia, will teach the course in administration-supervision at the Graduate School of Education of Texas College this summer during the two six-week sessions beginning June

The Texas Education Agency last week approved the Graduate School which will offer the Master of Education degree with majors in elementary and secondary education.

Starting in September the Graduate School will offer full-time graduate work.

Courses in administration-supervision offered for elementary and secondary principals and for principals and for students minoring in that area will be a part of the work of the first summer session.



FIRE AT TEXAS COLLEGE.—Shown above is the dining hall building at Texas college, Tyler, after it was destroyed by fire Sept. 22. The building and contents were valued at $300,000. The building also housed the student-union, book store, post office, physcial education classroom and five offices. Cause of the blaze was not determined.—Photo by Davis Studio, Waco, Texas.

14e(1) 1953

THEOLOGICAL SEMINARIES

Presidents, Deans of Theological Seminaries

Wilberforce, Ohio—Many of the outstanding Presidents and Deans of Theological Seminaries thruout the country gathered last week for a conference at Payne Theological Seminary at Wilberforce University. Host of the conference was Dean Rembert Stokes, Head of the Payne Theological Seminary. Among those who attended the national convocation as pictured above were: Dr. Rembert Stokes, Payne Theological Seminary and Host; Dr. Thomas Allen, School of Religion, Virginia Union College, Richmond, Virginia; Dr. Harry Richardson, Executive Secretary of Group President. Gammon Theological Seminary, Atlanta, Georgia; Prof. U. Z. McKinnon, Phillips School of Religion, Lane College, Jackson, Tennessee; Dean Andrew Murray, School of Religion, Lincoln University, Oxford, Pennsylvania; Prof. Edwin Thompkins, School of Religion, Johnson C. Smith College, Charlotte, North Carolina; Dean Charles H. Brown, Stark Seminary, Benedict College, Columbia, South Carolina; Dr. L. [illegible] Wright, School of Religion, Howward University, Washington, D. C.; and Dr. Ralph Riley, American Baptist Training Institute, Nashville, Tennessee.

Southern Association Rating

Tougaloo College Is Given High Praise for System

TOUGALOO, Miss.—Tougaloo College, one of the first Negro colleges to be examined and approved by the Southern Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools by the same procedure and according to the same standards as its white colleges, was accepted by the Commission on Colleges and Universities and voted approval by the Southern Association at its recent meeting at the Peabody Hotel in Memphis.

Tougaloo College was recently visited and examined by a committee of the Southern Association composed of Dr. O. C. Stoval, president emeritus of East Tennessee State University; Dr. Hugh McEniry, dean of Stetson University, Florida; Dr. Kenneth Buehner, dean of Coker College, Hartsville, S. C., and Dr. House Miller, dean of Fort Valley State College, Georgia.

* * *

IN THEIR WRITTEN report after their three-day visit, they stated that Tougaloo fully met every standard of the Southern Association. They complimented Tougaloo particularly upon its unusual faculty, 50 per cent of whom have doctorates, and all of whom have at least a master's degree.

They declared that this college has not only high scholastic standing, but is more consistently fulfilling its professed purposes and ideals and has a better informed faculty and student body than any college examined by the committee.

Tougaloo was highly commended for its exceptionally fine program of guidance and for its emphasis upon preparing young people for careers in the professions. It was pointed out that its graduates have for years made superior records in graduate schools of Northern universities according to their transcripts on file in the office of the Southern Association.

During 1953, twenty of the Negro colleges within the states included by the Southern Association have been thus visited and examined with varying results. It is the intention of the association to examine and evaluate the remainder of these colleges within the next two years.

* * *

TOUGALOO COLLEGE also offers an unique opportunity to young people of Mississippi because of the Tougaloo Preparatory School which it maintains on its campus. It is the only school specifically for preparing students for college entrance.

By providing a curriculum designed for this purpose, it trains young people to become superior college students, after their graduation from the preparatory school; and consequently to make superior records in graduate schools and their careers as leaders in such professions as medicine, law, dentistry, teaching, journalism, nursing, engineering, the ministry, social service or some field of science.

The emphasis, throughout preparatory school and college, is upon specific career training.

Univ. of Arkansas Elects Negro

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark.—A Negro student at the University of Arkansas' School of [illegible] was elected a class officer last week. He is W. Hugh [illegible] and was named secretary of next year's junior class.

K.C.U. Degrees To 12 Negroes

Twelve Negroes were among the 444 graduates who were awarded degrees Sunday at the 18th annual commencement of the University of Kansas City.

The Right Reverend Robert Nelson Spencer, retired bishop of the West Missouri Episcopal diocese, delivered the commencement address before an audience of some 3,500 persons.

The degrees were conferred by Dr. Clarence R. Decker, retiring president of the university.

Seven Negro graduates received the Bachelor of Arts degree, four, the Master of Arts degree, one in the Master of Arts degree, one in absentia and one, the Bachelor of Laws degree.

Those who received A.B. degrees were: Mrs. Ernestine Lampkins Austin, psychology, 2814 Prospect; Miss Armenta Marie Brassfield, art, 1903 S. 41st St. Kansas City Kas.; Miss Dorothae Alester Carter, history, and government 1837 Benton Blvd.; Melvyn Thomas Cornelius, music, 3108 Bellefontaine; Miss Conella Jean Coulter, history and government, 825 E. 24th St.; Mrs. Alberta D. Scott Shipley, school and society, with distinction, St. Joseph, Mo.; and Mrs. Chestine Pearl Warfield English language and literature, 2921 Victor.

M.A. degrees were awarded to William Alexander, education, 2501 College; Mrs. Mary Tatum Howard, education, in absentia Birmingham, Ala.; Cornell S. Settles, education, 2737 Garfield and Mrs. Mildred D. Walker, education, 2523 Park.

The Bachelor of Laws degree was conferred upon J. Delmas Este, 2954 E. 28th St., city editor of the Call.

Four Negroes at KCU Law School

Three Negroes enrolled as freshmen this year at the University of Kansas City School of Law.

They are: Edward Roy Hughes, 1837 Benton Blvd., A. B. degree from Fisk University; James W. Spencer, 1959 Thompson, Kansas City, Kas., B. S. from Howard University, and Hartzell J. Whyte, 924 Oakland, Kansas City, Kas., B. S. from Kansas State college.

The three freshmen make a total of four Negroes now attending the K. C. U. law school. The other is Lee Vertis Swinton, 2701 Benton Blvd., a senior.

Swinton is a night school student. The others attend in the day.

14e(1) 1953

UNIVERSITY OF LOUISVILLE

First woman enrolls in Louisville medical school

14e(1)

LOUISVILLE (ANP) — The school of medicine at the University of Louisville last week got its first colored coed when Miss Delores Gordon, 21, registered for classes. She joins two colored men who currently are enrolled in the school.

A recent graduate of the university, Miss Gordon has nurtured an ambition to be a phsysician since her days in junior school. While a premedical student she was elected to Alpha Epsilon Delta, honorary pre-medical fraternity.

She attended Louisville Municipal College, fromer colored branch of the U. of L. which ammended its bodies to allow colored students to attend the white U. of L.

Aiding Miss Gordon in her studies at the university, will be a $400 scholarship awarded her by Delta Sigma Theta sorority of which she is a member.

Medical School

3rd Morgan Student to Maryland

14e(1)

BALTIMORE, Md. — Louis Randall, Morgan State College Student Council president, has been admitted to the University of Maryland School of Medicine's first year class, 1952-53.

Randall, the third Morgan student to be admitted since 1950, has been accepted pending successful completion of the current academic year. A Morgan senior, Randall expects to graduate in June and to matriculate at the University of Maryland in September.

Morgan Student To Enter U. Of Md. Medical School

BALTIMORE

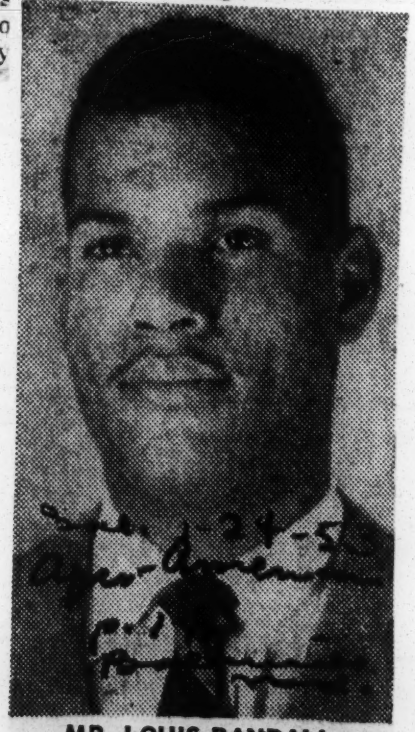
Louis Randall, Morgan State College Student Council president, has been admitted to the University of Maryland School of Medicine's first year class, 1952-53.

14e(1)

Randall, the third Morgan student to be admitted since 1950, has been accepted pending successful completion of the current academic year.

A senior, Randall expects to graduate in June and to matriculate at the U. of Md. in September.

p. 14



MR. LOUIS RANDALL

Morgan graduates previously admitted to the Maryland Medical School are Donald Stewart, a 1951 graduate; and Ernest O. Brown, a 1952 alumnus.

Honor Student

A pre-medical student majoring in chemistry, Randall is an honor student and a member of Beta Kappa Chi, Scientific Honor Society, Apha Kappa Mu, National Honor Society, an executive officer in the Morgan ROTC battalion, and a holder of a Maryland Senatorial Scholarship.

Sat. 1-24-53

Cited this year with eight other Morgan seniors in 'Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges," Randal is a member of Alpha Phi Alpha fraternity.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Lionel Whitworth of 4525 St. Georges st., Baltimore.

14e(1) 1953

UNIVERSITY OF MIAMI

Univ. Of Miami Starts Course For Teachers

MIAMI, FLA.—(SNS)— Another "unequal situation" in education in the state is now being rectified by the holding of course for Nego in-service teachers by the University of Miami.

According to Dr. Baker M. Hindman, director of secondary training in Dade County, "The training opportunities opened up to Negro teachers [illegible] campus evening courses rectify an unequal situation. The chance to earn state credits is now possible without Negro teachers having to leave Dade County for expensive training elsewhere."

Courses are conducted by university evening division instructors at two sites here, including the Booker T. Washington High School. A similar training for white teachers was begun five years ago.

House Bill 112

The passage of Bill 112, to admit Negro students to the five state colleges and all courses at the University of Missouri, constitutes a good step forward. The vote was close, but it was on the credit side which is the main consideration.

Argus p. 14

Now it remains for the Senate to place its stamp of approval on this matter before it can be said that Missouri is really moving ahead.

St. Louis Mo

In fact, we look now to the Senate to act on two measures which are sorely needed in this State. Aside from Bill 112, the Senate Judiciary Committee still holds the Pentland Bill which calls for a State FEPC. A hearing was held, but no further action has been reported.

Fri. 3-20-53

We earnestly hope the Senate will compare favorably with the House in its actions.

North Carolina's 'Black Tuesday'

Jim-Crow School Funds Attacked

College Prexy Is Hit

By A. M. RIVERA JR.
(Staff Correspondent)

DURHAM, N. C.—NAACP officials labeled Feb. 10, 1953 as "Black Tuesday" after accusing heads of the North Carolina College for Negroes of conspiring with white legislators to keep race students out of the University of North Carolina.

Critics of NCC administrators made flat charges that the local institution was supporting segregation in an effort to get more buildings while using a "phony" Ph. D. program as "bait."

C. O. Pearson, chairman of the NAACP State Legal Redress Committee, warned the solons against "pouring money into jim-crow education" after NCC's President Alfonso Elder asked for a $4,000,000 appropriation for buildings and facilities to "relieve the university from pressure of law suits demanding the admission of Negroes to the university."

PEARSON ASSERTED, "These requests are based entirely for the declared purpose of keeping Negro students out of the University of North Carolina. Stop-gap measures are no longer possible in the areas of segregated educational facilities and pouring money into jim-crow educational programs will not prevent the realization of full first-class opportunities for Negro citizens.

"The little drama before the Legislature Tuesday (Feb. 10) was an effrontery to all freedom-loving peoples everywhere and it should be remembered long as 'Black Tuesday.'"

Appearing before the North Carolina Legislature in behalf of the $4,000,000 request for jim-crow funds were, Atty. R. M. Gant, acting chairman of the NCC Board of Trustees; A. Elder, NCC president, and W. D. Carmichael Jr., Catholic comptroller of UNC.

* * *

THE TRIO told the Joint Appropriations Committee that they had entered into an agreement, while the Legislature was not in session, which was aimed at "keeping the status quo."

In his prepared statement, Elder declared, "If the one hundred distinguished citizens of our state, who are members of the UNC Board of Trustees and the members of the Council of State, cannot speak for the people during the interim between meetings of the General Assembly, then who can?"

However, there are members of the NCC Board who are against the Ph. D. program and have told the Courier so in no uncertain terms. Dr. J. H. Hubbard, an NCC alumnus, said, the plan is aimed at keeping "Negroes out of the university . . . I opposed it at the beginning and I still oppose it."

DR. R. M. HENDRICK, Asheville dentist, said "I opposed the plan when I first learned of it and called for a voice vote to get my opposition in the record. I am still opposed to it."

Dr. A. H. Bryant of Rocky Mount said that he was against the plan if it was designed to extend segregation.

Carmichael explained that the NCC Ph. D. program was requested to lift the pressure of law suits from the University.

He said that he wanted it understood that in the matter of race relations, "I am a status quo man" and added, "If we want to keep things as they are now, I strongly recommend your serious consideration of this program.

Dr. Elder told the lawmakers, "If you do not help us cooperate, I do not know what the future will bring." Dr. Elder had explained earlier that UNC and NCC had "common problems" and a "disposition to work together."

First Negro Girl Housed in Okla. U. Quadrangle

Gets Friendly Welcome From Swarm of Enrollees

Pretty, vivacious Jessie Mae Thomas, 2604 NE 21st street, and 1953 graduate of Douglass High school, Monday became the first Negro girl to be assigned to living quarters on the Quadrangle at the University of Oklahoma.

Jessie, who is 17, and a young woman with an unusually pleasant personality, arrived in Norman Monday morning with her aunt, Mrs. [illegible] Castine, and Mrs. Freddye Harper Williams. The young lady enrolled last week.

"I was never so pleasantly surprised in my life" said Mrs. Williams when she returned to Oklahoma City Monday evening and told of her experiences while on the OU campus and in the Quardangle.

"The house mother had assigned Miss Thomas to quarters on the 1st floor, but before we could close the door to the room several white girls swarmed in and after cordially greeting Jessie Mae, told the house mother they felt Miss Thomas should be up several floors higher next to them, and insisted so strenuously, the lady in charge gave over and assigned Jessie Mae to a room immediately adjacent to where the very friendly girls reside" Mrs. Williams said.

"Mrs. Castile and I remained in the quadrangle about two hours. The rooms and accommodations are simply wonderful," continued Mrs. Williams. "The girls yanked Jessie Mae out of the room and she had to visit in all of their rooms, and we saw very little of her while there. When we left, the girls said in response to Mrs. Castile's instructions to Jessie Mae not to be lonesome, "Don't you worry about that. We are going to see that she doesn't get lonesome, and we are going to guide her until she knows her way about the campus."

"I think the very sincere and friendly attitude of the girls Jessie Mae met Monday did much to instantly adjust her to her new environment, and I came to the Black Dispatch office to personally thank you for the interest you took in this matter" Mrs. Williams said to Editor Dunjee.

There was some hesitancy on the part of university officials to lodge Miss Thomas in the Quadrangle last week until Editor Dunjee took the matter up with Dean J. E. Fellows, who immediately smoothed out the situation to the place where Mrs. Williams found things Monday.

"The thing that astonished me" said Mrs. Williams, "was the fact one of the girls so friendly with Jessie Mae said she was from Little Rock, and another was from Louisiana."

Sewanee U. Opens Doors To All

SEWANEE, Tenn. — After a long simmering dispute over the refusal to admit colored students of the University of the South, resulted in the resignation of the dean, the school chaplain, seven professors and a public denouncement by a noted cleric who also refused to accept an honorary degree, the university has apparently ended racial segregation.

The board of trustees of the school passed a resolution by an overwhelming 78-6 vote last week to give all applications for the school of theology "thorough consideration without regard to race."

Episcopal School

The presence of 23 bishops indicated the importance of last Thursday's decision. Only the Georgia diocese was unrepresented.

The school is owned by 22 dioceses of the Episcopal Church in ten southern states.

Last year the Fourth Province Synod recommended colored candidates for the ministry be admitted to the seminary. The board refused to adopt the recommendation and several seminary faculty members issued a statement against the trustees.

The board of trustees said Tennessee law did not permit colored admissions and no colored student had ever applied for entrance.

Resigned In November

As the board refused to budge, the seminary dean, the school chaplain and seven professors resigned Nov. 5.

Last February the Very Rev. Dr. James A. Pike, dean of the Cathedral of St. John the Divine and guest professor of Religion at Columbia University, withdrew as the baccalaureate speaker at the seminary because of the institution's attitude on racial segregation.

Dr. Pike also declined a doctor of divinity degree from the school and blasted Sewanee, as the school is generally known, for "hiding behind the Tennessee law" on the racial issue.

'Sewanee' Embarks On a Rewarding Road

A YEAR ago the University of the South, at Sewanee, Tenn., was in an uproar. Several faculty members of its School of Theology had resigned and others were threatening to follow suit because the institution's trustees, while noting the absence of any university ordinance forbidding the admission of Negroes, still went on record as feeling that "encouragement of the enrollment of such students now is inadvisable."

The university, or Sewanee as it has long and affectionately been known, thus effectively rejected a proposal by the provincial synod of the Episcopal Church, the 22 Southern dioceses of which own and operate it, that Negroes be admitted to its small School of Theology.

Last week the trustees, after year-long reflection commendably reversed their action. By a vote of 78 to 6, they instructed the university authorities to give all applications for admission to the seminary "sincere and thorough consideration without regard to race." The retiring chairman of the board of regents, EDMUND ORGILL of Memphis, commended their action on the "fine resolution," and noted that approval was almost unanimous.

Sewanee's action, a new landmark in the deeper South's progress toward the Christian and the democratic concept of non-discrimination on the basis of race, would have been unthinkable a brief ten years ago. Progress in the eradication of ancient prejudices and customs always is slow.

But the pace has been much faster in recent years, and Sewanee is traveling a road that others have found demonstrably rewarding. Louisville's three Catholic colleges embarked upon it in 1950, the same year that the University of Louisville first accepted a limited number of Negro graduate students, much as Sewanee now proposes to do. In 1951 the last bars of segregation were removed, and since that time the University of Louisville has accepted Negroes in all its schools on the same basis as any other students.

Sewanee's trustees can take comfort from the local results. Fears in some quarters that the university was "going too far and too fast" proved groundless. There has been no conflict, no controversy, no incident.

The integration of the "new" students in the local university, as President PHILIP DAVIDSON noted last year, has been "a magnificent thing to see. They are not there as Negroes. They are there as students, and some of them are excellent students. Their admission is not an experiment. It is the result of 300 years of Americans living together . . . in an America that has traveled further toward freedom, brotherhood, and democracy than any other country."

"Breaking The Racial Barrier"

Democracy moves forward as another university in the South drops its color bars. The board of trustees at Sewanee University in Tennessee recently voted 78 to 6 to consider applications for admission to the university seminar "without regard to race." This is certainly a victory for American education and defeat for bigotry and reaction. In a country like ours education should be the primary force for the maintenance of our democratic way of life, and a weapon against any ideology that tends to conflict with this way of life. But apathy runs deep in our society and human beings are too often governed by their emotions rather than reason. This has been particularly true in case of education where court action, rather than voluntary methods, has been the factor back of progress. Some parts of our population has been so steeped in tradition that it becomes difficult for them to exist without clinging to the past. Those who maintain such views are naturally being stupid at their own cost. And blinded by prejudice, they continue to spend millions of the taxpayers money fighting against the inevitable, the crumbling walls of racial bars in education. Such millions could easily be used to give the people the educational facilities they need to bring us up to the standards of other regions.

Sewanee University has joined the ranks of the University of Louisville and the University of Arkansas by adopting a program to admit Negro students without opposition. Attitudes are changing. White students in these universities are accepting their Negro classmates as fellow human beings. However, it will take some time for these fundamental changes to have full impact on our total social, economic and political structure. Breaking through the racial barrier, even in education is yet to be a difficult task. We are delighted to learn that institutions in the South like Sewanee, the University of Arkansas and the University of Louisville have acted to scuttle their emotions and use common sense as a means of meeting what is to be the inevitable.

ADMISSION AT SEWANEE

For some years past one might have read the bulletins of the University of the South at Sewanee, Tenn., without learning that either the University or its related Theological School discriminated against Negro applicants for admission. Indeed, the stated goal of a "human society founded on the Brotherhood of Man and the Fatherhood of God" would seem to rule out this kind of discrimination.

Last year, however, the trustees did vote that the "encouragement of the enrollment of Negro students in the School of Theology now is "inadvisable." As a result eight faculty members resigned. Now this action has been reversed by a 78-to-6 vote. The accompanying resolution points out that the constitution and ordinances of the University do not "deny admission of students because of race or color" and recommends that applications for admission to the School of Theology be given "sincere and thorough consideration without regard to race." This means more than that Negroes will be admitted if they can qualify. It means that race or color just isn't one of the standards any more.

As an ancient border state Tennessee has had widely varying racial attitudes. Now, like so great a part of the South, it is making progress toward a better and kindlier understanding.

NEGRO PREACHER ASKS TO STUDY AT SEWANEE

Application Follows Ruling By Board Yesterday

SEWANEE, Tenn., June 5.—(UP)—A Negro preacher applied to enter the graduate School of Religion at the University of the South Friday as the Episcopal college emphasized that it considers students "without regard to race."

The "clarifying" statement appeared to end a controversy at Sewanee, as the university is better known, which last year brought on the resignations of the dean of the seminary and seven other staff members.

Bishop R. Bland Mitchell of North Carolina, chancellor of Sewanee, said that the resolution adopted by the trustees by a 78 to six vote Thursday night merely "made explicit" that which was implicit in a resolution last year.

The new resolution stated that "no qualified applicant to the School of Theology of the University of the South shall be denied admission on the basis of race or color."

Last year, however, the trustees had decided it was not advisable to consider Negro applicants at that time although there were no rules against them. Dr. Edward McCrady, vice chancellor, said the stand was widely misinterpreted because "no Negroes had even applied, and, of course, none had been turned down."

Backed by the clarifying statement, Rev. John Moncrief, an ordained Episcopal minister from Orangeburg, S. C., and a Negro, applied to Sewanee's graduate School of Religion. If his application is approved he will be admitted to studies in July.

The vote of the trustees did not find such a majority of feeling on the campus. A survey taken by a special committee which has been studying the problem showed that 13 faculty members in the arts and sciences division opposed the decision and one theology professor was against it. Approving were 12 members of the arts and sciences staff and five theologians.

NEGRO CONSIDERED FOR SEWANEE STUDY

University, Lifting Racial Bar, Reveals Inquiry by Rector of Southern Parish

APPLICATION IN PROCESS

Graduate Training Clergyman Desires Leads to Degree of Master of Sacred Theology

By JOHN N. HOPHAM

Special to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

SEWANEE, Tenn., June 5—Officials of the University of the South disclosed today that a Negro clergyman of the Protestant Episcopal Church had applied for admission to the five-week graduate study class School of Theology which begins on July 29. Only yesterday the university officials were instructed by resolution of the trustees to disregard racial consideration in connection with applications for admission.

The applicant is the Rev. John M. Moncrief, rector of a Negro church parish in Orangeburg, S. C. He is a graduate of Fisk University and the General Theological Seminary in New York. Mr. Moncrief is thet hird Negro to make formal request for permission to use the seminary facilities.

The question of admitting Negro theology students at the university, which is usually referred to as "Sewanee" and is owned by twenty-two dioceses of the Protestant Episcopal Church in thirteen southern states, developed into a heated controversy a year ago when the trustees voted approval of a resolution that held that "the encouragement or the enrollment of Negro students now is inadvisable."

In protest, eight faculty members, seven of them clergymen, resigned from the School of Theology and in February the Very Rev. Dr. James A. Pike, Dean of the New York Cathedral (St. John the Divine) rejected an invitation to deliver the baccalaureate sermon and accept an honorary degree at the university's graduation ceremonies held this week.

Inquiry Made Some Days Ago

It was explained today that technically Mr. Moncrief's application.. initiated by a letter of inquiry several days ago, was in the process of completion but that it would be duly perused and considered by the Rev. Dr. M. Bowyer Stewart, director of the graduate training course, and Dr. Edward McCrady, vice chancellor of the university.

In announcing the application, the university public relations officer issued a brief statement that read:

"The authorities of the university confirmed the fact the application had been received and said it would be considered in the same way in which other applications are and in the light of the resolution adopted by the trustees yesterday—'regardless of race.'"

University officials said Mr. Moncrief wrote several days ago asking about requirements for attending the graduate training course this summer. A catalogue and a standard application form were forwarded to the clergyman, they added, and they were awaiting receipt of the filled-in form.

The School of Theology, with an average complement of eighty students, is a three-year graduate school, awarding the degree of Bachelor of Divinity. Its facilities are located on the university's 10,000-acre campus in this Cumberland Mountain plateau.

The seminary's five-week graduate training course is held each summer for ordained ministers and offers studies leading to the degree of Master of Sacred Theology. The master's degree on the average is awarded upon completion of six five-week study courses.

The apparent resolvement of the university's racial controversy occurred yesterday at a special executive session of the trustees held behind closed doors for six hours. By a vote of 78 to 6 they approved a resolution instructing the proper officials to give all applications of students for admission to the seminary "sincere and thorough consideration without regard to race."

Bishop R. Bland Mitchell of Arkansas, chancellor of the university, declared that the trustees' action constituted "a clear-cut instruction to the school officials on this issue" and commended the trustees as having "functioned at the high level befitting Sewanee and discharged their solemn duty before God."

Bishop Edmund P. Dandridge of Tennessee, who will become the new dean of the School of Theology in September, in a formal statement today said he regarded the trustees' action as "excellent" and emphasized his "gratification at the overwhelming majority that voted for it."

"It has opened the doors of the theology school to men of all races, and has done so in a manner that links this action with the history and traditions of Sewanee," Bishop Dandridge asserted.

Five Negro Students at U. of Tenn.

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. — Five Negro teachers, including one in the Knoxville school system, have begun University of Tennessee courses in graduate study.

The scholarships are the first in history for Negroes at the state university.

Mrs. Lennice Porter Gudger, Chester school teacher here, and the other four have State Department of Education scholarships for further training as teachers in handicapped fields that include speech, hearing and eyesight difficulties.

The other four scholarship [illegible] toward master's degrees are Virginia M. Payne, Nashville; Howard M. Johnson, Lynchburg; Parker D. Alexander, Williamson County, and Mildred Shaw, Jackson, Tenn.

Univ. Of Tennessee Flouts U. S. Supreme Court Pledge

Atlanta World

Atlanta, Ga.

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., — (SNS) — According to a statement from Dean E. A. Waters of the graduate school of the University of Tennessee, Negroes qualified academically can only enter degree programs not available in State owned and supported institutions elsewhere in the state.

Sat. 4-25-53

Also qualified Negroes cannot enter single courses or a series of course not leading to a degree, solely for purpose of improvement. Dean Waters says that this is the present policy of the University and admission is based on this factor.

THE OLD DODGE

In the opinion of those who have followed this situation from the beginning it seems that this is the same old dodge that southern whites give to prevent Negroes from getting full benefits under the constitution.

Carl A. Cowan, attorney who has been a part of the move ever since the first brief was filed says: 'Not withstandng it may be present general policy of the University of Tennessee to admit Negroes properly qualified academically to the graduate and professional degree programs not available in state owned or supported institutions else where in the state, the policy and practice of the University in refusing all members of the Negro race, properly qualified academically, admission to single courses or a series of courses no leading to a degree in the graduate or professional departments, while at the same time the University is pursuing the policy and practice of admitting members of the Caucasian race and members of other races, properly qualified academically, to single courses or a series of courses not leading to a degree in the graduate or professional departments, in my opinion, is a clear and flagrant violation of the equal protection clause of the 14th Amendment to the Constitution of the United States."

Mr. Cowan further states that any form of segregation is a violation of the 14th Amendment which aolished this practice. "When applications are filed at A. and I University students are told no such course exists. But when they apply at U. T. a few days later you get a answer from State University saying the course is now available. Some makeshift course is provided There is no way that you can have separate but equal facilities," Mr Cowan continues.

COMES TO LIGHT

It was thought that such practices were taking place at the University of Tennessee but the matter comes to light when the Knoxville Education Association addressed a letter to Dean Waters inquiring concerning the policy of admission over the signature of L. A. Jackson, president of the Association. Dean Waters reply shows that discrimination does exist. This is unconstitutional, violating the 14th Amendmen denying citizens a privilege because of his color.

So far only an opinion has been rendered in the suit filed by Gray, Blakeney, Alexander, Totten and Paterson, which resulted in Gray's entrance. When the case was argued here Judge Taylor held that the plaintiffs were entitled to relief but did not enter an order.

Atlanta World 5-2-53

When the case was taken to the Supreme Court it was dismissed when the University through its representative agreed to admit the five who asked admission and any others so situated. Only Gray entered because the others were otherwise situated when agreement cam. The decision was to open the high level programs to all regardles of race but in practice is narrowed to only those five who applied.

14e(1) 1953

University of Tennessee
Discrimination

Univ. Of Tennssee Flouts U. S. Supreme Court Pledge

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., — (SNS) — According to a statement from Dean E. A. Waters of the graduate school of the University of Tennessee Negroes qualified academically can only enter degree programs not available in State owned and supported institutions elsewhere in the state.

Also qualified Negroes cannot enter single courses or a series of course not leading to a degree, solely for purpose of improvement. Dean Waters says that this is the present policy of the University and admission is based on this factor.

THE OLD DODGE

In the opinion of those who have followed this situation from the beginning it seems that this is the same old dodge that southern whites give to prevent Negroes from getting full benefits under the constitution.

Carl Cowan, attorney who has been a part of the move ever since the first brief was filed says: "Not withstanding it may be present general policy of the University of Tennessee to admit Negroes properly qualified academically to the graduate and professional degree programs not available in state owned or supported institutions else where in the state, the poloicy and practice of the University in refusing all members of the Negro race, properly qualified academically, admission to single courses or a series of courses no leading to a degree in the graduate or professional departments, while at the same time the University is pursuing the policy and practice of admitting members of the Caucasian race and members of other races, properly qualified academically, to single courses or a series of courses not leading to a degree in the graduate or professional departments, in my opinion, is a clear and flagrant violation of the equal protection clause of the 14th Amendment to the Constitution of the United States."

Mr. Cowan further states that any form of segregation is a violation of the 14th Amendment which nolished this practice. "When applications are filed at A. and I University students are told no such course exists. But when they apply at U. T. a few days later you get a answer from State University saying the course is now available. Some makeshift course is provided. There is no way that you can have separate but equal facilities." Mr. Cowan continues.

COMES TO LIGHT

It was thought that such practices were taking place at the University of Tennessee but the matter comes to light when the Knoxville Education Association addressed a letter to Dean Waters inquiring concerning the policy of admission over the signature of J. A. Jackson, president of the Association. Dean Waters reply shows that discrimination does exist. This is unconstitutional, violating the 14th Amendmen denying citizens a privilege because of his color.

So far only an opinion has been rendered in the suit filed by Gray, Blakeney, Alexander, Totten and Paterson, which resulted in Gray's entrance. When the case was argued here Judge Taylor held that the plaintiffs were entitled to relief but did no enter an order.

When the case was taken to the Supreme Court it was dismissed when the University through its representative agreed to admit the five who asked admission and any others so situated. Only Gray entered because the others were otherwise situated when agreement cam. The decision was to open the high level programs to all regardles of race but in practice is narrowed to only those five who applied.

14e(1) 1953

UNIVERSITY OF TEXAS

THE SCHOOL OF MEDICINE of the University of Texas this year admitted five Negroes to its freshman class. There are also one second student, each in the junior and senior classes.

14e(1) 1953

UNIVERSITY OF VIRGINIA

First Negro Given Degree At University of Virginia

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va., June 10—(AP)—Walter Nathaniel Ridley, professor of psychology at Virginia State College, will receive his doctor of education degree June 15 from the University of Virginia and thus become its first Negro graduate.

He will become the first member of his race to receive a doctorate from any Southern state university.

The traditionally all-white University of Virginia admitted its first Negro graduate students after a 1950 ruling by a special three-judge federal court.

The court held that the university must admit Gregory Swanson for graduate study in law and other Negroes "similarly situated academically and otherwise qualified except for race." This decision affirmed holdings of the U. S. Supreme Court that where a state maintains only one tax-supported graduate school, it cannot bar Negroes on racial grounds.

14e(1) 1953

UNIVERSITY OF VIRGINIA -School of Medicine

Negroes Will Attend Virginia U. Medical School For First Time

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va., Feb. 9.—Two Negro college students for the first time in the history of the University of Virginia have been accepted for enrollment next fall in the university's School of Medicine.

An official at the university last week said the two prospective students are Edward B. Nash, now attending Virginia Union university, and Edward T. Wood, a premedical student at Dartmouth college. They were classmates and honor graduates of Armstrong High school, here in Richmond in 1949.

Nash is a native of Richmond, but Wood, who was a tuition student at Armstrong, is a native of Lexington, Va.

Barron F. Black, director of the University of Virginia, said last week that the admission of Negroes to the medical school could be regarded as "routine." He credited this to a federal court decision in 1950 compelling admission of Gregory Swanson of Danville to the University law school in 1950.

The University of Virginia is the second white institution in Virginia to accept Negro applicants for medical training. The first was the Medical College of Virginia at Richmond. It has been accepting Negro students since 1950. Two Negroes are enrolled there, and a third, Harry C. Press, Jr., of Chesapeake, Va., has been accepted for next fall.

A spokesman at the University of Virginia said the two are among some 70 to 76 students accepted for enrollment next fall.

14e(1) 1953

Medical School
University of Virginia

2 Negroes Enrolled At Va. School

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va.—Two Negro college students have been accepted for enrollment next fall in the Medical school of the University of Virginia.

An official at the university last week identified the prospective students as Edward B. Nash, now attending Virginia Union university, and Edward T. Wood, a pre-medical student at Darmouth college. They were classmates and honor graduates of Armstrong high school, Richmond, 1949. They will become the first Negro students in the history of the Medical school.

Nash is a native of Richmond, and, Wood, who was a tuition student at Armstrong, is a native of Lexington, Va.

The University of Virginia is the second white institution in Virginia to accept Negro applicants for medical training. The first was the Medical College of Virginia, at Richmond. It has been accepting Negro students since 1950. Two Negroes are enrolled there, and a third, Harry C. Press, jr., of Chesapeake, Va., has been accepted for the fall term.

14e(1) 1953

VIRGINIA POLYTECHNIC INSTITUTE
Blacksburg, Virginia

Virginia Polytech Gets First Negro Day Student

BLACKSBURG, Va. — (ANP) — Virginia Polytechnic Institute has accepted its first Negro day student on a full class basis, it was announced here last week.

The announcement was made by President Walter S. Newman, who said Irving Linwood Peddrew of Hampton, Va., would be admitted as a military day student. He becomes the first member of the race to attend this institution as a full-fledged student since the land grant college was founded for white students in 1872.

It was disclosed, however, that Peddrew would reside off the campus. He will enroll in electrical engineering. He will also receive training as a member of the Reserve Officers Training Corps toward a commission as a second lieutenant.

Peddrew's application was voted on by VPI's board of visitors who explained that it had been advised that the educational facilities and offerings sought by the applicant and by the applicant and offered at VPI "are not to be had or found in comparable form and substance at any state supported institution of higher learning" operated by Virginia exclusively for Negroes.

The board took note of the fact that Virginia's Atty. Gen. J. Lindsay Almond Jr., had advised such a course.

It added that the board "is of the opinion that the applicant is legally entitled to admission under the particular and specific facts and circumstances which in this instance it has forced to exist."

was accepted because no state-supported institution for Negroes offered training "in comparable form and substance."

Va. Tech admits Hampton youth

BLACKSBURG, Va. — Irving Linwood Peddrew, of Hampton, has been accepted for admission to Virginia Tech college as a military day student.

Peddrew is the first colored student enrolled at the college in its 81-year-old history.

He will register as a day student and live off the campus.

Peddrew, applying for ROTC instruction towards a commission as a second lieutenant, intends to take electrical engineering.

His application was accepted after a poll of the board of visitors, according to Dr. Walter S. Newman, college president.

2nd College Opens Doors

BLACKSBURG, Va. — Virginia Polytechnic Institute is accepting its first Negro student after receiving approval from the school's board of trustees.

The school is expected to enroll a Negro student during the fall term.

Irving Linwood Peddrew, 18, of Hampton, Va., has been accepted as a day military student and will major in electrical engineering.

The board at V. P. I. said he

Tech Admits Youth From Hampton

81-Year Precedent Broken As School Lowers Color Bars

Joining the steadily growing list of former all-white institutions in the South which have admitted Negro students last week was 81-year-old Virginia Polytechnic Institute. Virginia Tech, at Blacksburg, Va., announced Thursday that a Hampton youth would become its first colored student.

While the color bar was lowered, the statement issued by the institute failed to indicate whether legal or humanitarian principles were behind the "open door".

The board of visitors was polled and agreed to the admission, but also indicated that advice had been secured from the State Attorney General as to recent Supreme Court rulings with regard to admission of qualified Negro applicants to white state-supported institutions in the South.

BLACKSBURG, Va.

An 81-year-old precedent was broken here last week when the Board of Visitors of Virginia Polytechnic Institute voted to admit the first colored student in the history of the school.

COURSES WHICH he sought "are not to be had or found in comparable form and substance at any state-supported institution of higher learning" operated in Virginia for colored students, the board said.

The board also indicated it was of the opinion that "the applicant is legally entitled to admission under the particular and specific facts and circumstances which in this instance it has been found to exist."

* * *

THE STUDENT, who will live off campus, is Irving L. Peddrew Jr., of Hampton, who told the Journal and Guide that prior to his acceptance at VPI, he had also applied at the University of Virginia and the Virginia Military Institute.

Peddrew indicated that he did not hear from the University of Virginia, but that the Virginia Military Institute had referred his application to Virginia State College in Petersburg.

* * *

THE YOUNGSTER, who wants to study electrical engineering, said that one of his instructors at George P. Phenix High School in Hampton first advised him to apply to VPI.

He said also that Dr. Robert P. Daniel, president of Virginia State College, had given him similar advice.

At VPI, Peddrew will pursue courses in engineering and will become a member of the Tech Reserve Officer Training Corps.

* * *

AMONG THE upper 10 of the 1953 graduating class at Phenix High School, he was also a member of the football team and student council, and the band.

Said his former principal, Clifford B. Howlette:

* * *

"HE WAS A very fine student, mature in his thinking, a little on the serious side, yet quite popular with the entire student body . . . He was the type of student that one enjoys working with . . ."

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Irving L. Peddrew of 509 Locust street, Hampton.

VANDERBILT U. REVEALS BOARD DECISION TO ADMIT NEGROES

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Feb. 10— Chancellor Harvie Branscomb has confirmed Saturday that the Board of Trustees voted last October to admit two Negroes to Vanderbilt University's School of Religion.

However, the pair, students at Scarritt College in Nashville, have not yet taken advantage of the decision.

Branscomb explained that the trustees acted under a long existing agreement among schools of the University Center, of which Scarritt is a member.

The Chancellor declined to confirm or deny reports that Vanderbilt had decided to open its doors to all Negro students.

Disclosure of the trustees' action was made following a blast at the racial policy of the University of the South in Sewanee, Tenn., by the very Rev. Dr. James A. Pike-Dean of the Cathedral of St. Johns, the Divine in New York.

The Dean turned down an honorary degree and an invitation to speak at Sewanee next June because the University has reaffirmed its policy barring Negroes from its theological school.

Vanderbilt University Unbends

Vanderbilt University at Nashville, Tenn., by the action of its board of trustees to admit a Negro minister to its school of religion unbends a little on its racial restriction.

Negro attendance under the admission plan will be extremely limited but nevertheless in the right and urgent direction. Voted to be admitted is the Rev. Joseph A. Johnson of Jackson, Tenn.

The board of trustees said in its comment on the admissions vote, "Christianity is not the exclusive possession of any one nation or race." Neither is real Christianity a distortion of man's teachings. Its better application in regard to student admission would suggest the whole removal of all racial restrictions.

Yet the Vanderbilt action is in commendable contrast to that of certain officials of the University of the South at Sewanee, Tenn. The latter institution is bucking the action taken by the sponsoring Episcopal Church which voted to admit Negro students to theological training.

However, Vanderbilt suggested that Negro students should not be admitted "to courses of study which are already available to them in this vicinity by institutions of strong resources and established reputations." That is a limiting condition which deprives the Christian teachings to function at their best.

Vandy to accept Negro as student

NASHVILLE, Tenn., May 2—(AP)—Vanderbilt University trustees voted Saturday to admit a Negro minister to the school of religion.

In announcing the acceptance of the Rev. Joseph A. Johnson of Jackson, Tenn., as a student, the board of trustees said: "Christianity is not the exclusive possession of any one nation or race."

The board added, however, it did not feel that Vanderbilt, a privately endowed institution, should admit Negro students "to courses of study which are already available to them in this vicinity by institutions of strong resources and established reputations."

The board also adopted a $5,455,003 budget for the next school year.

14e(1) 1953

Vanderbilt University

Jackson Pastor Vanderbilt's 1st

Afro-American p. 5

JACKSON, Tenn. — The Rev. Joseph A. Johnson Jr., president of the Philips School of Theology here, and prominent CME minister, will become the first colored student to enter the graduate School of Religion at Vanderbilt University.

A native of Shreveport, La., he will enter the school in September. The 38-year old minister's family will remain in Jackson while he is at Vanderbilt and he will be on leave of absence from his work here.

At Vanderbilt Rev. Johnson says he will spend a year on work leading to a Ph.D degree in the New Testament. He obtained his A.B. degree from Texas College; his M.A. from Fisk University; his master in theology from the Cliff School of Theology at Denver and later became the first colored student to obtain the doctor of theology degree from Cliff.

At Sweden Confab

Rev. Johnson has been president of the Philips School since it was founded here in 1944. He represented the CME Church at the 3rd World Conference on Faith and Order, held last year at the University of Lund in Sweden.

He served as pastor of the Philips Chapel CME Church at Nashville, from 1938-1939, and the Cleaves Memorial Church, Denver Col., 1940-44.

In 1951 he represented the CME Church at the 8th Ecumenical World Conference held at Oxford University, Oxford, England.

His wife is Mrs. Grace L. Johnson and they have three children, Joseph A. III, Patricia Ann and Charles DeWitt. Rev. Johnson is a member of the Kappa Alpha Psi fraternity.

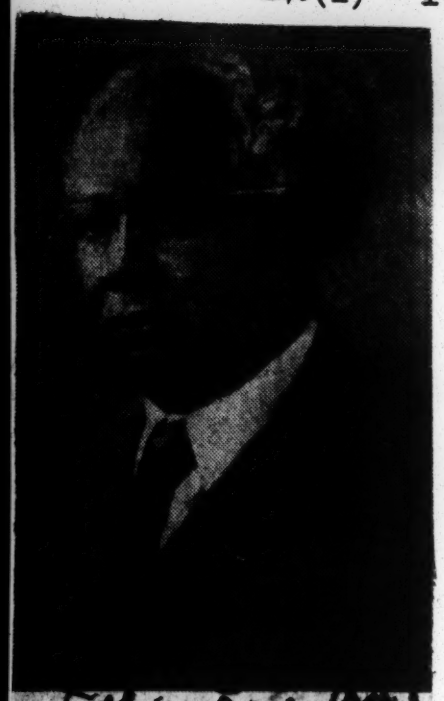
to admit a colored minister.

The action in admitting the Rev. Joseph A. Johnson, Jackson, Tenn., as a student does not affect the other schools of the university.

Religious Student

Vanderbilt Admits Negro

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (ANP)— Vanderbilt University last week ended a ban against Negro students attending the school of religion when the trustees voted



DR. M. C. ALLEN

Dr. Allen is one of the foremost educators of this generation. Since December 3, 1946, when he became president of Virginia Seminary and College Dr. Allen has paid off a $550,000 debt. A new $150,000 library building has been paid for and $150.000 worth of improvements have been paid for over and above operating expenses.

Dr. Allen is editor and publisher of "The Expected," a racial magazine, editor of the Union Review, auditor of the National Baptist Convention of America, lecturer and president of Virginia Theological Seminary and College. Friends of Zion Hill are urged to hear this great preacher and educator Sunday at 11 a. m. at Zion Hill Baptist Church.

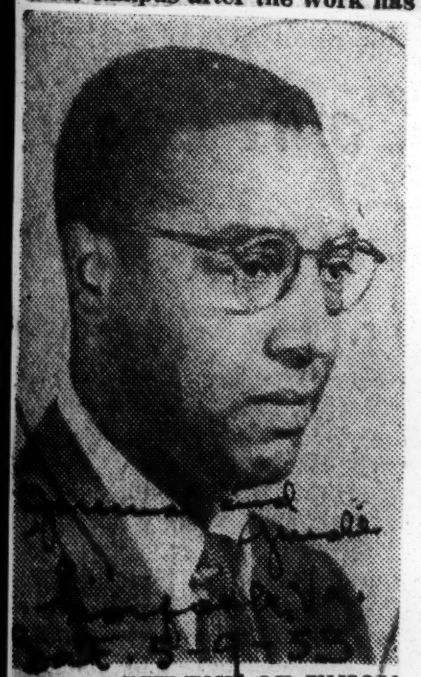
14e(1) 1953

Virginia Union University

Virginia Union Remodels Its Famed Belgian Bldg.

RICHMOND, Va.—(ANP)—Extensive remodeling work in progress on the Belgian Building at Virginia Union University is expected to be completed by the end of this year, according to officials.

The university acquired the Belgian Building twelve years ago from the Belgian Government after its use at the New York World's Fair. A $700,000 refurnishing program was launched six years ago. The building will be the most modern on the campus after the work has been completed.



VICE PRESIDENT OF UNION—Dr. Samuel DeWitt Proctor, dean of the School of Religion at Virginia Union University, was elected vice president of the university at the annual meeting of the board of trustees on Tuesday of last week. Dr. J. W. Barco, who was vice president, was retired last year. Dr. Proctor is a native of Norfolk, Va., and is constantly in demand as a preacher and lecturer at churches, colleges and universities, white and colored.

Voorhees President Quits For Fisk Post

DENMARK, S. C.—Cecil D. Halliburton, president of Voorhees school and junior college last week resigned to become director of admission and registrar at Fisk university, Nashville.

Halliburton had been at the local institution for the last three years. T. H. Moore, dean of the college, will serve as acting president until a successor to Halliburton can be named.

John W. Retires As WVSC Prexy

INSTITUTE, W. Va.—A familiar face disappeared from the educational scene last week as John W. Davis tendered his resignation as president of West Virginia State College. Dr. Davis, currently on leave of absence as director of the Point IV Program in Liberia, was given the title of president-emeritus by the State Board of Education.

Wallace Named President Of W. Va. State

INSTITUTE, W. Va.—Dr. William James Lord Wallace, 45, who has been serving as Acting President of West Virginia State College since Oct. 22, 1952, was named President of the institution by the State Board of Education at a meeting in Charleston Wednesday, April 6.

He succeeds Dr. John W. Davis, President Emeritus of the College, who is now head of the Point Four Program in Liberia, Africa. This program is under the U. S. State Department.

He served in 1933 as assistant professor of Chemistry. By 1943 he had risen to the rank of Professor of Chemistry. He also served as administrative assistant to the president from 1945-51. Prior to coming to W. Va. State, he taught at Livingstone College, N. C. and Lincoln University, Mo

The New State College head is a native of Salisbury, N. C., and is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Wallace. He married Louise Eleanor Wallace December 7. 1929. The Wallaces have one child. Louise Eleanor, a student in Teachers Training High School at Institute.

President Wallace holds a B. S. degree from the University of Pittsburgh; M. A. Columbia and Ph. D. from Cornell University. In the summer of 1947, he did additional work in School Administration at Columbia.

Dr. Wm. Wallace

W. Va. State Names New President

DR. WILLIAM WALLACE
. . . succeeds Dr. Davis

INSTITUTE, W. Va. — Dr. William James Lord Wallace, 45, who has been serving as acting president of West Virginia State College since Oct. 22, 1952, was named president of the institution by the State Board of Education at a meeting in Charleston Wednesday, April 6.

He succeeds Dr. John W. Davis, president-emeritus of the college, who is now head of the Point Four program in Liberia.

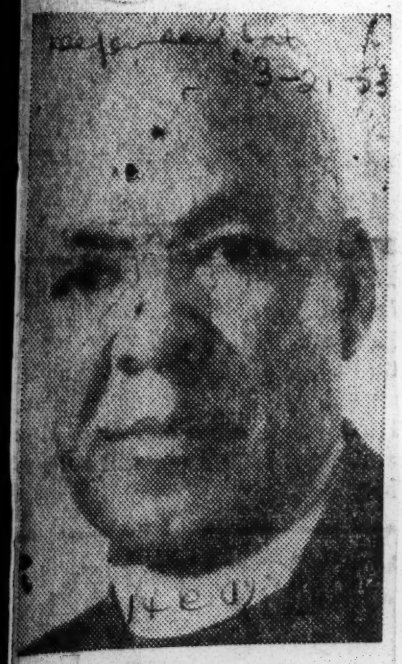
Dr. Wallace came to the school in 1933 as assistant professor of chemistry. By 1943 he had risen to the rank of professor of chemistry. He also served as administrative assistant to the president from 1945-'51. Prior to coming to West Virginia State, he taught at Livingstone College, N. C., and Lincoln University, Mo.

The new State College head is a native of Salisbury, N. C.

He holds a B.S. degree from the University of Pittsburgh; M.A. from Columbia, and the Ph.D. from Cornell University.

AME's Grant Wilberforce University $100,497.42

WILBERFORCE, Ohio — Bishop A. J. Allen, chairman of the board of trustees of Wilberforce university, announced last week at the Founders' Week activities here that a total of $100,497.42 had been raised for the support of Wilberforce university for the first quarter of the year.



BISHOP ALLEN

The announcement climaxed the educational chatauqua of the Third Episcopal district of the AME church over which Bishop Allen presides. The third district which includes Ohio, Western Pennsylvania, and West Virginia contributed $30,000 of the total money.

The rest of the money was distributed as follows: First district, Bishop D. Ward Nichols, $20,000; Fourth district, Bishop George W. Baber, $4,500; and the Fifth district, Bishop D. Ormonde Walker, $30,000. The education department of the church contributed $2,500. Another $3,446.95 came from special efforts of the university student and faculty body.

In addition to this money, Bishop Walker contributed $4,500 on the retirement of the school debt; $3,000 for scholarships; and $12,000 for the support of Payne Theological seminary.

RECORD ATTENDANCE

The chatauqua drew ministers and visitors to the campus from all over the Third district as well as from other parts of the country. The calendar of activities included the Founder's Day sermon by Dr. Charles L. Hill, president of Wilberforce; memorial services for the late Bishop John A. Gregg; a symposium by Dr. Hill and Dr. Milton Wright of the faculty; a fellowship luncheon; an alumni program; a play by faculty members; and as the climax, the Third district rally. The Wilberforce university choir under the direction of Relford Patterson furnished music for many of the events.

ALLEN OVATION

Bishop Allen received an enthusiastic ovation for his leadership of the Third district and as chairman of the university board of trustees. An impromptu rally staged in the dining room of Shorter Hall brought renewed inspiration to the gathering, many of whom are alumni of the school.

Among the trustees present were Mrs. Cora Jordan White of Columbus, Ohio who is a prominent Baptist lay leader. Mrs. White is one of the most zealous supporters of the school. "It's our school and we love it," she said. She is serving her second term as trustee and has been a member of the board for six years.

SYMPOSIUM

During the symposium, Dr. Milton Wright posed the question as to why AME schools have not come in for a share of grants from the great philanthropic foundations. Dr. Wright said that this was largely due to the principle of the church that its schools must operate in freedom independent of any restrictions. Dr. Hill emphasized the conjunction of high religion and intellectuality as a guiding principle of education.

Among those in attendance at the sessions were Mrs. Lucinda Kelley and Mrs. Clara Rice of Springfield, Ohio; Mrs. Exie W. Clement, Cincinnati, Ohio; Rev. F. H. Mason, presiding elder of the Columbus conference and Mrs. Mason; Revs. D. D. Irvin and J. H. Mack, Cleveland; Charles Spivey jr., Pittsburgh; B. M. McLinn, Pittsburgh; Norman Burton, Charleston, W. Va.; George Sims, Cincinnati; A. Sidney King, Cleveland; Wallace Wright, Dayton; and Rev. V. C. Hodges, secretary of the American Bible Society, Cleveland.

14e(1) 1953

COLLEGES, GENERAL
Discrimination

Okay Mixed Schools In College Survey

JACKSON, Miss. — Students throughout the nation — even those in the South — voted recently in favor of integration in colleges.

According to results of a poll taken by the Associated Collegiate Press, the present-day coed and "Joe College" are in favor of attending the same classroom with their colored brothers and sisters.

College students participating in the poll voted 75 per cent against 17 per cent for segregation in colleges.

A breakdown according to geographical area showed students in the South voting 53 percent to 35 percent disapproving of segregation with 12 percent voicing no opinion. This compares to 90 per cent against by students in the North.

Results of the poll were published in the Millsaps college student newspaper. It was endorsed editorially by the publication's editor, Eddie Gossard, who praised the results. Gossard said:

"It is good to know that college students in the country have reached the point in their thinking at which liberalism and the belief that man cannot succeed in fully respecting his fellow man, in realizing the potentials of man as a unit, in believing in the equality of individuals, while separating himself from certain individuals, takes precedence over old prejudices.

"We intend to attempt a rather complete poll of the student body on this campus if such a poll is not forbidden. We understand that such a poll was forbidden some years ago."

Students polled in the nationwide poll were asked:

"What is your opinion of college policies which state that Negroes may not enroll there?"

Against Segregation

If it were left to the nation's college students, segregated education would be a thing of the past.

Seventy-five per cent of the students queried by the Associated College Press didn't quibble over the issue. They said they favored integration.

Only 17 per cent said they favored segregation.

Even in the so-called deep South states, 53 per cent or a majority of the students said they were in favor of dropping racial barriers in higher education.

Of course, this comes as no surprise.

The principal defenders of segregation have always been the politicians. Without it as a rabble-rousing talking point, many a demagogue would never be elected.

The people of the south, particularly the younger generation, have always been ahead of them.

14e(1) 1953

Connecticut Colleges
Discrimination

BIAS BY COLLEGES HIT BY CONNECTICUT BILL

Special to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

HARTFORD, Jan. 27—A bill outlawing discrimination because of race, color or creed in admissions to Connecticut's colleges and universities was introduced in the state senate today by Senator Jack Stock, Democrat of Bridgeport.

The measure stipulates that all non-denominational tax-exempt schools and colleges in the state shall not inquire on their application blanks as to the race, religion, color or national origin of any applicant. The Connecticut Civil Rights Commission was authorized, under terms of the bill, to investigate complaints.

A similar bill introduced in the 1947 and 1949 sessions of the General Assembly was defeated.

Other bills introduced today provide for the construction of a state hospital for incurable cancer patients; legalization of horse racing and pari-mutuel betting; lowering the voting age from 21 to 18 years; consolidating the Superior and Common Pleas Courts and establishing a commission to investigate crime in the state.

Construction of a new toll bridge over the Connecticut River between Windsor Locks and Warehouse Point and setting up a State Department of Co[illegible] are proposed in other me[illegible]

14e(1) 1953

DISCRIMINATION
GENERAL

Trend Toward Non-Segregation

(The Lanett Valley Daily Times-News)

THE Associated College Press has conducted a poll among college students throughout the nation which reflects the trend among this group toward favoring non-segregation in the higher institutions of learning.

Among all students polled, 75% opposed segregation. Among southern college students called, 53% voted against segregation.

It would be interesting to know what percentage of southern students polled are natives of the South. More and more, large numbers of northern and eastern students are enrolling in our southern colleges and universities. These students, if they attended grammar and high schools where non-segregation existed naturally would be more likely to vote against segregation.

Unquestionably, however, there is a marked trend among native southern college students favoring non-segregation. Such an attitude is something for the present-day leaders to think about.

Regardless of what action may be taken now or in the near future regarding this controversial problem, the current straws in the wind indicate that the next southern generation of southerners will look far more favorably on non-segregation than does the present.

Bearing this in mind, most probably the United States Supreme Court will wait to see what happens through normal, evolutionary, democratic processes, before making a ruling on non-segregation in the schools.

By A White Southerner

How To Get More Students Into Mixed Colleges

EDITOR'S NOTE: Occasionally a letter received by an editor has such merit that it warrants unusual treatment. Such was the letter we received from Mrs. Elta Roberts of Abeline, Texas. The treatment we have given her letter does not denote our endorsement of her point of view, but we do feel that it is worthy of your consideration. Please feel free to give us your reaction to what she has written.

By ELTA CAMPBELL ROBERTS

For some ten years I have been seriously interested in the problem of Negro people. If fifteen million people intelligently advance themselves, no power would stop their progress.

As a southern white woman, I am more than willing to confess that we white people are wholly to blame for the situation of Negroes in the United States. However, there is much the Negro can and must do for himself.

All of us know that segregated schools, both high schools and colleges, are inferior to white high schools and white colleges. They always will be.

At this time the poorest kind of student from our Negro high school can enter the Negro colleges of my state and come through with flying colors, causing the Negro parents to believe their children are well educated.

If I were a Negro, and could not go to any school except a Negro college, I would go to a Negro college. Or, if I had been brought up in a high school, where scholarship was very poor, and I therefore doubted I could do the work in an average white school, then I would go to a Negro college.

A white man asked me why I insisted on the right of Negro students to enter white colleges when I had to admit the majority of graduates of Negro high schools were not prepared for a white college. I realize Negro students have been compelled to run around in that vicious circle with little opportunity go get out of that system. I come in contact with numbers of girls and boys who graduated from our Negro high school.

All of us know that none of these graduates is prepared for a high class university. I doubt if the average senior student of our Negro high school could do average work in an average white college. I presume our Negro school is a fair example of Negro schools throughout the South. This condition I attribute to segregation in schools.

But it does seem to me it would not be unreasonable at this time to expect the best students in the graduating class to be able to do average work in an average white college. That would be a big step forward for both the student and the Negro race.

CASE FOR MIXED SCHOOLS

Some Negro teachers recognize the situation and would be ready to make great sacrifice, if necessary, to see the wicked system abolished. I think with pride of a Negro teacher in my town, not now living, who went to a Negro college.

She was grateful for that privilege because it was all she could do at that time. Later on she attended a good mixed school out of the state. It was an eye opener to her. She told me if she had children she would rather they would have two years in a good mixed school than four years in a Negro college.

She was unselfish enough to be willing to lose her job of teaching, if that were necessary, in order to do away with segregated schools. I fear there are some teachers who would be selfish enough to actually oppose abandonment of segregated schools through fear of losing their jobs.

Can't we hear a few of them telling the parents their children "would not be understood" by white teachers? No one could blame a person for wanting a good job, but I wonder if the masses of Negro people will be well enough informed, when such time comes, that they will understand such a teacher is speaking only for his own benefit?

THE GOOD OF THE WHOLE

And will the masses of Negroes be well enough informed to work for the good of their children and for the good of the whole Negro race, and not be misled by a few selfish persons? Some white people will use such Uncle Toms in their effort to retard the progress of the Negro. I would not help segregate my race in order to give work to a few people.

ILL EFFECTS OF BIAS

If possible, a Negro student should not go through a Negro high school and through a Negro college before going to a so-called white school. Segregation does something to a Negro. That something is bad.

I have hesitated to say these things for fear of being regarded as critical. My mother says every time a white person says something derogatory about Negro people, I immediately jump to the defense of the race. I do.

I think it would have been more appropriate for a Negro to say these things. But I felt they were truths that needed to be understood by Negro people as well as by white people. I may be wrong in my ideas of procedure, but I am sincere in my efforts to lend a hand to the advancement of colored people, and I have done what I could.

I have read hundreds of books on race relations in my effort to become intellectually aware of the subject. I have given 10 schools collections of books by or about the Negro. I have written pamphlets and articles on race relations.

HELPS NEGROES

I have loaned money to about one hundred Negro families in my town to buy homes at less cost than loan companies would charge, and, in most cases, where no loan company would make a loan to a Negro.

And it has been mygreatpleas- Negro.

And it has been my great pleasure to make it possible for an African girl to spend four years in the University of Manitoba in Winnipeg, Canada, where she was graduated this year. She lived in the dormitory with the other girls. I could have sent her to a Southern Negro college for less money, but I wanted the best for her and I wanted her treated as an ordinary person.

COLONY WITHIN U. S.

Maybe my methods have been wrong. If the majority of Negroes are content to live in what might be called a colony inside the United States, as the situation now exists, that is the easiest and most comfortable way to face the problem.

The process of integration in our schools is a painful experience for both races. It is much easier to do nothing. But people cannot stand still. They either go forward or backward.

If Negroes believe I am right, this is my suggestion: Why cannot we start a movement to give honor graduates of Negro high schools with the positive stipulation that the scholarship must be used in a white college, the money to be paid directly to the white college?

SCHOLARSHIPS TO WHITE SCHOOLS

There are thousands of individuals among Negroes who could give such scholarships. That is my idea of humanitarian work.

The giving of such scholarships to the best student in the graduating class, for use in a white school, would be an ideal project to interest Parent-Teachers Associations. Likewise, it would be a fine project for local branches of the NAACP. The NAACP has always been opposed to segregation and such a scholarship to a white college would be exactly in line with the principles of the NAACP.

Let's do something besides talk. This would be a small undertaking, but who can measure the results if every honor graduate of every Negro high school in the United States were offered a scholarship to a white college?

TREND TOWARD NON-SEGREGATION

The Lanett Valley Daily Times-News

The Associated College Press has conducted a poll among college students throughout the nation which reflects the trend among this group toward favoring non-segregation in the higher institutions of learning.

Among all students polled, 75% opposed segregation. Among southern college students called 53% voted against segregation.

It would be interesting to know what percentage of southern students polled are natives of the South. More and more, large numbers of northern and eastern students are enrolling in our southern colleges and universities. These students, if they attended grammar and high schools where non-segregation existed naturally would be more likely to vote against segregation.

Unquestionably, however, there is a marked trend among native southern college students favoring non-segregation. Such an attitude is something for the present-day leaders to think about.

Regardless of what action may be taken now or in the near future regarding this controversial problem, the current straws in the wind indicate that the next southern generation of southerners will look far more favorably on non-segregation than does the present.

Bearing this in mind, most probably the United States Supreme Court will wait to see what happens through normal, evolutionary, democratic processes, before making a ruling on non-segregation in the schools.

Discriminating Colleges Warned Against Practice

CHICAGO — (ANP) — The time will come when colleges will not be accredited unless they offer proof they do not permit discrimination.

That was the prediction of Dr. Andrew C. Ivy, vice president of the University of Illinois professional schools in Chicago, before the annual meeting of the executive committee of the Anti-Defamation League of B'nai B'rith at the Palmer House.

He pointed out that there had been an improvement in the admission policies of undergraduate schools since 1946.

However, Dr. Ivy said discrimination still prevails, and in some aspects is more pronounced against Jewish persons. He said educators associated with the Midwest educators conference found evidence thaat ia is asier for colored persons to get into medical school than Jewish persons.

AJC STUDY REVEALS:

Nation's colleges ease JC admission practices

CHICAGO — A report by the American Jewish Committee last week revealed that discrimination in the admission of students to American schools and colleges is showing an "encouraging decrease."

The AJC's report was made prior to the opening of a two-day meeting of its 100-member executive committee, here.

The decline of bigotry against Jewish, Italian and "other minority group students" was analyzed in a presentment based on a 12-month study of the AJC's researchers of college admissions throughout the nation.

Cite Bright Spots

The Northwest and Far West areas were singled out as "the brightest spots" relative to the new gains being made. Substantial progress has been made in the Middle West, it was stated.

Admissions in professional schools, such as medical colleges, have been liberalized to admit more students of minority groups.

It was also noted that discriminatory practices by fraternities and sororities have been banned by the trustees of the University of the State of New York and by student action at Columbia university.

However, it was stated that much work against bias must be done particularly in the South, "where the educational process of fighting prejudice of all types must continue for many years to come."

14e(1) 1953

DISCRIMINATION
GENERAL

MR. DAVIS LEE
DOES NOT WANT SEGREGATION ABOLISHED

Davis Lee's Rear - Guard Action

The notorious Davis Lee and his friends continue to fight their rear-guard action against the inevitable day when first-class citizenship must be accorded to Negro citizens in the United States. The latest piece appearing over his name was published on the editorial page of the Winston-Salem (North Carolina) Journal. He does not want segregation abolished because some Negro school teachers and principals will lose their jobs, and he says that "Down in Texas a Negro college president of a state school gets $15,000 a year."

The pedigree of Davis Lee has been fully exposed in the columns of The Informer on more than one occasion. Suffice it here to say that Negroes have long since lifted their sights to some better jobs than teaching school and, if David Lee does not yet know it, there are many Negroes in other lines in Texas who earn much more than the $15,000 of this one college president.

Instead of settling for a constantly slimmer chance to get a job teaching school, Negroes now want FEPC legislation to open up the thousands of better-paying jobs which are creating the great shortage of white teachers. Davis Lee and his friends need to wake up to the new facts of life.

14e(1) 1953

DISCRIMINATION
MEDICAL SCHOOLS- NEW YORK

Plan Is Offered to End Bias in Medical Schools

Tribune
New York, N.Y.
P. 13
Fri 7-10-53

An eight-point program toward eliminating discrimination in admissions to the nine medical schools of the state was recommended in a report published yesterday by the New York State Board of Regents.

Citing apparent evidence of discrimination on the basis of religion, national origin and "personality," although none appeared on the basis of race or sex, the report calls for "formal and public" statements by the schools of criteria for admission; establishment of a single central bureau for the screening of all applicants and improved handling of applications, as well as further research and study in the field.

Called Basis for Action

The report, prepared by a committee headed by Dr. Howard E. Wilson, executive assistant of the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace, was described by the regents as providing "a significant basis for constructive action by the medical schools, Board of Regents and citizens interested in civil rights as applied to admission to the study of medicine."

The study analyzed the admission policies of the nine medical schools through statistically large samplings of applications and admissions in 1950 and in 1952. It found that scholastic ability, as measured in college marks, is a universal criterion. It found "no evidence of discrimination as to sex and race." But it did find that, although more Jewish students, who submitted 50.4 per cent of the applications in 1952, were admitted than either Protestant or Catholic, a larger proportion of the Protestant and Catholic than of the Jewish applicants was accepted. Twenty per cent of the Jews who applied were successful, while the proportion of the other groups was higher.

Some Exclusions

Further, the study found, "top-ranking Protestant and Catholic students are more certain to be admitted than are top-ranking Jewish students; at the other end of the scholastic scale, low-rating Jewish students are virtually excluded, while occasional low-rating Protestant and Catholic applicants are admitted." Non-Italian Catholics are admitted in the same proportion as Protestants but Italian Catholics have somewhat greater difficulty in obtaining admission.

Deeper analysis, the report said, indicated that other than religious factors are fundamental in the selection of students, among them "national origin and recency of identification with American life and culture." A combination of cultural traits, commonly described as personality, are of "considerable consequence," but the definition and measurement of personality "are so loose and vague at present that illegal discrimination against groups as a whole cannot be proved and cannot be disproved."

Would Continue Studies

The report recommends, therefore, that the State Department of Education continue exploratory studies in this field and that the Regents, in co-operation with other agencies, "initiate basic studies on the nature of personality characteristics and their relation to the professions."

It recommends that each medical school "formally and publicly declare its position respecting discrimination as defined in the Education Practices Act (passed in 1948, forbidding discrimination in admissions to educational institutions on the bases of race, religion, color or national origin) and formulate as explicitly, precisely and comprehensively as possible" its criteria for admission. The medical schools should also improve their handling of applications, it was stated. Undergraduate colleges are urged to develop strengthened guidance of premedical students and to consider having an authorized faculty committee make recommendations on applicants to medical schools.

14e(1) 1953

DISCRIMINATION
PENNSYLVANIA

Biased queries on college entry blanks draw protest

PHILADELPHIA.

Application blanks for admission to Pennsylvania colleges and professional schools have been criticized by the Philadelphia Fellowship commission. The body has just completed a survey of the state's 122 institutions of higher learning.

Nearly 60 per cent of the schools still ask their applicants' race, religion or nationality or require photographs. This was revealed by David L. Ullman, commission vice president. He is also chairman of the organization's educational opportunities committee.

Mr. Ullman pointed out that state schools rejected race, religion and national origin as legitimate criteria for admission of students. This unanimous action was done in Oct., 1949, through the Pennsylvania Association of Colleges and Universities.

Omitted At Large Colleges

The non-discriminatory forms are used by some of the largest institutions and all of the teachers' colleges. In view of this, Mr. Ullman declared, the commission sees no reason why the other schools need racial or religious designation.

We are negotiating with schools which still ask these questions, he said. We hope they will drop the practice voluntarily, thus removing need for legislation, he emphasized.

When the commission made its first study in 1950, nearly 75 per cent of the schools asked discriminatory questions or required photographs. There has been a 15 per cent improvement, Mr. Ullman stated.

14e(1) 1953

EARLHAM COLLEGE
DISCRIMINATION

Earlham's out of step

Earlham college, the little Quaker school at Richmond, Indiana, is back in the headlines.

Stephen Wersan, of New York, has been dismissed as editor of the school newspaper. His offense was permitting publication of an editorial opposing the institution's ban on interracial dating.

You may remember Earlham college attracted public attention last May when it ousted a white student, Robert McAllester of Ithaca, New York.

Mr. McAllester had just announced his intention to wed Grace Cunningham, of Oakland, California, another student, who happened to be colored. Both had received the blessings of their parents.

It was after this incident that Earlham President Thomas E. Jones made public the school's unwritten law against students dating across the color line.

"When we see such a couple getting interested in each other," he said, "we counsel them against such an association.

"If they are defiant about it, then we take other steps. Those steps could include dismissal from school."

This policy, asserted Dr. Jones, dates back to the Civil War period when Earlham first opened its doors to colored students.

The Civil War was fought 90 years ago. Since then tremendous progress has been made toward solving America's perplexing problem of human relations.

The shape of a person's nose, the shade of his eyes, the texture of his hair or even the color of his skin are no longer important as they were nearly a century ago.

The belief that whom a person selects for his life's companion is his own business and completely outside the province of the state, the church or his school has won almost universal acceptance.

The Quaker church has been in the forefront of the campaign to bring about this change in public opinion.

For that reason it is difficult to understand how Earlham college and its president managed to fall so far behind. Both need to get in step with the times.

College Editor Fired For Printing Article On Interracial Dates

RICHMOND, Ind. — (INS) — Stephan Wersan, of New York, was ousted Sunday as editor of the Earlham College Post because of [illegible] in that publication urging interracial dating.

The publication's advisory board, composed of five students and a faculty member told Wersan he violated principles of good journalism by permitting a student not identified with the staff of the paper to write an unsigned article which appeared on page 1 of the Nov. 18 issue in which partisan opinion was expressed as news."

The quaker college banned interracial dating last year after two students were expelled because of an interracial marriage.

Wersan said he regretted his action and announced he would ask the board to reinstate him on probation but the board refused to do so.

Interracial dating has been frowned on since last year when two Earlham students, a Negro and a Caucasian were married after a campus romance.

Ind. school fires editor

14e(1), Discrimination

Student hit ban on mixed dating

RICHMOND, Ind. — The student editor of the Earlham college newspaper, Stephen Wersan of 636 W. 136th st., New York City, last week was fired from his position for permitting publication of an editorial opposng the college's ban on interracial dating.

According to a spokesman for Thomas E. Jones, president of the Quaker institution, Wersan was dismissed by the advisory board because he violated the principles of good journalism by permitting a student, not identified with the paper, to write an unsigned editorial expressing partisan opinion.

The spokesman added that the college had stiffened its ban on dating across the color lines since a white senior married a colored classmate last year.

Policy Not New

It was stated that the policy is not new. "It has always been our policy to discourage colored and white students from dating, since we first started admitting colored students during the Civil War," the spokesman said.

It was pointed out that the school dismissed Robert McAllester of Ithaca, N.Y., in 1952, after he announced that he intended to marry Miss Grace Cunningham, a colored classmate.

They were eventually married with the consent of their parents.

The spokesman stated that whenever it is seen that an interracial couple is dating, "we counsel them against such association. If they are defiant, then we take other steps." The student editor, it was said, has asked to be reinstated.

14e(1) 1953

Georgia Institute of Technology
Discrimination

MOREHOUSE STUDENT APPLIES FOR ADMISSION TO GA. TECH

Regents Tighten Rules As Boyd Attacks "Deception"

14e(1) Discrimination

Georgia NAACP officials revealed yesterday that a Morehouse college freshman has applied for admission to Georgia Institute of Technology as regents of the university system moved to tighten entrance requirements at all white state schools.

Dr. William Boyd, state president of the NAACP, said that Robert Cheeseboro, of Columbus, Ga., applied for admission to the lily-white, state-supported industrial school February 28, 1953. He released copies of the correspondence with school officials and a letter from L. R. Seibert, executive secretary of the board of recents, which offered the student out of state aid because Georgia has provided a program "for the instruction of Negro citizens....in those fields of study offered to the white citizens."

On March 10, 1953, Cheeseboro declined this offer and asked Seibert to return his application to the registrar at Georgia Tech for evaluation. Dr. Boyd said no answer has been received.

ENTRANCE EXAMS

Wednesday the regents authorized all units of the university system to give entrance examinations, and to require prospective students to submit certificates from university alumni attesting to their good character and proof of their legal residence.

Seibert's letter to Cheeseboro listed twelve "excellent" schools one student could attend out of state aid. Five of these were Negro institutions.

SPENCER HIGH

Cheeseboro, a graduate of Spencer High School in Columbus, Ga., is attending mechanical engineering.

The regents alleged that their action yesterday was an attempt to reduce scholastic failures. The key issue in the pending Horace Ward case is an IQ test which was made mandatory after Ward applied to the University of Georgia Law School.

BOARD SPOKESMAN

A board spokesman claimed that the action has nothing to do with attempts of Horace Ward to enter the University of Georgia Law School, but Dr. Boyd charged that it is an "obvious attempt" to keep Negroes from registering at Georgia Tech and other white state schools. He said:

"No matter what they do, we shall continue to fight. We shall continue our efforts to get first-class educational institutions for all citizens."

Georgia Tech officials could not be reached last night for comment.

The AU professor also commented that the regents' action "undermines the argument of good faith which [illegible] after adopting an ex post facto law (IQ test) and applying it to Ward's application which was pending at the time."

The Ward case is pending in Federal court.

Ga. Regents Would Close Schools By Stiffer Tests

Ans Cmsicus, p. 3

14e (1) Discrimination

ATLANTA, Ga. (ANP) — Georgia NAACP officials revealed last week that a Morehouse College freshman has applied for admission to the lily-white Georgia Institute of Technology in Atlanta.

Regents of the University System are now moving to tighten entrance requirements at all white state schools.

Dr. William M. Boyd, state president of the NAACP, said that Robert Cheeseboro of Columbus, Ga., applied for admission to the industrial and technological school on Feb. 28.

Boyd released copies of correspondence with school official including a letter from L. R. Seibert, executive secretary of the board of regents, which offered the student out-of-state aid.

On March 10, Cheeseboro declined this offer and asked Seibert to refer his application back to the registrar at Georgia Tech for evaluation. Dr. Boyd said the student has received no answer from this request nor has he heard from the registrar.

Last Wednesday, the regents directed all units of the system to give entrance examinations, and in addition, to require all prospective students to submit certificates from university alumni attesting to their good character and proof of their legal residence.

14e(1) 1953

HARDIN JUNIOR COLLEGE (Wichita Falls, Texas)
DISCRIMINATION

Texas College Must Admit Negro Students

NEW ORLEANS — Negro students must be admitted to Hardin Junior College, Wichita Falls, Tex., the United States Fifth Circuit Court of Appeals ruled Friday in upholding a decision of the Federal District Court for the Northern District of Texas in the case of Willie Faye Hatter and five other Negro students against the Wichita Falls Junior College District.

14e(1) 1953

JUNIOR COLLEGE, WICHITA FALLS, TEXAS
DISCRIMINATION

Texas School Fights To Preserve Segregation

WASHINGTON, D.C. (NNPA) —The Wichita Falls (Texas) Junior College District last Tuesday asked the United States Supreme Court to review the judgment of lower federal courts ordering the admission of six colored students to the lily-white Hardin Junior College at Wichita Falls.

The petitioners regard the case as important to American law as any of the five school segregation cases which the Supreme Court has ordered reargued next October 12.

If the judgment of the lower federal courts stands, the petitioners assert, there can be no segregation at all in Texas. Unless the decision is reversed by the Supreme Court, they say, it will apply alike to all schools—senior colleges, junior colleges, high schools and elementary schools, whether white or colored.

AS THE petitioners interpret the decision, both colored and white students will attend the school closest to their homes, even if there are equivalent facilities separately offered within the state, county, district, city or other geographical subdivision of the state.

If there had been two junior colleges within the Wichita Falls Junior College District, one for colored students and the other for whites, the petitioners assert, the colored plaintiffs would have won anyway in the Federal District Court even if the junior college provided for them had been a little closer and less expensive.

* * *

THE PETITIONERS declare that the decision "is a death blow to segregation in Texas, whose constitution and laws prescribe separate though equal facilities."

The case grew out of efforts of six colored students to matriculate at Hardin Junior College. They were denied admission under the Texas constitution and laws solely because they are colored.

The petitioners state that there are two other schools with equivalent facilities maintained solely for colored students, which, it was thought, met the requirements of the Texas constitution and laws which require separate but equal educational opportunities for colored and white students.

THE SIX COLORED applicants brought suit to compel their admission, and the Federal District Court ordered them admitted. The Fifth United States Circuit Court of Appeals at New Orleans affirmed the decision. From that judgment the petitioners are appealing to the Supreme Court.

They content that the Court of Appeals has decided a federal question in a way probably in conflict with the applicable decisions of this court, but the brief in support of the petition does not point out the decisions with which this latest ruling on segregation in education is in conflict.

Although the Federal District Court found that there are in Texas two institutions of higher learning that are in all things equal to Hardin Junior College, and which are maintained solely for colored students, the petition states, it ruled that exclusion of colored students from Hardin Junior College was unlawful discrimination under the Fourteenth Amendment to the Federal Constitution.

* * *

THIS DECISION was based on the finding that neither of the two colored institutions was within the Wichita Falls Junior College District and that it would be more costly and less convenient for colored students to attend one of the colored schools than the one provided for white students in Wichita Falls.

In an effort to make the decision appear ridiculous, the petitioners argue that nowhere has a court ever held that equivalent facilities for higher education must be provided "within the boundaries of every hamlet, town, village and city within a state."

Such a decision, the petitioners add, "would destroy the very concept of segrgeation. The Federal Constitution only requires that equivalent facilities for higher education need be maintained within the state."

The attorney for the Wichita Falls Junior College District is Guy Rogers of Wichita Falls, Texas. On the brief with him are Thelbert Martin, C. C. McDonald, and Paul W. Eggers, all of Wichita Falls.

14e(1) 1953

LOUISIANA STATE UNIVERSITY
DISCRIMINATION

LSU ADMITTANCE SOUGHT BY NEGRO

Middleton Denies Action Taken at Board Meet

(The Times-Picayune Capital Bureau)

BATON ROUGE, La., Aug. 1 — Troy H. Middleton, president of Louisiana State university, confirmed here Saturday that the son of A. P. Tureaud, New Orleans Negro attorney, has applied for admission to the university's undergraduate college of arts and sciences.

He said that he has been instructed by the university board of supervisors in the past to report applications for admission by Negroes to the board and reject them unless otherwise instructed by the courts or the board.

The board of supervisors during a two-hour executive session at a meeting Saturday reportedly discussed the application by A. P. Tureaud Jr.

Both Middleton and J. Stewart Slack, Shreveport, board president, denied that any action had been taken on Tureaud's application during the executive meeting.

No Further Comment

Slack, asked for further comment about the executive session, referred reporters to Middleton, who declined to reveal subjects discussed during the executive session.

Asked about reports that Leander Perez, district attorney for Plaquemines and St. Bernard parishes, had been hired to represent the university in future segregation cases, Middleton said the board had not retained Perez.

Perez could not be reached immediately for comment.

The courts have ruled that LSU must admit Negro students when Negro colleges do not offer equal facilities. These rulings have been in line with a decision by the United States supreme court.

Under this policy Negroes have been admitted to LSU's graduate schools and for instruction in subjects which Negro colleges in the state do not teach. However, none have been admitted previously to the college of arts and sciences, largest of the university's undergraduate schools.

Program Not Offered

Middleton said that Tureaud has applied for admission so that he can take a combined arts and sciences and law course.

As the program is set up at LSU a student can attend the arts and sciences college for three years, then transfer to the law school and receive his bachelor of arts degree at the end of four years and his LLB at the end of six years.

Middleton said that Southern university, Negro institution five miles north of Baton Rouge, does not have such a program to his knowledge.

The United States supreme court now has under consideration cases involving segregation of races in public schools.

On another subject, Middleton told the board that the university is faced with a serious shortage of housing facilities for women students.

Board Has Choice

He said the board has a choice of either building a new dormitory or converting the building now being used as an adult education center into a dormitory.

Middleton warned that there would be "tremendous repercussions" if the university ever discontinued its adult education program.

He also told the board that it will take about $300,000 to bring the salaries of LSU personnel up to the minimum scale set by civil service and that it will take another $400,000 to bring the salaries of university personnel not under civil service in line.

Among the actions taken by the board were:

(1) Approval of the sale of $300,000 in bonds from a $6 million bond issue authorized in 1950 for the construction of a gymnasium at Northeast Louisiana State college, a branch of LSU at the time the bond issue was authorized.

Grants Accepted

(2) Adoption of a resolution providing that sons and daughters of members of the consular service of foreign countries, residing in Louisiana, be exempted from having to pay out-of-state admission fees at LSU except for the medical school.

(3) Accepted $82,550 in gifts and grants-in-aid.

(4) Approved appointment of John A. Thompson, professor of Spanish and director of the university's Latin-American relations as chairman of the newly organized department of ancient and modern foreign languages.

(5) Authorized the holding of a "parent's day."

This last action was taken on the recommendation of LSU president Middleton, who told the board that one day should be selected during the regular school year for parents of university students to visit the campus.

Will Select Day

He said a day would be chosen when there are a minimum of conflicting activities and the facilities of the university's Pleasant Hall, university conference center, would be available.

Mrs. Ella V. Aldrich Schwing, Plaquemine, remarked that she thought a "Parents' Day" would "be a very good public relations idea."

A discussion by Middleton of the board's policy on scholarships stimulated some comments from board members on the two $60 fee exemption scholarships each member is entitled to give.

Mrs. Schwing remarked that she was a little bit irked at students awarded scholarships who then join fraternities and sororities.

Suggest Postponement

"If they can afford to belong to these organizations," she said, "they don't need the scholarships.

"The sum of $60 doesn't mean the difference between going to college and not going. I wonder if we couldn't hold up on these scholarships for a few years and give the accumulated sum to some deserving student."

Lewis Gottlieb, Baton Rouge board member, suggested postponing any policy decision on scholarships until a study now being made by the university on this subject is completed.

Mrs. Schwing said she had adopted a policy of giving her scholarships to deserving students regardless of whether they came from her home parish of Iberville or not. She added that some people in her parish have been critical of this policy.

Grade Average Cited

James M. McLemore, Alexandria board member, observed that the fee exemption scholarships are so small they are of "very little help to anyone who needs a scholarship."

J. E. Smitherman, Shreveport board member, raised the question of whether students receiving these scholarships should not be limited to those who maintained a "B" average in high school.

He said that many of the students he had awarded scholarships "drop out like flies" because they cannot meet university scholastic standards.

Middleton said in this connection there are two schools of thought.

"One school believes that only certain people should go to college," he said. "I am not of this school which is supported by certain extremist educators."

He said that he had seen students who entered college with poor educational and environmental backgrounds score outstanding successes in later years.

The board was informed Saturday that legislation may be introduced at the next session to shorten the 14-year terms of members.

President Middleton distributed copies of a survey prepared by the Legislative Council outlining the makeup and functions of similar boards in other states.

Middleton said the survey prepared by the council, official research arm of the Legislature, was made at the request of Rep. James Gardner of Shreveport.

"Gardner says he is going to introduce a bill to cut down our 14-year terms," said member Margaret Dixon of Prairieville. "And I understand that Gov. (Robert) Kennon will back it."

Two previous attempts to shorten the terms of board members failed in recent Legislatures. Middleton said he had read the council's findings and "from what I can gather, with the exception of the duration of your terms, you are not out of line with the general run of similar universities.

"One state board has an 18-year term but the average is about 7 to 10. But everything else seems to be observed elsewhere in various other states."

Lawyer Tureaud's Son Is Plaintiff, Hearing Sept. 2

...ge J. Skelly Wright's U. S. ... Court in New Orleans ... scene of proceedings ...day morning (Sept. ... in the lawsuit ...ursday in be... ...eaud, Jr., 17-year-old son of the prominent New Orleans attorney, who is seeking admission to the Louisiana State University undergraduate college of arts and sciences.

The June, 1953 graduate of S. Clark High school will be represented by A. M. Trudeau, Jr., an associate of Atty. Tureaud; Chief NAACP Counsel Thurgood Marshall and Robert L. Carter, an assistant.

The suit was filed late last Thursday by A. M. Trudeau, Jr.

Young Tureaud was an honor graduate of Clark High and maintained a general average of 89 during his entire hign school career, but had the highest average of 94 in the industrial arts department from which he received a medal of honor.

The medal was awarded him by Jesse O. Richard, principal of the school.

He is the second eldest of six children of the Tureaud family which resides at 3121 Pauger. The eldest is Miss Sylvia Tureaud, a junior in elementary education at Xavier university.

Young Tureaud told newsmen this week that since the fifth grade in the Valena C. Jones school, he wanted to be a lawyer. "That's why I joined the debating society at Clark," he said. Tuesday during an interview.

Asked if he had another choice of school if the court rules against his request for a preliminary injunction against the officials of LSU, Tureaud unsmilingly retorted: "I have no other choice. LSU is my choice. His father, who has won many battles in education and who has challenged racial barriers in countless "class action" suits filed in Louisiana, filed and won his first suit against LSU in 1950 in behalf of Roy Wilson for admission to the medical school of LSU.

Several hundred Negroes have been admitted to LSU in schools of nursing for admission on the basis of color or race.

Defendants in last Thursday's suit were the LSU board of supervisors, Gen. Troy H. Middleton, superintendent, and Registrar John in the past three years.

The petition asked a three-judge court and urged a preliminary injunction. It also stressed that the defendants "should not make any distinction on the basis of color or race."

Subsequent cases were filed in U. S. Supreme court decision on Jr., admission to the undergraduate school when he applied for admission four weeks ago.

The petition asked a three-judge court and urged a preliminary injunction. It also stressed that the defendants "should not make any distinction on the basis of color or race."

Several hundred Negroes have been admitted to LSU in schools of nursing for admission on the basis of color or race.

Several hundred Negroes have been admitted to LSU in schools of medical school of LSU.

Defendants in last Thursday's suit were the LSU board of supervisors, Gen. Troy H. Middleton, superintendent, and Registrar John in the past three years.

Tureaud's reason for wanting to enter the LSU undergraduate school of arts and sciences is "because there is no other institution maintained by the state where the plaintiff can obtain advantages involved in the combination courses here offered, nor combine his college and law school work to the same extent and on equal level scholarship and intensity as in the school of LSU . . ."

LSU Sued By Student

NEW ORLEANS — Acting in behalf of his son, A. P. Tureaud Jr., 17, Atty. Alexander P. Tureaud Sr. filed a suit in U. S. court asking admission of the plaintiff or any other Negro applicant to any college, school, division or department of Louisiana State University and Agricultural College in Baton Rouge.

If the demands for a preliminary or interlocutory injunction and permanent injunction requested in the petition are approved the defendants will immediately be restrained from denying admission to Negroes to ISU undergraduate schools solely because of race or color.

The plaintiff was graduated in June, 1953, from Joseph S. Clark High School, New Orleans, a state-approved high school. He is seeking admission to the combined liberal arts and law curriculum, a six-year course.

* * *

DEFENDANTS NAMED in the brief were Tom W. Dutton, president of the LSU Board of Supervisors; Troy H. Middleton, president, and John A. Hunter, registrar of Louisiana State University.

Less than a month ago the LSU Board of Supervisors refused young Tureaud's application to the combined Bachelor of Arts-Law School for undergraduate students, mainly because of a university policy of restricting admission to the undergraduate department of LSU to white students.

Other attorneys for the plaintiff are Robert L. Carter, New York, and Thurgood Marshall, New York, of the NAACP's legal staff.

Judge Takes Case Under Advisement

A decision in the case of 17-year-old A. P. Tureaud Jr., 1953 graduate of the Joseph S. Clark high school and son of a prominent New Orleans attorney whose case was heard before Judge J. Skelly Wright in the United States District court is expected momentarily this week following arguments in the case here on Tuesday.

The judge took the case under advisement and announced that a ruling would be announced this week.

The plaintiff is seeking admission to the undergraduate college of arts and sciences at Louisiana State University after applying for admission early last month and was denied admittance by the board of supervisors of LSU, because the plaintiff is a Negro.

New York attorney Robert L. Carter of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, told the court that Tureaud seeks admission to LSU's undergraduate school of arts and sciences because he could not get this kind of course at Southern university since there are unequal facilities.

Carter contended that the issue of segregation as such is not a matter before the court.

He pointed out that he was not saying that Southern university is not a good school, but that the issue involved was the inequality of the combined courses offered by Southern and LSU.

He said LSU offers law combined with arts and sciences, geology and commerce whereas Southern offers law combined with political science, English and mathematics. He further declared that no degree has ever been awarded by Southern in a university program of combined courses in the field such as at LSU.

LSU has an annual budget of more than $12 million for some 6400 students or an expenditure of about $1875 per student while Southern has a budget at $2 million and a student expenditure of $689 for approximately 2900 students.

The defense represented by a battery of 21 attorneys contended that Southern is equal to LSU and displayed attractive pictures of buildings, structures under construction, campus scenes to prove their point.

Those who argued this were W. Scott Wilkinson and Leander H. Perez who represented the board.

Perez, who is reputed to be the top leader in the nation's Dixiecrat movement, declared that young Tureaud was ungrateful for the expenditures which the state had spent to improve Negro education as the some "3000 happy students at Southern university" proved.

Another defense attorney, L. W. Brooks filed a motion to dismiss the case on grounds that Tureaud seeks an injunction against LSU preventing LSU from precluding the admission of Negroes as such.

"Because of the history, traditions, customs and the usages of the people of Louisiana, segregation of white and black is necessary in this state to preserve and to promote more friendly relations and mutual understanding between white and colored persons. Segregation has meant progress in the Negro race and the absence of race riots, which prove the wisdom of such practices, argued the defense.

Names of other defense attorneys attached to the petition included Fred S. LeBlanc, attorney general; W. C. Penault, first assistant attorney general; James R. Fuller, C. V. Porter, J. H. Tucker Jr., Fred Blanche, A. O'Quinn, Victor A. Sachse, R. B. Sadler Jr., H. C. Sevier, A. H. Shepherd Jr., Grove Stafford, Oliver Stockwell and Wood Thompson.

Several spectators both white and Negro sat in the court room during the two and one half hour court hearing and listened to the case.

Young Tureaud was not called to testify.

Negro Fights Ban at LSU

NEW ORLEANS —(UP)— A 17-year-old New Orleans Negro sought a preliminary court injunction Tuesday to prohibit the Louisiana State University board of supervisors from banning Negroes from the undergraduate school "solely on the grounds of race and color."

A. P. Tureaud, Jr., son of a New Orleans Negro attorney, was denied admission to the university's undergraduate school for "racial reasons."

Arguments on the case were heard before Judge J. Skelly Wright in federal District court. Wright indicated he may hand down a ruling in the case this week.

Foreigners Welcome, Negroes Must Sue

ONE of democracy's most glaring imperfections was clearly observed in recent weeks in two news items relating to Louisiana State University. The first item dealt with a young Negro student desiring to pursue a special course at LSU that was not offered at any other state supported school, and his subsequent suit against the school for admittance in which Federal Judge Wright ruled in favor of the student, A. P. Tureaud, Jr.

The second item dealt with the recent announcement by Dr. John A. Thompson, advisor to foreign students for the University that 450 foreigners are enrolled at LSU representing 57 nations.

Foreigners from all over the world are encouraged and permitted to attend and pursue various courses of study at LSU while American citizens of Negro descent have to resort to the courts. In this great southland of professed democracy Negroes are denied equal educational opportunities, because the great gods of "white supremacy" and "segregation" in Louisiana must be respected, even though such an attitude continually threatens to stifle any realization of making democracy work as the U. S constitution intended it to.

Old die-hards such as represented in the 21 eminent lawyers who argued the case for LSU in the Tureaud suit are responsible for making our alleged American way of life so obviously inconsistent with our democratic preachments. This old guard wants to tell the students and returning war veterans that despite three wars in the name of preserving democracy that Negroes are still not entitled to enjoy it the same way as any other American . . . with no strings (segregation) attached. Perhaps if the old guard had spent two years as prisoners of war in Korea they would have a profound interest in seeing to it that democracy works the same way for ALL people in the United States. Smug, secure, and selfish they are naturally interested only in the status quo and not all the people.

A foreign exchange visitor, in this country to learn how democracy works, commented recently to the writer, "How can many foreign visitors feel that same way after visiting the South? I keep my eyes closed to such undemocratic practices here in the South? It bears a remarkable similarity to the way Hitler treated the Jews. I just can't understand how democracy is practiced in the South . . . It's not democracy, it's white supremacy . . . Deep down in my heart I cannot respect a country that does not have the moral courage to practice what it preaches." How many foreign visitors feel that same way after visiting the South? At least ninety percent feel this way. Yet almost daily they are coming to this country to learn how democracy works, comparable little or no attempt Still the South makes to put democracy's best foot forward. Such blind ignorance is tragically pathetic.

Ruling opening LSU classes to Negro students is reversed

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 29—(AP)—A ruling that opened certain courses at Lousiana State University to qualified Negroes was headed back to federal district court today for action after reversal by the U. S. Fifth Circuit Court of Appeals.

The appellate court yesterday handed down a two to one opinion reversing the ruling of Federal District Judge Skelly Wright who had ruled that Negroes could attend the combined arts and sciences and law courses at LSU.

THE CASE was brought by A. P. Tureaud Jr., 17-year-old New Orleans Negro. His father, an attorney, asked for an injunction to restrain the board of supervisors of LSU from refusing to admit Negroes unless forced to do so by court order.

LSU asked the higher court for a stay order and appeal from judgment issuing a preliminary injunction.

The attorney said he had not decided his next step but that it might be to apply to the U. S. Supreme Court for a writ of certiorari. If granted this would suspend the appellate court ruling pending further study by the Supreme Court.

High school, who enrolled at LSU September 18, had asked for an injunction restraining the LSU board of supervisors from pursuing a policy of refusing to admit Negroes unless forced to do so by court order.

The circuit court sent the case back to Judge Wright after holding a two-to-one decision that the case should have been tried by three judges and that the judge did not have jurisdiction to hear it alone.

The circuit court opinion, which was handed down on a motion by the LSU board of supervisors for a stay order and on appeal from judgment issuing a preliminary injunction, did not pass on the merits of the case.

Meanwhile LSU will not act until a study of the opinion handed down by the appellate court has been made.

Although Judge Wright previously had denied the motion for a new trial and refused to grant a stay of execution of his injunction, he did grant an appeal to the Circuit Court of Appeals which rendered its opinions.

Representing young Tureaud in his effort to remain at the university where educational equalities are prevalent were his father, A. P. Tureaud, Sr., Robert L. Carter of the NAACP national office legal staff, and U. Simpson Tate, NAACP regional counsel of Dallas, Texas. Reliable sources indicate that the case will be fought to the highest court in the land.

It was learned that young Tureaud is still attending classes where his courses of study include English, mathematics, advanced Spanish, military science and physical education. These are the courses prescribed for him as a freshman in the combined undergraduate school, leading to a degree in the LSU school of law.

He lives in the stadium dormitory where he occupies a room by himself. He is also a member of the Air Force ROTC.

Circuit Court Rules 2-1 On Technicality

The LSU-A. P. Tureaud, Jr. case took a "new look" last week when the U. S. Fifth Circuit Court of Appeals held that a federal judge exceeded his authority when he ruled Sept. 11 that qualified Negroes must be admitted to combined arts and sciences and law courses at the state university.

An appeal to the U. S. Supreme Court has been filed against the U. S. Fifth Circuit Court's decision, according to Attorney A. P. Tureaud, father and legal counsel of the 17-year-old student.

Judge Skelly Wright, who upheld the attorneys for the plaintiff, ruled that equal facilities were not available at Southern and issued a temporary injunction ordering the admission of Tureaud.

The 1953 graduate of Clark

Tureaud Case In High Court

BATON ROUGE — A. P. Tureaud Jr., 17, first Negro undergraduate student in the history of Louisiana State University, has carried his fight to stay in the university to the United States Supreme Court.

LSU attorneys said that Tureaud has appealed to the high court to review his case and in the meantime hold up other court action that would oust him from the university.

The youth, son of a New Orleans attorney, was admitted to LSU at the start of the present term under a Federal District Court ruling by Judge J. Skelly Wright which was reversed recently by the United States Fifth Circuit Court of Appeals.

Negro Wins School Plea

WASHINGTON —(UP)— The Supreme Court Monday assured continued attendance of Alexander P. Tureaud, Jr., 17-year-old Negro, at Louisiana State University, pending final determination of his suit to gain admission.

Tureaud obtained an order in the United States District court at Baton Rouge requiring the university to admit him.

But the Circuit Court of Appeals reversed the action.

On petition from Tureaud, the high court by an 8-0 vote stayed the Circuit court of appeals verdict until it could be appealed.

LSU Ousts Negro

BATON ROUGE — Louisiana State University on Armistice Day ousted 17-year-old Alexander P. Tureaud Jr., its first Negro undergraduate student, even while the United States Supreme Court is weighing his request for a review. LSU's public relations bureau said the action was taken on the advice of LSU attorneys following the Federal Appeals Court's reversal of the lower court injunction that ordered Tureaud's admission.

Young Tureaud, son of a prominent New Orleans attorney, left LSU after receiving the following letter, dated Nov. 10:

"Please be advised that your registration in the Louisiana State University and Agricultural and Mechanical College has been cancelled as of this date in compliance with the rules and regulations of the Board of Supervisors of Louisiana State University and Agricultural and Mechanical College, and in accordance with the direction of the president of said university.

"This action has been taken for the reason that the order of temporary or preliminary injuction heretofore issued out of the United States District Court, Eastern District of Louisiana, in the suit of Alexander P. Tureaud Jr. v. Board of Supervisors of Louisiana State University and Agricultural and Mechanical College, et al, No. 1238 on the Civil Docket of said court, under which you were admitted to the university, has been vacated and set aside by a judgment of said court rendered on Nov. 9, 1953. All fees which you have paid to the university will be refunded."

The letter was signed by John A. Hunter, registrar of LSU.

Young Tureaud filed application to enter LSU late last summer and went into the Federal Court after LSU stated its official policy of not admitting Negroes except when directed by court order.

IN SEPTEMBER, Federal Judge J. Skelly Wright ordered LSU to admit the youth. However, LSU attorneys took the case to the U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals and won a reversal on grounds that Judge Wright had exceeded his authority and that the matter should have been tried before a three-judge court.

LSU President Troy H. Middleton was reportedly in Columbus, Ohio, attending a land grant college meeting last week when Tureaud was ousted.

Interviewed in New Orleans, Attorney Tureaud said he was present at LSU when his son was handed the letter cancelling his registration. His son returned home and is awaiting the U. S. Supreme Court's ruling on his request for a stay in judgment.

Following his admission, Young Tureaud had lived on the LSU campus without incident.

Tureaud Heads Back to LSU

BATON ROUGE, La.— Alexander P. Tureaud Jr., is preparing to return to his classes at Louisiana State university from which he was excluded on November 11.

His right to return to the university was indicated by the United States Supreme Court, which on November 16, granted a stay of the Circuit Court's judgment pending determination by the Supreme Court of the validity of the district court judge's ruling ordering admission of the student.

Young Tureaud, son of the well known New Orleans civil rights attorney, A. P. Tureaud, was admitted to the university as its first Negro undergraduate on order of the United States District Court. On appeal by the university, the U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals voided the lower court decision on the ground that the suit should have been heard by a three judge court rather than by a single district court judge.

The student, together with other lawyers of the Nation-NAACP attorneys Robert L. Carter, general Association counsel, and Advancement of Colored People, promptly sought a stay of judgment from Justice Hugo L. Black, who in turn, referred the petition to the full court. Two days later, university officials without waiting for the Court's

A Wise Decision

Everyone with a sense of justice and fair play must agreee that the United States Supreme Court acted correctly in reinstating a temporary injunction that will enable A. P. Tureaud, jr. to continue his education while a legal technicality over the admittance of Negroes to Louisiana State university is being cleared up.

We can't destroy the feeling that there was something vicious and vindictive in the attitude of the university in fighting to oust him from his classes when the inevitable outcome of the case must be delivered in his favor.

It as always been a source of amazement to us that school officials are so often intolerant ignorant and backward when it comes to keeping abreast of public sentiment and developments in the field of social relations.

A current example can be found at the University of Georgia where the students favor the abolition of racial segregation in education and the regents are foolhardy enough to try to muffle the voices of the students.

The situation in which young Tureaud finds himself is certainly not enviable. Here is a young man, 17, who wants to attend Louisiana State university.

A native of New Orleans here his father, an attorney is a taxpayer he has every reason to be allowed to enroll there. Even considering the peculiarities of the South, he should have had no hesitation about applying for admittance since the issue of whether he a Negro could attend had already been settled in several cases that had gone to the U. S. Supreme Court.

After finally winning the right to enroll, the school fighting against admitting a Negro, won its point in U. S. Circuit court on a technicality.

Seizing upon the decision, which isn't final, the youth was expelled from his classes. Now the U. S. Supreme Court which has yet to rule upon the issue involved has ordered him readmitted pending its decision.

The young man must be in a state of confusion and bewilderment and certainly under a terrific handicap of uncertainty that doesn't affect his white classmates.

COURT ACTS TO KEEP TUREAUD IN SCHOOL

WASHINGTON, D. C.—(NNPA)—The United States Supreme Court acted Monday to keep Alexander P. Tureaud, 17-year-old student of New Orleans, in Louisiana State University until his legal right to admission is finally disposed of.

The court granted the application of Mr. Tureaud for a stay of the judgment of the Fifth United States Circuit Court of Appeals until final disposition of the petition for review of the case is acted on by the high court.

Justice Stanley F. Reed dissented on the ground that the status of Mr. Tureaud at LSU "should be preserved pending final judgment." In other words, Justice Reed expressed the opinion that Mr. Tureaud should not be permitted to remain at LSU until the Supreme Court passes on his case.

While Mr. Tureaud's application for a stay of judgment was awaiting action of the Supreme Court, LSU expelled him.

3-JUDGE COURT

Mr. Tureaud had been admitted to the university under an injunction granted by Federal Judge J. Skelly Wright at New Orleans. But the United States Court of Appeals reversed Judge Wright on the ground that a three-judge court should have been convened to hear the motion for a preliminary injunction and decide the case.

In the shenanigans which followed, Justice Wright vacated his own order on November 9, although Mr Tureaud had filed his application for a stay of the judgment of the Court of Appeals pending Supreme Court action on a petition for review of the issue.

CANCELLED REGISTRATION

The university, acting on the advice of its attorneys, "cancelled the registration" on November 11.

Mr. Tureaud, the only colored undergraduate at LSU, left the campus and returned home to his father, Alexander P. Tureaud, Sr., a New Orleans attorney.

According to Supreme Court attaches, the rulings of the lower courts will have to be reinstated and Mr. Tureaud allowed to return to LSU until his petition for a review is filed and acted upon by the high court.

Mr. Tureaud seeks to take a combined liberal arts and sciences and law course, which he says is not offered at any other school in Louisiana. The State contends that he can get the six-year course at Southern, or take three years of undergraduate work at Southern and then enter the law school at LSU.

LSU Ordered To Re-Admit A. P. Tureaud

WASHINGTON — The United States Supreme court last week reinstated a temporary injunction of the U. S. District court at Baton Rouge, La., permitting A. P. Tureaud, jr., to remain in Louisiana State university.

The junction was rescinded by the U. S. Circuit court in Louisiana later after a decision that Tureaud's case should have been heard by a special three-man federal court.

Tureaud, 17, sought the injunction in order to attend the university while a suit on the legality of his attendance is pending.

The Supreme court reinstated the injunction after Tureaud's attorney argued before Justice Hugo L. Black. Justice Black then referred the matter to the full count.

Justice Stanley F. Reed dissented against the injunction. He said the status of Tureaud at the start of the suit should be preserved until a final decision is reached.

Rules That LSU Erred In Asking Plaintiff To Leave

The ideals of true democracy were dealt a resounding jolt last Wednesday when Louisiana State University, upon the advice of its attorneys headed by Leander Perez, ordered the registration of A. P. Tureaud, Jr. out. Monday the U. S. Supreme Court sharply denounced the action, saying the university may not put the court of appeals decision into effect until the high court can act on Tureaud's appeal.

Monday's ruling was the result of the 1953 Clark High School graduate's asking the Supreme Court to review his case and prevent his ousting pending a final decision on Tureaud's appeal to the Supreme Court followed the appeals court's ruling that the district court erred when only one federal judge heard the case.

A letter to young Tureaud from John A. Hunter, registrar of LSU, said the action (ousting) was taken in compliance with the rules and regulations of the Board of Supervisors and with the direction of the University President following a federal appeal court's reversal of a lower court injunction that gained his admission.

All fees paid by the 17-year-old son of a prominent local attorney will be refunded, according to the registrar's letter.

He was admitted to LSU in September by order of the U. S. District Court to take a combined arts and sciences and law course not available at state supported Negro schools.

Justice Reed who dissented in the court's ruling said he felt Tureaud's status at the beginning of the litigation should be preserved pending final judgment by the court.

In a telephone conversation with Attorney Tureaud, there was little indication as to what the next step would be until he consulted with his attorneys.

According to Tureaud's request to the Supreme Court, it was not a case to challenge the constitutionality of the state segregation laws. He pointed out in his original petition that he could complete the combination course at LSU in six years while it would require seven at Southern University.

The State university has an official "lily-white" policy of not admitting Negroes except when directed by court order. This set patent has been practiced in all cases involving Negro applicants to the graduate and professional schools.

It is difficult to picture why a native Louisianian can enter a state university only through a court order and other students from various countries can enroll without the necessity of a court decree, an observer said.

Should the Supreme Court rule similar to Judge Wright's decision, Tureaud will re-enter LSU for the second time during the same semester. However, should the Supreme Court agree with the appeals court, the case will be heard before a three federal judge court to ascertain whether LSU will continue to maintain its policy of refusing to permit a Negro to partake of its educational facilities.

Efforts to contact young Tureaud, who left LSU campus Thursday, were futile. Unable to pursue his studies, the youth was out visiting friends, it was learned.

14e(1) 1953

LOUISIANA STATE UNIVERSITY
DISCRIMINATION

V

Tureaud Fights To Stay at LSU

NEW ORLEANS, La.—(ANP)—Young A. P. Tureaud who had to fight to enter Louisiana State university, apparently will have to wage another battle to remain there.

Tureaud, 17, was admitted to the university on an injunction issued by Federal Judge Skelly Wrightfl However, last week an appeals court held that the federal judge exceeded his authority when he issued the injunction.

Attorneys for Tureaud announced they would appeal the ruling to the U. S. Supreme court.

The U. S. Fifth circuit court of appeals sent the case back to Judge Wright after held that the case should have been tried by three judges and that Judge Wright did not have jurisdiction to hear it alone.

Judge Wright upheld the plaintiff and ruled that equal facilities were not available at Southern university, the state-supported school for Negroes.

Turead sought a combined liberal arts and law course, available only at LSU of the state schools. He now is enrolled at the institution. LSU officials said they will not act on his case until a study of the appelate court decision has been made.

14e(1) 1953

Discrimination (Louisiana)
Trade Schools

21 Negro Adults Apply To Enter Louisiana Schools

BATON ROUGE, La., Nov. 12 (AP)—An attorney for the National Association for Advancement of Colored People said today 21 Louisiana Negroes have applied for admission to two white state trade schools.

A. P. Tureaud Sr., of New Orleans said, in most instances, the applications were "taken under advisement." He said he had written one director to reconsider refusing them admission."

The attorney said seven Negro adults applied to the Southwest Louisiana Trade School, Crowley, Nov. 6 and and 14 applied to the Sowela Vocational Technical School, Lake Charles, on Oct. 19.

Louisiana has 24 state trade schools instructing some 10,000 fulltime trainees and another 13,000 in nighttime classes.

One of the 24 schools is for Negroes. It is the Capital Area Trade School here, with about 200 students.

Dr. T. E. Hampton, state superintendent of trade and industrial education for the State Department of Education, said he had heard such applications were contemplated.

"It seems to be in line with their general pattern," he commented.

14e(1) 1953

Missouri Colleges
Discrimination

REACTIONS ARE MIXED ON SEGREGATION PLAN

Missouri Legislators Debate Bill in House

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., Jan. 29. —(UP)—A proposal to end segregation in Missouri universities and colleges met mixed reaction among state House members Thursday.

A bill to admit Negroes to the university at Columbia and five state colleges was introduced in the House by a Negro representative from St. Louis, Leroy Tyus, a Democrat.

House speaker Lester A. Vonderschmidt said he thought the qestion of racial segregation in all schools would be settled soon by the Supreme Court regardless of what the Legislature does. Suits testing the practice of operating separate but equal educational schools for Negroes are now pending in the United States Court.

A representative from the cotton country of Southeast Missouri, Warren Hearnes of Mississippi County, said he could foresee no difficulty in the end of segragation on college levels. "The door already is ajar," Hearnes said, "Why not open it all the way?"

As a result of a Circuit Court ruling in 1950, Negroes are now attending the university and School of Mines at Rolla. Negroes are admitted for courses not offered at Lincoln University, the state institution for Negroes here.

Other state colleges are located in Springfield, Warrensburg, Kirksville, Maryville and Cape Girardeau.

viously passed by the House, was postponed last Wednesday night for a third reading at a "showdown" meeting on the bill, attended by all thirteen members of the committee.

SUBSTITUTE MOTION

After a motion was made to report the bill favorably, a substitute motion to lay the bill over was offered and carried, 9 to 4.

Senator Anthony M. Webbe, Democrat, of St. Louis, one of the four members to vote against the crippling delay, last Thursday said another attempt to get the bill out of committee would be made this week.

POSTPONED ACTION

"The bill is dead," Representative Leroy Tyus, colored Democrat, of St. Louis, said after the committee postponed action on the bill. Mr. Tyus and Representative A. Clifford Jones, Republican, of Clayton, were co-sponsors of the bill.

The bill to abolish segregation in state-supported institutions of higher learning was passed by the House last month by a narrow margin. It would permit qualified colored students to enroll in all courses at the University of Missouri and the state colleges at Kirksville, Maryville, Warrensburg, Cape Girardeau and Springfield.

Mixed Schools Bill Halted In Missouri

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo.— (NNPA)—By delaying tactics the Senate Education Committee has virtually killed a bill to open all courses at the University of Missouri and the five other state-supported colleges to colored students.

Action on the proposal to kill segregation in state-supported institutions of higher education, pre-

14e(1) 1953

PADUCAH JUNIOR COLLEGE
DISCRIMINATION

Break Ky. College Race Bar

14e(1) Decision

The first Negro students have entered Paducah Junior college. It marked the end of a fight begun four years ago by the Paducah NAACP branch.

Enrolling first for the summer session were Thomas Viles and Curlee Brown, jr., both graduates of Paducah's Lincoln high school. A young woman was also reported enrolled.

According to Miss Osceola Dawson, secretary of the Paducah NAACP branch and also secretary of the State NAACP Conference, everyone was cordial to the Negro students and they are doing fine.

She said students at the college "generally favored" admitting Negroes and the teachers did not appear to oppose integrating students. The college's trustees furnished the opposition, she stated.

The United States Circuit Court of Appeals in February upheld the District Court decision that the college must admit Negro students.

The NAACP maintained that the junior college was municipally owned and operated and could not refuse Negro students. As a defense, the trustees insisted that the school was privately owned.

Miss Dawson said all citizens were required to pay certain taxes annually to the City for the support of the college.

Four Negroes Enrolled By College In Paducah

No New Problems Arise When Racial Bars Drop After Institution Loses Court Battle

14e(1)

By HARRY BOLSER
The Courier-Journal West Kentucky Bureau

Paducah, Ky., Dec. 4.—Negroes have been admitted to Paducah Junior College, municipal institution, as regular students Four Negroes—three boys and a girl—have enrolled since last June. The girl attended only the summer session.

Then matriculation created no new problems at the two-year college. They were received in the same manner as other freshmen and socially have been treated like other students. They mingle with the other students and take part in extra curricular activities.

Picnic Site Is Moved

They swim in the colleges indoor pool with other students and on many occasions have engaged in horseshoe pitching and other forms of recreation with their new classmates.

Near the end of the last summer session plans were made by the botany department for a picnic in the City-owned Bob Noble Park.

When student leaders were advised they would not be permitted to hold the outing there if the Negro students participated, they moved across the Ohio River to Massac State Park, on the outskirts of Metropolis, Ill.

One student, who said he believed he expressed the general feeling among his classmates, stated: "We know very little of the racial prejudices which our grandfathers and great-grandfathers held. Consequently, we don't share them."

Court Battle Lost

The college's doors were not suddenly opened to Negroes because of a change of attitude toward segregation by school authorities and trustees. Only after long, a long court battle did the college tear down a racial barrier that had existed since Paducah was settled back in the early 1800's.

In October, 1949, Fred A. Wilson, Jr., and Henry L. Powell, graduates of Paducah's Lincoln High School, applied for admission and were refused.

The Paducah Chapter, National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, employed Joseph S. Freeland, Paducah attorney, and he filed suit in United States District Court here seeking a declaration of rights of the two youths.

Petition Turned Down

On October 27, 1950, Federal Judge Roy M. Shelbourne, in a declaratory judgment, ruled that Wilson and Powell or any person who could meet the scholastic qualifications had a right to attend Paducah Junior College regardless of their race.

The college then petitioned the U. S. Supreme Court to overrule Judge Shelbourne on grounds the lower court was without jurisdiction in the case. In April, 1951, the Supreme Court denied the petition.

By the time the Supreme Court refused to disturb the lower court's ruling both Wilson and Powell had been inducted into the Army.

In June, 1951, however, two girls, graduates of Lincoln High, sought admission to the junior college and were turned down. Freeland then filed an intervening petition in the girls' names, claiming racial discrimination and asking Federal Court to grant a mandatory order for their admission.

College Files Appeal

Judge Shelbourne issued the order on January 22, 1952, requiring the college to admit Negro students. The college appealed, claiming it was not a municipal institution.

The case was argued on February 2, 1953, in the Sixth U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals, Cincinnati. The next day the Appellate Court, without taking time to write on opinion, upheld Judge Shelbourne's order and Freeland's contention that the school is a municipal institution and as such admit Negroes.

Negroes made no further attempt to enroll in the college until after the deadline for the college to appeal to the Supreme Court had passed. Then, last June, the first Negro student entered the college, the first member of his race to enroll in a Paducah school for white students.

Was Private Institution

It is likely that only a limited number of Negroes will enter the college for some years to come, because few are financially able to continue their education beyond high school.

The school was established as a private institution in 1932 by a group of Paducah businessmen. It was taken over by the City in 1936 and is supported by tuitions and ad valorem tax funds.

Freeland long has been a leader in the fight here against racial segregation and discrimination.

A McCracken County native, Freeland was graduated with honors from the University of Kentucky College of Law. His father, who died in the early 30's, was a prominent physician here and his grandfather fought for the Confederacy in the Civil War.

College Accredited By Southern Group

Memphis, Dec. 4 (AP) — The Southern Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools, meeting here, yesterday added Paducah Junior College to its accredited list.

14e(1) 1953

Pembroke State College
Discrimination

School Seeks Consent Of Legislature

14e(1)

College Would Open Enrollment To White Students

RALEIGH, N. C. — Pembroke State College in Robeson County is a school for Indians. As the law now reads, only Robeson Indians can attend the school. On one occasion this law was used to get rid of several white students, according to Rep. John B. Regan of Robeson.

Now Mr. Regan wants the changed so that Pembroke will be allowed to drop its racial barriers, and he is sponsoring a bill in the General Assembly to that effect.

* * *

THE ASSEMBLYMAN explained that Indians now are being allowed to attend other state-supported schools, and the Indians in his county would like to accept non-Indians as students.

House bill 100, which allows the college board of trustees to admit any student they approve, was given a favorable report last week by the House Education Committee.

* * *

TO REP. EDWIN S. Pou of Wake the measure looked "like an invitation to Negroes to attend." He asked: "What if Negroes try to get it?"

"The board will do the same as other state-supported institutions—admit 'em when they have to," said Regan. "They won't have that trouble — a Negro had rather be anywhere else in the world than in a hotbed of Indians."

Regan said the admission of non-Indians to the college will enable it to double its enrollment without increasing its staff. There are only 125 students attending the school now, he said, and there are facilities for 300.

The faculty "is largely white," Regan added, "and some of the teachers might like to have their children get a college education as day students."

* * *

AS THE LAW now reads, only Robeson county Indians can attend the school. On one occasion, Regan said, the law was used to get rid of several white students. An out-of-state mulatto came to Pembroke, said she was an Indian, and was enrolled. She became a popular student and visitor in Pembroke homes.

"Then somebody discovered she was a Negro," Regan said, "and objected to the college." Some of the Indians in retaliation insisted that white students be thrown out too, and under the law the board had no choice but to do so.

* * *

REP. B. I. SATTERFIELD said the bill put the legislators in the position of "delegating authority to the board to break down segregation. I wonder where are we leading to?"

Regan replied that the board would merely be given the discretionary powers now held by boards of trustees of other State colleges.

* * *

WITH REP. E. M. O'Herron Jr., of Charlotte dissenting the committee voted its approval of the bill. By his question, O'Herron indicated he felt a large enrollment at Pembroke eventually will require larger appropriations for the college.

14e(1) 1953

PIEDMONT COLLEGE
DISCRIMINATION

2

TWO MORE LOSE POSTS IN COLLEGE BIAS FIGHT

DEMOREST, Ga., Feb. 22 (UP) —The issue of white supremacy arose again today at Piedmont College here as a result of the dismissal of two more faculty members opposed to policies of the school president, James Walter.

The Rev. Charles O. Erickson, chaplain of the college, a Congregational affiliate, and his brother-in-law, Richard Drake, a history instructor, were dismissed yesterday by Mr. Walter. This action raised to twenty-three the number of teachers or officials who have been dismissed or who have resigned over the school's acceptance of funds from a foundation supported by an advocate of white supremacy.

Mr. Walter, in dismissing the Rev. Mr. Erickson and Mr. Drake, wrote them that they were "not in a spirit of unity and harmony" with the school administration.

The controversy between faculty members and the administration arose after the school accepted a grant of $500 a month from the Texas Educational Association, which was financed by George Armstrong. He has appeared in the news two years ago when he offered money to a Mississippi school if it would uphold white supremacy, an offer subsequently rejected.

The Rev. Mr. Erickson said the basic trouble at the school "is human hatred."

"The self-righteous feeling of supremacy promoted by such organizations as T. E. A. leads directly to the bitterness among people which characterizes life for many in Demorest," he asserted.

Trustee Resigns Over Anti-Negro Armstrong Fund

14e(1) Dec 1953

CORNELA, Ga. — (SNS)— Piedmont College, who has seen the expulsions and dismissal of 23 trustees and faculty members in the four-year period in which the school accepted a $500 a month gift from a Texas anti-Semitic and anti-Negro education fund, lost another member this week.

Cliff Kimsey, a leading citizen of Cornelia, announced his resignation Wednesday from the Board of Trustees of the strife-ridden school. He blamed his resignation, in a letter to Rev. A. T. Cline, board chairman, on "continual strife and differences at the college," adding that he felt something should be done to resolve the differences.

The college is affiliated with the Congressional Christian Churches, and has 240 students and 28 faculty members. Kimsey is the tenth member of the board to resign.

COLLEGE IN DISPUTE DROPPED BY CHURCH

DEMOREST, Ga., June 11 (UP) —The Congregational Christian Church has dropped its sponsorship of tiny Piedmont College, where a bitter policy dispute has spilled over from the campus into this mountain town.

Open violence—A reported attempt by students to stone a town councilman who retaliated by firing a pistol into the air—has led to the imposition of a midnight curfew here.

The storm center of the controversy is the college president, James E. Walter, who first drew criticism three years ago when he accepted on the college's behalf a $500 monthly grant from the Texas Education Association. The association is an enterprise of George Armstrong, who once sought to endow a college to teach white supremacy.

The college has continued to accept the grant and in a continuous dispute over this and other policies twenty-three faculty and other staff members have quit or been discharged. Eleven members of the Board of Trustees have resigned.

It was learned today that Dr. Truman Douglass, chairman of the Congregational Church's Board of Home Mission had circulated a letter among church leaders to the effect that the college was no longer an affiliate.

The Piedmont trustees meet here Saturday, when the college will hold commencement exercises. A resolution was introduced in the Demorest Town Council last week calling on the trustees to dismiss Mr. Walter. The resolution was believed to have provoked a series of incidents involving students and townspeople.

Georgia College Is Dropped By Church Group

Congregational Board Severs Relationship With Piedmont College

DEMOREST, Ga. — (INS) — Embattled little Piedmont College has lost the recognition as a Congregational Christian college, it was learned Thursday.

A letter circulated to all churches in the denomination by Dr. Truman Douglass, Chairman of the Board of Home Missions, said the affiliation has ceased and that the college no longer receives money through channels.

The Home Mission Board gave only $1,250 a year to Piedmont but individual churches contributed directly.

NO STATUS

Erston Butterfield, secretary of the Church's Southern Convention, said the church "no longer has any status in the Piedmont situation, and is no longer supporting the college."

Piedmont college has been the center of a battle in the little Georgia town for some time. The city council declared the president of the college unwelcome, and the college has been the target of minor acts of vandalism.

The dispute at the small school started several years ago with a difference of opinion over the Texas Educational association, a group founded by an outspoken advocate of white supremacy.

FACULTY MEMBERS

Several faculty members resigned in protest and only last week the mayor and city council of Demorest, Ga., called on James E. Walter, college president, to resign.

Earlier this week, the trouble broke out again with tar and paint smeared over college and town landmarks.

Before dawn Wednesday, someone painted out "Christian" on the college sign which reads "Piedmont Christian College."

14e(1) 1953

TEXARKANA, ARK.- JUNIOR COLLEGE
DISCRIMINATION

Court Orders New Trial In Texas Jr. College Case

TEXARKANA — A trial in the federal district court for Negro students seeking admission to the publicly financed Texarkana junior college here has been ordered by the United States circuit court of appeals after reversing a lower court decision.

The federal district court in which the suit was originally instituted on behalf of Miss Geraldine [illegible] Bruce and others dismissed a complaint filed by NAACP Attorney U. Simpson Tate on the ground that the students had not exhausted the administrative remedies, in that they had not appealed to the State Board of education.

The decision handed down on July 10 by Judge Holmes, Borah and Russell of the circuit court held that "there is no administrative agency set up under the Texas law with authority or jurisdiction to determine constitutional questions." Such questions, the court ruled, are to be determined under Texas law by the courts and since the board of trustees of the school acted without authority of law in such a manner as to deny Negro students facilities available to white students, the rejected students had the right if immediate access to the courts.

"The rule is well established in Texas," the court said, "that in all matters pertaining to the administration of school laws involving pure questions of law as contradistinguished from questions of fact, immediate resort to the courts is proper."

In addition to the University of Texas, Negro students have already been admitted to three publicly - supported junior colleges in the state.

Univ. Admission Cases' Being Pushed, Says Attorney Shores

"The University Admission Cases" in which Misses Polly A. Myers and Autherine J. Lucy are seeking enrollment in the graduate school of the University of Alabama "are being processed as rapidly as possible."

Attorney Arthur D. Shores, chief legal counsel for the two Miles College graduates, said yesterday in clarification of a news story published in the daily press.

He said further that while his associate, Thurgood Marshall, special counsel for the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People "would be tied up in the United States Supreme Court next week arguing the school segregation cases and he would be in the U. S. Appeal Court on some civil services cases, the "Alabama Admissions Case" probably would not reach court."

However he suggested that the preliminary manuevers of "exhausting the administrative remedy" by filing petition with the trustee board which meets October 25 and such other steps necessary would be taken."

"The Clarendon, South Carolina case and its companion case have nothing to do with the University of Alabama case," Shores said. He added "the law in this case University of Alabama) was settled in the Texas and the Oklahoma University cases."

Meantime the Alabama States Conference of NAACP Branches, sponsor of the "Admission Cases" said that plans were being completed for launching a statewide $15,000 Educational and Scholarship Fund campaign.

Shores Urges Action On Application Of Women To Enter Univ. Of Alabama

In a letter to Gov. Gordon Persons, president of the board of trustees of the University of Alabama, Attorney Arthur D. Shores, counsel for two women seeking admission of the university, expressed the hope the board "might act one way or the other' on their enrollment application.

Shores said that at the time he wrote the letter he was under the impression the board was to have a special June meeting. However, the legal board meeting is scheduled for June.

The admissions effort is being sponsored by the Alabama Scholarship and Educational Fund affiliated with the Alabama State Conference of NAACP Branches. Emory O. Jackson is chairman of the fund drive.

Text of the letter reads:

I am informed that there will be a meeting of the Board of Trustees of the University of Alabama, on April 18, 1953. In view of the fact that there has been a considerable delay in acting upon the appeal from the ruling excluding the young ladies from admission to the Universty of Alabama; that their legal rights are being seriously prejudiced by this failure to act upon the part of the Board of Trustees. I hope that you might act one way or the other on this matter in the April meeting.

We recognize the principle of law concerning the need to allow a State Agency to act prior to resort to the Court. We do not believe that his ruling allows the State Agency to delay without action, at it will, as to effectively bar resort to the Courts. Hence, again we call upon yon to consider this matter at your April meeting, and to inform me of the Board's action after its adjournment.

Yours very truly,
ARTHUR D. SHORES.

Governor Approached by Attorney

Press U. of Alabama On 2 Applications

BIRMINGHAM, Ala.—Alabama's Governor Gordon Persons has been asked by Atty. Arthur D. Shores, legal counsel for two young women seeking to enroll at the University of Alabama, to have the university's board of trustees "act one way or the other" on the two applications.

In the fall of last year, university officials at Tuscaloosa received the applications of two Negro women, accepted their room deposits but refused to enroll them when they appeared in person at Tuscaloosa.

Under Alabama law, Governor Persons is president of the board of trustes.

SHORES SAID that when he sent the letter to the state's chief executive he was under the impression that the board was holding a meeting during April.

The legal meeting of the board is scheduled for June 2, Shores indicated. He said that he felt sure his letter would reach the attention of the trustees at this meeting and that they would act favorably upon it.

The case is being sponsored by the Alabama State Conference of NAACP branches through the Alabama Scholarship and Educational Fund Committee. Emory O. Jackson is chairman of the committee which is supervising the test case.

Test suit filed here on Negroes entering U of A

The issue over admitting Negroes to higher institutions of learning in Alabama broke out into the open in a Federal Court suit filed in Birmingham today.

The suit, filed on behalf of a Negro student from Birmingham and one from Wylam, asked the Federal Court for an injunction enjoining the University of Alabama from denying qualified Negroes admission to the University.

The suit was based on an allegation that the University of Alabama refused admission to these two students in September, 1952, after their applications for admission had been accepted.

The two students on whose behalf the suit has been filed are Polly Anne Myers, 905 18th-pl, sw, Birmingham, and Autherine J. Lucy, 714 Attalla-pl, Wylam.

LAWYERS WHO filed the suit were Arthur D. Shores, Birmingham, and Thurgood Marshall and Robert L. Carter, New York attorneys who represent the National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People.

The suit was brought on behalf of all qualified Negro students.

Two letters addressed to each of the plaintiffs assuring them that they would be welcome to the University accompanied the suits.

These letters were signed by Dr. John M. Gallalee, former president of the University.

The letters read as follows: "Dean William F. Adams, dean of admissions and records, has told me that you are coming to the University. Let me assure you that we shall be glad to welcome you to our campus. You will find it a delightful place in which to live and work.

"If there is anything we can do to help you in making your arrangements to come to the University, please let us know."

THE PLAINTIFFS allege in the suit that they went to the office of Dean of Admissions Adams on Sept. 22, 1952 and that after a conference with him they were informed "that a mistake had been made in accepting their applications and that the laws of the state would not permit the University to accept them as students.

The students said they had been accepted to the School of Journalism and library science at the University.

THE TWO students said they then went to the president of the University and applied to him for admission. They say he refused them admission to the University "on account of plaintiffs' race and color."

The two students say they then appealed to the board of trustees of the University to change its policy, rules and regulations so as to admit them "and other Negroes similarly situated."

The board of trustees of the University considered the request and application for admission at their annual meeting in June of this year and as a result the plaintiffs were notified by the board of trustees that they were denied admission to the University of Alabama, the suit states.

NAMED AS DEFENDANTS in the suit are the board of trustees of the University of Alabama, Hill Ferguson, chairman of the board; Dr. John M. Gallalee, and Lee Bidgood, acting president of the University, and Dean William F. Adams.

The suit was brought under the 14th Amendment to the Constitution of the United States. This is the amendment that provides American citizens with equal rights and equal protection under the law.

The suit is described further as a class action as to whether the practice of the University in denying Negroes admission to the University is unconstitutional.

THE UNITED STATES Supreme Court has been asked to rule on the question of Negroes being admitted to higher institutions of learning but so far it has ruled only in specific cases. The higher court has not yet handed down a general opinion on the question.

One of the biggest flare-ups in the South arose in Sewanee, Tenn., at the University of the South, when a number of members of the faculty resigned because of the refusal to admit Negro students.

ALABAMA is only one of five states in which Negroes are not admitted to colleges and universities, according to Atty. Shores. He said the other states are Mississippi, Florida, Georgia and South Carolina.

In many of the other states the higher institutions admitted Negro students as a result of court proceedings. In specific cases, the U. S. Supreme Court had ruled that equal educational facilities should be set up for Negro students. The colleges and universities found it more practical to admit them than to build separate accommodations for them, Atty. Shores pointed out.

"But even if the physical properties could be matched it would not be possible to provide such equal intangibles as tradition of the college or university," Atty. Shores said.

Judge Delays Suit Against Ala. College

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. — Federal Judge Seybourn H. Lynne, last Monday granted the University of Alabama a 40-day delay in a suit filed by two young women seeking admission to the now lily-white state institution.

A 60-day extension of time on ground that the board members were scattered throughout the state and that counsel for the school had not had time to study the case.

Arthur D. Shores, Birmingham attorney representing the plaintiffs, Misses Polly Ann Myers, 21, and Autherine Juanita Lucy, 23, rebutted the defense argument by exhibiting letters from the university to him which rejected the admission of the young colored women.

UNIV. OF ALA. ASKS 60-DAY DELAY OF SCHOOL ENTRY SUIT

University of Alabama officials have filed a motion asking for a 60-day extension of time for them to get in their answer to the Negro admission case initiated July 3 on behalf of Misses Polly Ann Myers and Autherine J. Lucy.

Atty. Arthur D. Shores, chief counsel in the NAACP-sponsored case said yesterday that he could oppose the motion. He did not reveal the ideas he would use in trying to defeat the delaying manuever.

The delay motion comes up for hearing at 10 a. m. Monday, July 20 before Federal Judge Seybourn H. Lynne in the U. S. District Court, Post Office Building.

In an other direction Wednesday Sen. John Pinson o Sumter County and state-named member of the Tuskegee Institute Board of Trustees in an appeal before a legislative committee for $390,000 annual appropriation to Tuskgee argued that such a grant might influence the two women to withdraw their admission suit.

Senator Pinson suggested that some Negroes (he did not name any) would "rather go to Tuskegee than Tuscaloosa (home of the university. He added that he thought that by showing that Tuskegee facities were as good as the university he could persuade Shores to drop the case.

However, Senator Pinson obviously overlooked the fact that Thurgood Marshall and Robert Carter, internationally famous NAACP civil rights lawyers, are also working in the case. He also suggested that he would try to get Shores to agree to hold up the suit until after the U. S. Supreme Court rules on the pending school segregation cases.

Shores in an interview Thursday said that neither the Tuskegee appropriations for the school segregation cases had anything to do with the present admission case and that it would be pushed vigorously.

Meantime it is known that the Alabama Scholarship and Educational Fund Committee headed by Emory O. Jackson is trying to prepare additional admission cases to the university and the various other Negro-banning state-supported educational institutions.

Ala. Forces Team Up To Bar Negro Students From U. Of Ala.

MONTGOMERY, Ala. — A two-pronged opposition—legislative and legal—has been launched against the effort to win the admission of Negro students to the state-supported all-white educational institutions in Alabama.

Lawyers (Berry, McKamey, Moore and Tate) for the University of Alabama filed a motion in the federal district court, Birmingham, for a 60-day extension of time for the university to get in its answer to the July 3 admission suit. A hearing on the motion was scheduled for Monday, July 20, before U. S. Judge Seybourn H. Lynne.

In the State Legislature July 15 State Senator John Pinson of Sumpter County asked for a $390,000 annual appropriation to Tuskegee Institute as an inducement to try to get the Negro admissions suit withdrawn and as an aid to racial segregation in education.

"I believe," Pinson argued before the legislative finance committee "If it is shown to (Atty.) Arthur Shores (who is representing Misses Polly Ann Myers and Autherine J. Lucy in the university case along with Thurgood Marshall and Robert L. Carter of New York) that they have the same facilities at Tuskegee that they would have at the university, he will agree to with the suit at least until the Supreme Court rules on segregation."

In Birmingham Shores, in an interview, said that neither Tuskegee Institute appropriations nor the pending school segregation cases had any relationship to the admission suit.

Senator Pinson said he believed that some Negro citizens "would rather go to Tuskegee than Tuscaloosa (home of the university or Auburn, Alabama Polytechnic Institute) if they can get the same educational opportunities there." (Mr. Pinson did not name any such Negroes. However, there were 105 Negro citizens studying outside of Alabama in 1952-53 on state-provided Jim Crow scholarships.)

The Sumpter County Senator testified before the House committee that racial relations in Alabama "have definitely improved in the past five years, and the work being done at Tuskegee has helped." He added that the relationship between the races is like a sensitive Brazilian plants which wilts and droops at the touch of a human hand.

"All the work done by men of goodwill, both white and colored, can be changed and blotted out in an instant by some untoward act or word," pleaded the Black Belt solon.

He urged: "Let the Alabama Legislature and this committee go on record now and in the future that it believes in equal educational rights for all of its citizens, white or colored, without regard for race or creed, even though it be segegated."

"It would earn the respect and goodwill of the colored people everywhere and they can show us how to get out of these troubles," Senator Pinson asserted.

He went on to say: "The day of the demagogues has passed. No more Bilbos and Rankins—no more rabble rousers—no more Tom Heflins who thought an emisarry of the Pope was hiding behind bush and rock to do him bodily harm."

In an apparent answer to the Pinson suggestion, in Birmingham, Emory O. Jackson, chairman of the NAACP-sponsored Alabama Scholarship and Education Fund Committee said that other Negro admission cases were expected to be processed for other division of the University of Alabama and all of the other Negro-banning state-supported education institutions. Jackson is scheduled to speak at the Greater St. James CME Church, Jasper, Ala., at 3 p. m., Sunday, July 26, on the subject, "Our University and Us."

The meeting is sponsored by the Jasper Branch NAACP of which the Rev. E. D. Lewis is president. He is pastor of Greater St. James. The admissions case is backed by the Alabama State Conference of NAACP branches of which W. C. Patton is the president.

In a letter to The Tuscaloosa News, Ernest F. Patterson, former teacher at the University of Alabama, now a professor at the University of Texas, Austin, Texas said "the students at the University of Alabama will solve the future problem of Negro students as amiably and successfully as has been done at the University of Texas."

He said that none of "the rumors" circulated by the "fearmongers appeared when Negro students were admitted to U. of T." There must be close to 50 Negro students on the (Texas University) campus. But what is remarkable is the cordial, relaxed and unfeigned relation between the white students and the Negro students," he added.

U of A seeks to dismiss suits filed by two Negro women

U. S. District Court here had before it Saturday a motion seeking dismissal of a suit filed by two Negro women seeking to enter the University of Alabama as students.

The motion, filed Friday by an attorney for the University, contended that a suit against the state is prohibited by the Alabama constitution. The motion also claimed that previous court rulings have held that the University board of trustees is an arm of the state government.

The suit was filed last July by Arthurine J. Lucy and Polly Ann Myers, both graduates of Miles College here.

THEY CHARGED they were accepted by the University as students when they wrote letters applying for admission. They said they were told a mistake had been made when they appeared before the dean of admissions for enrollment.

Atty. Andrew Thomas of Birmingham, representing the University, said the motion was based on Section 14 of the constitution which says that the state cannot "be made a party" to any suit.

Named as defendants in the suit were the board of trustees, Dr. John M. Gallalee, who was president of the University when the two women applied for admission; Dr. Lee Bidgood, who acted as interim president; Hill Ferguson, chairman of the board of trustees, and W. F. Adams, dean of admissions.

14e(1) 1953

UNIVERSITY OF ALABAMA
DISCRIMINATION

NAACP Eyes Legal Move In Alabama Univ. Test

Courier p. 1
Birmingham, Ala.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala.—A report on the progress of the "enter-the-university" project spearheaded by the Alabama Scholarship and Educational Fund Campaign Committee is scheduled to be made at the board meeting of the Alabama State Conference of NAACP Branches here June 7.

Emory O. Jackson, chairman of the Scholarship and Educational Fund said that the project, designed to open the doors of the Alabama state-supported educational institutions, is ready to be moved from the letter-writing to the legal action stage.

Pat. 5-23-53

Two young Negro women have been waiting all of their college term, Jackson said, to enter the graduate school of the University of Alabama.

14e(1) Discrimination

They filed their application last year with it being accepted, but when they appeared for enrollment they were not admitted, Jackson added.

Keeping Up With The University

The University of Alabama belongs to the people of Alabama. It is a public institution, and as such the people of Alabama have the right to know how it is being operated, what its problems are and how well those problems are being faced and dealt with.

News 14e(1)

There is a section of the Alabama code which seeks to protect the public's right to knowledge of its public institutions. Section 393 of Title 14 of the 1940 Code of Alabama says that "no executive or secret session shall be held" by any board or commission "charged with the duty of disbursing any funds belonging to the state, county or municipality, or board, body or commission to which is delegated any legislative or judicial function." It would seem that this section is applicable to the board of trustees of the university.

Wed. 6-3-53

The university board of trustees, however, appears to have no clear, established policy of full conformity with this section of the code, thereby making knowledge of its proceedings available to the public through the press. Twice recently it has, however, admitted representatives of the press to its meetings. Reporters were present at the recent meeting in Montgomery when Dr. O. C. Carmichael was formally elected president, and again Monday in Tuscaloosa representatives of this paper and The Tuscaloosa News were admitted after attention had been called to the code section and after the trustees had discussed the matter for about 10 minutes.

In the course of some 45 minutes the board heard the final report of retiring President John M. Gallalee and passed several resolutions, and then it felt that it should ask the press representatives to has an interest. It is understandable that the board retire while it went into executive session. feels that it often has the duty to protect the character and reputation of Among matters discussed, as well as could individuals when it must handle affairs be determined, were the reimbursement involving delicate questions. But the to the state of medical college funds and handling of such affairs is a daily probthe question of admission of Negro grad- lem for the press, which is deeply uates of two institutions to the university —affairs in which the public, of course, concerned that character and reputation be not damaged unnecessarily. It might be suggested that the university's board could without undue risk place more trust and confidence in the press to handle with good judgment matters of a delicate personal character. Other public agencies and organizations pursue such a policy without embarrassment to members or persons involved in various ways.

P. 13

The fact that the board has broken with its tradition of closed meetings twice recently bespeaks—at least in a measure—recognition on the part of members of its obligation to the public's right to know fully about university matters. Admission of representatives of the press to meetings clearly involving matters of public concern would conform to that right and, we are confident, serve the public interest. We believe the press could be depended upon to serve that right with a high sense of responsibility and discretion.

2 SUE U. OF ALABAMA TO ENROLL NEGROES

New York Times

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., July 3 (AP) —A suit was filed in United States District Court here today to force the University of Alabama to admit Negro students.

P. 13c

The suit asked an injunction against the university on behalf of two Negro women who contended they had been denied admission in September, 1952. It states that they had been accepted earlier, but when they went to the school they were informed that "a mistake had been made and that the laws of the state would not permit the university to accept them as students."

New York, N.Y.

The women are Polly Anne Myers and Autherine J. Lucy, both of Birmingham. The suit was filed by Arthur D. Shores, Birmingham attorney, and Thurgood Marshall and Robert L. Carter, New York attorneys who represent the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

Attached to the suit were two letters, signed by Dr. John M. Gallalee, former president of the university, telling the two women they would be welcome at the university. Later, the suit asserts, they conferred with William F. Adams, Dean of Admissions, and Dr. Gallalee, and were denied admisison.

Sat. 7-4-53

The women had sought to enroll for graduate work. Alabama segregation laws provide for separate schools for Negroes and whites.

Dr. Lee Bidgood, acting president of the university, said he had no comment on the case at present.

Ala. NAACP To Press For Opening Of State School

Atlanta Daily World
Atlanta, Ga.

BIRMINGHAM—A spokesman for the Alabama State Conference of NAACP branches said Thursday that a complaint would be filed in Federal court today seeking to open the doors of the University of Alabama to Negro students.

Atty. Arthur D. Shores indicated that the action would be taken in behalf of Miss Polly A. Myers and Miss Autherine J. Lucy whose applications were accepted last fall by the University which subsequently refused to admit them because of their race.

P. 1

Emory O. Jackson, chairman of the NAACP-sponsored Alabama Scholarship and Educational Fund Committee said yesterday that other applications were being prepared for Alabama state-supported institutions which currently bar admission of Negro students.

He added that there would be a revival of the campaign for $15,000 to finance this legal action to compel the admission of Negro students to all of the tax-supported graduate, technical and professional schools in Alabama.

Meantime Jackson announced that he would deliver a major speech at Mt. Olive Baptist Church, Fort Mitchell, Ala. at 2 o'clock Sunday afternoon, July 5. This will be a "Men's Day" program.

2 Negro Women Seek Admission At University

Chicago Defender
Independence, Mo.

BIRMINGHAM, July 3 (AP) — Two Negro women today challenged Alabama's jealously guarded school segregation laws, asking the federal courts to order the University of Alabama to admit them as students.

Gov. Gordon Persons and acting Universtiy President Lee Bidgood declined comment on the U. S. District Court suit. It was brought in behalf of all qualified Negro students.

Sat. 7-4-53

The U.S. Supreme Court has decided several previous suits in other states in favor of Negroes seeking admission to state-supported universities and colleges formerly open only to white students.

P. 1

Only five states now bar Negroes from colleges and universities on racial grounds, said Arthur D. Shores, Birmingham Negro lawyer who represents the women. He said they were Alabama, Mississippi, Florida, Georgia and South Carolina, all in the southeast.

14e(1)

A Negro war veteran filed suit four years ago to be admitted to Alabama Polytechnic Institute but later dropped the action. William Bell, 27, at the time a student at Alabama State College for Negroes at Montgomery, said he was "upset over all the talk around town (Montgomery) about it."

The two women seeking entrance to the university graduate school are Polly Anne Myers and Autherine J. Lucy, both of Birmingham. They are graduates of Miles College, a church-supported college for Negroes here.

Meanwhile, in neighboring Mississippi, Gov. Hugh White summoned the legislature into special session in a move to save segregation through equalizing facilities for Negroes.

The equalization program would be financed by increased taxes.

First Asked For 60 Days To Consider Negro Admission Case

Federal Judge Lynne yesterday granted the University of Alabama a 40-days delay over the strenous opposition of Atty. Arthur D. Shores in the Negro admission case filed July 3.

Lawyers for the University sought a 60-days extension of time on grounds that the board members were scattered and that counsel for the school had not had sufficient time to study the case.

Shores blasted this argument by exhibition a copy of the board's letter to him rejecting the admission of Misses Myers and Lucy and saying the board had carefully considered the application and also suggested that for over many months the University knew about this prospective suit.

He also cited decision showing that the Supreme Court had settled the segregation issue in publicly financed higher education and that the pending school segregation cases were irrevelant to the issue in the present admission case.

Asked what would be the next move by him in the case, Shores said that he would study the formal order by Judge Lynne and then move accordingly. He indicated the lawyers for Negro admissions to the University have a step-by-step plan of legal manuevers already outlined. He added that it would be about Sept. 11, when the University would be required to get in its answer.

The Monday session was held in the office of Judge Lynne. The press and spectators were barred from the hearing. A court official said that Judge Lynne would give the press a copy of his order when it was ready.

Reveals Deliberate Side-Stepping Maneuver

Shores Protests Judges Delay Of Alabama Admissions' Suit

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. — Federal Judge Seybourn H. Lynne on Monday, July 20, granted the University of Alabama a forty-day delay over the strenuous opposition of Atty. Arthur D. Shores in the Negro admission case filed July 3.

Lawyers for the university sought a sixty-day extension of time on grounds that the board members were scattered and that counsel for the school had not had sufficient time to study the case.

Shores blasted this argument by exhibiting a copy of the board's letter to him rejecting the admission of Misses Myers and Lucy, but saying the board had carefully considered the application and also suggested that for over many months the university knew about this prospective suit.

He also cited decision showing that the Supreme Court had settled the segregation issue in publicly financed higher education and that the pending school segregation cases were irrevelant to the issue in the present admission case.

Asked what would be the next move by him in the case, Shores said that he would study the formal order by Judge Lynne and then move accordingly. He indicated that the lawyers for Negro admissions to the university have a step-by-step plan of legal maneuvers already outlined. He added that it would be about Sept. 11 when the university would be required to get in its answer.

Defendants in the case are Hill Ferguson, board chairman; Dr. John M. Galalee, retired president; William F. Adams, dean of admissions, and Lee Bidgood, board member.

Pinson's Suggestion Rejected By Shores In 'Admittance Suit'

BIRMINGHAM, Alabama-(SNS)-Sumter County Senator John H. Pinson's suggestion to withdraw a class suit challenging the banning of Negro students from public-financed universities and similar institutions in Alabama has been flatly rejected by Attorney Arthur D. Shores, it was learned this week.

Shores, chief counsel in a test suit filed July 3 by two Negro college honor graduates seeking admission to the graduate school of the University of Alabama, indicated that State Senator Pinson telephoned him Tuesday with a similar proposition to the one widely publicized last week in the daily press in connection with a proposed $390,000 annual appropriation for Tuskegee Institute.

It is understood that Shores explained to Mr. Pinson (1) that the Tuskegee appropriations have nothing to do with the suit; (2) that the litigation was a class suit on behalf of the whole Negro group; (3) that it dealt with a constitutional right; (4) that he was one of three lawyers in the case; (5) that his clients desired to continue with the suit and (6) that the pending school segregation cases before the Supreme Court are irrevelant to the issue in the university case which has been settled by the court.

The Sumter Senator is quoted as indicating that he would try to get Basil O'Connor, chairman of the Tuskegee Institute board of directors to talk with Thurgood Marshall and Robert L. Carter, the two associates of Shores, all of New York City Marshall is director and counsel of the NAACP Legal Defense and Educational Fund and Carter is his chief assistant.

House legislative committee argued for adding $90,000 to the present $300,000 outlay for Tuskegee Institute because it might entice two Negro litigant to give up their legal effort to win admission to the University of Alabama.

Jefferson County Representative Paul Meeks of Birmingham asked Senator Pinson what the committee could do to influence the litigants to quit their admission suit, He (Mr. Pinson) suggested that passing the increased appropriations for Tuskegee might do the job.

He added: "I believe if its shown to Arthur Shores that they have the same facilities at Tuskegee that they have the University, he will agree to withdraw the suit." Mr. Pinson promised to get in touch with Mr. Shores himself on the suit withdrawal proposition. He did but it did not work.

In the meantime, U. S. Judge Seymour H. Lynne, issued Tuesday his formal order granting a 40-day delay to the University of Alabama following the July 20 hearing to get its answer in to the enter-the university suit. The university asked for 60 days. The press and spectators were barred from the hearing on the motion held in Judge Lynne's office.

The case is sponsored by the Alabama State Conference of NAACP Branches.

Alabama is one of the five remaining states of the 48 which has not fallen in line with the Supreme Court's decisions removing racial bars from around state-supported institutions of higher learning. The other four states are Georgia, Florida, Mississippi and South Carolina.

2 NEGRO WOMEN SEEK ADMISSION TO THE UNIVERSITY OF ALABAMA

BIRMINGHAM, Ala.—(SNS)—Two Negro applicants are asking the federal courts to remove the racial bar, so that they and other qualified members of their race may attend the University of Alabama.

They are Miss Pollie Anne Myers, social columnist of the Birmingham World, and Miss Authernine JJ. Lucy, office secretary of the Alabama State Conference of N. A. C. P. branches.

Miss Myers through her attorney, Arthur D. Shores of Birmingham; Thurgood Marshall and Robert L. Carter of New York, is seeking admission to the School of Journalism and Miss Lucy to the School of Library Science.

The test case is being sponsored by the NAACP through the cooperation of the Alabama Scholarship and Educational Fund Committee headed by Emory O. Jackson, editor, Birmingham World.

Alabama is one of the remaining five states which has not opened the doors of its state-supported universities to all qualified students. Florida, Georgia, Mississippi and South Carolina have not yet removed the barriers. Cases are pending in Georgia, and Florida.

14e(1) 1953

UNIVERSITY OF ALABAMA
DISCRIMINATION

University Seeks Dismissal Of Suits By Negroes

U. S. District Court in Birmingham had before it Saturday a motion seeking dismissal of a suit filed by two Negro women who are seeking to enter the University of Alabama as students.

The motion, filed last Friday by an attorney for the University, contended that a suit against the state is prohibited by the Alabama constitution. The motion also claimed that previous court rulings have held that the University board of trustees is an arm of the state government.

* *

THE SUIT WAS filed last July by Arthurine J. Lucy and Polly Ann Myers, both graduates of Miles College.

They charged they were accepted by the University as students when they wrote letters applying for admission. They said they were told a mistake had been made when they appeared before the dean of admissions for enrollment.

* *

ATTY. ANDREW Thomas of Birmingham, representing the University, told the Birmingham News that the motion was based on Section 14 of the constitution which says that the state cannot "be made a party" to any suit.

Named as defendants in the suit were the board of trustees, Dr. John M. Gallalee, who was president of the University when the two women applied for admission; Dr. Lee Bidgood, who acted as interim president; Hill Ferguson, chairman of the board of trustees, and W. F. Adams, dean of admissions.

Judge Grooms rules—

Negroes' suit to enter U of A dismissed in Federal Court

A suit against the trustees of the University of Alabama by two Negro girls from Birmingham on the complaint that they were denied admission to the University was ordered dismissed today by Federal Judge Hobart Grooms.

However, Judge Grooms allowed Atty. Arthur Shores, one of the plaintiff's attorneys, 20 days in which to amend the suit. Shores said that he would do this in the next day or two.

Judge Grooms gave as grounds for dismissal of the suit the fact that such action cannot be brought against the state without the consent of the defendants.

Such action, he explained, is prohibited by the Eleventh Amendment to the U. S. Constitution and by Section 14 of the State of Alabama's Constitution.

The suit was brought against the board of trustees as officials of the University of Alabama which Judge Grooms defined as meaning a suit against the state.

The suit could be brought against the trustees as individuals.

The suit was brought by Autherine J. Lucy and Polly Anne Myers. They charged that they were denied admission to the University when they appeared at the University after she had been accepted for admission in a letter.

Co-Eds Appeal Case To Enter Ala. University

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. — Attorneys for Misses Autherine J. Lucy and Polly Anne Myers, plaintiffs in the suit to compel the University of Alabama to enroll qualified negro students, announced plans this week to appeal the case to the Supreme Court.

Judge Hobard Grooms in Federal District Court here last Friday ordered the suit against the trustees of the university dismissed, ruling that the suit cannot be maintained against the state without its consent. He said such action is prohibited by the 11th amendment of the federal constitution and by section 14 of the Alabama constitution.

However, Judge Grooms allowed attorneys for the plaintiffs 20 days in which to amend the complaint.

Arthur D. Shores, one of the attorneys for the two young women, immediately said he would file an amended complaint within the next few days. But he changed his mine and announced Sunday that he had decided to appeal the case.

The two young women charged they had been denied admission when they appeared there after having been accepted for enrollment in letters.

U Of A Admission Case Appealed By 2 Negroes

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Oct. 28 (AP)—A suit in which two young Negro women sought to force their admission as students at the University of Alabama was appealed today to the U. S. Circuit Court at New Orleans.

The case, brought by Autherine J. Lucy and Polly Anne Myers of Birmingham, was dismissed in U. S. District Court here Oct. 9. Negroes are not admitted as students at the university.

The suit named the University of Alabama board of trustees as defendants. It contended that the two Negroes were accepted by letter and then denied admission because of race and color.

Judge Nixes Suit

Shores Appeals School Verdict

BIRMINGHAM, Ala.—An adverse decision in the "University Admission" case was appealed here Tuesday, Oct. 27 by Atty. Arthur D. Shores.

The case initiated by two young women July 3 seeking to win admission to the University of Alabama graduate school was dismissed conditionally by newly appointed U. S. Judge Hobart Grooms, Oct. 9, in the U. S. District Court here.

Judge Grooms in his dismissal opinion said that a case of this kind could not be brought against the state. He suggested that the technical flaws he saw in it could be corrected by amending the suit by naming the members of the University of Alabama board of trustees as defendants.

APPARENTLY disagreeing with the opinion of Judge Grooms, the lawyers for the plaintiffs appealed it.

The document filed on behalf of the two honor students alleged that they applied and were accepted to the university "by mistake."

They charge that when it was discovered that they were members of the Negro group, they were not allowed to complete their processing.

* * *

ASSISTING SHORES are Thurgood Marshall and Robert Carter, the latter two of the NAACP legal staff, New York City. Atty. Audrey Thomas is representing the university.

The case is sponsored by the Alabama State Conference of NAACP Branches, headed by W. C. Patton.

It is being financed by the NAACP's Alabama Scholarship and Educational Fund Committee, of which Emory O. Jackson is the chairman.

Georgia Board Again Rejects Horace Ward

ATLANTA — Horace Ward's two-year fight to gain admission to the law school of the Univer- of Georgia is back in the United States District Court here following another rejection of his application by the university board of regents.

When the case was called before Judge Frank A. Hooper in Fderal court here last December 15, the judge gave the university 30 days in which to decide whether or not Ward would be admitted to the law school under rules existing in September, 1951 when he first applied. In the meanwhile, the university passed a rule requiring admission by examination.

The board's decision, returned on January 14, cited the fact that the applicant had not submitted to the examination now required. Through his attorneys, Thurgood Marshall, NAACP special counsel, and A. T. Walden, Atlanta attorney, Ward contends that nothing can be required of him that was not required of other applicants at the time he applied. His first application was turned down solely on the basis of his race. This will be the main issue when the trial gets under way.

After boasting that she's hardly ever been sick, the woman who is almost as active as a mellow 45-year old, adjusted her glasses and quipped, "You know, these glasses are so old I can hardly see how to thread a needle."

"I was born free but grew up a slave," remarked Mrs. Makon, who said she landed at Charleston, S. C., and was sold to a slave-owner from Uniontown, Ala.

Recalling incidents in the era before the Civil War, Mrs. Makon said slaves on the plantation where she lived were required to work from "sun-up to dark." She said that when the Union soldier invaded the south, she was old enough to "take care of the master's children."

She attributes Lincoln's interest in the abolition of slavery to his wife.

According to her story, Mrs. Lincoln witnessed an old man being brutally beaten and she later begged her husband to do something about setting all of the slaves free.

After Emancipation, she said many of the former slaves signed contracts to work for their former masters. The following year, Mrs. Makon said she moved from Alabama to Arkansas with a Mamie Rucker—an Indian woman who raised her from a child.

Mrs. Makon was accompanied to the Argus Tuesday afternoon by Mrs. Beatrice Gates of 3404a Lawton.

That older generations must have been made of sterner stuff, was evident when, as Mrs. Makon left the office walking with the confidence of a veteran, a customer—Mrs. Rosia White of 4220a West Evans avenue remarked: "My but she gets around better than me, and I'm just 83."

Court Kills Move To Drop Ward's Suit

U. S. District Court Judge Frank Hooper Friday overruled a motion by the University System of Regents to dismiss Horace Ward's suit for admission to the University of Georgia.

At the same time he made provisions for either party in the dispute to place the case on the court calendar.

The Board of Regents contended that Ward had not exhausted administrative remedies available to him under the university's regulations. Ward declined to take an entrance examination required for admission to the university.

Ward had contended that the examination was not required when he applied for entrance to the university.

Other State contentions overruled were: Ward refused to state a claim on which relief can be granted; it is a suit against the State of Georgia and the State has not consented to be sued; and the suit does not set forth facts for a declaratory judgment.

Ward and attorneys for the State declined comment pending a study of the decision.

M'house Student Applies For Admission To Ga. Tech

Georgia NAACP officials revealed yesterday that a Morehouse college freshman has applied for admission to Georgia Institute of Technology as regents of the university system moved to lighten entrance requirements at all white state schools.

Dr. William Boyd, state president of the NAACP, said that Robert Cheeseboro, of Columbus, Ga., applied for admission to the lily-white, state-supported industrial school February 28, 1953. He released copies of the correspondence with school officials and a letter from L. R. Seibert, executive secretary of the board of regents, which offered the student out of state aid because Georgia has provided a program "for the instruction of Negro citizens . . . in those fields of study offered to the white citizens."

On March 10, 1953, Cheeseboro declined this offer and asked Seibert to return his application to the registrar at Georgia Tech for evaluation. Dr. Boyd said no answer has been received.

ENTRANCE EXAMS

Wednesday the regent authorized all units of the university system to give entrance examinations, and to require prospective students to submit certificates from university alumni attesting to their good character and proof of their legal residence.

Seibert's letter to Cheeseboro listed twelve "excellent" schools the student could attend on out of state aid. Five of these were Negro institutions.

SPENCER HIGH

Cheeseboro, a graduate of Spencer High School of Columbus, Ga., a court session in Gainesville next week. His ruling will determine whether the case will be tried or dismissed.

The suit was filed last summer by Horace Ward, 27-year-old Negro schoolteacher who unsuccessfully has sought admission to the university's law school since September, 1950.

Bid To Dismiss Ward Suit Waits Judge's Decision

The University System of Georgia regents' motion to dismiss an Atlanta Negro's suit seeking his admission to the University of Georgia officially was submitted to U. S. District Judge Frank A. Hooper Tuesday.

Judge Hooper's ruling is expected soon after he returns from

BIAS DISPUTE STIRS GEORGIA UNIVERSITY

Liberal View of Student Editors on Segregation Is Assailed by Augusta Publisher

HE CALLS THEM 'SQUIRTS'

Attack Is Linked to State-Wide Controversy Over Policies in the Public Schools

By JOHN N. POPHAM
Special to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

ATHENS, Ga., Nov. 26—A controversy bearing on the current state-wide political issue concerning racial separation policies in the public schools has unfolded on the University of Georgia campus here.

The incident began on Nov. 5, when a student editorial, published in the college weekly newspaper, expressed in general terms a liberal view on racial segregation. In particular, the editorial criticized Gov. Herman Talmadge for condemnatory remarks directed at several law suits attacking segregated schools. The suits now await a decision by the United States Supreme Court.

Eighteen days later, the students were subjected to a name-calling blast by a politician-editor. This was after university officials and the students involved had arrived at an "understanding" to keep intact the university's long record of tolerance for student expression and yet not lose sight of the political realities facing a state-supported school.

Writing in the weekly newspaper that he publishes in near-by Augusta, Roy C. Harris, a long-time Talmadge supporter and one o fthe state's foremost political powers, described the involved students as "a little handful of sissy, misguided squirts."

'Little Sissy Boys'

"Every time I see one of these little sissy boys hanging around some college, the more I think every one of them ought to be made to play football," Mr. Harris wrote.

His article went on to say:

"But the time has come to clean out all of these institutions of all Communist influences and the crazy idea of mixing and mingling of the races which was sponsored in this country by the Communist party."

The article also said "the state of eGorgia pays a big price to educate its college students. If the state is willing to spend this money it has the right to control what is taught and what is done at the university."

A five-day survey of sources closely familiar with campus opinions indicates that graduate students, if polled following a constructive presentation of the subject, would show a majority having no objection to the enrollment of Negro graduate students. Eight southern states now have Negro graduate students in state universities.

These same sources hold that undergraduate students would probably show a somewhat smaller majority expressing no objection to Negro graduate students. They also believed undergraduate sentiment would be against enrollment of Negro undergraduates, but they stressed that constructive debate would have sharp effect on that opinion.

Most Opposed To Changes

On the more controversial subject of racial segregation in the public schools, the students were said in the main to be opposed to changes in the dual race system, but without the intransigence that marked many politicians. The ernors, have dominated the state's public and professional life, rep- years ago, holds a posi- resenting among them all shades eat affection and prestige of opin- ate.

$30,000,000 Sought

larly, it has been re- The university is now campaign- s a center to which the ing to raise $30,000,000 to $40,000,000 farms and small towns for a building expansion program e to broaden their cul- for the next ten years. And Mr. zons. Its graduates, in- tion of great affection and prestige of the n of the last twelve Gov- Harris, a former speaker of the students, the sources said, by and about fifty foreign students, about of school segregation. large showed considerable willing- 170 from other Southern states The university, which opened its ness to listen to debate that em- and the rest from non-Southern doors 152 years ago, holds a posi- phasized the possibilities of grad- states. tion of great affection and prestige of opin- ual changes in the segregation pat- There are 544 students in the state. ion.

tern. The university has a total en- College of Agriculture and 221 stu- Particularly, it has been re- rollment of 4,600 students, approxi- dents in the Home Economics De- garded as a center to which the mately 3,100 men and 1,500 women. partment. For the most part they come from the farm areas, and it was reported that this group voiced Of these, all but 460 are Georgia residents. The nonresidents include the strongest sentiment in support cluding ten of the State House of Representatives, has been the leading figure in a state-wide speaking tour to gain support for the program.

Against this background, the 60-year-old student publication, known as The Red and Black, carried its editorial of Nov. 5, written by its managing editor, William Shipp, 20-year-old sophomore from Marietta, Ga. Before publication, the editorial, according to standard practice, was "screened" and approved by the editor, Walter A. Lundy Jr., 20-year-old senior of Cairo, Ga.

Both students, when interviewed, said that, like all editorials, this one was an expression of their personal views. They said they had made no effort to assess student opinion on segregation and that the editorial never was supposed to represent the "university's outlook."

Both said they knew many students who shared their views, but they doubted this group was a majority on the campus. They said segregation was not regularly discussed in daily campus life, but was "kicked around in bull sessions" when it became topical.

On Nov. 11, at a Board of Regents meeting in Atlanta, Mr. Harris, a board member, told Mr. Shipp that state funds, amounting to about one-third of the school paper's $15,000 annual budget, would be cut off if there were more editorials construed as being at variance with state segregation laws.

Harris Denies "Threat"

The following day the college paper carried a front-page story and editorial declaring that Mr. Harris had threatened to "put us out of business." Mr. Harris said later this issue of the paper had "misrepresented" him, adding that "I didn't threaten them, I just told them what was going to happen."

At this point a meeting of the university officials and the student editors resulted in a letter, signed by the students, which expressed "deep concern if we have created an embarrassing situation for the university or for the Board of Regents through our editorials and news columns."

Both Mr. Shipp and Mr. Lundy said they had signed the letter because of their interest in the university's "growth and development" program, and the letter, in turn, allowed them to make that point.

The university, meanwhile, has not given any list of policy "do's and don't's" to the student editors and has striven to evolve a system of student-faculty voting on controversial editorials that will allow for some measure of student expression.

Following these developments, Mr. Harris' name-calling article on Nov. 23 came as a "shock" to the student editors. They strongly resented the attack and have expressed themselves as "pained" and "bewildered." They would like to strike back in their own defense, but they added they were keenly aware of the "pressures" concerning the university to which they feel such strong ties.

DERIDES STUDENTS: Roy C. Harris, Georgia politician, who described students involved in college segregation controversy as "sissy, misguided squirts."

U. of Ga. Editors Who Hit Segregation Resign Posts

Charge Board of Control Throttled Editorial Rights

ATHENS, Ga., Dec. 2 (AP)—Two editors of the Red and Black, student newspaper at the University of Georgia, resigned today with charges that a board of control throttled their editorial rights.

Editor Walter A. Lundy Jr. and Managing Editor Bill Shipp sent letters of resignation to Dr. John E. Drewry, chairman of the control board, in the midst of a controversy over their editorials assailing racial segregation in education.

Both resignations were accepted.

Bill Shipp Walter Lundy Jr.

"If I retained the office, I would be forced to disagree strongly with the action taken by the Board of Control which, as I see it, imposes strict control over the policies of the publication," Lundy wrote Drewry.

RIGHTS DENIED

Shipp wrote:

"Since the staff's right of reply to charges and names hurled at it by (Regent) Roy V. Harris in the Augusta Courier has been denied by the university, I feel that I cannot honorably continue working on the campus newspaper.

"The university and the Board of Regents have failed to recognize the student paper's right to comment on matters which we feel are of vital importance to the student body. As a result of regulations invoked this week, the Red and Black cannot continue to uphold its stand in opposing certain political elements' unrealistic views and actions concerning the current segregation issue."

BOTH MEMBERS

Both Lundy, whose home is in Cairo, and Shipp, who lives at Marietta, were members of the Board of Control composed of seven students and four faculty members.

The Red and Black had touched off a powder train of controversy by referring editorially to Gov. Talmadge's emphatic stand for school segregation as "the Mr. Hyde side of his political personality."

A regent of the University System, Roy Harris of Augusta, remonstrated and threatened to have state funds for the campus paper cut off. The editors refused to retract although they said they regretted any embarrassment they had caused the university.

BOARD OF CONTROL

The university stepped in and a plan of operation was worked out by which copy in any way "prejudicial to the welfare of the university" would be sumbitted for discussion with a faculty instructor assigned to the campus paper.

If student editors and instructor could not agree the board of control would decide whether the material should be published.

The Red and Black editorial which brought on the controversy said in part:

"With communism knocking at the Negro's back door, we cannot afford to let educational segregeation barriers stand. It is as plain as the red flag in Russia that continued segregation and suppression can and will cause the death of democracy by the hands of its own leaders."

Dyar Massey, university director of public relations, compared the plan to editorial councils on non-student newspapers.

"AN OBLIGATION"

"It is further recognized," he said, "that the university has an obligation to its students until such time as they receive their degrees and begin their careers as citizens no longer in a training status."

Massey likened the university's relation to a student to that of a parent and said nobody would benefit if "the parent either permitted the child to destroy it or permitted the child to destroy itself."

A resolution was offered this week in the House to demand the resignation of the student editors, but it was killed when a member explained that the university already had taken a hand in the matter.

College Editors Quit In Segregation Fight

ATHENS, Ga. —(AP)— The editor and managing editor of the University of Georgia student newspaper resigned Wednesday in a flareup over editorials urging an end of racial segregation in education.

Specifically, editor Walter Lundy, Jr., of the Red and Black and managing editor Bill Shipp quit to protest the setting up of a student-majority board to make editorial decisions on controversial matters.

The board of control was worked out after Red and Black editorials criticized the segregation stand of Gov. Herman Talmadge and brought down the wrath of a university system regent.

The board would be composed of seven students and four faculty members. It would rule on editorial policy when the campus editors and their faculty advisers cannot agree on copy that might be considered "prejudicial to the welfare of the university."

Although warned by Regent Roy Harris of Augusta, that the Red and Black's state funds might be cut off, editors Lund, from Cairo, Ga., and Shipp, from Marietta, refused to retract their anti-segregation editorial.

In a statement last week Lundy declared that the only thing that would prevent elaboration would be a desire to avoid further embarrassment of the university.

14e(1) 1953

UNIVERSITY OF GEORGIA
DISCRIMINATION

GEORGIA U. STUDENTS DEFY REGENT

Stand Ground Against School Segregation

ATHENS, Ga. — The Red and Black, student newspaper of the University of Georgia, levelled a front page broadside at university regent Ray Harris of Augusta last week.

Harris, an advocate of segregation, protested an editorial in the paper calling for an end to racial segregation. He said he would ask the board of regents to end state assistance to the paper.

The student staff answered with a news story, cartoon and editorial accusing Harris of threatening the freedom of the press.

STAND GROUND

Later the paper's executive staff said they were sorry of the blast against Harris, embarrassed the university or the board of regents but they believed their judgment "was sound under the circumstances as we knew them at the time of publication."

They added they are still against segregation.

The statement was signed by Walter A. Lundy, jr., editor; Bill Shipp, managing editor, and Priscilla Arnold, news editor.

BLAST TALMADGE

Harris had protested a November 9 editorial condemning efforts by Gov. Herman Talmadge to block attempts to "give the Negro a chance to get an education equal to the white man."

"It is as plain as the Red flag in Russia that continued segregation and repression can and will cause the death of democracy by the hands of its own leaders" the editorial said.

Harris reportedly demanded the paper discontinue the anti-segregation policy and threatened to stop state funds if it did not.

ONLY PROTEST

The front page blast at him followed on Nov. 12. Lundy said Harris' was the protest the paper had received on the anti-segregation issue.

Although an end to state aid would affect only about one third of the paper's annual $15,000 budget. This amount comes from a student activity fee fund, and is merely an indirect contribution from the state.

The paper receives two-thirds of its income from advertising.

Freedom to Quit: When editors of The Red and Black, the student weekly of the University of Georgia at Athens, ran an editorial expressing a liberal attitude toward segregation in education, they stepped on the toes of politically powerful Roy V. Harris, a supporter of Gov. Herman Talmadge and a regent of the university. Harris denounced the students involved as "a little handful of sissy, misguided squirts," and threatened to deny state funds to the campus paper. Last week, student editors Walter Lundy Jr. and Bill Shipp, resigned when a student-majority board was set up to make the editorial decisions on "controversial" matters. They said freedom of the press had been flouted.

14e(1) 1953

UNIVERSITY OF GEORGIA
DISCRIMINATION

REGENT CALLS GA.

Continues Feud Over Anti-Jim Crow Stand

ATHENS, Ga. — University of Georgia Regent Roy Harris took another blast at the student editor's of the school paper last week calling them a "little handful of sissy, misguided squirts."

In his own weekly paper in Augusta, Harris wrote "the time has come to clean out all of these institutions of all Communist influences and the crazy idea of mixing and mingling of the races which was sponsored in this country by the Communist party."

Harris has been feuding with the editors of the Red and Black since they published an editorial Nov. 5, attacking Gov. Herman Talmadge and supporting the abolition of segregation in the Georgia public school system.

WOULD STOP FUNDS

Harris then threatened to ask contribution to the paper's $15,000 operating budget. The paper answered him with a front page story, cartoon and editorial accusing Harris of trying to suppress freedom of the press.

They later issued a statement denying any intent to embarass the University of the regents, but reaffirming their stand against segregation.

Harris is a politically powerful figure in this area of Georgia. He is also a staunch defender of both Talmadge and segregation.

EDITORS SHOCKED

Student editors William Shipp and Walter A. Lundy jr., both 20 and native Georgins, expressed themselves as shocked by Harris' latest blast at them. They told reporters they would like to strike likely they would do so because of "pressures" on the university.

They admitted the editorial was their own opinion and not intended to represent student opinion at the university.

But an unofficial survey last week indicated a majority of students would not object to integration of the university itself.

Two more UG editors G

ATHENS, Ga., Dec. 5—(AP)—Two editors of the Red and Black, University of Georgia student newspaper which has been torn by a segregation row, have resigned.

Priscilla Arnold of Marietta, acting editor, and Gene Britton of Moultrie, acting managing editor, in Thursday's edition blasted the University for setting up an editorial control board. Then both resigned Friday.

The controversy started over an editorial against segregation in education. Roy Harris of the board of regents discussed the editorial with the publication's editors, and the students claimed he had threatened action to cut off the paper's appropriation. Harris denied this, but later called the editors "squirts."

Editor Walter Lundy Jr., and Managing Editor Bill Shipp resigned Wednesday protesting what they called "a board of control that would throttle our editorial rights." Miss Arnold and Britton were appointed to replace them.

...in segregation row

Order Ga. University Paper To Stop Attacks On Jim Crow Schools

Athens, Ga. — (ANP). — The University of Georgia campus newspaper last week was ordered to stop publishing editorials attacking segregation in schools.

The 60-year-old campus publication, the Red and Black, was threatened with loss of state funds if it continued its attacks on Jim Crow schools. The paper has run several editorials supporting racial integration in schools.

Roy V. Harris, a member of the state board of regents, said the paper came under the jurisdiction of the state because it received two-thirds of its funds from the state.

Harris, who publishes a small propaganda weekly here, said all he did was warn the editors on what might happen.

"I didn't threaten those college boys. I just told them what was going to happen—that the University of Georgia is not going to be a party to operating a newspaper that advocates doing away with segregation in the school system," his statement said.

"Red and Black" charged Harris this week with attacking the freedom of the press following remarks its editorial writers said they got from Harris in Atlanta last week during a meeting of the Board of Regents.

The state turns over to "Red and Black" about one third of its $15,000.00 budget, collected by the university in student fees. The balance comes from advertising revenue.

Boss Roy Harris Denies Threat On Student Editors

University Of Georgia Student Paper Is Against Jimcrow

AUGUSTA, Ga., Nov. 30—Augusta's Roy Harris, outspoken white supremacist and a regent of the University of Georgia System, has denied that he would have funds drawn from "Red and Black," University of Georgia student Publications, if it continues to attack racial segregation on

14e(1) 1953

University of Georgia Law School
Discrimination

Negro Drafts New Plea for Athens Entry

Horace T. Ward, 27-year-old Negro school teacher who unsuccessfully has sought admission to the University of Georgia Law School since September, 1950, will move against a new Board of Regents block in Federal Court Thursday.

The Board of Regents Wednesday cited Ward's failure to take an entrance examination, which was made mandatory in February, 1952, and declared that further consideration of his application is "not necessary or proper at this time."

The action, taken in the form of a resolution, will be incorporated in a brief that Arthur Howell, attorney for the regents, said he will file Thursday in Federal Court. A. T. Walden, Negro attorney who represents Ward, said he will file a brief contending the entrance examination regulation was made after Ward's application and he should not be required to take it. (Ward refused to take the examination when it was offered to him in September, 1952.)

"We contend," said Walden, "that we have exhausted our administrative remedies. We have complied with all regulations in effect at the time he filed his application for admittance. He should not be required to comply with new ones adopted since that time."

Briefs are to be considered by Federal Judge Frank Hooper. No hearing is scheduled. Ward, who according to his attorney is teaching in an unnamed Atlanta school, holds a Bachelor of Arts degree from Morehouse College and a Master of Arts degree from Atlanta University.

At the same meeting the regents tentatively approved allocation of $11,439,000 to state universities and colleges and unanimously re-elected Chancellor Harmon W. Caldwell to his post for another year, beginning July 1.

In re-electing the chancellor the regents praised his work and leadership. Caldwell, former president of the University of Georgia, has served as chancellor since 1948. The Wednesday meeting also marked the end of Frank Spratlin's 10-year term as a member of the board and the beginning of a term for Freeman Strickland, his successor. Spratlin, an Atlanta insurance man, served as chairman of the Georgia Tech - WGST committee. Strickland is vice-president of the First National Bank.

The tentative $11,439,000 allocation was set to establish a framework in which individual institutions may work out their budgets, Caldwell said. He said they are subject to change before the budget meeting of the regents in March.

The regents also approved a $430,000 building program that will go into operation immediately and includes a $30,000 allotment for remodeling a building to be used as a law institute at the University of Georgia.

Of the sum allotted, $320,500 will go for repairs and fire safety work. Fort Valley State College will get $30,000 for transforming the old library building into administrative offices and building a vault. Savannah State College will get $25,000 for reworking the present administrative set-up in Meldrim Hall, including construction of a vault; $8,500 for improvements to the home economics building, and $3,750 for improvements to the training school. Albany State College will get $17,500 for providing new administrative offices in Caroline Hall and a vault.

Didn't Discriminate, State Answers Ward

By ANNE GOWEN

State attorneys contended Thursday that there was "no discrimination" against Horace Ward involved in the passing of new admission regulations for the University of Georgia Law School.

Meanwhile, Ward's lawyers pointed to the appropriations bill passed by the 1951 General Assembly as "crucial proof of a continuing pattern of discrimination."

The arguments came in briefs filed by Atty. Gen. Eugene Cook, acting for the State Board of Regents, and Ward's lawyers, Thurgood Marshall and A. T. Walden.

The briefs were submitted to U. S. District Judge Frank A. Hooper, who is considering the state's motion to dismiss Ward's suit for entry to the law school.

Cook's brief reasserted the state's contention that the new regulations requiring entrance examinations for the university's Schools of Law and Medicine must be applied to Ward.

Since he has refused to take the examinations he has not exhausted his administrative remedies, Cook's brief stated.

Ward's lawyers contended that the passing of new regulations while Ward's application was pending had changed the terms on which the application would be judged, and that he was therefore not subject to them.

The lawyers claimed that Ward already had taken his application through one full set of appeals, and that he does not have to "exhaust his administrative remedies two times."

Ward's lawyers contended that the Atlanta Negro would be "caught in an endless procedural morass" if he complied with the entrance exam requirement.

"New rules can be promulgated each time the appeal of an aggrieved person reaches the highest body in the administration setup," Ward's brief stated.

Ward's lawyers claimed the 1951 appropriations act, which would withdraw state funds from any unit of the University System that admits both white and Negro students "supplies one obvious motive for continuous discrimination" against Ward.

If the Board of Regents had admitted Ward, all unspent funds would "immediately revert to the state treasury," Ward's brief stated.

"The action of the Board of Regents (in passing the new regulations) is easily understandable: Continued delay — continued discrimination — was the most expedient solution," the brief continued.

Cook's brief denied the regents' action had deprived Ward of any rights. It asserted that the right to attend a state educational institution is not a "natural right," but a "gift of civilization."

It contended that Ward must comply with the same regulations that must be met by all persons now desiring to enter the university.

Wednesday the regents declined to rule on Ward's application for admission which they have been considering for more than a year.

Judge Hooper recessed a hearing on the dismissal motion last month to give the regents an opportunity to say "Yes" or "No" to the application. He said failure to make this decision within 30 days would be considered a denial of the application.

Judge Hooper then ordered both sides to prepare briefs giving their opinions on whether Ward has exhausted his administrative remedies. Both briefs were confined to this issue.

Regents Ask Dismissal of Negro's Suit

Regents of the Georgia University System Wednesday joined the State of Georgia in asking dismissal of Horace Ward's lawsuit challenging Georgia's segregation policy in state-financed colleges.

U. S. District Court officials predicted the dismissal motion will be heard in May before Judge Frank A. Hooper. The case will probably be placed on the judge's next nonjury calendar which begins May 11, they said.

The individual regents were made defendants last month after Judge Hooper allowed Ward's attorneys to add their names to rectify a technical fault in the suit when it was filed.

Ward, an Atlanta Negro, filed the suit last summer after he had tried unsuccessfully for two years to gain admission to the University of Georgia law school.

Arguments presented Wednesday by the regents included the charge that Ward has not met the entrance requirements for admission to the school. Other contentions were virtually the same as those presented by the state in an earlier dismissal motion which is still under consideration by Judge Hooper. They included the charge that Ward has not exhausted his administrative remedies.

Regents Toss Ward Case To Judge Hooper

Pledge 'Good Faith' In Matter While Not Seeing Reason To Act

BY LERONE BENNETT, JR.

Georgia's Board of Regents pleaded "good faith" yesterday in the Horace Ward Case and pointed out that further action on the Atlantan's application for admission to the University of Georgia Law School "is not necessary or proper at this time."

The regents thus tossed the hot potato back to Federal Judge Frank Hooper who has ordered attorneys for the plaintiff and defendants to file briefs today. One of the questions Hooper posed was: Did the Board of Regents act in "Good Faith" when it enacted an additional requirement for law school admission and applied it to Ward whose appeal was pending at the time the new rule was passed?

An unimpeachable source said that the Board of Regents' resolution will be attached to the brief which the state attorney general's office will file with the court today. Attorney A. T. Walden said that Ward's brief will be filed before the deadline.

COLLEGE APPROPRIATIONS

At the same time the board voted tentative budgets for state colleges and universities. A total of $3,535,000 was allocated to Georgia Tech and the University of Georgia. This was over two million dollars more than the $1,086,000 allocated to the three state colleges for Negroes.

Savannah State was voted $464,000, Fort Valley State, $354,000, and Albany State $268,000. Administrators will submit tentative operational budgets within these amounts.

A total of $150,000 was allocated to Georgia Tech and the University of Georgia for repair work and the elimination of fire hazards. The three Negro colleges received $15,000 each.

An additional $30,000 was voted to Fort Valley State for improvements on an "old library building." Savannah State received $37,250 to improve three buildings and Albany State received $17,500 to improve Caroline Hall.

Ward, a graduate of Morehouse College and Atlanta University, is seeking admission to the University of Georgia Law School. His attorneys, A. T. Walden and Thurgood Marshall, have charged that he was denied admission solely because of his race.

ORDERED BRIEF FILED

At an oral hearing on December 15, Judge Hooper took the case off the calendar for thirty days to give the regents time to say "yes" or "no" to the application. Hooper later issued a written order directing attorneys in the case to file briefs by January 15 on "exhaustion of remedies."

The Regents' resolution set up that the additional rule—an intelligence test—was enacted after the Georgia Bar Association demanded a "tightening up" at the Law School. Rehashing the voluminous correspondence in the case, the resolution went on to say that September, 1952 was the earliest date at which Ward could be admitted.

All students, the resolution continued, that applied for the September, 1952 term have been considered and passed upon and they "have complied with procedures prescribed pursuant to said resolutions." The document said that all the resolutions were passd in "good faith" and Ward was asked to take the examination in "good faith."

"Therefore, be it resolved," the resolution concluded,...that further consideration of the application and of the appeal of said Horace Ward for admission to the School of Low of the University of Georgia is not necessary or proper at this time."

Lawyers Say Regents Exceed Authority In Adopting Test

BY LERONE BENNETT, JR.

Two NAACP attorneys contended yesterday that an IQ tes adopted by the Georgia Board of Regents violates a "persona and present" right of Horace Ward under the 14th amendmen to the U. S. Constitution.

Judge Frank Hooper was asked to rule that the Board of Regents exceeded its authority in adopting the IQ test and applying it to Ward whose appeal was pending when the new rule was enacted. Attorney A. T. Walden and Thurgood Marshall filed the brief in response to a motion to dismiss filed by the University of Georgia.

Ward, 27-year-old school teacher, is seeking admittance to the University of Georgia Law School. Attorneys for the state have until Thursday to file an answer to the brief.

Judge Hooper will rule on the motion to dismiss after the final brief is filed.

The brief pointed out that the Board of Regents has offered Ward no assurance that he will be accepted if he passes the IQ test and charged that the Morehouse college graduate will be caught in a "procedural 'vicious circle.' " if the court dismisses the suit.

"OUTRIGHT DENIAL"

Marshall and Walden averred that a resolution adopted by the Board of Regents on January 14 was an "outright denial" of Ward's appeal.

The Board's resolution of January 14 said that further consideration of Ward's appeal "is not necessary or proper at this time."

The document declares that the University registrar "arbitrarily and unlawfully" refused Ward's application, and:

"The action of the Board of Regents thus constitutes a new and independent violation of plaintiff's rights under the fourteenth amendment."

REGENTS RULED

Ward applied for the University of Georgia Law School in 1950. His application was denied and subsequent appeals to the President and Chancellor were turned down. The Board of Regents has ruled that Ward must take an intelligence test before it can rule on his eligibility.

This, Ward's attorneys, said was a denial of Ward's right not to be discriminated against on account of race and color. Marshall and Walden said:

". . . The plaintiff and every other person who applied for admission at that time (1950) thus constitute a class of person who were entitled to equality of treatment under the fourteenth amendment. White members of this class who met minimum qualifications . . . were duly admitted to the law school . . . Today, as earlier, plaintiff is entitled to admission on the basis of the identical requirements used to determine qualifications of other members of his class."

ISSUE OUTLINED

Judge Hooper was told that the only issue in the case is whether the registrar wrongfully rejected Ward's application. In this case, the decument said. the Board of Regents was limited to deciding "on the basis on the record whether plaintiff was wrongfully denied admission at the time of his application."

The attorneys repeated their contention that Ward has exhausted his administrative remedies and outlined that the adoption of the IQ test was a substantive rather than an procedural or adminstrative change.

Draft Delays Segregation Hearing Here

By ANNE GOWEN

Trial of Horace T. Ward's suit for entry to the University of Georgia law school was postponed indefinitely yesterday when it was learned that Ward, an Atlanta Negro, has been drafted into the Army.

The case, scheduled for trial Oct. 5, was taken off U. S. District Judge Frank A. Hooper's calendar on request of Ward's attorneys. Court officials said the case may be reassigned for trial later if Ward's lawyers ask that it be.

Court observers said the postponement "may mean the end of the Ward suit," but A. T. Walden, one of Ward's lawyers, said the case "definitely will be brought up again."

Walden said the postponement has been asked because if Ward won the suit, he could not enter the law school until after his Army term expires.

Ward was drafted on Sept. 3 and is now a buck private undergoing basic training at Ft. Jackson, S. C., Walden said.

14e(1) 1953

UNIVERSITY OF MISSISSIPPI
DISCRIMINATION

Negro Would Test Ban In Ole Miss Law School

GULFPORT, Miss., Oct. 20 (AP)— A Gulfport Negro minister said today he would "exhaust every means possible short of a suit before taking such action" in his attempt to enter the University of Mississippi to study law.

The Rev. C. H. Dubra, pastor of the St. Marks Methodist Church and a former Army chaplain, told a reporter he was refused admission to the university last spring.

If the Negro sues he will be the first to do so in Mississippi where Negroes and whites go to separate schools.

MINISTER MAY SUE TO ENTER MISS. UNIVERSITY

GULFPORT, Miss—(ANP)— The first legal threat to Mississippi's segregated school setup appeared in the making here last week.

The Rev. C. H. Dubra, pastor of St. Mark's Methodist church here, said he had applied for and been denied admission to the University of Mississippi. He said a suit appeared to be the only course left, but added:

SHORT OF SUIT

"I'd like to exhaust every means possible short of a suit before taking such action."

If Rev. Dubra does sue, it will be the first action filed seeking admission to a white institution of higher learning in the state. Suits have been filed successfully in other southern states. Mississippi is one of two Dixie states which has never admitted Negroes to its colleges or universities. The other is Georgia.

Dubra applied for admission to the Law school at the University of Mississippi, he said. He filed his application last spring, but was rejected, he said.

TRAINING REQUIRED

When he asked of university officials why he was rejected, he said he was told he did not have the two years of college training required for admission.

Dubra said he was graduated from Claflin college, Orangeburg, S. C., receiving a bachelor or arts degree. He later earned an M. A. at Boston university.

Officials at the U. of M. refused to recognize his work at Claflin on grounds the school is not accredited.

"All I want is to study law and the university law school is the only place open to me in the state, where I am a citizen and a taxpayer," Dubra explained.

14e(1) 1953

UNIVERSITY OF THE SOUTH
Discrimination

Segregation costs Sewanee '53 baccalaureate speaker

NEW YORK, Feb. 13—(AP)—The racial segregation issue which has plagued the University of the South since last June has cost the school its 1953 baccalaureate speaker.

The Very Rev. Dr. James A. Pike, dean of the Cathedral of St. John the Divine, said yesterday he has withdrawn as the speaker and has declined a doctor of divinity degree from the Sewanee, Tenn., school because of its attitude on racial segregation.

The race problem first became public June 9 when disgruntled seminary faculty members issued a statement against the refusal of the board of trustees to adopt a recommendation of the Fourth Province Synod that Negro candidates for the ministry be admitted to the seminary.

The trustees said that Tennessee law did not permit such admissions, and said no Negroes had ever applied for entrance.

Then on Nov. 5, the school accepted the resignations of the seminary dean, the school chaplain and seven professors, who termed the trustees' action "untenable."

Dr. Pike, in a letter to Sewanee Vice Chancellor Edward N. McCrady, said "the administration (of the school) cannot hide behind Tennessee law. The attempt to do so is dubious on both legal and ethical grounds."

He said that the law first should be challenged and its repeal sought. If this fails, he said, the law should be disobeyed.

"The church has often been healthiest when it was illegal," he wrote. "We got our start that way."

Dr. Pike said he commented on the legal aspects of the issue "because the question falls within a field in which I am especially interested and in which as priest and lawyer, I share in the teaching at Columbia Law School (church-state relations)."

He said further that McCrady and others "might quite plausibly feel that, as a Northerner, I have no right to take sides in this matter."

But he added:

"I am hardly a 'carpetbagger' or 'abolitionist.' All my family are Kentuckians . . ."

The Episcopal Diocese of New York said the clergyman's letter was the result of an announcement Saturday of the appointment of a new faculty of theology to succeed the resigned instructors, and a decision not to hold a special meeting this month.

DEAN PIKE REJECTS A 'WHITE' DIVINITY

Refuses a Color-Line Degree at Sewanee and Declines to Preach Baccalaureate

HEEDS 'CHURCH PRINCIPLE'

University Executive Retorts His Board Can Judge 'Proper Christian Course of Action'

As the anniversary of the birth of Abraham Lincoln was celebrated yesterday sharp words flew North and South again, raising once more the old, unlaid ghost of racial equality that so plagued the Great Emancipator.

The Very Rev. Dr. James A. Pike, Dean of the Cathedral of St. John the Divine and Guest Professor of Religion at Columbia University, fired the first broadside. He issued an announcement that he had decided against delivering the baccalaureate sermon at the University of the South at Sewanee, Tenn., next June and was also declining to accept the university's proffered honorary degree of Doctor of Divinity.

Failure to change its policy of race segregation prompted his rebuff to the institution, Dean Pike explained in a letter addressed to its vice chancellor, Dr. Edward N. McCrady.

Conscience in World Issue

Describing the issue as "so fundamental—not only in our own church [Protestant Episcopal], but in the world as a whole," Dean Pike wrote:

"I could not in conscience receive a doctorate in the white divinity which Sewanee apparently is prepared to offer the church hereafter; nor could I enroll as a loyal alumnus of the university.

"As for my baccalaureate address, I am sure that you will be as relieved by my decision as I am. Preaching is supposed to have some relevance to what is in people's minds, and hence I doubt if my words at the baccalaureate service would have contributed to the greatest harmony of the weekend."

Dean Pike asserted that "I am not a 'carpet-bagger' all my family are Kentuckians," and declared that his side in the controversy was that of "a majority of the Southern seminarians, not to mention a good number of Southern bishops and priests."

Resistance to Unethical Law

Doffing his clerical vestments for his lawyer-teacher role, Dean Pike, a teacher at Columbia Law School, told the University of the South it "cannot hide behind the Tennessee law."

A law that prevents the exercise of serious ethical responsibilities should be resisted by Christians, Dean Pike declared.

They should challenge its constitutionality, seek its repeal and, "failing these two—where an important Christian principle is at stake—disobey the law."

"The church has never regarded the civil law as the final norm for the Christian conscience," Dean Pike said.

"The Church has often been healthiest when it was illegal; we got our start that way."

Dean Pike mailed the letter Tuesday, allowing time for its arrival before releasing it to the press yesterday. He said it was prompted by Sewanee's announcement last Friday of the appointment of replacements for members of its School of Theology faculty who resigned in a protest against the university's racial policy.

Reply Made at Sewanee

Dr. McCrady, in Sewanee, said last night he was surprised at Dean Pike's letter, inasmuch as he had invited the Dean to the Commencement exercises . . . fully aware of the latter's opposition to the university's segregation policy.

"It seems reasonable to suppose," Dr. McCrady continued, "that the Bishops, priests and laymen on our board are as sincere Christians as are found elsewhere in the church and are at least as well qualified to judge what constitutes the proper Christian course of action at Sewanee as are people who are farther away and less conversant with the circumstances."

Noted Cleric Declines Sewanee U. Degree; Lambasts Its Racial Stand

NEW YORK—The Very Rev. Dr. James A. Pike, dean of the Cathedral of St. John the Divine and guest professor of Religion at Columbia University has withdrawn as baccalaureate preacher for the University of the South and has declined the Doctor of Divinity degree there because of the institution's attitude on racial segregation.

His letter to Dr. Edward N. McCrady, vice-chancellor (president) of the university, was released Friday.

8 Teachers Quit

A copy of the letter was sent to the Rt. Rev. Richard S. Mitchell, Bishop of Arkansas, who is the chancellor (chairman of the trustees) of the ci. the appointment of a new faculty of theology to succeed the eight instructors who resigned over the action of the trustees declining to admit colored students to the seminary.

The university also decided not to hold a special meeting of the trustees this February as requested by a group of Southern bishops who had hoped for a solution of the problem.

In his letter Dr. Pike said these two actions "make it necessary for me to cancel my plans to be with you this June to preach the baccalaureate sermon and to receive the honorary degree which you had informed me is traditionally accorded the baccalaureate preacher.

"I could not in conscience receive a doctorate in the white divinity which Sewanee apparently is prepared to offer the Church hereafter," he wrote.

"I am sure that you will be

REV. DR. JAMES A. PIKE

Sewanee (Tenn.) university.

The particular phase in the Sewanee controversy to which Dean Pike's letter is a response was an announcement Saturday relieved by my decision as I am. Preaching is supposed to have some relevance to what is in people's minds, and hence I doubt if my words at the baccalaureate service would have contributed to the greatest harmony of the weekend."

Law No Loophole

Dean Pike explained that the school, "cannot hide behind the Tennessee law on segregation in education." He added that the church has been its healthiest when it was illegal.

After expressing surprise at Dean Pike's action, Dr. Edward N. McCrady, vice chancellor of the university, defended the attitude of the bishops, priests and laymen on the university's trustee board by saying that they are "as sincere Christians as anyone else and are in a position to judge what is best at Sewanee and are in a position said he also expected "some opposition."

One of the most interesting telegrams recieved by the Dean was that of the graduating class of the University of the South which he would have addressed had he bowed to the school's bigotry.

The telegram from the white students said: "Congratulations Sir on your defense of Christ's Church. Faith can move moun-

Causes Wide Comment

Last Friday in his study at the Cathedral Dean Pike told the ARNS his position had

No Carpetbagger

However, Dean Pike declared that he is not a "carpet bagger;" that all his family are Kentuckians. He added that his feelings in this matter are shared by a majority of the tains. Faithfully, St. Luke Class of 1953."

The word "mountains" in the telegram was in quotations and an official of the Cathedral pointed out that Sewanee which is the actual name of the University of the South, means "mountain" when translated.

Thus in its literal sense the student's telegram actually said "Faith can move Sewanee" obviously meaning that faith can move the school off its present position of racial segregation.

Sewanee Votes To Admit All

SEWANNE, Tenn.—The board of trustees of the South voted last week to consider applications for admission to the University Seminary "without regard to race."

The resolution passed, seventy-eight to six, after six hours' deliberation.

The trustees' vote apparently closed the issue of admission of Negroes to the Sewannee's School of Theology. Dissatisfaction with the school's past stand on the question prompted a series of resignations by seminary faculty members last year.

M'CRADY ASSERTS LAW BLOCKS NEGRO STUDY

South Florida Diocese OK's Sewanee Board Action

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., April 25.—(AP)—The Diocese of South Florida (Episcopal) is opposed to the admission of Negro students at the Theological School at the University of the South, Sewanee, Tennessee.

Clergy and lay delegates in convention this week passed a resolution expressing full confidence in the university board's "solving the admission problem in a Christian manner."

The action followed a speech by Dr. Edward McCrady, vice chancellor of the university, at a lay dinner. Dr. McCrady referred to news stories the university had refused admission of Negro students.

Actually, he said, there is no rule at the school which prohibits it, but Tennessee law prohibits it.

Because of that, the board of trustees did not deem it advisable to admit them now, he said.

South Carolina Minister Makes Application To Enter Sewanee

SEWANEE, Tenn. (ANP)—With the board of trustees reversing its stand on admitting colored students to the seminary at the University of the South (Sewanee) internal strife at the Episcopalian institution appears to be coming to an end.

Two new developments occurred at Sewanee in the wake of the board's decision. The first was application by the Rev. John M. Moncrief, rector of a colored church parish in Orangeburg, S.C. for admission to a five-week graduate study class at the School of Theology which begins July 29.

The other was the hiring of a new chaplain to succeed one who was among eight faculty members who resigned last November in protest against the board's decision not to approve "at this time" a recommendation of the Fourth Province Synod that colored students be admitted to the seminary.

Chaplain From Arkansas

The new chaplain is the Rev. David B. Collins, 30, Marianna, Ark., who succeeds the Rev. Richard H. Wilmer.

If Rev. Moncrief's application is approved or that of some other colored student, then the controversy which erupted at Sewanee a year ago should come to an end.

A graduate of Fisk University, Rev. Moncrief wrote inquiring about requirements for attending the graduate training course this summer, university officials said. A catalogue and a standard application form were forwarded to the clergyman, they added, and they were awaiting receipt of the filled in form.

Sewanee Segregation

About a year ago, the trustees of the University of the South (Sewanee) were asked by the local synod of the Protestant Episcopal Church to admit Negroes to the theological school. Fearful that such a step would violate Tennessee law, the trustees refused. Eight faculty members resigned in the ensuing furor.

Last week, the trustees reversed themselves after a six-hour session and voted to permit Negroes to attend the school. Asked what the university would do if it was sued for breaking a state segregation law by one day admitting a Negro seminarian, Bishop R. Bland Mitchell, the chancellor, replied: "We'll face that when we come to it."

14e(1) 1953

UNIVERSITY OF THE SOUTH (Sewanee, Tenn).
DISCRIMINATION

Sewanee Votes To Study Applications by Negroes

Action Follows Year-Long Fight at Episcopal School

SEWANEE, Tenn., June 4—(AP)—The board of trustees of the University of the South voted today to consider applications for admission to the university seminary "without regard to race."

The resolution passed 78-6 after six hours of deliberation.

The board's action came after members heard a report by a committee appointed last year by Bishop R. Bland Mitchell, chancellor of the Episcopal church school. He instructed the group to study the hotly-disputed issue.

The trustees' vote apparently closed the issue of admission of Negroes to Sewanee's school of theology. Dissatisfaction with the school's past stand on the question prompted a series of resignations by seminary faculty members last year.

The resolution adopted today said:

"Whereas the constitution and ordinances of the University of the South do not deny admission of students because of race or color, be it therefore resolved that the Board of Trustees instruct the vice chancellor and the authorities charged with admission of students to the school of theology to give all applications for admission thereto sincere and thorough consideration without regard to race."

Last June disgruntled seminary faculty members issued a statement against the board's refusal to adopt a recommendation of the Fourth Province Synod that Negro candidates for the ministry be admitted to the seminary.

The trustees said it was not thought advisable to adopt such a resolution "at this time."

On Nov. 5, the seminary dean, the school chaplain and seven professors resigned, terming the trustees' action "untenable."

Negro's Bid Is Approved By Sewanee

SEWANEE, Tenn., June 5—(AP)—The University of the South today announced the appointment of a new chaplain and also revealed that, for the first time, a Negro had inquired about enrollment in the graduate school of theology.

The new chaplain is the Rev. David Browning Collins, 30, of Marianna, Ark. He succeeds the Rev. Richard Hooker Wilmer.

Wilmer and several faculty members at the Episcopal church-owned school resigned last November in protest of a board of trustees decision not to approve "at this time" a recommendation of the Fourth Province Synod that Negroes be admitted to the seminary.

CONSIDER ALL

The trustees apparently resolved the hotly disputed issue yesterday when they voted, 78 to 6, to consider all applications "without regard to race."

The first Negro to apply for admission is the Rev. John McCoy Moncrief of Orangeburg, S. C., a graduate of Fisk University and General Theological Seminary in New York.

School officials said Moncrief wrote several days ago to inquire about a five-week summer course which leads to a Master of Sacred Theology degree.

A catalogue and standard application form were mailed to him, and they are awaiting receipt of the filled-in form, the officials said.

ATLANTAN NAMED

Three new members were elected to three-year terms to the board of trustees today to represent the university's associated alumni. They are:

The Rev. Grover Alison Jr., Jacksonville, Fla.; Malcolm Fooshee, New York City, and Alexander W. Wellford, Memphis, Tennessee.

An Atlantan, the Very Rev. Alfred Hardman, dean of the Cathedral of St. Philip, was named to the board of regents for six years, along with Bishop Henry I. Louttit of Winter Park, Fla.; J. Albert Woods of New York, and Albert Roberts Jr. of St. Petersburg, Fla.

14e(1) 1953

UNIVERSITY OF TEXAS
DISCRIMINATION

Ex-Ala. Prof. Discusses 'Negro Students In Texas'

TUSCALOOSA, Ala. — (SNS) — A former University of Alabama professor who is currently doing a research project at the University of Texas on how Negro students are enrolled in a letter to The Tuscaloosa News says "the students at the University of Alabama will solve the future problem of Negro students" attending the university.

A poll conducted of graduate students of the university about two years ago on the question of Negro student admission, indicated that a majority of them had no objection.

Prof. Ernest F. Patterson in his public letter, entitled "Negro Students at Texas," present a first-hand picture of the normal, natural unstrained friendly relations between Negro and white students there.

Here is his letter, as published in The Tuscaloosa News:

Editor, The News:

Three years ago when I left the University of Texas campus, there were numerous rumors about what would happen when and if the expected first Negro student appeared on the campus. Rumors about what the Legislature would do, how many riots and lynchings would occur, how many hundreds of girls would leave the campus for other schools, how unhappy the lonely and ostracised students would be, and even that no other Negro student would appear, since Negroes did not want higher education anyway.

Similar rumors were afloat when I recently left the University of Alabama campus for a summer research on the University of Texas campus. The Alabama rumor and fear-mongers should visit the University of Texas today. Although I do not know the official figures, there must be close to 50 Negro students on the campus. But what is remarkable is the cordial, relaxed and unfeigned relations between the white students and the Negro students. So far I have detected no conscious or unconscious straining to be nice, nor have I seen one iota of discrimination. At the cafeteria last week, a Negro girl waited in line between a white boy and girl, and the exchanges between them about the class which all three had just attended together were as gay, easy, and natural as if this sort of thing had been going on forever, instead of only a couple of years.

'I have always considered my function as a teacher necessitated my being a "gadfly" and hence never allowing any optimism or sentimentality about the future of the human race to show for very long; but what I have witnessed the past week would seem to merit indulging in a bit of optimism, and the prediction that the students at the University of Alabama will solve the future problem of Negro students as amiably and successfully as has been done at the University of Texas.

ERNEST F. PATTERSON
University Station
Austin, Texas.

14e(1) 1953

VIRGINIA MILITARY INSTITUTE
DISCRIMINATION

VMI Awaits More Records To Evaluate Negro Applicant

LEXINGTON, July 31 (AP).—Virginia Military Institute says it has been unable to evaluate the qualifications of a Negro applicant for admission to the State-supported, all-white institution pending receipt of his high school records.

Maj. Gen. William H. Milton, jr., VMI superintendent declined to disclose whether there was any deadline by which the application must be completed.

However, applicants accepted thus far by VMI for the 1953-54 session are required to pay their application fees by Saturday or their names will be dropped from the roll of new cadets.

Milton also declined to reveal the identity of the Negro applicant. He explained this was the private business of the applicant and the institute.

"If it is a bona fide application," he said, "we want to protect the applicant as well as VMI."

In answer to a reporter's questions, Milton said the applicant wants academic and military courses that are not available at Virginia State College for Negroes. Milton said, however, "all the subjects he wants are offered by Howard University in Washington."

In the cases of some Negro applicants seeking courses not offered in State-supported schools for Negroes, the State pays their expenses if it is necessary to go out of the State for the training.

14e(2) 1953

Regional Education Program Completing First 4 Years

TIME moves apace. One of the most controversial experiments in the nation, Southern Regional Education, is about to produce its first graduates in June. Thirteen institutions will grant degrees this year to about 200 regional students in medicine, veterinary medicine and dentistry.

Participating in the program are three colored institutions, Meharry Medical College at Nashville, Tenn., Atlanta (Ga.) University and Tuskegee Institute. The ten other colleges sharing in the program are all almost exclusively white in enrollment, the exception among them being the Medical College of Virginia (where a girl medical student is enrolled. No white students attend the three Negro institutions.

While a few students have already received degrees under regional educational program auspices, the class of '53 is actually the first which has had four years of professional education through contracts between states, the Southern Regional Education Board, and the institutions.

Meharry will graduate "regional plan" students from nine southern states in medicine and from seven southern states in dentistry. Atlanta and Tuskegee have not participated long enough to graduate students yet in social work and veterinary medicine, respectively.

The whole operation of the program reveals clearly that the purpose is to evade the plain mandate of the U. S. Supreme Court in the Gaines case and to forestall the admission of Negroes to the several state universities. In short, to extend and perpetuate the system of segregated education.

The intent has been defeated in part by the court-directed admission of Negroes to some state universities on the graduate and professional levels and the voluntary admission of Negroes to a larger number of previously all-white private colleges in the South. The legality and the morality of the Regional Education Program is far from being a settled issue. The pending decision of the Supreme Court in the segregated school test cases could be a vital factor in determining whether the regional scheme will prevail or be modified or abandoned.

Atlantan To Graduate

Regional Education Group Slated To Receive Degrees

Four Georgians are among the first students to earn degrees through the Southern Regional Education program.

Each will receive a degree in medicine from Meharry Medical College this spring.

They are James Daniel Solomon, 390 Pine St., Atlanta; Mallie Clifford Taylor, Macon; Mart Pierce, Perry and Carlton Zelliott Adams, Waycross.

They take four of the 71 yearly quota of places which Georgia reserves at Meharry through the Southern Regional Education Board. The class of '53 is the first four-year class to graduate under the interstate arrangement.

According to Meharry's President H. D. West, "The Regional Program is helping the South build and develop a sound system of graduate and professional schools which will be the equal of any in the country. It is obvious that its implications for educational advance not only for the South but also for the whole nation are incalculable."

JAMES D. SOLOMON

"Under the regional education program Georgia now has 19 students taking medical and dental training at Meharry at a total cost of $28,500 annually. This is much less than it would cost to establish a comparable school in Georgia.

Georgia contracts with the Southern Regional Education Board to send its yearly quota of students, certified as bona fide residents, to Meharry. If the students meet admission standards of the college they are accepted, and Georgia pays the college $1,500 a year per student. The students pay their own tuition but do not pay out-of-state fees.

Dr. Herman W. Caldwell, Chancellor, University System of Georgia, 20 Ivy St. Atlanta is the state contact officer for all the regional education programs which also include veterinary medicine and social work.

Group Here To Air Study Of Southern College Needs

An education loan study commission of the Southern Regional Education Board will meet in Atlanta today to review plans for a study of the South's educational needs for the next two decades.

Under the direction of Dr. John K. Folger, this commission will estimate the future school and university population of a 14-state area through 1970 and the costs for meeting their educational needs.

Dr. Folger is heading the project while on leave from his duties as chief of the Technical Services Division, Human Resources Research Institute, Maxwell Air Force Base, Ala.

The commission includes officials and educators from the U. S. Office of Education, the University of Florida, University of Illinois, U. S. Bureau of the Census, University of North Carolina and agencies in Washington, New York and Princeton, New Jersey.

Meanwhile, Governor Talmadge yesterday named six members of the Georgia General Assembly to attend the second annual legislative work conference on Southern regional education at Daytona Beach, Fla., Sept. 24-25.

Talmadge named Rep. Frank Twitty, administration floor leader from Mitchell County, Rep. J. Ebb Duncan of Carroll, Rep. Battle Hall of Floyd, Sen. E. L. Parker of Meansville and Sen. Wilson Wilkes of Adel.

Regional Education Unit Expansion Is Requested

Ivey Will Tell Governors Saving in Reducing Duplication

By M. L. ST. JOHN

A proposal to save "hundreds of millions of dollars" wasted by Southern colleges will be presented to the Southern Governors Conference at Hot Springs, Va., next week.

Dr. John Ivey Jr. of Atlanta, director of the Southern Regional Education Board, said yesterday the governors will be asked to expand the board's advisory services to the 14 Southern states and their colleges.

Southern schools have set up programs of training in the past without much regard to the need for such training in their areas or the fact that similar courses were offered by other Southern schools, Ivey reported.

"This has resulted in a tremendous duplication of effort and unnecessary expense," he asserted. "The South doesn't have this kind of money to waste."

HEALTH OF DATA

During its five years, the Southern Regional Education Board, a creature of the Southern Governors Conference, has accumulated a wealth of information on the kind of education offered in each institution and in each Southern State, the director said.

It also has amassed information on the various types of education needed to provide skilled persons for the South's industries and professions, he said.

"We can make available this information and thereby eliminate unnecessary duplication," Ivey pointed out.

Money saved by avoiding duplication of training can be spent to improve the quality of other courses in the Southern schools, Ivey stated.

LSU RESEARCH UNIT

Moving slowly into this field of advisory service, the board forestalled Louisiana State University's building an unnecessary and expensive veterinary medicine school, Ivey said. When LSU was advised that the South already had six such schools—enough to train all the veterinarians the South needs—it decided to build an animal disease research unit. This research unit fills an important need in the South, Ivey said.

The Southern Regional Education Board was launched in 1947 to provide adequate services and facilities in graduate, professional and technical education. The states entered into compacts to sponsor regional education programs in medicine, veterinary medicine, dentistry and explorations in other fields.

Two hundred students were graduated last year in these regional programs. More than 1,000 students are expected to be enrolled in Southern schools under the regional program during 1953-54.

Georgia is represented on the board by Gov. Herman Talmadge, President O. C. Aderhold of the University of Georgia, Chancellor Harmon Caldwell and Rep. Chappelle Matthews of Athens.

Gov. Laurence Wetherby of Kentucky is chairman of the board.

Private Aid For Regional Education Eyed

HOT SPRINGS, VA—(INS)—The Southern Governors Conference agreed Tuesday to a proposal that private contributions be solicited for the Southern Regional Educational program.

The proposal was adopted over the objections of Gov. Alan Shivers of Texas who protested such a step would establish bureaucracy in the interstate student exchange plan.

The program enables students to enter colleges in other states when their own states do not have adequate facilities for professional training.

Gov. Lawrence Wetherby of Kentucky maintained that "we can get more" money by appealing through the private group. He said National Foundations and Southern Industries are reluctant to contribute to individual Southern schools.

14e(2) 1953

Medical

"Arkansas Led The Way"

In a speech at Fairhope, Alabama, Dr. Robert A. Lambert, of Greensboro, Alabama, a retired director of the Rockefeller Foundation, observed that the State of "Arkansas led the way in admitting Negro students (to its medical college.)" He was speaking before the Unitarian Fellowship Service.

Dr. Lambert saw Negro medical education making some progress in the South, although it is slow. He regarded the most serious problem facing the Negro in medical education as being the continued education of the practicing physician.

Alabama sponsors a state-supported medical school. The United States Supreme Court has spoken resoundingly on the question of admitting Negro students. One cannot be legally barred because of his race and color. The NAACP says that it desires to press for admission to the tax-supported medical school. However, such a course should be unnecessary. This state should follow the fair and enlightened course taken by Arkansas in admitting Negro students.

The retired doctor pointed out that training for practicing physicians "depends largely on membership in medical societies and connection with well-equipped and well-operated hospitals."

He added: In most parts of the South, Negro doctors ar not admitted to membership in county medical societies and ho pital appointments in other than privately owned Negro hospita are exceptional." He called attention to two Florida cities and one Georgia city which he had visited where Negro doctors had awarded full membership in the traditionally all-white medica societies.

Tactfully he said: "As far as I know, there has been no such report from Alabama, though I understand the question of Negro participation was raised in the past year at the State Medical Association at Montgomery."

He told the group that in 1952 there were one or more Negro students in 51 of the 80 medical schools in the United States. Fourth of those schools admitting Negro students are Arkansas, North Carolina, Texas and Virginia. These states are as Southern as Alabama.

Here is the paradox of a state which is listed among the most enlightened in medical enterprise lagging behind other Southern states in medical training opportunities for Negro citizens. About 34 per cent, or about a million of the citizens of this state are Negroes. Alabama deserves to be listed along with other Southern states which are providing medical training for Negro students within its borders.

Ala. Pays $37,000 On Tan Med Students

BIRMINGHAM, Ala.—Alabama has twenty-five Negro students studying on out-of-state aid scholarships at Meharry Medical College in Nashville despite an A-ranked state-supported medical college here.

These students are studying medicine, dentistry, veterinary medicine and social work. Alabama pays Meharry $1,500 a year for each student, a total cost of $37,000.

Warren Harrison Staley is scheduled to become the first Negro to graduate under the regional education program. The scholarship aid plan is designed to keep Negro students out of the in-state tax-supported all-white graduates and professional schools.

REGIONAL EDUCATION is being vigorously organized and pushed by the southern governors, who are now bringing in the southern legislators. We have been saying that it could not be done, and that educational facilities would have to be furnished by the states, inside the states, to Negro students, but the South is trying to work around it by furnishing outside education to whites, so they can say that they are not discriminating and it is equal. I just wonder if we are keeping pace with what is actually hapening in this regional educational setup.

Governors, Educators Here Today

An array of Southern governors, college presidents and educational leaders will be in Atlanta Friday for a meeting of Southern Regional Education's executive committee.

The state executives include Gov. Lawrence Wetherby of Kentucky, chairman of the board of SRE; Gov. Frank Clement of Tennessee, and Gov. John Battle of Virginia.

SRE officials said Gov. Johnston Murray of Oklahoma hoped to be here for the meeting to discuss SRE finances provided he can leave the Oklahoma legislative session.

Educational leaders include Troy Middleton, president of Louisiana State University; Phillip Davidson, president of the University of Louisville; Harmon Caldwell, chancellor of the University of Georgia; F. D. Patterson, head of Tuskegee Institute; T. S. Painter, ex-president of the University of Texas; Morton Jenkins, head of Morgan State College, a Maryland Negro school, and J. D. Williams, chancellor of the University of Mississippi.

The meeting will begin at 10:30 a. m. at the Biltmore Hotel.

Governors, Educators Plan New Study On Proposed Dixie Regional Foundation

ATLANTA, Georgia (AP) — Southern governors and educators will make a new study of a controversial proposal to establish a regional education foundation.

As submitted to the Southern Governors Conference in New Orleans last November, the plan would set up a foundation to receive and distribute gifts from private industry to state educational institutions for graduate programs.

Govs. Allan Shivers of Texas and James F. Byrnes of South Carolina led a successful fight to get the plan tabled then on the grounds it would interfere with the right of states to determine how their graduate studies should be financed.

Meeting here Friday, however, the executive committee of the Southern Regional Education Board directed a new inquiry into the plan.

Gov. Lawrence Wetherby of Kentucky, committee chairman, named six men to make the new study and told the group to recommend the foundation idea anew, amend it or recommend its rejection. The foundation will be on the agenda of the new governors conference in November.

Named as chairman was Gov. John Battle of Virginia. Other committeemen: Govs. Johnston Murray of Oklahoma and Frank Clement of Tennessee, Lt. Gov. Luther Hodges of North Carolina, Chancellor J. D. Williams of the University of Mississippi and President Doak S. Campbell of Florida State University.

The SREB directors reviewed recent progress of the regional educational program, discussed plans for broadening it and agree to take what action the board can to protect television channels temporarily allotted to southern states for educational use.

Dr. John E. Ivey Jr. of Atlanta, director of the educational program, said plans were developing in 22 educational fields with 37 southern universities co-operating. He said 1,120 students are participating at a cost of $1,500,000 to 14 southern states.

The program was launched in 1948 when the 14 legislatures approved a governors' compact allowing students to cross state lines for training in fields where facilities were limited in their own states.

Southern Regional Education Setup Is Making Strides, Wetherby Says

Governor Heads Plan This Year

By MALCOLM PATTERSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

Frankfort, Ky., March 29.—The South is making strides in the field of higher education through a pioneering co-operative program.

That's the opinion of the man who's heading up the Southern regional educational program this year, Governor Wetherby of Kentucky.

Through it, he said in an interview, 14 participating states are accomplishing more at less expense than they could acting individually.

They are Alabama, Arkansas, Florida, Georgia, Kentucky, Louisiana, Maryland, Mississippi, Oklahoma, North and South Carolina, Tennessee, Texas, and Virginia.

Here's the way the program works in brief:

A co-operating State with no facility for a particular college course—say veterinary medicine as in Kentucky's case—contracts with a State having excess facilities.

Home State Pays $1,000

The State having more than enough room for its own students gets $1,000 a year for each out-of-state pupil enrolled under the program.

The pupil's home State pays for his scholarship. In addition, each participating State puts up $14,000 a year for administrative and other expenses of the Regional Board.

Kentucky was a "Johnny-come-lately" in the Southerner's movement to help themselves by helping each other in higher education.

The program was launched in 1947, operating in medicine, veterinary medicine, dentistry, and nursing education.

But it was not until 1950 that Kentucky's Legislature authorized this State's participation.

Wetherby Was Pioneer

However, the 45-year-old Wetherby was a pioneer in getting his State to join, starting as lieutenant governor. Elected chairman of the Southern Regional Education Board, he also heads its Executive Committee.

Each State has three representatives on the board and one on the Executive Committee. Dr. Philip Davidson, president of the University of Louisville, and Wendell P. Butler, State education superintendent, are Kentucky's other representatives. Dr. Davidson succeeded Dr. H. L. Donovan, president of the University of Kentucky, this year. Dr. Adron Doran of the Education Department usually represents Butler and is active in the program's work.

The program under the Southern States' compact provides for separation of the white and Negro students in the regional institutions taking part, unless the United States Supreme Court bars such separation. It provides equal facilities meanwhile for both races.

Wary of Segregation

Kentucky didn't move to enter the compact, Wetherby explained, "until assured it was not simply a means of providing separate schools for Negroes."

The universities of Louisville and Kentucky since inauguration of the Southern regional program have opened their doors to Negro students. And Kentucky's General Assembly has passed legislation letting any other college in the state do so at the discretion of its trustees.

Wetherby pointed up the savings to a State by citing Kentucky's case. Some years ago there was talk of establishing a school of veterinary medicine at the University of Kentucky.

The plant would have cost several millions of dollars. About half a million dollars a year would have been required to operate it.

Kentucky Sends 24

Now Kentucky has 24 students on scholarships studying veterinary medicine at a cost of $24,000 a year for scholarships plus $14,000 for administration, for a total of $38,000. Twenty of the students attend Auburn and four Tuskegee in Alabama.

So far, no other State has sent any students to Kentucky institutions on scholarships. But Wetherby expects that before long.

Veterinary Study Opened

A study to determine the needs for additional training facilities for veterinary medicine students in the South was launched Thursday by the Commission on Veterinary Medicine.

Meeting Thursday and Friday at the Biltmore Hotel, some 20 representatives of the profession are underlining the importance of veterinarians to the future of the South at a region-wide meeting sponsored by the Southern Regional Education Board.

Redding S. Suggs Jr., staff associate of the board, called the study—a comprehensive survey of the educational needs of veterinarians—"a milestone in the profession." This is the first meeting of its kind held in the South. The final results of the study may not be completed for several months, Suggs said.

The representatives coming from 11 states, Friday will lay plans for the study with Dr. H. J. Stafseth, head of the department of bacteriology and public health, School of Veterinary Medicine, Michigan State College.

How a New Idea Helps the South

HOW $71,700,000 has been saved to Southern states in their bill for professional training is related by a bulletin of the Southern Regional Education program. What's more, the bulletin makes out a convincing argument that this is just the beginning.

The program is based on a compact approved by the legislatures of 14 states from Maryland to Texas (including Kentucky). It is an arrangement which makes available to all the "compact" states the best of university training in any.

The general thought is that by pooling resources, the states will save themselves the cost of setting up competitive facilities and courses. For example, a state lacking a medical or dental school (like Florida) pays for the education of Floridans in medicine at Vanderbilt or Meharry in Nashville or Duke at Durham, N. C.

Four regional contract courses have been started —in medicine, veterinary medicine, dentistry and social work. The heart of the bulletin's message is an estimate that it would have cost the "compact" states which lack schools of this sort a total of $64,000,000 to build them. It would cost an estimated total of $9,000,000 a year to operate them.

Under the contract arrangement, however, the capital expense of new facilities is saved. The courses are offered to their citizens by states lacking the facilities at a total annual cost of $1,300,000 (tuition paid to schools in other states), as expenses are running now, and the bills are being rendered.

This is not all. The professional schools receiving students from other "compact" states are getting more revenue. The additional income for three Tennessee schools, for example, is estimated at $1,525,375 for many years. Each reports that the new income has helped enlarge teaching staffs, add new courses and acquire equipment it would not have had otherwise.

It adds up, as we see it, to better education for more people rather than a constant competition of routine, under-staffed and continually hard-pressed professional schools if every state kept on trying to do everything for itself.

Abandon This Scheme

Virginia's Governor John S. Battle has been named chairman of a six-man committee to study the proposal of southern governors to establish a regional education foundation.

The job of the foundation would be to receive and distribute gifts from private industry to state educational institutions for graduate programs.

Fearful that these private sources would place non-segregation strings on any grants of money, Governors Allan Shivers of Texas and James Byrnes of South Carolina fought the proposal at the last meeting of the Southern Governors' Conference.

The matter was tabled.

It now becomes the duty of Governor Battle's committee to resurrect the scheme and work out some way whereby the Dixie governors can have their cake and eat it too.

His job is not an envious one.

The regional plan was born in 1948 of a plot to evade the clear mandate of the U.S. Supreme Court outlawing segregated education on the graduate level.

Today almost 3,000 students of color are enrolled in southern state universities where they had not been admitted before. The number increases each semester.

Thus the regional plan has failed to accomplish its purpose. It outlived its usefulness before its organization had been completed.

It would be a wise move if the southern governors abandoned the whole evil scheme.

Regional Commencement

In one respect, this Spring's college commencements in the South will be unprecedented. Among the graduates will be a number who have completed their training under the Southern Regional Education Program.

A little more than four years ago the governors and legislators of 14 Southern states, from Maryland to Texas, completed a mutual arrangement whereby states without collegiate work in certain subjects may send qualified students to a cooperating state where such work is offered. Out-of-state fees are waived in these instances, but the home state of the student pays a stipulated sum for each student enrolled.

This year's graduating class, the first, of regional students consists of 201 young Southerners. They will get degrees in medicine, veterinary medicine, dentistry and social work. Later graduating classes will include students in other courses.

Alabama is represented by only two students in this list of 1953 graduates. However, it now has a total of 50 of its young people enrolled as regional students in medicine, dentistry and social work. It is spending in 1952-53 a total of $56,250 to educate these students. To provide them with similar facilities in their home state would require the outlay of millions of dollars.

The state shows up better on the other side of the picture. It is providing regional education services for 193 students. Of these, 145 are in the school of veterinary medicine at Auburn, 38 at the similar school at Tuskegee, and 10 are studying medicine at the University of Alabama Medical College. For providing their education the state this year will receive $197,000.

In a report to the Southern Regional Education Board, which has headquarters in Atlanta, Auburn, the University Medical College and Tuskegee all say the regional program has helped either to retain the present faculty or to employ additional teachers. Auburn and Tuskegee report the program has helped maintain or increase student capacity. Auburn says the program has resulted in the school's having additional equipment.

These are measureable benefits. There are intangible benefits. Through the regional education program, a spirit of cooperation has been fostered. There has been progress toward equalization of opportunities, with a resultant improvement in interracial relations. More of the graduates may be expected to remain in the South than if they had gone to college in other regions. The needs of the South for more professional leaders are being more nearly met.

And the program is only beginning. More areas of study are being developed. A cooperative approach to research is being considered. Eventually the South may be able to meet practically all its higher education demands without the necessity of putting up expensive schools in every state. And we shall all get along better together.

SOUTH TO GRADUATE REGIONAL CLASSES

200 Students Will Get Degrees Under Program for Pooling Educational Facilities

Special to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

ATLANTA, May 9—The Southern Regional Education Program will produce its first graduating classes this year. Thirteen colleges and universities are expected to award degrees to about 200 regional contract students in the fields of medicine, veterinary medicine and dentistry.

The program is administered by the Southern Regional Educational Board, which was established four years ago to develop a regional compact system to strengthen the graduate training facilities of the South through the pooling of regional resources. The board is directed by Dr. John E. Ivey with the assistance of George F. Gant and William J. McLoughlin.

The board at present is supervising interstate contract arrangements under which 159 white and 290 Negro students are crossing state lines for training not available in their home states. Nineteen colleges and universities in the fourteen Southern and border states are receiving a total of $1,381,000 from state Legislatures this year to pay for this contractual service.

A few students have received degrees under the program, Dr. Ivey said, but the class of '53 will be substantially the first that has had a full four years of professional education through interstate contracts.

In addition to the study fields of medicine, dentistry and veterinary medicine, the regional contract program embraces a fourth project in social work, but this division has not been in operation as a contractual service long enough to produce graduates this year.

Regional seniors expected to take degrees this year at the School of Veterinary Medicine, Alabama Polytechnic Institute, are from the states of Florida, Mississippi, Louisiana, South Carolina and Tennessee. The University of Georgia's School of Veterinary Medicine lists regional seniors from Maryland, North Carolina and Virginia.

Duke University's School of Medicine lists five regional seniors from Florida. Emory University's School of Medicine lists five regional seniors from Florida and Mississippi. Alabama's Medical College has regional seniors from Mississippi and the Medical College of Virginia has regional seniors in dentistry from North Carolina and South Carolina.

Tulane's University's School of Medicine has regional seniors from Florida and the University of Maryland's School of Dentistry has regional seniors from Mississippi and South Carolina. Vanderbilt University has regional seniors in medicine from Florida and the University of Tennessee's School of Medicine has regional seniors in medicine and dentistry from Mississippi.

2,500,000 Americans Cannot Read, Write

Soviets Capitalize on Illiteracy in United States

With 2,500,000 Americans who cannot read or write, a new study ordered by President Eisenhower when he headed Columbia University looks at the problem and attempts some answers. This is one of a series of articles on findings of the Eisenhower-ordered study.

By MIRT FREUDENHEIM
Of Our Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON—Today 2,500,000 Americans cannot read this sentence. They are illiterate. They cannot read or write.

The Armed Forces won't take them. Industry avoids hiring them. Government has paid them little heed.

But Soviet propaganda tells their story to the world—especially to Asia, Africa, South America where more millions cannot read or write either.

The facts on illiterate Americans are analyzed in a new 246-page study "The Uneducated" ordered by President Eisenhower in 1950 when he headed Columbia University, and just published.

Ford Foundation and 13 big corporations paid for the study. Eli Ginzberg and Douglas W. Bray of Columbia directed it.

Industry and the Armed Forces provided records and views on the place of illiterates in World War II, since Korea and in peacetime.

In World War II, 1,500,000 draft-age men failed to meet service standards for schooling. The Army rejected 716,000 as 4-Fs for that reason.

Another 700,000 little-educated men were accepted. About half of these got a short Army course in reading, writing and arithmetic.

The Pentagon calls these men "expensive soldiers," the study says. When Korea came, the draft turned them down by the hundred thousands.

To find exactly how "expensive" low-education soldiers actually are, the Columbia study went to Pentagon and Veterans Administration records.

Service records of a carefully chosen typical 400 showed 2 won the Silver Star for heroism, 36 won the Bronze Star and 115 had one or more battle stars.

This record rated even higher when it was recalled that Negro GI's, a large proportion of the poorly educated, were kept out of World War II combat by Army policy at the time.

Compared with 400 buddies one serial number higher in the records, the poorly educated had about the same percentage of failures and success stories.

How did poorly educated GI's make out as veterans: What did they think of the "three R's" as taught by the Army?

The study tried to track down the same 400 as veterans, located 260 and got back replies from 130.

One ex-GI complained, "The Teachers had a Chip on there sholders" (his spelling.) "There was a bunch of Officers there that did not know left from right."

But most replies praised the Army course and said it was of great help in civilian life.

The Columbia study charges that the United States is wasting valuable manpower by neglecting to make soldiers out of good men who missed the "three R's" as children.

RESEARCH GROUP FINDS UNITED STATES STILL HAS ILLITERACY; OVER 2,500,000 ACTUALLY COUNTED

Unequal Educational System in Dixie Named As Responsible For Weak Link in Republic

MANY CANNOT QUALIFY FOR ARMY SERVICE

NEW YORK — (ANP) — To spur democratic growth, enhance its economic well being and strengthen its military arm, the United States must eradicate its "still excessively large population of 2,500,000 illuterates," a Columbia University research group reported last week. The study is entitled "The Uneducated" and represents five years work.

The report put a finger on the unequal educational system of the South as being responsible for the majority of this vast army of illiterates.

In South Carolina, it was reported, 175 out of every 1,000 Negroes were rejected for military service in World War II because of educational deficiencies. The rejection rate for whites on the same grounds was 43 out of every 1,000.

In Mississippi, the study points out, the state spends five times as much on white students as on Negroes. The book quotes one expert as remarking that Mississippi is educating the whites off the backs of the Negroes."

The report recommends a draft policy accepting illiterates and the reinstitution of the Sepcial Training programs in force at the end of World War II as a means of ending the "largest single cause of rejection for military service."

The contention is that a soldier trained to read and write in the army is not an expensive soldier who can't fight well or work well. Contrary to the old belief, the report states, "the military performance of these graduates proved surprisingly good."

In the past sixty years, tremendous advances have been made in eradicating illiteracy but the proportion continues high. Census data shows that 12 percent of employed males in the United States had less than five years of schooling at the time of World War II.

However, in its recommendations for relieving the situation by distribution of federal assistance to needy states, the report warns that because of former large discrepancies in expenditures for the Negro and white pupil in all Southern states, it would be "important for the federal government to establish certain safeguards against discriminatory use of these funds." The study suggested the stipulation of certain minimum standards that would raise the level of the poorest schools.

As stated by President Eisenhower, who was not only aware of the army findings, but actively interested in the project while he was president of Columbia university, "the presentation will encourage the development of constructive policies to avoid such waste in the future.

It has accomplished the original purpose of getting the facts about the wastage."

Researchers Urge Drafting Uneducated

NEW YORK — A national attack on illiteracy through federal aid to education was proposed last week by the Conservation of Human Resources project of Columbia university.

The project report, titled "The Uneducated," also suggested that illiterate young men be drafted for training in the armed services.

It contains other conclusions and recommendations of a two-and-a-half-year survey of census figures, army and veterans administration records, and independent research into industrial and individual education problems.

The report was written by Dr. Eli Ginzberg, professor of economics, and Dr. Douglas W. Bray, research associate.

FEDERAL AID

Suggested is a plan for federal aid to "those states which have the greatest need and for only as long as this need exists." Under this plan, Southern states would be the greatest beneficiaries.

To back the recommendation for drafting illiterates, the project pointed to figures which showed that a soldier trained to read and write in the army is not an "expensive soldier." Researchers found the "military performance of these graduates proved surprisingly good."

ILLITERATES

There are 2,500,000 persons of more than 10 years of age in the United States who cannot read or write and who are therefore classed as "illiterates."

14f 1953

Louisiana

La. Still 'Illiterate' Recent Survey Reveals

Baton Rouge, La. (ANP).—Dr. Marion B. Smith, Louisiana State University sociology professor, released findings of a survey made in educational fields and charged that although there is a marked improvement in the state's educational level, there are many to be considered as "functionally illiterate."

The article, which appeared in the March issue of "Louisiana Schools," embracing a period of 10 years, was more shocking than commendable.

Whereas it was pointed out that the state was making headway in the reduction of illiteracy, such parishes as St. Martin, Assumption, Pointe Coupee, Evangeline, Lafourche, St. James, St. Landry and Vermilion, all rural, have the lowest education levels.

Going back to 1950, the article states that the medium grade passed by adults of Louisiana was 7.4, while for females the figure was 7.9.

"We should note that the median grade passed by adult males in Louisiana is two full grades below that of the adult males of the nation as a whole," the educator stated.

Illiteracy said Dr. Smith is determined on the basis of the grade level attained in school by the individual. A student having only a fourth grade education must be dubbed as "functionally illterate."

It was amazing to learn that in 1940, two out of every five people in the state were illiterate. Ten years later we find illiteracy still high, but with a 20 per cent drop.

More than 4,000 Negroes in the state were declared by the Army as "functionally illiterate" during the early days of World War II, and were denied the privilege of engaging in combat forces. Many were rescued by Adult education classes.

14f 1953

Income Climbs as Illiteracy Declines, S. C. Report Shows

By S. L. LATIMER JR.
Editor, The Columbia State
Special to The Atlanta Journal-Constitution

COLUMBIA, S. C., Aug. 22—There is fresh evidence that South Carolina's devastating twins, illiteracy and low per capita income, are being licked

Figures just released by the United States Department of Commerce show that this state's average income for last year was $1,099, a new high for the state and a gain of 10 per cent over the per capita earnings for the previous year. Percentagewise this state's improvement was the fourth in the nation.

Total per capita payments to residents of this state for the year were $2,341,000,000, a gain of $213,000,000 over the amount paid for the previous 12-month period.

For the first time in the memory of living residents, South Carolina's per capita income is greater than that of North Carolina's, whose average for 1952 was $1,049, exactly $50 under the per capita for

SOUTH CAROLINA

South Carolina. However, South Carolina is still behind Georgia, whose per capita rose 4 per cent in 1952 to reach a figure of $1,137. Georgia is above the Southeastern average of $1,121 a year. The entire Southeast is below the national average. South Carolina's per capita is only 67 per cent of the figure for the nation.

In its hand and hand fight to raise its literacy standard, and to improve its per capita income, this state years ago entered into a long-range program to improve its schools, and at the same time has operated classes designed particularly for illiterates.

For the last two years special emphasis has been put in an educational way on better buildings and facilities, better pay for teachers, and transportation for every boy and girl for both races living outside corporate limits.

This program, backed by the three per cent general sales tax, has enabled the state to allot about $70,000,000 for buildings, to increase pupil state aid, and to operate its transportation system on a state-wide basis that has almost 100 per cent coverage. But what is being done now was made possible by a gradual raising of the standing over a period of at least 10 years. The desired goal is far from reached, but educational leaders believe that, given time, this state's schools will compare favorably with any in the nation. As it is now some are excellent, some are all right and too many are definitely below standard.

Unquestionably segregation suits in the federal courts have accelerated the efforts. Had these court actions not been pending it is doubtful whether the building schedule, backed by the general sales tax, would have had such unanimous approval. On the contrary, each prior step in the program to improve the schools had been voted willingly by the general assembly.

There has been a saying that if this state's low literacy standing could be improved, the per capita income problem would take care of itself. And it is believed that improvement in the schools has been reflected to a certain degree in the increased per capita income.

In fairness it should be said that the H-bomb plant project had its effect on the increase, but, on the other hand, the new figure represents a continuance of a steady rise that has been evidenced for several years, and it is not conceded that the advance is temporary.

The biggest element is found in the great industrial growth in this state since the end of World War II, which has created thousands of new jobs. As cited in this correspondence recently, South Carolina's manufacturing plants were valued at $500,000,000 in 1945. They are valued now at $1,300,000,000, not including the $1,500,000,000 invested at the H-bomb plant.

The fact that money is cheaper must be taken also into consideration. This has been a factor, of course, in the larger payrolls. But South Carolina's increase was greater than 44 states in the Union, which shows that inflation alone was not responsible. There was something extra in this state to cause the per capita to show such encouraging improvement—twice the national percentage gain—and no one factor is credited with being responsible entirely for the improvement.

Illiteracy In Virginia Still High

RICHMOND, Va. — (ANP) — The Virginia state department of education reported last week that 1,828 children in the state between the ages of 10 and 19, inclusive, are unable to read and write. In this class are 924 whites and 904 Negroes.

These 1,828 children represent only 10.2 percent of the 669,632 children in the state between the ages of seven and 19, inclusive.

The education department census of 1940, when the state had 712,081 children, 1-19 years old, showed that 2,310 whites and 2,679 Negroes were unable to read and write.

In 1920 the state had 12,658 whites and 7,008 Negroes unable to read and write.

In 1920 the state had 12,656 white children and 15,798 Negro children who could read or write.

904 Illiterate Negro Children In Virginia

By CARTER JEWEL

RICHMOND, Va. — (ANP) — The Virginia State Department of Education reported last week that only 1,828 children in the state between the ages of 10 and 19, inclusive, are unable to read and write. In this class are 924 whites and 904 Negroes.

These 1,828 children represent only 10.2 per cent of the 669,632 children in the state between the ages of seven and 19, inclusive.

The Education department census of 1940, when the state had 712,081 children, 1-19 years old, showed that 2,310 whites and 2,679 Negroes were unable to read and write.

In 1930 the state had 4,035 whites and 7,008 Negroes unable to read and write.

In 1920 the state had 12,658 white children and 15,798 Negro children who could read or white.

Name Baltimore Woman To N. Y. Welfare Post

14 Oct 53

HUDSON, N. Y. — Mrs. Muriel E. Jenkins of Baltimore, Md., a child welfare specialist, has been appointed superintendent of the New York State Training School for Girls, at Hudson.

Mrs. Jenkins, who has 25 years' experience as a training school administrator in Virginia, took over her duties on Aug. 1. She was appointed by Abraham Novick, superintendent of the Hudson institution, from a civil service list established by a nationwide, competitive examination.

The resident population of the school is approximately 250. An additional 450 girls are paroled outside the school, under care of the school staff.

Mrs. Jenkins began her career in 1928 when she became affiliated with the Hanover Industrial school, Hanover, Va., where she served as a teacher and as assistent principal for 10 years.

In 1940 and 1941 she was a social case worker at the Friends' Association for Children in Richmond, Va.

Name Three As Library Aides

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. — A three-member advisory board has been appointed to assist the Birmingham Library Board in its efforts to extend and improve library services to Negro residents.

Named to one-year appointments on the advisory committee were Carroll H. Haynes, director of Negro schools here; E. Paul Jones, director of the Division of Negro Education for Jefferson County; and Mrs. M. L. Gaston, director of Booker T. Washington Business college.

Mrs. Emily Miller Danton, director of the public library, said the board hopes to establish book deposit stations in Negro housing projects and to add more branches.

Circulation has fallen off at the Negro library branches at Washington and Slossfield and Mrs. Danton said that promotion work is needed as well as extension of services.

Writer Seeks Functions Of Negro 'Advisory Committee'

By EMORY O. JACKSON

Just what are the functions of the newly appointed three-citizens all-Negro "advisory committee" to the nine-member all-white board of directors of the Birmingham Public Library system?

There is a fine all-white Central Library.

There are 10 white branches and two Negro branches.

There have been rumblings and grumblings about the racial disparities in library facilities and opportunities.

Has this all-Negro "advisory committee" been organized to quiet these rumblings—to try to sell to Negro citizens a program which will attempt to make them satisfied with the wide gap in library offerings to Negro citizens?

But when Mrs. Emily Miller Danton, director of the Birmingham Public Library announced that Carol W. Hayes, E. Paul Jones and Mrs. Minnie L. Gaston, were members of the "advisory committee" to make some observations which might serve as clues.

However, before looking into them it might be pointed out that the 1950 census shows that Birmingham has 130,025 Negro citizens and 195,922 white citizens. In other words, there is a branch library for every 65,000 Negroes in contrast to a branch for every 19,500 whites. There is zero central branch for 195,000 non-whites in contrast to one central library for 195,922 whites.

Mrs. Danton said that Mervyn H. Sterne, member of the library board and an investment banker, would serve as liaison agent between the all-white board and the all-Negro advisory committee. She added that when "advisable" the committee would meet with the board.

These were problems Mrs. Danton suggested the committee would assist with: 1) halting the dip in book circulation at the two Negro branch libraries—Booker T. Washington Branch and the Slossfield ranch;)) promotion work;)3 extension of the services of the two Negro branches beyond their own buildings.

She said that application had been made for library space in five Negro housing projects. She added that it was her hope to establish deposit stations of books in the housing projects which would be supervised by the Washington branch staff on a limited number of hours per week.

Mrs. Danton also suggested that plans had been made with the Birmingham Planning Board and the Birmingham Housing Authority for the gradual addition of more branches in such locations as Avondale and Tuxedo Junctions and others.

She revealed that the City Commission has gone on record as favoring the building of "central downtown library for Negroes" which would replace the rented quarters in Masonic Temple.

Birmingham has 130,025 Negro citizens and 195,922 white citizens, according to the official 1950 U. S. Census. Yet only 2 of the 12 branch libraries are open to Negro citizens. There is a large Central Library in Wilson Park in downtown Birmingham which is closed to Birmingham.

The all-white Woodlawn Branch was erected in 1951 at a cost of $77,000. In 1952, the City Commission in its budget set aside $40,000 for an all-white neighborhood in Central Park.

Legislation has recently been enacted which would permit Birmingham to build libraries in public parks.

In almost all of the communities in which there are all-white branch libraries, thre are residential areas in which Negro citizens lived-such as East Lake, Woodlawn, Avondale, North Birmingham, West End, Pratt City, Ensley and Wylam. (The other two all-white branch libraries are Parks Memorial and Central Park.)

When two of three members of the "advisory committee" were interviewed they said that they had not met with the library director for discussions. Nor at that time had the members of the committee met among themselves.

14 h 1953

ILLINOIS

Famous Chicago Monuments

Library Honors Dr. George C. Hall

By MEREDITH JOHNS

No doubt many of us have wondered at one time or another about the origin and name of the George Cleveland Hall branch library at 48th st., and Michigan ave.

The building, one of the most striking in the city, is always a source of interest to motorists and passersby. One of the reasons is that it retains its simple beauty in a community of constant change.

The Hall branch library was named for Dr. George Ceveland Hall, a pioneer Chicago physician and leader of civic affairs for many years. A member of the library board of directors when the building was planned, Dr. Hall was instrumental in persuading the late Julius Rosenwald to give the City of Chicago the land on which the library was erected.

DR. HALL'S DREAM

Though the library was one of Dr. Hall's fondest dreams, he did not live to see the building completed. He did not know at the time of his death that the library would carry his name.

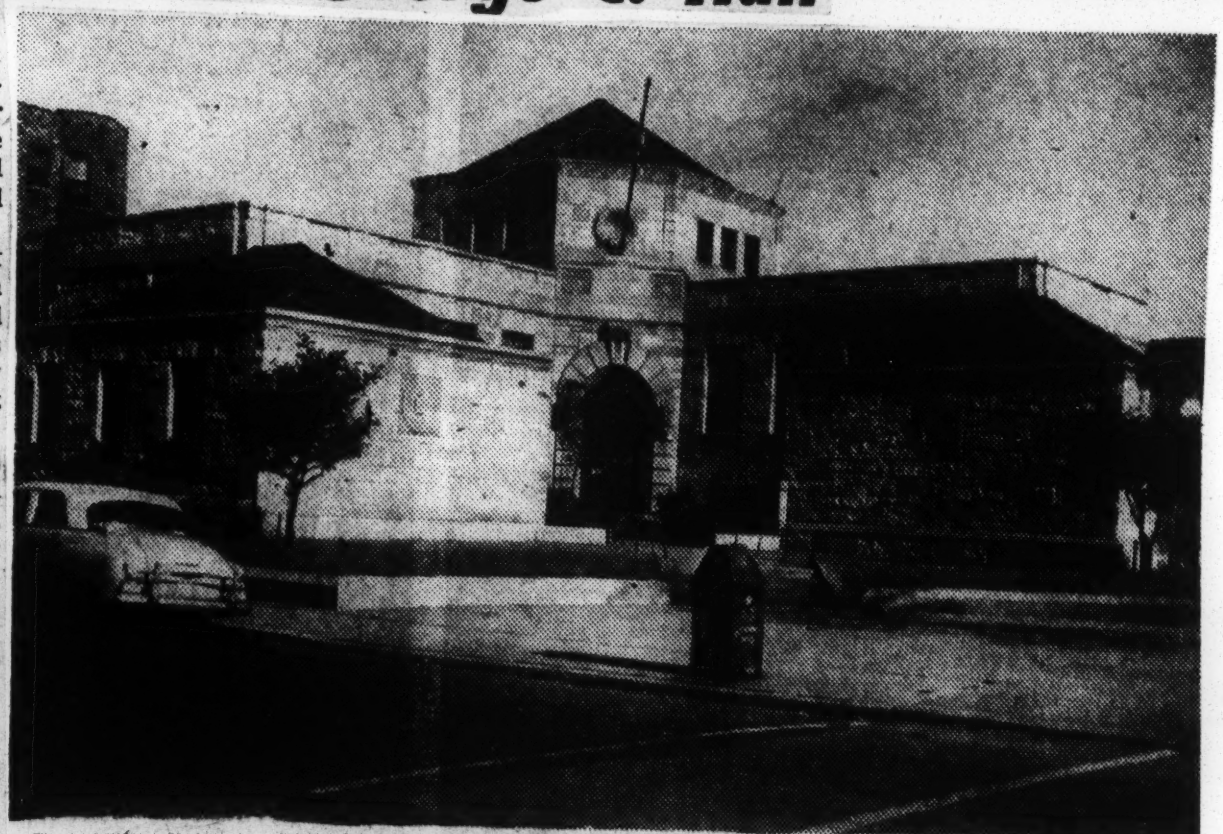
The George Cleveland Hall branch library, a monument to a Chicago Negro, was officially opened to the public during the heart of the depression, on Jan. 18, 1932. The beautiful gray stone building is of Italian renaissance period and its interior is furnished in dark English oak. There are four main rooms off the completely functional rotunda.

On the library's shelves are the Chicago Public Library. Miss Vivian G. Harsh is branch librarian.

Among its activities for adults are a Book Review and Lecture Forum — now in its 21st season; the Du Sable History club, which does research in Negro history, both general and local; the "Fifty and More" group and the Adult Education Class, which is sponsored by the Board of Education.

Among other activities is the story Hour for Children, Pre-School and School Age.

students, teen-agers and adults, Hall branch library has become an integral part of the everyday life of Southsiders and is one of the larger branches in the system of 20,000 books for adults and young people, with a special collection of books by and relating to Negroes. The books by and about Negroes represent the second largest collection of books of this type in the Midwest.



GEORGE CLEVELAND HALL BRANCH LIBRARY

Negroes Received Thousands From Philanthropist

Approximately two per cent of the listed $2 million given over a 30-year period by the late Erskine Ramsay went to exclusively Negro work.

The 88-year-old millionaire-philantrophist died here Saturday, Aug. 15. His valet-chauffeur, William Bondurant, served him for over a half century. Here are the listed contributions to Negro-serving institutions:

1942: Miles College (library)	$10,000
1943: Street Manual Training ing School Minter
1944: Tuxedo Park Swimming pool	5,000
1945: Daniel Payne College	1,500
1946: Metropolitan AME Zion Church	1,000
1950: Holy Family Hospital Building Fund	6.000

14i 1953

A. And T. College Gets $2,500 Grant

Journal and Agric

A. and T. College has been granted $2,500 by Swift and Company of Chicago, Ill., to aid research at the college on a sheep production project for the "Investigation of Management Practices to Control Internal Parasites."

The check for that amount was enclosed wth a letter to Dr. William E. Reed, dean of the School of Agriculture at the college, from R. C. Newton, vice president of the meat packing concern who stated that the allocation had been approved by the company's Grant-In-Aid Committee.

Lamb Production

"Lamb production," said Dr. Reed, "is being encouraged in the United States more than ever before. In such states as North Carolina where there is a predominance of small farms, sheep is more adapted as a type of livestock, particularly because of the low cost of operation."

DILLARD GETS $12,800 GRANT

NEW ORLEANS (ANP)—A $12,800 grant has been awarded to Dillard university by the Ford Fund for the Advancement of Education to conduct a self-study of its current educational program, A. W. Dent, president of Dillard, announced this week.

Dillard will use the grant to study its students, faculty, administration, curriculum and physical facilities in an effort to determine whether its educational practices are consistent with its aims and meets needs of citizens of today.

The study, which will begin in February, will cover a seven-month period. Dr. Joseph F. Taylor, professor of sociology and head of the division of social science, will be coordinator of the study.

Fisk Gets 80Gs From Ford Fund

NASHVILLE, Tenn. — Dr. Charles S. Johnson, president of Fisk University, has announced that the Ford Foundation's Fund for the Advancement of Education has made a grant to Fisk of $80,000 to continue its work in the field of "early admission" education.

Fisk began this new program in September 1951 along with eleven other carefully selected schools. The program was to run on a trial basis of one year and then extended if it proved successful.

Fisk's program was set up as a division of the university known as the Basic College and admitted students to the college who had completed two satisfactory years of high school and who were between 14½ and 16 years old. Twenty-seven students participated in the program the first year.

$130,000 to Fisk U. from Estate

Largest Sum In History From Colored Person

NASHVILLE, Tenn. — Fisk university received $130,000 from the estate of the late Joseph Browne when Marvin W. Sory, assistant treasurer of the Nashville Trust company, turned over the registered securities and stocks, bonds and cash to Fisk president, Dr. Charles S. Johnson. The money is to be used for scholarships.

In making the announcement, Dr. Johnson said, "this gift represents the largest grant ever left Fisk by a Negro, and to my knowledge, the largest ever given any educational institution by a Negro."

Joe Browne was owner until his death in 1917 of the Lischey Nursery and Greenhouses. The Lischey Nursery had been established by a Frenchman, Louis Lischey in 1854. Joe Browne had worked in the nursery for many years and at the time of the Frenchman's death was his oldest employee.

Because of his long years of devoted service to the business, Lischey willed the entire nursery, which consisted of 20 acres of land and 12 greenhouses, to Joe Browne.

The nursery, one of the oldest established businesses in the city of Nashville, continued to grow under Joe Browne's direction. Browne became one of the best-known landscape garderners in the area, making a speciality of furnishing potted plants and palms to hotels.

In 1917, the year of Joe Browne's death, the Southern Florist, a highly respected professional journal, carried an extensive article on Joe Browne and his nursery in which t referred to him as "one of the outstanding landscape florists in he South." Joe Browne was given credit by the Southern Florist for introducing and cultivating roses in Nashville, then a rare flower for nurseries.

Interest in Fisk university began early for Joe Browne and his petite wife, Callie. Their only child, Daisey, the present Mrs. T. M. Brumfield of Nashville, entered the old Fisk Normal school where she graduated in 1901. Family interest in Fisk continued and all four of the Browne grandchildren attended college there.

Three granddaughters, Miss Margueite Washington, a social case worker with the Los Angeles County hospital, California; Mrs. Horace M. Bond, wife of President Bond of Lincoln university in Pennsylvania, and Mrs. Joe Browne Jones, who is connected with the public school system in Jackson, Miss., hold degrees from Fisk.

A grandson, Dr. Henry Alvin Washington, a well-known physician in Syracuse, N. Y., received his basic training at Fisk and then attended Howard university in Washington, D. C., where he got his medical degree.

Even after all of her grandchildren had left Fisk, Mrs. Joe Browne continued her active interest in the school, for she supplied the flowers to decorate the Fisk chapel at commencement time every year until her death June 6 at the age of 94. She also maintained an active interest in the Fisk Union church where she was a member.

The Browne's only daughter, Daisey who with her husband, Rev. Thomas M. Brumfield, professor emeritus of religion at Fisk, lives on the Fisk campus said that the gift was one of the fondest dreams of her parents come true.

Fisk Gets $80,000 Ford Grant

Dr. Charles S. Johnson, president of Fisk University, has announced that the Ford Foundation's Fund for the Advancement of Educatoin has made a grant to Fisk of $80,000 to continue its work in the field of "early admission education. Journal and Guide 4/1

The new program, begun at Fisk September 1951, along with eleven other carefully selected colleges, set up a division of the universtiy known as the basic college, and admitted students to the college who had completed two satisfactory years of high school and who were between 14½ and 16½ years old. P. 3 Norfolk Va.

The Fisk program which was the only one in the original 12 that did not have any first year failures, added 35 new students in 1952, and the program was considered so successful that the administration decided to continue it for four years. Dat. 2-21-53

Other colleges participating in the orinigal program are: Yale, Columbia University, Chicago University, University of Wisconsin, Morehouse College, Oberlin College, Goucher College, University of Louisville, University of Utah, Shimer College, Lafayette College.

Business Leaders Form Unit To Help College Financing

By BENJAMIN FINE

The formation of a nation-wide organization to help colleges and universities obtain funds from business and industry was announced yesterday. Headed by five industrialists, the Council for Financial Aid to Education has been incorporated in this state to advise business and higher education on programs for the latter's financial support.

In a sense, it will act as "a clearinghouse" for efforts now being made over the country to this end.

The new group was disclosed yesterday by Frank W. Abrams, chairman of the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey, who spoke on "Business Contributions to Education" before 300 educators at the thirteenth annual forum of the Tuition Plan at the Ambassador Hotel.

In addition to Mr. Abrams, the members of the council are Irving Olds, until recently chairman of the board of the United States Steel Corporation; Alfred P. Sloan Jr., chairman of the General Motors Corporation; Walter Paepcke, chairman of the Container Corporation of America, and Henning W. Prentis Jr., chairman of the Armstrong Cork Company.

Within recent years groups of privately supported colleges have banded together on regional bases to seek financial help from industry and corporations. Three hundred colleges in twenty states have formed cooperative projects of this nature. The new council is expected to provide leadership and encouragement for these and similar groups.

At present, Mr. Abrams explained, the council is planning to operate on a three-year basis. Funds for its operation are expected to be obtained from such philanthropies as the Ford, Sloan, Rockefeller and Carnegie Foundations. Its tentative operating budget will be upward of $150,000 a year.

The main objective of the council, Mr. Abrams said is: "To promote a better understanding by the managers and owners of American business, and by the members of the public, of the substantial contribution which higher education has made and is making to the effectiveness, the skill, the growth, and the success of American business and to the devolpment of this country."

According to the certificate of incorporation, the council will serve in an advisory and cooperative capacity to prospective contributors and to educational institutions in connection with the formulation, adoption and carrying out of financial programs.

How much money business and industry would be asked to contribute to higher education was not specified by Mr. Abrams. He did say that while the practice of corporate giving was growing the record was not too good.

In the fifteen years that the tax laws have permitted corporations to deduct charitable contributions up to 5 per cent of their taxable income, their grants for all purposes, of which education its jut a part, have averaged about 1 per cent, Mr. Abrams observed. This amounts to about $235,000,000 a year.

Source of Trained Personnel

Business should support education, not because the tax laws permit a certain amount of deductible gifts, but because education is important to maintain a free society, Mr. Abrams declared.

"The task of management is becoming increasingly complicated, requiring a wide diversity of talents and training," he continued. "We must look more and more to institutions of higher learning for the men and women we need.

"Corporations pay the colleges and universities little or nothing for training the personnel which they now eagerly recruit each June.

"Although all of us understand why the colleges and universities are struggling to hold their tuition fees at reasonable levels, that does not help take care of the deficit.

"I am convinced that American business neither needs nor wants a free ride, least of all from our private educational institutions, which we know to be hard-pressed financially. In my opinion, it is not good business to withhold from these institutions the support which they need."

American corporations would be among the first to suffer if, because of inadequate support, the privately endowed institutions of higher learning disappeared, Mr. Abrams asserted. He added that this country's intellectual resources, spiritual and material well-being and basic freedoms depended in considerable measure upon how well higher education performed its essential tasks.

"It is important that some careful attention be given promptly to developing adequate standards to guide business policies on financial backing for higher education, of which academic merit is only one," Mr. Abrams said.

New Cooperation Praised

In an address on "Industry and Education," Dr. Gilbert F. White, president of Haverford College, hailed industry's contributions to education. For the first time, he observed, "American liberal arts colleges are systematically seeking financial support from industrial corporations and are receiving it.

"Industry and education can expect to cooperate in their common effort—not in terms of teaching any particular line of thought, but rather in terms of promoting the growth of people who can deal wisely with new thought," Dr. White said.

"Education which promotes such growth has, it seems to me, these three characteristics: honest dealing with every relevant idea, readiness to examine the religious and moral implications of these ideas and responsible concern for making peaceful, constructive changes to meet new conditions."

The Tuition Plan forum honored Dr. Harry James Carman, former dean and professor at Columbia College, Columbia University, for "outstanding service to education in 19852." Dr. Carman was chosen by a jury of award consisting of seven education editors, headed by David Taylor Marke of The Associated Press.

The Tuition Plan, founded in 1938, provides a method by which tuition and all other fees in 400 schools and colleges are paid by students monthly during the academic year.

Rudolf Neuburger, president of the Tuition Plan, presided. He announced that the plan was sponsor of a study dealing with "the citizen and his schools," to be conducted by Roy E. Larsen, president of Time and chairman of the National Citizen's Commission for the Public Schools.

Meharry Gets $20,435

New York— Howard University College of Medicine, Washington, D. C., was granted $21,000 and Meharry Medical College, Nashville, Tenn., was awarded $20,435 of the initial grants for 1953 totalling $1,944,151.64 awarded to the nation's 79 medical schools by the National Fund for Medical Education, S Sloan Colt, President, announced this week.

Each of the 73-four year schools received a lump sum of $15,000 plus $20 per graduate medical student while the six two-year basic medical sciences schools received $7,500 each plus $20 per student. Added tothese grants were gifts of individual physicians for designated schools.

These grants bring to $4,764,152-.64 the amount awarded since 1951 when the National Fund made its first awwards—awards aimed at strengthening the medical schools' teaching standards, which are basic to all medical progress.

Mr. Colt, who is also President of the Bankeers Trust Co., New York, said that, while the grants are unrestricted, the money is used primarily to retain valuable personnel, fill teaching vacancies, create new faculty posts and initiate teaching experiments..

Fund awards are made possible by contributions from corporations and the medical profession. Business contributes through the Fund's Committee for American Industry, headed by Colby M. Chester, Honorary Chairman, General Foods Corp.

Doctors contribute through the American Medical Education Foundation, set up by the American Medical Asociation.

Since World War II, Mr. Colt said, mounting costs and inadequate financing have posed a serious threat to the nation's medical schools. At the same time, increasing pressure has been exerted for more graduates to meet the demand for expanding health services. Each year these pressures have placed heavy drains on general university funds. He added:

"The shortage of funds strikes at the heart of the medical school—its faculty. Many schools cannot maintain necessary teaching staffs, much less expand to meet pressing needs.

"At present, approximately one in 20 full-time teaching positions is unfilled because the schools cannot afford the salaries necessary if they are to attract into academic life the best minds of the profession. They cannot expand laboratory facilities to keep pace with the great scientific advances of recent years. All havee been forced to make retrenchments that, if not reversed, will undoubtedly lead to the sacrifice of teaching standards."

The National Fund for Medical Education was formed in 1949 under the leadership of President Dwight D.. Eisenhower, then President of Columbia University; Former President Herbert Hoover, who is Honorary Chairman of the Fund's Board of Trustees; Dr. Jas. B. Conant, former President of Harvard University, now High Commissioner to Germany, and other educators, university presidents and business leaders.

Hampton Gets $77,000 Ford Fund Grant

HAMPTON, Va. — (ANP) — Hampton institute founded in 1868 by General Samuel C. Armstrong has received an initial grant of $77,200 from the Ford Fund for the advancement of education, to help finance the institute's program of teacher education in the Virgin Islands.

Dr. Alonzo G. Moron, president announced the gift last week. Joining in making the announcement with Dr. Moron was Morris F. de Castro, governor of the islands.

With the new grant, said Dr. Moron, Hampton will be able to begin a five-year program of training persons currently employed in the Virgin Islands school system and promising graduates of the island's high schools who plan to teach there.

The training program will begin in September. The work will be done by Hampton faculty members who will conduct late afternoon and evening classes in the islands.

Simultaneously selected students from the islands and from the continental United States will begin an experimental teacher training program at the institute.

Hampton Gets $77,000 Ford Fund Grant

HAMPTON, Va. — (ANP) — Hampton Institute founded in 1868 by General Samuel C. Armstrong has received an initial grant of $77,200 from the Ford Fund for the Advancement of Education, to help finance the institute's program of teacher education in the Virgin Islands.

Dr. Alonzo G. Moron, president, announced the gift last week. Joining in making the announcement with Dr. Moron was Morris F. de Castro, governor of the island.

With the new grant, said Dr. Moron, Hampton will be able to begin a five-year program of training persons currently employed in the Virgin Islands school system and promising graduates of the island's high schools who plan to teach there.

The training program will begin in September. The work will be done by Hampton faculty members who will conduct late afternoon and evening classes in the islands.

Simultaneously, selected students from the islands and from the continental United States will begin an experimental teacher training program at the institute.

AT WAR AGAINST POLIO — Howard University President Mordecai W. Johnson (left) receives check for $5,512 for polio research from District of Columbia Commissioner F. Joseph Donahue, campaign manager for the March of Dimes in the nation's capital. Grant was made by the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis.

4 H. U. Teachers Granted $30,000

WASHINGTON

Four grants for cancer research, totaling nearly $30,000, have been awarded to faculty members at the Howard University college of medicine.

The recipients of the grants, made by the National Cancer Institute of the U. S. Public Health Service, are:

Dr. Roscoe L. McKinney, professor of anatomy; Dr. Walter M. Booker, associate Professor of pharmacology; Dr. Lloyd H. Newman, associate professor of biochemistry; and Dr. Lawrence M. Marshall, assistant professor of biochemistry.

The grants will run for one year beginning April 1.

Participates In Two

Dr. Marshall will participate in two of the studies to be conducted. He will use a $4,000 grant to study "The Intermediates of the Krebs Tricarboxylic Acid Cycle in Embryogenesis" and will work with Dr. Newman on a study of "The Factors in Rapid Growth." A grant of $11,674 has been awarded for the latter study.

Dr. McKinney, who received a grant of $7,000, will study the development of intercellular fibres in tissue cultures of normal and cancer cells. Dr. Booker, who received a like amount, will study ascorbic metabolism and the relation of ascorbic acid and cholesterol to adrenocortical funcation.

CANCER RESEARCH GRANTS TO HOWARD FACULTY

WASHINGTON, D. C. — Four grants for cancer research, totaling nearly $30,000, have been awarded to faculty members at the Howard University College of Medicine.

Recipients of the grants, made by the National Cancer Institute of the U. S. Public Health Service, are Dr. Roscoe L. McKinney, professor of anatomy; Dr. Walter M, Booker, associate professor of pharmacology; Dr. Lloyd H. Newman, associate professor of biochemistry; and Dr. Lawrence M. Marshall, assistant professor of biochemistry.

Knoxville College Gets $47,000 In 2 Legacies

KNOXVILLE, Tenn.—Two legacies to Knoxville College have been announced by President James A. Colston.

One of the gifts, totaling $46,753.92 is from the estate of Joseph C. Farquhar of Clarinda, Iowa. To be applied to KC's endowment fund, the other, $450, is from the estate of John T. Moore of Washington, Pa.

14i 1953

Azikiwe, African Alumnus, Gives $1,000 To Lincoln

LINCOLN UNIVERSITY, Pa. — A gift of $1,000 to the Lincoln University Centennial Fund by its noted African alumnus and political leader, Nnamdi Azikiwe of Nigeria in West Africa, has just been announced by President Horace Mann Bond.

Mr. Azikiwe, who was graduated from Lincoln in 1929, is the recognized leader of West African independence movements, and is now in London conferring with officials of the British Colonial Office over terms of a new constitution proposed for Nigeria, Britain's largest African colony.

IN A LETTER accompanying his gift to his alma mater, which will celebrate its Centennial in 1953. 1954, Mr. Azikiwe stated:

"Self-government will be a reality by 1956. In the meantime, we will demand a federal constitution which will recognize three or more regions, each under a Prime Minister, like Canada, but whose residual powers will lie in the regions, like the United States of America. Other things being equal, I think that complete self-government for Nigeria is virtually at hand.

"We are fighting hard to win freedom for our enslaved millions, to command respect for the African, and to ensure the dignity of human personality in Africa. This accords with the Lincoln tradition."

* * *

LINCOLN University was originally chartered in 1854 as the first institution in the world to provide education for persons of African descent. Its alumni include numerous African notables in the independence movement in West Africa, including Kwame Nkrumah, Prime Minister of the Gold Coast.

Should the new constitution for Nigeria follow the outline demanded by Azikiwe and his followers, he will probably become the first Prime Minister of Eastern Nigeria, thus giving Lincoln the unique distinction of having graduated the first two African Prime Ministers of African states.

State Institutions Get $860,000 In Building Funds

JACKSON, Miss., Nov. 3 (U.P.)—Gov. Hugh White today released $860,000 in building funds to state institutions and said $2,600,000 more may be allocated within the next 60 days for construction at various colleges and universities.

White placed a $1,500,000 ceiling on Building Commission allocations until further instructions from him. He said the released funds were upheld until it was assured that the budget would continue balanced.

Parchman State Prison received $140,000; Whitfield State Hospital, $400,000 for a building to house the criminally insane; $70,000 for the Oakley Training School; $50,000 for experiment stations, and $200,000 for National Guard Armories.

The colleges would receive $500,000 each for a science building at Mississippi State College for Women; a fine arts building for Mississippi Southern; a teacher training building for the University; a chemical engineering building for Mississippi State. Delta State College would receive $250,000 for a library and water system and Negro institutions would receive $600,000.

14i 1953

Schools In Deep South Get Funds

Journal and Guide

Board Makes Grants To Benedict College, And Allen University

P.4

NEW YORK (NNPA)—Benedict College and Allen University, both at Columbia, South Carolina, have been given a grant of $2,500 for expenses of a study of their institutions with a view to developing a cooperative - educational program.

Norfolk, Va.

The grant made by the General Education Board, was announced Friday by the Rockefeller Foundation in its announcement of grants for the second quarter of excluding grants made at the April 1-2 meeting. Dean Rusk is the president of the Rockefeller Foundation and the General Education Board.

Sat. 8-1-53

The General Education Board also made a grant of $3,000 to Mississippi State Colege toward support of a research worker at Alcorn Agricultural and Mechanical College to cooperate in studies of tre economic, educational, and health conditions of colored people for one year. Alcorn is the colored land-grant college in Mississippi.

* * *

GRANTS MADE BY the Rockefeller Foundation included the following:

Dr. Leslie George Eddey, director of Medical Services of the Gold Coast, Accra, Africa—$2,200 to observe methods of public health administration and the teaching of sanitary engineering in the United States and Canada.

Miss Luce Turnier, Port-au-Prince, Haiti—$150 to purchase materials for her work in painting while a fellow of the French government and pursuing her work in France.

Maryland State Planning Commission—$5,000 to asist the Maryland Committee on medical care in carrying out studies and surveys on medical care problems in Maryland.

Fellowships awarded to seventy-two persons from twenty-seven different countries by the Rockefeller Foundation during the second quarter of 1953 included one from the British West Indies.

14i 1953

NATIONAL FUND FOR MEDICAL EDUCATION

HOWARD UNIVERSITY
MEHARRY MEDICAL COLLEGE

MeHarry, Howard Given Grants Up To $1,944,151.64

NEW YORK—Howard University College of Medicine, Washington, D. C., was granted $21,000 and Meharry Medical College, Nashville, Tenn., was awarded $20,135 of the initial grants for 1953 totalling $1,944,151.64 awarded to the nation's 79 medical schools by the National Fund for Medical Education, S. Sloan Colt, president, announced this week.

Each of the 73 four year schools received a lump sum of $15,000 plus $20 per undergraduate medical student while the six two-year basic medical sciences schools received $7,500 each plus $20 per student. Added to these grants were gifts of individual physicians for designated schools.

These grants bring to $4,764,152.64 the amount awarded since 1951 when the National Fund made its first awards—awards aimed at strengthening the medical schools' teaching standards, which are basic to all medical progress.

Colt, who is also president of the Bankers Trust Co., New York, said that, while the grants are unrestricted, the money is used primarily to retain valuable personnel, fill teaching vacancies, create new faculty posts and initiate teaching experiments.

Fund awards are made possible by contributions from corporations and the medical profession. Business contributes through the Fund's Committee of American Industry, headed by Colby M. Chester, honorary chairman, General Foods Corp.

Doctors contribute through the American Medical Education Foundation, set up by the American Medical Association.

Since World War II, Mr. Colt said, mounting costs and inadequate financing have posed a serious threat to the nation's medical schools. At the same time, increasing pressure has been exerted for more graduates to meet the demand for expanding health services. Each year these pressures have placed heavy drains on general university funds. He added:

"The shortage of funds strikes at the heart of the medical school—its faculty. Many schools cannot maintain necessary teaching staffs, much less expand to meet pressing needs.

"At present, approximately one in 20 full-time teaching positions is unfilled because the schools cannot afford the salaries necessary if they are to attract into academic life the best minds of the profession. They cannot expand laboratory facilities to keep pace with the great scientific advances of recent years. All have been forced to make retrenchments that, if not reversed, will undoubtedly lead to the sacrifice of teaching standards."

The National Fund for Medical Education was formed in 1949 under the leadership of President Dwight D. Eisenhower, then president of Columbia University; Former President Herbert Hoover, who is honorary chairman of the Fund's Board of Trustees; Dr. James B. Conant, former president of Harvard University, now High Commissioner to Germany, and other educators, university presidents and business leaders.

14i 1953

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE

$55,000 (Initial Grant)
MR. R.W. WOODRUFF, Chairman
Coca Cola Company

$55,000 Tuskegee Grant Given By Woodruff

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, Ala.—(ANP) — Tuskegee Institute last week received an initial grant of $55,000 from R. W. Woodruff, chairman of the board of the Coca-Cola company and a trustee of Tuskegee Institute, for work on a new Food Processing and Storage laboratory at the school.

The new unit not only will serve for training students, it will offer in-service training for professional workers and render services to farm families.

In the Legislature—

Tuskegee funds increase asked as segregation aid

MONTGOMERY, Ala., July 16—Members of the House ways and means committee were urged yesterday to OK a $390,000 annual appropriation for Tuskegee Institute as a means of safeguarding segregation in Alabama institutions of higher learning.

Sen. John Pinson of Sumter, a member of Tuskegee's board of trustees, suggested that adding the $90,000 to the present $300,000 annual budget might help induce two Negro women seeking admission to the University of Alabama to drop a court suit. The added $90,000 would be for a school of nursing.

The committee is considering all educational appropriations together, and will decide later on individual appropriations.

POLLY ANN MYERS and Autherine J. Lucy filed suit in U. S. District Court at Birmingham July 3 asking to be allowed to attend the University. They said they were denied entrance because of their race.

Sen. Pinson said many Negroes would rather go to Tuskegee than the University if they could get the same educational opportunities.

Sen. Pinson volunteered to present the matter to the Negroes' attorney.

Pinson argued that favorable action on the appropriation would show that the Legislature is trying to equalize facilities at Negro and white colleges.

When Rep. Paul Meeks of Jefferson County asked if there was anything the committee might do to influence the Negroes' suit for admission to the all-white University, Pinson replied that approval of the Tuskegee appropriation might help.

"I BELIEVE if it is shown to Arthur Shores (Negro attorney who is representing the two women) that they have the same facilities at Tuskegee that they have at the University, he will agree to withdraw the suit at least until the Supreme Court rules on segregation," the senator said.

Pinson also told the House committee that racial relations in Alabama "have definitely improved in the past five years, and the work being done at Tuskegee has helped."

But the relationship between the races, he continued, is like a sensitive Brazilian plant which wilts and droops at the touch of a human hand.

"All the work done by men of good will, both white and colored, can be changed and blotted out in an instant by some untoward act or word," the Black Belt senator cautioned.

"LET THE ALABAMA Legislature and this committee go on record now and in the future that it believes in equal educational rights for all its citizens, white or colored, without regard to race or creed, even though it be segregated."

It would earn the respect and good will of the colored people everywhere, he added, and "They can show us how to get us out of these troubles."

"The day of the demagogue has passed," Sen. Pinson declared. "No more Bilbos and Rankins—no more rabble rousers—no more Tom Heflins who thought an emissary of the Pope was hiding behind every bush and rock to do him bodily harm."

The Pinson Fund Argument

One looking at the argument used by Senator John M. Pinson of Geiger, Ala., in his appeal before a House legislative committee for increased appropirations for Tuskegee Institute must understand this as a sincere desire of the Black Belt legislator to get more money from the state for Tuskegee. However, his argument might have been embarrassing to some friends of Tuskegee Institute and also along the line of a dangerous argument.

Senator Pinson whose represents the 14th district of Alabama which includes Sumter and Pickens counties is one of the governor-appointed members of the Tuskegee Institute board of directors. He made one of the feature speeches about three years ago at the annual meeting of the Alabama Division of the Southern Region Council in which he was described as a friendly advocate of improved educational opportunities. He is a skilled legislator who has fought for additional funds for Tuskegee.

He is not the only one to use the argument that by giving Tuskegee more money the Legislature lessens the probability of Negro students desiring and seeking enrollment in the currently all-white public-financed universities. Yet it should be borne in mind that Tuskegee is an independent and chiefly privately-financed institution. Tuskegee does not try to compare with the University of Alabama. Nor is Tuskegee without the lustre and prestige to attract students of any race were there no forced barriers in this state.

Mr. Pinson seemed to have strayed far afield of the best possible argument for Tuskegee appropirations by suggesting that the proposed $390,000 annual outlay would likely serve as an aid to segregation rather than to education. Certainly none of us would likely to think that any member of our Legislature would narrow his interest in Tuskegee to a hostile issue. Nor would we like to think that legislation would be enacted as a bribe to any American citizen to give up his pursuit of freedom, established rights and hard-won legitimate opportunities.

We think that it could be shown that with the money provided by Alabama for Tuskegee and added to that given to all of the other exclusively Negro-serving state educational institutions it would fall short, on a proportional basis, to that given the all-white educational institutions. In other words, the 34 percent Negro population, on the present basis of educational spending, gets less than the 66 percent white population. Per capita spending for college-level education is less for a Negro student than for a white student. No matter what Negro-serving educational institution which gets state funds a Negro student who enrolls could not get what is provided in similar all-white taxaided educational institutions.

In discussing this issue one should not fail to nate the racial situation in the district represented by Senator Pinson. He comes from Sumter County where there are 17,946 Negro citizens and only 5,664 white persons. Pickens has 11,659 Negro and 12,690 Negro citizens. For the two counties there are less than 100 Negro voters. It is hard to see how he could pretend to know the sentiment of Negro people when in his own district they do not ge erally have the opportunity to express their views at the p

As has been explained, the Tuskegee Institute appr should be made on the merits of the case. It is har ject the emotional issue into the argument, although it might serve a temporary purpose. Tuskegee is serving a useful purpose in this state. Aid should be for education which has its own good appeal in a democracy.

14i 1953

Mrs. Bethune Invited On Study Tour

NEW YORK, 1953 — Walter P. Reuther, C. I. O. president and George Meany, A. F. L. president, are among a group of new members who have been appointed to the 1953 National Council of the United Negro College Fund. John D. Rockefeller, Jr., will again serve as chairman of the National Council, and Mrs. Chauncey L. Waddell will be associate chairman.

Other 1953 National Council members are: J. R. Davis, vice president, Ford Motor Company, Dearborn, Mich.; David Dubinsky, president, International Ladies Garment Workers Union, New York City; Arthur C. Kaufman, executive head, Gimbel Brothers, Philadelphia, Pa.; J. Bradshaw Mintener, general counsel, Pillsbury Flour Mills, Minneapolis; Charles R. Sligh Jr., president, National Association of Manufacturers New York City; John P. Stevens, Jr., president, J. P. Stevens Company New York City.

The Council serves as an advisory board for the United Negro College Fund and helps the Fund to enlist leadership in every part of the country where the UNCF conducts organized campaigns. These annual appeals seek to raise funds to help meet the yearly operating budgets of 31 private accredited colleges and universities located mainly in the South. The Council is composed of prominent business, civic, labor and educational leaders throughout the country.

The Fund lists the following persons as serving on the Council for another year: George A. Beavers, Jr., chairman, Golden State Mutual Life Insurance Company Los Angeles; Judson Bemis, Jr., general manager, Bemis Brothers Bag Company Minneapolis Minn.; W. Randolph Burgess, vice president, National City Bank of New York New York City; Harvey S. Firestone, Jr., president, Firestone Tire and Rubber Company Akron Ohio; Walter D. Fuller president, Curtis Publishing Company, Inc., Philadelphia Pa.; Walter D. Hoving, president Hoving Corporation, New York City; Porter M. Jarvis, executive vice president, Swift and Company, Chicago, Ill.; Dr. Mordecai Johnson president, Howard University, Washington, D. C.; Devereux C. Josephs president, New York Life Insurance Company New York City; Thomas A. Morgan, Chairman of the Board, United Negro College Fund, New York City; T. S. Peterson president, Standard Oil Company of California, San Francisco; Lessing J. Rosenwald, Jenkintown, Pa.; Alfred P. Sloan, Jr. Chairman of the Board General Motors Corporation New York City; F. K Weyerhaeuser, president, Weyerhaeuser Sales Co., St. Paul Minn.; J. D. Zellerbach, president Crown Zellerbach Corporation, San Francisco, Calif.

McCloy Replaces W. Aldrich As UNCF Chairman

NEW YORK — John L. McCloy, chairman of the Board of the Chase National Bank, will serve as National Chairman of the 1953 United Negro College Fund campaign, it was announced at fund headquarters.

Former U. S. High Commissioner for Germany, Mr. McCloy succeeds Winthrop W. Aldrich, at present U. S. Ambassador to the Court of St. James, who has been fund treasurer since the UNCF was organized in 1944.

The fund's 1953 appeal will open early in April when national support will be sought to help meet the yearly operating budgets of 31 private, accredited colleges participating in the fund's program.

Assistant Secretary of War from 1941 through 1945, Mr. McCloy was president of the World Bank from 1947 to 1949.

Dent Is Speaker For UNCF In California

NEW ORLEANS—Dr. Albert W. Dent, President of Dillard University was the main speaker on June 20 for the United Negro College Fund May meeting in Los Angeles' Forum Theater.

While in Los Angeles, Dr. Dent will address a group of professional men on behalf of the UNCF at the Town Hall luncheon, on June 23 in the Biltmore Hotel. He will speak on the possibilities of equality in educational opportunities.

Dr. Dent will also attend sessions of the General Council of the Congregational Church at Claremont College while in California.

College Fund Broadcasts Are Announced

NEW YORK, N. Y. — Scheduling of the weekly series of United Negro College Fund choir broadcasts for September and October, presented in cooperation with the Public Affairs Department of the American Broadcasting Company, was announced this week by W. J. Trent, Jr., the Fund's executive director.

On September 6th the Shaw University choral group of Raleigh, North Carolina, will be heard, while subsequent programs will feature the Bethune-Cookman College choir of Daytona Beach, Florida on September 13th, the Fisk University choir of Nashville, Tennessee on September 20th and the Texas College ensemble of Tyler, Texas on September 27th.

The Philander Smith College Choir of Little Rock, Arkansas will be heard on October 4th, followed by the Lincoln University choir of Lincoln University, Pennsylvania on October 11th, the Hampton Institute choir of Hampton, Virginia, October 18th and the Bishop College choral group of Marshall, Texas on October 25th.

The series, featuring the choral groups of the 31 private colleges and universities associated in the United Negro College Fund, originates in New York Sundays, 10:30 to 11:00 A. M. over station WABC. These broadcasts have served to acquaint a large American public with the work of the Fund in behalf of greater educational opportunities for Negro youth.

College Fund Choir Broadcast Listed

NEW YORK, N. Y., Aug. 25—Scheduling of the weekly series of United Negro College Fund choir broadcasts for September and October, presented in cooperation with the Public Affairs Department of the American Broadcasting Company, was announced today by W. J. Trent, Jr., the Fund's executive director.

On September 6th the Shaw University choral group of Raleigh, North Carolina, will be heard, while subsequent programs will feature the Bethune-Cookman College choir of Daytona Beach, Florida on September 13th, the Fisk University choir of Nashville, Tennessee on September 20th and the Texas College ensemble of Tyler, Texas on September 27th.

The Philander Smith College Choir of Little Rock, Arkansas will be heard on October 4th, followed by the Lincoln University choir of Lincoln University, Pennsylvania on October 11th, the Hampton Institute choir of Hampton, Virginia, October 18th and the Bishop College choral group of Marshall, Texas on October 25th.

The series, featuring the choral groups of the 31 private colleges and universities associated in the United Negro College Fund, originates in New York Sundays, 10:30 to 11:00 A. M. over station WABC. These broadcasts have served to acquaint a large American public with the work of the Fund in behalf of greater educational opportunities for Negro youth.

Fifth Annual UNCF Series Set

The 1953 United Negro College Forum, fifth in an annual series initiated in 1949, will be held in three sessions this year and will be devoted to discussions of new horizons in health, education and human relations, it was announced today by W. J. Trent, Jr., Executive Director of the United Negro College Fund.

The Forum meetings will be held on October 27, November 5 and November 18 at the Cosmopolitan Club, 129 East 65 Street, in New York City. Emphasis will be placed on current opportunities and problems facing Negroes in the fields under discussion.

Sponsors of the Forum for the fifth consecutive year are the New York City Clubs of eleven leading Eastern women's colleges, the American Association of University Women (New York City Branch) and the United Negro College Fund.

The first of the three Forum sessions, "Point Four At Home", will be held Tuesday, October 27. It will be a discussion of health and welfare issues, and will present a report on Tuskegee Institute's rural life and health program as an example of positive steps that have been taken toward improving the health and living standards of one of the problem areas of the nation. Tuskegee Institute in Alabama is one of the 31 private colleges associated in the United Negro College Fund. Mrs. Arthur J. Cohen, a member of the New York Club of Wellesley and a sponsor of the New York Women's Division for the United Negro College Fund, is chairman of the October 27 meeting.

The second Forum session "The Changing Pattern" will be held on Thursday, November 5 and will discuss the probable effects upon the private Negro colleges of the pending Supreme Court decisions concerning segregation in public schools of the South. Mrs. Phillip C. Jessup is program chairman.

The third and final Forum session, "The Community Faces Itself", will be held on Wednesday, November 18 and will present a report of Fisk University's anti-community self-surveys will be used by extension teams which have directed presented by residents of those cities.

The annual United Negro College Forums are presented in the interest of public information to provide authoratative status reports on the Negro in America by experts in the fields of discussion. Among the participants in past forums are General George C. Marshall, C. D. Jackson, Judge William L. Hastie, Dr. Peter Marshall Murray and Madame Pandit.

Sponsoring organizations of the 1953 United Negro College Forum are: the New York City Clubs of Barnard College, Bennington College, Bryn Mawr College, Connecticut College, Mount Holyoke College, Radcliffe College, Sarah Lawrence College, Smith College, Vassar College, Wellesley College, Wheaton College, the American Association University Women (New York City Branch) and the United Negro College Fund.

College Fund Forums To Highlight New Horizons

The 1953 United Negro College Forum, fifth in an annual series initiated in 1949, will be held in three sessions this year and will be devoted to discussions of new horizons in health, education and human relations, it was announced today by W. J. Trent, Jr., Executive Director of the United Negro College Fund.

CURRENT OPPORTUNITIES

The Forum meetings will be held on October 27, November 5 and November 18 at the Cosmopolitan Club, 129 East 67 Street, in New York City. Emphasis will be placed on current opportunities and problems facing Negroes in the fields under discussion.

Sponsors of the Forum for the fifth consecutive year are the New York City Clubs of eleven leading Eastern women's colleges, the American Association of University Women (New York City Branch) and the United Negro College Fund.

POSITIVE STEPS

The first of the three Forum sessions, "Point Four At Home," will be held Tuesday, October 27. It will be a discussion of health and welfare issues, and will present a report on Tuskegee Institute's rural life and health program as an example of positive steps that have been taken toward improving the health and living standards of one of the problem areas of the nation. Tuskegee Institute in Alabama is one of the 31 private colleges associated in the United Negro College Fund. Mrs. Arthur J. Cohen, a member of the New York Club of Wellesley and a sponsor of the New York Women's Division for the United Negro College Fund, is chairman of the October 27 meeting.

PENDING DECISIONS

The second Forum session "The Changing Pattern" will be held on Thursday, November 5 and will discuss the probable effects upon the private Negro colleges of the pending Supreme Court decisions concerning segregation in public schools of the South. Mrs. Philip C. Jessup is program chairman.

The third and final Forum session, "The Community Faces Itself," will be held on Wednesday, November 18 and will present a report of Fisk University's anti tension teams which have directed community self surveys devoted to improving human relations in 8 major cities. A report of the Burlington, Iowa and Minneapolis community self surveys will be presented by residents of those cities.

PUBLIC SERVICE

The annual United Negro College Forums are presented as a public information service to serve as annual status reports of the Negro in America.

PAST FORUMS

The annual United Negro College Forums are presented in the interest of public information to provide authortative status reports on the Negro in America by experts in the fields of discussion. Among the participants in past forums are General George C. Marshall, C. D. Jackson, Judge William L. Hastie, Dr. Peter Marshall Murray and Madame Pandit.

Sponsoring organizations of the 1953 United Negro College Forum are: the New York City Clubs of Barnard College, Bennington College, Byrn Mawr College, Connecticut College, Mount Holyoke College, Radcliffe College, Sarah Lawrence Smith College, Vassar College, Wellesley College, Wheaton College, the American Association of University Women (New York City Branch) and the United Negro College Fund.

Fund re-elects Dr. Patterson

UNCF announces '53 forum in NYC

CHICAGO (ANP) — Dr. F. D. Patterson, founder and president of the United Negro College Fund, was re-elected to head the 31-member organization at a recent meeting here. Earlier reports stated that the former president of Tuskegee would resign and devote his energies to directing the Phelps-Stokes fund.

Dr. Patterson was unable to attend the UNCF 10th anniversary meeting in Chicago because he is fulfilling an important task in Nigeria for the World Bank. He did however, send a message to UNCF regretting his absence and wishing the meeting success.

Meanwhile, the fund announced that the UNCF's 1953 forum will be held in three sessions this year. This fifth in an annual series which started in 1949 will be devoted to discussions of new horizons in health, education and human relations, according to W. J. Trent Jr., executive director of the UNCF.

Dates and place of the forums are Oct. 27, Nov. 5, and Nov. 18 at the Cosmpolitan club in New York. Emphasis will be placed on current opportunities and problems facing colored persons in the fields under discussion.

DR. F. D. PATTERSON
(Bennett trustee)

Clubs Sponsor

Sponsors of the forum for the fifth consecutive year are the New York clubs of 11 leading Eastern women's colleges, the American Association of University Women (New York branch) and the UNCF.

These annual forums are presented as a public information service to serve as annual status reports of the colored citizens in America. Among participants in past forums have been Gen. C. Marshall, C. D. Jackson, Judge William L. Hastie, Dr. Peter M. Murray and Madame Pandit.

National Building Drive

UNCF Members Get $3 Million

NEW YORK, N. Y. — A sum of $3,000,000 in additional grants was distributed today to the 31 private, accredited colleges and universities participating in the United Negro College Fund's $25,000,000 building campaign, known as the National Mobilization of Resources for the United Negro Colleges. Today's distribution was the third since July, 1952, and brings the total to $9,400,000 so allotted in capital funds to the member colleges.

The Fund's National Mobilizaiton Program, a five-year capital funds campaign to help the member colleges meet their capital building needs, recently reached the appeal's half-way mark of $12,500,000 in corporation and foundation gifts.

Today's distribution was announced at UNCF headquarters, 22 East 54th Street, New York, N. Y., by W. J. Trent, Jr., the organization's executive director, who said that funds allotted so far in the program have been distributed on an equitable basis approved by the presidents of all of the member colleges.

Mr. Trent explained that reports from the college presidents showed that most of the funds received in the first two distributions, in July, 1952, and February, 1953, have been used to begin construction of new buildings where needed or to make extensive renovations to old buildings long in need of repair.

BETHUNE-COOKMAN

Bethune-Cookman College in Daytona Beach, Florida, used its first grant to renovate Cookman Hall, a dormitory for men, and to begin construction of a new physical education building.

The first allotment made to Dillard University in New Orleans, La., supplemented other funds toward completing and equipping a new science building. Dillard was also enabled to improve its heating plant and complete paving of its campus roadway system.

Funds made available to Knoxville College in Knoxville, Tenn., made it possible for that institution to erect a new, modern building to house its music and art departments.

BENEDICT

With its share of the money allotted, Benedict College in Columbia, S. C., has begun a new dining hall and dormitory.

Philander-Smith College in Little Rock, Ark., used its funds to complete a new science hall in which classes were first held in December, 1952.

JOHNSON C. SMITH

In its report to the Fund, Johnson C. Smith University in Charlotte, N. C., stated that early distribution of funds made it possible for that institution to replace its old power plants erected in 1895, and to eliminate thirteen decentralized heating units.

Similarly, Shaw University in Raleigh, N. C., announces it has been able to make extensive renovations to its heating plant.

The report from Tuskegee Institute in Alabama shows that that college has invested its share of distributed funds until the institutions obtains the full $1,500,000 required to build a new power and heating plant to replace the present, fifty-year old, outmoded system.

Mr. Trent continued by saying that other member institutions have either started or completed preliminary plans for construction of new buildings. In some cases, he said, plans and specifications were developed immediately after receipt of Mobilization Program funds, and in others, construction was actually begun.

ATLANTA UNIVERSITY

Two of the colleges, Atlanta University in Georgia and LeMoyne College in Memphis, Tenn., have invested their portion of distributed funds until such time as additional funds may be raised to meet their total buildings needs.

On the other hand, funds allotted to Lincoln University in Pennsylvania, and Xavier University in New Orleans, La., are being used to build new dormitories for men.

Mr. Trent went on to say that allotments made to all the member institutions have been used to make major repairs to campus buildings and to purchase badly needed equipment for their educational programs.

Discussing the colleges themselves, Mr. Trent said that all but one of these colleges, Lincoln University in Pennsylvania, were located in the Southern states where 73 per cent of Negroes of college age reside.

These institutions, he said, have an enrollment of 23,000 students, representing 28 per cent of Negroes enrolled in colleges and universities throughout the country, and 93 per cent of the total enrollment of all Negro four-year, accredited, privately supported colleges in the U. S.

The Fund's National Mobilization Program is headed by Dr. F. D. Patterson, president of the United Negro College Fund, and a seven-man board which includes such well-known business men and industrialists as Harvey S. Firestone Jr.; Devereux C. Josephs; Richard K. Mellon; John D. Rockefeller Jr.; Alfred P. Sloan Jr. Robert E. Wilson and Robert W. Woodruff.

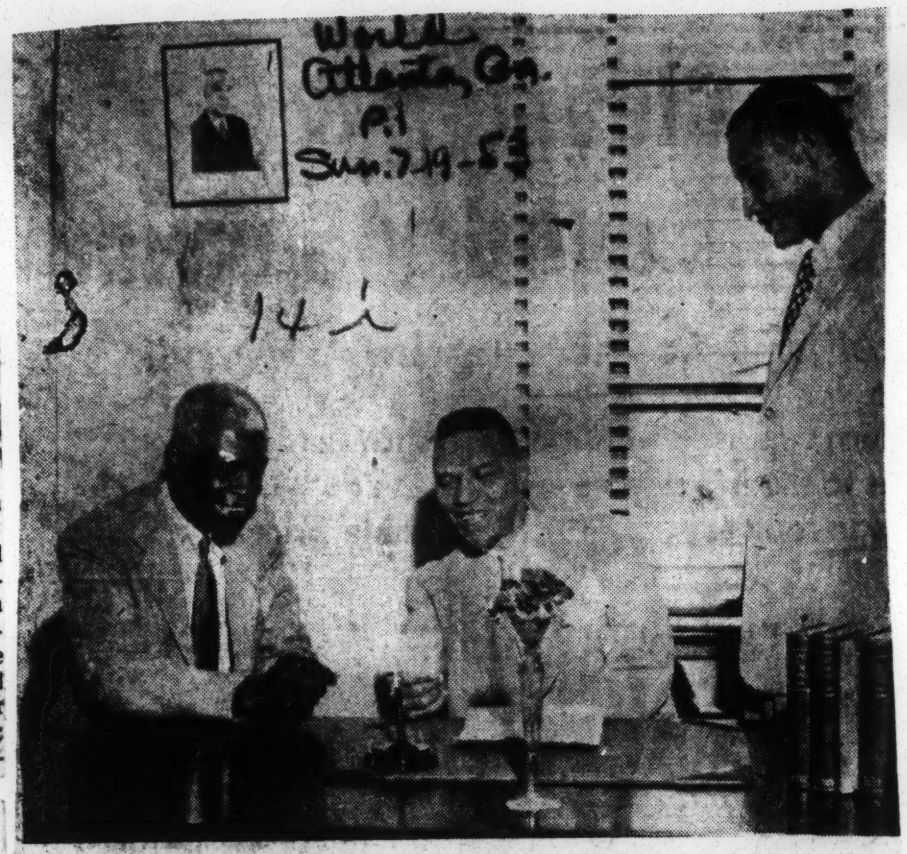
Atlanta Life Home Office Aids U N C F

The Atlanta Life Insurance Company, home office handed the United Negro College Fund a check for $1,255.63 this week, marking a huge addition to Atlanta's 1953 goal of $25,000 from residents of Negro communities.

The check was turned over to Dr. Benjamin E. Mays, president of Morehouse College, vice president of UNCF and director of the Atlanta campaign of the current drive. It was presented by Charles W. Greene, director and assistant agency officer of the Atlanta Life.

The donation represents a collection of $255.63 from company employees and $1,000 from the company treasury. Last year, Negroes and interested people of other races gave $46,000 to the UNCF campaign which is conducted yearly to raise funds for current expenses of 31 Negro colleges of the United States, principally in the South. Six of these colleges are located in Atlanta.

The firm has also contributed $500 to the Houston, Texas UNCF campaign.



UNITED NEGRO COLLEGE FUND GETS BIG CHECK from Atlanta Life Insurance Company and employees. UNCF vice president Benjamin E. Mays, (left) receives check of $1,255.63 from Charles W. Greene, Atlanta Life official, while E. L. Simon, another company official looks on.

College Fund Air Schedule Set Up

NEW YORK—The schedule for the weekly series of United Negro College Fund choir broadcasts, presented by the Public Affairs Department of the American Broadcasting Company was announced this week by W. J. Trent Jr. executive director of the Fund.

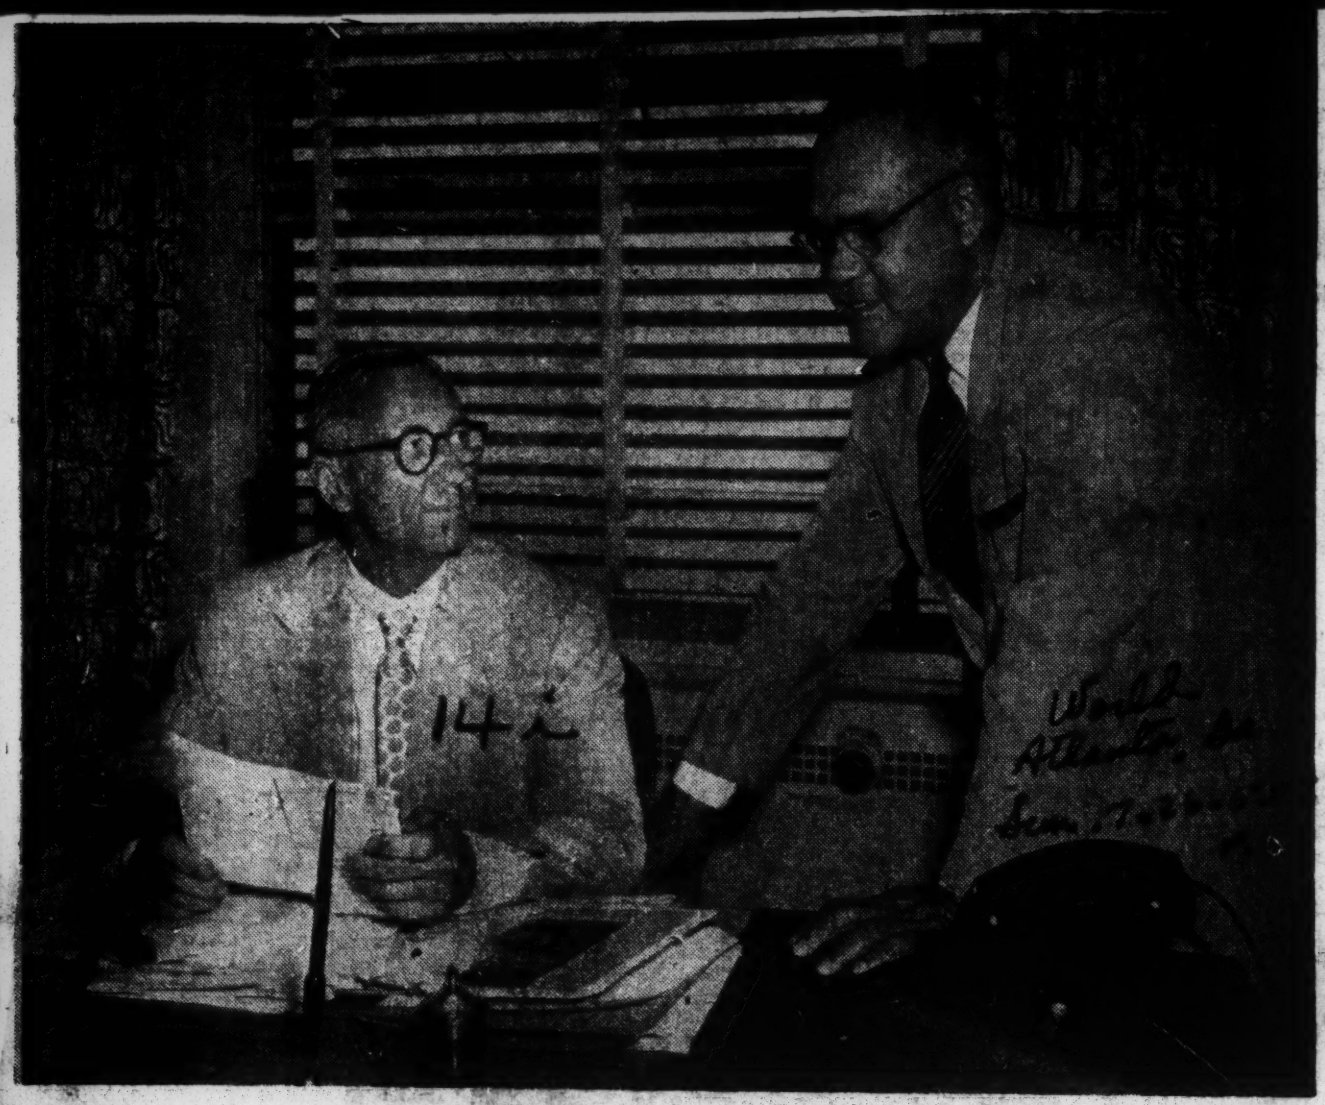
For the seven-week period beginning July 19, the programs will feature the choirs of LeMoyne College, Memphis, Tenn. July 19; Virginia Union University, Richmond, Va., July 26; Bishop College, Marshall, Texas, August 2; St. Augustine's College, Raleigh, N. C. August 9; Xavier University, New Orleans, La., August 16; Livingstone College, Salisbury, N. C., August 23; and Benedict College, Columbia, S. C., August 30.

UNCF Choirs Prepared For Broadcasts

NEW YORK—The schedule for the weekly series of United Negro College Fund choir broadcasts, presented by the Public Affairs Department of the American Broadcasting Company, was announced by W. J. Trent Jr. executive director of the Fund. For the seven-week period beginning July 19, the programs will feature the choirs of LeMoyne College, Virginia Union university, Bishop and St. Augustine's colleges, Xavier university, Livingstone and Benedict colleges, all UNCF member institutions.

The schedule is as follows: LeMoyne college, Memphis, Tenn., July 19; Virginia Union university, Richmond, Va., July 26; Bishop college, Marshall, Texas, August 2; St. Augustine's college, Raleigh, N. C. August 9; Xavier U., New Orleans, La., Aug. 16; Livingstone college, Salisbury, N. C., August 23; and Benedict college, Columbia, S. C., Aug. 30.

The series, which features the heard on more than 170 stations choral groups of the 31 private of the ABC network throughout colleges and universities associ- the United States and Canada. ated in the United Negro College The broadcasts have served to ac- Fund, has been a public service quaint a large American public feature of the American Broad- with the work of the Fund in casting Co. for the past four years. The programs originate in New York Sundays 10:30 to 11:00 a.m, over station WABC, and are behalf of greater educational opportunities for Negro youth.



UNITED COLLEGE CAPITAL FUND CHAIRMAN — New York - Lindsley F. Kimball (seated, newly-named national chairman of the United Negro College Fund's $25,000,000 Capital Fund's campaign, discusses plans for the public phase of the appeal with Fund president F. D. Patterson. Mr. Kimball is vice-president of the Rockfeller Foundation.

Morris Brown Gives $2,500 To United Negro College Fund

Figures released recently on the total money contributed by Atlantans in the present United Negro College Fund drive omitted contributions made by Morris Brown College.

UNCF officials announced that Morris Brown College has contributed $2500 to the current campaign to raise the total report to $26,000. According to the last report made, $24,707.54 has already been raised.

Dr. Benjamin E. Mays has expressed his regret that thru an error Morris Brown's contibution was not listed in Friday's edition.

Voters' Vineyard

By James Hicks

He's Waiting For 3rd Press Release

THERE ARE THOSE who will say that this column should never have been written. There are others who will say that it is untimely. Some will agree with what we have to say. Here's the column. To each his own.

Mr. Hicks

On the desk before me is a press release which states that Lindsley E. Kimball, vice president of the Rockefeller Foundation, has accepted the national chairmanship of the United Negro College Fund's twenty five million dollar Capital Funds campaign.

The release goes on to point out that Mr. Kimball will direct the public phase of the fund raising effort which was started back in 1951 by John D. Rockefeller Jr. with a gift of five million dollars.

At the present time the total gifts to the Fund add up to twelve and a half million dollars.

1953 Drive Under way

There is a second press release before me which states that the College Fund's 1953 fund raising campaign is under way to raise a million and a half dollars for the operational budget of its 31 member colleges.

This million and a half dollar is a separate fund from the twenty five million dollar Fund to which Mr. Rockefeller contributed five million dollars.

In summary, Mr. Rockefeller gives five million dollars toward raising twenty five million dollars to help maintain 31 colored colleges in the South. He is joined in this by Harvey S. Firestone Jr., Richard K. Mellon, Alfred P. Sloan, Robert E. Wilson, Robert W. Woodward and some of the other biggest names in this nation.

3rd Release Absent

Anything wrong with that? On the contrary any fair-minded person will be forced to say that it is kind and human for these millionaires to give their money so generously for the education of colored students.

To educate someone is to help them — to give them light — so that they can find their own way. This certainly must be called good.

But the thing that disturbs this writer is the absence of a third press release on my desk. The press release that never comes.

I'm looking, and hoping, for the press release that will say Mr. Rockefeller and company has given twenty five cents, or twenty five dollars, or twenty five thousand dollars to aid the NAACP in its fight to emancipate the colored Americans

If we raise this $32,000 it will not be necessary for Mr. Rockefeller and his friends to give millions of dollars for separate schools and everyone will go to the same school.

Why is it then that Mr. Rockefeller and company give so generously to build up and maintain these separate schools when logical reasoning would seemingly dictate that the smart thing to do is to have one school instead of two?

Can't Answer Question

I can't honestly answer that question. It smacks of something which I do not like to believe. It makes one wonder whether Mr. Rockefeller and company are not genuinely interested in keeping the schools in the South separated.

Mr Rockafeller is a businessman. A good one. And so are the other people around him. But this does not appear to be good business to me. Everyone knows that it costs more to operate two schools than one!

Honest people like Bill Trent have sat down for hours with me and shown me where we cannot afford to advocate abolishing the colored colleges in the South. I thoroughly understand that.

Makes Him Wonder

But lastly they say in the College Fund "We are as interested in breaking down separate schools as anyone else."

That's the part that makes me wonder. If the people who run the college fund are able to persuade Mr. Rockefeller and company to give millions at a time to help maintain colored schools it's reasonable to assume that they have some influence with him

Why then can't they use just Mr. Rockefeller's interest and a wee bit of that influence on Mr. Rockefeller's interest and get him to throw some of his weight around in helping to get at the real roots of the situation.

I don't think Mr. Rockefeller should be asked to give $32,000 to help break down school segregation. I feel that if we can't raise that money we don't deserve integrated schools.

Integration The Answer

But I do feel that if we are going to accept Mr. Rockefeller's millions, we owe it to him to spend them in a way that someday bring about a situation which will stop us from having to run to every white Tom, Dick and Harry to beg dollars to help maintain "our schools." The way to do that is through integrated schools. As long as we have separate schools we will have to run to Mr. Rockefeller and Tom, Dick and Harry. I sure would like to see that third press release cross my desk.

Negro Grid Games May Be Televised

NEW YORK. — (ANP) — During post-war years several radio stations have broadcast games played by Negro college football teams. Last year, the Columbia Broadcasting System on a national hookup featured a home game of Florida A. and M. in its national roundup.

There is a good possibility that even more may happen in 1953. A talent agency is seeking the nationwide television of top Negro college football games.

General Artists Corporation is seeking to have the National Collegiate Athletic Association relax its TV code to allow the televising through the American Broadcasting Company of nine Negro college tilts.

The GAC argument is that the transmission of these games on TV will not affect the attendance at general college football games nor will it interfere with the NCAA's strictly supervised program of college battles.

According to GAC, this feature will aid the athletic programs of colored colleges.

Harold Jackson, a Negro announcer, and Bob Wolfe, an ABC sportcaster, would take care of commentary on the games. Between halves the show will feature interviews with presidents of participating colleges and plugs for the United Negro College Fund.

COLLEGE CHOIRS TO PRESENT SPECIAL MUSIC FOR CHRISTMAS

UNC Program Is Featured Over ABC Stations Each Sunday 10:30 A. M.

NEW YORK—The December schedule for the weekly series of programs by outstanding college choirs, presented by the American Broadcasting Company in cooperation with the United Negro College Fund, was announced today by W. J. Trent jr., executive director of the Fund.

On December 20 the combined choruses of Atlanta University, Morehouse and Spelman Colleges, all of Atlanta, Ga., will present a special program of well-known and beloved Christmas music. December 27, the Fisk University choir of Nashville, Tenn., will be heard in their broadcast of choral selections for the Yuletide season.

The ABC broadcasts which originate in New York each Sunday over station WABC, 10:30 to 11:00 A. M. are heard over some 170 stations in the United States and Canada. The programs, now in their fourth year, have served to acquaint the American public with the work being done by our private Negro colleges and of the United Negro College Fund's program in their behalf.

College Fund Campaign In County Soars Far Over Goal

Derbigny Heads Drive For School Fund In County

Dr. I. A. Derbigny, vice-president of Tuskegee Institute and chairman of the United Negro College Fund annual campaign in this area, this week announced the successful completion of the 1952 drive. With a quota of $7,500 to be reached by Dec. 15, his committee reported contributions of $8,790.66 on that date.

Dr. Derbigny extended thanks to the members of his committee, individuals and organizations and all who worked to help oversubscribe the quota.

In a summary statement, he listed contributions as follows:

Veterans Administration Hospital, $514.65; Tuskegee Institute, $24440.43; alumni and friends, $38.50; Fort Benning campaign, 3078.25; Public schools, 425.42; churches, $40.00; organizations, 309.64; Business firms, 2017.75; total gross receipts, $8,864.64; total disbursements, $73.98; total net returns, $8,790.66.

This effort is a part of the national annual campaign of the United Negro College Fund to help supplement the budgets for current operation expenses of the 32 private colleges in the F[illegible]. Each year since 1944, the fund has raised from one to one and a half million dollars in these annual campaigns.

Many colleges in different sections of the country have since followed the pattern laid down by the United Negro College Fund. Dr. F. D. Patterson, president of Tuskegee Institute was the founder of the effort and has served as its president since its beginning.

DR. I. A. DERBIGNY, heads successful fund Campaign

Negro College Fund Goes Over Top By Good Margin

The United Negro College Fund, annual campaign for raising operation costs of 31 private Negro colleges has again gone over the top locally with total contributions of $8,358.87. The local quota was $7,500.

Success has attended each campaign, which from the beginning, more than 10 years ago, of Dr. I. A. Derbigny, vice presi- have been under the leadership dent of Tuskegee Institute.

In a statement on the 1953 drive Dr. Derbigny said, "Because you helped, we exceeded our quota of $7,500 and are happy to report net contributions of $8,-385.87. The committee is very thankful for the splendid cooperation received."

Dr. Derbigny indicated that an additional $92 had been given following his report. This sum was given by the 36 county agents meeting at Tuskegee Institute last week.

When asked of the unusual efforts of particular groups or individuals who had worked in the campaign, Dr. Derbigny stated that it would be difficult to answer because many persons made great sacrifices. However, he wanted to indicate that in the gifts listed under special events, the Home Economics Club, composed of students and faculty, gave the sum of $75 from their annual Christmas Bazaar.

The nation-wide Capital Gifts Campaign to improve buildings and other facilities of the 31 colleges is moving ahead of schedule on its goal to raise $25,000,000 over an extended period. This is in addition to the more than $1,-500,000 which the Funds sets out to raise each year for operational costs at the several colleges.

Presidents Of 31 Colleges Hold Meeting In Chicago

CHICAGO — (ANP) — Chicago threw open its arms this week and welcomed the presidents of the 31 private colleges who belong to the United Negro College Fund.

The group, here for its fourth annual convention, October 4-7 held its meetings and convocation at the Sheraton hotel

Industrialists crowded the convocation, the first UNCF meeting in Chicago on Monday. On Sunday, the presidents spoke in churches throughout the city.

DR. MAYS

Dr. Charles S. Johnson, president of Fisk University, was the featured speaker at the University of Chicago Chapel. Dr. Benjamin E. Mays of Morehouse College, First Baptist Church in Oak Park, a wealthy surburb. Other presidents were scattered about among prominent congregations both white and colored.

Harvey S. Firestone, Jr., chairman of the Firestone Tire and Rubber Company, and Dr. Rufus E. Clement, president of Atlanta University, were the principal speakers at the convocation which was presided over by Herman Dunlap Smith, prominent insurance executive in the Middle, West.

The UNCF Board of which Thos. A. Morgan of New York is president, and national and local including William J. Trent, Jr., director, officers from various states attended. President of the UNCF and former head of Tuskegee Institute, Dr. Patterson, enroute to Nigeria, West Africa where he will be one of a team conducting economic and educational studies for the World Bank, has announced his retirement as presidency of the College Funds. His successor is expected to be elected at this meeting.

Formed 11 years ago the UNCF has thus far collected more than $10,000,000 which has gone to support the current work of the colleges. It is at present engaged in additionl to the current support of budgets, in raising $25,000,000 for building and permanent improvements. Some $12,500,000 of this sum has already been raised.

One of the important events in connection with the stay of the presidents was an alumni reception and banquet, held in their honor by the Chicago Inter-alumni Council at the Parkway Ballroom.

Each of the member colleges with a local alumni association had a special table with the president of the school seated among its alumni.

Among the presidents attending were Rufus E. Clement, Atlanta University J. A. Bacoats, Benedict College; David D. Jones, Bennett College; Richard V. Moore, Bethune- Cookman College; Milton K. Curry Jr. Bishop College; James P. Brawley, Clark College; Albert W. Dent, Dillard University; Harry V. Richardson, Gammon Theological Seminary; Alonzo Moron, Hampton Institute; M. S. Davage, Hudson-Tillotson College. Hardy Liston, JohnsonC. Smith University; James A. Colston, Knoxville College; C. A. Kirkdendoll, Lane College; Hollis F. Price, LeMoyne College; Horace M. Bond, Lincoln University; W. J. Trent, Sr., Livingston College; Benjamin E. Mays of Morehouse College; John H. Lewis, Morris Brown; E. C. Peters, Paine College; M. Lafeyette Harris, Philander Smith College; Harold L. Trigg, St. Augustine's College.

W. R. Strassner, Shaw University; Albert E. Manley, Spelman College; A. D. Gray, Talladega College; D. R. Glass, Texas College; Harold C. Warren, Tougaloo College, Luther H. Foster, Tuskegee Institute; J. M. Ellison, Virginia Union university; J. S. Scott, Wiley College and Mother M. Agatha of Xavier College.

Aid to Negro Education Urged by Firestone

CHICAGO, Oct. 5 (AP). — Industrialist Harvey S. Firestone, jr. called today for better educational opportunities for Negroes.

What affects the well-being and process of America's 16 million Negro citizens affects the whole Nation, he said. Firestone, chairman of the Firestone Tire and Rubber Co., spoke at the convocation of the United Negro College Fund, a joint endeavor to obtain financial support for 31 private Negro colleges.

UNCF Board Members 10th Session At Chicago

CHICAGO — The tenth annual board meeting of the United Negro College Fund was held here Oct. 4-6, with presidents of the fund's 31 member colleges taking part in the business and public meetings.

October 4, was proclaimed "United Negro College Fund Sunday" in Chicago, and the 31 presidents appeared as guest speakers in leading churches throughout the city.

THREE-DAY MEET

The three-day meeting was highlighted Monday afternoon with a public convocation at Sheraton hotel, featuring addresses by Harvey S. Firestone, Jr., chairman of the board, Firestone Tire and Rubber co., and a member of the mobilizing board of the UNCF's Capital Funds campaign; and Dr. Rufus E. Clements, president of Atlanta university. Hermon Dunlap Smith, executive vice president, Marsh and McLennan, and UNCF Chicago campaign, will preside.

Another important event held on Monday was the alumni reception and banquet held in honor of the visiting presidents. Sponsored by the Chicago Inter-alumni Council, the reception was conducted under chairmanship of Mrs. Lloyd Calloway.

Earlier Monday, a luncheon was held at the Sheraton hotel for Chicago business and civic leaders. Dr. Lindsley F. Kimball, vice president of the Rockefeller Foundation and national chairman of the UNCF's Capital Funds Campaign, was guest speaker.

Folowing the business meetings on Tuesday, the presidents attended a panel session devoted to "The Place and Role of the Private Negro College in a Period of Educational Integration."

Dr. Patterson To Remain As UNCF President

By CHARLES J. LIVINGSTON

CHICAGO — (ANP) — Some 31 college presidents plus other civic and educational leaders were in Chicago last week to attend the 11th annual convention of the United Negro College Fund.

The meeting focused public attention on the objectives, needs and goals of the 31 member schools of the UNCF and it also clarified the status of Dr. F. D. Patterson president of the UNCF.

Dr. Patterson in a mesage sent from Africa refuted early reports that said he would resign as president. Although he has left Tuskegee institute where he was president, Dr. Patterson's work as director of the Phelps-Stokes fund is directly associated with education, he said, and that organization has indicated its interest in the UNCF.

The former Tuskegee prexy could not attend the Chicago meeting because he is filling an important task in Nigeria for the World Bank. He is making a report on the educational facilities available there for the bank. In his message to the UNCF, Dr. Patterson regretted his absence and wished the meeting success.

A whole host of speakers at various luncheons and meetings gave the Windy City a complete picture of what is being achieved at the 31 member colleges. Most of the meetings were held at the Hotel Sheraton, with a special luncheon sponsored by alumni of member colleges at the Parkway ballroom.

Chief spokesmen were Dr. Rufus E. Clement, president of Atlanta University, and Dr. Benjamin E. Mays, president of Morehouse college. Both addressed special meetings.

Explained Dr. Clement: "The organization helps them to maintain high educational standards and create inter-racial deliberations which form focal points at which people of goodwill of both races meet to discuss educational problems. This helps to eliminate segregation by dispelling ignorance."

He said that UNCF is needed in spite of recent U. S. Supreme court decisions affecting higher education, because private Negro colleges are still needed to provide sound Negro leadership to thousands of Negro students, particularly in the south.

On the question of the public school segregation case now before the U. S. Supreme court, Dr. Clement believes that co-operation on the part of courageous Negro leaders on all fronts would help bring about a favorable decision. The plan of Govs. Herman Talmadge of Georgia and James Byrnes of South Carolina to abolish their states' public school systems in favor of private schooling is impractical, he said, because it would be unlawful to turn over tax-supported (public schools) to private institutions.

Dr. Mays pointed out that the constant need is for public and Alumni support of UNCF. He said that a college is what its graduates are. If its graduates are not successful, it cannot raise money to support their Alma Mater.

"Graduates make a college great. It is known by the famous ones such as Booker Washington, Mary McLeod, Ralph Bunche and Mordecai Johnson. In the final analysis, it is what its graduates are," the noted educator commented.

Another convention speakers included Harvey S. Firestone, Jr., chairman and chief executive of the Firestone Tire and Rubber company, who spoke of the need for supporting UNCF.

The convocation was held in the interest of public information. Its theme was "America's Stake In Higher Education For Negroes."

UNCF was instituted 11 years ago to increase the opportunities for more than 25,000 Negroes attending member institutions. It is headed nationally by John D. Rockefeller, Jr. The UNCF goal for 1954 is $1,500,000.

National Integrity At Stake, Dr. Herman Long Insists

NEW YORK, N. Y.— The fact that we may lose the cold war abroad is not reason enough for us to correct our practices of segregation and racial discrimination at home, Dr. Herman H. Long, director of Race Relations at Fisk University, told the final session of the United Negro College Forum here today.

HOPELESS PAWNS

Our national integrity and character, which we value so highly, is at stake, said Dr. Long. If we fail to face this issue honestly and squarely, he continued, we will see ourselves no longer as living up to the best of our democratic heritage, but as hopeless pawns of our own defections and weaknesses."

Dr. Long was one of three panel members who discussed the work of Fisk University "anti-tension" teams in eradicating habits of prejudice and discrimination through community self-surveys which have been conducted in several major cities.

The latest such survey was conducted in Minneapolis, Minn., from 1946-1948 under the direction of Dr. Long. Mrs. Genevieve Steefel, who was also on the Forum panel today, served as a volunteer worker on that survey.

Mrs. Steefel pointed out that the chief obstacle faced by those who wished to correct the patterns of discrimination in Minneapolis was "the unwillingness of the community to admit that a problem in race relations existed." But, she said, as the survey progressed many community leaders "became sensitive to conditions around them of which they had not been conscious before. As they came to recognize discrimination and segregation and to realize their deep and humiliating effects they, too, began seriously to find ways to get rid of them."

CITY PLANNING COMMISSION

Her contention was echoed by the third member of the Forum panel, Mrs. Dorothy Schramm, a former member of the Burlington (Iowa) City Planning Commission. In Burlington said Mrs. Schramm, there was disagreement, even among those most interested, as to the kind and extent of the Negro's problems.

"But they decided that a self-survey offered the best method to get the facts and almost two years later after some 800 people had been involved in the survey, the facts were made public," she said. "Extensive discriminatory practices were indicated, especially in the fields of housing, employment and public accommodations. The corrections are now under way with the aid of a Mayor's Committee."

SURVEY TAKEN

Both Mrs. Schramm and Mrs. Steefel gave credit to the Race Relations Department of Fisk University and its staff of technical workers for their direction in the surveys taken in their respective cities. They agreed that no matter what conditions existed in a community with regard to unsatisfactory race relations, they can be corrected by conducting a self-survey.

The three panelists answered questions from the audience at the Cosmopolitan Club where the Forum was held. William J. Trent, Jr., executive director of the United Negro College Fund, was moderator of the program.

The United Negro College Forum was sponsored this year by the New York City clubs of eleven leading Eastern women's colleges, the New York branch of the American Association of University Women and the United Negro College Fund.

Give to UNCF: Dillard prexy

BROOKLYN, N.Y.—Dr. A. W. Dent, president of Dillard university, New Orleans, told a group of more than 100 church, civic, professional, and business leaders of Central Brooklyn last Tuesday that there was urgent need of financial support for the member colleges of the United College Fund.

Richard A. Brennan, president of Brevoort Savings and treasurer of the local fund group reported that approximately $10,000 has already been raised.

W. J. Trent Jr., executive director of the UNCF national committee, who accompanied President Dent, also spoke. Le Vern Hutcherson, star of "Porgy and Bess," suggested a Night of Stars for the benefit of the fund. Joe Black of the Dodgers, arrived too late to be presented to the gathering.

4 Negro Colleges Here Will Join Scholarship Plan

Four Atlanta colleges will participate in the United Negro College Fund program of 1953-54 which provides for more than $100,000 in scholarship awards on the basis of competitive examinations.

The Atlanta colleges are Spelman, Clark, Morehouse and Morris Brown.

Examinations will be given between March 1 and March 15 in 100 high schools in 27 states. They will be scored by the Educational Testing Service in Princeton, N.J., and the results forwarded to colleges of the student's preference.

It you figure the average weight of the college presidents shown in this picture is 150 pounds, there are 3,900 pounds or nearly two tons of educational brains represented here. The photo was taken recently when these United College Fund presidents assembled in San Francisco. Left to right seated front row:

W. J. Trent, Sr., Livingston, College; J. S. Scott, Wiley College; D. R. Glass, Texas College; Florence M. Read, Spelman College; F. D. Patterson, Tuskegee Institute; H. L. Trigg, St. Augustine's College; W. R. Strassner, Shaw University; M. S. Savage, Huston - Tillotson College.

Middle: J. H. Lewis, Morris Brown College; H. C. Warren, Tougaloo College; J. W. Colston, Knoxville College; A. D. Gray, Talladega College; C. S. Johnson, Fisk University; A. Moron, Hampton Institute; D. D. Jones, Bennett College; J. P. Brawley, Clark College.

Back Row: A. W. Dent, Dillard University; J. A. Bacoats, Benedict College; H. M. Bond, Lincoln University; H. F. Price, LeMoyne College; H. Liston, Johnson C. Smith University; M. L. Harris, Philander Smith; Richard U. Moore, Bethune-Cookman College; W. J. Trent, Jr., director, United Negro College Fund.

College Fund Choir Series Is Announced

NEW YORK — The weekly series by outstanding college choirs, presented by the American Broadcasting Company, in cooperation with the United Negro College Fund, will feature the choral groups of Lane College and Dillard University for the last two weeks in February, and Livingstone and Benedict Colleges for the first two weeks in March, it was announced to day by W. J Trent, Jr., executive director, at the College Fund Headquarters.

The schedule of the ABC broadcasts, which eminate from New York each Sunday over Station WJZ, 10:30-11:00 a. m., and are heard over 170 stations in the United States and Canada, is as follows: Lane College, Jackson, Tenn., February 15; Dillard University, New Orleans, La . February 22; Livstone College, Salisbury, N. C , on March 1; and Benedict College, Columbia, S. C., March 8

These choral programs were initiated by the American Broadcasting Company in April 1950, and have served to acquaint a large American public with the important work being done by the private colleges and universities by the United Negro College Fund

Hampton Institute Host To Annual UNCF Meeting

HAMPTON, Va.—The annual meeting of the National Federation of General Associations of colleges participating in the United college Fund will be held at Hampton Institute, Feb. 13 and 14. Delegates of 32 colleges throughout the nation will gather at the college to consider the techniques of fund - raising and alumni organizing.

Friday's session will feature three addresses. In the morning, James E. Stamps, founding president of the National Council of United College Fund Alumni and a Hampton Institute graduate, will speak.

Dr. Connie Yerwood Odom, president, National Council of UNCF Alumni and of Samuel Huston College Alumni Association (Austin, Texas) will give the president's report at the afternoon session and Randall Tyus, UNCF field director, will review the history of the National Council of UNCF Alumni.

Friday night's session to be held in Ogden Hall will include the report made by William J. Trent, Jr., executive UNCF director, and an address by Dr. Rufus E. Clement, president of Atlanta University.

Saturday morning at Clarke Hall a panel discussion on "Techniques for Organizing Inter-Alumni Chapters" will be held with Maryland D. Kemp, Washington, D.C.; Atty. H. E. Hill, Daytona Beach, Fla.; Beverly Carter, Philadelphia, Pa.; Samuel Brown of Richmond, Va.; and Moses Belton, Charlotte, N.C.. on the panel.

"How to get Greater Alumni Participation in UNCF" will be the topic of a panel discussion with the following members: Mrs. Berncie S. Moore, Philander Smith; Rev. William Poe, president, Livingstone (Salisbury, N.C.) Alumni Association; J. Henry Smith, executive secretary, Tuskegee (Ala.) Alumni Association; and Dr. Charles Copher, Gammon Theological Seminary, Atlanta.

Afternoon Session

The delegates will gather for an afternoon session with "Organizing and Securing Campaign Workers" the theme of a panel discussion. Members of the group will be W. Barton Beatty day conference programs in clude Mrs. Ethel M. Johnson, first vice - president, National Council of UNCF Alumni; Miss Gertrude L. Perry, president, National Hampton Alumni Association; President Alonzo G. Moron, Hampton Institute; Leon J. Belton, director of Publications, Johnson C. Smith Williams, third vice-president, National Council of UNCF Alumni; Miss Nancy L. Pinkney, Bennett College; Beverly Carter, alumni secretary, Lincoln University (Pa.); and Dr. Charles W. Greene, president, Morehouse Alumni Association and Mrs. J. D. Murphy, president Atlanta University Alumni Association and secretary, National Council of UNCF Alumni.

Others to appear on the two-

George L. Hightower, former president, National Council of UNCF Alumni.

'Fortune' Publisher Heads UNCF

NEW YORK — C. D. Jackson, publisher of Fortune Magazine will serve for the second successive year as national chairman of the 1953 campaign of the United Negro College Fund, it was announced at Fund headquarters. Frank M. Totton, vice-president of the Chase National Bank will assist Mr. Jackson in his chairmanship duties, and will head the national executive committee of the campaign.

In accepting the Fund's 1953 National Chairmanship, Mr. Jackson said:

"Partly because I know from personal experience what good work is done by the United Negro College Fund, and partly because of my work in Psychological Warfare and seeing how the Communists use the Negro situation in America for their own ends, I believe more strongly than ever in what the UNCF seeks to accomplish, because it brings greater economic opportunities."

As National Chairman, Jackson, with the assistance of Mr. Totton, will head the Fund's tenth annual campaign which will seek to raise funds to help meet the operating budgets of 31 private, accredited colleges and universities, most of which are located in the Southern states.

Recently appointed to the President's Committee on International Information Activities, Mr. Jackson is a former president of the National Committee for a Free Europe, Inc., which operates Radio Free Europe and Radio Free Asia. During World War II, Jackson was Deputy Chief of Psychological Warfare at SHAEF.

Totton has been closely associated with the Fund since 1945 when he joined the UNCF National Council of which John D. Rockefeller, Jr., is chairman.

Clark Benefitted By College Fund

ATLANTA—The annual Clark College United College Fund drive got under way recently when President James P. Brawley enumerated the benefits that the College has received from the drive.

Dr. Brawley pointed out that, in the nine-year existence of the fund, Clark has received more than $182,000 and that much of this amount has been beneficial in the building of the new home economics practice house which is to get under way soon.

Goal Set At $2,500

The college goal for this year has been set at 2,500. Last year more than $2,700 was raised by the faculty and students — exceeding the established goal of $2,500.

Steering the drive are Dr. W. H. Hale, general chairman; Wiley S. Bolton, co-chairman, Edward J. Brantley, J. J. Green and S. V. Jeter; and Mrs. Sarah Cureton of the faculty. Wallace Hartsfield, Norman Johnson, Roscoe Matchett, Edwin Pratt, Betty Snype and Hope Vick constitute the central student committee.

Fortune Publisher To Head Negro College Fund

NEW YORK, February 17, 1953 — C. D. Jackson, publisher of Fortune Magazine will serve for the second successive year as national chairman of the 1953 campaign of the United Negro College Fund, it was announced at Fund headquarters. Frank M. Totton, vice-president of the Chase National Bank will assist Mr. Jackson in his chairmanship duties, and will head the national executive committee of the campaign.

In accepting the Fund's 1953 National Chairmanship, Mr. Jackson said:

"Partly because I know from personal experience what good work is done by the United Negro College Fund, and partly because of my work in Psychological Warfare and seeing how the Communist use the Negro situation in America for their own ends, I believe more strongly than ever in what the UNCF seeks to accomplish, because it brings greater economic opportunities."

As National Chairman, Mr. Jackson, with the assistance of Mr. Totton, will head the Fund's tenth annual campaign which will seek to raise funds to help meet the operating budgets of 31 private, accredited colleges and universities, most of which are located in the Southern states.

Recently appointed to the President's Committee on International Information Activities, Mr. Jackson is a former president of the National Committee for a Free Europe, Inc., which operates Radio Free Europe and Radio Free Asia.

During World War II, Mr. Jackson was Deputy Chief of Psychological Warfare at SHAEF.

Mr. Totton has been closely associated with the Fund since 1945 when he joined the UNCF National Council of which John D. Rockefeller, Jr. is chairman.

Fisk, Clark, 'Skegee, K. C. Choirs on Air

NEW YORK—The weekly series of programs of outstanding college choirs presented by the American Broadcasting Company in cooperation with the United Negro College Fund, will feature the choral groups of Clark College and Knoxville College for the last two weeks in March, and Fisk University and Tuskegee Institute for the first two weeks in April.

The schedule of the ABC broadcasts, which emanate from New York each Sunday over Station WABC, formerly WJZ, 10:30-11 A. M., and are heard over 170 stations in the United States and Canada, is as follows: Clark College, Atlanta, Ga., March 22; Knoxville College, Knoxville, Tenn., March 29; Fisk University, April 5, and Tuskegee Institute, Tuskegee, Ala., April 12.

NEGRO COLLEGE DRIVE SET

Appeal for $1,500,000 Will Be Started April 13

The tenth annual appeal of the United Negro College Fund will be opened here on April 13 with a meeting at 4 P. M., at the Plaza Hotel, Frank M. Totton, vice president of the Chase National Bank and chairman of the fund's national executive committee, announced yesterday.

This year's goal of $1,500,000 represents 10 per cent of the combined educational budgets of thirty-one private, accredited colleges and university participating in the fund's program. The campaign will be carried on in sixty-five cities throughout the country as well as in communities where the member colleges are located.

Attorney Brenner Chairman For 1953 United Negro College Fund Campaign

Brooklyn, N. Y. — Attorney Mortimer Brenner, prominent Brooklynite, has accepted the Brooklyn General Chairmanship in the 1953 United Negro College Fund campaign, it was announced at Fund headquarters. Mr. Brenner's co-chairmen are Robert T. Freeman, Jr. and J. Hugh Watkins, both of whom graduated from UNCF member colleges and are outstanding Brooklyn community leaders.

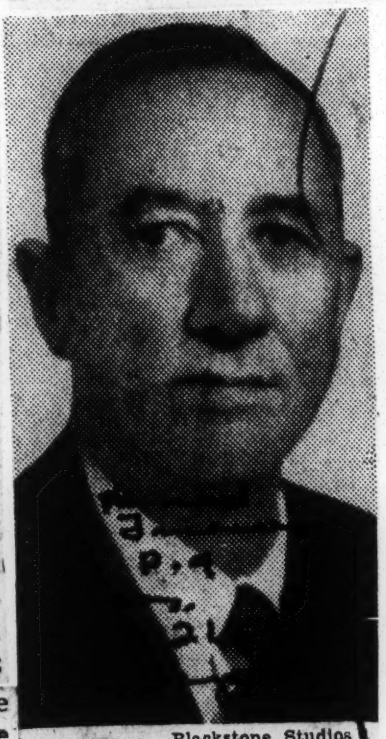
During a recent meeting to map preliminary plans for this year's campaign, the three men expressed confidence that the 1953 appeal, which opens early in April, will top last year's highly successful campaign, the first organized UNCF borough-wide solicitation for funds.

A member of the legal firm of Lehman, Goldmark and Rorlich, Mr. Brenner is identified with a number of Brooklyn activities. He is chairman of the Kings County Council of the State Commission Against Discrimination and of the Brooklyn Human Relations Council; member of the Grievance Committee of the Brooklyn Bar Association, and president of Congregation Beth-Elohim. He was formerly president of the Brooklyn Council of Social Planning and the Brooklyn Jewish Family Society, and has also served as vice president of the Brooklyn Jewish Community Council Board.

Mr. Freeman, a graduate of Lincoln University in Pennsylvania, is vice president-actuary of the United Mutual Life Insurance Company, president of the Lincoln Univ. Club of Brooklyn-Long Island, and a member of the Alpha Phi Alpha fraternity.

Mr. Watkins, an inspector with the New York City Division of Housing and Buildings, is president of the Comus Club. A graduate of Hampton Institute in Virginia, he is active with the NAACP and several other local groups. Recently, in a borough-wide poll, he ranked among the six Brooklynites considered most outstanding in community achievement.

The United Negro College Fund annually conducts a nation-wide appeal to help meet the operating budgets of 31 private, accredited colleges and universities participating in the Fund's program.



Blackstone Studios

Lindsley F. Kimball

Heads Negro College Drive

Appointment of Lindsley F. Kimball, vice-president of the Rockefeller Foundation, as national chairman of the United Negro College Fund's $25,000,000 capital funds campaign was announced yesterday by Dr. F. D. Patterson, president of the fund.

Mr. Kimball will direct the public phase of the national building funds campaign which was initiated in 1951 by a $5,000,000 gift from John D. Rockefeller jr. Contributions to date total $12,500,000 in special gifts from individuals, philanthropic foundations and corporations.

MOTHERS OF UNCF COLLEGE students were honored recently at a reception given by the UNCF Brooklyn committee at the Brooklyn Central YWCA last week. Model Dorothea Towles pins corsage on Mrs. Ruby Dungee who has a son at Hampton Institute. Others shown include Mmes. Lena Weeks, Mattie Hedgepath, Louise Graves, Maude Johnson, Anna Harleston, Susan Williams, Anna Coleman, Fannie Carrington, Marjorie Adams, Charles Turner, Perry Botts and Annie Thompson.

UNCF Grants Le Moyne $77,040.

MEMPHIS, Tenn. — (SNS)

LeMoyne College received $77,040 this week from the United Negro College Fund's $25,000,000 five year building campaign, known as the National Mobilization of Resources for the United Negro Colleges. Announcement was made by Hollis F Price, president of LeMoyne College, who stated that today's grant brought the total received by his college to $241,392 since the inception of the Fund's National Mobilization program two years ago.

President Price said that the grant his college had received was being spent to make major improvements in laboratory facilities, and for the purchase of additional land A substantial part of the money will be used to supplement the $100,000 raised in Memphis in 1949 for the construction of a Health and Recreation Building.

Stressing the work that LeMoyne College has done over the years, Mrs. Margaret Bush, registrar said the college serves the Tri-States namely, Mississippi, Arkansas and Tennessee with one of two students from North Carolina and Florida. In the past five years the college has graduated more than 300 students who are serving today in every part of the United States and some in foreign countries as teachers, social service workers or governmental service.

President Price, said also that the Fund's National Mobilization Program is headed by Dr. F. D Patterson, president of the United Negro College Fund, and a seven man board including such well-known businessmen and industrial ists as Harvey S. Firestone, Jr., Devereux C. Joseph, Richard K. Mellon, John D. Rockefeller, Jr., Alfred P. Sloan, Jr., Robert E. Wilson, and Robert W. Woodruff.

Dr. Price said some of the grant would also be used to raze seven houses on property bought on the corner of Saxon and Neptune, adjacent to the field.

'Look' Honors Dr. Patterson

NEW YORK — Dr. F. D. Patterson, former president of Tuskegee Institute, is honored on the "Look Applauds" page in the issue of Look magazine released this week.

Dr. Patterson gets Look's plaudits for his work in behalf of Negro education at Tuskegee and as the founder of the United Negro College Fund.

$3,000,000 to Negro College Fund Schools

NEW YORK. — (ANP) — A sum of $3000,000 in additional grants was distributed last week to the 31 private, accredited colleges and universities participating in the United Negro College fund's $25,000,000 building campaign, known as the National Mobilization of Resources for the United Negro Colleges. Today's distribution was the third since July, 1952, and brings the total to $9,400,000 so allotted in capital funds to the member colleges.

The fund's National Mobilization program, a five-year capital funds campaign to help the member colleges meet their capital building needs, recently reached the appeal's half-way mark of $12,500,000 in corporation and foundation gifts.

Today's distribution was announced at UNCF headquarters, New York by W. J. Trent, Jr., the organization's executive director, who said that funds allotted so far in the program have been distributed on an equitable basis approved by the presidents of all member colleges.

The fund's National Mobilization program is headed by Dr. F. D. Patterson, president of the United Negro College fund, and a seven-man board which includes such well-known business men and industrialists as Harvey S. Firestone, Jr.; Devereux C. Josephs, Richard K. Mellon, John D. Rockefeller Jr., Alfred P. Sloan Jr., Robert E. Wilson and Robert W. Woodruff.

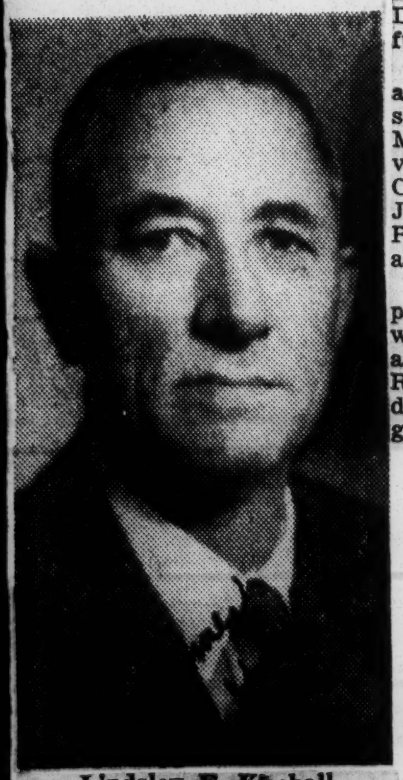
PORGY'S CONTRIBUTE—United Negro College Fund's Executive Director, W. J. Trent Jr. receives $510 check from (left to right) Irving Barnes, LeVern Hutcherson and Leslie Scott, the three "Porgy's" in the current New York production of "Porgy and Bess."

The money represents the winnings of the Porgy's" who successfully competed against other teams on four consecutive "Sense and Nonsense" TV programs. It was donated to the UNCF, now in its tenth annual campaign, to help meet the 1953 goal of $1,500,000.

Presents $3200 Check For UNCF

Dr. George Talbert, treasurer of the UNCF Ball Committee, is shown above (right) presenting a check for $3200.00 to Dr. Leonard L. Burns, president of the Inter-Alumni Council of UNCF. This amount was raised at the recent UNCF Benefit Ball sponsored by the Bon Temps, Beau Brummels, Famous G's, Original Illinois and Young Men Twenties Social Clubs. It marked the first time that such an affair was held at the Municipal Auditorium by and for Negroes. Dr. Burns states that it is not too late to mail your UNCF donations. Mail checks or money orders to P. O. Box 2350, New Orleans 16, La.—(Nolan Marshall Photo.)

Named Chairman of Drive For Negro Colleges' Fund



Lindsley F. Kimball

The United Negro College Fund has named Lindsley F. Kimball, vice president of the Rockefeller Foundation, to be national chairman of its campaign for $25,000,000, it was announced yesterday by Dr. F. D. Patterson, president of the fund.

Mr. Kimball was appointed at a regular meeting of the fund's seven-man board of directors. Members of the board are Harvey S. Firestone Jr., Devereux C. Josephs, Richard K. Mellon, John D. Rockefeller, Jr., Alfred P. Sloan, Jr., Robert E. Wilson and Robert W. Woodruff.

Mr. Kimball will direct the public phase of the campaign, which was initiated in 1951 by a $5,000,000 gift from John D. Rockefeller Jr. Contributions to date total $12,500,000 in special gifts from individuals.

Presidents Of 31 Colleges Hold Meeting In Chicago

CHICAGO — (ANP) — Chicago threw open its arm last week and welcomed the presidents of the 31 private colleges who belong to the United Negro College Fund.

The group, here for its fourth annual convention, October 4-7 held its meetings and convocation at the Sheraton hotel.

Industrialists crowded the convocation, the first UNCF meeting in Chicago on Monday. On Sunday, the presidents spoke in churches throughout the city.

DR. MAYS

Dr. Charles S. Johnson, president of Fisk University, was the featured speaker at the University of Chicago Chapel. Dr. Benjamin E. Mays of Morehouse College, First Baptist Church in Oak Park, a wealthy surburb. Other presidents were scattered about among prominent congregations both white and colored.

Harvey S. Firestone, Jr., chairman of the Firestone Tire and Rubber Company and Dr. Rufus E. Clement, president of Atlanta University, were the principal speakers at the convocation which was presided over by Herman Dunlap Smith, prominent insurance executive in the Middle West.

The UNCF Board of which Thos. A. Morgan of New York is president, and national and local, including William P. Trent Jr., director, officers from various states attended. President of the UNCF and former head of Tuskegee Institute, Dr. Patterson, enroute to Nigeria, West Africa where he will be one of a team conducting economic and educational studies for the World Bank, has announced his retirement as presidency of the College Funds. His successor is expected to be elected at this meeting.

Formed 11 years ago the UNCF has thus far collected more than $10,000,000 which has gone to support the current work of the colleges. It is at present engaged in additionl to the current support of budgets, in raising $25,000,000 for building and permanent improvements. Some $12,500,000 of this sum has already been raised.

One of the important events in connection with the stay of the presidents was an alumni reception and banquet, held in their honor by the Chicago Inter-alumni Council at the Parkway Ballroom. Each of the member colleges with a local alumni association had a special table with the president of the school seated among its alumni.

Among the presidents attending were Rufus E. Clement, Atlanta University J. A. Bacoats, Benedict College; David D. Jones, Bennett College; Richard V. Moore, Benjamin E. Mays of Morehouse College; John H. Lewis, Morris Brown; E. C. Peters, Paine College; M. Lafayette Harris, Philander Smith College; Harold L. Trigg, St. Augustine's College, W. R. Strassner, Shaw University; Albert E. Manley, Spelman College; A. D. Gray, Talladega College; D. R. Glass, Texas College; C. A. Kirkendoll, Lane College; Hollis F. Price, LeMoyne College; Horace M. Bond, Lincoln University; W. J. Trent, Jr., Livingston College; Benjamin E. Mays of Morehouse College; John H. Lewis, Morris Brown; E. C. Peters, Paine College; M. Lafayette Harris, Philander Smith College; James A. Colston, Knoxville

UNITED NEGRO COLLEGE FUND executive director W. J. Trent, jr., receives $510 check from Vivian Farrar and Bob Kennedy, MC's on TV's "Sense and Nonsense" program in New York. Money represents winnings of the three "Porgy's" (background — left to right) Irving Barnes. LeVern Hutcherson and Leslie Scott after successfully competing with opposing teams on four consecutive programs. Funds will bolster UNCF's 10th annual campaign.

The United Negro College Fund, An Investment In Democracy

From The Sun-Reporter
San Francisco, California

President Eisenhower delivered the main address at the opening of the United Negro College Fund last Tuesday at the National Press Club in Washington, D. C., at a luncheon honoring the General Education Board. The sponsors were board members of UNCF's capital funds, which include John D. Rockefeller Jr., Harvey S. Firestone Jr., and Alfred P. Sloan Jr.

The Editor of The Atlantic Monthly, Edward A. Weeks, presided over the attendance of 350 prominent educators, business and civic leaders and government officials, which included several members of the President's cabinet.

Ten years ago, the future of private Negro colleges instituted and maintained throughout nearly 100 years of unmitigated toil, was bleak indeed. Costs of operation had soared well beyond their modest means. Traditional income from gifts had fallen off. Endowment returns were dwindling. Few of their students could pay higher tuition fees.

It was then that 31 private Negro schools and colleges joined forces in the United Negro College Fund, to save these institutions. Since 1944 Americans have responded warmly to the Fund's yearly appeals. Their investment has paid rich dividends, for in ten years the United Negro Colleges have graduated more than 38,000 well-trained men and women who are serving today in every part of the United States. They include teachers and nurses, social skilled technicians in industry and agriculture.

The impressive gathering in the Nation's capital leaves no doubt that the leaders of America, including the President, fully recognize and accept their democratic responsibility in the field of Negro education. The United Negro Colleges have spelled out a new American idea—the educational community chest.

The Negro public especially should be interested in contributing to the United Negro College Fund, a new kind of cooperative enterprise which means the carrying on of sound educational programs in 31 private Negro colleges. At present, more than 23,000 students are sharing in the benefits of this continued support, which has helped to provide more scholarship aid, more books for libraries, better teaching and laboratory equipment, student health programs and enlarged teaching staffs.

Hits Bias At College Fund Meet

Lauds Campaign To Raise Money For Colleges

WASHINGTON (INS) — President Eisenhower said Tuesday that Americans are being less than first-class citizens when they permit minority groups to be treated as "second-class citizens."

The Chief Executive made the statement in a brief luncheon address before the United Negro College Fund.

He praised the [illegible] fund-raising group for doing something about combating discrimination without "waiting for some kind of law."

The luncheon formally launched the public phase of a five-year campaign to raise 25 million dollars for Negro colleges.

Mr. Eisenhower declared that all of those attending the meeting demonstrated their support for several things in which he himself strongly believes.

He said these include the constitutional principle that all men are created equal and his own oft-voiced declaration that there are no second-class citizens in America.

The President related an incident which occurred while he was inspecting a Marine honor guard at Annapolis, Md., Sunday.

He said he noticed that one of several Negroes in the guard wore the chevrons of a non-commissioned officer.

Mr. Eisenhower said he called this to the attention of the unit's commanding officer and recalled the argument that white troops would not willingly serve under a Negro superior.

The President said the commanding officer told him that the Negro had been promoted by a special arrangement despite the fact that he was unable to pass the necessary examination, because of his outstanding qualities of leadership.

The President commended the fund-raisers for helping to assure that Negro youths will be able to obtain the education which will guarantee them equality of opportunity with other Americans.

He also lauded the Rockefeller family, which has been active in supporting the fund. John D. Rockefeller III accepted a special citation from the group at the luncheon.

add: the story

The General Education board was cited at the luncheon for its contribution to education in the United States and for its support of higher education for colored people.

John D. Rockefeller, Jr., chairman of the General Education board, was unable to come to Washington for the luncheon, and his son, John D. Rockefeller, III, received the citation as President Eisenhower looked on.

The citation was presented by Dr. F. D. Patterson, president of Tuskegee institute and of the United Negro College fund. The citation follows:

"To the General Education board whose contribution to education in the United States, without distinction of race or creed, has so successfully accomplished the far-seeing purpose of its fund, and whose wise guidance through half a century has encouraged individual initiative and acceptance of responsibility and whose constructive support has so significantly advanced higher education for Negroes and insured further progress by helping to make possible the United Negro College fund, this expression of abiding gratitude is presented in behalf of those whose lives they have helped to enrich...the graduates, the students, the faculties and the presidents of the fund's member institutions.

"(Signed) F. D. Patterson, president, United Negro College fund".

Edward A. Weeks, editor of the Atlantic Monthly, presided at the luncheon. In starting the program about 10 minutes before the arrival of President Eisenhower, Mr. Weeks told the luncheon guests, many of whom are distinguished in various fields of endeavor, that the development of the colored colleges was "one of the finest examples of team play the country has ever seen."

In financing the colored private colleges through the United Negro College fund, he said, "we are acting in our own self-interest, we are acting in the nation's interest because we know we are building a stronger America.

Before Mr. Eisenhower spoke, the Hampton institute choir, under the direction of Henry N. Switten, sang a spiritual and a folk song.

After Dr. Patterson presented the citation to Mr. Rockefeller, President Eisenhower posed for photographers with Dr. Patterson and Mr Rockefeller. Mr. Eisenhower spoke extemperaneously. The stenographic transcript of his remarks follows:

"Thank you, Mr. Chairman, Dr. Patterson, Mr. Rockefeller, distinguished guests, and friends:

"From time to time I find that it is one of my pleasant duties to meet with groups who are convening here in the National Capital for some public-spirited service. It has been my privilege to extend to them a welcome on the part of the administration and the national government. In none of these cases have I felt greater satisfaction than I do this afternoon.

"By his or her presence here—each person attending this meeting shows their support for several things in which I passionately believe. One of them is support for the Constitution of the United States which, written in the recognition that all people are the children of God, made no distinction among them by reason of inconsequential factors over which they themselves had no control.

"I believe those of us who preach so loudly about constitutional government advance our cause as we meticulously observe that particular factor or foundation of that great document.

"Another thing I have preached, as have many others, is against the theory that there can be any second-class citizen. I believe as long as we allow conditions to exist that make for second-class citizens, we are making of ourselves less than first-class citizens.

"In other words, I believe the only way to protect my own rights is to protect the rights of other.

"Everything that the constitution accords to me, I must defend for others—or else finally there will be nobody left to defend me.

"And now I want to tell you a little bit of a story which just happened the day before yesterday. I was down at Annapolis, and I inspected a marine guard. As I went around, I noticed there were several Negroes occupying different positions in this guard. One of them had on the chevrons of a non-commissioned officer.

"I talked with the commanding officer of this group. I said, now here occurs one of those things that was always advanced as an argument—when we were working for the cause of eliminating segregation in the armed services.

"It was said that white men would not willingly serve under a Negro superior. And here I noticed that it was evidently not true.

"The officer smiled, and he said I must tell you that this man, when it came to the making of non-commissioned officers, could not pass the rigid mental examination we gave. But his personality was so fine, his qualities of leadership so evident, his character and reputation in the company so great that we had to make special arrangements so that it was unnecessary for him to pass completely the mental examination.

"As I see it, you people today who are supporting the Negro College fund, are not only supporting the idea that men are equal, but you are making it unnecessary for a man to appear in a competitive place in our country, or to be in governmental service or anywhere else, and have less opportunity than has his brothers for the mental training that would have given him exactly the same opportunities in that company as any other. It spoke to me very eloquently of this lad's very exceptional qualifications.

"And so, really, I came only to say I am delighted you are here. I applaud the work you are doing, and particularly to join with you in bringing my own very deep sense of obligation to the Rockefeller family—a family that has seen this type of need, and has done something within the terms of private enterprise, private initiative, and co-operative, spontaneous co-operation, and did not wait on some kind of law to get a thing done that they saw needed to be done.

"Now that the moment for saying this is going to be only a brief word, is too late for saying it—I will say it: Thank you for the privilege of allowing me to come here, Mr. Chairman and Dr. Patterson. My very best wishes go out to all of you in this great work, and success to you."

Mr. Eisenhower left immediately after he had spoken.

Seated at the speakers table at the luncheon were James P. Brawley, president, Clark college, Atlanta; Lindsley F. Kimball, New York City; Mrs. Chauncey L. Waddell, Washington; P. B. Young, Sr., publisher, the Norfolk Journal and Guide; Samuel D. Leidesdorf, Ohio; Mrs. Edith S. Sampson, Chicago; Richard K. Mellon, Pittsburgh; Robert W. Woodruff, Atlanta; Frederick D. Patterson, President Eisenhower, Edward A. Weeks Jr., John D. Rockefeller, III, Alfred P. Sloan, Jr., New York City; Devereux C. Josephs, New York City; Benjamin E. Mays, president, Morehouse college; C. D. Jackson, special assistant to President Eisenhower; Miss Dorothy Maynor, Thomas A. Morgan, chairman of the United Negro College fund; William J. Trent, Jr., the fund's executive director; George H. Burchum, treasurer and Arthur B. Brenner.

Other luncheon guests included members of the cabinet and of the Senate and House of Representatives, bankers, industrialists and educators.

Xavier, Dillard Receive Grants From UNCF

New Orleans, La.

Xavier and Dillard universities of New Orleans of which Mother M. Agatha and Albert W. Dent are presidents, respectively, received a total contribution of $212,850 from the United Negro College Fund's $25,000,000 five-year building campaign fund known as the National Mobilization of Resources for the United Negro Colleges.

Xavier University received $117,450, thus making a two-year total of $368,010 and Dillard $95,400 for a total of $298,920.

Mother Agatha said that the three grants received by Xavier will enable the institution to begin plans for the erection of a new dormitory for male students. Whereas President Dent explained that the money received by Dillard was to be spent for the completion of Edgar B. Stern Hall, a new science building, and other badly needed renovations.

The Fund's National Mobilization Program is headed by Dr. F. D. Patterson, president of the United Negro College Fund and a seven-man board of businessmen and industrialists.

6 Negro Colleges Get $570,000

Six Atlanta colleges received grants totaling $570,000 under the United Negro College Fund's third distribution of its capital funds program, it was announced Sunday.

The grants were the third received by the Atlanta institutions from the building campaign of National Mobilization of Resources for the United Negro Colleges.

So far the local colleges have as follows:

Atlanta University, $388,408; Clark College, $264,798; Gammon Theological Seminary, $229,266; Morehouse College, $281,718; Morris Brown, $295,818, and Spelman College, $372,872.

Dr. Rufus E. Clement, president of Atlanta University, said the six Atlanta institutions will receive total grants of $3,000,000 when the $25,000,000 national goal is achieved.

Hampton Given College Funds

HAMPTON, Va. — Hampton Institute received $206,070 on June 30 from the United college fund's $25,000,000 five-year building campaign known as the national mobilization of resources.

President Alonzo G. Moron of Hampton Institute stated that the grant brought the total received by the college to $645,686 since the inception of the program two years ago.

The national mobilization program is headed by Dr. F. D. Patterson, president of the college fund, and a seven-man board

Pres. Eisenhower To Speak At Negro College Fund Meet

President Eisenhower will deliver the main address at the United Negro College Fund 10th anniv. luncheon, May 19 at the Natl. Press Club.

Board members and over 350 leaders of the nation will attend, among whom will be Harvey S. Firestone, Jr., John D. Rockefeller, Jr., Alfred Sloan, Jr.

UNITED NEGRO COLLEGE FUND DRIVE STARTS

The United Negro College fund has opened its 10th annual campaign in Chicago, Hermon Dunlap Smith, insurance executive and area fund chairman, said yesterday. The Chicago goal is $125,000 in a national drive for $1,500,000.

The fund helps to support 31 private colleges and universities for Negroes, and is known as the nation's "first educational community chest," Smith said. So far it has allocated almost 12 million dollars to the schools.

Campaign Ends June 15

Individuals and corporations are being solicited in the campaign, which is to run until June 15. In addition, 370 philanthropic foundations will be asked to continue their support of the fund, founded in 1943 by John D. Rockefeller Jr.

Co-chairman with Smith for the Chicago area this year is Vernon S. Gordon, 366 E. 47th st., a real estate dealer. Edward E. Brown, First National bank board chairman, is treasurer. Added to the local steering committee this year are Sam Laud, General American Transportation company president, and H. Earle Muzzy, Quaker Oats company vice president.

Jackson, McCloy Active

Rockefeller still is head of the fund's national council. Charles D. Jackson, magazine publisher and White House aid, is national chairman. John J. McCloy, former American official in Germany, is national treasurer.

Other steering committee members are Laird Bell, Bertram J. Cahn, Truman K. Gibson, Porter M. Jarvis, Fowler McCormick, James F. Oates Jr., Edward L. Ryerson, Frederick W. Specht, Dr. Robert E. Wilson, and John H. Johnson.

IKE FOR UNCF — President Eisenhower is shown as he addressed a Washington luncheon of the United Negro College Fund last week as the organization launched its 25-year, $25,000,000 fund-raising campaign. Ike told the gathering that Americans are being "less than first class citizens when they permit minority groups to be treated as second class citizens." He praised the UNCF for combatting racial discrimination "without waiting for some kind of law." (Newspress Photo.)

For A Good Educational Cause

The United Negro Colleges are a group of the nation's leading private Negro institutions of higher learning banded together to appeal for financial aid in a sort of educational community chest. In the 10 years of the group's existence, these colleges have graduated more than 38,000 well-trained men and women, serving now in every part of the country as teachers, nurses, doctors, lawyers, ministers, social service workers and skilled technicians in industry and agriculture. At present they are training 23,000 students who benefit from aid through more scholarship assistance, more books, enlarged teaching staffs and better teaching and laboratory equipment.

Two Alabama institutions are members of the group—Tuskegee Institute and Talladega College. These and other member colleges are about 90 per cent self-sufficient, due to careful and economical administration. But help is required in obtaining the remaining 10 per cent of their combined educational budgets. This year the appeal goal is $1,500,000 nationally. Here in Birmingham it is hoped that $25,000 can be raised. Success will be regarded as a testimonial to Dr. F. D. Patterson, who recently resigned as president of Tuskegee Institute and who has been a leader in this united fund movement.

This appeal is for a worthy cause and is deserving of the support of the entire community.

UNITED NEGRO COLLEGE FUND is boosted as Archibald Glover (second from right) president of Brooklyn Catholic Interracial Council, presents check for $500 to Brevoort Savings Bank President, Richard Brennan, treasurer of the UNCF Brooklyn committee. Rev. Archibald V. McLees of Holy Rosary R. C. church, and Brooklyn UNCF Committee Chairman Mortimer Brenner (right) look on approvingly.

United Negro Fund Members Get More Cash for Operations

NEW YORK—A sum of $3,000,000 in additional grants was distributed last week to the thirty-one private, accredited colleges and universities participating in the United Negro College Fund's $25,000,000 building campaign, known as the National Mobilization of Resources for the United Negro Colleges.

Last week's distribution was the third since July, 1952, and brings the total to $9,400,000 so alloted in capital funds to the member colleges.

The fund's national mobilization program, a five-year capital funds campaign to help the member colleges meet their capital building needs, recently reached the appeal's half-way mark of $12,500,000 in corporation and foundation gifts.

THE DISTRIBUTION was announced at UNCF headquarters, 22 E. Fifty-fourth Street, New York City, by W. J. Trent Jr., the organization's executive director, who said that funds allotted so far in the program have been distributed on an equitable basis approved by the presidents of all the member colleges.

Mr. Trent explained that reports from the college presidents showed that most of the funds received in the first two distributions in July, 1952, and February, 1953, have been used to begin construction of new buildings where needed or to make extensive renovations to old buildings long in need of repair.

Bethune-Cookman College in Daytona Beach, Fla., used its first grant to renovate Cookman Hall, a dormitory for men, and to begin construction of a new physical education building.

* * *

THE FIRST allotment made to Dillard University in New Orleans, La., supplemented other funds toward completing and equipping a new science building.

Dillard was also enabled to improve its heating plant and complete paving of its campus roadway system.

Funds made available to Knoxville College in Knoxville, Tenn., made it possible for that institution to erect a new, modern building to house its music and art departments.

With its share of the money allotted, Benedict College in Columbia, S. C., has begun a new dining hall and dormitory.

Philander Smith College in Little Rock, Ark., used its funds to complete a new science hall in which classes were first held in December, 1952.

Mr. Trent went on to explain that one of the primary needs of many of the member colleges has been to improve or replace outmoded, sub-standard heating and power plants.

Aside from the drain on the college budgets, the old heating systems have been extremely hazardous to the health and welfare of the students and faculty.

In its report to the fund, Johnson C. Smith University in Charlotte, S. C., stated that early distribution of funds made it possible for that institution to replace its old power plants erected in 1895, and to eliminate thirteen decentralized heating units.

Similarly, Shaw University in Raleigh, N. C., announces it has been able to make extensive renovations to its heating plant.

* * *

THE REPORT from Tuskegee Institute in Alabama shows that that college has invested its share of distributed funds until the institution obtains the full $1,500,000 required to build a new power and heating plant to replace the present fifty-year-old, outmoded system.

Mr. Trent continued by saying that other member institutions have either started or completed preliminary plans for construction of new buildings. In some cases, he said, plans and specifications were developed immediately after receipt of mobilization program funds, and in others, construction was actually begun.

Two of the colleges, Atlanta University in Georgia and LeMoyne College in Memphis, Tenn., have invested their portion of distributed funds until such time as additional funds may be raised to meet their total building needs.

* * *

ON THE other hand, funds alloted to Lincoln University in Pennsylvania and Xavier University in New Orleans, La., are being used to build new dormitories for men.

Mr. Trent went on to say that allotments made to all the member institutions have been used to make major repairs to campus buildings and to purchase badly needed equipment for their educational programs.

Fisk University Gets $127,110 Grant From UNCF

NASHVILLE, Tenn.—Fisk University recently received $127,110,-00 from the United Negro College Fund's $25,000,000.00 five-year building campaign, known as the National Mobilization of Resources for the United Negro Colleges.

The announcement was made by Dr. Charles S. Johnson, president of Fisk who stated that today's grant brought the total received by Fisk to $398,278.00 since the inception of the Fund's National Mobilization program two years ago.

President Johnson said that the three grants made to Fisk since July, 1952, will enable Fisk to proceed immediately with two buildings now in the planning stage, Scribner Hall, a dormitory for women and Park Hall, to house the social sciences and education departments.

Stressing the work that Fisk University has done over the years, Dr. Johnson said that the university has grown until it is now serving students from thirty-four states and fourteen foreign countries. In the past ten years the university has graduated 1673 students who are serving today in every part of the United States and in many foreign countries as teachers and nurses, social service workers and doctors, lawyers and ministers.

President Johnson said that the Fund's National Mobilization program is headed by Dr. F. D. Patterson, president of the United College Fund, and a seven-man board including such well-known businessmen and idustrialists as Harvey S. Firestone Jr.; Devereux C. Josephs; Richard K. Mellon; John D. Rockefeller, Jr.; Alfred P. Sloan, Jr.; Robert E. Wilson, and Robert W. Woodruff.

Hampton Given College Funds

HAMPTON, Va. — Hampton Institute received $206,070 on June 30 from the United college fund's $25,000,000 five-year building campaign, known as the national mobilization of resources.

President Alonzo G. Moron of Hampton Institute stated that the grant brought the total received by the college to $645,686 since the inception of the program two years ago.

The national mobilization program is headed by Dr. F. D. Patterson, president of the college fund, and a seven-man board.

MRS. MARY McLEOD BETHUNE

Dr. Mary McLeod Bethune, Founder-President Emeritus of Bethune-Cookman College, has been invited by the "American Christian Palestine Committee," through Executive Secretary Karl Baehr, to join it's study group which will visit the countries of Greece, Turkey, Lebanon, Jordon and Israel.

This tour is arranged to study conditions prevalent in these countries in order that a better relationship might be built up between America and these foreign countries.

Dr. Bethune was also invited by the "Carver Garden Club" of Nassau, Bahamas as its guest and advisor in its struggle to gain suffrage for women in that country. This club is only six years old, but, in so short a time, it has undertaken several civic projects with crowning success.

Mrs. Bethune Invited On Study Tour

NEW YORK, 1953 — Walter P Reuther, C. I. O. president and George Meany, A. F. L. president are among a group of new members who have been appointed to the 1953 National Council of the United Negro College Fund. John D. Rockefeller, Jr., will again serve as chairman of the National Council, and Mrs. Chauncey E. Waddell will be associate chairman.

Other 1953 National Council members are: J. R. Davis, vice president, Ford Motor Company, Dearborn, Mich.; David Dubinsky, president, International Ladies Garment Workers Union, New York City; Arthur C. Kaufman, executive head, Gimbel Brothers, Philadelphia, Pa.; J. Bradshaw Mintener, general counsel, Pillsbury Flour Mills, Minneapolis; Charles R. Sligh Jr., president, National Association of Manufacturers New York City; John P. Stevens, Jr., president, J. P. Stevens Company New York City.

The Council serves as an advisory board for the United Negro College Fund and helps the Fund to enlist leadership in every part of the country where the UNCF conducts organized campaigns. These annual appeals seek to raise funds to help meet the yearly operating budgets of 31 private accredited colleges and universities located mainly in the South. The Council is composed of prominent business, civic, labor and educational leaders throughout the country.

The Fund lists the following persons as serving on the Council for another year: George A. Beavers, Jr., chairman, Golden State Mutual Life Insurance Company Los Angeles; Judson Bemis, Jr., general manager, Bemis Brothers Bag Company Minneapolis Minn.; W. Randolph Burgess, vice president, National City Bank of New York New York City; Harvey S. Firestone, Jr., president, Firestone Tire and Rubber Company Akron Ohio; Walter D. Fuller president, Curtis Publishing Company, Inc., Philadelphia Pa.; Walter D. Hoving, president Hoving Corporation, New York City; Porter M. Jarvis, executive vice president, Swift and Company, Chicago, Ill.; Dr. Mordecai Johnson president, Howard University, Washington, D. C.; Devereux C. Josephs president, New York Life Insurance Company New York City; Thomas A. Morgan, Chairman of the Board, United Negro College Fund, New York City; T. S. Peterson president, Standard Oil Company of California, San Francisco; Lessing J. Rosenwald, Jenkintown, Pa.; Alfred P. Sloan, Jr. Chairman of the Board General Motors Corporation New York City; F. K Weyerhaeuser, president, Weyerhaeuser Sales Co., St. Paul Minn.; J. D. Zellerbach president Crown Zellerbach Corporation, San Francisco, Cal.

College Choirs On Air In April

NEWPORT NEWS — Four outstanding choral groups will be heard Sundays from 10:30 to 11:00 a.m. over Newport News' WGH the month of April on "Negro College Choirs." The choirs are those of Fisk University, Nashville, Tenn.; Tuskegee Institute, Ala.; Bishop College, Marshall, Tex., and Clark College, Atlanta, Ga.

Leading off the month of Easter Sunday, the Fisk University group will lend their majestic voices to the following selection of holiday works: the spiritual, "He Is King OF Kings;" the Crucifixion spiritual, "Were You There;" "He Is Beauty of The Earth;" "Sanctus," by Bach, and "The Gold and Blue."

NUMBERS TO be presented by the Tuskegee Institute Choir on April 12 consist of: "Sing O'Heavens;" "Deep River;" "Even Me;" "I Know the Lord;" "Build Thee More Stately Mansions;" "Listen To The Lambs;' and "Couldn't Hear Nobody Pray."

On April 19 Bishop College will offer: "Onward Ye People," by Sibelius; "Sanctus Et Benedicturs," by Gounod; "Steal Away;" "I'll Never Turn Back No More;" "Since By Man Came Death," by Handel, and "Ezekiel Saw The Wheel."

As the finale for April, Clark College on the 26th will sing: "Now Let Every Tongue Adore Three," by Bach; "Judge Me, O God" by Mendelsohn; "Dere's No Hidin' Place Down Here;" "Hear, O Lord;" "The Kerry Dance;" "The Creation," and "Ride The Chariot."

Private Colleges Study Co-operation Among Members

New York, N. Y.—March 29, 1953 —During a recent Board meeting the presidents of the 31 member colleges participating in the United Negro College Fund authorized the UNCF to conduct a study of possible additional areas of cooperation between the member institutions, looking toward improving the operational efficiency of these institutions while also saving them money. Announcement was made at Fund headquarters by W. J. Trent, Jr., UNCF Executive Director.

Mr. Trent pointed out that any steps taken by the member colleges following completion of the study would be carried out on a purely voluntary basis. He added that the study will be conducted by G. L. Washington, a graduate engineer, who has been retained for a year, after which time the presidents will determine whether to develop a special division of the Fund to carry out the study's recommendations.

Mr. Washington attended the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, graduating in 1929 with a B.S. degree in engineering. His undergraduate training at M.I.T., was financed by the Boston Rotary Club. Remaining at the institute for another year, he graduated in 1930 with a Master's degree. This year of study was made possible through a fellowship from the Rosenwald Fund.

UNCF Sets Goal Of $1,500,000; Drive To Begin April 13

New York, N. Y., March 25, 1953 —A goal of $1,500,000 will be sought by the United Negro College Fund in 1953, in the tenth annual appeal opening in New York on Monday, April 13, with a meeting to be held in the ballroom of the Hotel Plaza at 4 p.m. Announcement was made by Frank M. Totton, Vice President of the Chase National Bank, and Chairman of the Fund's National Executive Committee.

This year's quota represents ten per cent of the combined educational budgets of all private, accredited colleges and universities participating in the Fund's program. These institutions manage to provide the other ninety per cent themselves, through careful economies.

The Fund will conduct organized campaigns in 25 major cities throughout the country as well as in the communities where the member colleges are located.

Mr. Totton also announced that President Dwight D. Eisenhower has endorsed the 1953 campaign in a statement praising the work of the Fund's member colleges. In his letter President Eisenhower said:

"When I was President of Columbia University I wrote a letter stating my conviction that through education . . . broad, human objective education . . . we can achieve the mutual understanding among all nations and races that is the necessary foundation for an enduring peace. That is why I urge support of the United Negro College Fund.

"Through the Fund, many young Americans are given the chance they otherwise might never have had to continue their education . . . to become doctors, teachers, nurses and social workers so desperately needed today.

"The Fund enables thirty-one private colleges and universities to provide more scholarship aid to deserving students, buy books for libraries, pay teaching salaries. We can help these young Americans by giving generously to the United Negro College Fund in our city.

"These are still my views with respect to this excellent organization."

All but one of the Fund's member colleges, Lincoln University in Pennsylvania, are located in the Southern States where 73 per cent of the Negro population resides.

RACIAL BIAS CITED AS DANGER TO U. S.

Symposium at Sarah Lawrence Notes Segregation Here Hurts Nation Abroad

By MILTON BRACKER

BRONXVILLE, N. Y., March 22 —The dangerous effect on United States foreign relations of policies of racial segregation and discrimination at home was cited repeatedly here this afternoon at a symposium at Sarah Lawrence College.

The United Negro College Fund presented in the program, in conjunction with the Westchester clubs of Barnard, Bryn Mawr, Connecticut, Mount Holyoke, Radcliffe, Sarah Lawrence, Smith and Wellesley; and the county branch of the American Association of University Women. Three hundred persons attended.

Dr. Buell G. Gallagher, president of City College, presided. He is a former president of Talladega College, Alabama, which is one of the thirty-one institutions, with a total enrollment of 25,000 students, participating in the fund.

Setting the theme, Dr. Gallagher asserted: "Every time we deny the right to paint, to write, to sing, to enter politics—every time we deny this basic right because of the accident of birth, we impoverish the general welfare; we are all the poorer therefore."

Cites 'Uncommitted' Peoples

Dr. Rufus E. Clement, president of Atlanta University, said the world's population could be roughly broken down into three groups of 800,000,000 each—one largely under Communist control, one loosely united with the democracies, and one without definite allegiance either way.

The speaker pointed out that this last third was "virtually all colored"—including the peoples of India, Burma, Indonesia and Malaya, with their strategic economic resources.

"Whether or not we win the struggle against communism," he continued, "will depend very largely upon how we get along with these people who are up to now relatively uncommitted in the struggle."

Dr. Clement told a perplexed British diplomat in Washington who had acknowledged that distinguished representatives of Commonwealth nations thought "less of the British Empire" because members of the British Embassy could not take them to a specific hotel for dinner, because of segregation policies in the American capital.

"I told him about f.. places I was pretty sure of because I'd been there myself," Dr. Clement added. "Other than that I didn't know."

'My Face Was Red'

Fannie Hurst, underwriting what Mr. Clement had said, told of attending a United Nations meeting in Geneva at which "my face was red" because of the reiterated references to the American race situation that were "flung in my face daily." She said it was to the "eternal glory of the American Negro" that he had such a "low statistic in communism."

Dr. Ira De A. Reid, head of the sociology department of Haverford College, declared that even if the international situation were resolved and war averted, there would still be a race situation in this country.

"Here we have the only mass of colored people in the world—with the possible exception of the Union of South Africa—fighting their own Government for recognition," he said.

Dr. Reid feared that race policies here had "made this country the most reviled country in the world."

William J. Trent Jr., executive director of the fund, said that Negro colleges might help "serve as a laboratory of understanding of working together and living

Your Opportunity To Help Colleges To Do Their Jobs

WITH THE OPENING this week of the tenth annual campaign of the United Negro College Fund, it is well to review the truly amazing results of this cooperative enterprise in educational financing. Before the UNCF was organized, the now member colleges were able to raise only $250,000 through their individual fund-raising efforts. The very next year, in their first united campaign, the UNCF raised $765,567 for these same institutions.

In its first nine annual nationwide campaigns, the UNCF raised $10 million for its member institutions. Assuming that the individual efforts each of the same nine years would have averaged the same amount as in 1943, the amount raised without College Fund leadership would have been two and one-quarter million dollars—or about $7,750,000 less.

What has this differential, achieved through the combined fund-raised resources of the UNCF, meant? The consistent and increasing yearly support in many instances has meant the difference between colleges being fully accredited or having only a second-rate academic standing.

It has meant that many more hundreds of qualified students could attend college through scholarship aid, than would have been the case without the additional funds made available to the participating institutions.

It has resulted in more and better teachers, better equipped science laboratories, libraries, and classrooms.

In short, the UNCF is helping these private colleges to provide the best possible educational opportunity today for more than 23,000 young men and women, and it is strengthening these strategic institutions for tomorrow when they will be recognized as excellent colleges and universities for all qualified students, without reference to race or creed.

Over 4,000 hard-headed corporations were contributors last year to the College Fund. In addition, 370 philanthropic foundations gave varying amounts. They have joined with the thousands of individual donors, white and colored, "in the realization that by helping to insure the future of these institutions they are preserving a basic instrument for the strengthening of our free society."

This year the fund seeks to raise $1,500,000. The fund wisely observes that this is "surely a modest price to set upon so rich an American opportunity." Contributions of whatever amount may be given through your state or local UNCF committee, or may be sent to the United Negro College Fund, 22 East 54th street, New York, N. Y., where they will be credited to the city in which you live.

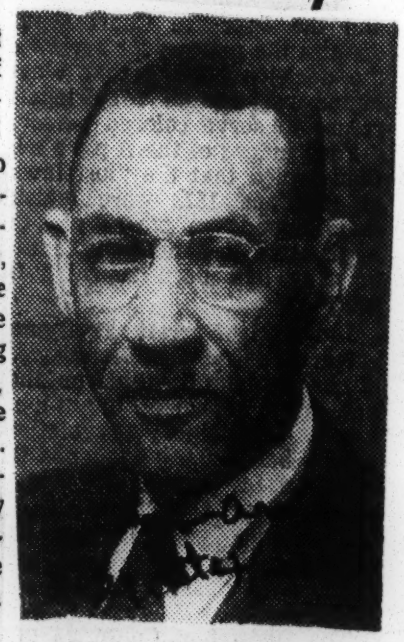
Those who feel they cannot afford to give are reminded that they actually can—for contributions are deductible from trom income taxes. There are few cases so wholly entitled to the fullest possible support.

UNCF Conducting Study Of Members' Efficiency

NEW YORK—During a recent board meeting, the presidents of the 31 member colleges participating in the United College Fund authorized the UNCF to conduct a study of possible additional areas of cooperation between the member institutions, looking toward improving the operational efficiency of these institutions while also saving them money.

The announcement was made at Fund Headquarters by W. J. Trent Jr., UNCF executive director, who pointed out that any steps taken by the member college following completion of the study would be carried out on a purely voluntary basis.

The study will be conducted by G. L. Washington, a graduate engineer, who has been retained for a year, after which time the presidents will determine whether to develop a special division of the Fund to carry out the study's recommendations.



G. L. WASHINGTON

Negro College Fund Backed

CIO PRES. Walter P. Reuther has urged CIO unions and councils to contribute to the United Negro College Fund—America's first "educational community chest."

The fund is composed of 31 private accredited Negro colleges, all except one being located in the South. Each year they provide educational opportunities for 22,000 Negro youth, "many of whom would be unable otherwise to receive higher education," Reuther noted.

Urging CIO contributions, Reuther said it was "important that the CIO give encouragement and support" to the current appeal for approximately $1.5 million.

President Lauds Fund For Negro Colleges

WASHINGTON,—(INS) — President Eisenhower said Tuesday that Americans are being less than first-class citizens when they permit minority groups to be treated as "second-class citizens."

The chief executive made the statement in a brief luncheon address before the United Negro College fund.

He praised the work of the fund-raising group for doing something without "waiting for some kind of law."

5 YEAR DRIVE

The luncheon formally launched the public phase of a five-year campaign to raise 25 million dollars for Negro colleges.

Mr. Eisenhower declared that all of those attending the meeting demonstrated their support for several things in which he himself strongly believes.

He said these include the Constitutional principle that all men are created equal and his own oft-voiced declaration that there are no second-class citizens in America.

MARINE STORY

The President related an incident which occurred while he was inspecting a marine honor guard at Annapolis, Md., Sunday.

He said he noticed that one of several Negroes in the guard wore the chevrons of a non-commissioned officer.

Mr. Eisenhower said he called this to the attention of the unit's commanding officer and recalled the argument that white troops would not willingly serve under a Negro superior.

SPECIAL BOOST

The President said the commanding officer told him that the Negro had been promoted by a special arrangement despite the fact that he was unable to pass the necessary examination, because of his outstanding qualities of leadership.

The President commended the fund-raisers for helping to assure that Negro youths will be able to obtain the education which will guarantee them equality of opportunity with other Americans.

He also lauded the Rockefeller family, which has been active in supporting the fund. John D. Rockefeller III accepted a special citation from the group at the luncheon.

IKE SLATED TO ADDRESS UNCF LUNCHEON: A delegation from the United Negro College Fund invites President Eisenhower to address a luncheon which the group will hold May 19 in honor of the Rockefeller family and the General Education Board. The president tentatively accepted the invitation. From left to right are Dr. F. D. Patterson, founder-president of the fund; Rep. Frances P. Bolton of Cleveland, Ohio; Sherman Adams, executive assistant to the president, and Claude A. Barnett. — (ANP Photo)

Ike Raps Bias At College Fund Meet

President Says "There Are No Second-Class Citizens"

WASHINGTON — (INS) — President Eisenhower said Tuesday that Americans are being less than first-class citizens when they permit minority groups to be treated as "Second-Class Citizens."

The Chief Executive made the statement in a brief luncheon address before the United Negro College Fund.

He praised the work of the fund-raising group for doing something about combating discrimination without "waiting for some kind of 'aw."

Mr. Eisenhower said he called this to the attention of the unit's commanding officer and recalled the argument that white troops would not willingly serve under a Negro superior.

The President said the commanding officer told him that the Negro had been promoted by a special arrangement despite the fact that he was unable to pass the necessary examination, because of his outstanding qualities of leadership.

The President commended the fund-raisers for helping to assure that Negro youths will be able to obtain the education which will guarantee them equality of opportunity with other Americans.

He also lauded the Rockefeller family, which has been active in supporting the fund. John D Rockefeller III accepted a special citation from the group at the luncheon.

FIVE-YEAR CAMPAIGN

The luncheon formally launched the public phase of a five-year campaign to raise 25 million dollars for Negro colleges.

Mr. Eisenhower declared that all of those attending the meeting demonstrated their support for several things in which he himself strongly believes.

He said these include the constitutional principle that all men are created equal and his own oft-voiced declaration that there are no second-class citizens in America.

HONOR GUARD

The President related an incident which occurred while he was inspecting a Marine honor guard at Annapolis, Md., Sunday.

He said he noted that one of several Negroes in the guard wore the chevrons of a non-commissioned officer.

Honor UNCF 'Mothers At Reception In Brooklyn

BROOKLYN, N. Y. — Tribute to Brooklyn and Long Island mothers of students now attending various UNCF member colleges was paid last Monday night by the Brooklyn Committee of the United Negro College Fund at a reception in the Central YWCA.

Honoring the women for their "unselfish efforts, sacrifices and inspiring guidance in helping today's youth toward a richer future" sparked the Committee's for all-out local support of the current UNCF nation-wide drive.

Special floral presentations were made to each of the 15 mothers present whose offspring are among the more than 100 local youth now studying at the private colleges and universities which receive cash aid from the Fund.

Miss Dorothea Fowles, popular radio and stage star, and herself a graduate of Wiley college, a UNCF member, made the presentations.

Entertainment during the evening was provided by other luminaries of the radio and stage including Eubie Blake, Ruth Gibbs Tyler and the winners of the recent Borough CYO Talent Show. Joe Bostic, radio and TV notable, served as master of ceremonies.

Brief talks about the Fund were given by Municipal Court Judge Daniel Gutman, Mrs. Frances H. Kohan, prominent Brooklynite active with the New York City Board of Education Community center, and Mortimer Brenner, general chairman of the Brooklyn committee.

The reception was sponsored by the Women's Division of the Committee, the co-chairman of which are Mrs. Kathryn J. Smith, Mrs. Dorothy Bostic.

The color of an eggshell depends on the breed of hen and does not indicate food value of the egg.

College Fund Choirs Listed For Summer

NEW YORK — The schedule for the weekly series of United Negro College Fund choir broadcasts, presented by the Public Affairs Department of the American Broadcasting Company, was announced today by W. J. Trent Jr., executive director of the Fund. For the seven week period beginning July 19th the programs will feature the choirs of LeMoyne College, Virginia Union University, Bishop and St. Augustine's Colleges, Xavier University, Livingstone and Benedict College, all UNCF member institutions.

The schedule is as follows: LeMoyne College, Memphis, Tennessee, July 19th; Virginia Union Universitl, Richmond, Virginia, July 26th; Bishop College, Marshall, Texas, August 2nd; St. Augustine's College, Raleigh, North Carolina, August 9th; Xavier University, New Orleans, Louisiana, August 16th; Livingstone College, Salisbury, North Carolina, August 23rd; and Benedict College, Columbia, South Carolina, August 30th.

The series, which features the choral groups of the 31 private colleges and universities associated in the United Negro College Fund, has been a public service feature of the American Broadcasting Company for the past four years. The programs originate in New York Sundays 10:30 to 11:00 a. m. over station WABC, and are heard on more than 170 stations of the ABC network throughout the United States and Canada. The broadcast have served to acquaint a large American public with the work of the Fund in behalf of greater educational opportunities for Negro youth.

More Workers Wanted For United College Fund

By CLAUDE GEORGE SR.

A total of $6,557 has been raised in the Atlanta area for the United Negro College Fund, it has been announced by Dr. Benjamin E. Mays, president of Morehouse College, campaign chairman for the Atlanta area.

Dr. Mays disclosed that 100 volunteer workers are needed in the campaign as he stressed the importance of reaching the goal of $45,000,000 throughout the nation. Of this amount $24,000,000 must be raised among the Negro communities.

He also pointed out that of the 31 colleges benefiting from the fund, six are in Atlanta. They are Atlanta University, Clark College, Gammon Theological Seminary, Morehouse College, Morris Brown College and Spelman College.

Dr. Mays, in appealing for support to the drive, said, "If these colleges are to continue their important educational services for so large a segment of the nation's Negro youth, they must have your help in meeting their yearly operating costs."

Dr. Mays was assisted at the meeting by Dr. Rufus E. Clement, president of Atlanta University; Dr. James P. Brawley, president of Clark College, and Dr. E. G. Mitchell, vice-president of Morris Brown College. The next meeting will be held at 12:30 p. m. Wednesday.

College Fund Grants Virginia Union $83,190

RICHMOND, Va. — Virginia Union University received $83,190 last week from the United Negro College Fund's $25,000,000 five-year building campaign, known as the National Mobilization of Resources for the United Negro Colleges. Announcement was made by J. M. Ellison, president of Virginia Union University, who stated that this grant brought the total received by his college to $260,662 since the inception of

New Grants To Provide For Buildings

$9,400,000 Alloted In Capital Funds Since July, 1952

NEW YORK, N. Y. — A sum of $3,000,000 in additional grants was distributed Friday to the 31 private, accredited colleges and universities participating in the United Negro College Fund's $25,000,000 building campaign known as the National Mobilization of Resources for the United Negro Colleges. Friday's distribution was the third since July, 1952, and brings the total to $9,400,000 so alloted in capital funds to the member colleges.

The Fund's National Mobilization Program, a five-year capital funds campaign to help the member colleges meet their capital building needs, recently reached the appeal's half-way mark of $12,500,000 in corporation and foundation gifts.

* * *

FRIDAY'S DISTRIBUTION was announced at UNCF headquarters, 22 East 54th street, New York, by W. J. Trent, Jr., the organization's executive director, who said that funds allotted so far in the program have been distributed on an equitable basis approved by the presidents of all of the member colleges. Mr. Trent explained that reports from the college presidents showed that most of the funds received in the first two distributions, in July, 1952, and February, 1953, have been used to begin construction of new buildings where needed or to make extensive renovations to old buildings long in need of repair.

* * *

MR. TRENT WENT on to explain that one of the primary needs of many of the member colleges has been to improve or replace outmoded, substandard heating and power plants. Aside from the drain on the college budgets, the old heating systems have been extremely hazardous to the health and welfare of the students and faculty. He said that allotments made to all the member institutions have been used to make major repairs to campus buildings and to purchase badly needed equipment for their educational programs.

Discussing the colleges themselves, Mr. Trent said that all but one of these colleges - Lincoln University in Pennsylvania - were located in the Southern states where 73 percent of Negroes of college age reside.

* * *

THESE INSTITUTIONS, HE said, have an enrollment of 23,000 students, representing 28 per cent of Negroes enrolled in colleges and universities throughout the country, and 93 per cent of the total enrollment of all Negro four-year, accredited, privately supported colleges in the U. S.

The Fund's National Mobilization Program is headed by Dr. F. D. Patterson, president of the United Negro College Fund, and a seven-man board which includes such well-known business men and industrialists as Harvy S. Firestone, Jr., Devereux C. Josephs; Richard K. Mellon; John D. Rockefeller Jr., Alfred P. Sloan, Jr.; Robert E. Wilson and Robert W. Woodruff.

College Fund Distributes $3,000,000 In Grants

NEW YORK (ANP)—$3,000,000 in additional grants were distributed last week to the 31 private, accredited colleges and universities participating in the United Negro College Fund's $25,000,000 building campaign, known as the National Mobilization of Resources for the United Negro Colleges.

This distribution was the third since July, 1952, and brings the total to $9,400,000 so far allotted in capital funds.

The campaign to help the member colleges meet their capital building needs, recently reached the half-way mark of $12,500,000 in corporation and foundation gifts.

The program is headed by Dr. F. D. Patterson, president of the United Negro College Fund, and a seven-man board which includes Devereaux C. Josephs, Richard K. Mellon, John D. Rockefeller Jr., Alfred P Sloan, Jr., Robert E. Wilson and Robert W. Woodruff.

Shaw University Given $25,000 By College Fund

RALEIGH, N.C.— Saw University received $83,100 on July 1 from the United Negro College Fund's $25,000,000 five - year building campaign, known as the National Mobilization of Resources for the United Negro Colleges.

The announcement was made by Dr. W. R. Strassner, president of the University, who stated that today's grant brougt the total received by his college to $260,380 since the inception of the fund's mobilization program two years ago.

Repairs, Equipment

President Strassner explained that the money his college had received is being spent to make major repairs to buildings badly in need of renovations and for the purchase of equipment.

Stressing the work that Shaw has done over the years, Dr. Strassner said that the college, located in an area serving 1,000,000 colored people, has in the past 10 years graduated 1,436 students who are serving today in every part of the United States.

Tuskegee Receives $180,000 From Fund

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, Ala., July 4 — Tuskegee Institute received $180,000 Wednesday from the United Negro College Fund's $25,000,000 five-year building campaign, known as the National Mobilization of Resources for the United Negro Colleges.

The announcement was made by Dr. F. H. Foster, president, Tuskegee Institute, who stated that today's grant brought the total received by the institute to $564,188 since the inception of the Fund's National Mobilization program two years ago.

President Foster said that the three grants made to Tuskegee Institute since July, 1952, made possible the following improvements:

1. Facilities for Commercial Dietetics training; (2) The first wing of the Enginering Building, and (3) A new dormitory for faculty and staff women.

AID TO NEGRO COLLEGES

$3,000,000 Allotted in Building Program's 3d Distribution

A total of $3,000,000 in additional grants was distributed yesterday to the thirty-one colleges and universities participating in the United Negro College Fund's $25,000,000 building campaign.

This distribution was the third since last July and brought to $9,400,000 the amount allotted under the program, which is known as the National Mobilization of Resources for the United Negro Colleges.

The fund's national mobilization program, a five-year project to enable the member institutions meet their capital building needs, recently reached the half-way mark of $12,500,000.

W. J. Trent, Jr., the fund's executive director, said that the funds had been distributed on an equitable basis. The fund's headquarters is at 22 East Fifty-fourth Street.

Mass Giving To Keep College Free

Those who love free education which prepares men and women as leaders for first-class citizens, pioneers in thought, path-makers in new fields of human dignity and spiritual enrichment, should be continuously listed among the willing donors to higher independent education.

Mass giving is a feature of the mass production age in which we live. A united fund drive which benefits a large number of like-purpose institutions is an economical and effective method of raising funds.

This year the United Negro College Fund is celebrating its tenth anniversary. It is the "brain child" of Dr. F. D. Patterson, the retiring president of Tuskegee Institute. Nothing could be more appropriate than for us to make this the greatest year of the campaign as a tribute to the man who fathered the movement. It now includes 31 participating colleges of which Talladega College and Tuskegee Institute of Alabama are members.

In the Birmingham area the fund drive is shooting at $25,000. The local campaign is being directed by Mrs. A. G. Gaston, an outstanding local woman. Supporting her in this work is Mr. Paul L. Ware, a faithful and reliable leader in the cause of education and enlightenment. But these leaders need others to work with them and for the drive. Birmingham has hundreds of graduates and former students from the participating institutions who should be front-line leaders in this worthy endeavor.

What is admirable about the United Negro College Fund is the fact that it is organized in a way to entice donors whether they have attended college or merely visited the street corners. The drive is designed to insure the future of the quality colleges which open their doors to Negro students on the basis of merit, qualifications and character. In doing this the colleges which participate in the UNCF set the pace and magnify the example of the true college in a democracy and enlightened civilization.

The UNCF story is inspiringly told in a brochure in which we call attention to these portions:

"In ten short years, the private Negro Colleges have written a new American success story. Like all others it deals with the dignity of simple beginnings—the honor of work—the power of faith. But it has spelled out a new American idea . . . the educational community chest.

"It is an idea that has given the nation many thousands of able, responsible citizens whose talents and skills might otherwise have been wasted. And it is keeping the doors of opportunity open for thousands more to come.

"For through this new kind of cooperative enterprise, the United Negro Colleges have found the means of carrying on their sound educational programs upon which so many of our Negro youth must depend.

"Ten years ago, the future of the private Negro colleges was bleak indeed. Costs of operation had soared well beyond their modest means. Traditional income from gifts had fallen off. Endowment returns were dwindling. Few of their students could pay higher tuition fees.

"It was then that they joined forces in the United Negro College Fund to save the institutions it had taken nearly one hundred slow years to build.

"From the first, Americans saw in this venture something that was familiar and natural to them . . . the steady spirit of independence. And since 1944 they have responded warmly to the fund's yearly appeals.

"Their investment has paid rich dividends, for in ten years the United Negro Colleges have graduated more than 38,000 well-trained men and women who are serving today in every part of the United States, many as teachers and nurses, social service workers and doctors, lawyers and ministers and as skilled technicians in industry and agriculture.

"At present, more than 23,000 students are sharing in the benefits of this continued support, which has helped to provide more scholarship aid . . . more books for libraries . . . better teaching and laboratory equipment . . . student health programs and enlarged teaching staffs.

"The United Negro Colleges are ninety per cent self sufficient, thanks to careful economical administrations. But, handicapped by necessarily low tuition fees and small endowments, they must ask your help in securing the remaining ten per cent of their combined educational budgets . . . or $1,500,000 in 1953.

"We urge you to join with the thousands of other thoughtful Americans who see in the Fund's program a practical, effective means for bringing about greater community progress and interracial understanding at home, and of strengthening Democracy's influence throughout the world."

An Example For Others

When Omicron Omega Chapter, Alpha Kappa Alpha Sorority voted to contribute $50 to the United Negro College Fund, it set an example that might be followed by other similar organizations, but on a larger scale. Some $25,000 is being sought for the drive this year in the Birmingham area.

However, one might, as a manner of prodding, suggest that this sorority's contribution be placed against what it will spend for its dance the night of May 1 at the Masonic Temple casino. One could see that relationship between the Greek women's outlay for toe action as against cultural enlightenment. One day a college trained group is going to make big news by suspending a dance for one season and turning over to a worthier purpose the money that would have been spent on it.

Quality colleges are in need of more support. Those who have had the good fortune to attend college should be the first to realize this. It would be a noble thing for the college-touched to turn back yearly to higher education an amount equal to or more than that they fun away or frolic off.

But this by no means beclouds the thoughtful contribution made by that fine group of AKA ladies who have responded in a material way to the college fund. It merely points them to a new target and suggests the practice of social sacrifice as a means of bolstering the cause higher level education.

A Word From the Wise

NEGRO educators gathered at the launching of the tenth annual fund drive of the United Negro College Fund in New York's Plaza Hotel last week heard some words of wisdom that both they and Negro students should heed.

The words came from James A. Linen, publisher of Time, one of the corporations contributing to the $1,500,000 fund drive.

He urged his hearers to alter the fact that "the best Negro brains have avoided the lucrative pursuit of the business dollar," preferring professional status, although opportunities are opening in private enterprise.

He added that "American industry is quite aware that the Negro market is a twelve billion-dollar market, bigger than the Canadian market and the total of American exports"—doubtless suggesting that Negro educators were unaware of this fact and its larger significance.

The Courier has been preaching this doctrine for years, and it is good to hear these words of wisdom from an experienced business executive outside our group.

Education and training have progressively to change their objectives in accordance with our developing civilization, but too often social thinking lags behind environmental reality.

Too often our educational statesmen (like many of our admirals and generals) insist on preparing for the last war rather than the next one.

Among the legion of young colored men and women matriculating in our colleges, there must be thousands who could make a greater contribution to our future in American civilization if they were being trained for business and industry rather than taking the courses they are.

There would seem to be a greater need for sound vocational guidance.

It is indeed paradoxical that in a business civilization so few of our youths are being prepared for careers in industry, commerce and finance.

Ten Years of UNCF

THIS year the United Negro College Fund is celebrating its tenth anniversary, and this is of transcendent importance because its effort was a pioneering one.

This cooperative enterprise of the leading private Negro colleges was the first program of its kind to get adequate voluntary support for these institutions above and beyond what they had been able to obtain by individual effort.

In 1943 these thirty-two Negro colleges were able to raise only $250,000 through group solicitation, but in 1944 the United Negro College Fund raised $765,567 for them.

Up to date the UNCF has raised over $10,000,000 for its member institutions.

Since imitation is said to be the sincerest flattery, it is interesting to note that the success of the UNCF has inspired twenty-four other groups of private colleges to follow its example, all of them white.

Because of the efforts of the United Negro College Fund the member colleges have been able to maintain full accreditation rather than second-rate standing.

Not only has this security of tenure for Negro teachers but graduates could enter the best universities because they were properly prepared; and that they could have the finest obtainable equipment: CLASSROOMS, libraries and laboratories.

Many of us do not realize that these colleges served by the UNCF are training more than 23,000 students who will be the leaders of tomorrow in hundreds of communities, and if it were not for these institutions they would be unable to get an education.

In short, these are not just Negro colleges but colleges of the highest standard, thanks to the United Negro College Fund.

This year the United Negro College Fund has the goal of $1,500,000, and that amount will be raised if all those who say they are interested in furthering Negro education make substantial contributions.

In addition to this sum, however, the UNCF is also trying to get contributions to its five-year plan for raising $25,000,000 for new buildings and improvements on present plants.

In addition to the UNCF fund-raising efforts, it has been able to bring to the attention of the American public the need for greater educational opportunity for Negro youth.

This tenth anniversary year ought to be the most successful of all, and certainly should be if those who are most concerned dig deep into their pockets.

Argument That Does Not Work

On the eve of its 1953 campaign the United Negro College Fund issued its alumni newsletter in which this argument was advanced: "As a graduate or former student of a UNFC college or university you have a special obligation to your Alma Mater which can best be repaid by actively working for the success of the Fund's united effort in its behalf. Whether or not you received direct scholarship aid while in college, you benefited from a 'hidden scholarship'—or that part of the cost of your education borne by the college, not the student. Today, you are one of more than 75,000 living UNCF alumni, probably earning higher than the average income, as a result of your educational opportunity."

This is an argument that simply does not work. If the member colleges had convinced the 75,000 living graduates while they were students or since, that there is any such obligation, a gift of $20 per graduate on the average would raise the whole $1,500,000 which the UNCF seeks for 1953. That so many thousands of college and university graduates act as if they do not believe this argument is at least some indication that there may be something wrong with it. The truth of the matter is that most of the money raised each year by the United Negro College Fund comes from white people and from white corporations, which is some indication that the masses of Negroes and of Negro businesses have been to some extent neglected in the UNCF's appeal.

But, back to the argument that graduates of these colleges owe something that they did not pay when they were in college. If one would listen to the sales talk of the representatives of these colleges who go out to recruit students, one could not miss the impression that the average good student is doing the college a favor by agreeing to register there. In the cases of athletes and good musical talent in more instances than not these colleges offer everything from expenses to cash on the side to get good students, and nothing is ever whispered about any obligation that the college will come along years later to try to collect as something which was due but not paid when the student was in college.

There are many foundations and funds which loan money to students to go to college, to be repaid after graduation, and in these cases notes are taken from the students when the money is loaned. It woud seem that the member institutions of the United Negro College Fund should follow this procedure if they intend to try to collect on so-called unpaid obligations. In that event, the obligation would be made definite and the student would know what he is getting into. The experience of other college loan funds shows that most of these obligations would be honored and paid.

But assuming that there is some validity to this argument that students in these colleges owe something that they do not pay, the objection to it from the point of view of the United Negro College Fund is that it does not work and the graduates of these colleges simply do not believe that they have any such obligation which they have not met. So, these colleges must find another argument or other arguments, and they must find other avenues of so identifying themselves with these "75,000 living UNCF alumni", if they ever have any hope of getting the support from the Negro community which is indispensable to the ultimate survival of these institutions.

Ike Raps Bias At College Fund Meet

President Says "There Are No Second-Class Citizens"

WASHINGTON — (INS) — President Eisenhower said Tuesday that Americans are being less than first-class citizens when they permit minority groups to be treated as "Second-Class Citizens."

The Chief Executive made the statement in a brief luncheon address before the United Negro College Fund.

He praised the work of the fund-raising group for doing something about combating discrimination without "waiting for some kind of law."

FIVE-YEAR CAMPAIGN

The luncheon formally launched the public phase of a five-year campaign to raise 25 million dollars for Negro colleges.

Mr. Eisenhower declared that all of those attending the meeting demonstrated their support for several things in which he himself strongly believes.

He said these include the constitutional principle that all men are created equal and his own oft-voiced declaration that there are no second-class citizens in America.

HONOR GUARD

The President related an incident which occurred while he was inspecting a Marine honor guard at Annapolis, Md., Sunday.

He said he noted that one of several Negroes in the guard wore the chevrons of a non-commissioned officer.

Mr. Eisenhower said he called this to the attention of the unit's commanding officer and recalled the argument that white troops would not willingly serve under a Negro superior.

The President said the commanding officer told him that the Negro had been promoted by a special arrangement despite the fact that he was unable to pass the necessary examination, because of his outstanding qualities of leadership.

The President commended the fund-raisers for helping to assure that Negro youths will be able to obtain the education which will guarantee them equality of opportunity with other Americans.

He also lauded the Rockefeller family, which has been active in supporting the fund. John D Rockefeller III accepted a special citation from the group at the luncheon.

141 1953 UNITED NEGRO COLLEGE FUND GENERAL EDUCATION BOARD $1,000,000

Rockefeller Foundation gives $1 million to Negro college fund

NEW YORK, Jan. 22—(AP)—The Rockefeller Foundation's general education board has given $1 million to the United Negro College Fund, Inc., of New York, it was announced last night by Dean Rusk, Foundation president and chairman of the education board.

The grant was the largest made by either the Foundation or its education board during the fourth quarter of last year, when a total of $2,584,000 was given by the foundation and $1,327,000 by the board.

In 1950, the United Negro College Fund authorized a five-year capital fund campaign to raise $25 million for distribution to 31 privately endowed member colleges.

THE GRADUATES of these institutions, the Foundation said in announcing the large grant, "are contributing leadership in cities and communities throughout the nation."

Since 1944, the education board of the Foundation has appropriated $575,000 to the UNCF, $375,000 of which went toward the expenses of conducting the capital fund campaign.

In addition to the grant by the general education board, other appropriations were made to Huston-Tillotson College, in Austin, Tex., for transient operating expenses entailed in the merger of Samuel Huston College and Tillotson College during the period ending June 30, 1955.

Other educational institutions receiving grants from the board included Fisk University, Nashville, Tenn.; Bennet College, Greensboro, N. C.; Virginia Polytechnic Institute, Blacksburg; Dillard University, New Orleans, La., and the University of North Carolina, at Raleigh.

The latter was given $250,000 toward a stabilizing fund of $500,000 for basic research. This institution also received $170,000 from the Foundation for research in mathematic genetics for the next five years.

1952 College Fund Drive Breaks Record

NEW YORK—The largest sum, since its organization in 1944, was contributed to the United Negro College Fund in 1952, W. J. Trent, Jr., executive director, announced last week.

Trent said fund reports record a total of $1,366,310.56 raised in the 1952 appeal—an increase of $58,000 over 1951.

The money was distributed among 31 private accredited colleges and universities for current operating expenses.

Trent said 4430 business firms and corporations contributed $451,681.96. Three-hundred and seventy-six foundations gave $261,687 and students in more than a hundred schools, colleges and universities gave $20,029.50.

The Greater New York area raised $364.327. Members of the Armed Forces at home and abroad contributed over $8,000. Thirty-five of 76 campaign cities exceeded amounts raised in 1951.

College Fund Board Meets In Frisco

SAN FRANCISCO — This city will be host city to 31 Presidents of Negro colleges and universities assembling here for the first time Jan. 10-12, 1953, for the 10th annual board meeting of the United Negro College Fund, Inc.

The sponsors committee is headed by Co-Chairmen Dr. Henry F. Grady, Daniel E. Koshland, and Dr. Howard Thurman. Gov. Earl Warren and Mayor Elmer E. Robinson are serving as honorary chairmen of the event.

The Convocation will feature addresses by Dr. Linsley Kimball, vice president of the Rockerfeller Foundation, New York City; Dr. F. D. Patterson, president of famed Tuskegee Institute, Alabama, and Dr. Charles S. Johnson, president of Fisk university, Nashville. Tenn.

College Choirs On ABC Network

JACKSON, Tenn. — The weekly series of programs by outstanding college choirs presented by the American Broadcasting Company in cooperation with the United Negro College Fund, will feature the groups of Lane College and Dillard University for the last two weeks in February, and Livingstone and Benedict Colleges for the first two weeks in March, it was announced recently by W. J. Trent, Jr. executive director, at the College Fund headquarters, 22 East Fifty-Fourth Street.

The schedule of the broadcasts, which comes from New York each Sunday over Station WJZ, 10:30-11:00 A. M., and are heard over 170 stations in the United States and Canada, is as follows: Lane College Jackson, Miss., February 15; Dillard University, New Orleans, La., February 22; Livingstone College, Salisbury, N. C., March 1; and Benedict College, Columbia, S. C., March 8.

These choral programs were initiated by the American Broadcasting Company in April, 1950, and have served to acquaint a large American public with the important work being done by the private colleges and universities aided by the United Negro College Fund.

Negro College Fund Reports Record Total

NEW YORK — (Special) — United Negro College Fund reports record total $1,366,310.56 raised 1952 appeal increase $58,000 over 1951 and largest sum raised since fund organized 1944, according to W. J. Trent, Jr., executive director. Money will be distributed among 31 private accredited colleges and universities for current operating expenses.

Trent said 4,430 business firms and corporations contributed $451,681.96 376. Foundations gave $261,687 and students in more than hundred schools, colleges and universities gave $20,029.50.

Greater New York area raised $364,327. Members of the armed forces at home and abroad contributed over $8,000. Thirty five of seventy-six campaign cities exceeded amounts raised in 1951, including Atlanta.

31 NEGRO COLLEG SEEKING $1,500,000

Drive to Begin in April Sets Amount Required to Avoid Deficit in Operations

By LAWRENCE E. DAVIES

Special to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 9—A nation-wide campaign with a probable goal of $1,500,000 will be put under way about mid-April to help thirty-one Negro colleges and universities meet their operating budgets for next year.

Dr. Frederick D. Patterson, president of Tuskegee Institute, made this announcement today, speaking for heads of the participating institutions, which are here for the annual conference and convocation of the United Negro College Fund, Inc. This organization was set up ten years ago for the joint financing of the member colleges.

Dr. Patterson, founder and president of the fund, said almost $1,400,000 had been raised during the 1952 drive, but that prospects seemed better, in terms of the amount of preliminary organization, for attaining this year's goal. It represents roughly one-tenth of the year's total operating budgets for the member institutions. Sponsoring committees will be set up in fifty to sixty cities.

For Current Expenses Only

"The money is raised for current expenses only," Dr. Patterson said. "It is about equivalent to the recurring annual deficits resulting from the fact that the member colleges are not able to charge adequate tuition fees. The students we serve, chiefly from the Deep South, are largely from families with modest to extremely low incomes and the fees do not cover more than 20 per cent of the cost of educating the youngsters."

During the existence of the fund the member colleges, Dr. Patterson related, had realized about a four-fold increase over sums they had raised in similar individual drives. Considering the cost of the former separate campaigns the actual net to the colleges now is about eight times what it was before the joint effort was begun, he added.

To date the fund has raised more than $10,000,000. Dr. Patterson said it had brought support to the Negro institutions from many foundations that were not contributors previously.

The fund is divided in this way each year: 45 per cent equally among the thirty-one member colleges, 45 per cent according to the amounts of endowment income or its equivalent received by themembers, and the remaining 10 per cent according to the respective enrollments. The institutions, Dr. Patterson added, may seek endowments or building funds on an individual basis provided they do not put on their drives during the general fund campaign.

Some White Students Admitted

He said that where state laws permitted the Negro colleges admitted white students and that other institutions would follow this practice when the South's racial discrimination barriers had been removed. He predicted that within five years no state university in the South would be barring Negro students. The universities of Alabama, South Carolina, Mississippi, Georgia and Florida are the only ones that do so now, Dr. Patterson said, and he declared that "some of those haven't had good test cases."

The Negro colleges themselves, he asserted, are not interested in increasing their enrollments, which total now about 25,000 students, but are aiming at raising standards. All of them "desperately" needed to increase the size and adequacy of their faculties, he added.

Dr. Patterson said all institutions in the South were rated by one organization, the Southern Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools, and he added that "in terms of minimum requirements ours [the Negro colleges] compare favorably with the others."

Contributions to Negro college fund $20 million since 1944

More than $20 million has been contributed to the United Negro College Fund since 1944.

This was reported by Dr. F. D. Patterson, president of Tuskegee Institute, and founder and president of the fund, at the 39th annual meeting of the Association of American Colleges in Los Angeles, it was reported from there today.

"The fund was organized because the period of rising costs and reduced giving had hit the Negro colleges especially hard," Dr. Patterson told the meeting. He pointed out that this condition became most acute from 1943 to 1944 when the nation was in great need of the highest possible training of all citizens.

It was at this time that the United Negro College Fund was formed by the 27 president of private colleges representing a large part of the enrollment of Negro students, he explained.

Purposes of the fund are (1) to reaquaint the American public with the work of private Negro colleges as a significant part of the limited opportunities for higher education available to these youth," (2) to raise funds and (3) to reduce the cost of fund raising to the member colleges.

Thirty-one colleges are now affiliated with the fund, Dr. Patterson announced.

Prexies Pose—Caught by the lens of the Courier cameraman at their meeting last week in Los Angeles were the presidents of schools affiliated with the United Negro College Fund. The gents attended the three-day meeting of the American Association of Colleges which convened on the West Coast last week. Left to right, seated: Dr. R. Glass, Texas College; Richard V. Moore, Bethune-Cookman; James A. Colston, Knoxville; Florence M. Read, Spelman; F. D. Patterson, Tuskegee; Hollis F. Price, LeMoyne; David D. Jones, Bennett; J. S. Scott, Wiley; M. K Curry Jr., Bishop. Standing: James P. Brawley, Clark; Rufus E. Clement Atlanta University; Albert W. Dent, Dillard; M. Lafayette Harris, Philander Smith; A. C. Kitchens, host; C. A. Kirkendoll, Lane; G. L. Harrison, Langston; M. S. Savage, Huston-Tillotson; Harold C. Warren, Tougaloo; Horace W. Bond, Lincoln University, Pa.; Ralph L. Davis, L. A. College Council; Alonzo G. Moron, Hampton; J. L. Morris, Morris Brown.

Shows an Increase of $58,000 Over 1951 Campaign

$1,366,310 Raised for College Fund in '52

LOS ANGELES — A record total of $1,366,310.56 was raised by the United Negro College Fund in its 1952 appeal, W. J. Trent Jr. announced in a final year-end report. Mr. Trent, who is executive director of UNCF, said that this amount represented an increase of $58,000 over 1951 campaign results, and was the largest raised since the fun was organized in 1944.

The money will be distributed among thirty-one private, accredited colleges and universities located, with the exception of Lincoln University in Pennsylvania, in eleven Southern states and having a total enrollment of more than 25,000 students.

Mr. Trent said that 4,430 business firms and corporations contributed $451,681.96 to the fund's 1952 appeal. Contributions from 376 philanthropic foundations totaled $261,687.50. Students of more than one hundred preparatory schools, colleges and universities gave $20,029.50 from their campus welfare funds, and campus campaigns were conducted by the students of the fund's thirty-one member colleges. Members of the armed forces at home and abroad contributed over $8,000.

More than three thousand volunteers conducted organized campaigns for the fund's 1952 appeal in seventy-six cities and towns, including Greater New York where $364,327.00 was raised by a committee headed by Stanley C. Hope, president of Esso Standard Oil Company, Mrs. Chauncey L. Waddell of Riverdale, the Bronx, and Mrs. Louise Morris, chairman of the Uptown Division, representing an increase of nearly $30,000 over 1951.

Thirty-four of the seventy-six cities conducting campaigns reported increases over 1951.

Tuskegee President, Patterson Explains Negro College Fund

LOS ANGELES, Calif. Jan. 10 — In a report here at the Hotel Statler, to the 39th Annual Meeting of the Association of American Colleges on the purpose and program of the United Negro College Fund, Dr. F. D. Patterson, president of Tuskegee Institute and founder and president of the Fund, stated that more than $20,000,000 have been contributed since 1944 by the American public through this organization.

"The Fund was organized," Dr. Patterson stated, "because the peroid of rising costs and reduced giving had hit Negro colleges especially hard." He stated that this condition became most acute during the 10 year period 1934-1944 when the nation was in great need of the highest possible training of all its citizens.

It was in this period that the idea and the impetus for a united effort on the part of 27 presidents of private colleges, representing a significant part of the enrollment of Negro students in institutions of higher learning, took form as the United Negro College Fund.

The Fund was chartered under the laws of New York State on April 12, 1944. The advantages of a program of unified solication were listed by Dr. Patterson as follows:

1. To reacquaint the American public with the work of private Negro colleges as a significant part of the limited opportunity for higher education available to these youth.

2. To raise funds from a large number of donors (individual and corporate) who would be encouraged to give annually.

3. To reduce the cost of fund raising to the member colleges.

Thirty-one colleges are now actively affilited with the fund. Headquarters are established in New York City under an executive director. Campaigns are conducted in 76 cities and communities over the nation. The presidents of member colleges are expected to encourage and assist with campaigns in their local communities.

The effort of the United Negro College Fund represents the country's first educational Community Chest. Others have followed since.

AFL Endorses College Fund

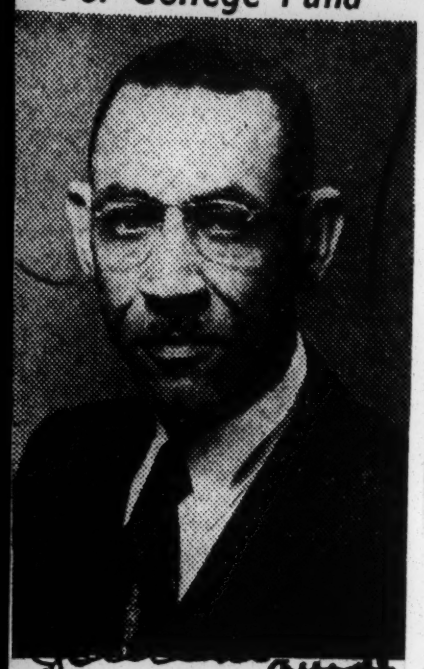
The American Federation of Labor has given its endorsement to the United Negro College Fund campaign on behalf of 31 member colleges and universities.

AFL President George Meany said the institutions are making a lasting contribution to our nation's progress by providing greater opportunities of education for America's Negro youth.

"These colleges need help if they are to continue their vital work," Meany said. "Today the student body attending the member colleges is more than 22,000. These are young Americans, eager for the chance to complete their education, so that they may be better prepared to share equally in the opportunities and responsibilities of our democratic society, and thus contribute to a better America for all.

"It is up to each and every one of us to help this extremely worthy cause."

To Conduct Study For College Fund



G. L. Washington, a graduate engineer, ras been retained by the United Negro College Fund to conduct a study into possible additional areas of cooperation between the 31 member colleges, looking toward the improvement of their operational efficiency while also saving them money.

Heading fund drive as testimonial—The 1953 United Negro College Fund has been organized here as a testimonial to Dr. F. D. Patterson, retiring president of Tukegee Institute and founder of the fund.

Attending organizational meeting last night (seated), A. G. Gaston, and standing (left to right), Mrs. Belzora Ward, Dr. P. S. Moten, Paul L. Ware, Mrs. Naomia P. Patton, Mrs. Hattie J. Calloway, Robert Durr, W. J. Moore, Mrs. Carrie Russell, Mrs. Larnie J. Russell, W. Arnett Bryant, Dr. J. King Chandler III and Mrs. Bessie S. Estell.

United Negro College Fund goal set at $25,000 as tribute to Dr. Patterson

A goal of $25,000 for the 1953 United Negro College Fund has been set as a tribute for F. D. Patterson, whose resignation as president of Tuskegee Institute soon will become effective.

The quota was set last night by the F. D. Patterson Testimonial Committee, meeting at the Smith and Gaston Funeral Home Auditorium.

The college fund is one of Dr. Patterson's dreams. He founded it and for many years has been its active head.

Mrs. A. G. Gaston is fund chairman.

Honorary chairmen are A. G. Gaston and Dr. P. S. Moten.

Other committee officers are: Mrs. Belzora S. Ward, general chairman; Mrs. Maggie Greene of Bessemer, secretary, and A. G. Gaston, treasurer.

Others elected to steer the testimonial are:

Mrs. Bessie S. Estell of Avondale School, W. J. Moore of Birmingham Negro Teachers Assn. and Dr. J. King Chandler III, president of Daniel Payne College — citations committee.

A. G. Gaston, Paul L. Ware and Mrs. Carrie Russell—finance.

Mrs. Flora Lewis, chairman of the 1953 UNCF drive in Bessemer, heads invitations.

Mrs. Naomia P. Patton, Prof. C. W. Hayes, T. J. Guice and Mrs. Lucille Douglas—program committee.

W. Arnett Bryant, Robert Durr and Miss Mattie B. Rowe — publicity.

Mrs. Hattie J. Calloway, Mrs. Alva Coar Harris and Mrs. Rosa Latham—reception.

Mrs. Larnie J. Williams and A. D. Shores—testimonial.

Others include Dr. W. A. Bell, Mrs. Ruth J. Jackson, Robert L. Mabry, Mrs. Ludie P. Dowell and Charles Townsend.

31 NEGRO COLLEGES START FUND DRIVE

$1,500,000 Goal Is Set Here —Publisher Calls for More Graduates in Industry

The tenth annual drive of the United Negro College Fund, with a goal of $1,500(000, opened here yesterday. Five hundred friends of the fund, at a meeting in the Plaza Hotel ballroom, heard appeals on behalf of the thirty-one colleges—all but one of them in the South—that annually join in a national "community chest" type of drive.

The drive aims to raise one-tenth of the budget requirements of the colleges, which have 25,000 students or 93 per cent of the national enrollment of private Negro colleges.

Speakers stressed the increasing number of donations from business concerns. James A. Linen, publisher of Time magazine, said this corporate giving was motivated only in part by the direct benefits business got in return—trained personnel, and direct research aid from the colleges. More important, he said, are the indirect benefits of education in a free society—"for free enterprise depends on the free exchange of ideas."

Negroes in Industry Urged

Mr. Linen urged the Negro educators to try to alter the fact that "the best Negro brains have avoided the lucrative pursuit of the business dollar." The college-trained Negro, he pointed out, has preferred professional status. Many opportunities are opening in private enterprise, he said, and "American industry is quite aware that the Negro market is a twelve-billion-dollar market, bigger than the Canadian market and the total of American exports."

Benjamin E. Mays, president of Morehouse College in Atlanta, Ga., said that on a tour in India recently he had found it difficult to convince Asian skeptics that "we are making considerable progress in race relations."

"But I was always able to point with pride to the work of the United Negro College Fund."

Lawrence J. MacGregor, a banker of Summit, N. J., was drafted to preside at the meeting when bad weather delayed the arrival of C. D. Jackson, special assistant to President Eisenhower, who is the fund's national chairman. Mr. Jackson arrived just as the meeting ended.

A message from Governor Dewey declared that "to afford better educational opportunities for young Negro men and women * * * is in the interest not only of Negroes themselves but of the community at large. * * * I am sure the enlightened people of New York State will respond to this great need."

Clark Sophomore Lead, $2,300 Raised For UNCF

ATLANTA, Ga. — More than $2,300 for the United College Fund was raised here by the students of Clark College, as the College's annual Fund Drive ended last week. When all reports are in, the College's 1953 goal will be exceeded.

Heading the class contributors were the sophomores, sponsored by Mr. J. J. Green, who reported $871.61 or $6.14 per capita. Following were the juniors with $542.07, and $4.05 per capita.

The senior class per capita of $2.34 with $276.20 ranked next followed by the freshman class who reported $528.04 or $2.18 per capita.

Six special students contributed a total of $24.50 or $4.08 per capita. Alpha Kappa Alpha sorority, The Ivy Leaf club, Alpha Phi Alpha fraternity, Sigma Gamma Rho sorority, Delta Sigma Theta sorority and Omega Psi Phi fraternity contributed a total of $50.

NEGRO COLLEGE FUND

The United Negro College Fund is making its tenth annual appeal for funds on behalf of thirty-one private institutions of higher learning in order to insure their youth of proper training in the arts and professions. This year the sum requested is $1,500,000, which represents only 10 per cent of the combined educational budgets of the colleges and universities participating. This modest sum is not merely an appeal for funds; it is an appeal for help by the Negro in his struggle for the right to seek higher goals. The Negro has often been maligned by those who choose to believe that he is a person of inferior aptitudes and abilities, yet when given the opportunity, through chance or purpose, to train and compete on equal terms with others this myth has been exploded.

We have only to turn to the field of medicine to see how pressing is their need for educational assistance. In 1950 there were 201,000 physicians and surgeons in the United States, of whom only 4,000 were Negroes. These figures provide one Negro doctor to 3,500 Negroes, as against a national ratio of one to 750. To correct a situation such as this and to prove that ability is more than skin-deep requires time and money. Contributions sent to the United Negro College Fund, Inc., 22 East Fifty-fourth Street, New York 22, will be a contribution to the cause of racial equality.

College Fund Drive Opens

$10 Million Raised In Past 9 Years

NEW YORK — Ten million dollars in nine years, is the accomplishment of the United College Fund, Inc. which opens its 10th annual campaign on April 10th and the campaign on April 13 at a meeting in the Hotel Plaza here.

W. J. Trent Jr., director calls the Fund an "educational community chest."

He points out that in 1943 the member colleges were able to raise only $250,000 through their individual fund-raising efforts.

$765,567 In 1944

In 1944, the first united campaign raised $765,567.

Each of the 10 years, Mr. Trent says, has brought increasing yearly support. In some instances, this has meant to the college the difference between being fully accredited or having only a second-rate standing.

Other benefits are that more qualified students can attend college through scholarship aid, more and better teachers, better libraries and classrooms.

The United College Fund aids 31 private colored schools which have an annual enrollment of 23,000 men and women. All except Lincoln University in Pennsylvania are located in southern states.

Dr. Benjamin E. Mays, president of Morehouse College, will be the speaker at the opening meeting. C. D. Jackson, the Fund's 1953 national campaign chairman, will preside. Other speakers will be:

James A. Linen, publisher of Time Magazine; Mrs. Chauncey L. Waddell, associate chairman of the Fund's National Council; and Willard K. Denton, president of the Manhattan Savings bank.

BOOST COLLEGE FUND DRIVE — James A. Linen (left) publisher of Time magazine, Mrs. Chauncey L. Waddell, associate chairman, United Negro College Fund national council, and Dr. Benjamin E. Mays, president, Morehouse college, Atlanta, Ga., are speakers in New York at opening meeting of the fund's 10th anniversary funds campaign.

Rockefeller Family To Be Honored By U.N.C.F. On May 19

New York, N. Y.—The United Negro Colge Fund will honor the Rockefeller family and the General Education Board at a luncheon to be held in Washington, D. C., on May 19; it was announced today by F. D. Patterson, president of the Fund, at the organization's national headquarters, 22 East 54th Street. President Eisenhower expects to address the luncheon meeting which will be held at the National Press Club at 12 noon.

Sponsors of the luncheon are Board members of the Fund's five-year building program, known as the National Mobilization of Resources for the United Negro Colleges. They include Harvey S. Firestone, Jr., Devereux C. Josephs, Richard K. Mellon, Alfred P. Sloan, Jr. Robert E. Wilson and Robert W. Woodruff.

The presidents of the 31 private colleges and universities affiliated with the Fund will pay tribute at the meeeting to the General Education Board, founded in 1902 by John D. Rockefeller, for its contribution towar the advancement of education in the United States, without distinction of race or creed, and for its fifty years of support of Negro colleges and universities.

Dr. Patterson's announcement stated that a grant made by the General Education Board in 1943 helped to establish the United Negro College Fund, the first cooperative agency organized in support of the annual operating budgets of private colleges. An additional General Education Board grant made in 1950 helped to underwrite the five-year Capital Funds program, which was initiated by a personal gift of $5,000,000 from Mr. John D. Rockefeller, Jr., in 1951.

Dr. Patterson said that guests at the Fund's May 19th luncheon in Washington, D. C., will include prominent educators, business and civic leaders, from every part of the country.

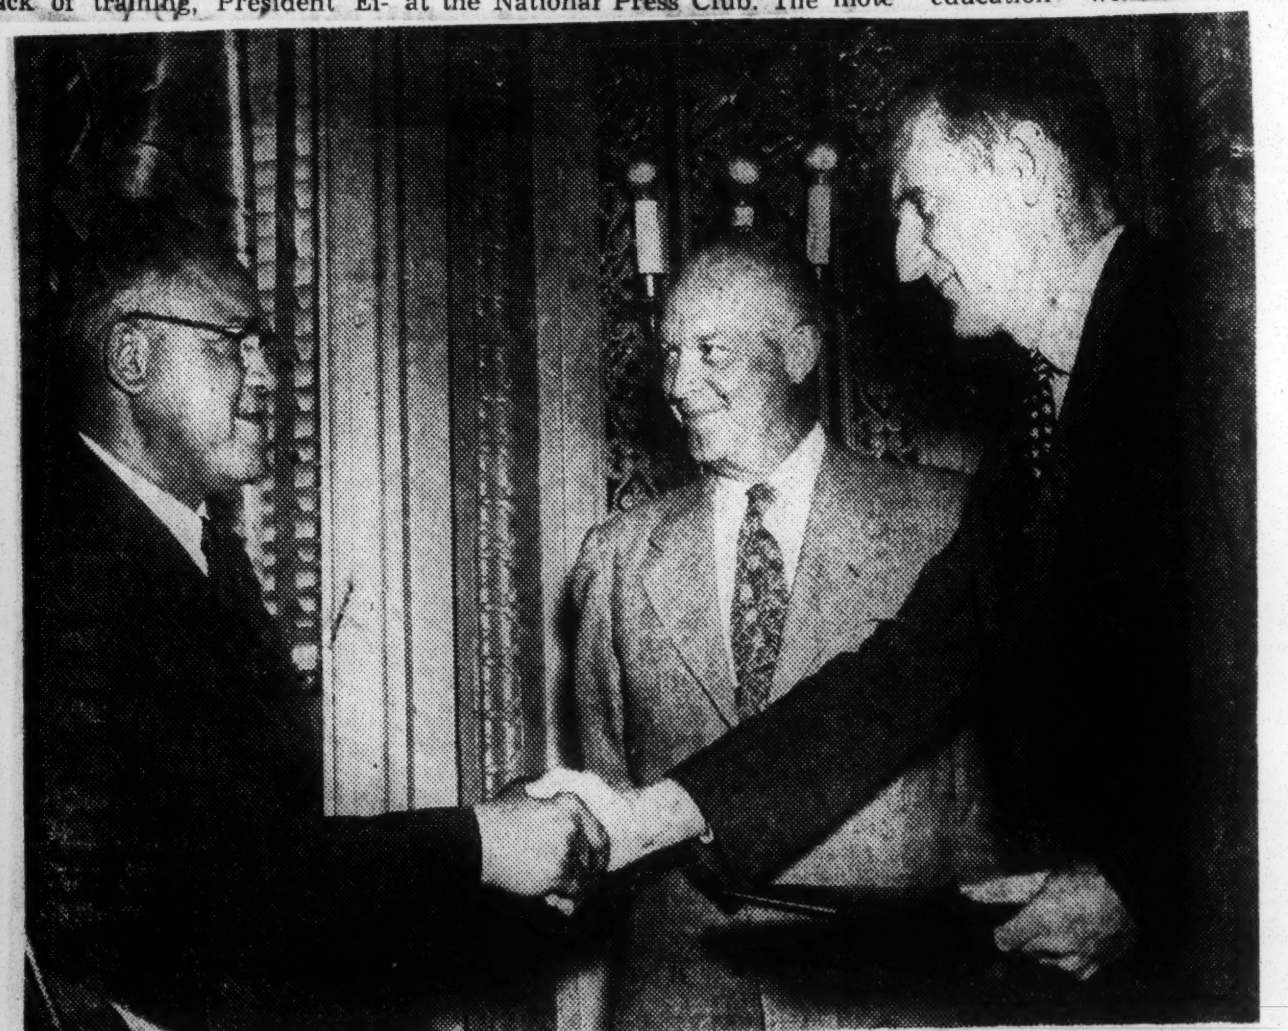
14i 1953

UNITED NEGRO COLLEGE FUND

CITATION-GENERAL EDUCATION BOARD
(MR. JOHN D. ROCKEFELLER, III)

Eisenhower Asks More Aid For Colleges

WASHINGTON, D. C. (NNPA) — Support of the United Negro College Fund is removing inequalities due to lack of training, President Eisenhower declared last Tuesday. The President sopke at the tenth anniversary luncheon of the United Negro College Fund at the National Press Club. The luncheon was given to honor the GeGneral Education Board, which was established in 1902 by John D. Rockefeller to promote education within the United States without distinction of race, sex, or creed.



COLLEGE FUND CITATION—President Dwight D. Eisenhower looks on as John D. Rockefeller 3rd accepts a citation to the General Education Board from Dr. F. D. Patterson, president and founder of the United Negro College Fund at the Fund's tenth anniversary luncheon held on Tuesday, May 19, at the National Press Club in Washington, D. C. The luncheon also featured the announcement of $12,500,000 in contributions received from foundations and corporations toward the Fund's $25,000,000 five-year building campaign, known as the National Mobilization of Resources for the United Negro Colleges.

The General Education Board has contributed not only to the individual colleges, which are members of the United Negro College Fund, but it has responded generously to the joint program of financing colored its contribution to education in private colleges in the South.

IN ADDITION, it is a major factor in the initiation of the current National Mobilization of Resources for the United Negro Colleges, a 5-year program designed to meet the building needs of the member colleges.

The General Education Board was cited at the luncheon for its contribution to educate in the United States and for its support of higher education for colored people.

John D. Rockefeller, Jr., chairman of the General Education Board, was unable to come to Washington for the luncheon, and his son, John D. Rockefeller, 3rd received the citation as President Eisenhower looked on.

THE CITATION was presented by Dr. F. D. Patterson, president of Tuskegee Institute and of the United Negro College Fund.

* * *

EDWARD A. Weeks, editor of the Atlantic Monthly, presided at the luncheon. In starting the program about 10 minutes before the arrival of President Eisenhower, Mr. Weeks told the luncheon guests, many of whom are distinguished in various fields of endeavor, that the development of the colored colleges was "one of the finest examples of team play the country has ever seen."

* * *

AFTER DR. Patterson presented the citation to Mr. Rockefeller, President Eisenhower posed for photographers with Dr. Patterson and Mr. Rockefeller. Mr. Eisenhower spoke extemporanously. The stenographic transcript of his remarks follows:

"Thank you, Mr. Chairman, Dr. Patterson, Mr. Rockefeller, distinguished guests and friends:

"From time to time I find that it is one of my pleasant duties to meet with groups who are convening here in the National Capital for some public-spirited service. It has been my privilege to extend to them a welcome on the part of the administration and the national government. In none of these cases have I felt greater satisfaction than I do this afternoon.

"By his or her presence here—each person attending this meeting shows their support for several things in which I passionately believe. One of them is support for the Constitution of the United States which, written in the recoknition that all people are the children of God, made no distinction among them by reason of inconsequential factors over which they themselves had no control.

"I BELIEVE those of us who preach so loudly about Constitutional Government advance our cause as we meticulously observe that particular factor of foundation of that great document.

"Another thing I have preached, as have many others, is against the theory that there can be any second-class citizen. I believe as long as we allow conditions to exist that make for second-class citizens, we are making of ourselves less than first-class citizens.

"In other words, I believe the only way to protect my own rights is to protect the rights of others.

* * *

"EVERYTHING THAT the Constitution accords to me, I must defend for others or else finally there will be nobody left to defend me.

"And now I want to tell you a little bit of a story which just happened the day before yesterday. I was down at Annapolis, and I inspected a Marine guard. As I went around, I noticed there were several Negroes occupying different positions in this guard. One of them had on the chevrons of a non-commissioned officer.

"I talked with the commanding officer of this group. I said, now here occurs one of those things that was always advanced as an argument—when we were working for the cause of eliminating segregation in the armed services.

* * *

"IT WAS SAID that white men would not willingly serve under a Negro superior. And here I noticed that it was evidently not true.

"As I see it, you people today are supporting the egro College Fund, are not only supporting the idea that men are equal, but you are making it unneccessary for a man to appear in a competitive place in our country, or to be in governmental service or anywhere else, and have less opportunity than have his brothers for the mental training that would have given him exactly the same opportunities in that company as any other. It spoke to me very eloquently of this lad's very exceptional qualifications.

* * *

"AND SO, REALLY, I came only to say I am delighted you are here. I applaud the work you are doing, and particularly to join with you in bringing my own very deep sense of obligation to the Rockefeller family—a family that has seen this type of need, and has done something within the terms of private enterprise, private initiative, and cooperation, spontaneous coperatoion, and did not wait on some kind of law to get a thing done that they saw needed to be done.

* * *

MR. EISENHOWER left immediately after he had spoken.

John D. Rockefeller, Jr., initiated the capital funds program with a gift of $5,000,000. The luncheon also marked the beginning of the public meeting of the National Mobilization of Resources for the United Negro Colleges announced other gifts which brought total committments to $12,000,000

14i 1953

UNITED NEGRO COLLEGE FUND

CITATION *TO GENERAL EDUCATION BOARD

Renewed Interest In The Private College

THE private college has been the reservoir from which the best American leadership has come. As the country has grown changes have occurred in social laws and trends which have shifted interest from the private to the public supported college and university. In the course of events many educational institutions that were privately supported have had a difficult time making ends meet.

Ten years ago the United Negro College Fund was established. The idea was born in the mind of Dr. FREDERICK D. PATTERSON, president of Tuskegee Institute. Under the plan 30-odd colleges pooled their money-raising efforts and the results have been very good. Last year a million and a half dollars were raised in the campaign. This amount approximated the 10 per cent needed to balance the budgets of the participating colleges.

PRES. EISENHOWER

Two years ago an effort was launched to raise a separate capital fund of $25,000,000 for needed plant improvements. Already half of this fund has been raised. It was started with a gift of $5,000,000 from Mr. JOHN D. ROCKEFELLER JR. The General Education Board and the Ford Foundation have contributed a million dollars each. It is expected that this fund will be realized in full in another two years, if not sooner.

On May 19 the Board of the United Negro College Fund sponsored a meeting in Washington in observance of its 10th anniversary and in appreciation of the sustained support given education in the United States by the General Education Board, regardless of "race, creed or sex."

The meeting was attended by 300 outstanding citizens from various parts of the country, and, of itself, proved that interest in the welfare of the private college is reawakening among the class of people who were, in the beginning, and for a long time, the principal supporters of these colleges.

President EISENHOWER made the principal address. His remarks injected new life and vigor into the cause of education in general and of the private colleges in particular. It was heartening to hear the President of the United States say that all persons who are capable of higher education should have the opportunity to obtain it, and that no class of citizens should have special advantages over another, and that there should be no such thing as second-class citizenship in the United States.

Courier Editorials

Wisdom From White House

WE BELIEVE that the wise words spoken by President Eisenhower at the tenth anniversary of the United Negro College Fund in Washington last week express the convictions of most Americans today.

There is, we believe, rapidly increasing agreement that "the only way to protect my own rights is to protect the rights of others. Everything that the Constitution accords to me, I must defend for others—or else finally there will be nobody left to defend me . . . I have always preached against the theory that there can be second-class citizens."

Even though progress in race relations in this country has been most marked since the end of World War II, especially in the Southern states, we will have a long way to go before prejudice, segregation and discrimination are eliminated.

It is necessary and gratifying to have such words of wisdom come from one in such an exalted position as the President of the United States, and to be given such wide circulation.

The tens of thousands of citizens of high and low estate who have rallied during these ten years to the support of the United Negro College Fund and given so generously are indicative of the moral change of climate in this country which necessarily must precede and accompany social change.

DR. F. D. PATTERSON — PRESIDENT DWIGHT D. EISENHOWER — JOHN D. ROCKEFELLER, 3RD

LOOKS ON—President Eisenhower looks on as Dr. F. D. Patterson, president of the United Negro College Fund presents a citation to John D. Rockefeller for the General Education Board, at the Fund's 10th Anniversary luncheon Tuesday at the National Press Club.

Eisenhower Pledges Fight For Equality

Says He Is Against 'Theory Of Second-Class Citizenship'

WASHINGTON — President Eisenhower spoke out against the theory that there can be any second-class citizens, and reiterated his pledge to fight for equality for all last week.

The only way an individual can protect his own rights, the President said, is to protect the rights of others.

"Everything that the Constitution accords to me, I must defend for others—or else finally there will be nobody left to defend me."

At UNCF Luncheon

Addressing the 10th anniversary luncheon of the United Negro College Fund at the National Press Club, the President declared "I believe that as long as we allow conditions to exist that make for second-class citizens, we are making of ourselves less than first-class citizens."

He continued:

Cites Story of Marine

"And now I want to tell you a little bit of a story which just happened the day before yesterday. I was down at Annapolis, and I inspected a Marine guard. As I went around, I noticed there were several colored marines occupying different positions in this guard. One of them had on the chevrons of a non-commissioned officer.

"I talked with the commanding officer of this group. I said, 'now here occurs one of those things that was always advanced as an argument—when we were working for the cause of eliminating segregation in the armed services.

" 'It was said that white men would not willingly serve under a colored superior. And here I noticed that it was evidently not true.'

"The officer smiled, and he said, 'I must tell you that this man, when it came to the making of non-commissioned officers, could not pass the rigid mental examination we gave. But his personality was so fine, his qualities of leadership so evident, his character and reputation in the company so great that we had to make special arrangements so that it was unnecessary for him to pass completely the mental examination.' "

The President spoke at the tenth anniversary luncheon of the College Fund at the National Press Club. The luncheon was given to honor the General Education board, established in 1902 by John D. Rockefeller to promote education within the United States without distinction of race, sex or

The General Education Board has contributed not only to the individual colleges which are members of the UNCF, but it has responded generously to the joint program of financing colored private colleges in the South.

Cited For Support

The Board was cited at the luncheon for its contribution to education in the United States and for its support of higher education for colored people.

John D. Rockefeller Jr., chairman of the Board, was unable to come to Washington for the luncheon, and his son, John D. Rockefeller 3d, received the citation as President Eisenhower looked on.

The citation was presented by Dr. F. D. Patterson, president of Tuskegee Institute and of the College Fund.

Edward A. Weeks, editor of the Atlantic Monthly presided at the luncheon. In starting the program about 10 minutes before the arrival of President Eisenhower, Mr. Weeks told the luncheon guests that the development of the colored colleges was "one of the finest examples of team play the country has ever seen."

Before Mr. Eisenhower spoke, the Hampton Institute Choir, under the direction of Henry N. Switten, sang a spiritual and a folksong.

Dr. Patterson, who had about 1,500 word prepared statement to make in presenting the citation of the General Education Board to Mr. Rockefeller, cut out everything except the first paragraph, two sentences saying he was presenting the citation "with joy and humility," and the citation itself, which he read.

Mrs. Sampson Speaks

Others on the program, whom Mr. Eisenhower did not hear included Mrs. Edith S. Sampson, of Chicago, formerly an alternate delegate to the United Nations General Assembly, and Dorothy Maynor. the concert soprano.

After Dr. Patterson presented the citation to Mr. Rockefeller, President Eisenhower posed for photographers with Dr. Patterson and Mr. Rockefeller.

The President also said, in part:

"As I see it, you people today who are supporting the College Fund, are not only supporting the idea that men are equal, but you are making it unnecessary for a man to appear in a competitive place in our country, and have less opportunity than his brothers have for the mental training that would have given him exactly the same opportunities in that company as any other.

Praise For Rockefellers

"I applaud the work you are doing, and delight particularly to join with you in bringing my own very deep sense of obligation to the Rockefeller family—a family that has seen this type of need, and has done something within the terms of private enterprise, private initiative, and co-operative, spontaneous co-operation, and did not wait on some kind of law to get a thing done that they saw needed to be done."

Mr. Eisenhower left immediately after he had spoken.

The luncheon also marked the beginning of the public phase of a national 5-year program to raise $25,000,000 in capital funds for the United Negro Colleges.

Mr. Rockefeller initiated the capital funds program with a gift of $5,000,000. The seven-member board directing the National Mobilization of Resources for the United Colleges announced other gifts which brought total commitments to $12,000,000.

Seated at the speakers table at the luncheon were James P. P. Brawley, president, Clark College, Atlanta; Lindsley F. Kimball, New York City; Mrs. Chauncey L. Waddell, Washington; P. B. Young Sr., publisher; Samuel D. Leidesdorf, Raymond C. Firestone, Akron, Ohio;

Mrs. Edith S. Sampson, Chicago; Richard K. Mellon, Pittsburgh; Robert W. Woodruff, Atlanta; Frederick D. Patterson, lanta; Frederick D. Patterson, President Eisenhower, Edward A. Weeks Jr., John D. Rockefeller, 3d; Alfred P. Sloan Jr., New York City; Devereaux C. Josephs, New York City; Benjamin E. Mays, president, Morehouse College;

C. D. Jackson, special assistant to President Eisenhower; Miss Dorothy Maynor, Thomas A. Morgan, chairman of the UNCF; William J. Trent Jr., the Fund's executive director; George H. Burchum, treasurer, and Arthur B. Brenner.

Other luncheon guests included members of the Cabinet and of the Senate and House of Representatives, bankers, industrialists, and educators.

Hail Rockefeller For Racial Aid

The United Negro College Fund will honor the Rockefeller family for its "many concrete and spiritual contributions" to the progress of that racial group at a luncheon Tuesday in the National Press Club, in Washington, D. C.

President Dwight D. Eisenhower will be one of the speakers, according to an announcement by Dr. Frederick D. Patterson, retiring president of Tuskegee Institute and head of the fund. Sponsors of the meeting include Harvey S. Firestone, Jr., Richard K. Mellon, of Pittsburgh; Alfred P. Sloan, Jr., chairman of General Motors Corp.; Devereaux C. Josephs, and Robert W. Woodruff of Atlanta.

Recognition of the Rockefeller family, fund spokesmen said, will note that Negro education in the United States has been materially aided by units established under its guidance. In addition, John D. Rockefeller, Jr., honorary treasurer of the college fund and four of his sons are "active personally, in word and deed on behalf of inter-racial understanding."

The Fund will take special cognizance of the work of the General Education Board of the Rockefeller Foundation, which has been instrumental in "providing both direct and indirect aid to the furthering of Negro education and the broadening of community life among that people for more than fifty years."

Albert BARNETT

Here's An Urgent Appeal For The United Negro College Fund

THE GREATEST IMPETUS given Negro education the past 75 years has been the 10 million dollars allocated to 31 private colleges and universities, the past decade, under auspices of the United Negro College Fund.

Founder of the Fund was Dr. F. D. Patterson, recently retired president of Tuskegee Institute, who in 1943, was the first to suggest cooperative educational financing and urged private Negro colleges to "pool their small monies to make a united appeal to the national conscience."

The Fund had tough sledding at the start, for the next year, 1944, found the Nation at war, and white America seemed more concerned about winning the war than helping Negroes learn their Three R's. In addition, the trials and tribulations of most of the schools that joined with Dr. Patterson in the first Fund appeal, were unknown to the average Northerner, because he was geographically removed from their field of operation.

During these bleak, early days of the Fund, cost of operations of the schools had risen, endowment funds were low, income from gifts, corporate and private were 'scraping the bottom' and few students could pay mounting costs of tuition.

How well it has succeeded the past ten years is revealed in this recent statement by Dr. Charles Dollard, president of the multi-million dollar Carnegie Corporation: ". . .31 of the best of the privately-supported Negro colleges have organized what is, I think the best conceived and best managed joint appeal for funds which this country has yet seen."

Labor is also an ardent supporter of the Fund. Walter P. Reuther, president of the CIO speaks: "Members of the CIO, knowing well the fine, constructive work of the United Negro College Fund, have given moral and financial support in the past. I am certain this support will continue, for the need is great and the cause, most worthy."

When Dr. Patterson retired as president of Tuskegee Institute, he accepted the post as director of the Phelps-Stokes Fund of New York, succeeding Dr. Channing H. Tobias. But the noted Tuskegee educator retains his position as president of UNCF and aided in arrangements to raise $1,500,000—the goal set for 1953.

The fund is ably directed by W. J. Trent, jr., who doubtless inherits his genius in education, economics and school administration from his famed father, W. J. Trent, sr., who for years was president of Livingstone College, Salisbury, N. C.

Director Trent writes this Column as follows: "Some idea what support of the Fund has meant to its colleges and to Negro higher education in general may be gained from these facts:

1 — In 1943, the colleges involved, could raise only $250,000 through individual fund raising efforts.

2 — In 1944, in its first united appeal, UCNF raised $765,567 for these same institutions. Through its first nine campaigns, the Fund has raised 10 million dollars for its member institutions." Dr. Trent continues:

"Through careful use of incon from tuition, endowment and church board grants, the Fund's colleges manage to be 30 percent self-sufficent. They must ask help in securing the remaining 19 percent of their combined educational budgets — or $1,500,000 in 1953 . . .Thus America is asked to give but 10 percent of the cost of an educational program that directly benefits 10 percent of its population — our 16 million Negro citizens — and therefore benefits the Nation as a whole."

Contributions, large and small, are deductible for Income Tax purposes. Here's how to send them: United Negro College Fund, 22 East 54th st., New York, 22, N. Y., or to United Negro College Fund., Inc., 69 West Washington st., Chicago, Ill.

In retrospect, for Tuskegee, it's a far cry from July, 4, 1953, to July 4, 1881. Because this year, as a participating school, Tuskegee will get its proportionate share of the $1,500,000 being raised by UNCF.

And it was on that hot July Fourth day, in 1881, when young Booker T. Washington — then 26 years old —founded Tuskegee Institute, in 'a dilapidated shanty,' loaned him 'rent-free' by the AME Zion church. The deal was consummated through efforts of young Washington's friends, George Campbell and Lewis Adams.

The shack was a lean-to, full of cracks and crevices and when it rained, one of the older pupils had to hold an umbrella over the teacher while he listened to the lessons of those first Tuskegeeites.

More Effort Urged For College Funds

Alumni of the 31 colleges benefiting from the United Negro College Fund were called upon yesterday by Dr. Leonard G. Carr, co-chairman, to exceed their efforts of last year.

In appealing for a greater effort for the drive, which has a Philadelphia goal of $100,000, Dr. Carr urged [illegible] make their best showing in the 1953 campaign." Campaign headquarters are at Room 331 in the Witherspoon Building.

College Fund Broadcast For June Listed

NEW YORK, N. Y.—The June - July schedule for the weekly series of choral programs by outstanding college choirs, presented by the American Broadcasting Company in cooperation with the United Negro College Fund was announced today at Fund headquarters, 22 E. 54th Street. During the month of June the programs will feature the choirs of Johnson C. Smith University, Benedict College, St. Augustine's College and Morris Brown College, for the first two weeks in July Xavier University and Morehouse College will be presented.

The programs which the American Broadcasting Company features as a public service originate each Sunday in New York over station WJZ, 10:30 to 11 a. m., and are heard over 170 stations throughout the United States and Canada. These programs have served to acquaint a large American public with the work of the United Negro College Fund in helping the 31 private Negro colleges affiliated in the Fund to meet current operating cots.

The schedule for June is as follows: Johnson C. Smith University, Charlotte, N. C., June 7; Benedict College, Columbia, S. C., June 14; St. Augustine's College, Raleigh, N. C., June 21; Morris Brown College, Atlanta, Georgia, June 28. For July: Xavier University, New Orleans, La., July 5 and Morehouse College, Atlanta, Ga., July 12.

With the exception of Johnson C. Smith, the programs will feature brief addresses by the college presidents in behalf of the United Negro College Fund's Tenth Annual Campaign, now in progress.

College Fund Leaders Hear Prexy Speak

By ALICE A. DUNNIGAN

WASHINGTON (ANP)—President Eisenhower, last week, spoke out against the theory that there can be any second-class citizens.

Addressing the tenth anniversary luncheon of the United Negro College Fund held at the National Press Club, the President declared that "as long as we allow conditions to exist that make for second-class citizens, we are making of ourselves less than first-class citizens."

The only way an individual can protect his own rights, he said, is to protect the rights of others.

"Everything that the Constitution accords to me, I must defend for others—or else, finally, there will be nobody left to defend me."

THE PRESIDENT was introduced by Edward A. Welks, editor of The Atlantic Monthly, who presided at the meeting.

Dr. F. D. Patterson, president of the UNCF, presented a citation to the Rockefeller-sponsored General Education Board for its contribution to education in the United States without distinction of race or creed. John D. Rockefeller III, chairman of the General Education Board, accepted for the board.

The luncheon was sponsored by the board of the National Mobilization of Resources for the UNCF, now conducting a $25,000,000 capital funds program. John D. Rockefeller Sr. is chairman of the board.

* * *

MUSIC WAS furnished by Miss Dorothy Maynor singing "America the Beautiful" and rendering a spiritual number as an encore, and by the Hampton Institute Choir, directed by Henry N. Switten.

Approximately 375 persons attended the luncheon, which officially opened a $25,000,000 fund campaign to raise additional funds to meet the need for adequate buildings and equipment and for the renovation of older buildings on campuses of the colleges.

It was announced at the close of the luncheon that $12,500,000 in commitment have already been made to the fund, including the $5,000,000 initiation gift presented by John D. Rockefeller Jr.

The presidents of each of the member schools attended the luncheon. They included:

Rufus E. Clement of Atlanta University, Harry V. Richardson of Gammon Theological Seminary, Benjamin M. Mays of Morehouse, Florence M. Read of Spelman, and John H. Lewis of Morris Brown, all located at Atlanta, and E. C. Peters of Paine College at Augusta.

From North Carolina were Presidents David D. Johnson of Bennett, at Greensboro; Hardy Liston of Johnson C. Smith, at Charlotte; W. J. Trent of Livingstone, at Salisbury, and Harold L. Trigg of St. Augustine and W. R. Strassner of Shaw, both located at Raleigh.

From Tennessee, Fisk by Charles S Johnson, Nashville; Knoxville by James A. Colston, Koxville; Lane at Jackson by President C. A. Kirkendoll and LeMoyne of Memphis by Hollis F. Price.

Milton K. Curry Jr. of Bishop and J. S. Scott of Wiley, both of Marshall; M. S. Davage of Huston-Tillotson of Austin, and D. R. Glass of Texas College at Tyler.

From Alabama, A. D. Gray of Talladega and F. D. Patterson of Tuskegee. From Louisiana, A. W. Dent of Dillard and Mother Agatha of Xavier, both of New Orleans. And from Virginia came President Alonzo G. Moron of Hampton and President J. M. Ellison of Virginia Union at Richmond.

Other presidents representing their schools included J. A. Bacoats of Benedict at Columbia, S. C.; Richard V. Moore of Bethune-Cookman at Daytona Beach, Fla.; Horace M. Bond of Lincoln University in Pennsylvania; M. LaFayette Harris of Philander Smith in Little Rock, Ark., and Harold C. Warren of Tougaloo in Miss.

Dorothy Barker Directs Radio And TV For UNCF

NEW YORK, N. Y. — The appointment of Mrs. Dorothy L. Barker as director of Radio and Television for the United Negro College Fund was announced today by W. J. Trent, jr., UNCF executive director.

Mrs. Barker, a resident of Brooklyn, N. Y., has been a member of the Fund's national publicity staff since October, 1952.

As head of the Fund's radio department, Mrs. Barker will supervise the production of the current UNCF College Choir weekly broadcasts over the American Broadcasting company network, which were initiated in April, 1950.

The weekly choral music programs, originating with WABC in New York at 10:30-11:00 A. M., on Sundays, are presented as a public service by ABC in cooperation with the United Negro College Fund.

The choirs of the Fund's 31 member colleges and universities participate in the weekly broadcasts, which are heard on more than 170 stations of the ABC network from coast to coast.

NEW RADIO AND television director of the United Negro College Fund is Mrs. Dorothy L. Barker of Brooklyn, N. Y. Announcement of Mrs. Barker's appointment was made this week by W. J. Trent, jr., UNCF executive director. The new appointee has been with the Fund's national publicity staff since last October.

Support The United Negro College Fund Drive

Atlanta once again has been called upon to dig deep into its pockets for money for the United Negro College Fund. This educational community chest aids 33 small colleges including Atlanta University, Clark, Gammon Theological Seminary, Morehouse, Morris Brown and Spelman.

Morehouse President Benjamin E. Mays has taken the leadership in the local campaign. He accepted this task because of his close contacts with problems of a good small private college, its pressing need for additional resources, and the dire necessity of keeping them aggressive, independent, and forthright community agencies.

To be all these things, the good private college must have money for salaries, expansion, plant maintenance and for research. The United Negro College Fund through its nationwide solicitation of funds provides our small colleges with additional monies to exist and survive the changing and challenging times.

Atlanta therefore is obligated to support the UNCF. It is one of America's great college centers. The city's progress in education, business, politics, etc., is tied in with its centers of learning. Let us never neglect them.

Workers are needed to join in the fund-raising drive here. The cooperation of church, business, professions, and community is needed to assure Atlanta raising its quota. Let us do our part in providing a formula for voluntary support of independent colleges as an alternate to state and federal subsidy with their attendant potenetial controls.

Now that the Fund is ten years old, let's look at the record for this period.

In 1943, before the Fund was organized, the member colleges received a toltal of $250,000 in gifts and grants.

In 1944, the UNCF raised $765,567.63 for these same institutions, in its first campaign.

In 1952, the amount raised had grown to $1,374,403.06, bringing the total raised in the first 9 UNCF campaigns to nearly $10,000,000.

Your increasing support has helped to make all these gains possible. It is urgent, in these changing times, that it continue to increase for two major reasons; first, the UNCF colleges must be helped to provide the best possible educational opportunity today, and second, these strategic institutions must be strengthened for tomorrow when they will be recognized as excellent colleges for all qualified students, without reference to race or creed.

UNCF Is Paving Way For 23,000

The United Negro College fund is helping a number of colleges provide the best possible educational opportunity today for more than 23,000 young men and women.

W. J. Trent jr., executive director of the UNCF pointed that out to the Tri-State Defender recently.

He explained that the UNCF is strengthening these strategic institutions for tomorrow when they will be recognized as excellent colleges and universities for all qualified students, without reference to race or creed.

SOME HIGHLIGHTS

Mr. Trent cited the following highlights of the fund campaign:

In 1943, before the UNCF was organized, the member colleges were able to raise only $250,000 through their individual fund raising efforts.

Back in 1944, through the first united campaign, the UNCF raised $765,567 for these same institutions.

In its first nine annual, nationwide campaigns, the UNCF raised $10,000,000 for its member colleges.

WHAT AID HAS MEANT

"This consistent and increasing yearly support," Mr. Trent said, "in many instances has meant the difference between being fully accredited or having only a second-rate standing."

His statement concluded with: "It has meant that many hundreds more qualified students could attend college through scholarship aid. It has resulted in more and better teachers, better equipped science laboratories, libraries and classrooms."

graduated over a thousand students who are serving today in every part of the United States, as teachers, nurses, social workers, doctors, lawyers, ministers, civil service workers and missionaries, he pointed out.

President Scott said that the Fund's National Mobilization Program is headed by Dr. F. D. Patterson, president of the United Negro College Fund, and a seven-man board, including such well-known businessmen and industrialists as Harvey S. Firestone, Jr. Devereux C. Josephs, Richard K. Mellon, John D. Rockefeller, Jr. Alfred P. Sloan, Jr. Robert Wilson, and Robert Woodruff.

Wiley Given Award From College Fund

MARSHALL, Texas — On July 1, Wiley College received $61,510 from the United Negro College Fund's $25,000,000 five-year building campaign, known as the National Mobilization of Resources for the United Negro Colleges.

The announcement was made by J. S. Scott, President of Wiley, who stated, "Today's grant brought the total received by Wiley College to $225,398 since the inception of the Fund's National Mobilization progdam two years ago."

President Scott explained that the money this college had received was being spent to make major repairs and revovations and was also being applied to the purchase of equipment for the institution's educational program He also stated that plans are in the making for the erection of at least three additional buildings.

Stressing the work that Wiley College has done over the years, Dr. Scott said that the college is located in an area serving approximately one million Negroes. In the past ten years the college has

UNCF Grants Morris Brown $94,410.00

Morris Brown College recently received $94,410 from the United Negro College Fund's $25,000,000 Five Year Capital Fund. The total amount that Morris Brown has received to this date from this fund is $295,818.

President Lewis states that this fund will enable Morris Brown to acquire a modern dormitory for girls, an all-service academic building costing approximately $500,000 and to renovate the present girls' dormitory for men. Plans are now being drawn for this new academic building to house classrooms, administrative offices and an auditorium.

Along with these physical improvements made possible by this fund, the faculty is being strengthened and academic standards raised.

14j 1953

Son Of Former Slave Receives Doctorate

LINCOLN UNIVERSITY, Pa.—When Lt. Col. Elmer P. Gibson, of the United States Army was awarded the degree of Doctor of Divinity by his alma mater, Lincoln University, on November 8th, the honor was given to the son of a former slave.

Chaplain Gibson's father, the late Rev. Lewis B. Gibson, was born into slavery in North Carolina. He was a member of the North Carolina Conference of The Methodist Church for fifty-two years, being a charter member of the conference and also a charter member of the Board of Trustees of Bennett College, Greensboro, Chaplain Gibson's birthplace.

Lt. Col. Gibson went into the chaplaincy in 1941. He has just returned from Korea, where he served eighteen months as Assistant Tenth Army Corps Chaplain and Division Chaplain of the Second Infantry Division.

He is a member of the Delaware Methodist Conference, and had served pastorates in Chester and Philadelphia, Pa., and at Salisbury, Md. before going into the service of his country. He reports that his last Sunday in Korea $3,058 was raised by his church for a new building. He said that the church of this amount built in Korea would cost $30,000 in the United States.

Gets Degree In Restaurant Training

SAN FRANCISCO, Calif. — ANP) — One of the west coast's most successful restauranteurs is Melvin Threadgill, who received his associate arts degree in Hotel and Restaurant Training from City college, San Francisco last spring.

He is now working at Rickey's Red Chimney, located in Stonetown, an aristocratic area of San Francisco.

Threadgill, the first Negro to complete the course in restaurant and hotel training, says he hopes more Negroes will take advantage of the training opportunities offered in this field. Hotel business is an exceedingly complex one. He said City college is famous for its hotel and restaurant training.

Threadgill said that he has found there are plenty of openings for graduates in all sections of the country.

The training consist not only of hotel and restaurant management but in administration, accounting, public speaking as well as the actual purchasing, preparation and serving of foods.

Threadgill declared it is not only academic but practical as well. The chairman of the course is Mrs. Hilda Watson, a graduate of Cornell university and known to hotel owners throughout the country.

According to statistics, said the young graduate, of 100 people who enter restaurant business, only three are operating at the end of five years. The reason is that many factors involving human relations are overlooked.

During the time he was a student at City college, Threadgill was treasurer of the Hotel and Management society of the school.

Each year, one of the large hotels allow the students of this group to take over the hotel management for one day. This year St. Francis hotel was the project and Threadgill was selected to serve as desk clerk.

Born in Michigan and reared in Chicago, he attended DuSable high school. Threadgill served in the armed forces for two years and spent a great part of that time in the South Pacific where he was mess sergeant. He also has had experience as a cook for the Rock Island Railroad company.

RECEIVE SCHOLARSHIPS.—Shown from left to right are P. G. Porter, Grand Master of Prince Hall Grand Lodge, who is presenting a contractual scholarship to Miss Betty Hardy of Topeka, and Robert Dan Cotton, Topeka who is receiving the same from Professor C. B. Walker, director of the department of education. The awards were presented in Topeka. In order to receive the $400 scholarship ($100 a year for four years) the student must maintain a B average and attend college four years. This same type scholarship was doubled at the past Grand Lodge and beginning next year it will be awarded to four students. The only stipulation made is the student must be the son or daughter of a Master Mason, Heroines of Jericho or Order of Eastern Star. Scholarship committee members are C. H. Brown of Atchison and Thomas Bragg Jr., Leavenworth.

Flays State Controlled Schools

Honorary Degree To Courier Editor

WACO, Tex.—William G. Nunn, managing editor of the Courier, warned members of a Paul Quinn College convocation of the dangers of state-controlled schools and praised the work of Bishop Joseph Gomez and President Frank Veal of Paul Quinn.

Nunn was one of seven outstanding dignitaries who had honorary degrees conferred upon them by Bishop Veal.

In praising Paul Quinn College, Nunn called it the Wilberforce University of the South. He said Texas was becoming the keystone state of the South.

"STATE CONTROLLED education can become dangerous because it can mean state-controlled thought . . . It means the state can control what shall be taught and at times it does not permit ideas to be taught which do not conform to the thinking of the politicians who control the purse strings," he said.

Quoting English philosopher John [illegible], Nunn said, "A state which dwarfs its men, in order that they may be more docile instruments in its hands even for beneficial purposes, will find that with small men, no great thing can really be accomplished."

He added that as long as schools like Paul Quinn exist, America will never perish.

ELKS PRESENT CHECK—Dr. Garrett Hardy, grand state director of education for I. B. P. O. E. of W. (Elks Lodge) presented to president L. H. Foster a $1,000 check from his organization representing a part of a four-year college scholarship awarded to Miss Helen Hermyne Saunders. Miss Saunders is a 1953 honor graduate of the Tuskegee Institute High School and is now enrolled at Tuskegee Institute. Shown left to right are Mrs. Bettye Steele Turner, grand state director of education I. B. P. O. E. of W.; Dr. Hardy; Dr. Foster; Miss Saunders and K. B. Young, principal of the Tuskegee Institute High School.

First Negro To Get Journalism Award

AUSTIN, Tex.—(NC) — The School of Journalism of the University of Texas has awarded a Jesse H. Jones journalism scholarship to Robert Clyde Giles of Silsbee, Tex., the first Negro ever to receive the award.

Giles is a graduate student at the university, exchange editor of The Daily Texan, student newspaper, and a member of the Newman Foundation, the association of Catholic students at the university.

Giles received his undergraduate journalism training at the College of St. Thomas in St. Paul, Minn., and received his degree in 1952.

Miss Simmons To Get Scholarship

Miss Gwendolyn Geneva Simmons, daughter of Mrs. Geneva Simmons, 1953 graduate of Institute High School, will be awarded the State PTA Scholarship of $250 at the district PTA meeting on Nov. 7 at Alexander City.

Miss Simmons tied for first place at the 20th annual academic meet held in March and sponsored by the Alabama State Teachers College. Now a freshman student nurse at John A. Andrew Memorial Hospital, Miss Simmons was an honor student throughout her high school career and an active member of the chorus, Y-Teens, Library Club, and Honor Society.

14j 1953

ALBANY GRAD TO NORWAY—Miss Brownie M. Lattimore (above) presently Jeanes Supervisor of Worth County Schools has been awarded a full summer school scholarship by the selection committee of the University of Oslo. Fifty other teachers and administrators from all sections of the United States and several foreign countries will study this summer in Norway. Miss Lattimore, is a 1949 graduate of Albany State College (Ga.) and New York University. The group will sail from Norway in June.

Howard Senior

Florence M. Cawthorne, a senior at Howard University has been named the recipient of a General Education Board scholarship for graduate study in the field of psychology.

The award, one of several given each year to promising graduating seniors in accredited southern institutions, will be financed by a fund set up in the estate of the late John D. Rockefeller.

Honor Student Each Year

Miss Cawthorne, who lives at 1036 Quebec pl., nw, is a graduate of Dunbar high school. She has been an honor student since entering Howard.

According to Robert W. July, assistant director of the General Education Board, Miss Cawthorne was selected for the scholarship on the basis of her "exceptional intellect imagination, personality, and scholarship."

RECEIVES SCHOLARSHIP—Miss Arthrell P. Dupree of Farmville, N. C., senior English major at N. C. College, Durham, has received a $1,200 Reed Brown Scholarship to study English at the Claremont (California) College Graduate School.

Two Win Awards

GRAMBLING, La. — (ANP) — William A. Scales, jr., a teacher of voice and piano at Grambling college, and Mrs. Mary Alyce Hoody, secretary to the dean, have received awards for summer study in ther fields of music and journalism.

Father, son given grants to Mich. U.

NEW YORK (ANP)—One of the most interesting father-son combinations recorded, has been granted scholarships to study at the University of Michigan's School of Education this summer.

The duo, which will be enrolled in the "Human Relations in School and Community" course is the Rev. John M. Coleman, Brooklyn member of the Board of Education, and his son Byron, 21, a student at the N.Y. State Institute of Applied Arts.

Father and son were chosen for the award by the National Conference of Christians and Jews.

The Rev. Mr. Coleman and his son, were chosen because of their interest in promoting better intergroup relations. The Rev. Mr. Coleman is rector of St. Philip's Church in Brooklyn.

Friend Of Negro Actors Sets Up Scholarship Fund

New York.—Helen Hayes, who has starred with numerous Negro actors including John Marriott, Vinie Burrows and Maurice Ellis, continues the humanitarian and first lady of the theatre. Miss Hayes is donating the Mary MacArthur Scholarship Fund to the American Theatre Wing for a year's study in professional training program. The Fund was named in memory of the star's daughter.

Negro Youth Is Maryland Boy's State 'Senator'

BALTIMORE — (ANP) — For the first time, a 16-year-old Negro youth, Cadman Owens will serve as a Boys State senator from Maryland at the National Boys State Convention in Washington.

He was elected to attend the national conference last April while at the Boys State meeting. The second senator is Leo Charles of White Hall Manor, Md.

During his seven-day stay in the nation's capital, Owens will be introduced to high government officials and will study the organization and procedures of the federal government.

Owens is active in both school governmental affairs and the Y. M. C. A. We has been serving as counselor at a YMCA camp in Baltimore.

The national conference is sponsored annually by the American Legion. Owens recently addressed the closing session of a Legion meeting in Baltimore.

Scholarships

Want a scholarship? Going to college next fall?

The AFRO continues a list of colleges and universities in many parts of the country which have scholarships available to graduates of high schools.

TALLADEGA COLLEGE, Talladega, Ala. Address inquiries to the college.

Fifty-five scholarships totaling $9,845 are available.

TEACHERS COLLEGE OF CONNECTICUT, New Britain, Conn. Address inquiries to the college. Sixty - eight scholarships totaling $12,600 available.

TEMPLE UNIVERSITY, Philadelphia 22, Pa. Address inquiries to the Registrar. There are ten open competitive scholarships available for full tuition. There are twenty open competive half-tuition scholarships available. Fifteen full-tuition scholarships are awarded to the Philadelphia Public high schools. Apply not later than Feb. 15.

TRINITY COLLEGE, Burlington, Vt. Address inquiries to the university. Sixty scholarships totaling $7,760 are available.

TRINITY COLLEGE, Hartford, Conn. Address inquiries to the college. One hundred and eighteen scholarships totaling $37,800 are available.

TRINITY COLLEGE, Washington, D.C. Address inquiries to the college. One hundred and ninety-eight scholarships totaling $40,595 are available.

TUFTS COLLEGE, Medford 55, Massachusetts. Address inquiries to the Prize Scholarship Committee. Forty - two prize scholarships for full or part tuition are available. Three full scholarships available in a limited field (Insurance.) Apply not later than April 1.

TEXAS SOUTHERN UNIVERSITY, Houston, Tex. Address inquiries to the dean of students. Work scholarships at $49.40 per month are available. Apply not later than Sept. 1.

THORNTON JUNIOR COLLEGE, Harvey, Ill. Address inquiries to the college. Nine scholarships totaling $825 are available.

TOUGALOO COLLEGE, Tougaloo, Miss. Address inquiries to the college. One hundred and one scholarships totaling $7,600 are available.

U. OF NEVADA, Reno, Nev. Address inquiries to the university. Eighty-one scholarships totaling $17,015 are available.

U. OF NEW HAMPSHIRE, Durham, N.H. Address inquiries to the Director of Admissions. A number of scholarships in varying amounts are available. Apply not later than July 15.

U. OF NOTRE DAME, Notre Dame, Ind. Address inquiries to the Chairman, Committee on Scholarships. A number of freshman scholarships, renewable. Apply not later than February 20.

U. OF NORTH DAKOTA, Grand Forks, N.D. Address inquiries to the university. Three hundred and twenty - three scholarships totaling $59,207 are available.

U. OF OKLAHOMA, Norman, Okla. Address inquiries to Dean of Students. A few general scholarships, value from $50 to full tuition. A number of scholarships for varying amounts in limited fields: science, pharmacy, math, music, etc.

Kankakee, Ill. School Board Hires A 'First'

MISS JULIA ANNE SMITH

Miss Julia Anne Smith, a January, 1953, graduate of Stowe Teachers College, is the first Negro ever to be appointed to teach in the public schools of Kankakee, Illinois. Although schools in Kankakee have always been integrated, their faculties have remained all-white until the appointment of Miss Smith in July of this year.

Miss Smith received her A.B. degree from Stowe College in January, 1953. She also graduated from Commons Elementary and Sumner High School. She attended Music and Arts College where she completed a minor in Music Education.

Formerly a piano pupil of Alleda Ward Wells, she now studies piano with Milton Bennett of the Music and Arts Faculty. She also studies organ with Samuel Nicholas who is rapidly gaining recognition in this country.

Miss Smith is organist for Transfiguration Lutheran Church but is a member of Union Memorial Methodist Church. She is a member of Walton Choraliers, Alpha Kappa Alpha Sorority and active in various other Community Chest projects and civic groups.

Since her graduation, she has served as substitute teacher in the St. Louis Public Schools and as secretary to Dr. John A. Williams.

She will begin work with the September, 1953-54 semester.

MRS. JOY EARL is visiting the United States after a period of 14 months in Japan, where she has been teaching English literature at Keio University in Tokyo. During her stay in the far east Mrs. Earl traveled throughout Japan speaking to audiences on the principles of the Baha'i faith.

Arkansans Win One-Year Kroger Scholarships

Miss Artemeze Redwood of Sherrill, and Spency Duffy of Patterson, have been selected as winners of one-year Kroger scholarships to AM&N college, it has been announced by Lawrence A. Davis, president of the college.

Duffy, son of Mr. and Mrs. O. C. Duffy, plans to study agriculture. Miss Redwood will prepare for a career in home economics. The $200 award is based on scholastic achievement and leadership in school, church, youth, or agricultural activities.

A 1953 graduate of Corbin high school, Pine Bluff, Miss Redwood was an honor student. Corbin is a laboratory high school for AM&N college.

Duffy attended Carver hi school at Augusta, ranking at the top of his graduating class. President of his home chapter of New Farmers of America, he was also active in 4-H club, track team, glee club, and was junior superintendent of his Sunday school.

Their awards are part of the retail food firm's $18,600 scholarship program which this year offered 93 scholarships at 19 state colleges and universities.

Californian Wins Oratory Award

Huey Shepard, Negro, 17-year-old Long Beach, Calif., high school graduate, was named winner of the national oratorical contest sponsored by the Negro Elks' Tuesday night at the 54th Grand Lodge convention at the City Auditorium.

Huey Shepard

Shepard won over six other region champions to take the prize of $150, in addition to one of the $1,000 scholarship prizes.

The Elks have been sponsoring the oratorical contest since 1925, and have awarded $800,000 to winners.

Hires First Negro Teacher

SCRANTON, Pa. (ANP) — Miss Louise Matchell, 22, year old, last week became the first Negro to be appointed a teacher in the public schools of this city. She was among 13 new grade school teachers named by the Scranton School Board. Miss Mitchell was graduated from Marywood college here last June.

Wins first prize in auto design contest

CHICAGO — For the third time, McKinley W. Thompson, 30, of Asbury Park, N.J., has come out top in an auto body designing contest.

His latest victory is worth a $2,160 scholarship in industrial design at the Art Center school of Los Angeles. It came from a drawing Mr. Thompson submitted in a contest sponsored by Trend, Inc., a publishing firm, through its magazine "Motor Trend."

The prize winning drawing of the draftsman appeared in the September issue of the magazine. Mr. Thompson sketched a gas turbine powered economy passenger automobile for urban transportation.

His other first prize wins came in a contest sponsored by "Road and Track" magazine in 1951, and in 1952 from "Auto Speed and Sport" for a sports car of the future.

In addition he has received glowing praise from a number of leading auto racers, designers and manufacturers for the unique style and originality of his drawings.

Miss Saunders Is Given Scholarship By Elks Lodge

Helen Hermyne Saunders

A four-year college scholarship has been awarded by the Board of Education of Elks, I. B. P. O. E. W., to Helen Hermyne Saunders, 1953 nonor graduate of Tuskegee Institute High School and now a student at Tuskegee Institute.

In announcing the $1,000 grant, Grand Commissioner George W. Lee of the Elks Department of Education, commented that Miss Saunders has been elected an Elks scholar in recognition of ambition and unusual promise exhibited in her high school record of superiority in scholarship, ability and student activity, and also in recognition of her father for outstanding contribution to the department and meritorious performance for the order for more than 25 years.

This student becomes one among 50 Elks scholars presently enrolled in colleges and universities throughout the nation, and hers is the first Elks scholarship grant to Tuskegee Institute. The Elks have credit for nearly 700 graduates and students under their scholarship projects since institution of this educational program in 1925.

Helen, who was the recipient also of Lambda Chapter's 1953 Iota Phi Lambda Scholarship Award, in her own right is a "daughter of Elks." Her father, Harold C. Saunders, formerly exalted ruler of Booker T. Washington Lodge, is district director of Elks education and president of the Northern Council of Past Exalted Rulers. He serves also as chairman of trustees for Alabama Elks Association and grand assistant director of public relations. Her mother is Mrs. Hermyne Jones Saunders, a past daughter ruler of Tuskegee's Cosmopolitan Temple of Daughter Elks.

Miss Saunders is a member of the School of Home Economics and plans a career in fashions designing.

14j 1953

FIVE AWARDED HONORS—Pictured above are five Tuskegee young people who won either awards or honors during the past academic year at Palmer Memorial Institute. Left to right: Frances Katherine Bulls, daughter of Mr. and Mrs A. C. Bulls, Sr., who graduated with the highest honors in academic and cultural achievement. She was valedictorian of her class and won the Alice Freeman Palmer award. Olive Yvonne Reynolds, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Reynolds, was awarded a medal for her achievement in piano and violin. Horatio Frank Leftwich, son of Mrs. Effie Leftwich, was awarded a medal for athletic prowess and judged the most useful young man on the campus for four consecutive years. Lillian Hamilton, daughter of Mrs. Julia Hamilton, was graduated third highest academic student. Janice Harris Green, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Green, was also graduated with academic honors and award for the most useful young woman on the campus for two consecutive years.

14j 1953

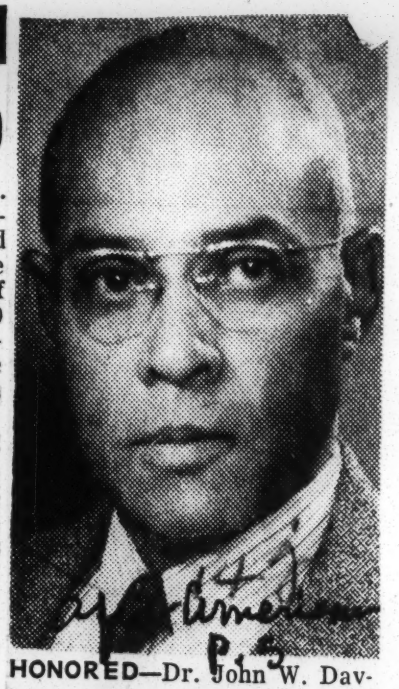
Springfield Grad Wins Scholarship

SPRINGFIELD, Mass. — Mr. Theodore C. Hunt, of Washington, D. C., who was graduated recently from Springfield college with a degree of Bachelor of Science, was awarded a $700 scholarship to Tufts Medical college, Medford, Mass. from the Jessie Smith-Noyes Foundation of New York City.

Mr. Hunt, was an outstanding student, both academically, and in extra-curricular activities, at Springfield college. He was elected to the Kappa Delta Pi honorary society and was awarded the senior service medal.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Hunt of 1310 Franklin St., ne, Washington, D. C.

RETURNS TO SOUTHERN — Dr J. W. Lee, professor of biology and head of the biology department at Southern university, has returned from the University of California at Los Angeles where he has completed a year of special scientific research. A native of New Orleans, Dr. Lee has been at Southern 12 years. He will report on his study at a meeting of the Society of Protozoology in Madison, Wis., in September.



HONORED—Dr. John W. Davis, president of West Virginia State college for 33 years and now director of the Point 4 Program in Monrovia, Liberia, who on June 11th received the honorary degree of doctor of laws at Harvard University, Cambridge, Mass. Dr. Davis returns to his post in Liberia on June 14.

M'house Grad Wins Top Prize At Howard U.

WASHINGTON — James T. Montgomery of Birmingham, Ala., won two first prizes and two other honarable mention awards to take top honors at the annual College of Medicine Honors and Oath Day ceremonies at Howard University.

The ceremonies were held on the eve of the University's 85th annual commencement exercises. The following day, the degree of doctor of medicine was conferred upon Mr. Montgomery and 66 other Howard students.

The 27-year old Dr. Montgomery who is a graduate of Morehouse College in Atlanta, Ga., will intern at the Homer G. Phillips Hospital in St. Louis. He received the following awards: first place in surgery, first place in obstetrics and gynecology, honorable mention in pediatrics, and honorable mention with Irving J. Faber of New York City in medicine.

George F. Thomas of Macon, Ga., won three aawrds last Thursday's ceremonies. They were second prize in clinical research with William E. Matory of East St. Louis, Ill. honorable mention in pediatrics, and a special scholarship award given by the women's auxiliary of the Georgia State Medical Association. A graduate of Lincoln (Pa.) University, Dr. Thomas will intern at the General Hospital in Philadelphia, Pa.

Other first place awards went to Everett L. Dargan of Columbia, S. C. in medicine, Mavis S. Thompson of Newark, N. J., in clinical research, and Sylvester S. Davis of Cleveland Ohio, in pediatrics. Dr. Thompson, who is a graduate of Hunter College, also received the second prize in surgery.

A special award for achievement, proficiency and promise in dental medicine went to Leon M. Dixon Jr., of Brooklyn, N. Y. Dr. Dixon who is a graduate of the College of Liberal Arts at Howard, teamed with Richard D. Hill of Jamaica, B. W. I. to win the third prize in medicine.

Two Virginians won second and third prizes in obstetrics and gynecology. Second place went to Charles T. Sutton of Richmond and third place to James E. Newby of Norfolk.

Morehouse Study Given New Grant

ATLANTA, Ga. — The National Advisory Arthritis and Metabolic Council of the United States Public Health Service has approved a research grant of $4,644 to the Morehouse College department of biology.

The funds will enable Dr. James H. Birnie, chairman of the department of biology at Morehouse, and Dr. S. M. Nabrit of Atlanta University, to continue their research on water and electrolyte metabolism.

White College Elects Negro Co-ed May 'Queen'

By ELAIE BERRY

VANCOUVER, Wash. — (ANP) — Miss Thelma Graham, a 21-year-old aspirant to a concert-singing career, last week was crowned "May Queen" at Clark college here, in recognition of her popularity on the campus.

When Miss Graham was announced as the choice of some 500 students to reign as "Queen," the entire student body gave her a standing ovation. The enthusiasm was repeated when Dr. Paul Gaiser president of the college, placed a crown of white roses on her black hair.

The stately Miss Graham is the first Negro coed to wear the crown in the 18-year history of the institution. As "Queen", she will reign over the three-day May fete which culminates in a prom. Her all-white court will attend to her during all events.

A contralto, she has been featured in numerous school musical affairs and hopes to attend Willamete university for her last two years of college in preparation for a career as a concert singer.

Miss Graham is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lee Graham of Vancouver.

Negro Youth Is Maryland Boy's State 'Senator'

BALTIMORE, Aug. 10.—For the first time, a 16-year-old Negro youth, Cadman Owens, will serve as a senior senator from Maryland at the National Boys State Convention in Washington.

He was elected to attend the national conference last April while at the Boys State meeting. The second senator is Leo Charles of White Hall Manor, Md.

During his seven-day stay in the nation's capital, Owens will be introduced to high government officials and will study the organization and procedures of the federal government.

Owens is active in both school governmental affairs and the Y. M. C. A. He has been serving as counselor at a YMCA camp in Baltimore.

The national conference is sponsored annually by the American Legion. Owens recently addressed the closing session of a Legion meeting in Baltimore.

MISS GEORGENE CLARK

ASC GRADUATE RECEIVED

A. T. Clark of Albany, Georgia, recently was awarded a scholarship of $300 by Atlanta University for attendance this fall. The award was made by the Alpha Kappa Mu Honor Society at Albany State College of which she is a charter member. Miss Clark, a recent graduate of the 1953 class at Albany State reigned as "Miss Home Coming" for the '52 Rams. She also served as corresponding secretary for her class. She has studied for one year in New York City and is presently pianist for the Young People's Choir and leader of the Girl Scout Troop of the Hines Memorial AME Church. She is president of the South Georgia C. M. E. Youth Conference, and has lived in Albany the greater portion of her life, salutatorian of her Monroe High School Class and attended Albany State College three years on scholarships maintaining high scholastic averages. She is a charter member of the Delta Sigma Theta Sorority.

34 Southern Students Win Awards Of $100-$400 To Attend College

NEW YORK — Thirty-four outstanding boys and girls from 12 Southern states and the District of Columbia were awarded supplementary college scholarships ranging from $100 to $400 each by the National Scholarship Service and Fund for Negro Students, Inc.

The announcement was made last week by Dr. Robert C. Weaver, chairman of the agency's Supplementary Scholarship fund board of trustees.

These students will attend 24 colleges and universities in 11 northern and western states. Twenty-seven of the group are high school seniors entering college next September.

Awards for these students were made available for the first time from a grant by the Ford Foundation's Fund for the Advancement of Education. The grant was given the National Scholarship service for its newly launched south-wide Negro student talent search.

Seven of the students are college upperclassmen, previously aided by the National Scholarship service, and granted awards this year in order to continue their studies. Their awards were drawn from the Agency's Edwin R. Embree memorial scholarships, and the Jean Tennyson awards.

"These supplementary awards, the only ones of their kind, provide annual financial aid to gifted Negro students," Dr. Weaver explained.

This year's 34 award winners were granted a total of $12,000 by the agency as a supplement to the $20,000 in scholarships they had won from the colleges to which they were referred.

Award winners, their home states, and the colleges at which they will study are listed below:

Alabama: Clarice Dibble, Tuskegee, Ala. (Sarah Lawrence college, N. Y.).

Delaware: Allen Richard Williams, Wilmington (Harvard university.)

District of Columbia: LaBonnie Bianchi (Oberlin college, Ohio); John Harold Carted (Drake university, Iowa); Senora Drewery, (Boston university); Nathaniel Geary (Harvard university); Nan Denise Miller (Wilson college, Pa.); Eleanor Norris (Rockford college, Ill.); Sylvia Peppers, (Baldwin-Wallace college, Ohio); David W. Ray (Bates colege, Me.); Arthur Lee Satterfield (New York university); Sarita Smith (Swarthmore college, Pa.) Barbara A. Stewart (University of Pennsylvania); Carole Waters (Rockford college, Ill.); Shirley Williams (Temple university, Pa.)

Florida: Ethel Murray, Tampa (Otterbein college, Ohio).

Georgia. Nathaniel LaMar, Atlanta (Harvard university).

Kentucky: Robert Hood, Louisville (Ohio Wesleyan university)

Louisiana: Ozzie Marie Davis, Farmerville (Blackburn college, Ill.); Clarence Irving, New Orleans (College of the Pacific, Calif.).

Maryland: Baltimore — Marva kecol le;.ge,R)I(. PmD ateserbo Dates (Pembroke college, R. I.); Electra Kearny (Keuka college, N. Y.); Antony Mason (Swarthmore college, Pa.); William W. Morris (Ohio Wesleyan university); Warner Traynham (Dartmouth college).

North Carolina: Reba Aram, Charlotte (Baldwin-Wallace college, Ohio); Eunice Kirton, Wilmington (Ohio Wesleyan university); Milton E. Pharr, Gastonia (DePauw university, Ind.).

South Carolina: Columbia — Frank Fitzpatrick (Ohio Wesleyan university); Joretha Langley (Wilson college, Pa.).

Tennessee: Datie Caruthers Nashville (James Milliken university, Ill.); Augustus A. White, Memphis (Brown university, R. I.).

Texas: George Benton, Fort Worth (Iowa State college).

Virginia: Dorothy Anderson, South Norfolk (Blackburn college, Ill.).

VETERAN EDUCATOR HONORED AT FORT VALLEY — Fort Valley State College honored Sanford H. Lee of Macon, Georgia, for distinguished service to the education of Negro children of Georgia. The principal address for this occasion was delivered by the Rev. George Sewell, pastor of Stewart Chapel AME Church of Macon who spoke in glowing terms of the unselfish service rendered by the honoree over a period of forty-six years. In the photo above, President C. V. Troup of the Fort Valley State College is shown presenting the scroll of honor to Mr. Lee.

EDUCATION

Girl Gets $4,000 Medical Scholarship

Miss Elizabeth Backus, 758 Millwee avenue, Greenwood, S. C., has been chosen as the recipient of a $4,000 scholarship to be used to defray her expenses during four years of study as a medical student at Meharry.

This fund was established by an outstanding industrialist and business man of the State of South Carolina and his wife because of their interest in the development of South Carolina and their desire to encourage the medical training of promising Negro students who may render service to the people of the State as practicing physicians.

The fund, which is to be used for her expenses at the rate of approximately $1,000 a year, is given with the hope and the desire that the recipient after finishing medical training will serve as a medical practitioner in a South Carolina community.

4 Negro Colleges Here Will Join Scholarship Plan

Four Atlanta colleges will participate in the United Negro College Fund program of 1953-54 which provides for more than $100,000 in scholarship awards on the basis of competitive examinations.

The Atlanta colleges are Spelman, Clark, Morehouse and Morris Brown.

Examinations will be given between March 1 and March 15 in 100 high schools in 27 states. They will be scored by the Educational Testing Service in Princeton, N.J., and the results forwarded to colleges of the student's preference.

Wins Fe.

HAMPTON, Va.—Joseph Tazewell, a senior at Hampton Institute, has been awarded a $1,500 Fellowship in rubber chemistry by the Firestone Tire and Rubber Company. The fellowship will enable Mr. Tazewell to complete the requirements for a M.S. degree at the University of Akron.

Because of his interest in physical chemistry, Mr. Tazewell will study in the field of high polymers. He is to begin his studies in September and will serve as laboratory assistant in the Department of Chemistry.

A native of Portsmouth, Va., he won a science talent search conducted by the Virginia Academy of Science while attending I. P. Norcum high school. At Hampton, he has been active in the Student Christian Association, the Men's Tutorial Staff and the Alpha Phi Alpha fraternity.

Elect Negro Class Officer At U Of Arkansas

Little Rock, Ark. (ANP).—W. Hugh Mott last week was elected secretary of next year's junior class at the University of Arkansas School of Medicine. Mott reportedly is the first Negro to hold a class office at the institution.

Princeton Student Gets $10,200 Grant

BY SAMUEL A. HAYNES

PRINCETON, N.J. — An international scholar from whom the world will hear much in the the years ahead has been awarded a $10,200 grant for a two-year study of student political movements in Egypt, Syria and Lebanon.

He is James T. Harris, a graduate student at Princeton University, a native of Philadelphia, and a former battalion sergeant major in the U.S. Air Force.

He was one of two colored students to enroll in the Woodrow Wilson School of Public and International Affairs at Princeton University in 1951.

The other is William E. Gordon, a native of Jamaica, B.W.I., who came to Princeton from Montreal, Canada, where he received a bachelor of commerce degree at McGill University. He had earlier received the D. P.A. degree in London, England.

Philadelphia Product

Mr. Harris, who will be 30 on July 11, was graduated from Northeast Catholic High School for Boys, Philadelphia, in 1941 and won a scholarship to La Salle College.

At LaSalle, he won the McShain Prize at commencement for excellent academic record and was elected to Alpha Epsilon Honor Society.

He served in the Army from August, 1943, to April, 1946, as battalion sergeant-major and information and education noncommissioned officer.

World Student Leader

Harris received the B.A. degree in economics at LaSalle in June, 1948. He was elected as the second president of the U.S. National Student Association serving 1948-1949.

He joined the staff of the World University Service at Geneva, Switzerland, as associate secretary in October, 1949, in December, 1950, he was appointed associate general secretary.

The General Secretariat of the International Student Service and of World Student Relief merged in 1951 into the World University Service.

JAMES T. HARRIS

Aids Foreign Youths

He as acted as advisor in several national student seminars including one in Montigny, France, and another in Haslov, Denmark.

He has also initiated relief projects for the World University Service in the countries of the Middle East, and assisted with relief projects for former DP students in Germany, and the distribution of food and clothes to needy students in Italy.

Mr. Harris, since 1950, has visited 18 foreign countries including nine in Europe, England, Israel, India, Lebanon, Canada, Egypt and Syria.

Honored At Home

He was active in many civic, religious and social agencies in Philadelphia and Germantown, including the NAACP, YMCA, The American Veterans Committee and the Philadelphia Catholic Inter-racial Council.

He has been awarded the Good Citizenship Medal by the Daughters of the American Revolution, and the citation for outstanding community achievement from the Germantown housewives.

Georgian Awarded Third Study Grant

NEW YORK — William E. H. Howard of Athens, Georgia and New York City has just been notified by The Institute of Social Studies at The Hague that he has been awarded a final two-year scholarship to that institution for the study of public administration with particular emphasis on under-developed areas.

This International Institute is a recent outgrowth of the five leading Dutch Universities: Leyden, Utrecht, Delft, Amsterdam and Rotterdam; and it is under the sponsorship of the Netherlands Universities Foundation for International Cooperation. Students and professional people from all over the world are in attendance at this post graduate Institute in the Social Sciences.

THIRD FELLOWSHIP

WILLIAM E. H. HOWARD

This is the third International Scholarship Mr. Howard has received within the past four years. In 1949-50, he was the first resident of Ethiopia to receive a Fulbright Award to study for one year at the University of Glascow in Scotland. For his Master's thesis, he offered a study of "The Effects of International Trade on the Economy of Ethiopia." Last summer, he received the coveted Ralph J. Bunche Scholarship to the University of Oslo in Norway. This period of study was followed by research in pedagogy and economics at the International People's College in Elsinore, Denmark and at the Swedish Institute in Stockholm, Sweden.

Now comes to the crowning achievement, a scholarship to the Netherlands leading to a Doctor of Philosophy Degree in Public Administration. In the letter of the announcement of the scholarship, Mr. Howard was informed that he was selected from among applicants representing thirty-five countries on the basis of his high scholarship record in his own country and abroad, leadership, outstanding services to the Government of Ethiopia and significant contributions to human understanding and interational relations.

MAGNA CUM LAUDE

Since 1947, Mr. Howard has served as the Senior English Master and Administrative Assistant to the Director of Medhane-Alem Secondary School in Addis Ababa, Ethiopia. He is a Magna Cum Laude graduate of West Virginia State College, a member of Alpha Phi Alpha Fraternity ,and the recipient of the National Urban League's Certificate of Recognition in 1947.

NATIVE GEORGIA

Mr. Howard is the son of the late Professor James P. Howard of Athens, Georgia, who for more than fifty years served as an educator in the State of Georgia prior to his death in 1952. His sister Miss Camilla L. Howard, who has held scholarships to Middlebury, the University of Grenoble in France and the National University of Mexico, is a professor of modern languages at Spelman College. His mother, Mrs. Annie W. Howard resides at the home place at 1 West Hancock Ave., Athens Ga.

Auto Designer Wins $2,160 Scholarship

McKinley W. Thomspon jr., 30-year-old draftsman from Asbury Park, N. J., headed West through Chicago last week to accept a $2,160 scholarship in industrial design at the Art Center school of Los Angeles, Calif.

Thompson won the award for submitting a winning drawing in an automobile body designing contest sponsored by Trend, Inc., a publishing firm through its magazine, "Motor Trend." Five equal awards were made in the contest.

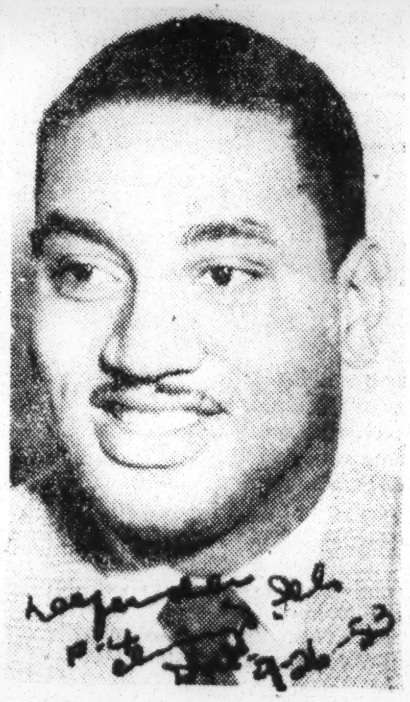
In his prize-winning drawing, which appeared in the September, 1953 issue of "Motor Trend," Thompson sketched a gas turbine powered economy passenger automobile for ubran transportation.

The young draftsman has won two other national awards in auto body designing contests. In 1951 he received first prize in a contest sponsored by "Road and Track" magazine; and in 1952, "Auto Speed and Sport" magazine awarded him first prize for "sports car of the future."

Thompson has been lauded by many leading auto racers, designers and manufacturers for the unique style and originality of his drawings.

So far he has made only one professional auto design-transforming a convertible bodied auto into a flower car for a funeral director. The new type funeral car, invented by Daniel A. Revly and constructed by J. F. Craig, went on display last week at the Funeral Directors convention in Atlantic City.

While in Chicago, Thompson and his wife, Lelia, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Elliot, 6546 Evans ave. Thompson and Elliot served in the Army Air Force together.



McKINLEY THOMPSON

Boston chemist to pay for law education with $1,500 first prize won in contest

BOSTON, Mass. — A 31-year-old chemist credits his "hobby" of reading advertisements with having opened the door to a law degree.

Winner of first prize of $1,500 in a nation - wide contest for the best written comment on the merits of Olin portable radio batteries, Lamar Smith of 12 Derne st. was presented his check at a luncheon at Hotel Somerset.

Mr. Smith is a Howard university honor graduate and for the past two has been studying law through an extension course from the University of Massachusetts, while working as an analytical chemist at the National Lead company, here.

Filed Entry

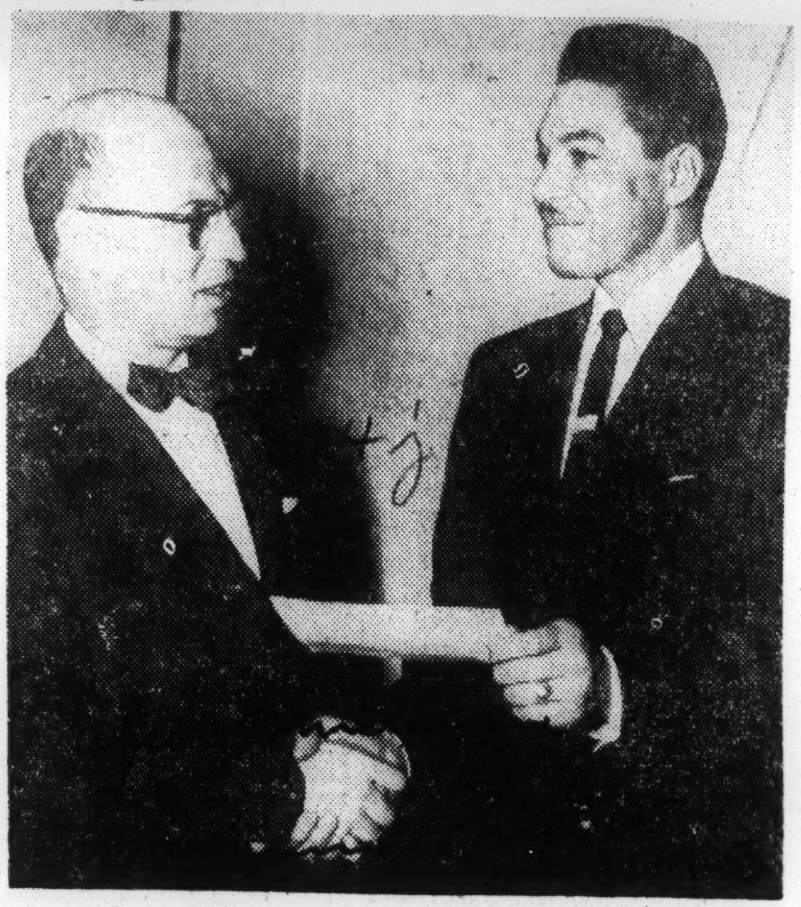
Last summer, Mr. Smith noticed a series of newspaper advertisements announcing the Olin contest. Accordingly, he found out as much as he could about the Olin portable batteries, then filed his entry.

At the luncheon, Ronald V. Bennett, sales manager for Olin's electrical division, presented Mr. Smith with a check for first prize, won over thousands of entries submitted from all over the country.

Preferred Cash

If Mr. Smith had so chosen, he could have had a trip to the Hawaiian Islands for two. Instead, he asked for cash and said the money will help pay his law school expenses, either at Harvard or at Boston university law school.

A native of Washington, D.C., Mr. Smith was orphaned at 10, and worked his way through grammar school, high school and, with the aid of scholarships, through Howard university. He was a master sergeant in World War II, serving with the Army in the South Pacific, Burma and India.



R. V. BENNETT LAMAR SMITH

Wins $1,500 First Prize

First Negro To Get Journalism Award

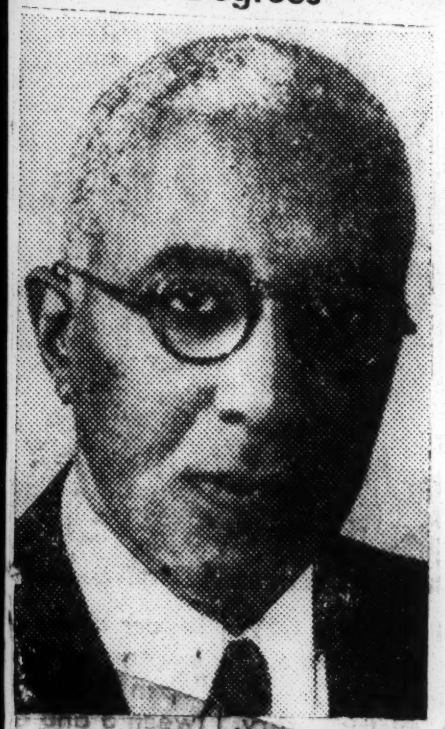
AUSTIN, Tex.—(NC) — The School of Journalism of the University of Texas has awarded a Jesse H. Jones journalism scholarship to Robert Clyde Giles of Silsbee, Tex., the first Negro ever to receive the award.

Giles is a graduate student at the university, exchange editor of The Daily Texan, student newspaper, and a member of the Newman Foundation, the association of Catholic students at the university.

Giles received his undergraduate journalism training at the College of St. Thomas in St. Paul, Minn., and received his degree in 1952.

14j 1953

Bishop Bowen, Mrs. Roosevelt And Others Receives Degrees



BISHOP J. W. E. BOWEN

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla.—Bishop J. W. E. Bowen, Resident Bishop of the Atlantic Coast Area of the Methodist Church; Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, Bishop John Branscomb, Resident Bishop of Florida and Cuba, and Herbert M. Davidson, editor of the Daytona Beach News-Journal were awarded Honorary Degrees of Doctor of Laws from Bethune-Cookman College at the 49th Convocation and the Annual Trustee Meeting in Daytona Beach, Florida last week. The honor services were held in the Peabody Auditorium.

The degrees were awarded by Dr. Mary Bethune, president-emeritus and founder of the College and Dr. R. V. Moore, president of the College.

Name Young Ohio Girl Nation's Best Student

ST. CLAIRSVILLE, Ohio — A 17-year-old high school senior, Lois Bush, was named the "most outstanding high school student of the year" last week by Ralph Edwards on his "Truth or Consequences" radio TV program. Last year Lois wrote a prize winning essay for the Drew Pearson contest which was broadcast behind the Iron Curtain.

Professor Attains Unique Membership

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo.—Professor Charles E. Dickinson of the Lincoln University Department of Agriculture has received notification of election to membership in the American Society of Landscape Architects.

Dickinson was sponsored for membership by fellow landscape architects of St. Louis, Kansas City and Professor Charles Sutton of Ohio State University from which he was awarded the Ph.D., degree June, 1950.

The sponsored membership approved, status gives the recipient relationship with the outstanding persons with practical experience and professional standing in landscape architectural field.

First Negro Head of Simpson College Student Congress

Indianola, Ia.—Perry Wilkins, junior from Ferguson, Mo., was elected president of the Simpson college Student Congress. He is the first Negro to head the student governing body.

Don Kilsares of Des Moines was named vice president and Robert Calhoun, Oskaloosa sophomore, was chosen social life chairman.

Two hundred ninety students voted in the election. This is about 80 per cent of the student body.

The new officers will take over their duties next September and will serve for a year.

A letterman in football and track Wilkins is a physical education major. He is a member of the S club and the Future Teachers of America organization.

Ford Scholarships Won By Boy, Girl

DETROIT — Two colored high school seniors were among the students from 17 states who were awarded four-year college scholarships in nation-wide competition among children of Ford Motor co., employees.

The winners are Tilum Theodore Eason, jr., of River Rouge, Mich., and Miss Gloria Jean Fowler, of Ecorse, Mich.

Honor Dr. Willa Player At Wesleyan Celebration

DELAWARE, Ohio — Dr. Willa B. Player, vice-president of Bennett college, was given an honorary degree, Doctor of Laws, by Ohio Wesleyan university, last week.

Dr. Arthur Flemming, president of the University, conferred the degree on the occasion of the celebration of the University Centennial.

Dr. Player graduated from the University in 1929, received an M. A. degree from Oberlin College and a Doctor of Education degree from Columbia university.

She studied at the University of Wisconsin and the University of Grenoble in France.

She was promoted to vice-president of Bennett College last October after having been teacher, registrar, director of admissions, and coordinator of instruction.

Last fall she turned down an offer to become president of Spelman college, Atlanta. Previously she had declined offers to take an administrative post at another large Negro institution.

LEAVE OF ABSENCE

Last month the Bennett trustees granted her a leave of absence to accept a fellowship from the Fund for the Advancement of Education. She will study and observe nine colleges next year.

In July she will direct a workshop on education in missions for the Methodist Pennsylvania Conference School of Missions in the Pocono Mountains.

Later in the month she will head a workshop on "The Improvement and Evaluation of Instruction," for the Department of Higher Education of the Methodist church at Nashville, Tenn.

TO MAKE SPEECHES

She will make commencement addresses this year at Allen High School, Ashville, N. C.; Nashville, N. C.; Graham, N. C.; and Mather Academy, Camden, S. C.

Dr. Player was appointed recently to the State Advisory Committee on Education by the State Superintendent of Public Instruction. She is a member of the Visiting Committee evaluating Negro colleges for the Southern Association of Secondary Schools and Colleges.

She is a native of Akron, Ohio, and is the daughter of Mrs. B. D. Player and the late C. C. Player.

Court Slaps Housing Ban

WASHINGTON

By a vote of 6 to 1, the United States Supreme Court Monday threw out a damage suit designed to enforce restrictive covenants in three states.

In 1948, the high court held that contracts restricting ownership or occupancy of property to white persons alone could not be enforced in the courts.

In an attempt to evade this decision, real estate interests sought to keep property lilywhite by asking damages in court from sellers who ignored race restrictions in their deeds.

Covenant Signed in 1944

The case grew out of a restrictive covenant signed on property in Los Angeles on October 21, 1944 by Leola Jackson, Ollie C. Barrows, M. M. O'Harra and an ancestor of Richard Pickaar.

The agreement was that none of the property covered by the covenant should ever at any time be used or occupied by any persons not wholly of the Caucasion race.

The agreement was to be incorporated in all papers and transferrals of the property.

On February 2, 1950, Mrs. Jackson sold her home, but did not include the racial restrictive covenant in her deed. Colored persons moved into the property on September 4, 1950.

Sued In Los Angeles

The other signers of the covenant brought suit for damages in the Los Angeles County Superior Court.

That court dismissed the complaint and the District Court of Appeals affirmed the decision.

The California Supreme Court refused to hear the case. It was on March 9, 1953 that the U.S. Supreme Court granted the review.

In the meantime, similar damage suits had been filed in Missouri, Oklahoma and Illinois. The Illinois Supreme Court, just as did the California court, held that such damage suits could not be pressed.

The high courts of Oklahoma and Missouri ruled that damages could be collected.

Monday's opinion was read by Justice Sherman Minton. Chief Justice Fred Vinson, who wrote the 1948 decision outlawing the covenants, dissented.

In its opinion Monday, the court held that actions of a state court to entertain a suit for damages "would constitute state action as surely as it was state action to enforce such covenants by injunction."

It also held that state action in allowing damages would deprive non-Caucasions of equal protection of the law in violation of the 14th Amendment although no non-Caucasion was claiming in this case that he had been denied his constitutional rights.

In the California case, the court was faced with an unique situation in which state action might result in a denial of constitutional rights, and in which it would be difficult, if not impossible, for the person whose rights are asserted to present their grievance before any court.

The court relaxed its rule that a person cannot challenge the constitutionality of a statute unless he shows himself to be injured by its operation.

Justices Reed and Jackson took no part in the consideration of the case.

Chief Justice Vinson, in dissenting, expressed the opinion that the California case was different from the restrictive case of 1948.

Said Mr. Justice Vinson: "Because I cannot see how respondent (Mrs. Jackson) can avail herself of the 14th Amendment rights of strangers — the only rights which she has chosen to assert—and since I cannot see rights would be impaired in this how the court can find that those

In another opinion, the court in a split decision affirmed the convictions and death sentences meted two sailors, Robert W. Byrnes and Herman T. Dennis.

The two had been convicted in the rape-murder of Ruth Farnsworth, a civilian Navy department worker, on the island of Guam.

Chief Justice Vinson read the opinion. Concurring were Justices Stanley Reed, Harold Burton and Tom Clark. Justice Sherman Minton concurred in a separate opinion.

Justices William O. Douglas and Hugo Black dissented. Justice Felix Frankfurter in another separate opinion pleaded for the court to hear re-argument of the case.

Court Ban Due, Dixie Solon Says

(Special to the Courier)

ATLANTA, Ga.—When the United States Supreme Court last week ordered further hearings on the public school segregation cases, Georgia's veteran Senator George expressed the view that the high tribunal's action has ominous implications for the South.

The Senator said the Supreme Court's actions clearly indicated to him that a majority of the justices were prepared to hand down a decision outlawing segregation as it is practiced in the public school systems of the Southern states.

Senator George, long recognized as one of the constitutional authorities in Congress, read this meaning not from the questions asked by the court in ordering rehearing on the case, but from other questions which it failed to ask.

* * *

THE GEORGIA Senator regarded it as significant that the tribunal did not seek further arguments on the dual form of Federal and state governments permitted under the present constitutional system.

"This, to my mind, is the basic issue in the case," he said. "Yet, the court in propounding a series of questions on which it wanted to hear further arguments before rendering its decision, did not request any additional discussion on the subject of our dual system of government. It would indicate to me that a majority of the court thinks the states have no right under the Fourteenth Amendment to order segregation in their public schools. Consequently, I anticipate that the system long practiced in the South of separating the two races in different schools will be held to be discriminatory and therefore unconstitutional, as a majority of the present court sees it."

Although the court's decision on the segregated school cases is not due to come until after rehearings on Oct. 12, Senator George said the South might as well anticipate its ultimate impact and prepare to meet it.

* * *

SENATOR GEORGE argued the point of the court asking how it should handle a decision against segregation.

"The court," he said, "seemed to be concerned about how it should put into effect a segregation order, if one is issued. The emphasis thus raised on this phase of the matter may be indicative.

"Evidently there is some division in the court on the basic issues involved or else the further hearings would not have been ordered. But the tenor of the court's action, and especially its failure to propound any question on our dual form of government, warrants the assumption that a majority of the tribunal has made up its mind as to this phase. That, in turn, points to an anti-segregation decision."

MRS. EVANGELINE HOWLETTE

Mrs. Howlette Elected To National Honor Group

PORTSMOUTH— Mrs. Evangeline Jones Howlette, of this city, member of the faculty of Hampton Institute since 1946, who is presently pursuing study toward the Ph. D. degree at Columbia University, N. Y., has been elected to Pi Lambda Theta, national honor and professional association of women in education. The Teachers College, Columbia University Chapter is Alpha Epsilon.

An impressive initiation service was held Wednesday, Aug. 5, in the Grace Dodge Room at Teachers College.

* * *

ONE OF THE PURPOSES of Pi Lambda Theta is to foster professional spirit and to seek and maintain the highest standards of scholarship and professional preparation especially among women.

Requirements for invitation to membership include scholarship in upper ranks of the university and recommendation by members of the chapter and the faculty with respect to their potentialities for leadership in education and their ability to work well with others.

* * *

MRS. HOWLETTE IS studying for the degree of doctor of education in early childhood education during the current summer session, and is serving as assistant to Dr. Kenneth D. Wann, assistant professor of education at Teachers College.

Mrs. Howlette is the daughter of Mrs. Lillian S. Jones, of Carver Homes, and is a granddaughter of the late Dr. and Mrs. E. C. Somerville of Portsmouth. She was graduated from Norcom High School and Hampton Institute and holds the master's degree from Atlanta University.

14j 1953

Harry Moore Awards to Southern Young People

NEW YORK — Three scholarships, from a fund in memory of the N.A.A.C.P. leader, Harry T. Moore, have been awarded to young people from the South to defray the cost of their attendance at the United States Assembly of Youth, a young adult conference which will take place at Ann Arbor, Michigan from September 3 to 8.

The United States Assembly of youth is planned to challenge young students, workers and professionals to assume their responsibilities in the community, the nation and the world. Participants will discuss the American Heritage, Human Rights and the United States in the World Today, in consonance with the theme of the assembly, "The World We Want". Featured speakers will include Mr. Walter Reuther, National President of the C. I. O.; Dr. Mordecai Johnson, President of Howard University; and Professor Henry Steele Commager of Columbia University.

The Harry T. Moore Fund is administered by 13 organizations affiliated with the Young Adult Council of the National Social Welfare Assembly. It was established to honor the Florida leader of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People who was killed by a bomb on Christmas night, 1951. The fund's purpose is stated to be the furthering of Moore's life work of improving human relations.

Recipients of the awards are the Rev. Willie Cato, Joelton, Tenn. a senior sociology student at the David Lipscomb college of Nashville and a minister of the Church of Christ; Pat Boone, Nashville, a student and youth worker who conducts the weekly radio program, "Youth On Parade"; and James Scott, president of the Savannah, Georgia N. A. A. C. P. Youth Council.

Further scholarships are available from the fund for qualified young people from the South.

Organizations administering the Moore Fund include the American Unitarian Youth; Collegiate Council for the United Nations; National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, Youth division; National Catholic Welfare Conference, Youth Department; National Jewish Youth Conference; North American Student Cooperative League; Students for Democratic Action; United Christian Youth Movement; United States National Students Association; United World Federalists, Student Division; Universalist Youth Fellowship; National Young Adult Council, Young Men's Christian Association; and the National Board of the Young Women's Christian Association.

Study Fund Gets Name From Hero

NEW YORK — Three scholarships, from a fund in memory of the Negro leader, Harry T. Moore, have been awarded to young people from the South to defray the cost of their attendance at the United States Assembly of Youth, a young adult conference which will take place at Ann Arbor, Mich. from September 3rd to 8th.

The United States Assembly of Youth is planned to challenge young students, workers and professionals to assume their responsibilities in the community, the nation and the world. Participants will discuss the American Heritage, Human Rights and the United States in the World Today in consonance with the theme of the assembly, "The World We Want."

Featured speakers will include Walter Reuther, national president of the C. I. O. Dr. Mordecai Johnson, president of Howard university; and Professor Henry Steele commager of Columbia, university.

GIVEN BY 13 GROUPS

The Harry T. Moore Fund is administered by thirteen organizations affiliated with the Young Adult Council of the National Social Welfare Assembly. It was established to honor the Florida leader of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People who was killed by a bomb on Christmas night, 1951. The fund's purpose is stated to be the furthering of Moore's life work of improving human relations.

Recipients of the awards are Rev. Willie Cato, Joelton, Tennessee a senior sociology student at the David Lipscomb college of Nashville and a minister of the Church of Christ; Mr. Pat Boone, Nashville, a student and youth worker who conducts the weekly radio program, "Youth on Parade," and Mr. James Scott, president of the Savannah, Georgia N. A. A. C. P. Youth Council.

Further scholarships are available from the fund for qualified young people from the South. Organization administering the Moore Fund include the American Unitarian Youth; Collegiate Council for the United Nations; National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, Youth Division; National Catholic Welfare Conference, Youth Department; National Jewish Youth Conference; North American Student Cooperative League; Students for Democratic Action; United Christian Youth Movement; United States National Students Association; United World Federalists, Student Division; Universalist Youth Fellowship; National Young Adult Council, Young Men's Christian Association and the National Board of the Young Women's Christian Association.

Elects Negro Coed As "May Queen"

VANCOUVER, Wash. — (ANP) — Miss Thelma Graham, a 21-year-old aspirant to a concert-singing career, last week was crowned "May Queen" at Clark college here, in recognition of her popularity on the campus.

When Miss Graham was announced as the choice of some 500 students to reign as "Queen," the entire student-body gave her a standing ovation. The enthusiasm was repeated when Dr. Paul Gaiser, president of the college, placed a crown of white roses on her black hair.

The stately Miss Graham is the first Negro coed to wear the crown in the 18-year history of the institution. As "Queen," she will reign over the three-day May fete which culminates in a prom. Her all-white court will attend to her during all events.

A contralto, she has been featured in numerous school musical affairs and hopes to attend Willamette universiy for her last two years of college in preparation for a career as a concert singer.

FIRST IN HIGH SCHOOL

TOLEDO, O. (ANP)—The city's first colored high school teacher recently began work in the Toledo school system. He is James Hill, assigned to the faculty of Scott high school.

Oklahoma wins $1,600 med. grant

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla. — Miss Jeanne A. Ackiss of this city, has been awarded a 1,600 scholarship by the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis to be used for specialization in medical social work toward a master's degree.

Miss Ackiss, a graduate of Northwestern University, who has completed her first year of study for her M.A. at Oklahoma University school of social work, has begun her studies under the award at St. Louis University, St. Louis.

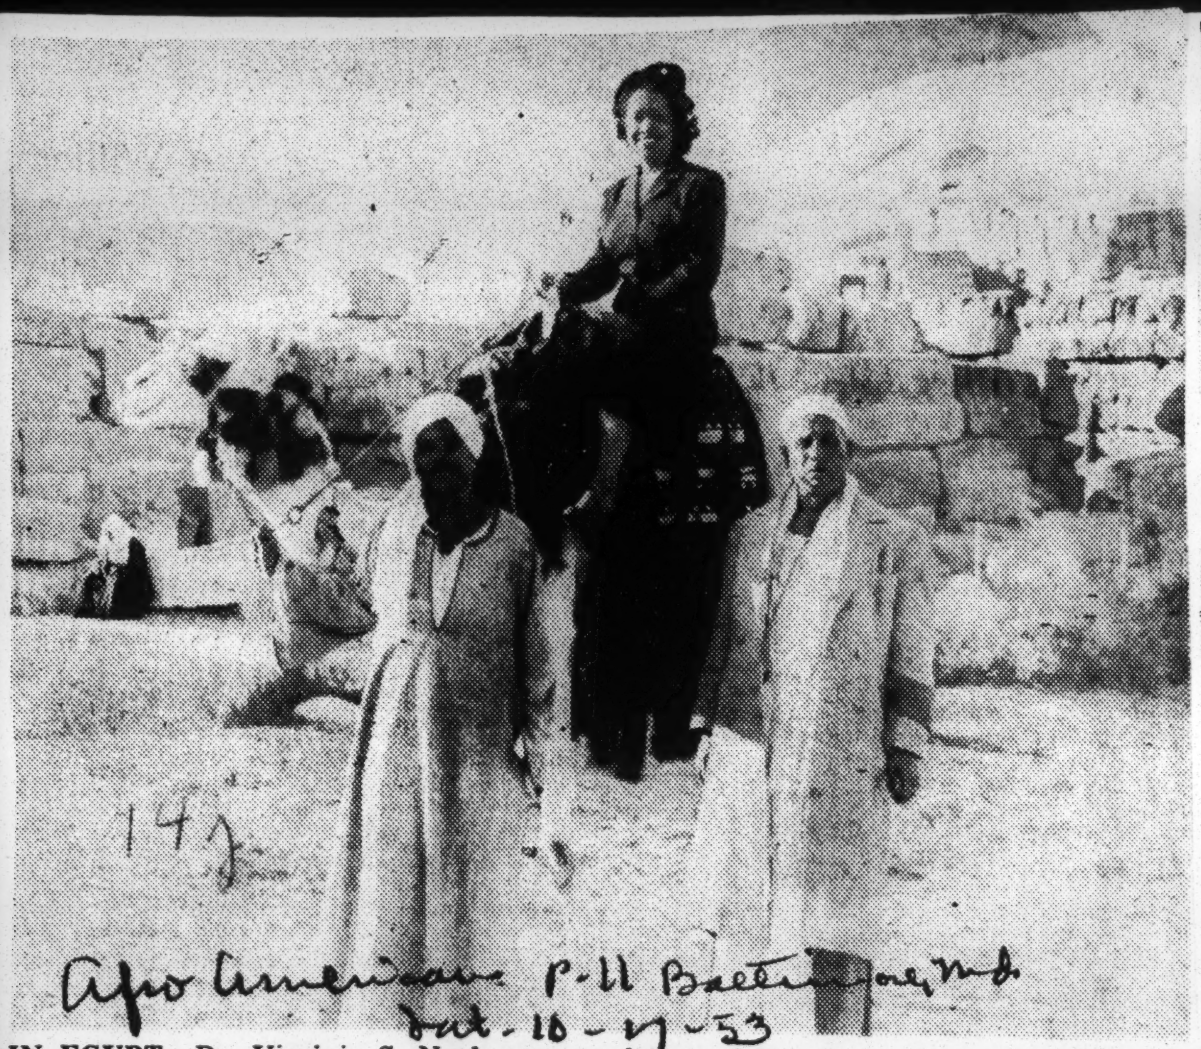
Dad Washington Medic

She is the daughter of Dr. Smallwood Ackiss of Washington and Mrs. Thelma D. Perry, chairman of the social science department at Langston University who has completed all requirements for the Ph.D. degree from the University of Chicago except that of residence.

Her stepfather, Dr. R. P. Perry, is administrative dean at Langston and her grandfather, Dr. A. I. Davis, is one of this city's pioneer physicians.

RESEARCH SCHOLARSHIP AWARD TO BOULWARE

DURHAM, N. C. — Courier columnist Dr. Marcus H. Boulware, speech pathologist and audiologist, has been awarded a research scholarship by the Audiology Foundation to study the hearing problems of the brain-injured child at the North Carolina Cerebral Palsy Hospital. Dr. Boulware writes the widely read column "Yes, We All Talk."



IN EGYPT—Dr. Virginia S. Nyabongo, professor of French at Tennessee State University, Nashville, shown in Cairo, Egypt, one of the centers of interest she visited while abroad, this summer.

Dr. Virginia Nyabongo home after study, travel abroad

By MABEL B. CROOKS

NEW YORK CITY — American-born Virginia Simmons Nyabongo walked briskly down the gangplank of the Caronia, Cunard White Star Line, as it docked in New York harbor, the other day.

She was home again after eleven months abroad as a Fulbright research grantee working on an historical study of education in France. As a background, the study included the history of Saint-Cyr — the first school for girls in France — and the biography of Madame de Maintenon, its founder.

Dr. Nyabongo, who was on leave from her position as director of student personnel and professor of French at Tennessee State University in Nashville, has been captivated by French literature since her undergraduate days at Bennett College. Earning two advanced degrees at Wisconsin increased the desire to continue her studies in France.

Franco - American Fellow

She became interested in certain educational aspects of the life of the French when she was a Franco-American Fellow at Grenoble during 1948-39. It was October of last year when Dr. Nyabongo, a rather serious French scholar, embarked on the Queen Mary bound for Paris.

In addition to being a scholar of unlimited enthusiasm in her work and studies, Dr. Nyabongo is an avid reader of French poetry She has traveled extensively in North America and nearby island. Among her works is a book of French poems on Haiti, "Les Parmiers," published in Havana, and "Meditations", a collection of eighteen meditations in two volumes.

Visited India

The Fulbright research grant sent her to libraries and archives in many parts of France. With Fulbright permission she spent two months in India where she was YWCA representative to the World Student Christian Federation at Spiritual Life Centre, Nesrapur Poona, near Bombay. She also saw the coronation. During the year she also visited Ireland, Scotland, Switzerland, Italy, Greece, Turkey, Egypt, Pakistan, and Luxemburg.

"What is your reaction to the Dior change in madam's hemline?" was one of the less serious questions asked Dr. Nyabongo, as she landed. With a certain twinkle in her large brown eyes as she looked at the jauntily cut French suit she was wearing, she smilingly replied:

"It's possible that I'm too 'dull' to have given too much attention to the latest in Paris fashions. Frankly, I didn't go to any of the showings ... But, on second thought, I like what I'm wearing."

Her hemline was quite becoming — and that is sufficient, n'est-ce pas?

FIRST IN 69 YEARS—Deonne Beasley, 18-year-old fine arts sophomore at Drake University, Des Moines, Ia., became the first Negro in the school's 69-year history to vie for the annual homecoming queen honors. Certain of becoming a member of the Queen's Court, if not Queen, Miss Beasley is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas A. Beasley, of Chicago, and is a member of the Zeta Phi Eta professional drama fraternity.

143 1953

Panama Editor Named To Scientific Group

ANCON, CANAL ZONE—George W. Westerman, associate editor of the Panama Tribune, was recently made an associate member of the American Sociological Society. He is the first Panamaian to be so honored since the society's founding in 1906.

Westerman has done extensive research and writings on Panama, particularly on sociological problems affecting hemispheric relations. The honor came as a result of a speech which he delivered in Chicago, Oct. 16 at International House while he was a delegate to the Inter-American Press association meeting here.

Westerman appeared under the auspices of the Labor-Education department of the Roosevelt college. As a result of his speech, the National Assembly of Panama voted through strong resolutions denouncing discriminatory practices in the Canal Zone area and made the speech a permanent part of the assembly records.

Meanwhile, the Isthmian Civic Action society announced that it will publish and distribute 5,000 copies of the speech. Westerman was feted at a surprise buffet at the Balboa Garden by a group of newsmen and diplomats.

Courier p.5
Alma Mater—
Pittsburgh, Pa.
Proud possessor of the second highest honor that her school can bestow upon a woman student, Pittsburgh's Mary Fugot was chosen last week as "Alma Mater" of the University of Pittsburgh.

Youth Awarded $1G Scholarship

NEW YORK — A senior premedical student at Union College, Schenectady, N.Y., who was recommended by the NAACP's youth division, has become the recipient of a $1,000 scholarship awarded by Dr. and Mrs. Robert Loehr. The student is Robert Murray, of Newburgh.

Mr. Murray, who has been accepted for study at the University of Rochester Medical School, was recommended by the NAACP because of his outstanding scholarship and extra-curricular record. He was recently elected to Phi Beta Kappa.

The scholarship carries with it a stipend of $15 per month to be paid to Mr. Murray during his first year in medical school to aid with incidental expenses.

Ohio U. Honors Bennett's Veep

DELAWARE, Ohio—Dr. Willa B. Player, vice president of Bennett College, was given an honorary degree, Doctor of Laws, by Ohio Wesleyan University, Saturday, May 9. Dr. Arthur Flemming, president of the university, conferred the degree on the occasion of the celebration of the university centennial.

Gets Accounting Degree

MISS ROMONA McCLUSKEY, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond McCluskey of 4918 Highland Pl., was awarded the bachelor of science degree in accountancy by St. Louis University last Sunday. Miss McCluskey, an honor graduate of Sumner high school, is the first Negro woman to receive the degree from St. Louis U.

Argus p.1 St. Louis, Mo—
Dec. 26-53

Harland Randolph

Ohio State Seniors Pick Negro

HARLAND RANDOLPH
... by narrow margin

Courier p.5
Pittsburgh, Pa.
Sat. 5-16-53

COLUMBUS, Ohio (ANP)—For the first time in the history of Ohio State University, and perhaps the first time in the history of any Big Ten University, a Negro has been elected president of the senior class.

Harland Randolph of Columbus accomplished this outstanding feat in the campus election last week when he won the senior class presidency by the very narrow margin of twenty-three votes. A total of 3,744 students cast ballots.

Randolph's election is due to two main factors: his overall campus popularity and the fact that the Negro students took advantage of their political power. This has happened at least once before. In 1934, as a result of astute political activity, a Negro student was chairman of the Cap and Gown Committee, and two others held similar high offices.

Randolph is one of the most popular students on the OSU campus and is one of the most outstanding debaters in collegiate circles of the nation. He is a member of several honorary societies and Kappa Alpha Psi social fraternity.

Columbus Youth Named Prexy Of Ohio State Class

COLUMBUS, Ohio — (ANP) — For the first time in the history of Ohio State university and perhaps the first time in the history of any Big Ten university, a Negro has been elected president of the senior class.

Harian Randolph of Columbus accomplished this outstanding feat in the campus election last week when he won the senior class presidency by the narrow margin of 23 votes, when a total of 3,744 students cast their ballots.

Rondalph's election is due to two main factors: his over-all campus popularity and the fact that the Negro students took advantage of their political power. This has happened at least once before. In 1934, as a result of astute political activity a Negro student was chairman of the Cap and Gown Committee, and two others held similar high offices.

Randolph is one of the most popular students on the OSU campus and is one of the most outstanding debaters in collegiate circles of the nation. He is a member of several honorary societies and Kappa Alpha Psi social fraternity.

In commenting upon Randolph's victory, Al Berg, the losing candidate, had these words of high praise:

"The students accomplished more than just electing another senior class president. They judged the calibre of two men and on these criteria, and these criteria alone, selected their senior class president.

"Their selection is a wonderful person who has gained the admiration and respect of not only those who voted for him, but also from the party he opposed."

In thanking those who supported and voted for him, Randolph said, "I shall not let them down. I shall appoint a cabinet of responsible people who will attempt to carry out the wishes of the senior class."

Student At St. Paul's Awarded Scholarship

LAWRENCEVILLE, Va.—Miss Grace Farmer, a Junior at St. Paul's Polytechnic Institute, was selected as the ninth young woman to receive the scholarship awarded annually by graduate members of Alpha Kappa Alpha Sorority in Lawrenceville.

The scholarship is awarded to a

GRACE FARMER

St. Paul's student who has a "B" average or above, and who has made an outstanding contribution to campus life.

MISS FARMER, a native of Louisa, Va., is president of the junior class, a church school teacher, a member of the college choir, assistant conductor in St. Paul's Choral Society, basileus of the undergraduate chapter of Alpha Kappa Alpha Sorority, and a member of Alpha Kappa Mu Honor Society. She was recently elected president of the Student-Faculty Association.

Past awards were made by groups of graduate members who lived or worked in the Lawrenceville community prior to the establishment of the local Gamma Lambda Omega Chapter in 1951. The recipient of last year's scholarship was June Backus of Baltimore, Md.

NU Students Elect McGee To Council

Henry W. McGee, jr., 4734 Ellis, has been elected to the student governing board of Northwestern university. He was an easy victor over his opponent as he rolled up a 368 to 249 count in the balloting.

McGee

A scholarship student at the Medill school of journalism, he transferred to NU from Wilson junior college where he was editor of the Wilson Press and a member of the student council. This is his first year at the Evanston school.

McGee was recently elected president of Foster house, a dormitory in which he lives. He also won membership in Sigma Delta Chi, honorary journalism fraternity.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry W. McGee of the Ellis ave. address.

DR. HOOKER AWARDED FELLOWSHIP

Dr.E.N.Hooker, professor agricultural economics at Hampton Institute, was one of 50 economists to be awarded an economics-in-action fellowship this summer from Case Institute of Technology, Cleveland, Ohio.

The fellowships were awarded on a competitive basis to college teachers of economics in the eastern half of the United States, and were designed to enable the teachers to obtain a first-hand on-the -spot view of how the American economic system actually operates.

The six-week program was divided into plant visitations, lectures and seminars by distinguished economists on current economic problems, and the presentation of new methods and devices used in economic communication. Twenty plants, engaged in manufacturing, marketing, and finance were visited by the fellows.

Journal and Guide
P.3
Sat. August 22, 1953
Norfolk, Va.

14j 1953

Harvard Awards Honorary Degree To John W. Davis

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (ANP) —John Warren Davis, former president of West Virginia State college and now a Point Four director in Liberia, last week was one of 15 noted persons who received honorary degrees from famed Harvard university here.

Recipients of the honors degrees represented leaders in international and civic affairs, education, science, scholarship and the arts.

James B. Conant, president of Harvard, conferred the honorary doctor of laws degree on Davis, now serving as director of the Technical Cooperation Administration in Liberia.

Philosophy Body Names Dr. Knox

WASHINGTON

Dr. Ellis O. Knox, professor of English at Howard University, has been named a Fellow in the Philosophy of Education Society, Otto McClarrin, director of public relations at Howard, announced this week.

The society is a national organization made up of teachers, lecturers, and writers in the field of educational philosphy and educational theory. To be eligible for Fellow status, a member must have gained National prominence in these fields.

Dr. Knox received his early education in the public schools of San. Francisco, Calif. He holds the A. B. degree from the University of California and the M.A. and Ph.D. degrees from the University of Southern California. He has been a member of the College of Liberal Arts faculty at Howard since 1931.

Univ. of Calif. Senior Class Elects Negro President

Los Angeles, Calif., June 30.—(Special)—Robert D. Gibson, 292-A Marsten Ave., a graduate student in the School of Pharmacy at University of California, was recently elected president of the senior class on the campus.

Gibson, a former student at University of Oregon, is married. His wife, Helen, is employed by the Department of Welfare, Division of Aid to Needy Children.

Dr. Canady To Head Psychology Group

Dr. Herman G. Canady, professor of psychology, West Virginia State College, Institute, W. Va., was unanimously selected president-elect of the West Virginia Psychological Association at its spring meeting April 25, Morris Harvey College. Dr. Canady is a charter member of the Association and has contributed extensively to his field of specialization.

GETS SCHOLARSHIP — William E. H. Howard of Athens, Ga., has been awarded a two-year scholarship to study for the doctorate degree in public administration at the Hague Institute in the Netherlands. This will be the third international scholarship that Mr. Howard has received. His other scholarships included one to the University of Glasgow in Scotland, and another to the University of Oslo in Norway.

A magna cum laude graduate of West Virginia State College, and a member of Alpha Phi Alpha Fraternity, Howard is the brother of Larry M. Howard of Greenleaf drive, Norfolk, Va.

Louisville Woman Has Read Works Of Shakespeare About 12 Times

Her Father Was Once A Slave

By MARION PORTER

Mrs. Frances DeBerry, 65, daughter of a slave, makes no particular claim to learning, but her knowledge of Shakespeare would probably astonish a Shakespearean scholar.

One day when she was 13 a visitor came to see her father in Nashville. The little girl was reading about Hamlet in her reader. She asked the visitor if he knew how the story "came out."

"I'll send you a set of Shakespeare and you can see," he replied. He kept his promise.

Reads Works 12 Times

Since then she has been reading Shakespeare for relaxation, edification, and information. She estimates she has read through his complete works about 12 times.

Many of his plays she has read more than 12 times. For instance, "Midsummer Night's Dream," her favorite, she has gone through numerous times. "Love's Labor Lost," the most difficult in her opinion, she considers somewhat of an intellectual exercise.

"The easiest to read, of course, is "Merchant of Venice," she said.

Shakespeare evidently was a student of the Bible, Mrs. DeBerry continued. She quotes excerpts from the Bard and comparable excerpts from the Bible, giving chapter and verse.

Studies Costumes

"In 'Othello' we have 'Good name in man and woman, dear my lord,' Mrs. DeBerry quoted several lines, "and from Solomon we have, 'Good name is rather to be chosen than great riches. . . .'"

This was one of several samples Mrs. DeBerry gave comparing Shakespeare and the Bible.

She observes that none of the poet's comedies were without a note of tragedy and that almost every woman was a "heroine, but few men were heroes."

Her reading of Shakespeare prompted Mrs. DeBerry to make a research in costumes.

'I've Enjoyed Him'

"I really have enough material for a book on costumes," she said. "I believe the morals of a nation or an era are reflected in women's dress."

The shirt-waisted, nine-gored, long-skirted "Gibson Girl" is her favorite costume for this country. Mrs. DeBerry and her daughter, Mrs. Myra Sims live at 719 Magazine. She also has a son, Alfred Tennyson DeBerry, 1022 W. Chestnut. "I once became interested in the works of Alfred Lord Tennyson," she said.

Mrs. DeBerry attended Fisk University, Nashville. She has worked at various jobs, her most recent in a dry-cleaning establishment. She wishes her knowledge of Shakespeare could be applied in some way, perhaps in tutoring.

"I don't know that Shakespeare has done me any practical good—but I've certainly enjoyed him." she said.

Courier-Journal Photo

MRS. FRANCES DeBERRY
A student of Shakespeare

Professor Gets Research Grant

ORANGEBURG, S. C.—Dr. Edward Ferguson, Jr., professor of biology and head of the department at the South Carolina State College at Orangeburg has been awarded a research grant by the American Philosophical Society of Philadelphia to aid in his investigation of the freshwater ostracods of South Carolina.

ADVANCEMENT OF SCIENCE

Also, Dr. Ferguson will present a paper before the Society of Systematic Zoology during the annual session of the American Association for the Advancement of Science to be held December 26-31 in Boston. The title of the paper which describes a new species of freshwater ostracod from Orangeburg County, South Carolina, is "A New Ostracod of the Genus Cypricercus from South Carolina."

INVESTIGATIONS

Dr. Ferguson who has done extensive research on freshwater ostracods has made investigations on members of this Order of Crustacea from Missouri, Maryland, Georgia, and South Carolina. He holds A. B., M. S., and Ph. D. from the University of Illinois. He is a member of the Society of the Sigma Xi, Phi Sigma Biological Society, American Microscopical Society, American Society of Zoologists, Society of Systematic Zoology, Society for the Study of Evolution, and the Association of Southeastern Biologists.

Notre Dame Falls For 'Dega Co-ed

SOUTH BEND—A Talladega College co-ed reigned as queen of the 1953 Cotillion which was the social highlight of Notre Dame's homecoming week-end, and featured the opening of a new social center at the local university.

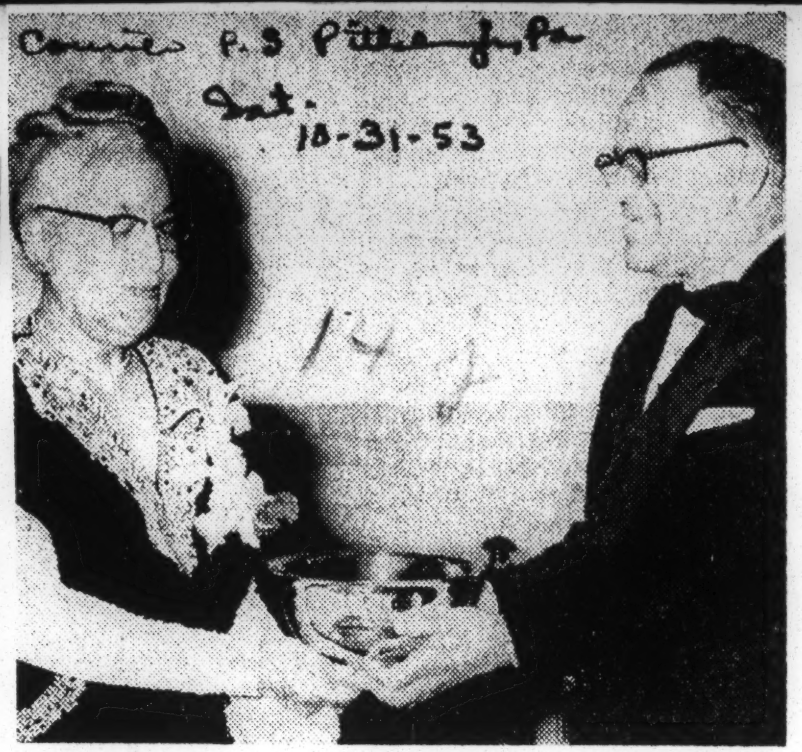
Muriel Blanks of Chicago, the guest of Notre Dame student Elrie Chrite, sophomore and chairman of the 1953 Cotillion dance, gave a talk between the halves of the Notre Dame-Georgia Tech clash, reigned over the dance, attended a Saturday night theatre party, Sunday mass, and a communion breakfast. She reigned as queen over all activities for the entire week-end.

Both Miss Blanks and Chrite hail from Chicago.

* * *

SOUTH BEND, Ind.—For the first time in history, Georgia Tech's football team faced Negro players . . . and saw their thirty-two-game winning streak snapped here Saturday. Notre Dame mauled the Bulldogs in a thrilling game. Being aces for the Irish were Dick Washington, halfback, and Wayne Edmonds, tackle, the first two Negroes to play against Georgia Tech.

MISS MURIEL BLANKS
. . . queen of Notre Dame's Homecoming Cotillion

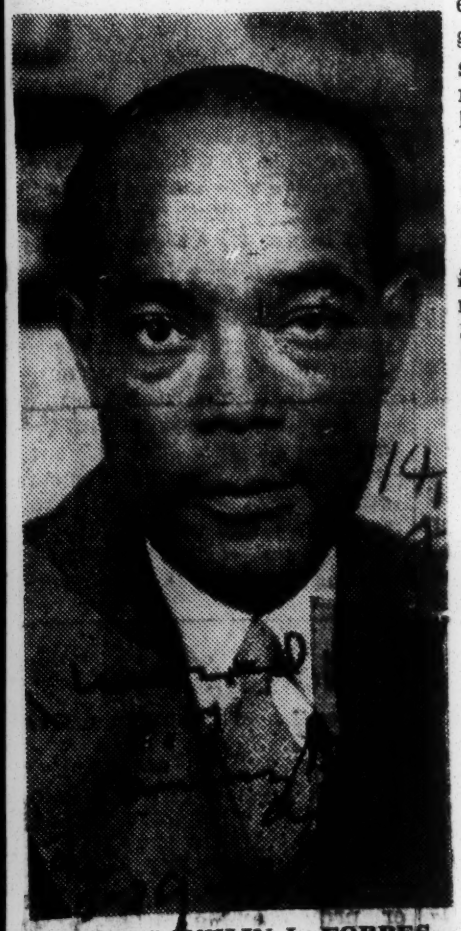


Retires—Dr. Edna Meade Colson, retiring director of the School of Education at Virginia State College, Petersburg, Va., is seen above receiving an engraved silver utility bowl at the hands of President R. P. Daniel at a testimonal dinner given by the college last week in her honor. Dr. Colson had served for forty-four years on the Virginia State faculty. She served under four presidents of the institution including Dr. Johnston, Dr. Gandy, Dr. Foster and Dr. Daniel.—Burke Photo.

14j 1953

Coach F. L. Forbes Earns Ed. D. Degree

Professor Franklin L. Forbes, veteran coach and director of physical education at Morehouse College, has satisfied all requirements for the Ed. D. degree in physical education at New York University, and the degree will be formally awarded at the university's commencement on June 10, 1953.



PROF. FRANKLIN L. FORBES

The well known figure in athletic circles is a graduate of Morehouse with the B. A. degree, 1928; and he holds the M. A. degree in physical education from the University of Michigan. He has also done graduate work in his field at the Springfield YMCA College, Springfield Massachusetts.

Dr. Forbes' thesis subject for his N. Y. U. doctorate is, "A Four-year Undergraduate Professional Education Curriculum for Men Which Combines Physical Education with (1) General Science; (2) Social Science; or (3) Mathematics."

Dr. Forbes brings the number of Morehouse graduates who have earned the coveted doctorate in the great American and foreign universities up to 43, and he brings the number of persons on the Morehouse faculty holding doctorates up to 15 (out of a total faculty of 41).

This June Dr. Forbes will have completed twenty-five years of teaching at Morehouse, and he is one of two teachers who will be honored at the post-commencement banquet on Tuesday evening, June 9, for a quarter of a century of service at the College. The other professor to be so honored is Dr. B. R. Brazeal, dean of the College.

Offer Grant To Negro Student

The Catholic Interracial Council of Chicago this week announced the establishment of the John A. Sullivan scholarship, to give some deserving Negro student four years of school at St. Ignatius high school, 107 W. Roosevelt rd.

Funds for the scholarship are being provided by Chicago attorney John A. Sullivan. The scholarship will be awarded only to the student who received the recommendation of his parish pastor and who lacks the means to attend high school without financial assistance.

Names of candidates for the scholarship and letters of recommendation must be submitted to the Catholic Interracial Council, 21 W. Superior st., not later than Dec. 31.

Awards for Honor Graduates

Ronald Haskell and Loretta Crudup, class leaders among graduates of Medill elementary school, receiving awards from Theodore Kiesz, commander of Medill-Tribune post of American Legion, yesterday as Principal Gerald J. Haley looked on. [TRIBUNE Photo]

59 Get Diplomas

Ronald Haskell, 12, of 1382 W. 13th st., and Loretta Crudup, 12, of 1326 W. 13th st., yesterday were presented the annual awards to outstanding graduating pupils of Joseph Medill elementary school by Theodore Kiesz, commander of the Joseph Medill post of the American Legion. The presentation was held at commencement exercises for a class of 59 pupils. The awards are for scholarship, citizenship, and leadership in school and community activities. The school was named for Joseph Medill, founding editor of THE TRIBUNE. Other awards went to Patricia Gater, 13, of 1331 S. Loomis st.; Charles Hightower, 14, of 1444 14th st.; Delores Thomas, 14, of 1318 S. Throop st.; Vernseal Gibson, 15, of 1448 13th st., and Marie Netter, 14, of 1376 14th st.

Negro Named Outstanding D. C. Pupil

WASHINGTON — (ANP)- Edward David Crockett Jr., last week had the distinct honor of being selected the most outstanding junior pupil in Washington's public and private High schools.

Crockett, a 15-year-old Dunbar high school pupil, was selected by the Washington Post of the Veterans of Foreign Wars.

The VFW certificate of merit and an engraved gold wrist watch was given to Crockett at the annual encampment of the district department of the VFW in the commerce department auditorium.

Crockett is the son of Dr. and Mrs. Edward David Crockett.

Among the three judges for the competition was Col. Campbell Johnson of the Selective Service.

To Study At Sorbonne

IVORY WALLACE JR.
. . . to study in Paris

ADDIS ABABA — Ivory Wallace Jr., instructor of French and English at the Medhane Alem School for the past three years leaves soon for France where he will continue his studies in French Literature, culture, and civilization at the Sorbonne, the University of Paris. This will be Mr. Wallace's second period of study in France as he spent last summer as a student at the University of Grenoble.

Of Kansas City, Mo., and Washington, D. C., Mr. Wallace is a former student of Howard University and a graduate of Miner Teachers College, both in the Nation's capital. He came to Ethiopia in 1950 and was a recruit of Dr. T. T. F. Fletcher who at that time headed the Medhane Alem School for Boys, one of Ethiopia's oldest and most aristocratic schools.

IN PARIS

Mr. Wallace's study in Paris is under the direct supervision of the Middlebury College Graduate School of French in France. Under the plan he is eligible for academic degrees from both Middlebury and the Sorbonne.

He is the brother of Bert Wallace, a former Courier employe now living in New York and working on the New York Daily News. Mr. Wallace is a member of the Alpha Phi Alpha Fraternity.

Winner Of Elks Scholarship Attends Tuskegee Institute

Helen Hermyne Saunders, 1953 honor graduate of Tuskegee Institute High School, now enrolled at Tuskegee Institute, joins that group of 50 students presently at study in the various colleges and universities under sponsorship of the Elks, IBPOEW, resulting from the recent grant to her of a four-year college scholarship. This is the first Elks scholarship awarded to Tuskegee Institute, all other major colleges in Alabama having shared in the education of one or more of the 700 graduates and students supported under the Elks scholarship system.

The $1,000 grant is announced by Grand Commissioner George W. Lee of the Elks Education Department. He said that the Grand Board of Education has elected Helen an Elks scholar in recognition of merit and exceptional promise exhibited in a superior record of high school activity; and further, in recognition of outstanding contribution to the department and meritorious service to the Order performed by her father over an extended period of time.

In a real sense, Miss Saunders herself is a "daughter of Elks." Her father, Harold C. Saunders, an original member and past exalted officer of both Southern Pride Lodge, Montgomery, and Booker T. Washington Lodge, Tuskegee, has been identified with the grand and subordinate organizations of Elks in various official posts, and now heads the James E. Kelley Council of Past Exalted Rulers, and is assistant grand director of public relations. Her mother is Mrs. Hermyne J. Saunders, past daughter ruler of Cosmopolitan Temple of Daughter Elks at Tuskegee.

HELEN HERMYNE

Miss Saunders, who was also the winner of Iota Phi Lambda's 1953 freshman scholarship, awarded by Lambda Chapter at Tuskegee, is a student in Tuskegee Institute's School of Home Economics, and expects to pursue major courses in fashion designing.

Jesse Jones Award Goes To Silsbee Student

AUSTIN—Another "First in the mile stones of "firsts" in Texas, occurred when Robert C. Giles of Silsbee, the first Negro to ever enter the University of Texas School of Journalism was notified that he is one of the winners of the Jesse H. Jones Scholarship Award in the Field of Journalism for 1953-1954.

Mr. Giles' Award amounts to $250—one half of which will be paid on Oct. 26, 1953 and the other half to be paid September of the next semester. Payments will be made through the Bursars office at the University of Texas.

The highest award was won by Joyce Jackson, a white student.

Paul H. Jones, director of Jesse H. Jones Foundation notified the winners.

Bond, First Chicago Metropolitan Scholar, Makes Headway At Fisk

NASHVILLE, Tenn. — Elroy Boyd, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alex Boyd of 13343 S. Langley ave., Chicago, is the first student to Mutual Assurance company scholarship.

The four-year scholarship covering all college expenses, including tuition, room and board, is offered to a student who plans to enter Fisk for study in liberal arts and a major in Business Administration and Economics.

This award, which is the largest single scholarship ever offered at Fisk, is valued at $800 a year, or a total of $3,200 and is made possible by a gift from the Chicago Metropolitan Mutual Assurance company.

WON MARATHON

Bond was declared victor of the field after a marathon which included examinations the writing of an essay on his interest in the field of business and his ideas on the opportunities in the field, and going before a scholarship committee, which was to make the final choice on the basis of character, mental ability, personal recommendations, school record, and the special essay.

During his year at George Washington Carver high school in Chicago, Bond was editor of the school paper, treasurer of the student council and president of the Honor Society.

His scholarship record and reputation for cooperativeness, his genuine friendliness and well-rounded personality at Carver were important factors in his final victory in the contest.

IN ACTIVITIES

Since arriving at Fisk, Bond has displayed the same qualities that he had at Carver. He has begun to enter the campus activities with strong leadership.

His interests are as varied as ever. He is a member of the 100 voice choir, and the basketball squad. The warm personality that has come to be recognized as a Bond characteristic has won him many friends among the students.

FRESHMAN WEEK

Bond, like all other freshmen at Fisk, was required to don the clothes of a "crab" for freshmen week.

One of his great concerns was that his mother know that everyone had to do it. "I wouldn't want her to see me in a picture and think that this is the way I dress away from home."

After his first few days on the Fisk campus, Bond expressed his gratitude to the Chicago Metropolitan Mutual for making it possible for him to come to Fisk.

"Without the scholarship, I may not have been able to attend Fisk, and I will always be grateful for this wonderful opportunity."

14j 1953

Blind Student Leaves Record Which Will Shine Long Time

Special to The Commercial Appeal

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., June 10.—The student records of a university start gathering dust pretty fast after commencement.

But the dust hasn't had much chance yet on blind Searcy Ewell's record at Lincoln University for Negroes here. People keep looking at it.

Ewell, 25, was graduated magna cum laude this week at the university, top student in a class of 84 graduates.

Dr. E. D. Dawson, dean of the college, read the Ewell record and added some of his own recollections on the young fellow whose cheerful outlook and his driving ambition will help other blind youngsters make their own chances in this hurrying world of light and shadow.

Assured Of Start

He's already assured of a start. Ewell has a job at the Arkansas school for the blind in Little Rock.

Dean Dawson said there wasn't the slightest doubt in the minds of the university's faculty recently when they got together to decide on the winner of a special award —the graduate who had shown "the greatest promise for future success." Ewell won it hands down.

The educator chuckled when he recalled that one of the students who read for Ewell was Lillian Gines of Kansas City. She achieved a scholastic record just a little lower than Ewell's.

Dean Dawson traced Searcy Ewell's story from the records and from personal history, starting back when Ewell was a grade school youngster in Kansas City. Here's the way it goes!

The boy already suffering from poor vision, was blinded in a schoolground accident. His parents had to take him from school. Then they moved to St. Louis and put the boy in Missouri's School for the Blind there.

Finished Early

In 11 years he finished grammar and high school.

He went to Stowe Teachers College, a St. Louis school for Negroes who want to enter the teaching profession. Along with two years at Stowe he took two summers of instruction at St. Louis University. Then he came to Lincoln for two and a half years and his degree in education.

For much of the long road to winning his degree he depended on readers and his retentive memory.

He was a part-time student teacher at the Missouri School for the Blind, the institution where he got his basic training. Dean Dawson said "I don't know how he did it" but he taught boxing and swimming among other courses at the School for the Blind.

Wasn't All Books

Ewell needed a little guidance around the Lincoln campus "for about three weeks" after he came here, the dean said. Then he was so sure of his step that he got around with almost no help. In a short while, Dean Dawson said, Ewell knew most of the 600 resident students "just by the sound of their voices" on the campus, in the dormitory or in the cafeteria.

And it wasn't all books for him. The dean said Ewell was a member of the university choir that sang in a number of states this year. He plays both the violin and the saxophone and prefers the classics to the popular tunes.

He got some financial help from the Missouri Association for the Blind. But now he has a wonderful chance to pay that back with interest—using the education he has fought for despite his affliction.

Fellowships Awarded To 3 At Lincoln

LINCOLN UNIVERSITY, Pa. — Three members of the Lincoln university senior class were awarded fellowships for graduate study last week.

Martin L. Kilson of Smoler, Pa., valedictorian of the 1953 class, received a resident fellowship at Harvard university. He will study international and regional affairs.

A Danforth foundation fellowship was received by Kalu Ezera, salutatorian. The Nigerian was one of 50 Danforth recipients.

These scholarships are awarded on the basis of outstanding academic ability, personality, and devotion to his religion.

The Rohm-Haas fellowship of $2,200 went to Theodore R. Whitney, Jr., of Philadelphia. He was selected by the faculty for his high scholarship and character.

Benefit Show

TRIBUNE photo
DOROTHEA TOWLES

Fashions valued at $50,000 will be modeled by Miss Dorothea Towles, Paris model, in a one woman style show at the Sherman hotel this evening. The show is sponsored by the women's committee of the United Negro college fund.

Negro Girl Heads Student Council

NEW YORK.—A Negro student has been elected president of the Student Executive Council of Brooklyn college. She is Miss Claire Thomas of Brooklyn, a junior at the college. For the last year and a half, she has served as secretary of the group.

Miss Thomas plans to enter the field of public administration when she completes her political science course.

Norfolk Girl Wins Music Scholarship At Roanoke

NORFOLK — Talent and hard work paid off this week for a 16-year-old soprano in the form of the coveted annual James A. Bland music scholarship, given by the Virginia Lions Club. The recipient, Miss

MARION KNOX

Marion Knox, won the $250 scholarship for first place in the finals of the state-wide competition among young musicians at Roanoke, Va., Friday, June 12.

Among the June graduates of Booker T. Washington High School, Marion has been "singing all of her life," as one of her teachers put it. A member of the choir at Bank Street Baptist Church, she also sings for special occasions at churches, social affairs and programs.

* * *

WHILE AT Booker T., Marion was a member of the choir, and upon graduating received a vocal music scholarship to Virginia State College, Petersburg, Va.

hTe daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Archie Knox, of 1217 Armstrong street, and the granddaughter of Mrs. Mary Walker of the same address, Marion has been studying voice for about two years with Mrs. Bertha Nelson.

* * *

A MEMBER OF Norfolk's popular younger set, Marion was among the debutantes presented recently. An appearance on a TV program in Roanoke after the contest prevented her from being at the presentation ball held the same night.

Marion entered the finals at Roanoke after winning the semi-finals at the College of William and Mary last month. She hopes to continue studying at Westminister Choir College, Princeton, N. J., this fall, and a local citizens committee is planning a concert to help make her dreams come true.

Blind Student Wins Top Honors

ST. LOUIS — Searcy Ewell, blinded in a school playground accident as a child, was graduated magna cum laude in a class of 84 students at Lincoln University in Jefferson City last Monday.

Earle D. Dawson, dean of the college, said Ewell already has a job at the Arkansas School for the Blind.

Howard Gives Grad $4,000 Scholarship

EAST ORANGE — A 17-year-old graduate of the local high school has been awarded a $1,000 a year scholarship for four years by the College of Liberal Arts of Howard University.

She is Irma Wright, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Claude J. Wright, 20 Irving st., She had an "A" minus average throughout her high school career.

Miss Wright, who will major in education, is the 2,300 in scholarships to 20 members who are 1953 graduates at their annual Cotillion last Friday.

Other Scholarships

She is a member of the Newark Junior Leaguers founded and guided by Mrs. Reynold E. Butch, a member of the Newark Board of Education.

The Junior Leaguers awarded

PREXY TO EX-PREXY—Dr. F. D. Patterson, retiring president of Tuskegee Institute and president-elect of the Phelps-Stokes Fund, has the degree of Doctor of Humane Letters conferred on him by Morehouse President B. E. Mays (right) as Dean B. R. Brazeal adjusts his hood during Morehouse's commencement exercises.

Ala. State Professor Wins 2 Science Research Grants

MONTGOMERY, Ala. — (SNS)— Dr. H. Lewis Van Dyke, Chairman of the Science Department of Alabama State College, Montgomery, has been given two Research Grants to continue his research of the formation of Alkylbenzenes through the Friedel-Crafts, Fittig, and Grignard reactions, using secondary and tertiary carbinols of nine carbons each, benzene and toluee; and the re-investigation of two octylbenzenes through the Grignard Reaction.

One grant is from the Frederick Gardner Cottrell Funds of the Research Corporation of New York, for $2,150. The other is from the American Philosophical Society, Penrose Fund of Philadelphia, for $2,152.

Preliminary work in this field was reported by Dr. Van Dyke at the 114th Meeting of the American Chemical Society, held at St. Louis, Missouri, September, 1948.

Since 1948 work on new phases of the research has been continued and the results thus far of the investigation by Dr. Van Dyke have been made to the American Chemical Society and have been published in the JOURNAL OF ORGANIC CHEMISTRY.

The professor is being ably assisted whenever and wherever possible by Dr. H. Council Trenholm, president of Alabama State College, where the research is being conducted.

SCIENCE BUILDING

The college has a three floor science building for the fields of Biology, Chemistry and Physics, with six research laboratories. Equipment and materials necessary for experiments are being supplied.

The grants to Dr. Van Dyke have served to inspire many students, who are studying at the college for careers in the applied fields of science as well as for the teaching profession.

Dr. Van Dyke, a native of Vandalia, Michigan, received his early training in that city and Three Rivers, Michigan. He received the A. B. degree from Western Michigan College, Kalamazoo; the M. S. degree from the University of Michigan, Ann Arbor, and the Ph. D. from Michigan State College, East Lansing.

LEADING AUTHOR

He is the author of many articles and publications. Among them are co-author of a Syllabus for an Orientation Course in the Physical Sciences; "Let Us Be Health Conscious," (1939) and "Survey Course" (1940), of the ORACLE; "The Place of Survey Courses in the Curriculum," (1941) and "The Demethylation of Alkylbenzenes," (1945), MOREHOUSE JOURNAL OF SCIENCE; "The Need of Science Education," NEGRO COLLEGE QUARTERLY, (1947), and others.

Dr. Van Dyke has held many responsible positions in various organizations. At present he is a member of such honor societies as Alpha Kappa Mu; Beta Kappa Chi; Sigma Xi, and the National Institute of Science.

His professional connections include national association, such as the American Chemical Society; Beta Kappa Chi, and N. I. S. in his specific fields of science.

The awarding of these grants for special research to Dr. Van Dyke is a national recognition of ability and service and the college is very proud to share such recognition.

Scholarships Awarded 99 New Students

Freshmen From Wide Geographical Area To Receive Awards

HAMPTON, Va.—During the academic year 1953-54, Hampton Institute will disburse $78,000 in scholarships and financial aid to worthy students.

This amount is double that distributed ten years ago, reported Collis H. Davis, dean of freshmen at Hampton and chairman of the scholarship committee.

"The demand for financial aid has increased greatly in the last three or four years," he said. "In spite of a considerable increase in the total fund, there is still not enough."

SCHOLARSHIPS for new students are awarded on the basis of competitive examinations given in testing centers set up by the college. The examination, about three and a half hours long, tests the student's general knowledge as well as his ability in language, mathematics, and reading.

In the spring of this year 499 students competed for the Hampton Institute scholarship in 44 testing centers scattered over 28 states. The testing center locations ranged from New York to Mobile, Ala., and from Salisbury, Md., to St. Thomas in the Virgin Islands.

* * *

THE INCREASED number of applications "makes the competition for Hampton Institute scholarship much keener," Dean Davis pointed out.

"The wider geographical spread is roughly the same as that for the student body," Dean Davis continued. "Hampton is not a regional college."

From the 499 competitors in the '53 tests, 99 new students were awarded scholarships at Hampton.

In addition to these scholarships for new students, the committee grants financial aid to continuing students "on the basis of need, satisfactory scholarship, and college citizenship," Mr. Davis explained.

* * *

OF THE 99 to receive scholarships, the first three students to rank in the examinations are, in the order of their grades, students from Phillips Exeter Academy, Exeter, New Hampshire; E. E. Smith High School, Fayetteville, N. C., and Bates High School, Annapolis, Md.

Other schools whose representatives ranked in the top 25 are: Lincoln High School, East St. Louis, Mo.; Newtown High School, Elmhurst, N. Y.; Central High School, Louisville, Ky.; Phenix High School, Hampton, Va.; Armstrong High School, Richmond, Va.; Dunbar High School, Baltimore, Md.; Westinghouse High School, Pittsburgh, Pa.; Dudley High School, Greensboro, N. C.;

Burley High School, Charlottesville, Va.; Langston High School, Danville, Va.; Howard High School, Wilmington, Del.; Brown High School, Winton, N. C., and Randolph High School, Glen Allen, Va.

14j 1953

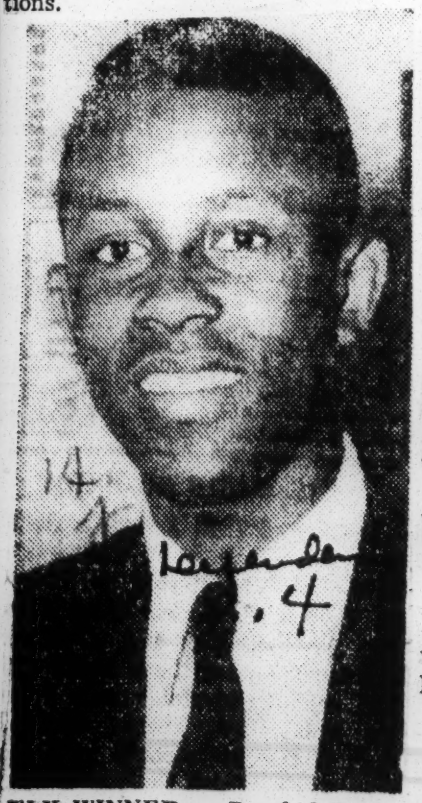
2nd BTW Student Is Science Winner

NORFOLK—Winston Douglas, principal of Booker T. Washington High School, has announced that James Alvin Hayes is the winner of the Bausch and Lomb Optical Company honorary science award medal.

Winners of this award are eligible to compete for the three scholarships sponsored by the company at the University of Rochester in New York.

Hayes, a senior, was also one of th honorable mentions in the 12th annual Science Talent Search. He has an all "A" record in the mathematics courses he has taken during his three and one half years as student.

He has also placed first in several of the Virginia Science Mathematic Congress competitions.



ELK WINNER — Paschal Banks, second year high school student at Corbin high, AM and N college, Pine Bluff, Ark., wins annual state oratorical contest sponsored by the Elks at Little Rock. Banks is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Paschal Banks, sr., of Pine Bluff. He received a loving cup and a trip to New Orleans where he will represent Arkansas in regional contest in July.

Meharry Sophomore Tops In Medical Competition

NASHVILLE, Tenn.—First prize in the 1952 Schering Award contest, national competition for medical students, was awarded last week to Edward Allen Jones, 25, sophomore at Meharry Medical College.

Another Meharry student, Andrew Henry Jackson, was also named for an award in the contest, which was open to undergraduate students in eighty-three medical colleges in the United States and Canada.

Writing on "Steroid Hormones in Geriatrics," young Jones topped all entrants in the annual contest. Jones is a native of Atlanta, Ga.

Presentation of the $500 award to Jones and the $100 prize to Jackson was made by Emanuel de Gomar Jr., executive of Schering Corporation.

Professor To Lecture In Europe

Dr. Robert Rie, professor of modern languages and history at Clark College, Atlanta, Ga., will lecture at leading European universities this summer while abroad on a Carnegie Foundation research grant.

The grant is for continuation in Munich and Vienna of his research to the Congress of Vienna as a course of interational law. His 1950 lecture on that subject in London before the Grotius Society, distinguished international law organization, appeared last year in a book issued by the Grotius group. It deals with lasting effects of the 1815 Congress of Vienna in its reshuffling of Europe after the Napolenic wars.

A University of Vienna graduate and former lawyer, Dr. Rie has been asked to lecture at Bonn, Speyer, Dusseldorf and Munich

$1,125 Art Scholarship Won By Hampton Student

HAMPTON, Va. — Benjamin Wigfall, senior art student at Hampton Institute, has received a $1,125 scholarship from the General Education Board, founded by John D. Rockefeller. Mr. Wigfall, a native of Richmond, Va., who has studied for four years under Dr. Leo Katz, has chosen Iowa State college.

Mr. Wigfall

He plans to go to one of the art centers, eventually perhaps New York, Chicago, or San Francisco. "If I go to New York now, I am afraid I will get indigestion from seeing too many things," he said.

Works On Exhibit

"The Chimneys," perhaps his most famous painting, was published this year in the American Art and Artist I, the yearbook of painting, sculpture and prints.

On May 4, this picture was presented in an exhibit by the Virginia Art Museum in the windows of a department store in Richmond. The Art Museum purchased "The Chimneys" as a part of its permanest collection in 1951.

At present, Mr. Wigfall is working on a mural design as a part of his training.

During his years at Hampton, his talent in art earned him a place in Who's Who in American Universities and Colleges for 1952-53, and his scholastic record placed him on the honor roll of the college.

First Senior Prexy At OSU

Columbus Youth Wins By 23 Votes

COLUMBUS, Ohio (NNPA) — For the first time in the history of Ohio State University, a colored student has been elected president of the senior class.

Harian Randolph of Columbus accomplished this outstanding feat in the campus election last week when he won the senior class presidency by the very narrow margin of 23 votes, when a total of 3,744 students cast their ballots.

Randolph's election is due to two main factors: his over-all campus popularity and the fact that the colored students took advantage of their political power.

This has happened at least once before. In 1934, as a result of astute political activity, a colored student was chairman of the Cap and Gown Committee, and two others held similarly high offices.

Randolph is one of the most popular students on the OSU campus and is one of the most outstanding debaters in collegiate circles of the nation. He is a member of several honorary societies and Kappa Alpha Psi social fraternity.

NCCJ Awards $2,000 For Workshop Study

CHICAGO — The National Council of Christians and Jews will award about $2,000 in scholarships to participants in human relations workshops to be held at Northwestern and the National College of Education at Evanston.

Central State To Award Degrees To White And Segy

WILBERFORCE, Ohio — Central State college will confer honorary degrees on Walter White, NAACP secretary, who will deliver the commencement address, and Ladislas Segy, director, Segy Gallery, New York, an expert on African art.

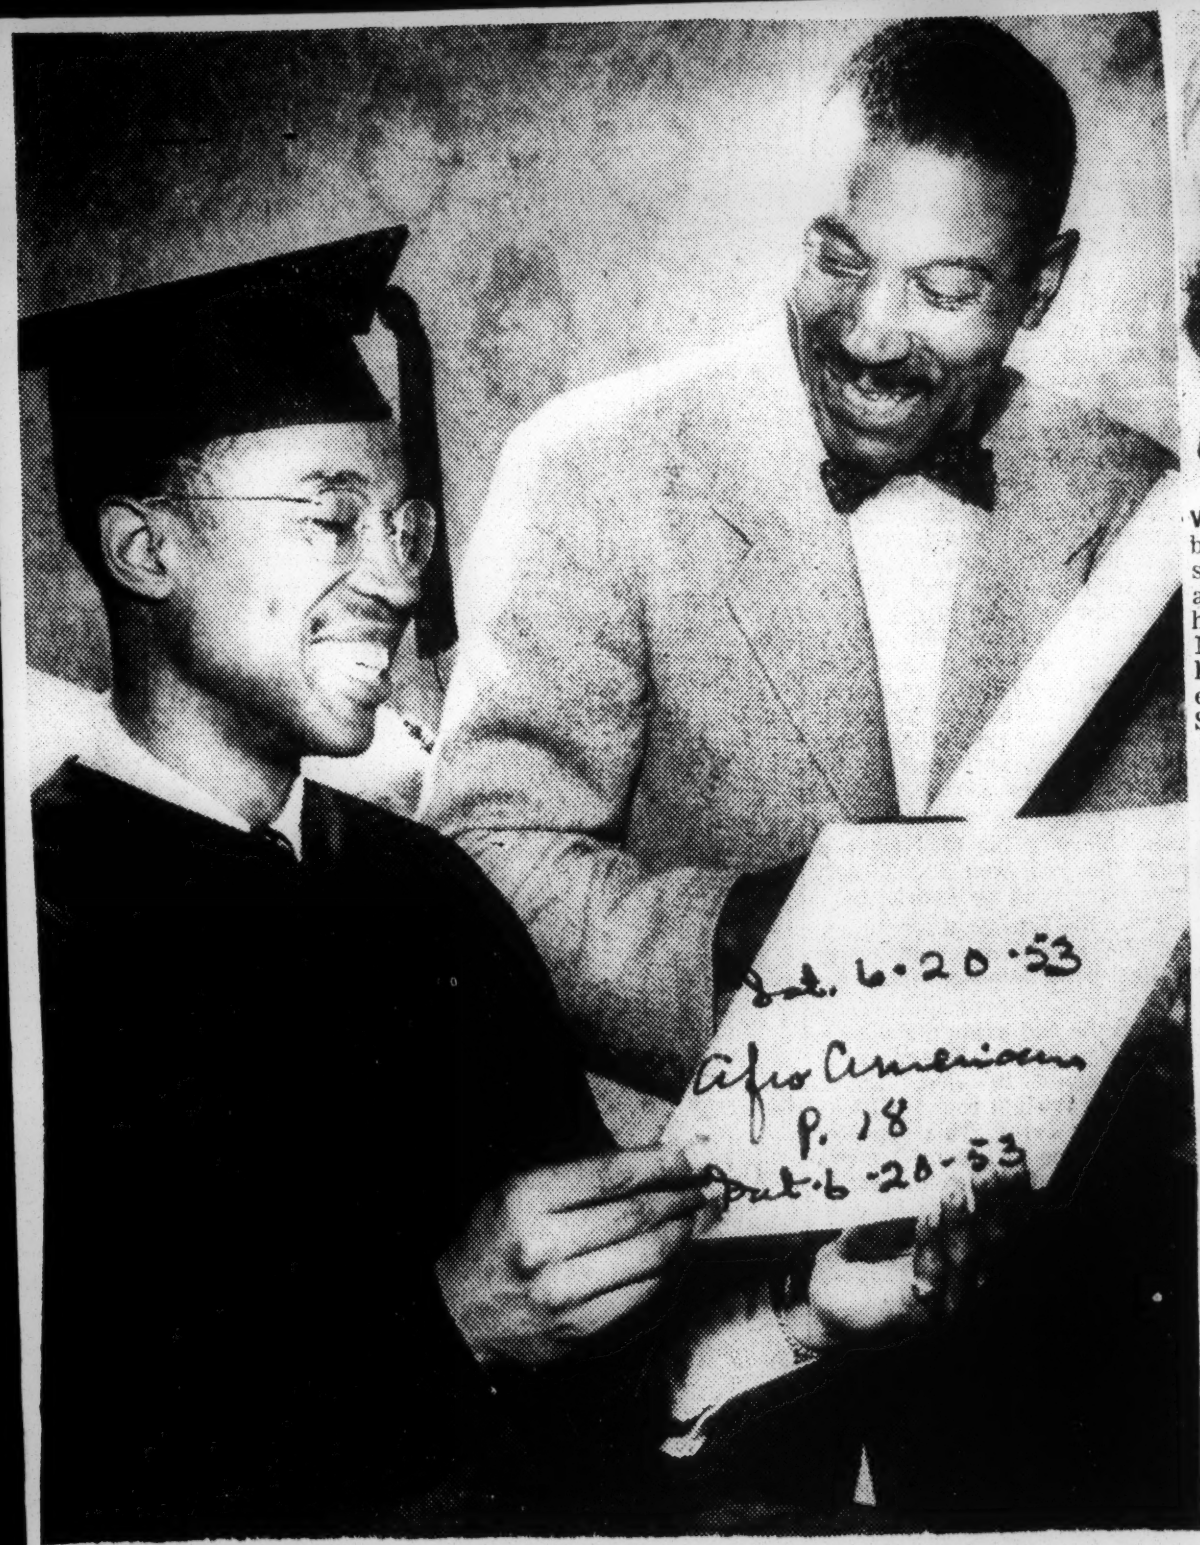
This state institution, with an all-colored board, colored president, and mixed faculty, has no color line. Three white students were enrolled this year and one is a graduate.

White students live on the campus and have colored students as roommates. Dr. Charles H. Wesley is president.

$4,500 Awards Given Students

NEW ORLEANS, La. — Scholarship awards and prizes totaling nearly $4,500 were made to graduates and students at Dillard university this year, according to an announcement last week by Albert W. Dent, president.

One scholarship came from a former student who wrote that a similar award had made it possible for her to remain in school and complete her studies. She sent a check for $300 to aid some worthy student at Dillard.



LIKE FATHER, LIKE SON— Believed to be New Haven's first colored father-son Yale-grad combination are William H. Harris, right, 45, Yale '42, and John E. Harris, 23, Yale '23. The elder Mr. Harris, a principal bio-chemist at the Connecticut State Hospital in Middletown, admires his son's diploma following graduating exercises. Young Harris, who majored in chemistry, will begin work in the fall on his Ph.D. at Brown University where he will serve as an assistant in chemistry.

Afro-American
P. 22

WINS FELLOWSHIP — Barbara R. Edmonds, an honor student at Howard University and a native of Mobile, Ala., has been awarded the Lucy E. Moton travel fellowship. She left the States June 10 for an eight-week tour of England, Scotland and France.

Spelman Seniors Receive Awards

Afro-American
P. 19

ATLANTA — Two fellowships for graduate study were among the awards and prizes received by seniors of Spelman College at commencement services here last week.

Miss LaJune M'Donald, of M'Rae, was given a $1,500 fellowship to study English at Mount Holyoke college. Miss Minnie Rose James of Atlanta received a $1,125 Fellowship to study musicology at Radcliffe and Harvard Colleges, Cambridge, Mass.

Tuition Scholarships

Tuition scholarships were received by Juel Pate Borders of Atlanta, and Lola Jean Scott of Atlanta. Scholarships were also received by Evelyn Cooper of Miami and Thelma Bain, also of Fla.

Other award winners included: Mary L. McKinney and Virginia R. McKinney, both of Cleveland; Alice Gaston, Minnie Rose James, Johnnie Mae Kennebrew, Mary Ann Sanford, Samella E. Waton.

Jarcelyn Fields, Phyllis Jean Dansby of Texas; Edna Ruth Scott of Miss.; Laura M. Williams, Alberta Mitchell, Dorothy Whited, of Ala.; Ann Ingram, Edwina Fields, of St. Louis, Mo.; Wylma White of Texas; Jean Lawton of Detroit; and Gwendolyn Walker.

Sigma Letters For Dr. Locke

Afro-American
P. 11

Dr. Alain Locke, a member of Phi Beta Sigma Fraternity, who retired from Howard University received a bound volume of congratulatory letters from Sigma men throughout the country, who were his pupils during his tenure at the University. The presentation was made at a meeting of Sigma Shadows, Saturday, where Dr. Locke spoke.

Mrs. Edna Forrest Browne, president of the Sigma Shadows presented to the chapter a check toward the annual scholarship fund sponsored by Alpha Sigma to a worthy student at Howard University.

Those present at the meeting were:

Lt. Col. and Mrs. Pollard, Messrs. and Mesdames M. Hall, J. L. Battle, W. H. Smith;

Dr. and Mrs. M. T. Walker, Mr. and Mrs. Boger, Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Harris, Mr. and Mrs. P. L. Moore, Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Bryant, Mr and Mrs. C. H. Tobbs, Jr.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles G. Williams, Mr. and Mrs. Lewis, J. L. S. Hall, J. Browne, James A. Square, John O. Harris, B. H. Early, Robert G. Brooks, H. E. Jones, James Chambers, A. T. Jones, Fred Minis, Charles H. Davis and A. U. Breacey.

14j 1953

Smith Students Select Leaders

New student officers at Smith include Miss Winona Nicholas, left, of Orange, N. J., chairman of the Honor Board, and Miss Elizabeth Saunders of New York, president of Student Council.

Special to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

NORTHAMPTON, Mass., March 24 — Undergraduates of Smith College have elected Miss Elizabeth Lunt Saunders, New York City, junior president of the Student Council and Miss Kathleen Ann Compton of Rosemont, Pa., also a junior, president of the House of Representatives. They will take office following spring vacation, and will serve for one year.

Two other junior class members were elected to head the judicial branches of student government. They are Miss Anne Campbell Drummey of Melrose, Mass., who was elected chairman of the Judicial Board, and Miss Winona Nicholas of Orange, N. J., chairman of the Honor Board.

Miss Saunders, who was business manager of The Sophian, student newspaper, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Hyde Saunders, 1185 Park Avenue, New York City. Miss Compton, a history major, active in many campus activities, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. Stark Compton of Rosemont.

An honors student in history, Miss Drummey is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas J. Drummey of Melrose. Miss Nicholas, an honors student in sociology, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Prelate B. Nicholas of Orange. Both girls are active in campus affairs.

Two Earn $600 Grants At Lincoln

LINCOLN UNIV., Pa. — Dr. Sayre B. Schatz, assistant professor of economics at Lincoln, and Witold Cohn, a junior, have been given grants totaling $1,200 from the Social Science Research Council.

Cohn, a native of Poland, is to do a research study of the actual pricing and merchandising of the Barnsley "Tattersall," one of America's oldest and most famous farmers' markets.

The study, which will make analysis of the methods and process of merchandising by farmers who retail their products at Barnesley, will be supervised by Professor Schatz.

Top Teacher—

Mrs. Leslie A. Bradby, Schofield High School teacher of Aiken, S. C., has been selected as Classroom Teacher of the Year for 1953 by the Negro Educational Review.

Hampton Senior Gets Fellowship

HAMPTON, Va. — Joseph Tazewell, senior at Hampton Institute, has been awarded a $1,500 fellowship in rubber chemistry by the Firestone Tire and Rubber Company. The fellowship will enable Mr. Tazewell to complete the requirements for a M. S. degree at the University of Akron.

SCHOLARSHIP WINNER—Miss Meryle Elaine Perkins, 16, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Lee Perkins, 812 Laurell St., was awarded a college scholarship by the Firestone Tire and Rubber Co. Miss Perkins is a senior at Booker T. Washington high school and will graduate at the close of school this semester.

Negro Girl Named Queen Of White Clark College

VANCOUVER, Wash. — (ANP) —Miss Tehlma Graham, a 21-year-old aspirant to a concert-singing career, last week was crowned "May Queen" at Clark college here, in recognition of her popularity on the campus.

When Miss Graham was announced as the choice of some 500 students to reign as "Queen," the entire student-body gave her a standing ovation. The enthusiasm was repeated when Dr. Paul Gaiser, president of the college, placed a crown of white roses on her black hair.

The stately Miss Graham is the first Negro coed to wear the crown in the 18-year history of the institution. As "Queen," she will reign over the three-day May fete which culminates in a prom. Her all-white court will attend to her during all events.

A contralto, she has been featured in numerous school musical affairs and hopes to attend Willamette university following her last two years of college in preparation for a career as a concert singer.

Miss Graham is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lee Graham of Vancouver.

PRESENTS $400 SCHOLARSHIP.—Hy Baraban, of Hy's Market, 2013 N. 7th St., is shown as he presents Joahn Weaver, top ranking Sumner high school honor student, with a $400 scholarship, at Sumner high school Tuesday morning. Hy stated that he was more than happy to present the award and felt that the public he serves deserves the credit for the scholarships. His market has always been a contributing part of the community with most of his employes living in the immediate vicinity. Baraban contributes annually to the N.A.A.C.P., the Negro College Fund and is a regular depositor at the Douglass State bank. Last year's scholarship went to Edward Foggs.

Brooklyn College Junior Heading Student Council

Miss Claire Thomas

The Student Executive Council at Brooklyn College has elected Claire Thomas, a junior of 758 Macon Street, Brooklyn, as its president. She has served as secretary of the group for the last year and a half.

A political science major, Miss Thomas plans to enter the field of public administration. She is a member of the Social Affairs Board, Junior-Freshman Committee and Booster.

Others elected were Harvey Roth, treasurer; Miss Frances Schwartz, secretary; Miss Helene Wetzler and Maurice Hershenson, representatives to the Faculty-Student Committee on Student Organizations, and Herbert Gelman and Miss Phyllis Mintz, representatives to the Faculty-Student Committee on Publications.

Howard Prof To Conduct Naval Study

WASHINGTON, D. C. — Dr. Madison S. Briscoe, assistant professor of bacteriology, preventive medicine, and public health at Howard University's college of Medicine, will leave for Africa on June 15 to engage in a bacteriological study for the United States Navy.

Dr. Briscoe, who will spend 3 months abroad, will collaborate with U. S. Naval Research Unit No. 3 in studies being conducted in Egypt and the Anglo-Egyptian Sudan. The trip was made possible when the Office of Naval Research recently awarded the Howard teacher a subsistence grant for the period of study.

In Africa Dr. Briscoe will be assigned to the divisions of medical entomology and parasitology where he will be engaged in studies pertaining to the role of arthropods in the transmission of diseases in the Middle East.

This will be Dr. Briscoe's second trip to Africa in recent years. During World War II, he served with the U. S. Army as commanding officer of the 16th Malaria Survey Detachment in Liberia.

A native of Harpers Ferry, W. Va., Dr. Briscoe received his AB degree from Lincoln (Pa.) University, his MA degre from Columbia University, and his PhD degree from the Catholic University. He has been a member of the faculty at Howard since 1941.

Mary Lane Legender New Student Body Prexy

PHILADELPHIA, Pa. — Miss Mary Ethel Lane, a junior medical student at the Woman's Medical college of Pennsylvania here, has been elected president of the Student council, the highest student office in the college.

She was graduated in 1950 from Indiana university, where she was a member of Mortar Board, senior honorary society, and Delta Sigma Theta sorority.

Her parents are Lt. Col. and Mrs. David A. Lane, jr., Louisville, Ky.

Howard Professor Gets Grant To Study Abroad

Dr. Madison S. Briscoe, assistant professor of bacteriology, preventive medicine, and public health at Howard University's College of Medicine, will leave for Africa on June 15 to engage in a bacteriological study for the United States Navy.

Dr. Briscoe, who will spend three months abroad, will collaborate with U. S. Naval Research Unit No. 3 in studies being conducted in Egypt and the Anglo-Egyptian Sudan. The trip was made possible when the Office of Naval Research recently awarded the Howard teacher a subsistence grant for the period of study.

of Alabama, Texas.

He has very recently been brought into international focus because of his high quality of work in the field of sculpture.

Tuskegee Girl '54 "Miss Fisk"

NASHVILLE Tenn. — Jewette Reynolds, junior from Tuskegee, Alabama, has been elected "Miss Fisk 1954."

Her election was the climax of one of the most intensive campaigns in the history of the school with Jewette receiving 231 votes out of a total of 520.

For Jewette, this is not the first time she has won a similar contest. When she was an elementary student in Charles Chiss Children's House at Tuskegee she was elected "Miss Children's House." Her high school career was spent at Palmer Memorial Institute at Sedalia, N. C.

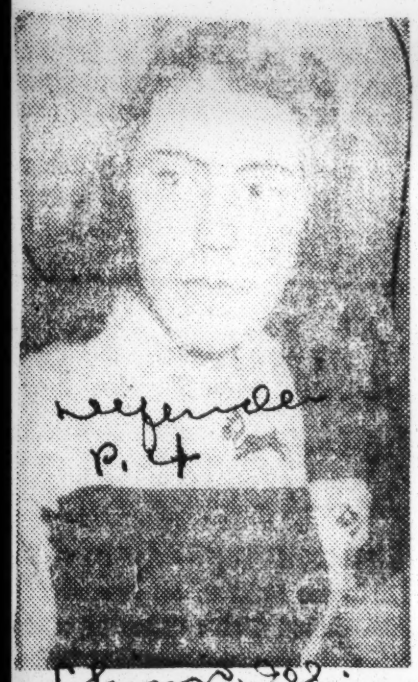
Hathaway Gives Graduation Talk

According to the Courier Journal of May 27, Isaac Scott Hathaway of the Ceramic Department of Alabama State Teachers College, Montgomery, Ala., delivered the commencement address for the college of the Scriptures— Louisville, taking as his subject: "How Does Nature Talk To One?"

At the close of the address, Dr. Tibbs Maxey, president of the college conferred upon Prof. Hathaway the degree of Doctor of Letters.

In 1946 the Louisville Defender cited Prof. Hathaway as being one of ten most outstanding Kentuckians of that year.

In 1952 the Alpha Eta Sigma Chapter of Phi Beta Sigma Fraternity Inc., of which he is a member, cited him for his influence in good race relations, and his outstanding work in the development



AKA SCHOLAR — Joyce Brown Edwards, Louisville, Ky., a junior at Kentucky State college, wins second prize of $500 in Alpha Kappa Alpha National Scholarship contest. The prize was presented last week at the National Boule, in Cleveland. Mrs. Edwards is the wife of Robert Edwards, a recent graduate of Kentucky State and now a member of the U. S. Air Force.

GETS REGIONAL AWARD — Charlotte Outland, senior chemistry major at Knoxville college, Knoxville, Tenn., was recently announced winner of the recent Southeastern Region Scholarship competition sponsored by Alpha Kappa Alpha sorority. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ellis Outland of Boligee, Ala. — Reyes photo.

Test Tubes Pay Off

One of 40 high school seniors throughout the nation to win in the preliminaries of the Westinghouse Science contest, Merle Mitchell, 15-year-old daughter of Mrs. Susie Mitchell, will go to Washington in February to compete for some $11,000 in prize money.

A senior at Booker T. Washington High School, Merle's project in the Analysis of Crude Oil won for her a chance to compete in the finals. Some 33,000 students participated in the contest. She has also won two awards at the Virginia Science Congress, conducted in April each year.

Virginia Girl In Finals Of $11,000 Science Tests

NORFOLK — Almost four years of plugging, and a lot of help from her science instructor combined this week to give a young Booker T. Washington High School senior a chance at a winning portion of the $11,700 in prize money offered yearly in the Westinghouse Science Contest.

The student, 15-year-old Merle Mitchell, daughter of Mrs. Susie Mitchell, of 7849 Ogden street, in Titustown, was notified by telegram on Wednesday that she was one of 40 students in the nation to be eligible for participation in the annual contest.

along the line of chemical analysis and distillation. Her project for the Westinghouse contest was "Mass Analysis of Crude Oil," and it took her two months to get crude oil samples to work with.

* * *

HER INSTRUCTOR, John L Perry, said that Esso Oil sent Merle samples from its New Jersey laboratory, and that the summer was spent boning up on

SOME 33,000 students throughout the nation vied for the right to go to Washington on Feb. 26 and take examinations in an effort to win some of the prize money. Merle will go on Feb. 26 and remain in the nation's capital until March 2 while the exams are being conducted.

"It's just wonderful," she said.

procedure and assembling materials for the project.

In her freshman and sophomore years at Booker T. Merle attended sessions at the Virginia Science Congress of the Virginia Teachers Association, and each year placed in the contests there.

* * *

SHE WON A second place award as a freshman, and as a sophomore she walked off with first place in the "B" division.

This year, because of her selection to participate in the Westinghouse contest, she will automatically take part in the Virginia Academy of Science, at Blackstone.

* * *

OFFICIALS AT the school said that only one other student has come close to winning in the Westinghouse preliminaries. Winston Douglas, principal of the school, said that Mr. Perry had worked closely with the youngster since she started high school.

About the contest next month, Mr. Perry said, "we're just in the water now, we'll have to see how far we can swim."

Merle isn't certain about her choice of a college, but gave Vassar and Radcliffe as her first selections.

To Appear On Program At Atlantic City

Asheville Chamber Of Commerce To Defray Travel Cost

Special to Journal and Guide

ASHEVILLE, N. C. — Miss Mary Lee Bristol, 17-year-old senior at Stephens-Lee High School, is one of six students in the United States that have been asked to participate in a panel discussion to be held in Atlantic City this month. This student panel on Citizen Education is a feature of the American Association of School Administrator's Convention, scheduled Feb. 16-18.

As a member of the panel on "Citizenship Education Project", J. W. Byers, superintendent of Asheville City School, announced that, "Miss Bristol was chosen with five other students from among the 40,000 high school pupils working on citizenship education projects. She is particularly well qualified to tell the story of modern citizenship as the student views it."

* * *

THE PROGRAM, in which Miss Bristol is to participate, is scheduled for Tuesday, Feb. 17, at the Ambassador Hotel in Atlantic City. Special activities, entertainment and programs are being planned for this student group throughout the three days, Feb. 16, 17 and 18, that the School Administrators' Convention will be held.

Miss Bristol, who lives at 214 Fayetteville street will be accompanied to New Jersey by Miss M. J. Rumley, CEP director at Stephens-Lee High School. They are to stay at the Hotel Brighton in Atlantic City. Transportation expenses incurred by Miss Bristol will be paid by the Asheville Chamber of Commerce, whose executive secretary is Arthur Myles Jones. CEP at Columbia University, New York City, sponsor of the event, is taking care of all other necessary arrangements.

* * *

THE EXPLAINING activities of the CEP, Miss Bristol said that during the past year her group had stablished a "Non-partisan Information Bureau" in connection with last year's national political campaigns. This project in improving citizenship included conducting straw votes, political rallies, campaign speeches and other techniques used in the national campaign. Hand bills and door markers were also distributed.

The Citizenship Education Project is sponsored by the Teachers College, Columbia University, and supported primarily with funds of the Carnegie Foundation.

In addition to Miss Bristol, the other five panel members include Thelma Tunnell, Tacoma, Wash., H. Collyer Church, Midland, Mich., William Churchill, Pearl River, New York, General Grimes, Arvada, Colo. and Anne Towne, Stratford, Conn.

One of Six Chosen from 40,000

Miss Mary Lee Bristol, 17-year-old student at Stephens-Lee High School, Asheville, N. C., is one of six students in the United States that have been asked to participate in a panel discussion at Atlantic City, N. J., February 16-18. She was chosen with five others from among the 40,000 high school students working on citizens education projects. Transportation expenses incurred by Miss Bristol on her trip will be borne by the Asheville Chamber of Commerce.

Cornell Scholarship Is National Grant

Rochester Student Wins $5,200 Award

ROCHESTER, N. Y.—Charles F. James, a top honor student at Benjamin Franklin High School, is the winner of a $5,200 Cornell University National Scholarship.

Announcement was made by Frederick E. Darling, chairman of the Committee on Secondary Schools of the Cornell Club of Rochester, at a club luncheon in the Powers Hotel.

Darling added that James won his award in competition with 2,200 high school seniors throughout the country on the basis of his "capacity for scholastic achievement and promise of effective participation in other university activities."

THE SCHOLARSHIP covers full tuition and $600 a year for a four-year course in Cornell's College of Arts and Sciences.

CHARLES F. JAMES

. . . for his capacity, $5,200

James is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest James, 122 Winterroth Street.

He ranks second in a graduating class of 329 at Benjamin Franklin High School, is president of the senior class, vice president of the student association, vice president of Inter-High Choir, secretary of Sigma Beta Hi-Y, and a member of the Spanish Honor and National Honor societies.

He also served as president of his junior class and helped write and stage a musical production for Franklin's Junior Day.

James co-captained the varsity football team last season and is a member of the swimming, track and wrestling squads.

Active in Boy Scout work, he is junior assistant Scoutmaster of Troop 75.

143 1953

AFRICAN EXCHANGE STUDENT

African Student In More Trouble

LOS ANGELES (ANP)—Plainly aggravated and out of patience with an African defendant who claimed ignorance of a serious phase of U.S. criminal law, Deputy District Atty. Mervyn Aggeeler last week proudly denounced Ajamood Ajala, African exchange student who also has played in motion pictures.

Ajala, 24, a psychology student of Santa Monica City college, was appearing in court of this suburb of Los Angeles on charges of having written $1,000 worth of checks on a Santa Monica bank, signing the names of depositors in that bank.

At his preliminary hearing, he had attempted to shift the blame from himself, by turning tables on a white friend, Arnold Welner, an employe of the bank. He said Welner told him that by writing in the names, it would serve as a means of "borrowing money."

Ajala recently completed an important contract role in Twentieth Century-Fox's "White Witch Doctor," but according to reports, his pay was attached through a paternity suit filed against him by a young French nurse he met and becmae intimate with in Hollywood.

14j 1953

ALABAMA SCHOLARSHIP AND EDUCATIONAL FUND

$1,880 Received By Scholarship, Educational Fund

Two contributions amounting to a total of $1,880.12 have been received during the past ten days by the Alabama Scholarship and Educational Fund, announced Emory O. Jackson, chairman.

Jackson said that the Birmingham Branch NAACP sent to the fund $1,080.12 while the Tuskegee Branch reported $800.

A statewide campaign for $15,000 was launched several months ago. The money is to be used to finance action designed to open the doors of the University of Alabama and the Alabama Polytechnic Institute to Negro students.

Two Negro young women have filed applications to the graduate school of the University of Alabama but have not yet been permitted to take up classroom work there. University officials indicated that when they favorably acted upon the applications they did so "by mistake", not knowing the racial identity of the two applying students.

The Alabama Scholarship and Educational Fund is affiliated with the Alabama State Conference of NAACP Branches. Serving as treasurer of the fund is Dr. E. W. Taggart with Mrs. G. R. Lee serving as secretary.

14j 1953

BETA TAU UPSILON HONOR SOCIETY
Tuskegee Institute

Tuskegee Honors 135 On Scholarship Night

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, Ala. (ANP)—Some 10 students were inducted into Beta Tau Upsilon honor society and 125 others received honor certificates during scholarship night held in the chapel at Tuskegee institute.

Dr. F. D. Patterson, retiring president of Tuskegee; Atty Hobart Taylor Jr., Detroit, Mich.; Dr. Carlton L. Lee, chaplain, and Dr. I. A. Derbigny, vice president of Tuskegee, participated in the event.

Students Inducted

Students accepted in the honor society by virtue of having earned an "A" average are: Eunicetine Clark, Walter Evans, Helen Moore, Carol T. Patterson, all of Tuskegee Institute; Alfred Collins, Birmingham; Mrs. Alma R. Hunter, Little Rock, Ark.; Rosa Lara, Tampa, Fla.; MaryV. Myhand, Opelika; Leroy Washington, El Paso, Texas, and Edgar L. Smith, Pittsburgh, Pa.

Receiving James Fund

Also receiving the James Fund awards on scholarship night were several members of the graduating class. Those honored included:

Miss Willie B. Dillard, $700 to do graduate study at Tuskegee.

Miss Millie Player, $1,700, Western Reserve university.

Cedric Thompson, $600, Cornell University.

Miss Naomi Turner, $1800, at Western Reserve university.

Miss Patrick To Cornell

Miss Barbara Williams, $1,800, New York University.

Miss Eula Patrick, general education board scholarship includes tuition and fees, living expenses, railroad fare, and incidentals, to study at Cornell University which amounts to approximately $2,000.

14j 1953

CANADA LEE FOUNDATION

Canada Lee Foundation awards first 2 grants

NEW YORK — (ANP) — The Canada Lee Foundation has awarded its first two grants-in-aid to theatrical students.

Recipients were M. Carl Holman, candidate for a master's degree in fine arts at Yale and Charles Harrigan, recent graduate of the New York School of Performing Arts.

Holman's grant will aid him while he prepares a thesis and play that are required before he proceeds with his academic studies this fall. Last year all of his plays were chosen as the best of the year at the school.

Harrigan's grant will help defray living expenses as an apprentice with the Asbury Park Summer Theatre. He was the only member of his graduating class to be awarded the school's certificate of merit this year.

Missourian Wins Canada Lee Award

NEW YORK. — (ANP) — The Canada Lee foundation last week awarded its first two grants-in-aid to theatrical students, announced Miss Margaret Webster, chairman of the Foundation Scholarship committee.

Recipients of the awards were M. Holman, candidate for a doctor's degree in fine arts at Yale university, and Charles Harrigan, recent graduate of the New York School of Performing Arts.

Holman, a native of St. Louis, attended Lincoln university in Jefferson City.

Holman's grant will aid him while he prepares a thesis and play that are required before he proceeds with his academic studies this fall. Last year a play written by Holman was chosen as the best play of the year at the school.

Harrigan's grant will help defray living expenses as an apprentice with the Asbury Park Summer Theatre, where the scholship commmittee was able to place him. Harrigan was the only member of his graduating class to be awarded the school's Certificate of Merit this year.

14j 1953

CARNEGIE FELLOWSHIP

TSU Prof Gets Grant

HOUSTON, Texas—Albert N Thompson, instructor and audio-visual aids specialist at Texas Southern university, has been granted a Carnegie fellowship for advanced study during the school year 1953-54.

14j 1953

Catholic Scholarship Fund Aids 100 Negro Students

NEW YORK — An editorial in a Catholic publication was the incentive for a scholarship fund which is providing the opportunity for higher education to one hundred Negro students, Mrs. Roger Putnam of Springfield, Mass. revealed here last week at a forum of the Catholic Interracial Council.

Mrs. Putnam said that it was an editorial in the Jesuit Weekly America stating that Catholics of means should aid Negro American youths to receive a Catholic education, which inspired her to found Catholic scholarships for Negroes in 1947 with the aid and assistance of Archbishop Richard J. Cushing of Boston.

STUDENTS AIDED by C. S. N. include 11 Negro teaching nuns engaged in graduate studies. Assisting these sisters to improve their teaching skills is "one of the most valuable aids we can give to our Catholic Negro students in the South, Mrs. Putnam said. Other scholarship students are training for careers in such diverse fields as the priesthood, medicine, law, music, chemistry, architecture and accounting.

Every one of the 22 C.S.N. graduates has stepped immediately into the field of his choice, Mrs. Putnam said. Another 16 who will complete their studies in June will thus qualify for membership in the "alumni" association which aims to help provide funds and opportunities for other Negro youths through the Catholic scholarships for Negroes.

* * *

MRS. PUTNAM, a winner of the James J. Hoey Award for Interracial Justice in 1951 is the president and treasurer of the Catholic Scholarships for Negroes. She sends out as many as ten handwritten appeals daily from the headquarters of the C.S.N. at Springfield, Mass. Funds for the work are received from every section of the country and a number of Catholic colleges and universities have donated full scholarships for outstanding Negro students.

While the majority of the students aided are Catholic, non-Catholics have also been helped. Assistance ranges from financial grants to students with partial means, to full scholarships for talented young men and women unable to afford higher education.

Catholic scholarships for Negroes, Mrs. Putnam said is a 'very practical, simple and humble effort" to undo some of the effects of "prejudice, injustice and lack of opportunity, under which Negro Americans suffer."

Negroes, Aided By Scholarships, Find Jobs Awaiting Them

NEW YORK, (NC)—The 22 college graduates aided by the Catholic Scholarships for Negroes fund stepped immediately into position in the fields of their choice, the Catholic Interracial Council was told here.

Mrs. Roger L. Putnam of Springfield, Mass., foundress of the fund which is providing higher education for 100 Negro students, reported that another 16 students will complete their college work in June. Eleven Negro teaching nuns, engaged in graduate studies, weer also aided through scholarships, Mrs. Putnam said in an address at a forum of the Catholic Interracial Council.

Catholic Scholarships for Negroes, Mrs. Putnam said, is "a very practical, simple and humble effort" to undo some of the effects of "prejudice, injustice and lack of opportunity" under which Negro Americans have suffered.

Wife of the former U. S. Economic Stabilizer, Mrs. Putnam received the James J. Hoey Award for Interracial Justice in 1951.

GETS AWARD — Mrs. Jamye C. Williams, assistant professor of English at Wilberforce university has been awarded a Danforth Foundation for College Teaching Program. Mrs. Williams will begin the study July 27 at the Garret Biblical Institute, Northwestern university, Evanston, Ill.

FREDERICK D. GRAVES AWARDED STUDY GRANT - Daytona Beach, Fla. — Frederick D. Graves, Professor and Chairman of the Division of Social Sciences at Bethune-Cookman College, has just been notified by The Danforth Foundation that he has been awarded a scholarship to work on the project Christian Foundations for College Teaching to be held at Northwestern University from July 27 through August 28. He is one of thirty representatives selected and the only one from the state of Florida.

Mr. Graves has served at Bethune-Cookman College since 1948. Prior to that he served as Principal, Public Schools of West Virginia; Teacher-Business Manager Claflin College and President, Georgia Baptist College.

Mr. Graves is a native of Danville, Virginia. He received the B. S. degree from State Teacher's College, the University of Michigan and has done further study at New York for use. Add salt and pepper to University.

EUGENE WAYMAN JONES
2254 N.Park
Philadelphia 32, Pa.

Doctor of Education
Temple University
Teachers College

See-Folder-14j

Petersburger Gets U. of Va. Degree

The University of Virginia awarded its first doctor of education degree to a colored woman last week. Mrs. Louise Stokes Hunter, of Petersburg, Va., was a member of the summer graduating class of 188.

The first colored student to be admitted to the university was Gregory Swanson, Danville lawyer, who did not complete his law course. Prof. Walter M. Ridley of Virginia State College became the first of his race to get a degree at the university last June. He was awarded the doctor of education degree.

BELIEVED INDIANA'S 'FIRST':

NCC Prof. gets Ed.D. in music

DURHAM, N.C.—A professor of music at North Carolina college is believed to be the first colored recipient of a doctor of education degree in music education from the University of Indiana at Bloomington.

Robert A. John of 619 Morehead avenue, Durham, received this degree at the university on August 7.

John, who joined the NCC's staff in 1951, is a native of Milwaukee, Wis. He received a bachelor's degree at Milwaukee State Teachers college and a master's degree in music at the University of Michigan.

Prior to coming to Durham, he was supervisor of music in the Granville, Ohio, public schools and later head of the music education department at Denison University in Granville.

John also served as choir director of the First Methodist church of Newark, Ohio, and as a captain in the U. S. Army during World War II.

RECEIVES DOCTOR'S DEGREE — Receiving her diploma from Colgate W. Darden, Jr., president of University of Virginia, is Mrs. Louise Stokes Hunter of Petersburg, Va. Mrs. Hunter received the doctor of education degree and is the first colored woman to receive a degree at the doctoral level at the university.

Fort Valley Prof. Earns Doctorate

The above photo is the likeness of Dr. Malcolm A. Davis, a native of Columbus, Mississippi, who recently completed all requirements for the Doctor of Education degree at New York University. The title of his thesis which was done under the sponsorship of Dr. Lou LaBrant is, "A Study of the Personality and Social Interests of a Group of Negro College Freshmen as revealed in their College Compositions."

Dr. Davis is a member of several social and professional organizations and serves as professor of English and Head of the Division of Humanities at the Fort Valley State College, Fort Valley, Georgia.

Professor Is Awarded Ph. D.

PETERSBURG — Mrs. Louise Hunter, associate professor Mathematics at Virginia State College, was awarded the Doctor of Education Degree by the University of Virginia at its Summer Session Graduation Exercises, Saturday morning August 22.

Dr. Hunter has specialized in mathematics and mathematics education at Harvard University, the University of Michigan and the University of Virginia. She received the A.B. degree from Howard University and the Master of Education degree from Harvard University. Prior to beginning her work at the University of Virginia, she pursued a year's study in mathematics at the University of Michigan.

The Doctoral dissertation offered by Mrs. Hunter was titled, "Pre-Freshman Mathematics in State Colleges and Universities." Earlier she had completed a study which was reported in a university bulletin and which concerned "Improvements Needed in the Teaching of Mathematics."

Among the professional organizations and honor societies in which Dr. Hunter holds membership are, the American Mathematical Society, the Mathematical Association of America, the National Council of Teachers of Mathematics, Beta Kappa Chi Honorary Scientific Society, and Kappa Delta Phi Honor Society. She was elected to membership in Kappa Delta Phi during her residence at the University of Virginia.

RECEIVES DOCTORATE—Withro McEnge, professor of industrial education at Tuskegee Institute received his Doctorate of Education degree in Vocational Education from New York University during a recent convocation. Since his graduation from Tuskegee Institute with a certificate in brick masonry and a Bachelor of Science degree in Industrial Arts, Dr. McEnge has received a permanent teachers certificate in industrial arts, University of the State of New York, also his Master of Arts degree in industrial arts from New York University. Dr. McEnge's experience includes six years as a journeyman brick mason and as a teacher of adult education, New York City. For the past seven years Dr. McEnge has served as chairman of the Department of Industrial Education and Interne Supervisor of the School of Mechanical Industries, Tuskegee Institute. The subject of Dr. McEnge's dissertation was: "The Development of Teacher Education Curriculum in Industrial Education with a special emphasis upon industrial interneship. This thesis developed the needs and requirements of future teachers in industrial education for prospective teachers in the United States.

14j 1953

ELIZABETH WILLIAMS MEMORIAL AWARD SCHOLARSHIP

OHIO GIRL TOPS IN DESIGN:

R.I. Advertising Award Goes To Leah Lancaster

By LYDIA T. BROWN -

PROVIDENCE, R.I — Miss Leah Eugenia Lancaster, a native of Akron, Ohio and a junior at the famed Rhode Island School of Design here, became last week the first colored woman ever to win the coveted Elizabeth Williams Memorial Award Scholarship, as the outstanding advertising student in Rhode Island.

She received the award in the foyer of the Sheraton-Biltmore Hotel where she was also honored with a dinner by the Women's Advertising Club of Providence composed mostly of all white members.

Miss Lancaster, while a junior, is but twenty years old, a tall, slender young woman; who likes to wear navy blue and black business suits.

Three Schools Chose Her

She was considered the most deserving and promising young student in advertising by three outstanding schools, the Rhode Island University, the Bryant College, and her own Rhode Island School of Design.

Daughter of Emmer Lancaster of Akron, Ohio, Miss Lancaster, was guided by her father in choosing a career.

Her father serves as the U.S. Department of Commerce advisor on small business for colored people. He considered the advertising business a field in which colored students might be able to further the interest of small business.

Drawing A Long Time

Miss Lancaster has been drawing ever since she can remember and working at advertising designs since she was in the fifth grade when she competed in a poster contest about safety in traffic districts.

Miss Lancaster is very popular at the school and is president of Congdo Dormitory where she lives, it's council and the glee club.

She was nominated to these three offices she laughingly said, "while I was absent from all three meetings."

She is also a member of the student council. At home in Akron she was salutatorian of her graduating high school class.

High Point Lad Wins Elks $1,000 Scholarship

GOLDSBORO, N.C. — During the 33rd annual convention of the North Carolina State Association meeting of Elks, a High Point lad, Theodore Ware, pupil at Penn High School there, won the state oratorical contest.

The award entitles him to a $1,000 Elks scholarship to the college of his choice.

Ware also will compete in the regional finals against similar contestants from six southeastern states and Cuba for the opportunity to appear in the Grand Lodge finals in August.

Young Ware was the first boy to win the contest in several years. The two most recent winnad Mari Terry (1951 and 1952 winners), were from Rocky Mount's BW School and were coached by Mrs. Esmeralda R. Hawkins.

Forty-one in Colleges

George Lee Lists Elks Scholarships

Sat. 10-31-53

MEMPHIS, Tenn.—The scholarship roll for 1953-54 released by George W. Lee, Grand Commissioner of Education for the Elks, shows forty-one boys and girls who are on scholarships under the benefit of the IBPOE of W.

The Elks Department of Education, organized in 1927 by Judge William D. Hueston, has provided more than six hundred and fifty college and university scholarships for its winners.

Lieutenant Lee states that scholarships have not only been given to this year's contest winners, but also to a number of other young men and women who are exceptionally endowed and are unable to finance a college education.

* * *

IN ADDITION to the scholarship program the Elks are making progress in their first step to stamp out illiteracy in America by operating a number of night schools throughout the country carrying on a program of adult education.

Students on the scholarship roll this year are as follows:

Bivins, Mattie Mae, Albany College
Freeman, Gloria, Talladega College
Cherry, T. Reynolds, Cheyney State Col.
Hayes, Joseph, Howard University
Jones, Charles, Morris Brown College
McWorter, Shirley, Fenn College
Perkins, Ardeth, University of Iowa
Pinder, Endilee, Bethune-Cookman
Pitts, William H. Jr., Howard University
Randall, Roland, Morgan State College
Reeder, Herman E., Howard University
Shaw, Ethelrine, Ohio State University
Saunders, Helen H., Tuskegee Institute
Taylor, N. Hueston, Howard University
Thomas, Beulah M., Seattle University
Wilson, Herbert K., Howard University
Smith, Bessie, West Virginia State
Walton, Eugene, University of Washington
Parker, Boutine, Xavier University
Ingraham, LaVonne, University of Colo.
King, Yvonne, Howard University
Amaker, Norman C., Amherst College
Fickling, R. Leon, Notre Dame University
Adams, Delores, Ball State Teachers Col.
Ingram, E. Leona, Bethune-Cookman Col.
Lattimer, James H., Indiana University
Crain, Doris, Southern University
Armfield, Samuel L. III, Va. State College
Thomas, Ernest M. Jr., Xavier University
Simmons, J. Marie, Xavier University
Solomon, Gabriel Wm., U. of California
Highsmith, Harriett, Fisk University
Weaver, Katie, Bethune-Cookman
Walter, Jane, Wayne University
Swanson, Janice, Augustana College
Woods, Beverly, Fisk University
Shepherd, Huey, Long Beach State Col.
Braxton, George, Lincoln University
Ellis, Eleanor, University of California
James, Jusselyn, New York University
Rodgers, Richard, Franklin and Marshall

14j 1953

E.P. DUTTON- JOHN MaCRAE AWARD ....

Conference of ALA to be held June 21 to 29 at Los Angeles.

N.Y. Librarian Receives Award

LOS ANGELES—Mrs. Augusta Baker, children's librarian of the Countee Cullen (135 street) branch of the New York Public library, Wednesday, June 24, will receive the first E. P. Dutton-John Macrae Award for Advanced Study in the Field of Work with Children and Young People, at the Second General Session of the 72nd annual conference of the American Library association in Los Angeles.

The selection was made by a special awards committee, headed by Frances Lander Spain, assistant director of the University of Southern California School of Library Science.

Mrs. Baker proposes to make a study of the role of the children's library in intercultural education, with special emphasis on the Negro, according to Mrs. Spain.

The award includes $1,000 to enable the recipient to undertake the study outlined. Gift of Elliott Macrae, President of the E. P. Dutton company, the E. P. Dutton-John Macrae Award was established recently to be given annually by the American Library association.

The award committee selected Mrs. Baker from 22 aspirants who completed applications. Requests for applications were received from 127 librarians.

Library Award To Mrs. Baker

NEW YORK — Mrs. Augusta Baker, Children's Librarian of the Countee Cullen (125th street) Branch of the New York Public Library, has been selected to receive the first E. P. Dutton-John Macrae Award for Advanced Study in the Field of Work with Children and Young People, it was announced at Chicago headquarters of the American Library Association.

The award committee selected Mrs. Baker from 22 aspirants who completed applications. Requests for applications were received from 127 librarians.

Presentation of the award will be made during the 72nd Annual

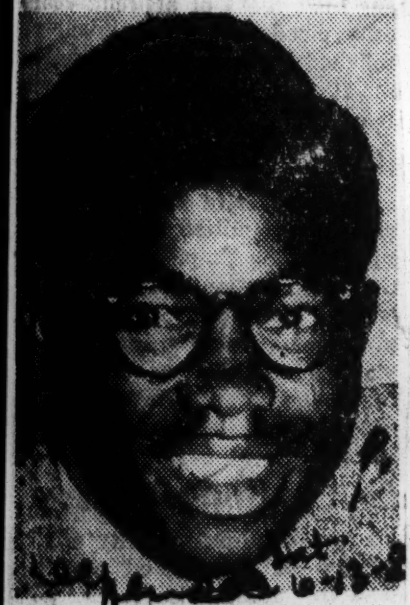
14j 1953

EXCHANGE STUDENT

Ajala Facing Ouster Starts Hunger Strike

SAN PEDRO, Calif. — Mashood Olabisi Ajala, publicity-loving Nigerian exchange student who crashed the movies recently is on a hunger strike in protest against his impending deportation.

Ajala, a former student at Roosevelt college in Chicago, was ordered deported after he was convicted of passing bogus checks in



MASHOOD AJALA

Hollywood after he had been engaged to play a role in a motion picture.

Last summer Ajala attracted wide attention when he bicycled his way from Chicago to California. Later it was learned he had flunked his classes at the Chicago institution.

Last Sunday he climbed a 100-foot radio tower at Terminal Island where he is being held by deportation authorities and threatened to jump unless the decision was changed.

Authorities persuaded him to come back down but he lost his balance and fell 10 feet to the ground wrenching his back. After he was treated, he decided upon a hunger strike to evoke sympathy.

Ajala told officials here that he would be beheaded if he were sent home in disgrace. He asked that he be sent to Canada instead. Authorities are sticking by their decision to send him back to Nigeria where he claims his father is head of one of the major tribes

AFRICAN CHIEF'S SON DIES

Here as Exchange Student, He Was Tuberculosis Victim

Arthur E. Caulker, 28-year-old son of a West African chief, who came to this country five years ago as an exchange student, died a week ago today in Sea View Hospital, Staten Island, where he was a tuberculosis patient, it became known yesterday.

Mr Caulker was an exchange student from Sierra Leone, West Africa, where his father, Albert E. Caulker, is head of the Bomteh chiefdom. He enrolled at Lebanon Valley College, Annville, Pa., in 1948, but soon thereafter contracted tuberculosis. He was admitted to Harlem Hospital in 1950 and transferred later to Sea View.

The Rev. James H. Link, pastor of Immanuel Union Church, Westerleigh, S. I., said members of the Sierra Leone delegation to the United Nations would attend funeral services at the Muslim Funeral Home, Fort Richmond, S. I., at 2:30 P. M. today for the chief's son.

Real America Is Shown to Foreign Students at Yale

Yale News Bureau

Four foreign exchange students get their first briefing on American colleges while relaxing at Yale University. Reuben A. Holden, Yale secretary and director of program, talks to group. Left to right, they are: William L. Tsitsiwu of British Togoland, M. Manuel of India, Eliodoro G. Robles of the Philippines and Charles Thamotheram of Ceylon. All are teachers at home.

Special to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Aug. 9 —Thirty-four exchange students from twenty-three countries are seeking to understand the American way of life, with the aid of a six-weeks' summer course at Yale University.

In its sixth year, the course is designed to show the visitors "what America is in reality, not what we might like it to be," according to Reuben A. Holden, secretary of the university and director of the foreign students' study program.

Mr. Holden emphasized that the cultural background of the students was never put aside. Thus Japanese are reassured that they have cultural values that must be preserved and enhanced, while Europeans are told that this country is willing to fight to conserve cultural values inherited from their civilization.

"We only wish we also had some students from behind the Iron Curtain," Mr. Holden said.

Ecumenical Scholarship Program

Delegation From Foreign Countries Will Attend

New York, N. Y., Sept. 1—Forty young Christians from 14 different countries arrived in the U. S. this fall under the auspices of the Ecumenical Scholarship Exchange program for a year's study in 29 theological seminaries and graduate schools of religion across the country.

The group includes a young woman from Burma, two young men from Ceylon, two from India, others from the Philippines, Egypt, Greece, Holland, France and other countries of Europe. The largest single national group is 10, including two young women, from Germany.

This group brings to 322 the total number aided by the project since it was begun eight years ago by the World Council of Churches and Church World Service. Since 1950 the cooperative program has been conducted by the Department of Ecumenical Relations of the National Council of Churches of Christ in the U. S. A.

"This is one of the most valuable projects in inter-church aid," one dnominational executive has said. "Without exception the students are of high caliber and the seminaries are enthusiastic over their being in residence."

Dr. Robbins W. Barstow, National Council executive in charge of the scholarship exchanges, calls it a program which benefits everyone concerned.

On the one hand, Dr. Barstow said, the experience of the United States, and helping to develop a sense broadens the horizons and con- of world-wide community in Christ tacts of students who return to done as become leaders in the Christian life and thought. During the churches of their own countries. And, he added, the students from ican churches, their own studies and friendships, and their feelings about the world Church.

Typical of how the schools re- them is a quotation from a nary president's letter: "We that our student body has fted greatly by the visits of e foreign students. They are fine young men and we are sed with the work they have as well as their influence mments from the students

An Austrian theological student called his year of advance study "a big experience." It was, he wrote, "a help for me to understand your country better now than by means of press and propaganda and radio, and I hope I could lead the American fellows also to some understanding of our problems.

A young woman from Ceylon, studying religious education, commented on American friendliness work.

al Council executive in charge of the scholarship exchanges, calls it a program which benefits everyone concerned.

On the one hand, Dr. Barstow said, the experience of the United States, and helping to develop a sense broadens the horizons and con- of world-wide community in Christ tacts of students who return to done as become leaders in the Christian life and thought. During the churches of their own countries. And, he added, the students from attend youth conferences or sha here.

Comme themselves in some form of American chur and sense of humor and the greater independence of American girls al: of which she liked.

A divinity student from Holland found that "the reality of Christian fellowship and ecumenical spirit became most real" to him in his friendship with American, German, and Japanses fellow-students.

"A German seminary student wrote that his year at a seminary with other students of half-a-dozen denominations brought home to him "the unity of the one Church of the Lord... which is true across all the differences and divisions."

Scholarship grants are awarded by the seminaries and schools the students attend, and their round-trip travel costs are paid by the Ecumenical Scholarship Exchange program. European scholarship students are nominated by their own church bodies and selected by the Scholarship Committee of the World Council of Churches. From other areas, they are chosen by the national Christian councils of their own countries.

Here follows a complete list of seminaries and schools which have given scholarships, with the number of scholarship students who will attend this year:

Austin Presbyterian Theological Seminary, Austin, Tex., two;
Banger Theological Seminary, Bangor, Mo., one;
Biblical Seminary, New York City, two;
Bonebrake Theological Seminary, Dayton, O., one;
Chicago Theological Seminary, Chicago, Ill., three;
Colgate - Rochester Divinity School, Rochester, N. Y., One;
Drake University College of the Bible, Des Moines, Iowa, one;
Drew University, Madison, N. J., one;
Eden Theological Seminary, Webster Grove, Mo., two;
Episcopal Theological School, Cambridge, Mass., one;
General Assembly Training School Richmond, Va., one;
General Theological Seminary, New York City, one;
Hamma Divinity School, Springfield, O., one
Hartford Theological Seminary, Hartford, Conn., one;
Keuka College, Keuka Park, N. Y., one;
Lutheran Theological Seminary Gettysburg, Pa., one;
New Bruswick Theological Seminary, New Bruswick, N. J., one;
Oberlin College, Graduate School of Theology, Oberlin, O. one;
Ohio State University, Columbus, O., one;
Pacific School of Religion, Berkeley, Cal., one;
Phillips University College of the Bible, Enid, Okla., one;
Princeton Theological Seminary, Princeton, N. J., two;
San Francisco heological Seminary, San Anselmo, Cal., one;
Theological Seminary, of the Evangelical and Reformed Church Lancaster, Pa., one;
Union Theological Seminary, New York City, six;
Union Theological Seminary, Richmond, Va., one;
University of Dubuque Theological Seminary, Dubuque, Iowa, one;
University of Southern California School of Religion, Los Angeles, Cal., one;
Western Theological Seminary, Holland, Mich., one

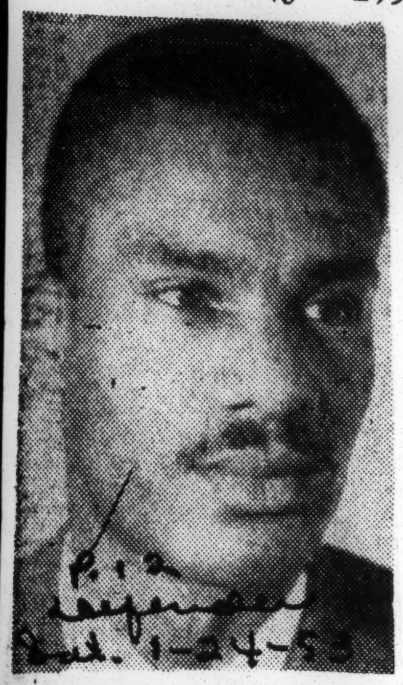
Spurlock Photo

Pierre Shaumba, African minister, takes a photo of two other Crusade Scholars studying at American University, Virginia Maniti of the Philippines and Ratna Sudershanam of India. Twenty-nine scholars from 12 countries are taking the course.

EXCHANGE STUDENT—Samuel D. Nayreau (left) of Monrovia, Liberia, tells Dr. Thomas E. Cotner of the U.S. Office of Education about education in Liberia. Mr. Nayreau is studying civil engineering at Howard University under the teacher and technical training program of the U.S. Office of Education.

14j 1953

FELLOWSHIPS- National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis



FELLOWSHIP WINNERS — two physicians were awarded fellowships by the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis for study during the 1952-53 academic year. Dr. Wendell Lipscomb (top) of Oakland, Calif., is studying public health at the University of Michigan and Dr. Wallace T. Dooley of Kansas City, Kans., is studying pediatrics at Iowa Children's hospital. Eighteen Negro students received scholarship and fellowship awards totaling $40,617.50 for study in fields related to polio care.

14j 1953

Mrs. Margaret Walker Alexander, a prominent poet, lecturer and teacher has been granted a $5,800 Fellowship Award for the academic year 1953-54 to complete a Civil War Novel and do additional study at Yale University. She is an instructor of Language Arts at Jackson College.

$5,800 Fellowship Award

Mrs. Margaret Walker Alexander, instructor at Jackson (Miss.) College, has received a $5,800 Fellowship Award to complete a Civil War novel and do additional study at Yale . . . Hundreds were injured and 1,200 left homeless by a hurricane which struck East London, South Africa . . . Mound Bayou, Miss., all-Negro town, will hear Dr. Archibald Carey Jr. of Chicago when he addresses, on May 1, the second annual Regional Council of Negro Leadership.

MRS. MARGARET WALKER ALEXANDER TO COMPLETE A CIVIL WAR NOVEL ....

14j 1953

FLORINA LASKER FELLOWSHIP

'53 Spellman Grads Get Fellowship

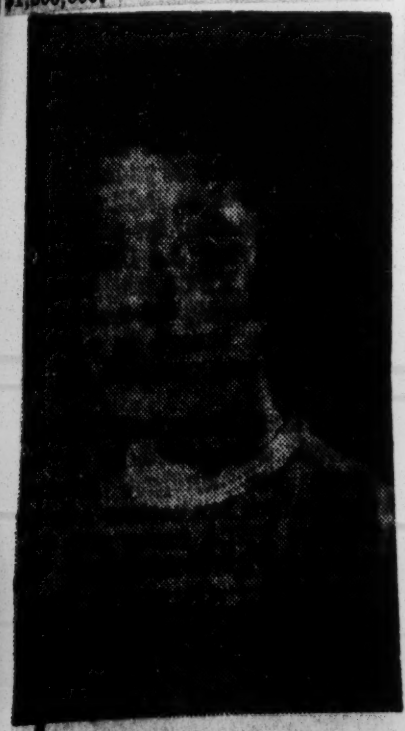
NEW YORK, N.Y.—LaJune McDonald, a 1953 honor graduate of Spelman college, Atlanta, Ga. was awarded a $1,500 Florina Lasker Fellowship for graduate study.

The $25,000 Lasker Fellowship Fund for Negro women, which is administered by the UNCF, was established in 1951 to give annual aid to two women graduates of the Fund's member colleges by financing their first year of study at the graduate school of their choice.

Miss McDonald, a native of McRae Georgia, will do advanced study in the field of English Literature.

She hopes to enter Mount Holyoke this Fall, and intends to become a teacher when she has completed her work toward a Master's degree.

Spellman is one of the 31 private accredited colleges and universities aided each year by the United Negro College Fund, now in its tenth annual campaign for $1,500,000.



A SCHOLARSHIP of $1,500 from the Florina Lasker Fellowship fund was awarded to Miss Betty Jean Washington, graduate of Bennett college, Greensboro, N. C. Miss Washington, who was valedictorian of this year's graduating class at Bennett, plans to enter Syracuse university in September.

THE UNITED Negro College Fund this week announced that LaJune McDonald, 1953 honor graduate of Spelman college, Atlanta, Ga., has been awarded one of the $1,500 Florina Lasker fellowships. She will do graduate study in the field of English and literature at Mount Holyoke. Miss McDonald is a native of McRae, Ga.

Two Graduates Get Fellowships

NEW YORK — W. J. Trent Jr., executive director of the United College Fund has announced that the 1953 Florina Lasker fellowships have been awarded to an honor graduate of each of the two women's colleges associated in the fund.

The winners are Miss Bettye J. Washington, valedictorian of this year's graduating class of Bennett College, Greensboro, N. C. and Miss LaJune McDonald, who graduated with honors from Spelman College, Atlanta, this June.

The $25,000 Florina Lasker fellowship fund which was established in 1951 to give annual aid to two selected colored women by financing their first year of graduate study at schools of their choice, is administered by the United Negro College Fund.

Two fellowships ranging from $1,000 to $2,000 each are awarded each year to candidates selected among the women graduates of 31 private, accredited colleges and universities, associated in the fund.

Bennett Grad Wins Lasker Fellowship

NEW YORK, N. Y.—Bettye Jean Washington, 1953 graduate of Bennett College, Greensboro, N. C. has been awarded a $1500 Florina Lasker Fund Fellowship for graduate study.

BETTYE JEAN WASHINGTON

The $25,000 Lasker Fellowship Fund for Negro women, which is administered by the UNCF, was established in 1951 to give annual aid to two women graduates of the Fund's member colleges by financing their first year of study at the graduate schools of their choice.

Miss Washington, who was valedictorian of this year's graduating class at Bennett, will enter Syracuse University in the Fall to do graduate study in Library Science Miss Washington, who lives at 9428 Michigan Avenue, Chicago, was honored on Senior Day at Bennett as the highest ranking student in her class.

By Florina Lasker Fund

Two Girls Awarded $1,500 Fellowships

LaJUNE McDONALD
Spelman honor grad

BETTYE WASHINGTON
. . . Bennett's No. 1

NEW YORK—LaJune McDonald, 1953 honor graduate of Spelman College, Atlanta, Ga., and Bettye Jean Washington, valedictorian of this years senior class at Bennett College, Greensboro, N. C., have been awarded $1,500 Florina Lasker Fund fellowships for graduate study, according to W. J. Trent Jr., executive director of the United Negro College Fund.

The $25,000 Lasker Fellowship Fund for Negro women, which is administered by the UNCF, was established in 1951 to give annual aid to two women graduates of the fund's member colleges by financing their first year of study at the graduate schools of their choice.

Miss Washington will enter Syracuse University in the fall to do graduate study in Library Science. She lives in Chicago.

Miss McDonald, a native of McRae, Ga., will do advanced study in the field of English Literature. She hopes to enter Mount Holyoke this fall.

Evening College Head Awarded Ford Fellowship

NORFOLK, Va. — (ANP — Dr G. W. C. Brown, supervisor of the Evening College of Norfolk Division of Virginia State college, has been awarded an internship by the Ford Fund at Columbia university.

The educator has been granted a leave of absence from the college next semester to take advantage of the award.

Dr. Brown attended a three-day meeting at Ann Arbor, Mich. of the 39 internees of the Ford Fund, their educational advisors and members of the Ford Development committee which administers the fund.

Dr. Brown started with the Norfolk Division of Virginia State college when it was the Norfolk Unit of Virginia Union university, Richmond. Va., of which he is a graduate. He saw the unit become Norfolk Polytechnic institute and later the Norfolk Division of Virginia State college.

During the intervening years he made sacrifices to keep the project alive. For his pioneering work he was cited by the Norfolk Journal and Guide some years ago as "Citizen of the Year" in the field of education. Dr. Brown holds the master's degree from Columbia university.

Dr. Brown Gets Ford Fellowship

NORFOLK, Va. (ANP) — Dr G. W. C. Brown, supervisor of the Evening College of Norfolk Division of Virginia State college, has been awarded an internship by the Ford Fund at Columbia university.

The educator has been granted a leave of absence from the college next semester to take advantage of the award.

Dr. Brown attended a three-day meeting at Ann Arbor, Mich. of the 39 internees of the Ford Fund, their educational advisors and members of the Ford development committe which administers the fund.

College Head Awarded Ford Fellowship

NORFOLK, Va. (ANP) — Dr. G. W. C. Brown, supervisor of the Evening College of Norfolk Division of Virginia State college, has been awarded an internship by the Ford Fund at Columbia university.

The educator has been granted a leave of absence from the college next semester to take advantage of the award.

Dr. Brown attended a three-day meeting at Ann Arbor, Mich., of the 39 internees of the Ford Fund, their educational advisors and members of the Ford Development Committee which administers the fund.

Dr. Brown started with the Norfolk Unit of Virginia Union university, Richmond, Va., of which he is a graduate. He saw the unit become Norfolk Polytechnic Institute and later the Norfolk Division of Virginia State college.

During the intervening years he made many sacrifices to keep the project alive. For his pioneering work he was cited by the Norfolk Journal and Guide some years ago as "Citizen of the Year" in the field of education. Dr. Brown holds the master's degree from Columbia university.

Ford Grant To Dr. Ruth Horry

DURHAM, N.C. — Professor Ruth N. Horry of the French and Spanish departments at North Carolina College, Durham, has received a Ford foundation fellowship to study in France during 1954.

Dr. Horry thus becomes the fourth NCC professor to receive a Ford grant. Three other NCC professors are currently in Europe studying under the same grant. They are Drs. Marjorie Brown, mathematics; Ernest M. Manassee, German and philosophy; and Alvin W. Rose, sociology.

Howard Graduate

Miss Horry, who received her doctor of philosophy degree at New York University in 1948, has been at NCC since 1949. She received her undergraduate training at Talladega College and she later did graudate work at Howard University.

The Ford grant to the NCC savant has been made for her to complete a project designated as "Religious Symbolism in the Theatre of Paul Claudel."

Dr. Horry is a member of the American Association of University Professors, the American Association of Teachers of French, and numerous other professional and learned organizations.

In addition to her proposed study at the Sorbonne in Paris, Dr. Horry will also study at the University of Chicago.

To Study In Paris On A Ford Grant

DURHAM, N. C. — Dr. Ruth N. Horry, professor of French and Spanish at North Carolina College, becomes the fourth NCC professor to receive a Ford grant. She has received a Ford fellowship to study in France during 1954.

The three other professors currently in Europe studying under the grant are Ernest M. Manassee, German and philosophy; Dr. Marjorie Brown, mathematics, and Alvin W. Rose, sociology.

DR. RUTH N. HORRY

* * *

MISS HORRY, who received her doctor of philosophy degree at New York University in 1948, has been at North Carolina College since 1949. She received her undergraduate training at Talladega College and later did graduate work at Howard University. Her doctoral thesis was entitled "The Humanitarianism of Frances Coppe."

The Ford grant to Dr. Horry has been made for her to complete a project designated as "Religious Symbolism in the Theatre of Paul Claudel."

She is a member of the American Association of University Professors, the American Associations of Teachers of French, and numerous other professional organizations.

* * *

IN ADDITION to her proposed study at the Sorbonne in Paris, Dr. Horry will also study at the University of Chicago.

Morgan Teacher Gets $8,000 Grant

BALTIMORE — Dr. Clarence F. Stephens, head of the mathematics department at Morgan State college, has been awarded a Ford fellowship grant of $8,000 for advance research in mathematics.

It is believed that Dr. Stephens will conduct his research at Princeton University, Princeton, N.J.

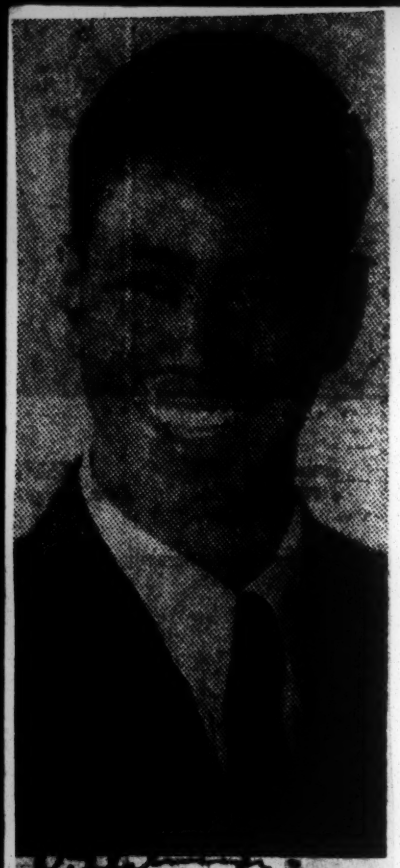
Dr. Stephens, who has been on the Morgan faculty since 1947, holds a B. S. degree from Johnson Smith university and received his M.A. and Ph.D from the University of Michigan.

A member of the Mathematics Association of America and the American Mathematical Society, he has had several articles published in national mathematical journals.

Dr. Stephens lives with his wife and two children at 1014 W. 43rd st.

FORD FELLOW — Dr. Thomas D. Jarrett, associate professor of English at Atlanta university, Ga., has received a Ford Foundation fellowship to enable him to carry on a research project abroad during the coming academic year. Special attention will be given the teaching of American literature at the Universities of London, Cambridge and Manchester.

PV SCHOLAR — Jonel L. Brown, II, son of Dr. and Mrs. J. L. Brown, has received a Ford scholarship to attend Morehouse college, Atlanta, Ga. Brown is one of the honor graduates of Prairie View Training high school of the class of 1953.



PRECOCIOUS—Peter Ralph Chatard Jr., 16, of 2122 Caffin Avenue, New Orleans, a Ford Foundation scholarship winner, has returned home for the summer vacation from Morehouse College, Atlanta, Ga., where he led his freshman class for the past three semesters.

14j 1953

Dr. G. W. C. Brown Ends Adult Education Study

NORFOLK — Dr. G. W. C. Brown, supervisor of the evening college at the Norfolk Division of Virginia State College has just completed a study-project in the field of adult education. Dr. Brown received a scholarship from the Ford Foundation Fund for Adult Education last January to conduct a study-project at Columbia University under the supervision of Dr. Paul L. Essert, executive officer of the Adult Education Institute at Columbia.

The subject of the study-project upon which Dr. Brown worked was—"How to Find and Train volunteers to teach illiterates." In his 90-page report to the Ford Fund the following were his chief observations:

Illiteracy is being removed in this country much too slow. There were 4 1/2 million illiterates in 1940; in 1950 this figure had dropped to four million. This number is roughly broken down to two million Negroes, one million foreign born whites, and one million native whites.

MOST OF THE two million Negroes and the one million native whites are found in the South. Some of the southern states are not in position to finance an adequate educational program comparable to such states as New York, New Jersey, and California, even if they did not attempt operating two systems because of segregation. With the double school system, to incorporate a program in adult education is almost impossible.

Illiteracy not only is most costly to the United States because it curtails production and reduces the nation's potential fighting strength, but even more serious—our very security and survival are at stake.

* * *

WE ARE IN a race with Russia and its communistic ambitions for Asia and Africa—that Asians—colored people—had no faith in America's democracy because of the way Negroes are mistreated in this country. Brown's thesis was, "Rid the South of its illiteracy and whites will learn to live with and treat Negroes as other humans are treated. Negroes who have embraced literacy, culture and knowledge of their environments will then be accepted by the majority group. The two people living side by side with mutual respect and understanding would win Asiatics to our democratic way of life and peace."

America should begin a crusade against illiteracy at once, that this program must be much broader than mere literacy training. It must inculcate in all persons the desire and will to learn as long as life lasts. It must train them to live sane healthy lives, to appreciate decent homes, to spend their leisure time sensibly and to intelligently participate in community life.

In his "future steps" Dr. Brown set up a proposed organizational program so that adult leaders and teachers might be trained to carry out this program of fundamental education on a volunteer basis. He urged that some national white organization should undertake a similar program for southern whites.

DONALD HICKMAN

DAVID HICKMAN

PATRICIA McGILL

3 Central High Students Win Ford Foundation Scholarships

A 15-year-old girl and 16-year-old twin boys, all of whom last year attended Central High School, have been awarded college scholarships by the Ford Foundation.

Patricia J. McGill, 1015 Forrest, who will skip her last two years of high school, has enrolled in Fisk University, Nashville. She plans to complete her high-school work there in one year and receive a bachelor's degree after four years of college study.

Patricia, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ulysses McGill, plays the violin and piano and was a member of the Central High band and orchestra. It is unusual for the Ford Foundation to award a scholarship to a student before the junior year in high school. The foundation for a number of years has sent students to college after their junior year in high school.

Active In Scouting

The twins are Donald and David Hickman, sons of Mrs. Lucille Hickman, 1331 W. Chestnut. They have entered Morehouse College, Atlanta, skipping their senior year at Central.

The twins have been active in boy scouting here, having served as junior counselors at camp this summer. They were business managers of the Central football and basketball teams.

The Hickman boys and Patricia scored unusually high on general-aptitude tests they took in applying for the scholarships. The grants will pay all their tuition and expenses.

Mrs. Hickman supports the twins and her invalid mother by doing domestic work.

Tuskegee Institute Awarded Research Ford Fellowship

TUSKEGEE, Ala., Oct. 3—Dr. L. H. Foster, president of Tuskegee Institute, announced today that a fellowship grant, sponsored by the Ford Foundation of New York City, has been received by the Institute to support a project of Dr. T. M. Campbell St. field agent, USDA (retired).

The project, already under way, involves the completion of a report on the progress and problems of the Negro farmer in the United States with special emphasis on the growth of extension work with Negro people.

Having served the Negro farmer more than 46 years as field agent for the United States Department of Agriculture, Mr. Campbell is well fitted for the assignment.

From his personal experiences in the work, combined with well kept records, Mr. Campbell will, no doubt, produce a report of outstanding importance.

For Students Under 17 Years of Age

Ford Program Grants $100,000 To Morehouse's 'Most Gifted'

ATLANTA—The Ford Foundation-sponsored program which Morehouse College instituted in September, 1952, for exceptional young men under 16½ years of age has been extended, thanks to a generous grant of $100,000 ($90,000 from the Ford Foundation and $10,000 from another source), according to an announcement by President Benjamin E. Mays of Morehouse College.

Instead of permitting two groups (up to thirty in each group) of these "pre-induction" students to study on all-expense scholarships for two years, as originally planned, the increase in funds will permit an additional thirty-man group to get two years of college work done before reaching Army induction age, with all expenses paid, thus extending the operation of the program from four to six years.

* * *

THE FUND for the advancement of education (the Ford Foundation), under this plan, provides all-expense scholarships of $373 to $750 per student for the first two years of college work (available the second year on condition the student does well the first year).

The extended program also provides some funds for those students who, having done well the first two years under the program, will wish to complete their college training but lack sufficient money to pay for it.

The fund will give limited help to such men during their junior and senior years.

Under the original plan, Morehouse admitted twenty-nine young men in September, 1952, with up to thirty scholarships available for the fall of 1953. The new arrangement will permit thirty more to enter in September, 1954, and an additional thirty in September, 1955.

THE FORD scholarships are open to all high school students (male) who have completed the work of the tenth grade and who will be 16½ years old or under at the time of registration at Morehouse. They must pass an examination administered by a representative of the college and must be recommended by their high school principals as possessing good character and showing promise. The new arrangement extends the age limit to 17 years. Those who are awarded the Ford scholarships are admitted to Morehouse will full freshman standing.

Program Extended

President Benjamin E. Mays of Morehouse College announced that the Ford Foundation Scholarship program at Morehouse has been extended for two years, allowing more exceptional boys under 16½ years of age to receive two years' college training before reaching Army induction age.

The all-expense scholarships financed by $90,000 grant from the foundation and $10,000 from other sources was instituted at Morehouse last September, Mays said.

Professor Gets Ford Scholarship

INSTITUTE, West Virginia — Dr. Sophia Phillips Nelson, associate professor of English at West Virginia State college, was recently awarded a Ford Foundation scholarship of $4,400 to study for one year at the University of Chicago.

This information was sent to Dr. Nelson in a letter from John K. Weiss, secretary of the committee on faculty fellowship of the foundation.

Dr. Nelson, a native of Pittsburgh, lives with her mother, Mrs. Sophia Bailey Nelson, at 1044 Blackadore ave., Pittsburgh.

She is an honor graduate of the Westinghouse high school, '34, and the University of Pittsburgh in the class of 1938, where she was assisted by a state scholarship grant. Her master's degree was earned at Atlanta University and the Ph.D. from the University of Pittsburgh.

DR. SOPHIA P. NELSON

Language Teacher Here Gets $4,900 Fellowship

Mrs. Maxine Whedbee, French and Spanish teacher at Jackson Junior High, is the winner of a $4,900 traveling fellowship given by the Fund for the Advancement of Education, a Ford Foundation subsidiary.

She will take a year's leave of absence beginning in September. She plans to take some courses at the University of California at Los Angeles, and visit schools in a number of states, including Texas, Arizona, New Mexico, Louisiana, and Florida.

Mrs. Whedbee, 1700 W. Oak, a sister of singer Billy Eckstine, is the second Louisville teacher to win such a fellowship. Miss Winifred D. Broderick, social-studies teacher at Theodore Ahrens Trade High School, was awarded one for the current school year.

To Make Tape Recordings

The purpose of the fellowship, Mrs. Whedbee said, is enrichment of a teacher's background. She wants to find more interesting ways of teaching foreign languages. She plans to take pictures and make tape recordings on her travels.

She hopes to visit Mexico and perhaps study at the University of Mexico. She also is interested Girl Scout encampment in Mexico City.

Mrs. Whedbee is eager to visit schools in New Orleans and San Diego, where foreign languages are taught in the elementary grades. She believes this is "the coming thing."

She has a bachelor's degree from the University of Pittsburgh and a master's degree from Indiana University. She has taught at Jackson Junior High seven years and formerly taught in Washington, D. C. She is a native of Pittsburgh.

Mrs. Whedbee has a 19-year-old daughter, Mrs. Carole W. Adams, and an 8-week-old grandchild.

She is a member of Alpha Kappa Alpha Sorority and of the Association of Modern Language Teachers.

Courier-Journal Photo

MRS. MAXINE WHEDBEE

To study and travel

Bennett Teacher Gets Fellowship

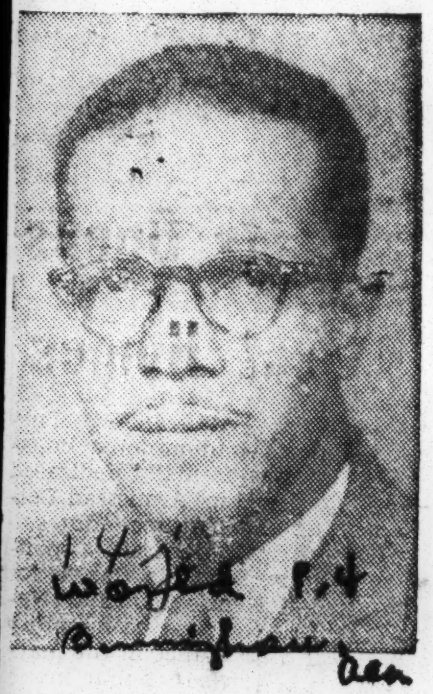
CLEVELAND — Frenise Avedis Logan, instructor in history at Bennett college, Greensboro, N. C. has been awarded a one year foreign study and research fellowship by the Ford foundation.

A native of Cleveland, she will do her study in South Asia.

Announcement of the award was made this week by Gordon Gray, chairman of the foundation board on overseas training and research.

Dr. Jarrett Receives Ford Foundation Study Fellowship

Dr. Thomas D. Jarrett, Associate Professor of English at Atlanta University, has received a Ford Foundation fellowship which will enable him to carry on a research project abroad during the coming academic year. His special attention will be given to the teaching of American literature at the Universities of London, Cambridge and Manchester.



THOMAS D. JARRETT

Dr. Jarretts field of specialization is Nineteenth and Twentieth Century English and American Literature. While abroad he plans to study the impact of American literature upon Europeans as it is revealed through instruction and discussion in British universities with the idea of utilizing the information to broaden his own interpretative frame in the teaching of American literature.

Dr. Jarett was appointed to the faculty of Atlanta University in 1947. He previously had served as a teacher in Central High School, Paris, Tennessee; and on the English faculties of Knoxville College and Louisville Municipal College.

Holder of an A. B. degree from Knoxville College, an A. M. from Fisk University, and a Ph. D degree from the University of Chicago, he is a member of such organizations as the National Council of Teachers of English, the College Language Association and the American Association of University Professors.

His writings have appeared in the English Journal, Phylon, the Georgia Review, the Journal of Negro Education, Opportunity and other publications. Since 1948, he has been the Book Review and Poetry Editor of Phylon, the Atlanta University Review of Race and Culture.

97 Awarded Ford Foundation Grants

Fellowships Total $488,150; Bennett Instuctor In Group

NEW YORK — Gordon Gray, chairman of the Ford Foundation board on overseas training and research, released last week the list of winners of the second series of foreign study and research fellowships awarded by the foundation for 1953-54.

These awards, totaling $488,150 are for periods of from 1 to 2½ years, will enable 97 young Americans to begin or continue studies concerning Asia, the Near and Middle East, Mr. Gay said.

The recipients, selected from approximately 650 applicants, range in age from 20 to 42, their average age being 29. Eighty-eight of them are men and nine are women.

14 Fields Represented

Special fields of interest represented are:

History, 20; anthropology and international relations, 13 each; area studies and home economics, 10 each; political science, 11; journalism, 4; government, sociology and literature, 3 each; geography, 2, and philosophy, communications and law one each.

"The distribution by geographic areas is as follows:

China and Japan, 25; India and Pakistan, 30; Southeast Asia, 17; and the Near and Middle East 25. Twenty-nine awards were made for study in the United States, 52 abroad and 16 for study both in this country and abroad.

Announcement of this program was made Nov. 30, 1952. It is expected that a similar program will be announced next fall. The first series of fellowships totaled $473,850, awarded to 83 individuals.

Recipients, by states, are:

CONNECTICUT

Harold C. Conklin, New Haven, graduate student, Yale university. One year. Southeast Asia.

William A. Edmonds, Hamden, graduate student, McGill university. One year. Near and Middle East.

Dunning Idle IV, New Haven, graduate student, Yale university. One year additional to present fellowship. Southeast Asia.

Melville T. Kennedy Jr., Norwichtown, graduate student, Harvard. One year. Far East.

Miss Allene M. Roche, Old Lyme, student, University of Connecticut. One year. South Asia.

Miss Jeanette A. Wakin, Bridgeport, graduate student, Columbia. One year additional to present fellowship. Near and Middle East.

MASSACHUSETTS

Dr. Freeland K. Abbott, Medford, assistant professor of history, Tufts college. Two years. South Asia.

Morton Abramowitz, Peabody, student, Stanford university. One year, far East.

Leonard Binder, Mattapan, graduate student, Princeton, One year, South Asia.

Paul E. Callahan, Cambridge, graduate student, Harvard, Two years. Far East.

Paul O. Elmquist, Cambridge, graduate student, Harvard. One year. Far East.

Peter R. Goethals, Brookline, graduate student, Yale. One year. Southeast Asia.

Clyde G. Hess, Worcester, editorial writer and news analyst, Telegram and Gazette. One year additional to present fellowship, Near and Middle East.

Richard P. Mitchell, Worcester, graduate student, Princeton. One year. Near and Middle East.

NEW HAMPSHIRE

Edward S. Chase Jr., Exeter, research specialist. Department of Defense. One year. Near and Middle East.

NEW YORK

Don C. Bennett, Syracuse, graduate assistant, Syracuse university. One year additional to present fellowship. Southeast Asia.

Barron Biederman, Rockville Centre, graduate student in Journalism, Columbia. One year. South Asia.

Hebert L. Bodman Jr., Glen Head, graduate student at American univesity of Beirut, Lebanon. One year additional to present fellowship. Near and Middle East.

Cecil W. Boodey, Yonkers, student at University of New Hampshire. One year. Near and Middle East.

John H. Bruner, Levittown, assistant secretary of Near East Foundation. One year. Near and Middle East.

Miss Gladys Kwa-Fong Chang Tuckahoe, Columbia Broadcasting System. One year. Southeast Asia.

Richard A. Debs, Brooklyn, graduate student, American university of Cairo. One year. Near and Middle East.

Edwin J. Eames, New York, teaching assistant, Cornell university. One year additional to present fellowship. South Asia.

John Eaves Jr., New York, instructor, Columbia university. Two years. South Asia.

John C. Eddison, Ardsley-on-Hudson, graduate student, Massachusetts Institute of Technology. One year. South Asia.

Robert S. Elegant, New York, INS correspondent, Tokyo. two years Southeast Asia.

David H. Fortier, Orangeburg, graduate student, Columbia. Two and one-half years. Southeast Asia.

John T. Hitchcock, Ithaca, teaching assistant Cornell. Eighteen months. South Asia.

Dr. Jacob C. Hurewitz, New York, professor, Columbia. One year Near and Middle East.

Dr. Donald L. Keene, Brooklyn, lecturer in Japanese and Korean, Cambridge (England). One year. East.

Miss Urmila V. Kokatmur, Whitestone, information and foreign affairs specialist, Department of State. One year. South Asia.

Nelson C. Ledsky, Forest Hills, student, Columbia. One year. Near and Middle East.

Arthur Micheals, New York, student, Columbia. One year. South Asia.

James I. Nakamura, Orangeburg, graduate student, Columbia. One year additional to present fellowship. Far East.

John C. Perry, Brooklyn, graduate student, Yale. One year additional to present fellowship. Far East.

Harrison S. Royce Jr., Orangeburg student, Columbia. One year. Southeast Asia.

Ichiro Shirato, New York, lecturer in Japanese, Columbia. Fourteen months. Far East.

Charles S. Terry J., New York, traveling fellow, Columbia. One year. Far East.

Valdo Viglielmo, Ulster Park, graduate student Harvard. One year. Far East.

Burton D. Watson, Youngstown, graduate student, Kyoto University, Japan. One year additional to present fellowship. Far East.

Myron Weiner, New York, graduate student. Princeton. One year additional to present fellowship. South Asia.

Stanley A. Wolpert, Brooklyn, student, City College of New York. One year. South Asia.

DELAWARE

Joseph N. Allerdice, Wilmington, student at University of Michigan. One year. Near and Middle East.

NEW JERSEY

Robert W. Crawford, Princeton, graduate student, Princeton, One year. Near and Middle East.

James T. Harris, Princeton, graduate student, Princeton. Two years, Near and Middle East.

Donald D. Johnson, East Orange, graduate student Harvard. One year Far East.

PENNSYLVANIA

Allen C. Atwell, Pittsburgh, Instructor, Cornell. One year. South Asia.

George Blyn, Philadelphia, Harrison fellow, University of Pennsylvania. One year. South Asia.

James W. Gould, Haverton, graduate student Fletcher school of law and diplomacy. One year. Southeast Asia.

Stephen N. Hay, Swarthmore graduate student, Harvard. One year. South Asia.

Dr. William S. Metz, Lansdowne, Fulbright and Social Science Research Council grantee. One year. South Asia.

Thomas W. Shea, Philadelphia, graduate student, University of Pennsylvania. Two years additional to present fellowship.

WASHINGTON, D.C.

Guy A. Wiggins, program planning officer, Mutual Security Agency. Two years. South Asia.

MARYLAND

Miss Ann B. Rasmussen, Aberdeen, student, Vassar college, One year. Far East.

Frederic C. Thomas Jr., Easton, graduate student, Harvard. Two years. Near and Middle East.

ILLINOIS

William M. Carson, Chicago, Research fellow. One year additional to present fellowship. Near and Middle East.

Robert I. Crane, Chicago, instructor, University of Chicago. One year. Southeast Asia.

Dr. Solomon B. Levine, Champaign, assistant professor, University of Illinois. One year. Far East.

Dr. McKim Marriott, Chicago, graduate student and lecturer, University of Chicago. Twenty-seven months. South Asia.

Edward W. Mill, Belvidere, fellow, Princeton university. One year. Southeast Asia.

James W. Spain, Chicago, cultural affairs officer, American Embassy, Karachi, Pakistan. One year. South Asia.

Dr. Allen S. Whiting, Evanston, instructor, Northwestern. Eighteen months. Far East.

MICHIGAN

Dr. Richard K. Beardsley, Ann Arbor, assistant professor, University of Michigan. One year. Far East.

Stephen T. Hosmer, Grosse Point, student, Yale. One Year. Southeast Asia.

Dr. Hattie M. Kawahara, Detroit, assistant professor, Wayne University. One year additional to present fellowship. Far East.

Gene D. Overstreet, East Lansing, instructor, Michigan State. Fourteen months. South Asia.

Philip S. Thomas, Ann Arbor, teaching fellow, University of Michigan. Fourteen months. South Asia.

MINNESOTA

D. Fred E. Luckermann, Minneapolis, graduate student, University of Minnesota. Fifteen months. Near and Middle East.

MISSOURI

Miss Esther Minkoff, St. Louis, students, Washington university. One year. South Asia.

Jack M. Planalp, Oregon, graduate student. Cornell. Twenty-one months. South Asia.

Dr. James B. Watson, Creve Coeur, associate professor, Washington University. Two years. Southeast Asia.

OHIO

Albert Feuerwerker, Cleveland, graduate student, Harvard, One year. Far East.

Frenise A. Logan, Cleveland, instuctor, Bennett College. One year. South Asia.

Albert B. Stridsberg, Sharonville, intelligence analyst, Army General Studies School, Fort Riley, Kan. One year. Near and Middle East.

Robert B. Textor, Springfield, fellow, Cornell Southeast Asia program, Bangkok, Thailand. Nine months. Southeast Asia.

Alfred J. Waddell, Cincinnati, grdauate student, Columbia. One year additional to present fellowship. Near and Middle East.

WISCONSIN

Kent S. Bender, Oshkosh, student at Oshkosh State. Two years. Southeast Asia.

James T. McCory, Milwaukee, reporter, Milwaukee Sentinel. Two years. South Asia.

CALIFORNIA

Mrs. Doris Adams, Concord, graduate student, Johns Hopkins University. Twenty-one months additional to present fellowship. Near and Middle East.

Warren Adams, Concord, graduate student, John Hopkins. Twenty-one months additional to present fellowship. Near and middle East.

Donald G. Gillin, San Mateo, graduate student, Stanford (Calif.) One year. Southeast Asia.

Edward B. Harper, San Benardino, teaching assistant, Cornell. One year. South Asia.

John E. Manning, Los Angeles, graduate student, Stanford. Eighteen months additional to present fellowship. Far East.

D. Kurt S. Steiner, Palo Alto, graduate student, Stanford. One year. Far East.

Charles D. Sheldon, Berkeley, graduate student, Stanford. One year Far East.

Dr. Kurt S. Steiner, Palo Alto, graduate student, University of California. Two years. Near and Middle East.

Loren E. Tesdell, Los Altos, graduate student, Stanford. One year Near and Middle East.

William O. Thweatt, Walnut Creek, assistant professor. American University of Beirut. One year. Near and Middle East.

David O. D. Wurfel, La Mesa, graduate student, Cornell. Fifteen months additional to present fellowship. Southeast Asia.

COLORADO

Edward G. Seidensticker Jr., Castle Rock, graduate student, Tokyo University. One year additional to present fellowship. Far East.

OREGON

Jack A. Smith, Grants Pass, graduate student. Columbia. One year. Far East.

WASHINGTON

Cecil E. Cody, Seattle, research fellow. University of Washington. Eighteen Months. Far East.

Mrs. Beatrice Miller, Mercer Island, graduate student, University of Washington. Two years. South Asia.

Robert Miller, Mercer Island, graduate student, University of Washington. Two years. South Asia.

Frederick W. Mote, Seattle, graduate student, Stanford. Three months additional to present fellowship. Far East.

Stanley Speccor, Seattle, graduate student, university of Washington. Eighteen months. Southeast Asia.

14j 1953

Freedoms Foundation Awards Go To More Than 800 Recipients

VALLEY FORGE, Pa. — Freedoms Foundation President, Kenneth D. Wells, announced today the names of more than eight hundred American individuals, schools and organizations to receive its $100,000 Freedom Awards for outstanding contributions to a better understanding of the American Way of Life during 1952.

Several Negro high schools, colleges and individuals will receive awards in today's ceremonies. The award recipients were chosen by a distinguished Awards Jury composed of thirty state supreme court jurists and executive officers of national patriotic and military organizations and service clubs. The jury spent two weeks at the foundation's headquarters in December selecting awards honored.

The jury's selections were made from nominations submitted by the general public. Thousands of speeches, exhibits, programs, scripts, recordings, films and other documentary materials were submitted for consideration by the Awards Jury. Jan. 24-53

NON PROFIT

Freedoms Foundation is a non-profit, non-political, non-sectarian awards organizations chartered in 1949 for the specific purpose of annually making awards of cash and medals to Americans who make outstanding contributions to a better understanding of freedom by the things which they write, do or say.

It is financed by widespread public subscription support. The first award program totaled $84,000, and awards were personally presented at Valley Forge in November, 1949 by General of the Army Dwight D. Eisenhower. The 1950 awards totaling $100,000 were presented February 22, 1951 by General Omar N. Bradley and school awards of $50,000 were presented by Dr. Robert L. Johnson, President of Temple University in 1950. The 1951 awards consisted of $1000.000

Awards were given Negro institutions and individuals as follows: Ralph H. Jones, Philadelphia, Pa., Second place award for his treatise, "Negro America: Freedom's Opportunity. Dr. Thomas Roy Peyton, Los Angeles, Calif., second place song poem by Andy Razaf. William Grant Still, Los Angeles, second place award for his musical composition, "To You America." National Freedom Day Association, Philadelphia, Honor Medal award for its National Freedom Day program.

LINCOLN U. 2ND PLACE

Lincoln University, Pennsylvania, received a second place award for its University of the Air series. West Virginia State College, received a second place award for its "Selling the Free Spirit" program. Central State College, Wilberfore, Ohio, received an Honor Medal award for its "Know the U. S. A. Project."

George Wesley, West Chester, Pa., was given a second place award in the editorial category for "Fighting for Our Freedoms and Civil Rights," which appeared in the August (Ga.) Review.

Radio Station WDIA, Memphis received an honor medal award for its local series, "Brown America Speaks." Dr. Samuel DeWitt Proctor, Richmond, Va., was given an honor award for his sermon, "The Spiritual Basis for Americanism."

Sumner High School, Kansas City, Mo., received the School Freedom Liberty award. Dudley High School, Greensboro, N. C., was given the Honor Medal Award for High Schools.

Maggie L. Walker High School, Richmond, Va., received the Honor Medal for High Schools, and Mrs. Leah D. Hopewell, York, Pa., received an honor medal for her essay, 'A Little Piece of America."

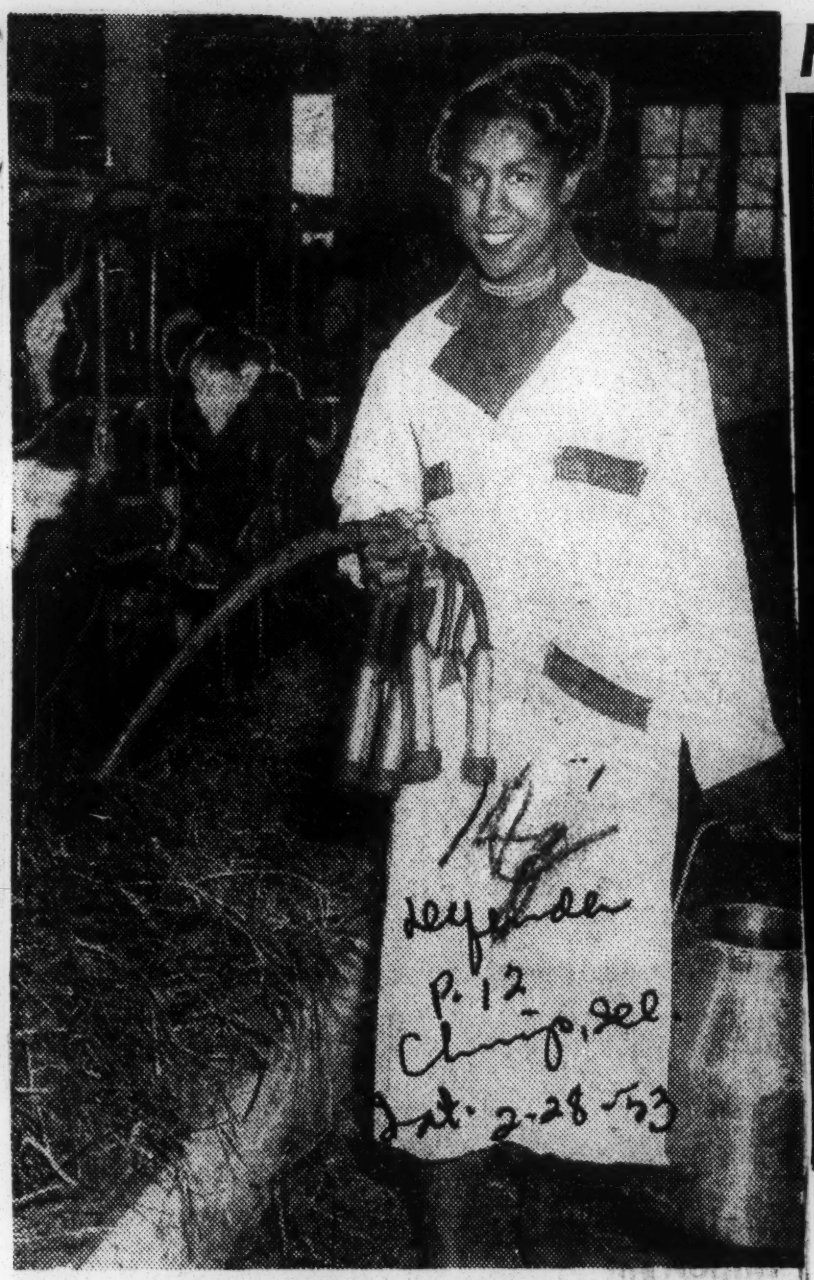
Principal award recipients include Western Maryland Railway for its pageant Mr. Lincoln Goes to Gettysburg," Bishop Fulton J. Sheen for his television program, Life is Worth Living," The Greater Muskegon Chamber of Commerce for Freedom Week," Cecil B. Demille for his public address Silent Voices," The Men's Club of the First Congregational Church of Phoenix, Arizona for their "God and Freedom medal project; Robert Montgomery for his radio broadcasts, "A Citizen Views the News;" and Robert H. Niemeyer.

Eugene Dorce Gets Fulbright To Teach

NEW YORK (ANP)—The four corners of the globe are no longer virgin soil for the American Negro educator according to Professor Eugenie Rosita Dorce, who sailed last week on the S.S. United States for her tour of service under the sponsorship of the State Department, office of international education under the Fulbright program.

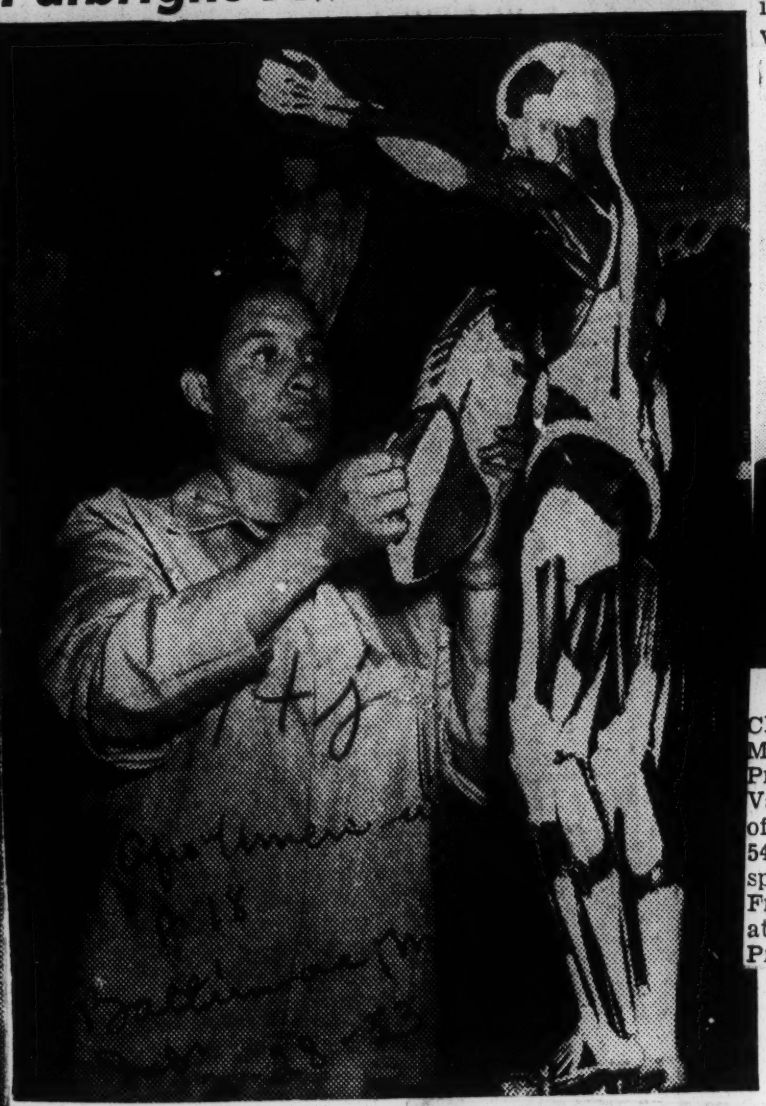
In an exclusive interview, the Fulbright awardee for 1953-54, the daughter of the late Dr. Solomon George Dorce, prominent retired Methodist clergyman and Mrs. Adella C. Dorce nee Fournier now residing in Wilmington, Delware), both natives of Port-au-rince, Haiti, will go directly to ngland for a period of orienta-on at the University of London ience to Nigeria, British West rica to teach at the Women's aining Centre and Government ege at Kano.

iss Dorce holds degrees from yney State Teachers college Pennsylvania and Columbia ersity.



MISS NOVELLA TOTTEN of Maybeury, W. Va., removes a section from the Anatomical Manikin in an anatomy seminar in the biology laboratory of Bluefield State college. She is one of the first candidates from Bluefield State college being considered for a Fulbright Award for study abroad. She is a member of the following organizations: Alpha Kappa Mu Honorary Society, Beta Kappa Chi Honorary Science Society, Alpha Kappa Alpha Sorority. She is the daughter of Rev. Robert Totten of Maybeury, W. Va.

Fulbright Award Candidate



Miss Noella Totten of Maybeury, W. Va., removing a section from the anatomical manikin in an anatomy seminar in the biology laboratory of Bluefield State college. Miss Totten is one of the first candidates from Bluefield State college being considered for a Fulbright award for study abroad. She is a member of the Alpha Kappa Mu honorary society, Beta Kappa Chi honorary science society and Alpha sorority. She is the daughter of the Rev. Robert Totten of Maybeury. W. Va.

dents at the Cairo School of Social Work, and as guest lecturer in sociology at the Ibrahim university.

FORT VALLEY TEACHER RECEIVES FULBRIGHT AWARD — Miss Ruth A. Matthews, Assistant Professor of English at the Fort Valley State College is the recipient of a Fulbright Award for the 1953-54 school year. Miss Matthews will spend a year at the Government Frontier College for Women located at Peshawar, North West Frontier Provinces, Pakistan.

Dr. J. Douglass Resumes Post

FAYETTEVILLE, N. C. —After a year's leave of absence to accept a Fulbright lectureship in the Cairo School of Social Work, Cairo, Egypt, Dr. Joseph H. Douglass, for the past six years, dean of the Fayetteville State Teachers college, returned June 1, and assumed the work as director of the summer session which got underway on June 11.

One of the 12 American lecturers in Egypt under the Fulbright program of the U. S. Department of state, Dr. Douglass served as research project advisor to stu-

Miss N. Patrick Gets Fulbright Study Award

MISS NORA MAE PATRICK

Miss Nora Mae Patrick is a recipient of Fulbright Fellowship for study in France during the summer of 1953, on Ph. D. degree.

She is an instructor of French at St. Phillip's College, San Antonio, Texas. She is a graduate of Spelman College with an A. B. degree in French; Atlanta University, M. A. degree in French and is studying for Ph. D. degree in French at New York University.

She leaves for Paris, France, on June 24, 1953, from New York and will visit England, Spain and Italy before returning to the states in the fall.

She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. K. D. Patrick, 1437 Mozley Drive, S. W., Atlanta.

Gets Fulbright Award For Study

DURHAM, N. C. — Miss Gladys Cooper, associate professor of home economics at North Carolina College, Durham, has been granted a Fulbright grant to study at Queen Elizabeth College, University of London, next year.

The Fulbright grant to Miss Cooper marked the second such grant to a professor at NCC during the past two years. Prof. Benjamin Hudson of the French Department won a Fulbright in 1951.

Miss Cooper returned to the U. S. last fall after a summer abroad. She represented NCC at the International Dietetics Association in Amsterdam and later witnessed several events during the Olympics.

Prior to coming to NCC in 1951, Miss Cooper taught a number of colleges including the State College of Washington, Pullman, Wash., Syracuse University, and Clafin and South Carolina State Colleges.

The NCC home economist received a bachelor's degree at the Ohio State University and a master of science degree at Washington State College. She has completed two years of graduate study at Syracuse University.

MISS BARBARA EVE JONES
. . . . Fulbright Award winner

* * *

Fulbright Student

Barbara Eve Jones to Study In Manila Starting in July

PITTSBURGH — Barbara Eve Jones, senior Fine Arts student at Ohio Wesleyan University, has been honored by attaining the Fulbright grant for one academic years of study at the University of Santo Formaso at Manilla in the Philippines beginning July. She will study art.

Miss Jones has been on the Dean's list for each semester of her four years and is doing honor work specializing in metals and sculpture. Recently she placed in the upper twenty-five per cent in the national teachers examination and is qualified to teach art and Spanish in Pittsburgh schools.

Pledged to Alpha Gamma Chi, interracial sorority, she has been tapped to three fraternities, educational, honorary, dance honorary, orchesis, and national art honorary, Delta Phi Delta.

Barbara Eve is the daughter of Murrel Wynn Jones of the Department of Parks and Recreation, city of Pittsburgh, and the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Wynn and the late Mr. and Mrs. Sylvester Jones.

She was presented formally at a Snow Ball during the 1950-51 season.

FULBRIGHT FELLOWSHIP —Miss Ola L.A. Adams, assistant professor of French at Morris Brown College, has been awarded a Fulbright Fellowship. The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. N. Adams of Waycross, Ga., she will leave in the early fall for Paris where she will study during the year 1953-54.

Fulbright Award To H.U. Professor

WASHINGTON

William L. Hansberry, associate professor of history at Howard University, has been awarded a Fulbright fellowship for research in Egypt during the 1953-54 school year.

Professor Hansberry, who lives at 1303 Hamlin street, ne., will conduct research in Egyptian and Ethiopian history and archaeology. His study will be conducted at the Institute of Oriental Studies, Fouad I University in Cairo.

A graduate of Harvard University where he received the bachelor of science degree in 1921 and the master of arts degree in 1932, Professor Hansberry has been a member of the College of Liberal Arts faculty at Howard since 1922.

Fulbright Fellowship Is Awarded Shaw Instructor

RALEIGH, N. C. — Samuel L. Green, a member of the Shaw University faculty, is among the Fulbright scholars who will sail aboard the S. S. "United States" on September 17 for a year of study in England.

Mr. Green will do advanced study in museum curatory at the Courtauld Institute of Art at the University of London, and will also make a research study-tour of principal art museums in countries on the Continent.

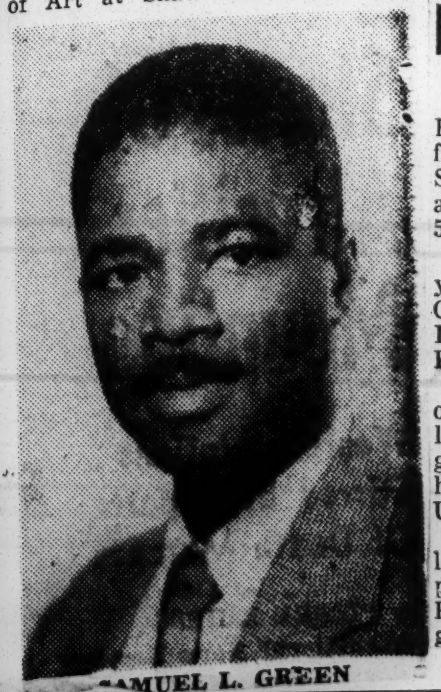
UPON COMPLETION of his studies he will serve a museum curatory apprenticeship at the famous Birmingham (England) Museum, at the invitation of the British Museums Association.

Holder of B.A. and M.A. degrees in fine art from Howard University where he studied closely with Professors Lois M. Jones and James A. Porter, Green has pursued special study in private art gallery function at the Barnett-Aden Gallery in Washington, D. C.

IN 1952 he was awarded a fellowship to the Skowhegan School of Painting and Sculpture in Maine.

Formerly on the faculty of Florida A. & M. College and since 1951 a member of the faculty and director of the University Gallery of Art at Shaw University, Mr. Green is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph L. Green, 175 West avenue, Stamford, Conn.

A FULBRIGHT AWARD for a year's study in Pakistan has been granted Miss Ruth A. Matthews, assistant professor of English at Fort Valley State college, Fort Valley Ga. Miss Matthews will spend a year at the Government Frontier College For Women at Peshawar, North West Frontier, Pakistan. She holds degrees from Florida A & M and Howard university, and has done further study at the University of California.



SAMUEL L. GREEN

FVC teacher gets Fulbright award

FORT VALLEY, Ga. — Miss Ruth A. Matthews, assistant professor of English at Fort Valley State college, is the recipient of a Fulbright Award for the 1953-54 school year.

Miss Matthews will spend a year at the Government Frontier College For Women located at Peshawar, North West Frontier Provinces, Pakistan.

Miss Matthews is a graduate of the Florida A. and M. college, received the master's degree from Howard university and has done further study at the University of California.

Prior to joining the Fort Valley faculty, she taught in the public schools of Florida, at Prairie View college, and Morgan State college.

Lincoln (Mo.) U. Department Head Gets Fulbright Award

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. — (ANP) — A Fulbright fellowship last week was awarded to Miss Queen E. Shootes, acting head of the home economics department, Lincoln university here, to teach in Trinidad.

The Tuskegee institute graduate has been given a two-year leave of absence from her post at Lincoln. She will assist in introducing a course in home economics in the Government Teacher Training college, Port of Spain, Trinidad, British West Indies.

Miss Shootes attended Tuskegee from elementary school through college. She later taught at the institute from 1934-'49.

An honor student, Miss Shootes was a recipient of the Mrs. Edgar Stern award, a four-year scholarship, and the General Education Board award on three occasions.

After graduating from Tuskegee, Miss Shootes went on to Cornell university where she earned her M. S., and later spent three years at the University of Wisconsin, working on her doctorate.

At the Wisconsin institution she was named to Omicron Nu, home economics honor society. She also is a member of Delta Sigma Theta sorority.

TO TRINIDAD.—Smilingly happily in the above picture is Miss Queen E. Shottes, acting head of the home economics department at Lincoln university, Jefferson City. And well she might, for the brilliant educator is the proud recipient of a Fulbright fellowship to introduce a course in home economics in the Government Teacher Training college, Port of Spain, Trinidad, British West Indies. Lincoln has granted Miss Shottes, a Tuskegee Institute graduate, a two-year leave of absence for her work in Trinidad.—ANP Photo.

Fullbright Winner Tells Of Egypt

By ALICE A. DUNNIGAN

WASHINGTON (ANP) — Egyptian women are not as active as American women, according to Mrs. Portia F. Lewis, who recently returned after a year in that nation as a Fulbright award exchange teacher.

Serving as a teacher of English in the Institute of Education for Women Teachers at Zmalek, a section of Cairo, Mrs. Lewis came in constant contact with the Egyptian women.

These women, she said, are most skillful and gracious, but she admitted that they were not too well versed on the political and social activities of the United States or the role which American women play in the public life of their country.

Egyptian women are just beginning to move freely in public life but have a very highly developed social life, she said. They enjoy giving luncheons, teas and dinners where they always prove to be very hospitable and elaborate hostesses.

During her stay in Egypt Mrs. Lewis visited various sections of the Near East, spending her Christmas vacation in Jerusalem and visiting Jordan. She spent her winter vacation in Khartoum, Sudan, and also visited the Red Sea.

She claimed that she ran into no racial discrimination in this country, but sometimes encountered prejudice from natives because she was an American, or from Moslems because she was a Christian. Because of her complexion, she added, most of the people mistook her for an Egyptian, with few believing she was American.

In speaking of the industry of the country, Mrs. Lewis recalled that approximately 80 per cent of the Egyptians are agricultural people. The agricultural life of that country has been greatly improved by the reclamation of desert land under Point 4, she stated.

Many of the Egyptians are professionals, including teachers, doctors and lawyers. Others are business people with a great number being engaged in the building business. Export-import is also an important business in that country. A number of Egyptians make their living as servants. The majority of the servants are men, however, she added. There are very few women servants in Egypt.

After completilng her year's work as one of two Negroes among the 39 Fulbright teachers last term, Mrs. Lewis spent a month in Europe before returning to the United States.

On her European tour, she visited Rome, Italy; Geneva, Switzerland; Frankfurt, Germany, Amsterdam, Holland, and Paris, France.

Gets Award For US Study

BO. SIERRA LEONA — (ANP) — Frank S. Anthony, Sierra Leone development officer has been notified of the award of a Fulbright fellowship for further study in America.

Anthony is a graduate of Hampton Institute and has a master's degree in sciene from Cornell University.

In addition to the Fullbright award he has been given a visiting fellowship by the Department of Rural Sociology of Cornell University.

Floridans To Teach In Foreign Institutions

Tallahassee, Fla.—Two graduates of the Florida A. and M. University are scheduled to teach in foreign institutions during the current academic year. They are Miss Ruth Matthews, left, and Samuel Russell, right, who is receiving congratulations from President George W. Gore, Jr. Miss Matthews, of Tallahassee, will spend the year in Kaiiachi, Pakistan, under a Fulbright grant. Russell, of Fernandina Beach, Fla., will serve as assistant director of the American Technical Institute in Baghdad, Iraq. The appointment was made by Bradley University.—Staff Photo by H. Jones of FAMU.

Jones studies on Fulbright schplarship

Harold Jones, a junior at the University of Colorado, has just been awarded a Fulbright Scholarship.

He sails the end of this month for Germany where he will study the differences between East and West Germany. He will be in Europe for a year.

Harold is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Jones of Newark. He graduated from South Side High in January, 1951, and studied a year at New York University

W. Astor Kirk On UN

Recipient Of Fullbright Award Presented In Address At PBC

AUSTIN — The United Nations as a vital force for world peace and understanding was brought to the attention of the staff members and students of People's Business College last Thursday morning when Professor W. Astor Kirk Chairman of the Division of Governmen ta t Huston-Tillotson College, spoke in the auditorium at 10 o'clock.

Professor Kir emphasized the important function of the UN organization, reviewed its role in resolving international disputes and averting hostilities.

around the (1) maintaining of international peace, (2) development of friendly relations among nations bases on equal rights and equal privileges for all people and (3) achievement of international problems of an economic, a social cultural, and humanitarian character.

Professor Kirk, who has ajust returned from Europe where he studied at the University of London, concluded his speech by stating, "We are beginning to realize that wars have been causes in economic, social and cultural conditions among the people. If we begin to attack these problems that create discontent in nations and among groups of people, we can solve some of these problems."

He was presented by Mrs. Josephine F. Alexander who her "heart sings for jo..s aid.. y said h"r "hear tsigns for joy whenever our young people climb and reach such heights as Mr. Kirk has, I am happy to bring him to you as we learn the meaning of United Nations Week."

In 1952, Profesor Kirk, A Texan, was the recipient of a Fulbright Scholarship. He is now studying toward his Ph D degree at the University of Texas and is an ardent worker in local and state civic and religious activities.

Consider Fulbright Scholarships

Not so long ago the publisher of The Informer newspapers received a letter from W. Astor Kirk, who is on leave from his post as professor of political science at Huston-Tillotson College to do advanced study in government in the British Isles, suggesting that "The Informer Papers might consider an editorial urging more American Negro students and teachers to take advantage of the Fulbright Scholarship program." He added that "their presence abroad will do much to create a better understanding of the American Negro," and that "of 306 Fulbright scholars in the United Kingdom only 4 are Negroes."

This comment is in partial compliance with Professor Kirk's suggestion. On a sheer population-ratio basis, there should be at least thirty Negro Fulbright Scholars in the United Kingdom out of the 306 who are there now under this study program. On the basis of needing to catch up with world understanding and to let people around the world see the better side of the American Negro, fifty Negro Fulbright scholars or more out of the 306 would not be too many by any means. If there are no racial barriers to the award of Fulbright Scholarships, how does it happen that Negro students and teachers are apparently getting these scholarships in such small numbers?

One obvious answer probably is that they do not know too much about them, and if they don't know too much about them, then how does this come about? The obvious answer to this question is that there are not enough Astor Kirks who have the ear of Negro students and teachers to tell them about the Fulbright Scholarship program. Of course, included in telling Negro students about such things is the necessity for going further to persuade them to make application and to show them how to go about making application in a way which is most likely to get results.

Who are the people who are or should be within the know on such things as the Fulbright Scholarships? Primarily they are the leadership in our schools and colleges. In almost every such school and college there are a lot of queer courses to be found in the curricula. At any rate there are enought such queer courses so that one of them could give way to a course in the nature of a seminar on practical opportunities open to student and teachers and on how to go about taking advantge of such opportunities. There are many other scholarship opportunities which Negro students and teachers could and, doubtless, would go out for if they only knew the score and knew how to pursue these opportunities. Not only are there scholarship opportunities, but there are job opportunities open to Negro college graduates, or which could be opened to them, if such a seminar would only open the eyes of college students to these practical opportunities and encourage and show them how to go after them. We need a lot more of the W. Astor Kirk approach to these matters.

Awarded Grant To Teach In Belfast, Ireland

JAMES BAILEY

James W. Bailey, an instructo at Cole school, has been awarded a United States educational exchange grant under the Fulbright Act to participate in the 1953 interchange of teachers with the United Kingdom.

Bailey was selected by the Boar of Foreign Scholarships to teach in Belfast, Ireland.

A native St. Louis, the Fulbright Fellow finished Marshall school, Summer high school and Stowe Teachers College. He received a master's degree in education from the University of Illinois, and is working toward a doctorat in that field at Washington university.

Bailey taught at Divoll school five years and served as acting registrar of Stowe before taking his present position at Cole school.

He is a member of Phi Delta Kappa fraternity, a profesional men's educational organization. Bailey also is music director of St. James AME Church.

Scholar Finishes Foreign Studies

CHARLESTON, W. Va.— Miss Rosa L. Pickel of 1333½ Elmwood ave returned on June 12 from a one-year study at the University of Besacon, France under a Fulbright scholarship.

Miss Pickel was graduated from West Virginia State college in 1952 with a major in French and business administration. She plans to study for her master's degree.

During her stay in Europe she visited eight countries, Switzerland, Italy, Spain, Portugal, Belgium, Holland, Germany and England.

Scholar Finishes Foreign Studies

CHARLESTON, W. Va.— Miss Rosa L. Pickel of 1333½ Elmwood ave returned on June 12 from a one-year study at the University of Besacon, France under a Fulbright scholarship.

Miss Pickel was graduated from West Virginia State college in 1952 with a major in French and business administration. She plans to study for her master's degree.

During her stay in Europe she visited eight countries, Switzerland, Italy, Spain, Portugal, Belgium, Holland, Germany and England.

AFRICAN GETS GRANT

SIERRA LEONE (ANP)— Frank S. Anthony, Sierra Leone development officer has been notified of the award of a Fulbright fellowship to do further study in America. He is a graduate of Hampton Institute and Cornell University.

TEA FOR VISITORS—Dr. Flemmie P. Kitrell, professor of home economics at Howard University, is shown with Mrs. Sultana Ibraihim of Karachi, Pakistan, at the home economics department's recent tea for visiting faculty members and foreign students.

Dr. Kitrell, who recently returned from Iowa State College where she was the principal speaker at the annual meeting of the Omicron Nu national honorary home economics society, visited Pakistan as a Fulbright Fellow in 1951.

Also shown in the picture are Henry J. Ryan, dean of men at Howard University, and Lydia J. Rogers, instructor of home economics at Howard. Mrs. Ibraihim, who is a State Department-sponsored student in America, is one of several foreign students enrolled in home economics at Howard this summer.

Dr. Hugh Gloster To Serve As Fulbright Lecturer In Japan

HAMPTON, Va. — Dr. Hugh M. Gloster, chairman of the Communications Center and director of the summer session at Hampton Institute, was recently notified of his appointment to serve as a Fulbright lecturer in Japan during the school year 1953-54. This appointment involves lecturing and teaching at the university level in the field of English and American literature.

The purpose of the Fulbright educational exchange program in which Dr. Gloster will participate is to further goodwill and understanding between the United States and other countries through the exchange of lecturers, teachers, research scholars, specialists, and students.

In the spring of this year, Dr. Gloster served as consultant and lecturer at Arkansas A. M. and N. College and at Alabama State College. In December, 1952, he served in the same capacity at South Carolina A. and M. College.

Dr. Gloster made a month's lecture tour of West Coast colleges under the sponsorship of the American Friends Service Committee in 1952. This annual lectureship of the Service Committee is partially planned to present leading minority group educators, writers, and speakers to other groups. During the tour, he spoke to ten colleges and universities in four states.

Dr. Gloster came to Hampton Institute in 1946 as professor of English and chairman of the Communications Center (Department of Language and Literature). Before coming to Hampton, he was in charge of U. S. O. services to Negroes in Southeastern United States for three years. Prior to that he taught English at LeMoyne College and at Morehouse College.

An honor graduate of Morehouse College, Atlanta, the professor received the M. A. degree from Atlanta University and the Ph. D. degree from New York University, where he was guest professor in the summer of 1949.

In 1952, Dr. Gloster was co-editor of My Life-My Country-My World. Previously he published Negro Voices in American Fiction and was co-editor of an anthology of verse by Negro college students, The Brown Thrush. The English teacher is a frequent contributor to Crisis, and is a Contributing Editor of Phylon, Atlanta University Review of Race and Culture.

Hampton Professor

Dr. Gloster Will Lecture in Japan

HAMPTON, Va.—Dr. Hugh M. Gloster, chairman of the Communications Center and director of the summer session at Hampton Institute, was recently notified of his appointment to serve as a Fulbright lecturer in Japan during the school year 1953-54. This appointment involves lecturing and teaching at the university level in the field of English and American literature.

The purpose of the Fulbright educational exchange program in which Dr. Gloster will participate is to further goodwill and understanding between the United States and other countries through the exchange of lecturers, teachers, research scholars, specialists and students.

IN THE spring of this year, Dr. Gloster served as consultant and lecturer at Arkansas A. M. and N. College and at Alabama State College. In December, 1952, he served in the same capacity at South Carolina A. and M. College.

Dr. Gloster made a month's lecture tour of West Coast colleges under the sponsorship of the American Friends Service Committee in 1952. This annual lectureship of the Service Committee is partially planned to present leading minority group educators, writers and speakers to other groups. During the tour, he spoke to ten colleges and universities in four states.

Dr. Gloster came to Hampton Institute in 1946 as professor of English and chairman of the Communications Center (Department of Language and Literature). Before coming to Hampton, he was in charge of USO services to Negroes in Southeastern United States for three years. Prior to that he taught English at LeMoyne College and at Morehouse College.

An honor graduate of Morehouse College, Atlanta, the professor received the M. A. degree from Atlanta University and the Ph. D. degree from New York University, where he was guest professor in the summer of 1949.

DR. HUGH M. GLOSTER

. . . Fulbright lecturer

By Dr. Virginia Simmons Nyabongo

Rome and Points East

PARIS—When TWA's Star of Michigan concluded its flight 907, Cairo to Rome, a few days ago, there ended for me an extraordinary, magic carpet trip to the East. I had gone with hundreds of others to answer the call to India and en route had explored Byzantine, Christian, Moslem, Hindu and pagan shrines, cities and cultures.

My principal objective for traveling East was to attend the World's Student Christian Federation Conference of Student Christian Movement leaders of India, Pakistan and Ceylon at the Madras Christian College, Dec. 28-Jan. 5, and to be the faculty representative of the National Student YWCA in the United Student Christian Council of the USA at the Triennial Meeting of the General Committee of the World's Student Christian Federation, Jan. 9-21, at the Spiritual Life Centre, Nasrapur, Poona, near Bombay, India.

Dr. Nyabongo

(Dr. Nyabongo is a Fulbright Research scholar in Paris and is on leave from Tennessee A. and I. State University where she serves as director of student personnel.)

APPROXIMATELY 130 Christian student leaders from some twenty-five countries assembled at the WSCF Conference at Madras Christian College, Tambaram.

The conference program included plenary sessions with talks on India.

A key talk was given by C. S. Paul, general secretary of the Student Christian Movement of India, Pakistan and Ceylon on "Christianity and Other Religions."

The conference program included also a reception by the Christian Community of Madras, two plays, "He That Should Come," by Dorothy Sayers, and "No More Strangers," by R. S. Macnicol; a concert by Mrs. Rosa Page Welch of Chicago and a dance recital by Hema Malini Vijayaragavan.

The hospitality of Madras, campus and community, was most warm and all kinds of needs were provided for.

The WSCF Conference at Tambaram was followed almost immediately by the Triennial Meeting of the WSCF General Committee at the Nasrapur Spiritual Life Centre. About three hours by train from Bombay, an hour by bus or car from Poona, Nasrapur Spiritual Life Centre serves a great need, especially for Western India. As in America at Northfield, Silver Bay, Estes Park, Minniwanca, and Asilomar, Christian leaders may gather for camps, conventions, conferences and retreats.

Nasrapur, "The Place of Victory," is a little paradise of some thirty acres of well-drained land in the fork of the two streams, partly farm land, partly wooded tracts, and tennis court and a small swimming pool fed by springs, and ample room for outdoor activities of quiet meditation in secluded beauty spots along the stream or in the woods.

IN OPERATION the year round, the centre welcomes "Prayer Partner" members in the significant enterprise for vitalizing the spiritual life of the Christian youth of the New India.

The general committee is the chief legislative body of the World's Student Christian Federation. It is composed of all national movements connected with the federation, represented by delegates chosen by them, and meeting together with the executive committee, officers, staff and members at large. Usually, it meets every three years to determine the general policy and program of the federation until the next meeting. It also elects the officers and members of the executive committee and staff.

Strikingly enough, for the next triennium, to the executive committee of six was elected Kenneth B. Smith, senior at Virginia Union University, of Montclair, N. J., and member of the YMCA five-man delegation to the Third World Conference of Christian Youth, Kottayam, Travancore, South India. Out of the States for four months, Ken Smith traveled widely in India prior to the Travancore Conference, visiting particularly colleges and universities and student hospitals.

Other YMCA representatives included Herbert A. Donovan Jr., University of Virginia; Thomas J. Clagett, Whittier College graduate; William H. Edwards, Yale Divinity School, and R. H. Edwin Espy, executive, National Student YMCA.

Attending the general committee meetings from the YWCA were Nancy Simons, Chicago, Ill., student representative; Virginia S. Nyabongo, Nashville, Tenn., faculty representative; Lelia Anderson, executive, National Student YWCA and treasurer of the federation, and Miriam Willey, Northfield, Ill., GC office staff and Kottayam representative.

Among the fifteen American Church representatives at the General Committee meeting was John M. Burgess, chaplain, Howard University, Washington, D. C.

The 135 or more GC representatives, members at large, fraternal delegates and WSCF staff came from all of the countries represented at the Tambaram conference with the addition of among others, Cuba, France, Finland, Lebanon, Korea, the Netherlands, Philippine Islands, Sweden, Switzerland and South Africa.

FORTUNATELY, all of the participants in the General Committee meeting, diverse as they were in national and cultural backgrounds had in common loyalty to Jesus Christ and a basic knowledge of English. While English was the official language of the meetings, some of the addresses and discussions were in French and German. Variety was the word for dress, thought patterns, techniques of expression, and customs of worship.

Before the end of the General Committee meetings, mimeographed reports were four or five inches thick. Happily, the program included free days for reading. The morning and evening worship services were profoundly religious and expressive of modes of worship in different countries and congregations. At noon, prayers of intercession were offered for Student Christian Movements around the world.

It was agreed that D. T. Niles, India, newly elected chairman of the General Committee, should be invited to write the Call for the Universal Day of Prayer for Students which for the Northern Hemisphere usually is the third Sunday in February.

The last General Committee meeting in 1949 was held at the Ontario Ladies' College, Whitby, Canada. The next meeting will probably be in Australia or in Europe.

A fellowship of faith, a fellowship of seekers, the federation desires to see included in national movements all students who are genuinely prepared to seek the truth of the Christian faith in terms of thought and practical daily living, and in relation to their social responsibilities.

THE EXPERIENCE of attending Christian conferences and traveling in India surely left query and conviction in many minds and hearts. How can the basic teachings of Jesus, love and peace, brotherhood and service, be spread? Obviously, there are abroad often confused ideas as to the value of what is Western, Christian and American. Ultimately, a prayer and a song and a message may be understood and appreciated. Immediately, the need is bread and a bed and expression of human interest.

Ecumenicity is a word people can hardly define. Difficult it is to achieve any sense of unity in a world of many languages, cultures, even many hates and suspicions. Yet, more and more, people must promote cooperative Christian endeavors through such agencies as the United Student Federation, and the World Council of Churches.

In a country predominantly Christian and Protestant, it is easy to take one's religious views for granted. Yet, today, millions of people in the world are not Christian and have no incentive to be. Christians must find in the contemporary non-Christian world and in the divided Church a stpendous challenge. Christian forces can be strong forces in unifying men throughout the world in all aspects of life.

OPINIONS

The signed columns of some of America's leading writers and commentators appearing on this and other pages of the Courier are presented so that our readers may have the benefit of a wide variety of viewpoints on important issues of the day. These viewpoints often contradict one another. They have no connection with the editorial policy of this newspaper and sometimes, in fact, may represent exactly an opposite opinion. The opinions and views expressed belong solely to the writers.

FUND FOR ADULT EDUCATION

Thanksgiving Day. Nov. 26, Dr. Marguerite Cartwright of Hunter College, has been given a one-year study award from the Fund for Adult Education. She will study human relations programs in Chicago, Detroit and Los Angeles.

11 Receive Fellowships

Faculty Members To Study I Year

NEW YORK (ANP)—Some 11 colored teachers were among the 252 recipients of one-year fellowships awarded by the Fund for the Advancement of Education for the academic year 1953-54, according to an announcement from the fund last week.

The colored recipients are: Gilbert F. Edwards, assistant professor of sociology, Howard university; Robert F. Martin, associate professor of government, Howard university; Thomas D. Jarrett, associate professor of English, Atlanta university; Margaret W. Alexander, instructor in language arts, Jackson college;

Also Ruth N. Harry, professor of French, North Carolina college; Willa B. Player, vice-president in charge of instruction, Bennett college; S. Oliver Roberts, professor of psychology and education, Fisk university; Juanita V. Williams, professor of English, Le Moyne college; John Q. T. King, assistant professor of mathematics, Houston-Tillotson college, and Sophia P. Nelson, associate professor of English, West Virginia State college.

Selection was made from more than 1,000 applications which were reviewed by the National Committee on Faculty Fellowships. Among the committee members is Albert W. Dent, president of Dillard university.

The Fund for the Advancement of Education was established by the Ford Foundation in April of 1951. Since that time many colored institutions and faculty members have shared in its awards.

Gardner 4-Year Scholarships To Four On Merit

Applications for Gardner Scholarships are being sent to high schools in Middletown and Lockland-Reading and Greater Cincinnati area, according to R. L. Siegel, director of industrial and public relations of The Gardner Board and Carton Co., Middletown and Lockland. Butler County Americans

The Gardner Scholarship Fund gives $500 a year to sixteen students - eight from the Middletown area and eight from the Lockland-Reading and Greater Cincinnati area. High school seniors are selected for the grants. They receive $500 a year for each year of the four-year college course. In addition to the grants, the company makes summer employment available to Gardner scholars to further help with college expenses. P. J. Hamilton, Ohio.

Choice of four Gardner scholars is made yearly by two special panels. Panels base their choice on character, ability, scholastic achievement, promise of future leadership and financial need, irrespective of race, creed or color. Sat. 2-21-53

Applications for scholarships should be filled out and returned to Gardner's industrial relations department by March 15, Siegel said. Booklets giving full details on the Gardner plan are also being sent out to high schools. Applications must be filled out according to instructions given in the booklets. Scholarship winners will be named April 1.

SOUTHERN U. SCHOLAR—Marlene Lumas, political science major at Southern University, Baton Rouge, La., has been awarded a General Education Board fellowship for graduate work. A native of New Orleans, Miss Lumas is basileus of Alpha Kappa Alpha sorority and a member of the Riverbend players.

College Instructor Awarded Fellowship

JACKSON, Miss. —B. H. McLemore Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. B. H. McLemore Sr. of Mempris, Tenn. was awarded a fellowship by the General Education Board for study toward a doctorate degree in mathematics at the University of Illinois. He is an instructor in Mathematics at Jackson College.

College teacher wins fellowship

GRAMBLING, La. — William A. Scales Jr., a teacher of voice and piano at Grambling college, has been granted an all expense one - year General Education Board fellowship to do advanced study in voice and opera at the University of Indiana, starting in September.

A tenor with wide experience, he has performed for the Metropolitan Opera company as soloist for a special performance of "Auduction" from Seraglio by Mozart.

Mr. Scales is a graduate of Hampton institute and holds the M. Mus., degree from the University of Indiana. He also spent a year with the Citizenship Education Research Project at Columbia university as a pilot teacher setting up activity programs for use in high school social science classes throughout the United States.

A Navy veteran, he has toured New England with concert groups and has done piano and voice recitals for radio stations in North Carolina, Virginia and Louisiana.

MISS MARY D. McLEAN, instructor in biology at North Carolina college, Durham, has been granted a General Education board fellowship to study at the University of Michigan in 1954. She is the daughter of Mrs. Nora McLeean Jackson of Southern Pines, N. C.

14j 1953

GEORGE SANTAYANA FELLOWSHIP

Fellowship In Philosophy Granted At Harvard University

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. — Dean McGeorge Bundy announces that Henry Greenwood Bugbee, Jr. has been awarded the first George Santayana Fellowship in Philosophy for 1953-54.

The fund, established by the terms of Santayana's will, provides for the annual appointment of "a person of any age or nationality who may be thereby enabled freely to devote himself in any place of his choice approved by the Harvard Corporation, to the subjects which have occupied my own life." In addition, the Fellow must be doing graduate or post-doctoral study under the Harvard Graduate School of Arts and Sciences.

Born in New York City, Dr. Bugbee lives in Cambridge, Mass., with his family. He received the A. B. degree from Princeton in 1936 and the A. M. and Ph. D. degrees from the University of California in 1940 and 1947 respectively. Assistant Professor of Philosophy from 1948-53 at Harvard, Mr. Bugbee is interested in the metaphysics of responsibility. During his Fellowship, he is pursuing this interest at book length in journal form.

Santayana, a well-known poet and philosopher, was a Harvard graduate ('86) and a professor of Philosophy at Harvard from 1889 to 1911. He wrote many books of a philosophical nature, and is widely known for the novel, "The Last Puritan."

14j 1953

GEORGE WASHINGTON CARVER FOUNDATION FELLOWSHIP

YOUNG SCIENTIST — James Allen Simpson, son of Mrs. Waldo Simpson of Zanesville, Ohio, and June honor graduate of Central State college, Wilberforce, Ohio, has received a research fellowship in the George Washington Carver Foundation, Tuskegee, Ala., where he will work toward the Master of Science degree in chemistry.

14j 1953

GILBERT DIAMOND SCHOLARSHIP
B'nai B'rith

2 Scholarships Awarded To Oak Ridge Graduate

By DAVID ROGERS

OAK RIDGE, Tenn. — Kelly King, 249 S. Dillard, who will graduate from Scarboro High school Wednesday has been awarded a $500 scholarship and a $50 scholarship.

The $500 Gilbert Diamond Scholarship is given annually by the B'nai B'rith group of Oak Ridge to an outstanding and deserving high school graduate without regard to race. Kelly was selected from a group of 13 boys, 12 of whom were white.

The $50 scholarship was won by Kelly in a competitive test sponsored by the Universal Life Insurance Company of Memphis.

Sings In Glee Club

Kelly has been an outstanding student throughout his junior and senior high school career. In addition to making grades of A's and B's each year, he has taken part in school dramatics, played basketball and has sung in the Glee Club.

His hobby is amateur radio and he has passed the code and theory tests for his "ham" operator's license.

Kelly was one of the original fifty-three students enrolled in Scarboro when it was opened as an elementary school in Oak Ridge in 1946. Coming from Memphis as a sixth grader, he has attended Scarboro continuously since that time. Kelly plans to enter Knoxville College in September and hopes to become an electrical engineer.

Track Team Membrs

The following boys were members of the track team which participated in the recent District One Field and Track meet held in East Chattanooga at the Booker T. Washington high school.

J. C. Johnson, Kelly King, Joe Louis Woods, Arthur Fleming, Rufus Lee Bolton, and William Payton.

The Scarboro PTA sponsored a banquet on May 8 for the graduating class of Scarboro high school. The newly elected officers of the PTA are: Mrs. Emma Stewart, president; Mrs. Lillie B. Williams, vice president, Mrs. Leola Hill, secretary, and Mrs. Geneva Hawkins, treasurer.

Activities scheduled for graduation are as follows:

The Junior-Senior Prom was held in the school gymnasium last Friday.

The baccalaureate sermon was preached by the Rev. Dewitt S. Dykes, pastor of Vine Avenue Methodist Episcopal church, Knoxville, Tenn., Sunday afternoon.

The commencement exercises will be held Tuesday at 8 p.m.

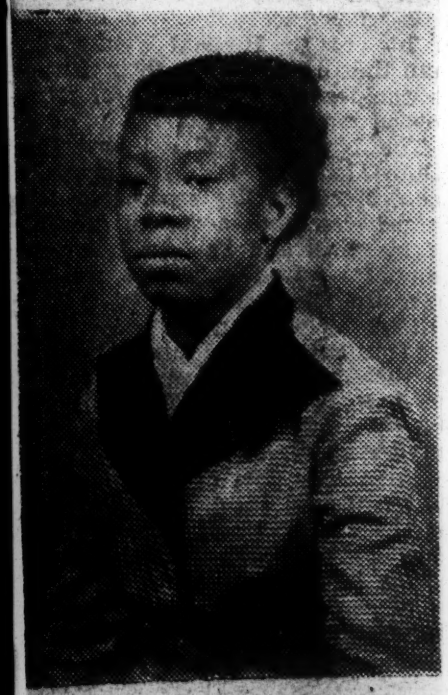
Members of the graduating class are Georgia Mae Guinn, Mary Sue Hawkins, Shirley Ann Lawrence, Bessie Frazier Love, Rufus Lee Boton, Arthur Wallace Fleming, Allen Holloway and Kelly King.

The theme of program will be "Success In Life." Members of the class to speak on the program will be Mary Sue Hawkins, Shirley Ann Lawrence, Arthur W. Fleming and Kelly King. Mr. H. D. Parker, superintendent of Oak Ridge schools will award the diplomas.

Miss Katie Lee Williams Wins Gorgas Foundation Scholarship

Miss Katie Lee Williams, daughter of Mrs. Thelma Caldwell of 9011 North Ninth Avenue, and outstanding Hooper City High School senior, recently won the Gorgas Foundation Scholarship at a meeting here Saturday of the Foundation's Executive and Financial Committee.

Planning to enroll at Tuskegee Institute in September, Miss Williams will receive $300 per year from the foundation, plus free college tuition for four years which will amount to about $1,800.



MISS KATIE LEE WILLIAMS

Scholarship Winner

The Gorgas project is dedicated to the discovery and development of scientific ability among the youth of Alabama. The "talent search" is sponsored by the group with the Alabama Academy of Science.

Each contestant was required to take the science aptitude examination and have teachers and principal complete a personal data blank. A written report on the topic, "My Scientific Project," was also required and the winner selected as her subject "The History and Problems involved in Chemistry."

Dr. James L. Kassner, Professor of Chemistry, University of Alabama and chairman of the Foundation, was in charge. He was assisted by Dr. Emmett B. Carmichael, Professor of Biochemistry.

Daniel Leo Dozier, Central High School, Mobile was named alternate. Other candidates were Vivian Louise Johnson, Parker High School, 1609 - Fourth Street, North, Birmingham, and Cara Woods, Jr., Parker High School, 1009 - Avenue M, Pratt City.

C. W. Hayes, Director, Division of Negro Education, City Schools, was in charge of chaperoning the contestants.

Announce Winner Of Science Talent Scholarship

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. — Katie Lee Williams, daughter of Mrs. Thelma Caldwell, 9011-9th ave., North, outstanding Hooper City High school senior, Sayreton, Alabama won the Gorgas Foundation Scholarship. She plans to enter Tuskegee institute in September.

KATIE WILLIAMS

The winner will receive $300 per year from the foundation, plus free college tuition for four years which will amount to about $1800.

The Gorgas project is dedicated to the discovery and development of scientific ability among the youth of Alabama. The "talent search" is sponsored by the group with the Alabama Academy of Science.

Each contestant was required to take the science aptitude examination and have teachers and principal complete a personal data blank.

A written report on the topic, "My Scientific Project" was also required and the winner selected as her project "The History and Problems involved in Chemistry."

Dr. James L. Kassner, professor of chemistry, University of Alabama and chairman of the Foundation was in charge. He was assisted by Dr. Emmett B. Carmichael, professor of biochemistry.

Daniel Leo Dozier, Central High school, Mobile was named alternate. Other candidates were Vivian Louise Johnson, Parker High school, and Cora Woods, jr. also of Parker High school.

C. W. Hayes, director, Division of Negro Education, was in charge of chaperoning the contestants.

Professors Awarded Guggenheim Fellowships

Two members of the College of Liberal Arts faculty at Howard University are among the 191 persons in the United States, Canada and the British West Indies who will receive Guggenheim Fellowships in 1953.

They are Dr. Lloyd N. Ferguson, associate professor of chemistry, and Owen Dodson, associate professor of drama. Dr. Ferguson is a native of Oakland, Calif., and a graduate of the University of California.

Dr. Dodson is a native of Brooklyn, a graduate of Bates College, and holder of master of fine arts degree from Yale University.

2 Howard U. Professors Win Guggenheim Awards

Two members of the college of liberal arts faculty at Howard university are among the 191 persons in the United States, Canada, and the British West Indies who will receive Guggenheim fellowships in 1953.

They are Dr. Lloyd N. Ferguson, associate professor of chemistry, and Owen Dodson, associate professor of drama.

Native Californian

The fellowships, awarded annually to scholars, journalists, writers, artists and composers, go to persons of "unusual capacity for scholarly research, demonstrated by previous publication of contributions to knowledge of high merit and creative ability in the fine arts."

Dr. Ferguson is a native of Oakland, Calif. and a graduate of the University of California. At Berkeley, he received his A.B. degree in 1940 and his Ph.D. degree in 1943.

A member of the faculty at Howard since 1945, he will conduct a study of enzyme distribution in amoeba and other organisms.

Mr. Dodson is a native of Brooklyn, N.Y., and a graduate of Bates college. He also holds the master of fine arts degree from Yale university.

A member of the Howard faculty since 1947, Mr. Dodson has directed several productions by the Howard Players and accompanied the group on its tour of Europe in 1949. In September, he will leave for a one-year stay in Italy where he will work on a novel and a play.

Doris A. Heggans of 2100 Flagler pl., nw, has been awarded the first advanced study scholarship donated by Omicron Lambda Alpha chapter of Alpha Phi Alpha fraternity at Howard university.

A graduate of Dunbar high school, Miss Heggans is a romance languages student at Howard. She will be graduated from the college of liberal arts on June 5 and will enter the graduate school at Howard in September.

Annual Scholarship

Omicron Lambda Alpha is an intermediate chapter of Alpha Phi Alpha fraternity. It is made up of men in the graduate and professional schools of the Washington area.

According to fraternity officials, each year a student from the Washington area who plans to enter one of the graduate or professional schools at Howard will receive the award.

Guggenheim Recipients

Three Negroes were among the 191 recipients of Guggenheim Fellowships announced recently by the John Simon Guggenheim Memorial Foundation. The grants totaled $780,000.

The names and fields of study of the Negro fellows were:

Dr. Lloyd Noel Ferguson, associate professor of chemistry, Howard University, for a study of the distribution of enzymes in the cytoplasm of amoeba and other organisms;

Dr. Abram L. Harris, professor of economics, the University of Chicago, for a study of the history of economic progress and social reform;

And Owen Vincent Dodson, associate professor of drama, Howard University, to study in Italy for creative writing in fiction.

Dodson already is a recognized writer. Among his books are "Boy at the Window" and "Powerful Long Ladder," both Farrar, Strauss and Young publications.

$23,000 In Grants Listed By Hillman Foundation

SCHOLARSHIP awards and grant-in-aid for 1953 totalling $23,000 were made last week by the trustees of the Sidney Hillman Foundation. The foundation is named for the late president of the CIO Clothing Workers, who died in 1946.

Established in 1947 to further the aims and ideals of Hillman in the fields of labor-management relations, race relations and world peace, the foundation awarded its scholarships to 11 institutions in the United States, Puerto Rico, Israel and India.

Jacob S. Potofsky, president of the ACWA and of the Sidney Hillman Foundation, said the following received scholarship awards:

Roosevelt College, Chicago; Amal School, Jerusalem; Brandeis Univ., Waltham, Mass.; New York State School of Industrial and Labor Relations, Cornell Univ., Ithaca, N. Y.; Howard Univ., Washington, D. C.; Educational Foundation for the Apparel Industry, New York City; New School for Social Research, New York City.

Also Fisk Univ., Nashville, Tenn.; Labor Relations Institute, Univ. of Puerto Rico, Rio Piedras, Puerto Rico; the ICFTU Asian Trade Union College, Calcutta; and Goddard College Plainfield, Vt. P. 8

THE FOUNDATION also made a grant-in-aid to the Southern Regional Council, Atlanta, for its community work.

Potofsky said during its first five years the foundation had disbursed $75,000 for scholarships, $100,000 for medical research and $15,000 for grants-in-aid. In addition $1000 annual awards were made for meritorious public service and $500 annual awards in daily and periodical journalism and the fields of fiction and non-fiction.

Georgian Awarded Third Study Grant

NEW YORK — William E. H. Howard of Athens, Georgia and New York City has just been notified by The Institute of Social Studies at The Hague that he has been awarded a full two-year scholarship to [illegible] for the study of public administration with particular emphasis on under-developed areas.

This International Institute is a recent outgrowth of the five leading Dutch Universities: Leyden, Utrecht, Delft, Amsterdam and Rotterdam; and it is under the sponsorship of the Netherlands Universities Foundation for International Cooperation. Students and professional people from all over the world are in attendance at this post graduate Institute in the Social Sciences.

This is the third International Scholarship Mr. Howard has received within the past four years. In 1949-50, he was the first resident of Ethiopia to receive a Fulbright Award to study for one year at the University of Glascow in

THIRD FELLOWSHIP

WILLIAM E. H. HOWARD

Whitney Awards Granted To Three

NEW YORK — Three colored public high school teachers are included among the 20 John H. Whitney fellows from 15 states who will take a year's leave of absence from teaching beginning Sept. 1 to attend Columbia and Yale universities under fellowship awards, the Whitney Foundation announced last week.

They are:

Linton C. Berrien, music teacher at Mays high school at Goulds, Dade county, Fla. A resident of Miami, he has also taught at Dorsey high and Goulds junior high in Dade County.

At Columbia university, Mr. Berrien will work on a plan of music instruction to meet the needs of pupils with varied music backgrounds. In addition to regular course work in music and related fields, he proposes to visit and observe music activities in leading high schools.

English Teacher

Mrs. Juanita W. Todd, 2374 ave. O, Birmingham, Ala., English teacher at Western high school in her native city. In addition, she directs school oratorical contests.

At Yale University, Mrs. Todd plans to expand her knowledge in classical, European, and American literature and cultures related to social adjustment. She believes that knowledge taught in the schools should be kept responsive to social needs of students.

Mrs. Vivian T. Hagwood of 1519 Pulaski st., Little Rock, Ark, chairman of the English department at Dunbar high school in Little Rock. A native of New Orleans, she has taught in her present school system for 19 years.

At Columbia university, she will expand her interests and background in the history of civilization and communications, as well as visiting the United Nations Assembly and classrooms of outstanding secondary schools.

Two Atlantans Receive Whitney Fellowships

Three Georgians received Opportunity Fellowships for 1953, the John Hay Whitney Foundation announced recently. These young men and young woman, who show special ability in their chosen fields, will receive grants of up to $3,000. The three winners are:

Edgar Rogie Clark of Atlanta, currently on a Ford Fellowship; to combine graduate work in Music at Columbia University with further work preparing a book on the folk music of Negro peoples. Mr. Clark received his A. B. degree from Clark College and his M. A. degree from Columbia University.

He has also attended Chicago Musical College, Julliard School of Music and Columbia University. Mr. Clark is Director of the Music Department of Jackson College and previously taught at the 110th St. Community Center, the New School for Social Research and the New York City Board of Education.

Miss Dorothy Ellison of Atlanta, student at Julliard School of Music; to continue intensive study in voice. Miss Ellison attended Morris Brown College. She has had a western concert tour of about 70 concerts.

A soloist at many churches in the South and East, she is at present soloist at St. Marks Methodist Church, New York. Her ambition is to succeed as a soloist. She is considered to have a voice of great beauty and considerable power.

Billy Eugene Frye of Clarkesville, Georgia, senior student at Piedmont College; to pursue graduate study in biology at University of Illinois.

This year the Foundation has awarded $100,000 in Fellowship to 52 persons from 20 states and 6 territories. Among this year's winners are Negroes, Spanish-Americans, Chinese-Americans, Japanese-Americans, Puerto Ricans, American Indians. a native of the Marshall Islands and Displaced Persons.

The awards for training and study are made each year to American citizens of exceptional promise who. because of arbitrary barriers such as race, cultural background, or region of residence, have not had the fullest opportunity to develop their abilities.

Most of the award winners will return to their communities and with their new knowledge and experience work towards the betterment of local economic, educational and social standards.

23 Winners Of Opportunity Fellowships Are Announced

NEW YORK—Twenty-three Negroes are included among the fifty-two Opportunity Fellowship recipients announced today by thte John Hay Whitney Foundation. The Fellowship winners will receive grants for training and study totaling $100,000.

These awards are made to American citizens of exceptional promise who, because of arbitrary barriers such as race, cultural background or region of residence, have not had the opportunity to develop to the fullest extent their abilities to make their richest contribution to society.

Among this year's fellows are Negroes, Spanish-Americans, Displaced Persons, American Indians, Japanese-Americans, Puerto Ricans and residents of U. S. Territories. Men and women from the Marshall Islands, Hawaii, Puerto Rico, the Virgin Islands and twenty states and the District of Columbia will be enabled, under their fellowship, to continue training or pursue creative work.

The grants, ranging from $1,000 to $3,000, will aid this year's winners to study in 26 different fields, including Medicine, Law, Art, Music, Anthropology, Literature and the Sciences. As in the past, Opportunity Fellows are young people, mostly between the ages of twenty and thirty.

Among the persons receiving fellowships are:

Miss Betty Allen oof Campbell, Ohio, student and teacher of music in Hartford, Connecticut; to do concentrated study in Voice, Languages and Interpretation toward concert career.

Thomas Blair of New York City, research assistant at Michigan State College; to continue work towards Ph. D. in Sociology.

Letitia Brown of Tuskegee, Alabama, presently a housewife of Mount Vernon, New York, to complete dissertation for Ph. D. in History from Radcliff College.

Paul Brown of Knoxville, Tenn., teacher and currently graduate student at University of Illinois; to complete course work for Ph. D. in Zoology.

Edgar Clark of Atlanta, Georgia, currently on Ford Fellowship; to combine graduate work in Music at Columbia University with further work preparing a book on the folk music of Negro Peoples.

Albert Garner of Washington, D. C., currently a research associate at Howard University; will combine work toward Ph. D. in Chemistry and teaching assistantship at Pennsylvania State College.

Israel Glover of Oxford, North Carolina, associate professor of Mathematics at Langston University, Oklahoma; to continue work on dissertation for Ph. D. in Mathematics from Oklahoma A and M College.

Ulric Haynes of Brooklyn, New York, recently student at New York University, will continue studies in Law at Yale University.

Neal Hemachandra of St. Albans, New York, student at Queens College; will work toward completion of his Masters in Music Education.

James Jones of Little Rock, Ark currently employed as Industrial Relations Analyst for the Chicago Wage Stabilization Board; to begin study in Law at University of Wisconsin.

Alvin Labat of Washington, D. C., teaching assistant at the American University; too study for Ph D. in French and Linguistics at Columbia University.

Miss Antonia Pantoja of San Juan, Puerto Rico and New York City; will complete work for Masters Degree from New York School of Social Work.

Miss Mary Robbs of Chattanooga, Tennessee, student at Julliard School of Music; to continue study in Voice toward concert career.

Mr. Ramon Rosario, free-lance photographer of New York City; to do documentary study on Puerto Rican cross-section of New York City.

Dr. Claudius Shropshire, general medical officer at Travis Air Force Base Hospital, California; to begin surgical residency training at Los Angeles Veterans Hospital.

Elliott Skinner of British West Indies and Brooklyn, New York, to continue graduate studies for Ph D. in Anthropology from Columbia University.

Edgar Toppin of New York, student at Northwestern University; will continue work on dissertation foor Ph. D. in American History.

RENEWALS

John DeJongh of the Virgin Islands, student at Harvard University; to complete final year on work for Law Degree.

James Emanuel of Alliance, Nebraska, student at Northwestern; to continue work on Ph. D. in American Literature.

George Jones of Orangeburg, New York, currently student and hospital attendant; to continue work toward Ph. D. in Philosophy at Columbia University.

Gus Ridgel of Poplar Bluff, Missouri; to continue requirements for Ph. D. Degree in Labor Economics from University of Wisconsin.

Joseph Stewart of New York City, graduate student at School of Business Administration at Harvard University; will complete work towards Masters Degree in Transportation.

23 Earn 1953 Opportunity Fellowships

NEW YORK. — (ANP) — Some 23 Negroes are included among the 52 Opportunity fellowship recipients awarded by the John Hay Whitney foundation. The fellowship winners will receive grants for training and study totaling $100,000.

These awards are made to American citizens of exceptional promise who, because of arbitrary barriers such as race, cultural background or region or residence, have not had the opportunity to develop to the fullest extent their abilities to make their richest contribution to society.

The grants, ranging from $1,000 to $3,000, will aid this year's winners to study in 26 different fields including medicine, law, art, music, anthropology, literature and the sciences. Most of the recipients are between the ages of 20 and 30.

Negro recipients and their fields are:

Thomas Lucien Blair, New York, work toward his Ph. D. in sociology at Michigan State college; Letitia Woods Brown, Mt. Vernon, N. Y., to start her dissertation on the social history of the Negro in the District of Columbia; Paul Lopez Brown, Knoxville, Tenn., work on his Ph. D. thesis; Israel Glover, Langston, Okla., work towards his Ph. D.;

Also James Edward Jones, Little Rock, Ark., to study law at the University of Wisconsin: Betty Allen, Campbell, Ohio, for concentrated study in voice, languages and interpretation; Edgar Clark, Atlanta, Ga., for work preparing a book on the folk music of Negro peoples; Dorothy Ellison, Atlanta, Ga., to continue voice study; Albert Garner, Washington, D. C., will combine work towards Ph. D. in chemistry and teaching assistantship at Pennsylvania State college;

Also Ulric Haynes, Brooklyn, N. Y., to continue studies in law at Yale university; Neal Hemachandra, St. Albans, N. Y., for work on his master's degree in music education; Alvin Labat, Washington D. C., to study for Ph. D. in French and linguistics at Columbia university; Antonia Pantoja, New York, will complete work for master's degree from New York school of social work.

Also Mary Robbs, Chattanooga, Tenn., to continue study in voice at Juilliard school of music; Ramon Rosario, New York, to do documentary study on Puerto Rican cross-section of New York; Dr. Claudius Shropshire, to begin surgical residency training at Los Angeles Veterans hospital; Elliott Skinner, Brooklyn, to continue graduate studies for Ph. D. in anthropology from Columbia university;

And Edgar Toppin, New York, to continue work on dissertation for Ph. D. in American history at Northwestern university; John DeJohgh, Virgin Islands, to complete final year for law degree at Harvard university; James Emanuel, Alliance, Neb., to continue work on Ph. D. in American literature at Northwestern university; George Jones, Orangeburg, N. Y., to continue work towards Ph. D. on philosophy at Columbia university; Gus Ridgel, Poplar Bluff, Mo., to continue requirements for Ph. D. in labor economics from University of Wisconsin, and Joseph Stewart, New York, to complete work towards master's degree at Harvard university.

Opportunity fellows are selected by a Committee on Award which includes:

Rene d'Harnoncourt, director, Museum of Modern Art; Mrs. Mildred McAfee Horton, director of Women's Reserves, USNR; Dr. Charles S. Johnson, president of Fisk university; Oliver LaFarge, president, Association on American Indian Affairs and Prof. Kenneth MacGowan, chairman, department of theatre arts, University of California at Los Angeles.

Robert C. Weaver is director of the program.

Whitney Award To Rogie Clark

JACKSON, Miss. — Edgar Clark, director of music at Jackson college, has been awarded a 1953-54 Whitney Foundation award.

Mr. Clark, a native of New York, will do both creative writing and a N.Y. recital under the grant.

In addition, he will leave July 8 to do research work in folk music in Cuba, Jamaica and Trinidad.

Also on the grant, he will complete his book, "The Black Bard," a treatise on folk music from early Africa to contemporary America.

Whitney Award To Edgar Clark

JACKSON, Miss. — Edgar Clark, director of music at Jackson college, has been awarded a 1953-54 Whitney Foundation award.

Mr. Clark, a native of New York, will do both creative writing and a N.Y. recital under the grant.

In addition, he will leave July 8 to do research work in folk music in Cuba, Jamaica and Trinidad.

Also on the grant, he will complete his book, "The Black Bard," a treatise on folk music from early Africa to contemporary America.

23 Earn Whitney '53 Fellowships

NEW YORK (ANP)—Some 23 colored persons are included among the 53 Opportunity Fellowship recipients awarded by the John Hay Whitney Foundation. The fellowship winners will receive grants for training and study totaling $100,000.

These awards are made to American citizens of exceptional promise who, because of arbitrary barriers such as race, cultural background or region or residence, have not had the opportunity to develop to the fullest extent their abilities to make their richest contribution to society.

The grants, ranging from $1,000 to $3,000, will aid this year's recipients to study in 26 different fields, including medicine, law, art, music, anthropology, literature and the sciences. Most of the recipients are between the ages of 20 and 30.

Opportunity Fellows are selected by a Committee on Award which includes Rene d'Harnoncourt, director, Museum of Modern Art; Mrs. Mildred A. Horton, director of Women's Reserves, USNR; Dr. Charles S. Johnson, president of Fisk University; Oliver LaFarge, president, Association on American Indian Affairs, and Prof. Kenneth Macgowan, chairman, department of theatre arts, University of California at Los Angeles.

Robert C. Weaver is director of the program.

List Of Grants

Recipients and their fields are:

Thomas L. Blair, New York, work toward his Ph.D in sociology at Michigan State college; Letitia W. Brown, Mount Vernon, N.Y., to start her dissertation on the Social History of colored residents in the District of Columbia; Paul L. Brown, Brown, Knoxville, Tenn., work on his Ph.D. thesis; Israel Glover, Langston, Okla., work towards his Ph.D.;

Also James E. Jones, Little Rock, Ark., to study law at the University of Wisconsin; Betty Allen, Campbell, Ohio, for concentrated study in voice, languages and interpretation; Edgar Clark, Atlanta, Ga., for work preparing a book on the folk music of colored people;

Dorothy Ellison, Atlanta, Ga., to continue voice study; Albert Garner, Washington, D.C., will combine work towards Ph.D in chemistry and teaching assistantship at Pennsylvania State college;

Also Ulric Haynes, Brooklyn, N.Y., to continue studies in law at Yale University; Neal Hemachandra, St. Albans, N.Y., for work on his master's degree in music education; Alvin Labat, Washington, D.C., to study for Ph.D in French and linguistics at Columbia University; Antonia Pantoja, New York, will complete work for master's degree from New York School of Social work;

Also Mary Robbs, Chattanooga, Tenn., to continue study in voice at Juilliard School of Music; Ramon Rosario, New York, to do documentary study on Puerto Rican cross-section of New York; Dr. Claudius Shropshire, to begin surgical residency training at Los Angeles Veterans hospital; Elliott Skinner, Brooklyn, to continue graduate studies for Ph.D in anthropology from Columbia University;

And Edgar Toppin, New York, to continue work on dissertation for Ph.D. in American history at Northwestern University; John DeJohn, Virgin Islands, to complete final year for law degree at Harvard University; James Emanuel, Alliance, Neb., to continue work on Ph.D. in American literature at Northwestern University;

George Jones, Orangeburg, N.Y., to continue work towards Ph.D. in philosophy at Columbia University; Gus Ridgel, Poplar Bluff, Mo., to continue requirements for Ph.D. in labor economics from University of Wisconsin, and Joseph Stewart, New York, to complete work towards master's degree at Harvard University.

Granted John Hay Whitney Fellowship

SCOTLANDVILLE, La. — Paul L. Brown, biology department, Southern University was recently granted a John Hay Whitney Scholarship to continue his studies at the University of Illinois.

Mr. Brown a graduate of Knoxville College and the University of Illinois, has been on leave studying at the latter institution since the fall of 1952. He studied this summer at Woods Hole Marine Biological Station, Woods Hole, Mass., and was recently initiated into Phi Sigma, a Biological Honorary Society.

A staff member of Southern University for five years, Mr. Brown will use his scholarship assistance to do further study toward the Ph. D degree at the University of Illinois.

Three Negro Tutors Win Fellowships,

NEW YORK (—Three Negro public high school teachers are included among the twenty John Hay Fellows from fifteen difference states who will take a year's leave of absence from teaching beginning Sept. 1, to attend Columbia and Yale Universities under the fellowship awards, the John Hay Whitney Foundation announced this week. They are:

Linton C. Berrien, music teacher at Mays High School, Goulds, Fla.

Mrs. Juanita W. Todd, 2374 Avenue O, Birmingham, Ala., teacher of English at Western High School.

Mrs. Vivian T. Hegwood of 1519 Pulaski Street, Little Rock, Arkansas, chairman of the English Department at Dunbar High School in Little Rock.

Alabama State Alumni Awarded Yale Fellowship

Mrs. Jaunita Willis Todd, 2374 "O" Ensley, Ala., has been officially notified of her approval for a John Ray Fellowship to attend Yale University next year.

Mrs. Todd plans to expand her knowledge in classical, European and American literature and cultures related to social adjustment. She believes that knowledge taught in the schools should be kept responsive to the social needs of students.

She is a graduate of Alabama State College of 1944 with a major in social sciences and minors in English. She was the winner of an Elk's Oratorical Contest scholarship during her senior year at Parker High School in Birmingham.

Mrs. Todd is affiliated with the Alpha Kappa Alpha sorority, the Birmingham Negro Teachers Association and the Alabama State Teachers Association. She is an instructor at the Western High School in Birmingham.

Fund Established To Honor Memory of Dr. Louis T. Wright

New York— At Harlem Hospital New York City, last night, Jan. 26, a Louis T. Wright Memorial Fund was established in honor of the Surgical Director and President of the Medical Board of Harlem Hospital who died on October 8, 1952. Dr. Wright had also been Chairman of the Board of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People for twenty years and had been the recipient of many honors for his achievements in medicine.

The Fund will be used for awards which will be made annually in the form of fellowships to graduate physicians and or grants-in-aid in support of research. The fund will be maintained by annual voluntary contributions from individuals, groups or organizations in sympathy in its purpose. The amount, number and variety of awards will be determined by the funds in hand. No limitations will be placed upon the professional background of beneficiaries or the geographic locations or scientific fields in which they will work. Beneficiaries will be chosen on a basis of merit and nothing else.

The officers of the Fund are as follows: Honorary President, Dr George Packer Berry, Dean, Harvard Medical School;; President Honorable Hubert T. Delany, Judge, Domestic Relations Court of the City of New York; Vice President, Dr. Lester Breidenbach, New York university; Vice President, Dr. Eugene H. Dibble, Director, John A. Andrew Hospital; Vice President, Miss Mary E. Switzer, Director, Office of Vocational Rehabilitation, Federal Security Agency;; Secretary, Mrs. Gertrude B. Stone, Cancer Research Foundation, Harlem Hospital; Treasurer, Dr. M. Leo Bobrow, Director of Gynecology, Harlem Hospital; Chairman of the Board, Dr. W. Montague Cobb, Professor and Head, Department of Anatomy, Howard Medical School, who organized the fund.

Dr. Harold D. West, a nephew, by marriage to the late Dr. Wright and President of Meharry Medical college, is among the distinguished persons chosen on the Board of Directors of the Louis T. Wright Memorial Fund.

14j 1953

MARION ANDERSON SCHOLARSHIP FUND

Boatwright wins Anderson award

BOSTON — More honors have come to MacHenry Boatwright of this city, who now has been awarded the $750 award from the Marion Anderson Scholarship Fund.

Mr. Boatwright, a baritone, and a senior at the New England Conservatory of Music, was grand prize winner in the second annual Boston Post (daily) Music Festival last May; he was also named the "best man singer of 1953" at the 24th annual Chicagoland Music Festival in August.

Mr. Boatwright now holds a Lotta Crabtree scholarship and the Pi Kappa Lambda scholarship at the Conservatory; he has appeared as a soloist at Conservatory concerts, played operatic roles and recently appeared as guest soloist at a dinner at Boston Garden given in honor of President Eisenhower.

14j 1953

MAUDE CALVERT SCHOLARSHIP

Wins Maude Calvert Scholarship

Mrs. Wanda Duke Rouce, Watonga, Okla., a first year student in the School of Social Work of the University of Oklahoma.

Mrs. Rouce has been awarded the Maude Calvert Scholarship, given by the Oklahoma Society for Crippled Children for the year 1953-54. This scholarship is awarded to one second year graduate student in the School of Social Work who is interested primarily in the medical field. The recipient of the award is not committed to serve any particular agency but is selected on the basis of probable length of service of the candidate that will be available to the state of Oklahoma. Value of the scholarship is $1200. Previous recipients of this award were Miss Mary Baird of Norman 1951-52, and Miss Addye Gunter of Muldrow 1952-53.

The award was set up to honor Mrs. George Calvert of Oklahoma City on the occasion of the 25th anniversary of her service with the society.

Mrs. Rouce is 23 years old, was born in Watonga, Okla., and received her bachelor's degree from Langston in 1952. She is an excellent student and it is the feeling of the committee making the award that she will make significant contribution not only to the medical social work field, but also to the field of inter-cultural relations. During her first year of graduate study at the University, she has served on a variety of committees working in the field of social relationships.

Award $74,075 In Fellowships To Doctors, Scholars For Research

National Medical Fellowships has awarded grants totaling $74,075 to 46 Negro doctors and scholars in medical and related fields for study during 1953-54.

Names of the award winners were announced last week in Chicago by Dr. Nathaniel O. Calloway and Dr. Franklin C. McLean, vice president and secretary-treasurer, respectively, of National Medical Fellowships.

National Medical Fellowships, formerly Provident Medical Associates, was organized at the end of World War II by a group of Chicago physicians, largely through the efforts of Dr. McLean, of the University of Chicago.

The organization, now national in scope, concerns itself "with the medical education of Negroes and the improvement of the conditions for their practice of medicine."

Including the latest awards, National Medical Fellowships have given $337,95[illegible] in grants to 146 individuals.

Those named for 1953-54 grants are:

ADVANCED TRAINING

Renewals: Harold E. Farmer, U. of Pennsylvania, $4,800 June A. Jackson, Bellevue hospital, $3,600.

New: Wendell M. Lucas, Freedmen's, $1,500; Marcus W. Moore, U. of Maryland, $3,000 Frank A. Perry, Memorial hospital, $1,200 Edward M. Sewell, Bellevue hospital, $1,000.

CLINICAL FELLOWSHIPS

Renewals: Cyril Crocker, Freedmen's, $1,500; Emmett J. Ingram, Provident, $1,500.

New: Roy E. Boggs, U. of Illinois, $1,500 Frederick D. Drew, Freedmen's, $1,500; Harold A. Garnes, Lincoln, Bronx, $1,500; Howard O. Gray, Wayne County, $1,500; John E. Hall, H. G. Phillips, $1,500; William H. Hayling, Lincoln, Bronx, $1,200 John S. Jackson, Meharry, $1,500; Muriel Kowlessar, Strong Memorial, $1,500; LaSalle D. Leffall, Freedmen's, $1,000; Harry I. Martin, Freedmen's, $1,500 K. T. Mehlinger, Institute Juvenile Research, $1,500; Ralph C. Morris, NY Post Graduate, $1,500; Gregory C. Murray, L. A. County, $720; Emwood E. Odom, Cleveland City, $1,500; Mildred E. Phillips, Mt. Sinai, NYC, $1,500; George Shepard, Freedmen's, $1,000; Earl B. Smith, H. C. Phillips; $1,200; Warren Strudwick, Freedmen's, $1,500; V. R. Thompp B. Williams, Creighton U., $1,500; John T. Wilson, U. of Cincinnati, $840.

SCHOLARSHIPS

Renewals: Kenneth W. Anderson, University of Illinois; 4th year, $1,000; Gloria Cochrane, Yale U., 3rd year, $600; Charles S. Davis, University of Illinois, 3rd year, $1,000; John B. Harris, M. D., U. of California, Intern, $1,200; Edsel K. Hudson, U. of Illinois, 3rd year, $1,500 Ernest W. Lowe, M. C., Wayne County, Intern, $500; L. V. C. Manderson, NYU, 4th year, $1,000; Andrew Spencer, Indiana U., 4th year, $1,400; R. H. Timpton, M. D., U. of Illinois, Radiology, $1,800.

New: Rodney W. England, U. of Illinois, 2nd year, $900; Alfred B. Jefferson, Meharry, 3rd year, $385; J. Spencer Munroe, U. of Toronto, 3rd year, $900.

POLIO ADVANCED FELLOWSHIPS

Renewals: Wallace Dooley, M. D., Children's hospital, $4,800; Yvette F. Francis, M. D., Bellevue, $1,170.

New: Milforde Blackwell, M. D., National Institute, London, $3,000.

PREDOCTORAL FELLOWSHIPS

Virgil E. Matthews, U. of C., $3,180; Fred R. West, jr., U. of Chicago, $3,180.

46 medics granted study fellowships

CHICAGO — Names of recipients who will ssure in the $74,075 in grants or study in medicine and related fields, announced recently by National Medical Fellowships, Inc., were released last week by Dr. Nathaniel O Calloway, vice-president, and Dr. Franklin G. McLean, secretary-treasurer.

The 46 recipients of fellowships, the fields in which they will study, and the amounts received are:

Fellowships for advanced training (Connonwealth Fund):

Renewals: Harold E. Farmer, Internal Medicine, U. of Penna. $4,800; June A. Jackson, psychiatry, Bellevue Hosp. NYC, $3,600.

New: Wendell M. Lucas, urology, Freedmen's, $1,500; Marcus W. Moore, surgery, U. of Maryland, $3,000; Frank A. Pery, cancer surg., Memorial Hosp., $1,000; Edward M. Sewell, pediatrics—Bellevue, NYC $1,000.

Clinical Fellowships

Clinical fellowships (General Funds)

Renewals Cyril Crocker, Obs. and Gyn., Freedmen's, $1,500; Emmett J. Ingram, Obs. and Gyn. Provident, Chicago, $1,500.

New Roy E. Boggs, Anesthes., U. of Ill., $1,500; Frederick D. Drew, Radiology, Freedmen's, $1,500; Harold A. Garnes, Urology, Lincoln, Bronx, $1,500; Howard O. Gray, Surgery, Wayne County, $1,500; John E. Hall, Pediatrics, H. G. Phillips, $1,500;

William H. Hayling, Obs. and Gyn., Lincoln, Bronx, $1,200; John S. Jackson, Surgery, Meharry, $1.500; Muriel Kowlessar, Pediatrics, Strong Memorial, $1,500; LaSalle D. Leffal, Surgeyr, Feedmen's, $1,000; Harry I. Martin, Obs. and Gyn., Freedmen's, $1,500;

K. T. Mehlinger, Neuropsych., Inst. Juv. Res., $1,500; Ralph C. Morris, Int. Med., N.Y. Post Grad., $1,500; Gregory C. Murray, Surgery, L.A. County, $720; Emwood E. Odom, Obs. and Gyn., Cleveland City, $1,500; Mildred E. Phillips, Pathology, Mt. Sinai, NYC, $1,500;

George Shephard Jr., Obs. and Gyn., Freedmen's, $1,000; Earl B. Smith, Surgery, H. G. Phillips, $1,200; Warren Strudwick, Surgery, Feedmen's, $1,500r; V. R. Thompson Obs. and Gyn., Feedmen's, $1,500; James B. Williams, Surgery, Creighton U., $1,500; John T. Wilson, Ind. Med., U. of Cincinnati, $840;

Scholarship Awards

Renewals: Kenneth W. Anderson, U. of Ill, 4th yr., $1,000; Gloria Cochrane, Yale U. 3rd yr., $600; Charles S. Davis, U. of Ill. 3rd yr., $1,000; John B. Harris. U. of Calif., Intern, $1,200; Edsel K. Hudson, U. of Ill., 3rd yr., $1,500; Ernest W. Lowe, Wayne County, Intern, $500; L. V. C. Manderson, NYC, 4th y., $1,00r0 Andew Spencer, Indiana U., 4th yr., $1,400; R. H. Timpton, U. O FIll. radiology, $1,800.

New: Rodney W. England, U. of Ill. 2nd yr., $900; Alfred B. Jefferson, Meharry, 3rd yr., $385; J. Spencer Munroe, U. of Tronto, 3rd yr., $900.

Polio Study Grants

National Foundation for infantile paralysis: (Advanced fellowships)

Renewals: Wallace Dooley, ortho- Yvette F. Francis, M.D. Pediatrics, Bellevue, $1,170;

New: Mildorde Blackwell, neurology, Natl. Inst., London, $3,000

Basic sciences predoctoral fellowships: Virgil E. Matthews, chemistry, U. of C., $3,180; Fred R. West Jr., pharmacology, U. of C., $3,180.

14j 1953

Scholarship Service's Aid To Students Is Remarkable

IN OUR news columns is a dispatch announcing the award of a grant of $170,000 to the National Scholarship Service and Fund for Negro Students by the Ford Foundation.

The award is richly deserved and will help an almost unique agency to perform its functions much more admirably.

It is to be hoped that the Ford Foundation's interest will be sustained and that other educational and philanthropic organizations, several of which have previously donated to the Scholarship Service's budget, will increasingly recognize the good work of the service.

In the five years of its existence the Scholarship Service, directed by an interracial board of nationally known persons, has helped more than 2,300 Negro students to enter 250 interracial colleges and preparatory schools and to receive over $450,000 worth of scholarship aid.

That is a truly magnificent contribution to the education of disadvantaged Americans.

Originally, the Scholarship Service (whose headquarters are at 31 West 110th street, New York 26, N. Y.) concentrated on gaining admission with financial assistance of qualified Negroes into non-segregated colleges in the North and West.

Next it sought with marked success to get the celebrated prep schools in New England and elsewhere, some of which had never had colored students, to open their doors and assist worthy Negro boys and girls to meet the high costs of private school education by granting them scholarships.

Its most recent—and third—objective is to make integration a two-way process, by assisting qualified white students to enroll in and to receive scholarships at Negro institutions.

The expert guidance and assistance rendered by the Scholarship Service to students who otherwise might never receive first-class college and prep school training in unsegregated institutions, is a major contribution to the whole cause of education and interracial amity.

Scholarships for Negroes

TO THE EDITOR OF THE NEW YORK TIMES:

As a contributor to the fund I appreciate your editorial support for the United Negro College Fund in your issue of April 13. The valued efforts of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People to break down segregation in the colleges in the South has had some substantial success, but the whole job has not yet been done, so that the Negro colleges in that section still need and deserve support.

I would like to suggest, however, that the National Scholarship Service and Fund for Negro Students also deserves support. It provides scholarships for Negroes to attend colleges which are not segregated nor prejudiced, but where the student body is predominantly white. This seems to be thoroughly worthwhile from the point of view of both Negro and white students. For the members of both groups must live and work in a society where both groups exist. It is important for them at an early age to get to know members of the other group.

ALFRED BAKER LEWIS.

Mount Vernon, N. Y., April 13, 1953.

Among 34 Honored

National Scholarship Award Goes To Tuskegee Student

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, Ala., July 21 — A Tuskegee Institute girl was one of 34 boys and girls from 12 southern states and the District of Columbia awarded supplementary college scholarships ranging from $100 to $400 each by the National Scholarship Service and Fund for Negro Students, Inc., 31 West 110th Street, New York City, it was announced today by Dr. Robert C. Weaver, chairman of the Agency's Supplementary Scholarship Fund Board of Trustees.

The winner is Clarice Dibble, of Box 956, Tuskegee Institute, who will enter Sarah Lawrence College, New York, next September. "Clarice Dibble is a graduate of the Northfield School for Girls, in East Northfield, Mass., and is one of our outstanding award winners," Dr. Weaver stated.

She is one of 27 entering college freshmen for whom funds were drawn for the first time from a grant by the Ford Foundation's Fund for the Advancement of Education. The grant was given the National Scholarship Service for its newly launched South-wide Negro student talent search.

The other seven winners were college upper classmen, previously aided by the National Scholarship Service from its Edwin R. Embree Supplementary Scholarships and Jean Tennyson Awards.

The group of 34 will attend 24 colleges and universities in 11 northern and western states.

"These supplementary awards, the only ones of their kind, provide annual financial aid to gifted Negro students," Dr. Weaver explained. "Students already admitted to college through the counselling and referral service of the National Scholarship Service often receive scholarships from an institution, which are insufficient to meet their total needs. This plan makes it possible for them to bridge the financial gap, in order to begin or continue their education, and also makes the agency's funds available to a greater number of students who need them."

This year's 34 award winners were granted a total of $12,000 by the agency as a supplement to the $20,000 in scholarships they had won from the colleges to which they were referred.

The National Scholarship Service, a 6-year-old non-profit, social welfare agency, founded in 1947 by a group of college presidents, guides Negro students from all over the country to admissions and scholarships opportunities in the non-segregated colleges in the North and South.

"More than 2,300 students have been counselled and referred to 280 inter-racial colleges and universities in the last five years. They have won scholarships totaling $450,000, and ranging from $100 to $2,000 annually," said Dean-Emeritus Harry J. Carman of Columbia University, chairman of the agency's board of directors.

Trustees of the Supplementary Scholarship Fund, in addition to Dr. Weaver and Dr. Carman, are: Dr. Frank H. Bowles, executive director, college entrance examination board; Miss Margaret Halsey, author; Mrs. Gabriel S. Hauge, whose husband is a White House administrative assistant; Frank T. Simpson, executive secretary, Connecticut Civil Rights Commission; Mrs. Nathan Straus, education director, Radio Station WMCA; Miss Jean Tennyson, former opera star; Dr. Channing H. Tobias, recently retired executive director, Phelps-Stokes Fund, and Richard L. Plant, executive vice chairman, National Scholarship Service and Fund for Negro Students (ex-officio).

Nathaniel La Mar Awarded National Service Scholarship

One of thirty-four supplenmentary college scholarships ranging from $100 to $900 awarded to boys and girls from twelve southern states and the District of Columbia was awarded to Nahaniel La Mar, 491 Highland Avenue, N. , Atlanta, a junior at Harvard University, Massachusetts, by the National Scholarship Service and Fund for Negro Students, New York City, Dr. Robert C. Weaver, chairman of the Agency's Supplementary Scholarship Fund Board of Trustees announced.

"Nathaniel La Mar is an outstanding student and Phi Beta Kappa candidate at Harvard University," Dr. Weaver stated. Granted a $900 scholarship by the University, La Mar will be aided by a supplemmentary award from the Edwin R. Embree Memorial Scholarsnips. He is a graduate of Phillips Exeter Academy, New Hampshire.

Funds for twenty-seven of the group, all entering college freshmen, were made available for the first time from a grant by the Ford Foundation's Fund for the Advancement of Education. The grant was given the National Scholarship Service for its newly launched South-wide Negro student talent search.

34 STUDENTS

The thirty-four students will attend twenty-four colleges and universities in eleven northern and western states.

"These supplementary awards, the only ones of their kind, provide annual financial aid to gifted Negro students," Dr. Weaver explained. "Students already admitted to college through the counselling and referral service of the National Scholarship Service often recieve scholarships from an institution, which are insufficient to meet their total needs. This plan makes it possible for them to bridge the financial gap, in order to begin or continue their education, and also makes the Agency's funds available to a greater number of students who need them."

This year's thirty-four award winners were granted a total of $12,000 by the Agency as a supplement to the $20,000 in scholarships they had won from the colleges to which they were referred.

National Scholarship Service, Fund for Studen's pushes integration project

By THOMAS SKINNER

NEW YORK—The steady advance which the National Scholarship Service and Fund for Colored Students Inc. is making in its two-way racial integration project in Southern colleges and universities is a continuing source of encouragement.

No longer is it impossible for qualified colored students to gain admission to southern institutions of higher education which, until recently, were lodged behind the barriers of segregation. Learning has, indeed, made them free.

According to a bi-annual report published this week by Dr. Harry J. Carman, chairman of the organization:

"Fifteen colored and four white students are entering 11 newly interracial southern colleges, predominantly of the other race, under the two-way integration project with the help of $5,344 worth of college and other scholarships, supplemented by $6,525 from our two-way integration fund."

Slower Than Anticipated

In elaborating further on this point, however, the report said that "progress has ben slower than anticipated," inasmuch as these students represent only a small percentage of the total 263 recommended to 13 schools throughout the South.

The two-way project, the report emphasized, is being conducted in "the educational area in which the going is bound to be slowest, the private undergraduate colleges where changes are entirely voluntary."

Perhaps more success was achieved on the graduate level than any other in view of the fact that over 2,000 students have enrolled in previously restricted schools.

Gives $24,000 In Awards

In addition, Dr. Carman's report indicates that the organization gave $24,000 in scholarship awards this year to 72 colored undergraduates attending interracial colleges.

After being counseled by the National Scholarship Service and Fund 474 students have been admitted to 224 interracial colleges, with $97,000 worth of scholarship assistance.

Leading students in their respective classes will be tested, counseled and routed to colleges of their preference by Dr. Paul F. Lawrence of Howard university and Donald E. Wyatt of Fisk university, co-directors of southern field services, who are on leaves from their schools for the project.

The Rev. James H. Robinson and Robert C. Weaver, both of NYC are secretary-treasurer and chairman of trustees, respectively for supplementary scholarship fund.

Following is a list of names of the 72 colored students given scholarships this year:

FRESHMEN

Reba Adam, Charlotte, N.C., $400, Baldwin - Wallace Conservatory of Music; Dorothy Anderson, South Norfolk, Va., $200, Blackburn College; John Andress (white), $100, Lincoln University; George Benton, Fort Worth, Tex., $300, Iowa State College John Harold Carter, Washington, D.C. $400, Drake University

Datie Caruthers, Nashville, Tenn., $400, Milliken University; Joan E. 1234567890$.. —ETA shrodil unbgwyli Cole, Baltimore, Md., $325, St. John's College; Marva Dates, Baltimore, Maryland, $400 Pembroke College; Ronald Davidson, Bronx, N.Y., $400, Georgetown School of Foriegn Service Ozzie Marie Davis, Farmville, La., $385, Blackburn College;

Clarice Dibble, Tuskegee, Ala., $400, Sarah Lawrence College Senora Drewery, Washington, D.C., $400, Sargent College of Physical Education, Boston University; James Evans, Washington, D.C., $300, Catholic Univ.; Frank Fitzpatick, Columbia, S.C., $350, Ohio Wesleyan University; Joyce Greene, Philadelphia, Pa., $310, Bryn Mawr College; Gloria Grice, Washington, D.C., $300, Dunbarton College of the Holy Cross;

Clotilde Y. Guinier, Brooklyn, N.Y., $100, Wellesley College; James K. Hill, Greenwood, S.C., $400, West Virginia Wesleyan College; Robert Hood, Louisville, Ky., $300, Ohio Wesleyan University; Clarence Irving, New Orleans, La., $400, College of the Pacific; Dolores Johnson, Roselle, N.J., $300, Barnard College; Eunice Kirton, Wil, N.C., $350, Ohio Wesleyan University; Joretha Langley, Columbia, S.C., $350, Wilson College; Lois Leatherman, Cleveland, Ohio, $100, Wellesley College;

Beveleigh Mantooth, Muskogee, Okla., $400, Park College; William W. Morris, Baltimore, Md., $400, Ohio Wesleyan University; Ethel Murray, Tampa, Fla., $350, Otterbein College; Eleanor Norris, Washington, $400, Rockford College; Do- erson, Cleveland, Ohio, $250, College;

James G. Randle, St. Louis, Mo., $300, Washington University; David W. Ray, Washington, $400, Bates College; Arthu Lee Satterfield, Washington, D.C., $400, New York University; Barbara A. Stewart, Washington, D.C., $100 University of Pennsylvania; Warner Traynham, Baltimore, Md., $100 Dartmouth College;

Elene Ward, Memphis, Tenn., $400, West Virginia Wesleyan College.

Carol Waters, Washington, D.C., $400, Rockford College, Augustus A. White, Memphis, Tenn., $400, Brown University; Allen Richard Williams, Wilmington, Del., $300, Harvard University; Shirley Williams Washington, D.C., $300, Temple University; Ada L. Wrice, St. Louis, Mo., $300, Washington Univesity.

SOPHOMORES

Virginia Dearness (white), Washington, D.C., $200, Howard University; Miriam DeCosta, Orangeburg, S.C., $250, Wellesley College; Cherie Gaines, $300, Barnard College; Nathaniel, Washington, D.C., $200, Harvard University; DeRosette Hendricks, Rutherford, N.J., $400, Wheaton College;

Nan Denise Miller, Washington, D.C., $350, Wilson College: Milton E. Pharr, Gastonia, N.C., $110, DePauw University; Frieda Roots, Washington, D.C., $400, Catholic University of America James Albert Brown, Savannah, Ga., $400, Antoich College; William Sidney Corpening, Lenior, N.C., $400, Evansville, Ill.; Patricia Marilyn Edelin, Washington, D.C., $400, Wilson College, Pa.

Marva Laster, Charlotte, N.C., $400, Obelin, Ohio; Lee Edward Leary, Shreveport, La., $400 Wayland Bapist College; Susan Carroll, York, Pa., $400, West Virginia, Wesleyan; Barbara Jeanne Leece, Mt. Hope, W. Va., $400, West Vigini Weslevan; Fran-Kirkesy, St. Louis, Mo., $330, Washington University;

Cornelia Barnett, Phillippi, W. Va., $400, West Virginia Westeyan; Frances Faneuf, Woonsocket, R.I., $400, Fisk University, Tenn.; Joan A. Wood, $400, Fisk University, Tenn.

JUNIORS

Electra Keaney, Sparrows Point, Md., $350, Keuka College; Nathaniel LaMar, Atlanta, Ga., $400, Harvard University; Anthony B. Mason, Baltimoe, Md., $150, Swarthmore College; Joyce Mitchell, Sharon, Pa., $310, Bryn Mawr College;

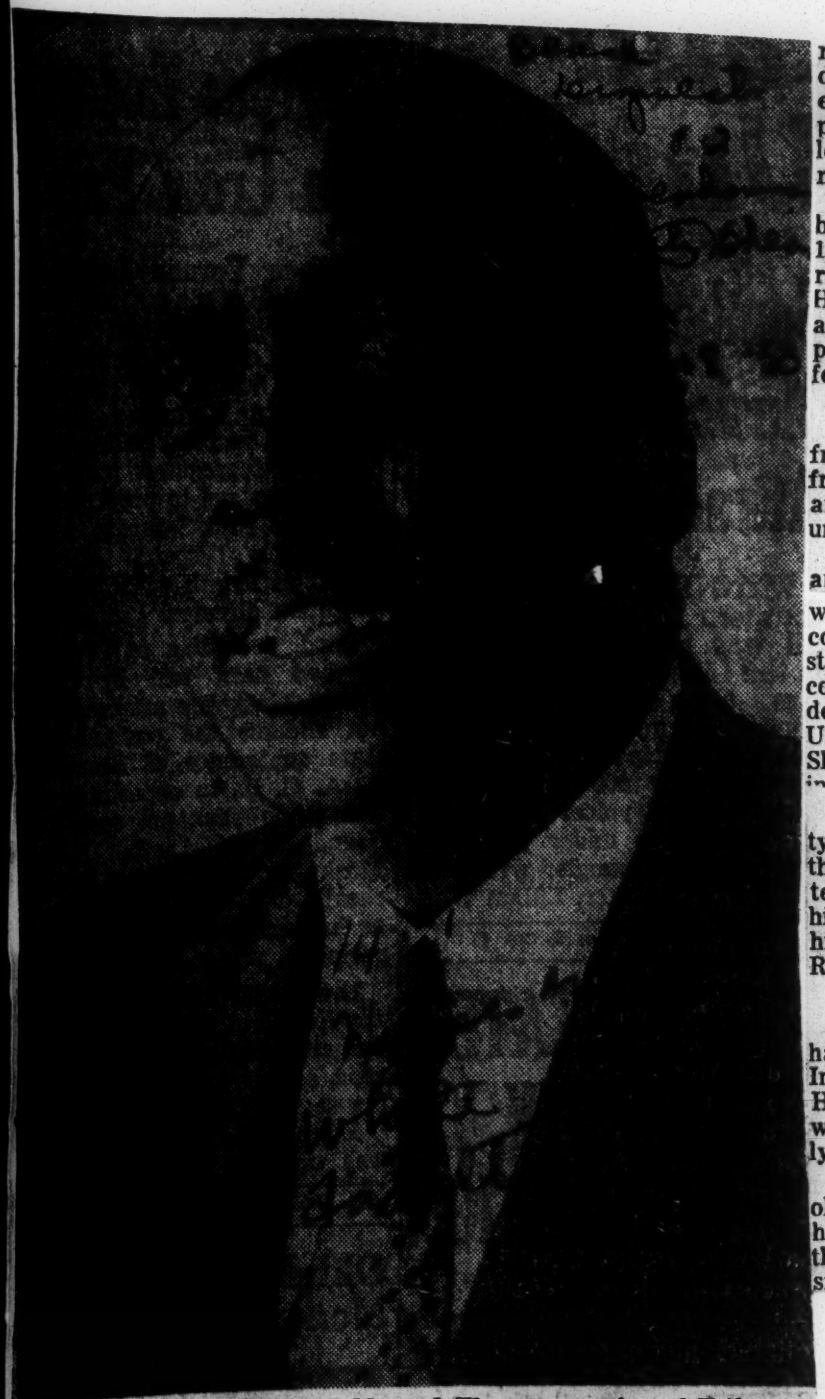
Sarita Smith, Washington, D.C., $350, Swarthmore College; Jewelle Taylor, Ansonia, Conn., $400, Radcliffe College; Nolan Williams, Washington, D.C., $300, Harvard University;

SENIORS

Dorothy Dean, White Plains, N.Y., $300 Radcliffe College; Lois Ann Dickson, Portland, Maine, $400, Radcliffe College; Evelyn E. Jones, Philadelphia, Pa., $400, Bryn Mawr College; D. Winona Nicholas, Orange, N.J., $280, Smith College.

14j 1953

NEGROES ON WHITE FACULTIES



COAST-TO-COAST—Dr. Howard Thurman, pastor of Fellowship Church in San Francisco, has made one of the most noteworthy cross country switches in theological history. He has been appointed University Preacher at Boston University and a Professor in the Theology school. (Newspress Photo)

INTERRACIAL TEACHER TRADE:

Wisconsin College Gets Dr. Savage Of Lincoln

STEVENS POINT, Wis.— In what is believed to be the first of its kind in Wisconsin, a unique interracial teacher exchange will take place at white Central State college during the coming summer session.

Dr. Frank W. Crow of the CSC history department, will go to Lincoln university at Jefferson City, Mo., and Dr. W. Sherman Savage, head of Lincoln's department of history and government will take Dr. Crow's place on the Stevens Point college staff during the 6-week summer session, June 15-July 24.

Dr. Savage has been a member of the Lincoln faculty since 1921 and is listed in the "Directory of American Scholars." He has authored several books and has a long list of articles published in educational and professional journals.

A.B. From Howard

He received his A.B. degree from Howard University; M.A. from the University of Oregon, and a Ph.D. from Ohio State university.

Dr. Crow received his A.B. and B.S. degrees from Northwest Missouri State Teachers college in Maryville, Mo. He studied at the University of Wisconsin for Ph.M. and the Ph.D. degrees. He also attended the University of Chicago and the Shrivenham American university in London, England.

Before joing the CSC faculty in 1947, he had taught with the University of Wisconsin extension division and had done historical research work on the history of Chicago with the Rockefeller Foundation.

To Live On Campus

Dr. Savage is married and has two children, Eloise, 17, and Inez, 14. He will live at Delzell Hall, CSC Men's dormitory, while in Stevens Point. His family will not accompany him here.

Dr. Crow's wife and 2-year-old son, Frank Jr. will go with him to Jefferson City where they will reside on the university campus.

TO TEACH AT NEW YORK U. MEDICAL SCHOOL.—The State University of New York has appointed Dr. A. Winifred Phillips, left, and Dr. John Benson Manly, right, both of Manhattan, to teaching positions at its Medical Center in downstate New York City. Dr. Phillips, a graduate of Wellesley college, received her M.D. degree from New York Medical college in 1941. She will have the title of instructor in the department of medicine. She formerly taught at Bennett college and at Hampton institute. Dr. Manley is a graduate of Talladega college and received his M.D. from Howard university school of medicine in 1935. He will be instructor part-time in the university division of orthopedic surgery at Kings county hospital. Dr. Manly completed a post-graduate course in orthopedic surgery at the University of Iowa in 1941. From 1941 to 1946, he was assigned to orthopedics and general surgery in the U. S. Army.

Woman Named To Temple Faculty

BROOKLYN, N. Y. — Mrs. Thelma Murdaugh Williams, of Brooklyn, served this summer as visiting instructor at Teachers College, Temple University, Philadelphia. A Negro, she was the first person of her race to serve on Temple's education faculty.

Mrs. Williams is director of the Children's Center in the Department of Welfare, New York City, and supervises a staff of 60 teachers and Civil Service personnel. The center has been sentenced as a pre-service agency for early childhood education majors by New York and Columbia Universities, Hunter College, and Ann-Reno College.

During the summers of 1951 and 1952, Mrs. Williams was guest instructor in education at Vassar College, Poughkeepsie, N. Y., and since 1952 has been part-time instructor in education at Teachers College, Columbia University, where she is studying toward her doctorate.

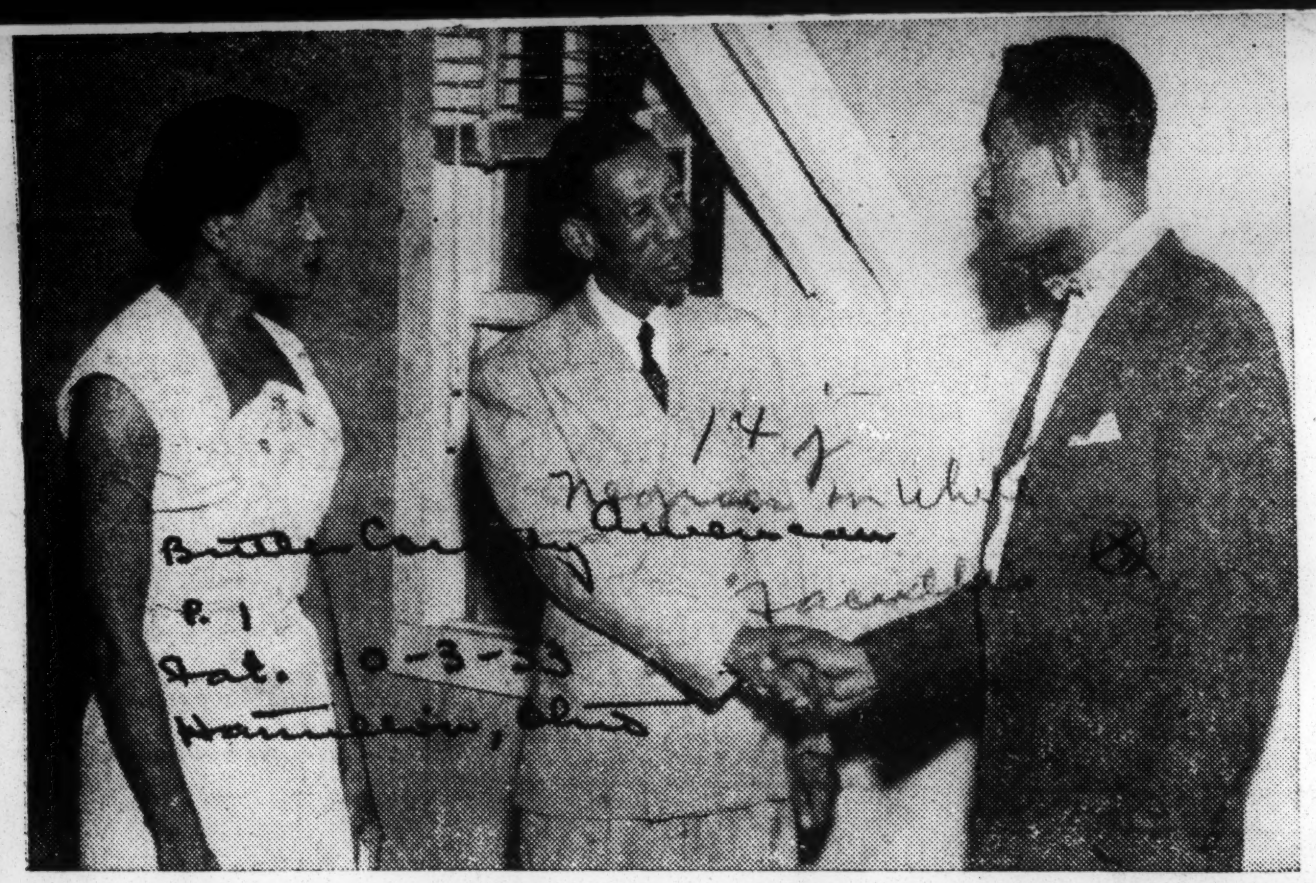
A daughter of a Methodist minister, Mrs. Williams is a member of Janes Methodist Church Brooklyn of which the Rev. Dr. Grant S. Shockley is minister. At Janes she is president of the Fisherman's Club, superintendent of the Youth Division of the Church School and church clerk. She is an ardent civic and community worker and a member of many fraternal organizations.

Brandeis Group to Hear Thornton

Dr. Robert A. Thornton, dean of instruction at Dillard university, will address members of the New Orleans chapter, National Women's Committee of Brandeis university, at a meeting at 1 p. m. Tuesday at Touro Synagogue Center, St. Charles and Gen. Pershing.

DR. THORNTON

Dr. Thornton, formerly associate professor of physics at Brandeis university, Waltham, Mass., will discuss the subject, "The Dimension of a Liberal Education." Dr. Thornton has studied more than 20 years at a number of major institutions and has a wide background in many subjects, although his chosen field is physics, according to Mrs. Leo Mervis, president of the chapter.



To Teach Abroad

Two graduates of the Florida A. and M. Univ. are scheduled to teach in foreign institutions during the current academic year. Miss Ruth Matthews, left, and Samuel Russell, right, receive congratulations from President George W. Gore Jr. Miss Matthews, of Tallahassee, will spend the year in Kariachi, Pakistan, under a Fullbright grant. Russell, of Ternandina Beach, Fla. will serve as assistant director of the American Technical Institute in Baghdad, Iraq. The appointment was made by Bradley Univ. — Staff Photo by H. Jones of FAMC

Omaha U. To Hire Negro Instructors

OMAHA, Nebr.—The efforts of the Omaha Urban League to remove all barriers to employment opportunities in the state and city universities received a boost this week when M. M. Taylor, industrial secretary for the League, was given an order from the University of Omaha for qualified instructors, librarian and clerical workers.

This is the third university in the state which has changed its employment practices to include qualified Negro citizens. The University of Nebraska and Creighton university began the practice two years ago.

The local League is interested in contacting persons who would be interested in positions on the instructional faculty. For in the library, individuals with PhD's and Library Science degrees are preferred. Inquiries may be made directly to Mr. Taylor at the Omaha Urban League, 416 Karbach Clock, Omaha 2, Nebr.

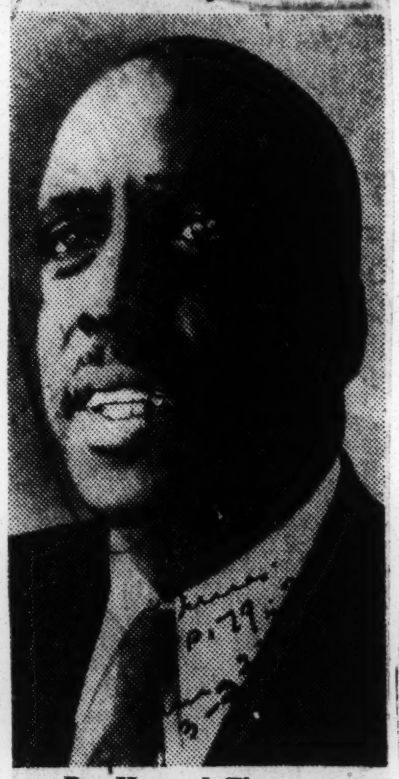
Father, Daughter On WR Faculty

CLEVELAND, O. (ANP)—The faculty of Western Reserve University here is well represented by members of the Evans family, including three members of Phi Beta Kappa, nation's highest academic fraternity.

Faculty members are Dr. Armen Evans, instructor in pediatrics, and Miss Margaret Evans, lecturer in romance languages.

Dr. Evans is a member of Alpha Phi Alpha fraternity, and his daughter is a member of the Alpha Kappa sorority and Phi Beta Kappa. Other members of the scholastic fraternity are Dr. Evans's wife, Louise, and another daughter, Mrs. Barbara Dumas.

Baptist Pastor Is Named Preacher by Boston U.



Dr. Howard Thurman

Special to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BOSTON, March 21—The appointment of the Rev. Dr. Howard Thurman as university preacher and Professor of Spiritual Disciplines and Resources at the School of Theology was announced today by Boston University.

Dr. Thurman is the pastor of the Fellowship Church, a Baptist congregation, in San Francisco. He will assume his new duties in September.

A university spokesman said that Dr. Thurman was the first Negro to fill a full time faculty post at Boston University. In his new poistion, Dr. Thurman wil head a six-member board of preachers.

Dr. Thurman, who is 54 years old, was graduated from Morehouse College in 1923 and received the degree of Doctor of Divinity there in 1935. He was ordained to the Baptist ministry in 1925. Before going to San Francisco, he was Professor of Christian Theology and dean of the chapel at Howard University.

Baptist Minister New BU Professor

Dr. Thurman Leaves California To Make A First In Boston

BOSTON — President Harold C. Case of Boston University announced this week that starting in September the university, in accordance with its charter-stated policy, will embark upon an enlarged campus-wide program of religion for all students, faculty and staff involving the appointment of new faculty members and the division of present responsibilities within a cooperative ministry.

One development in this extended group ministry is the appointment of Dr. Howard Thurman, Baptist clergyman, currently pastor of the Fellowship Church in San Francisco, Calif., where he is leader of a successful and thriving congregation composed of colored, caucasian and oriental parishoners.

Dr. Thurman has been appointed by the Boston University Trustees as University Preacher and Professor of Spiritual Disciplines and Resources in the University's school of theology. He is the first colored full time professor at the school.

Six Man Board

Headed by Dr. Thurman, the six-man University Board of Preachers will be composed of the president of the University, Prof. Edwin P. Booth, professor of historical theology; Dr. Allan Knight Chalmers, professor of preaching and applied Christianity; Dr. Littell, professor of religion in higher education; and Dean Walter G. Muelder of the school of theology.

Dr. Thurman, who has been granted an "indefinite leave" by his San Francisco congregation, is widley recognized as one of this country's outstanding preachers, President Case said. Under his direction, Boston University and San Francisco's Fellowship church will build an East-West Coast transcontinental relationship for graduates of the University's school of theology who wish to interne" there.

Each summer he will return to the Bay Area in a program to maintain the effectivenes of cooperative leadership on the Atlantic and the Pacific, with orientation here as students, and a start there in their chosen profession of preaching as graduates.

DR. THURMAN

Morehouse Graduate

A graduate of Morehouse College, Colgate-Rochester Divinity school and a student in the Oberlin Graduate School of Theology and Haverford College. Dr. Thurman, 54, was ordained a Baptist minister in 1925 at the age of 26.

He served as pastor in Oberlin O., for two years prior to joining his alma mater's faculty in 1928 as college pastor and professor of philosophy at Morehouse College and Spelman College in Atlanta, Ga.

On June 12, 1932, he married the former Sue Bailey. He went to Howard University also in 1932, where he served as professor of Christian theology and dean of the chapel. In 1946 he moved to San Francisco to organize Fellowship church.

Harvard Names Teaching Fellow

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. — The Dean of the Graduate School of Education of Harvard university has announced the appointment of Norman R. Dixon as a teaching fellow for the academic year of 1953-4.

Mr. Dixon will serve with Assistant Dean Sherfesee in Harvard's unique apprentice teaching program which has attracted nationwide attention.

Mr. Dixon, who is the highest ranking student in the Harvard Graduate School of Education, also was recently elected to membership on the Editorial Board of the Harvard Educational Review and membership in Phi Delta Kappa, the oldest national honorary fraternity in education.

Currently, Mr. Dixon is on leave from Bethune-Cookman College, Daytona Beach, Fla., seeking the Doctor's degree in education and psychology at Harvard.

Dilliard Professor Lectures At Davidson

NEW ORLEANS, La. — (ANP) —Henry Booker, head of the Dillard Music department, last week became the first negro to appear as a guest lecturer at white Davidson college, Davidson, N. C.

First in Toledo

TOLEDO, Ohio — (ANP) — James W. Hill, 40, who was graduated with high honors in June from the University of Toledo is slated to be named the first Negro high school teacher in Toledo at a board meeting next week.

Iowa State College Instructor Buried

DES MOINES, Ia. (NNPA) — George A. Freeman, 40, the first colored person to serve on the faculty of Iowa State college since Dr. George W. Carver taught botany there 57 years ago, died at the Veterans hospital here Friday.

Funeral services were held Tuesday in Kansas City, Kan., where Freeman was born and reared. Burial was in the military cemetery at Fort Leavenworth, Kan.

Freeman had been an instructor in the economics-sociology department of Iowa State since the fall of 1950, a year after he went there to study for his doctor's degree in sociology. He would have received his Ph.D. at the June commencement this year.

Death was due to hypertension and complications. His illness was related to his army service during World War II in Africa, Europe and the Pacific theaters. He was a first sergeant from 1943 to 1946. He spent the last two years overseas.

The Iowa instructor became ill March 21 and spent a week in the Mary Greeley hospital in Ames before he was transferred to the veterans' hospital here March 28.

A product of Sumner high school, Kansas City, Freeman attended Hampton institute, 1930-31, and received his B.S. degree in agriculture from South Carolina state college in 1935. He was active in sports in both high school and college.

He taught for a few years in rural South Carolina and later became principal of a consolidated school in that state. For three years before entering the army, he was employed in the Farm Security Administration and the National Youth Administration.

After his discharge from the army, Freeman entered Kansas State college where he received his master's degree in 1949. From there he went to Ames to work on his doctorate. He had been at Ames a year when he was invited to take an appointment as an instructor.

Freeman, the first colored person on the Iowa State faculty since 1895, was a member of the Collegiate Methodist church in Ames, Phi Delta Kappa, national educational fraternity; the Alpha Phi Alpha fraternity and the Iowa State college sociology club.

His wife, Mrs. Catherine Freeman, was employed in the Ames public library. Before her marriage on Nov. 30, 1939, she was Miss Catherine Claughton of Lexington, Ky.

As a memorial to Mr. Freeman the sociology faculty of Iowa State plans to establish a George A. Freeman shelf in the library. His friends and admirers will contribute books on sociology and inter-group relations to the shelf in his memory.

Savage Ends Exchange Job At Wisconsin

Dr. W. Sherman Savage, head of the department of history and government at Lincoln university, Jefferson City, Mo., stopped over in Chicago last week on his way home from Steven Point, Wis., where he spent the summer as an exchange teacher at Wisconsin State college.

Doctor Savage was the first Negro to teach at the institution. During the six-week session, he taught "American History To 1865" and "History of the West." Dr. Frank Crow, professor of history at Wisconsin State, taught at Lincoln's summer session.

A member of the Lincoln faculty for 21 years, Dr. Savage is also an author and newspaper columnist.

Colored Teacher At A White School

George Albert Freeman had been at Ames a year when he was invited to take an appointment as an instructor. How he happened to be offered the instructorship and an opportunity to follow in the footsteps of Dr. Carver was told last fall by Dr. Ray Wakeley, veteran professor of sociology at Ames.

"It came in the spring of 1950," he said. "We were growing aware that George Freeman was an outstanding student and specialist in research on sociological matters.

"Little by little, the various men in the department began to invite him to meet their classes, to serve as a 'guest' lecturer. It worked out very well. The students received Freeman with genuine interest. They liked his manner and material.

No Fanfare

"Having been thoroughly tested, Freeman was invited to take an appointment to the instructor staff. He promptly agreed. That was all. There was no fanfare, no special preparation for his students.

"George just walked in, introduced himself and began to teach. The young folk, perhaps a little surprised at first, found he was able and likeable. He has continued to do a fine job."

An indication of Freeman's full acceptance on the campus was his election as the 1951-52 president of Alpha Kappa Delta professional fraternity for sociology seniors, graduate students and faculty members.

Freeman met his sixty-seven students six times weekly, prepared lectures, tests and discussions in between, and at the same time worked on his doctor's dissertation in rural sociology.

Amazed At Reaction

Freeman said last fall that he was "amazed" at the reaction of his classes when he first walked before them. "Iowa youth, especially the group that comes here from the rural areas," he said, "has no awareness of any racial differences these days.

"It sees no 'problem' and has neither bias nor prejudice on the subject. Great progress has been made in this field of relationships. We have had lively discussion of races and religions in class, of course, but they have been objective ones, with no over-emphasis.

"But our course of study is not all racial. It covers the rise of culture, from tribal clans to today's society. It even goes into city planning, a wide variety of topics."

Freeman, the first colored person on the Iowa State faculty since 1895, was a member of the Collegiate Methodist church in Ames, Phi Delta Kappa, national educational fraternity; the Alpha Phi Alpha fraternity, and the Iowa State college sociology club.

Freeman had been an instructor in the economics-sociology department of Iowa State since the fall of 1950, a year after he went there to study for his doctor's degree in sociology. He would have received his Ph.D. at the June commencement this year.

Two Years Overseas

Death was due to hypertension and complications. His illness was related to his Army service during World War II in Africa Europe and the Pacific theater. He was a first sergeant from 1943 to 1946. He spent the last two years overseas.

Freeman finished the Summer High school in Kansas City, Kansas, entered South Carolina State college where he received his bachelor's degree in agriculture in 1935.

In both high school and college, Freeman was active in sports, winning letters as an all-end tackle in football, in basketball, and in track as a high jumper and 440-yard dash man.

He taught for a few years in rural South Carolina and later became principal of a consolidated school in that state. For three years before entering the Army he was employed in the Farm Security Administration and the National Youth Administration.

After his discharge from the Army, Freeman entered Kansas State college where he received his master's degree in 1949. From there he went to Ames to work on his doctorate.

The Iowa instructor became ill March 21 and spent a week in the Mary Greeley hospital in Ames before he was transferred to the veterans' hospital here March 28.

Died In May

He died Friday morning, May 8.

His widow, Mrs. Catherine Freeman, was employed in the Ames ublic library. Before her marriage in November 30, 1939, she was Miss Catherine Claughton of Lexington, Kentucky.

As a memorial to Mr. Freeman the sociology faculty of Iowa State plans to establish a George Albert Freeman shelf in the library. His friends and admirers will contribute books on sociology and inter-group relations to the shelf, in his memory.

Given Military Funeral

DES MOINES, Iowa (NNPA) — George Albert Freeman, 40, the first colored person to serve on the faculty of Iowa State college at Ames, Iowa, since Dr. George Washington Carver taught botany there fifty-seven years ago, died at the Veterans' Hospital here Friday morning, May 8.

Funeral services were held Tuesday, May 12, in Kansas City, Kansas, where Freeman was born and reared. Burial was in the military cemetery at Fort Leavenworth, Kansas.

Ann Browne Appointed To U. C. Faculty

BERKELEY, Calif.—Mrs. Anne Browne, popular and talented wife of Dr. Thomas Browne, 1820 Ashley ave., was recently appointed to the faculty of the University of California.

Mrs. Browne will be a field work supervisor in the School of Social Welfare. She has a wide and varied experience in this area having held many supervisory positions in family counselling and child welfare as well as a number of case work assignments.

The newly appointed instructor is a member of Alpha Kappa Alpha sorority.

FIRST NEGRO TEACHER AT HARVARD UNIVERSITY

Dr. William Augustus Hinton, who graduated from Harvard Medical School in 1912, was the first Negro to hold a full professorial chair at Harvard University. He retired in June after 36 years as chief of the Department of Clinical Laboratories of the Boston Dispensary, but retains a position as consultant at the Dispensary and as director of the Massachusetts Department of Public Health Institute of Laboratories.

Boston U. Employs First Fulltime Negro Professor

Special to Journal and Guide

BOSTON, Mass. — The appointment of Dr. Howard Thurman to a fulltime faculty post at Boston University was announced Saturday by Dr. Harold C. Case, university president.

Dr. Thurman is the first Negro in the history of the university to hold such a position on its faculty. He is an ordained Baptist clergyman, currently pastor of the Fellowship Church in San Francisco, Calif., where he is leading a successful and thriving congregation composed of Negro, Caucasian and Oriental parishioners.

AT THE SAME time Dr. Case announced that, starting next September the university, in accordance with its charter-stated policy, will embark upon an enlarged campus-wide program of religion for all students, faculty and staff involving the appointment of new faculty members and the division of present responsibilities within a cooperative ministry.

He said Dr. Thurman has been appointed by the BU trustees as university preacher and professor of spiritual discipline and resources in the university's school of theology.

DR. FRANKLIN H. Littell, since 1952 dean of the chapel at Boston University, will join the theological faculty as professor of religion in higher education which also will include his directing of graduate fellows who are assigned to group work among denominational and other religious clubs. He also will be a member of the six-man board of preachers to be headed by Dr. Thurman.

From Hyslop University in Nagpur, India, will come Harold Ehrensperger to join the theological faculty as associate professor of religion and creative arts, and to serve as adviser to Boston University's large group of students from many foreign lands. This will relieve Prof. Donald Oliver, university director of admissions, from the arduous responsibilities of advising this group which currently numbers 262 men and women from 60 different foreign countries who are studying on the Boston campus.

THE THIRD APPOINTMENT announced is that of the Rev. Taylor E. Miller, pastor of the Methodist Church, Leonia, N. J., Boston University 1941 graduate, as assistant professor of theology, and assistant in the university's planning and development program in which his duties will center on the interests of the school of theology. He will begin his duties at the university on April 1.

Headed by Dr. Thurman, the six-man University Board of Preachers will be composed of the president of the university, Prof. Edwin P. Booth, professor of historical theology; Dr. Allan Knight Chalmers, professor of preaching and applied christianity; Dr. Littell, professor of religion in higher education; and Dean Walter G. Muelder of the school of theology. Father O'Connor and Rabbi Perlman will continue their services, the latter in the new Hillel House now under construction and to be completed on the Boston University campus by the Hillel Foundation this summer ready for September opening. Several denominational leaders will serve part-time with the church groups for which they are responsible.

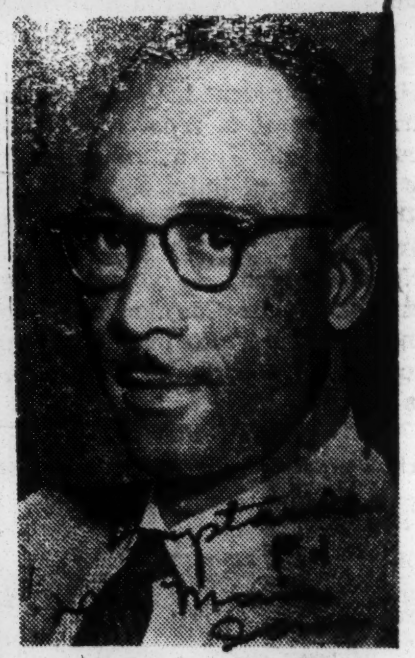
DR. THURMAN who has been granted an "indefinite leave" by his San Francisco congregation, is widely recognized as one of this country's outstanding, distinguished preachers, President Case said. Under his direction, Boston University and San Francisco's Fellowship Church will build an East-West Coast transcontinental relationship for graduates of the university's school of theology who wish to "interne" there. Each summer he will return to the Bay Area in a program to maintain the effectiveness of cooperative leadership on the Atlantic and the Pacific, with orientation here as students, and a start there in their chosen profession of preaching as graduates.

GRADUATE OF Morehouse College, B.D. 1923, D.D., 1935, of Colgate-Rochester Divinity School, B.D., 1926, and a student in Oberlin Graduate School of Theology, and Haverford College, Dr. Thurman was ordained a Baptist Minister in 1925 at the age of 26, and served as pastor in Oberlin, O., for two years prior to joining his alma mater's faculty in 1928 as college pastor and professor of philosophy at Morehouse College and Spelman College, Atlanta, Ga. On June 12, 1932, he married the former Miss Sue Bailey. He went to Howard University, Washington, D. C., in 1932, where he served as professor of christian theology and dean of the chapel. In 1946 he moved to San Francisco to organize Fellowship Church. In demand as a preacher to university students, he has conducted many religion in life seminars in a large number of colleges in this country and abroad, including Harvard, Wellesley, Sweetbriar College, and the University of Iowa. In 1936 Dr. Thurman was leader of the American Delegation to the International Student Conference in India.

Named To Faculty Boston University

Dr. Howard Thurman, minister of the Interracial Fellowship Church in San Francisco, Calif., has been appointed a full-time professor on the faculty of Boston University's School of Theology, Dr. Harold C. Case, university president has announced. Dr. Thurman becomes the first member of his race in the history of the university to be employed in such a capacity. He has been granted an indifinite leave from his California church whose parishioners consist of Negroes, Caucasians and Orientals.

Funeral of ISC Teacher, George A. Freeman, in Kansas



George A. Freeman.

Funeral services for George Albert Freeman, 40, an instructor in the economics-sociology department of Iowa State college at Ames, were held Tuesday at Kansas City, Kas.

Services were held from the First AME church in Kansas City with burial in a military cemetery at Wadsworth, Kas.

Mr. Freeman died Friday, May 1, at Veterans hospital here where he had been a patient since March 28.

He was the first Negro to be appointed to the Iowa State college faculty since the late Dr. George Washington Carver taught botany there more than 57 years ago.

The cause of Mr. Freeman's death was described as hypertension and complication.

Appointed in '50

He was appointed to the college faculty in the fall of 1950, about a year after he came there to study for his doctor's degree in sociology. He was to have received his degree this June.

Born and reared in Kansas City, Kas., Mr. Freeman attended Hampton institute in Virginia, and received his bachelor's degree in agriculture from South Carolina State college.

He taught vocational agriculture in South Carolina, and later was principal of a consolidated school. Later, he spent three years in the farm security and national youth administration work until 1942, when he entered the armed forces.

During World War II, Mr. Freeman served in Africa, Europe and the Pacific area.

In high school and college, he won letters in football, basketball and track.

He was a member of Collegiate Methodist church as well as a member of educational organizations.

In February, this year, Mr. Freeman was Interracial Sunday speaker at St. John's Lutheran church.

His wife Catherine, who survives, is employed in the Ames Public library.

Also surviving are a brother, Dr. James N. Freeman, head of the agricultlre department of Lincoln university, Jefferson City, Mo.; and, a sister, Mrs. Madeline Leos of Pheonix, Ariz.

Gets Wisconsin Teaching Post

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo — Dr. W. Sherman Savage, head of the department of history and government at Lincoln University here, left this week for Stevens Point, Wisc., where he will assume duties at Wisconsin State college.

Top Scholars On NYU Summer Faculty

NEW YORK—The nation's top tan scholars are set to serve on the 1953 summer session faculty of New York university in various subject matter fields.

Dr. Helen de Ramus Mitchell (sister of the noted pianist Ann) who was awarded her Doctorate in Education from NYU in the June commencement has been named among Lecturers on Education.

The Chicago scholar currently heading the Health Education Division of the New York City Department of Health will instruct courses in Health Counselling.

Regular Faculty Member

Miss Ardelle A. Llewellyn, a Philadelphian with degrees from Columbia who is a regularly appointed faculty member, will have courses in her speciality, secondary education.

Dr. Roscoe C. Brown, well-known track star who has run under the banner of Pioneer Club on both sides of the Atlantic and a holder of his doctorate in the field of physical education, will give lectures in health and recreation. ...

Roscoe Brown

Dr. Brown was formerly a member of the English Department at Lincoln university in Pennsylvania.

One of the highest ranking colored officers in the School of Education is the former Atlanta University professor Hale Woodruff. Now an associate professor, he will teach courses in art education.

been named among lecturers on education. Currently heading the Health Education Division of the New York City Department of Health, she will instruct courses in health counselling. Dr. Mitchell is a member of Alpha Kappa Alpha sorority and several honorary educational fraternities.

Ardelle A. Llewellyn, a Philadelphian with degrees from Columbia and who is a regular faculty member, will teach courses in her specialty, secondary education. Miss Llewellyn is a member of Delta Sigma Theta sorority.

Roscoe C. Brown, well known cinder path king who has run under the banner of Pioneer club, holder of a doctorate in physical education, will give lectures in health and recreation. Dr. Brown was formerly a member of the English department at Lincoln university in Pennsylvania.

One of the highest ranking Negro officers in the School of Education is the former Atlanta university professor Hale Woodruff. He is now an associate professor.

Scholars On New York U. Faculty

NEW YORK—The nation's top five scholars are set to serve on the 1953 summer session faculty of New York university in various subject matter fields.

Helen de Ramus Mitchell (sister of the noted pianist Ann), who just received her doctorate in education from New York university in the June commencement has

14j 1953

NIEMAN FELLOWSHIP AWARDS

Nieman Awards Are Named By Harvard Univ.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. — (SNS) — Eleven newspaper men and one woman have been picked as Nieman Fellows to study at Harvard University for a year, it was announced Tuesday by the University. The class begins in September and will run during the entire school year.

Appointed by the Nieman Foundation, this is the 16th year newsmen have been picked to spend a year at the University to study in their particular field of interest.

The Fellowships are awarded under the will of Agnes Wahl Nieman, who left $1,400,000 to Harvard to "promote and elevate standards of journalism." The grant was made in memory of Mrs. Nieman's husband, Lucius W. Nieman, founder and publisher of the Milwaukee Journal.

The new class of Nieman Fellows consists of:

Robert C. Bergenheim, 29, reporter Christian Science Monitor, Boston, Mass.; Barry Brown, 8, editorial writer, Providence Journal, Providence, R. I.; Alvin Davis, 28, reporter for New York Post; Richard B. Budman, 35, reporter St. Louis Post Dispatch; Charles L. Eberhardt, 30, group editor New Mexico Newspaper, Inc.; Robert E. Farrell, 27, reporter, Washington Bureau, Wall Street Journal; Miss Hazel G. Holly, 40, reporter and women's affairs writer, San Francisco Examiner; Robert E. Hoyt, 29, assistant city editor, Arkon Beacon Journal; Harold M. Schmeck, Jr., 30, reporter Rochester Times Union; Henry L. Trewhitt, Chattanooga Times; Wayne Whitt, 29, reporter, Nashville Tennessean; Donald L. Zylstra, 35, managing editor, Redwood Journal Press Dispatch, Ukia, California.

The selection committee consisted of Ralph McGill, editor, Atlanta Constitution; Paul Miller, executive vice-president, Gannett Newspapers; William A. Townes, Los Angeles; David W. Bailey, secretary, Harvard governing boards; William M. Pinkerston, director, Harvard News Service and Louis M. Lyons, Curator of the Nieman Fellowships.

Editor Gordon Returns After Harvard Stint

William Gordon, who last year became the first Negro from the Southeast to be honored with a Nieman Fellowship and its accompanying years study at Harvard University, is back at his desk as Managing Editor of the Atlanta Daily World.

Mr. Gordon returned to Atlanta Friday after attending the Harvard University International Seminar which was held from July 6 through July 26.

The seminar, in its third year now, is conducted for the express purpose of offering Harvard's contribution to international relations. Forty young people, representing 18 nations, attended at the University's expense.

The seminar was divided into three main categories, economics, politics and humanities. The seminar members were specialists in one of the three fields, and Gordon, the only Negro and one of three Americans, headed the economics branch.

The group toured the United Nations headquarters, and visited New England industrial centers. They included members of British and Japanese political groups, Italian and Malayan leaders.

Gordon was appointed to the seminar during his course of study on the Nieman fellowship. He was the only Nieman Fellow invited to the seminar.

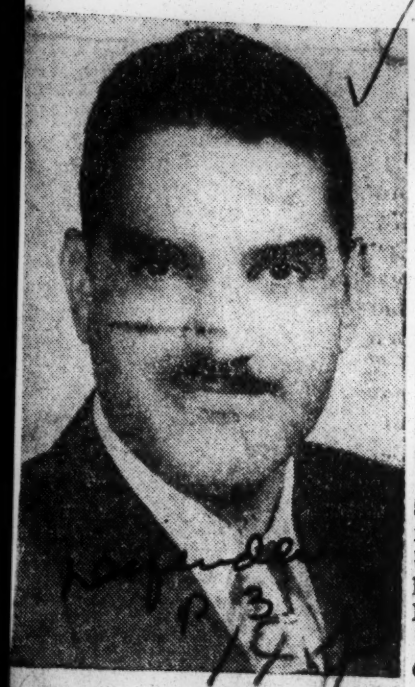
He is now again taking charge of the job of putting out the World each day, and its many weekly affiliates.

DAR Awards 3 Nursing Grants

WASHINGTON—The daughters of the American Revolution voted to give three nursing scholarships to interested, qualified colored girls. Miss Marcella Jane Monroe of Elizabeth and Julie Taylor of Columbia, Va., the practical nursing amendment to Ernestine Caraman of Washington.

14j 1953

Ph.D.



SAMUEL L. GANDY was awarded the doctor of philosophy degree recently by the University of Chicago. Dr. Gandy has been active many years in religious and educational circles and for the last several years has been a leader in youth and religious activities in Virginia. He served as director of religious activities at Virginia State college, Petersburg.

Morehouse Teacher Wins Ph. D. From Columbia Univ

Mrs. Winona Moore Lipman, of the Department of Modern Foreign Languages at Morehouse College, recently passed her examinations completing all requirements for the Ph. D. degree in French at Columbia University.

Her thesis, "Attitudes of Diderot Concerning Primitivism," had been previously accepted.

During the past two years (1950-51 and 1951-52), Mrs Lipman did research on her thesis at the Sorbonne in Paris. During the first of her two years in Paris, she was a Fulbright scholar.

Previously she was for two years a General Education Board fellow at Columbia University, on leave from her post at Morehouse, where she is assistant professor of French.

A native of LaGrange, Ga., Mrs. Lipman, nee Evelyn Wynona Moore, is a graduate of Tailedaga College, and she holds the M. A. degree in French from Atlanta University. During her second year in France Dr. Lipman was married to Dr. Matthew Lipman, now an employee of Columbia University and a resident of New York City.

Dr. Lipman returned to her post at Morehouse in September, 1952.

Dr. Lipman brings to 14 the number of Morehouse professors holding the doctorate, the highest academic degree, from the great American and foreign universities.

DR. THOMAS E. MALONE, professor of biology at North Carolina college, Durham, has received the Doctor of Philosophy degree from Harvard university, Cambridge, Mass. Dr. Malone is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William T. Malone of Durham.

Ex-Word Agent, Morehouse Grad, Earns Sixth Degree

DR. CLEVELAND FRANKS

Dr. Cleveland J. Franks, a graduate of Morehouse College, has been awarded the Doctor of Education degree in Physical Science from Teachers College, Columbia University. His thesis, "The Organization, Installation, Implementation and Administration of A Course in Physical Science Designed for General Education" has been recommended for publication by the University as one of the contributors to Education.

Dr. Franks has also received his master degrees from New York University, Columbia University, and McKinley-Roosevelt, and has also earned the Ph. D. in Chemistry from McKinley-Roosevelt of Chicago during World War II when this Chartered Educational Institution offered degrees to graduate students who had completed residence requirements for the degree in some other university, but had to serve in the Armed Forces before completing all requirements for the degree.

Dr. Franks has completed all point and residence requirements for the Ph. D. at New York University, and has earned a diploma in Analytical Chemistry from the International School, a diploma as a Clinical Laboratory Technician from the Imperial Technical Institute, and an instructors diploma from the Army Air Forces Technical Training Command, Chanute Field, Illinois, where he served as one of the few colored instructors in the Army Air Forces.

Professor Franks is one of the few Negro chemists who have been elected as a Fellow of the American Institute of Chemists (F. A. I. C.) He is a member of the American Chemical Society, Phi Delta Kappa, Beta Kappa Chi, National Science Teachers Association, and numerous other educational, civic and honorary societies.

Before going to Baltimore, Dr. Franks served as Professor of Chemistry at Texas College and Chairman of the Division of Natural Sciences and Mathematics. He has had wide experience as an educator, serving as a science teacher or high principal in ten states ranging from California, Nebraska, Illinois, to Florida, and as an assistant at both N. Y. U. and Columbia University. He has also served as a professor in the graduate school of Texas Southern University.

Dr. Franks is not interested merely in earnings degrees, but is chiefly concerned with attaining a high degree of proficiency in the physical sciences, especially from the point of general educational science at the college level.

This is evidenced by the fact that he has taken courses in geology, bacteriology, and botany at West Virginia State College; astronomy atomic energy, and college science for General Education Level at Sarah Lawrence College; Audio-visual Education at Chicago University and N. Y. U. numerous graduate courses in science and education at Atlanta University and the Cath-

...versity of America; and in Physics and Chemistry ...ges and universities in the ...st and California in addition to work leading toward degrees or diplomas.

At present, Dr. Franks is teaching science at Morgan State College and is engaged in post-doctoral study and research at Columbia University. While attending Morehouse College, he was a carrier-agent for the Atlanta World.

Education

Only 11 Negro Ph. D's Last Year

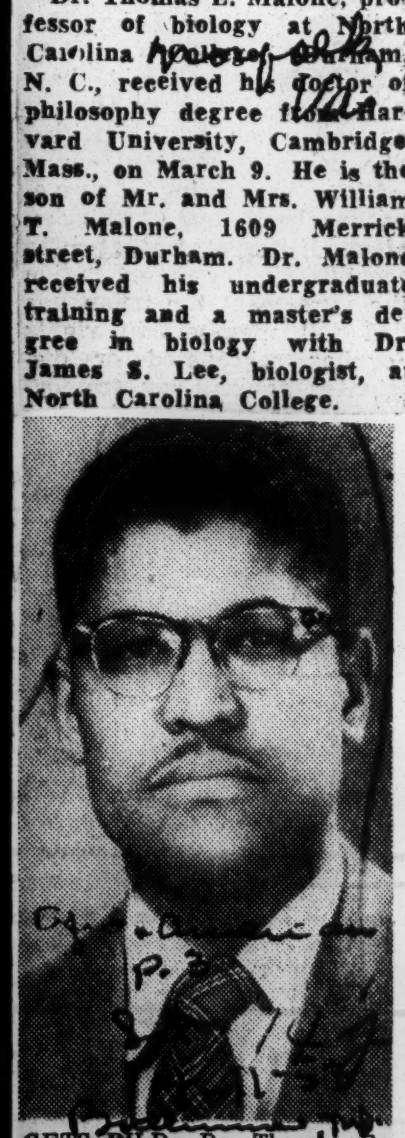
Speaking at Morgan State College, Baltimore, last week Dr. Herman R. Branson, Howard University professor of physics deplored the low rate at which Negroes are acquiring Ph.D's. He pointed out that although there were 60,963 Negroes in college last year, only 11 were awarded Ph. D degrees in all fields.

"That's a disgrace," Dr. Branson, Atomic Energy Commission director said. "If we had had at least 184 Ph. D's awarded last year, that would not have been too bad. But only 11—that's almost immoral."

TAKES DOCTORATE — Miss Charity M. Mance of the Department of Education at Tennesse State university, Nashville, has received Ph.D. degree in administration and supervision from New York university. A native of Columbia, S. C., Miss Mance is a member of Alpha Kappa Alpha sorority and Pi Lambda Theta Education honor society.

Gets Ph. D. From Harvard University

Dr. Thomas E. Malone, professor of biology at North Carolina College of Durham, N. C., received his doctor of philosophy degree from Harvard University, Cambridge, Mass., on March 9. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William T. Malone, 1609 Merrick street, Durham. Dr. Malone received his undergraduate training and a master's degree in biology with Dr. James S. Lee, biologist, at North Carolina College.



GETS PH.D.—Dr. Thomas E. Malone, professor of biology at North Carolina College, received his doctor of philosophy degree from Harvard University, Cambridge, Mass., recently.

DR. LYNETTE SAINE

The Woman's Society of Christian Service will observe "Woman's Day" Sunday, April 12 at 11 a. m. at Ariel Bowen Methodist Church.

The speaker will be Dr. Lynette Saine, a native of Atlanta, Georgia who is particularly close to this community since she was born on McDaniel Street, attended many of the churches in this vicinity and has the honor of having many friends who still reside here.

She received the A. B. degree from Spelman College; M. A., Atlanta University and the Ph. D. from the University of Chicago.

Presently, she is a teacher in the fields of reading and research in the School of Education, Atlanta University. She formerly taught at Spelman College in the departments of English and education and as adviser to the YWCA of the same school.

She is chairman of the Public Affairs Committee of the Butler St. YMCA. Within the last two weeks Dr. Saine has served as chapel speaker at the Fort Valley State College of Georgia and Miles College in Birmingham, Ala.

Dr. Saine will speak on "The Challenge of Life's Horizons" at Ariel Bowen.

The service is being dedicated to the past presidents of the WSCS on both the Conferences and the local levels. Friends are welcome. Mrs. M. S. Hines, president; Mrs. Eva Parks, vice-president; Rev. A. S. Dickerson, pastor.

A TOKEN FROM FELLOW WORKERS FOR HER ACHIEVEMENT.— Fellow members of the Principals' Study Club presented Mrs. Hazel Browne Williams with a token Saturday, May 2, at the Paseo YMCA in recognition of her recent achievement in earning her Ph. D. degree from New York university. Mrs. Williams, counselor at the R. T. Coles Vocational and Junior high school, was awarded the high degree this winter and will formally receive it at the N.Y.U. commencement in June. Presenting the token from her co-workers is Mrs. Ann Johnson, counselor at the Lincoln high school. In the center looking on is Leedy Campbell, vice principal of Coles and president of the Principals' Study club, which is made up of principals, vice principals and counselors in the Negro schools. Mrs. Williams became the fifth teacher in the Kansas City school system and the first Negro teacher to hold the Ph.D. degree. Her major field is English. The present was a fountain pen.

PH.D.

Harold T. Pinkett, the first and highest ranking Negro archivist at the National Archives, Washington, D.C., will receive the Ph.D. degree in history and archival administration at the American University, Washington, D.C., in June. He will be the first Negro scholar to receive the doctorate with major study in these combined fields.

A graduate of Morgan College and the University of Pennsylvania, a former school teacher in Baltimore, Md., and professor of history at Livingstone College, Mr. Pinkett has been an archivist at the National Archives since 1942.

He is the author of four official punlications issued by this agency and is a frequent contributor to historical journals. He is a member of the Society of American Archivists, American Historical Association, Association for the Study of Negro Life and History, Mississippi Valley Historical Association, and Agricultural History Society.

Source- Mr. Pinkett
Address- 3811 Jay Street, N.E.
Apt. 3
Washington 19, D.C.

14j 1953 Ph.D.

Mrs. Hazel Browne Williams Gets Ph.D.

Mrs. Hazel Browne Williams, counselor at the R. T. Coles Vocational and Junior high school, has been notified by officials at New York university, New York City, that she has successfully passed all requirements for the Ph. D. degree in English.

Formal conferment of the degree will take place at the annual commencement exercises of New York U. on June 10. Mrs. Williams plans to go to New York to receive the honor in person.

The awarding of the degree was the result of three years of study which Mrs. Williams did at the university while on leave of absence from the Kansas City public school system. While at New York U., she served as an instructor in the English department, School of Education. She was on leave from Coles from June 1948, until September, 1951, when she returned to her duties here.

Her doctor's dissertation was written on the subject: "A Semantic Study of Some Current, Pejoratively Regarded Language Symbols Involving Negroes in the United States."

Mrs. Williams was informed that she had been awarded the Ph.D. by Elwood C. Kastner, dean of admissions and registrar at New York U. who told her that she was among the successful candidates for the high degree recommended by the faculty of the university council.

The superior scholarship of Mrs. Williams at New York U., was recognized by her election to Kappa Delta Pi, honorary fraternity. Earlier, at the University of Kansas, where she received her A. B. degree, she was elected to Phi Beta Kappa. At Columbia university where she received the M.A. degree in counseling, Mrs. Williams was elected to Kappa Delta Pi, honorary fraternity.

Mrs. Williams is the daughrer of Mrs. Effie G. Irvine, 2455 Brooklyn Ave., and the niece of the Rev. and Mrs. F. F. Moten, 2541 Michigan Ave.

She is a native of Kansas City and a product of the public schools here.

Before coming her to teach in 1942, Mrs. Williams was assistant professor of modern languages at the Louisville Municipal college, Louisville, Ky. Shortly after her graduation from the University of Kansas, she studied a year in Germany as the first recipient of the foreign fellowships offered by the Alpha Kappa Alpha sorority of which she is a member.

Mrs. Williams is a member of the Jackson County Child Welfare advisory committee and of a committee which is working on housing for women with emphasis on the deviant girl. Mrs. Williams also is secretary-treasurer of the Heart of America chapter of the National Vocational Guidance association.

Board of education officials said this week that Mrs. Williams is the only Negro teacher now in the system who holds the Ph. D. degree.

AWARDED PH.D. DEGREE.—Mrs. Hazel Browne Williams, counselor at the R. T. Coles Vocational and Junior high school, who has been notified that she has been awarded the Ph.D. degree in English by New York university. The degree will be conferred at commencement exercises on June 10.

Gets Doctorate

Dr. Lincoln J. Harrison, professor of commerce at North Carolina College, Durham, who received his Ph.D. degree from the Ohio State University last week.

ty, Jefferson City, was recently awarded the Doctor of Education degree in guidance from Indiana university at Bloomington. He received the B. S. degree from Bishop College, Marshall, Texas, and the M. A. degree from the University of Wisconsin. He is the son of the Rev. and Mrs. Dewitt Hoard.

Dean Hoard was graduated from Vashon high school and is a member of Berea Presbyterian Church.

He holds membership in the Phi Delta Kappa honorary Society, the American Association of University Professors, the American Association of College Personnel, Missouri Psychological Association and the Kappa Alpha Psi fraternity.

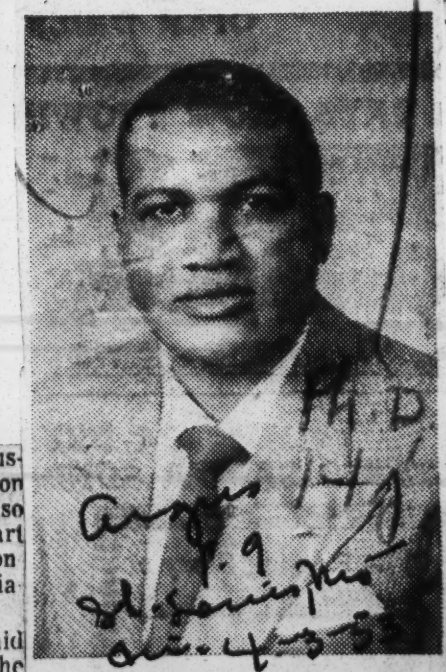
He is married to the former F. Yvonne Walker of Christiansburg, Va. They have one child, Adrienne Walker Hoard.

2 NCC Professo: Get Ph.D. Degrees

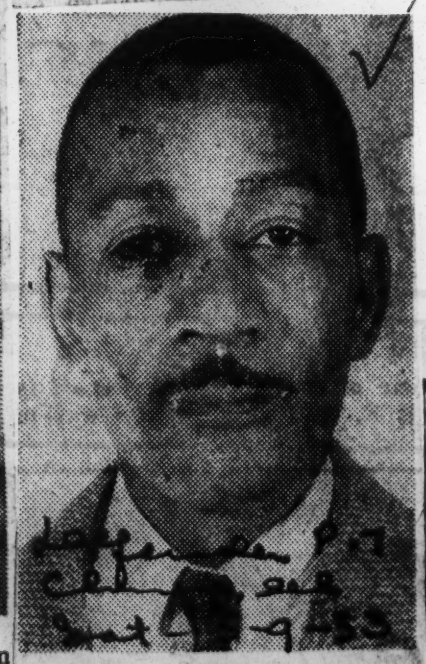
DURHAM, N.C. President Alfonso Elder of North Carolina Colllege has announced that two faculty members received Ph.D.'s during March. They are Dr. Lincoln J. Harrison, professor of accounting, and Dr. Thomas E. Malone, professor of biology.

Dr. Harrison received his degree from Ohio State University at the winter convocation, and Dr. Malone earned his doctorate at Harvard University.

LU Dean of Men Gets Doctorate



Charles M. Hoard, dean of men and assistant professor of physical education at Lincoln university, Jefferson City, was recently awarded the Doctor of Education degree in guidance from Indiana university at Bloomington.



WILLIAM A. BANKS, associate professor of biology at A & T college, Greensboro, N. C., has been awarded the Ph.D. degree in Zoology by Ohio State university ta Columbus. A native of Washington, D.C., Dr. Banks is married to the former Miss Theresa Luck. He served as a captain during World War II.

Walter Ridley Is First To Get Doctorate At U. Of Va.

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va.—When Walter N. Ridley, professor of psychology at Virginia State College, receives his doctor of education degree from the University of Virginia on June 15 he will become its first colored graduate as well as the first of his race to receive a degree on the doctoral level from any southern state university.

Mr. Ridley is proud of these firsts. He also was the first colored person to be initiated into a University of Virginia honorary fraternity, the Kappa Delta Pi professional education society. He received "A" grades on all his courses except one, and on that he made a B-plus.

His two years at the University of Virginia have been without disagreeable incidents of any kind. "If anyone gave any sign that I was not welcome, I was not conscious of it," he says.

President Darden, who will confer the degree of doctor of education upon him next Monday afternoon, says, "His excellent record leads me to believe that he will reflect credit upon the University of Virginia and upon the Commonwealth. Similar opinion has been voiced by Dean Lindley J. Stiles.

Negro Earns Ph. D. At Texas University

HOUSTON, Tex. — (ANP) — Ray Floyd Wilson, Gidding, Texas, last week received a Ph. D. in chemistry and applied mathematics from the University of Texas. He thus became the first Negro to earn a doctorate from the historic longhorn state university.

Dr. Wilson has accepted a position on the faculty of Texas Southern university.

He enrolled at the UT on a joint grant from the Atomic Energy Commission and the UT.

In 1948 he entered Samuel Huston College in Austin, now known as Tillotson-Huston College. Here he received the Bachelor of science degree in chemistry in 1950, finishing with cum laude. Later he received the Master's degree from TSU.

In 1951 he entered the University of Texas on a contract sponsored jointly by the United States Atomic Energy Commission and the University of Texas. He was a member of the research staff at UT for two years.

* * *

Mrs. Wilson was elected to membership in Phi Lambda Upsilon, Sigma XI, and the American Chemical Society. He is a member of Phi Beta Sigma Fraternity.

Mr Wilson comes from a family of four boys. His younger brother received the Bachelor degree in physical education Monday from Huston-Tillotson.

His oldest brother, Freddie, recently a member of the U. S. Air Force, is attending Florida A and M with major in science.

Yeura the other brother of Dallas, is working on the Masters degree at Denver University in Colorado.

Gets Ph.D. From U. Of Texas

HOUSTON—A 27-year-old Texan who became the first Negro to receive a Doctorate degree from the University of Texas, is back in Houston teaching at his alma mater where he received a Master's degree in 1951.

Ray Floyd Wilson, after receiving the Ph D in chemistry and applied mathematics, May 29, returned to Texas Southern University to teach in his field.

This time, instead of being seated in the classroom as one who came to acquire knowledge, he occupies the desk at the head of the class to which the students look for their source of information.

Though he has received several offers for positions other than teaching, Mr. Wilson states, "I prefer teaching now." So he has entered the career of his choice.

One of the offers was from the Dupont Chemical Company, which Mr. Wilson a free trip to visit the plant May 18.

A native of Giddings, Texas, Mr. Wilson is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Wilson of that town. He grew up in the little town and graduated from Giddings Colored High School..

After his graduation in 1944, he was called to serve his country as a member of the U. S. Navy. He was discharged in 1946. From 1946 to 1948, Mr. Wilson studied at the University of California at Los Angeles.

Dr. Wilson turned down an offer with Dupont to teach at Texas Southern. He is a native of Giddings, Tex.

Virginia Negro Gets First Degree

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va. (AP) — A Negro psychology student with an almost perfect academic record will become the first member of his race to receive a doctor's degree from a state university in the south Monday.

The University of Virginia will award a doctorate to Walter Nathaniel Ridley of Petersburg, Va., who is a teacher of psychology as well as a student.

Ridley is on leave from his job as head of the Department of Psychology at Virginia State College for Negroes at Petersburg.

During his two-year studies here, Ridley made "A" marks in every subject but one—and in that he earned a "B-plus."

Atlanta University Professor Gets Ph.D. Degree In Chicago

ATLANTA, Ga., June 13—Paul I. Clifford, assistant professor of education in the School of Education of Atlanta University, received the degree of doctor of philosophy from the department of education of the division of the social sciences, University of Chicago, at the 257th convocation on June 12 in Rockefeller Chapel. The degree was conferred on him by Chancellor Lawrence A. Kimpton of the University of Chicago, who also delivered the convocation address.

Prof. Clifford's dissertation is entitled "A Study of the Personality Organizations of a Selected Group of Highly Creative Chemists and Mathematicians." Among his subjects are some of the world's most eminent physical scientists, including presidents of mathematical and chemical societies, winners of medals awarded by American, Canadian, South American, and European learned societies, and a Nobel prize recipient. One-third of Prof. Clifford's subjects were starred in the 1949 edition of "American Men of Science."

The chairman of Prof. Clifford's dissertation committee was Dr. Benjamin S. Bloom, College Examiner of the University of Chicago. Other members of the committee were: Dean Ralph W. Tyler of the Division of the Social Sciences, Dr. Jacob W. Getzels of the Department of Education, Dr. George Stern and Dr. Morris I. Stein of the Department of Psychology.

While at the University of Chicago, the Atlanta University educator established a distinguished record. He received A's in all his courses except one. When he sat for the Ph.D. preliminary examinations, his performance was so outstanding that the faculty wrote him a special letter of commendation and entered upon the official records of the University that the examinations had been passed with distinction.

He holds the degree of master of arts from Atlanta University and the degree of bachelor of science in education from Pennsylvania State Teachers College. At the former institution he received all A's; at the latter, his academic work was of such calibre that he graduated as valedictorian of his class and received the award for maintaining the highest academic record for the four years.

The one year which Prof. Clifford spent in residence at the University of Chicago was done as a General Education Board Fellow.

At Atlanta University, he is the School of Education's elected member of the Atlanta University Senate; president of the Atlanta, Morehouse and Spelman Federal Credit Union; and vice-president of the National Alumni Association.

Ray Wilson

Univ. of Texas Gives Ph. D.

HOUSTON, Tex.—Rau Floyd Wilson received his Doctor of Philosophy degree from the University of Texas last Monday . . . first to be so honored. The degree was awarded in the field of chemistry and applied mathematics.

NCC Law School Dean's Daughter Receives Ph. D.

DURHAM, N. C. — Mrs. Joan Turner Goins, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. A. T. Turner, Durham, received the Ph.D degree in reading from the University of Chicago on Friday, June 12. Dr. Turner is dean of the law school at North Carolina College.

Mrs. Goins is currently making her home in St. Paul, Minn.

Dr. William S. Gray, nationally known authority in the field of reading, was in charge of Mrs. Goins, advanced work in Development and Advanced Reading at the University of Chicago.

Mrs. Goins earned her bachelor's and master's degrees in the field of psychology at the University of Michigan. She taught methods of primary and remedial reading at Pestallozzi-Froebel Teachers College, Chicago, later served as full-time research assistant to Dr. Gray, her adviser, and more recently, she has served as reading counsellor to both undergraduate and graduate students at the University of Minnesota.

14j 1953

PH.D.

New PH.D's On Teaching Staff

NASHVILLE — Seven new professors, holding the doctor of philosophy degree will join the Tennessee State University faculty this month for the 1953-54 school year.

The list includes two women doctors, the youthful Dr. D. Victoria Toms, of Washington, D. C., who will teach German; and from Kansas City, Mo., Dr. Hazel B. Williams, who recently received her doctorate in English from New York University.

The other doctorates include: Robert Cobb, Health and Physical Education, coming from Florida A. & M. University; Robert Ellis, Physics, rejoining the staff after a leave of absence to study; Edward C. Lewis, Music, recently receiving his doctorate from the University of Wisconsin; William McIntosh, Political Science, returning after a leave of absence to study; and Albert A. Thompson, Sociology, coming from Johnson C. Smith, North Carolina.

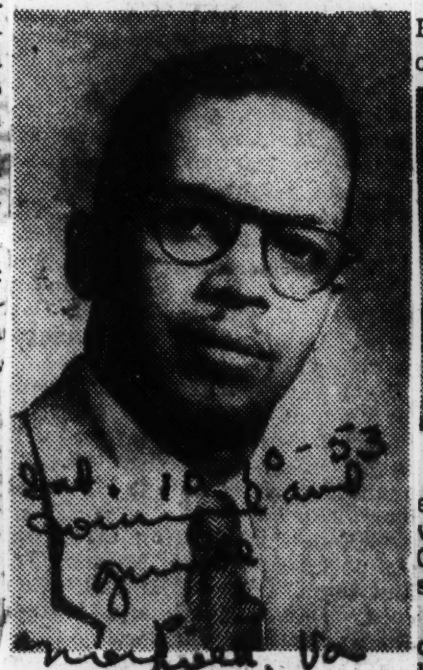
Fort Valley prof earns doctorate

FORT VALLEY, Ga. — Dr. Malcolm A. Davis, a native of Columbus, Miss., recently completed all requirements for the doctor of education degree at New York University.

The title of his thesis which was done under the sponsorship of Dr. Lou La Brant, is "A Study of the Personality and Social Interests of a Group of Negro College Freshmen as Revealed in their College Compositions."

Dr. Davis is a professor of English and head of the division of humanities at Fort Valley State College.

Virginia State Professor Gets Ph. D. Degree



RICHARD H. DUNN

PETERSBURG, Va.

Richard H. Dunn, associate professor of agriculture and biology at Virginia State College, Petersburg, received the degree of doctor of philosophy from Ohio State University at commencement exercises held recently.

Dr. Dunn is a graduate of Wilberforce University with the B. S. degree, and received the master of science degree from Ohio State. He was research assistant on the Ohio Agricultural experimental Staff in 1944, 1945, 1951, and 1952.

Formerly an instructor in biology at Florida A. and M. College. Dr. Dunn joined the Virginia State College staff in 1946. He is a member of Sigma Xi and Beta Kappa Chi National Scientific Societies and of Phi Epsilon Phi National Botany Fraternity.

He is co-author of a paper presented at the recent meeting of the American Institute of Biological Science at Madison, Wisconsin. Dr. Dunn is a member of Alpha Phi Alpha Fraternity, Inc.

Va. State Prof. Earns Ph. D. At Ohio State

Richard H. Dunn, Associate Professor of Agriculture and Biology at Virginia State College, received the degree of Doctor of Philosophy from Ohio State University at Commencement exercises held recently.

Mr. Dunn

Dr. Dunn is a graduate of Wilberforce University with the BS degree and received the Master of Science degree from Ohio State. He was research assistant on the Ohio Agricultural Experimental staff in 1944, 1945 and 1952.

Formerly an instructor in biology at Florida A. and M. College, Dr Dunn joined the Virginia State College staff in 1946.

WINS PH. D.—Dr. Maggie T. Browne Daniel, professor of English at Alabama State College, was recently awarded a Ph. D. degree by the University of Wisconsin.

Va. Audio Head Gets Doctorate

PETERSBURG, Va. — Samuel A. Madden, associate professor and head of audio-visual education at Virginia State college, was awarded the Doctor of Education degree from Columbia University at its recent commencement exercises.

S.A. Madden

Dr. Madden, A General Education Board fellow, is a member of Kappa Delta Pi and Phi Delta Kappa, the National Teachers Committee of the National Education Association, and the National Council on audio-visual instruction in teacher education.

During World War II, he was specialist in the U.S. Army's literary training program.

A graduate of Virginia State, he was president of the VSC Alumni Association for a number of years. In 1945, he returned to the college to direct the audio-visual education program.

A native of Culpeper, he is married and the father of two sons.

RECEIVES PH.D. AT UNIV. OF

CHICAGO — Dr. Jean Turner Goins, who received the Ph. D in reading last week from the University of Chicago, was in Durham this week visiting her parents, Law School Dean and Mrs. A. L. Turner of N. C. College. Dr. Goins is currently making her home at 1729 East County Road, D, St. Paul, Minn.

3 Awarded Doctorates At Ohio State

COLUMBUS, Ohio — (ANP) — Doctorate degrees were awarded to three persons during commencement exercises at Ohio State university here recently.

The recipients and their fields are:

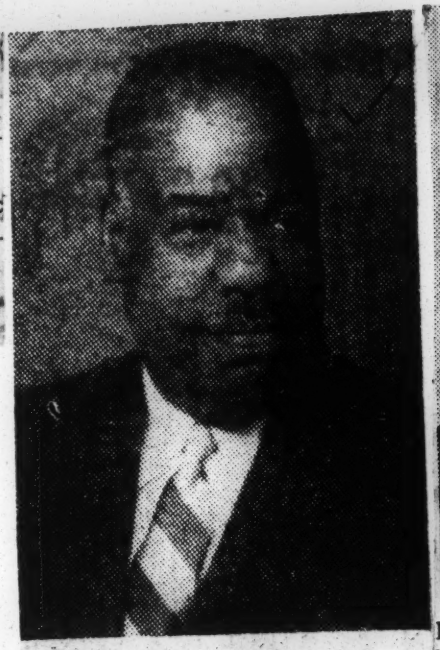
Kenneth C. Miller, foreign language education; Ralph J. Bryson, English-education, and Louis Austin, bacteriology.

Dr. Miller is head of the department of modern foreign language at Southern university, Baton Rouge, La. He received his A. B. at Wichita university in French and his M. A. from Ohio State in Spanish.

Bryson has served as an assistant in the instructional materials laboratory of the department of education at Ohio State for the past two years.

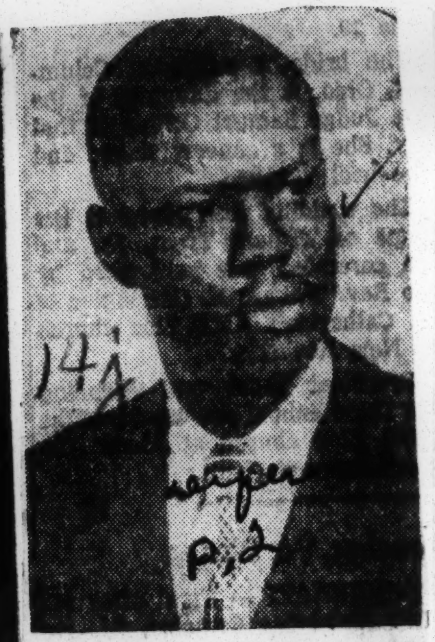
He earned his bachelor's degree from the university of Cincinnati and his master's degree from the same institution. Dr. Bryson plans to teach at Alabama State college this summer. In the fall, he will join the faculty of Central State college.

A native of New York, Dr. Austin taught at Ohio State while working on his doctorate.

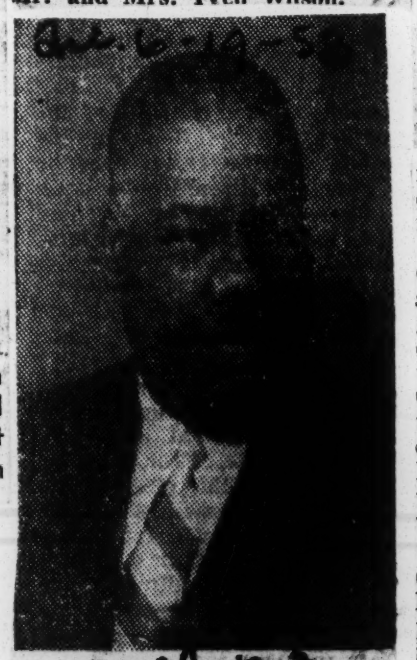


SCHOLAR - SCIENTIST — Paul I. Clifford, assistant professor of education in the School of Education of Atlanta University, received the degree, doctor of philosophy from the department of education of the division of the social sciences, University of Chicago, at the 257th convocation last week.

The Atlanta educator established a distinguished record at Chicago receiving A's in all courses except one. When he sat for the Ph. D. preliminary examinations, his performance was so outstanding that the faculty wrote him a special letter of commendation and entered upon the official record of the University that the examinations had been passed with distinction.



RAY FLOYD WILSON, recently became the first Negro to earn the Ph. D. degree at the University of Texas, Austin. Dr. Wilson, a chemistry major, received his B. S. degree from Samuel Huston college and his M. S. degree from Texas Southern university, where he is employed. He is a native of Giddings, Texas and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Wilson.



GETS PH.D.—Paul I. Clifford, assistant professor of education in the School of education of Atlanta University, who received the degree of doctor of philosophy from the University of Chicago on June 12.

Dr. R. D. Crockett Receives Ph.D. From Boston University

Dr. Roosevelt David Crockett, associate professor of philosophy and administrative assistant to President H. Council Trenholm of Alabama State College, Montgomery, received the Ph.D. degree, June 8, 1953, at the spring graduation exercises of Boston University. The degree was conferred after satisfactory completion of prescribed courses and requirement in the field of Social Ethics (philosophy.)

His dissertation is titled "The Conception of Human Nature in Robert MacIver's Sociological Theory."

Dr. Crockett comes to Montgomery and Alabama State College with a rich background of educational and travel experiences. He is a native of Forrest City, Ark., and is the son of the late Willie and Alice Crockett. He attended Lincoln High School in that city, where he, possessing a precocious mind, completed the four-year course in half the time.

He graduated cum laude from Philander Smith College in Little Rock, with the B.A. degree in Sociology.

It was at this institution that the keen insight of the young man, into deep and serious problems, the scholarly ability in reaching solutions, and the efficiency in leadership were recognized by his fellow classmates.

He was class president throughout his sophomore, junior and senior years; he was elected delegate to the National Conference of Student YMCA and YWCA, which met at Miami University, Oxford, Ohio. He was representative to the Uniting Conference of the Methodist Episcopal, the Methodist Protestant church, and the Methodist Episcopal South, which was held in Kansas City.

Leaving Philander Smith, Dr. Crockett was ordained to the Methodist ministry and served as pastor of the Methodist Church in Cotton Plant, Ark. for a time.

Ever thirsting for more knowledge, the young minister enrolled in Drew University, Madison, N. J., and graduated three years later with the B.D. degree.

During his tenure in New Jersey, he served as pastor of the Thirkield Methodist Church in Jersey City.

Here again was his dependability as an efficient, capable leader proclaimed, when he was elected president of the Student Council of the University, the students' governing body, of which only three Negroes were members. This was the first time that a student of the race had held such an office.

Besides his [illegible] experiences, Dr. Crockett has held very responsible positions in outstanding institutions of learning. He became Director of Religious Activities and professor of philosophy and religion at Bennett College for Women, Greensboro, N. C. He served as president of the Christian Education at Grand Rapids, Mich.

Still feeling that with a higher education he could better help to lift the level of his people, he entered Boston University from which he earned the Ph.D. degree at Tuskegee. Dr. Crockett was, for a time, Acting Chaplain of Tuskegee Institute and Director of Religious Service for the state of Alabama.

This interdenominational service was sponsored by the National Home Missions Council composed of twenty-three denominations, along with Tuskegee Institute.

After serving for a period of time at Tuskegee, Dr. Crockett gree in June. He was a Crusade Scholar at Boston, a scholarship provided by the Methodist church for outstanding students.

Dr. Crockett has membership in the National Conference of College and University Chaplains, the National Association of Biblical Instructors, the Fellowship of Southern Churchmen, the Alabama Teachers Association, the American Teachers Association and the Alpha Phi Alpha Fraternity, Inc.

He is the author of "Religion and Education Working as a Team", published in "College and Church," Volume VIII, Number III, Fall, 1948, by the Commission on Christian Higher Education of the Association of American Colleges.

Dr. Crockett has been director of youth work at the Church of all Nations in Boston, Mass., he has been, and is, an understanding teacher, a lecturer, a minister, a philosopher, a Christian gentleman and friend.

He is married to Mrs. Effie Bell Crockett, a cousin of President H. Council Trenholm of Alabama State College, and an accomplished Home Arts instructor at the college.

Dr. Crockett has one son, Wilbert Crockett, who is a student at the University of Kansas.

Alabama State College is is pleased to welcome such an outstanding scholar to its faculty and commends him on his latest achievement.

ASC Professor Gets Doctorate

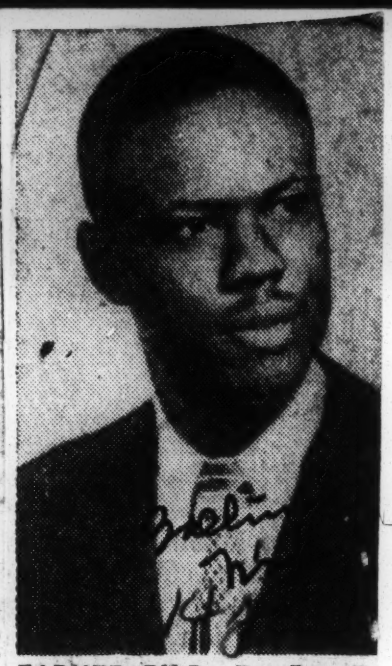
MONTGOMERY, Ala. — Dr. Roosevelt David Crockett, associate professor of philosophy of Alabama State College here received the Ph.D. degree, June 8, at the graduation exercises of Boston University.

His dissertation is titled "The Conception of Human Nature in Robert MacIver's Sociological Theory."

A native of Forest City, Ark., Dr. Crockett is the son of the ett. He is a graduate of Philander Smith college and Drew University in Madison, N.J.

Is Active

Dr. Crockett has been constantly active in religious and educational organizations and institutions. He is married to Mrs. Effie Bell Crockett, cousin of President H. Council Trenholm of Alabama State college.



EARNED PH.D.—Dr. Ray F. Wilson, a native of Giddings, Texas, was the first colored person to earn the Ph. D. degree at the University of Texas, Austin. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Wilson.

Noted Archivist Gets Doctorate In Two Fields

WASHINGTON—Harold T. Pinkett, first and higest ranking Negro archivist at the National Archives, Washington, D. C., received his doctorate degree in history and archival administration at the American University in Washington June 14. Mr. Pinkett was the first scholar to receive the doctorate in the combined fields.

A graduate of Morgan College and the University of Pennsylvania, a former Baltimore school teacher and professor of history at Livingstone College, Mr. Pinkett has been an archivist at the National Archives since 1[illegible].

He is the author of four official publications issued by this federal agency and is a frequent contributor to historical journal He is a member of the Society of American Archivists, American Historical Association, Association for the Study of Negro Life and History, Mississippi Valley historical Association, and the Agricultural History Society.

VSC Dept. Head Receives Ph.D

(ANP) — Walter Nathaniel Ridley, head of the department of psychology at Virginia State college, probably became the first known Negro to receive a doctorate from a state - supported Southern university when the University of Virginia awarded a Doctor of Education degree to him Monday, June 15.

A native of Newport News, Va., Dr. Ridley maintained a straight "A" average in all courses except one. For that one, he earned a B-plus average.

Besides his outstanding academic record at Virginia, Dr. Ridley was initiated into Kappa Delta Pi honor society for professional leaders in education.

A graduate of Howard university, the VSC psychologist later earned his Master of Arts degree there. He then did graduate work at Ohio State university and the University of Minnesota before transferring to the University of Virginia in the fall of 1951.

Assumes New Position as Dean

LANGSTON UNIVERSITY, Okla.—Dr. Emma White Bragg of Nashville, Tenn., recently assumed her new position as dean of women and professor of education at Langston University, Oklahoma. Dr. Bragg, a member of Pi Lambda Theta Honor Society in education, received the Ph. D. degree in education from the University of Chicago in 1952. During the past school year, Dr. Bragg served as director of guidance at West Virginia State College and, for ten years, served as registrar and director of admissions at Meharry Medical College.

Dr. Jubie Bragg, husband of the new dean of women, will serve as college dentist and will maintain dental offices in Guthrie, Okla. Dr. Bragg, a member of Omicron Dental Honor Fraternity, holds a master's degree in public health from the University of Michigan and a Doctor of Dental Surgery degree from Meharry Medical College. During the past two years, Dr. Bragg served as dental officer in the U. S. Air Force.

DR. EMMA WHITE BRAGG
. . . Langston dean of women

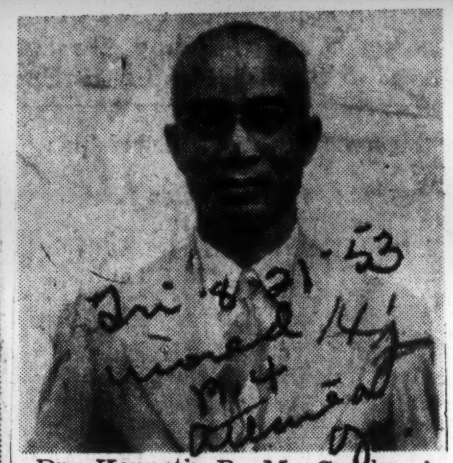
Dr. Ray Wilson 1st To Get Ph. D. At U. Of Texas

HOUSTON, Texas — Ray F. Wilson of Giddings, Texas, became the first of his race to receive a Ph.D. from the U. of Texas, Friday, May 31. The degree was awarded in the field of chemistry and applied mathematics.

Dr. Wilson, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Wilson of Giddings, enrolled at the university under a joint grant from the Atomic Energy Commission and the U. of Texas.

He declined to accept an offer with DuPont and chose to teach at Texas Southern, his alma mater. He began work at TSU June 1.



Dr. Kenneth B. M. Crooks, A. B., M. A., Ph. D. Harvard University, who will join the Fort Valley State College faculty as professor of biology. Dr. Crooks formerly served on the faculty at Hampton

Yale-Trained Economist On A. U. Faculty

Dr. Phyllis A. Wallace, a native of Baltimore, Maryland, and holder of a Ph. D. degree in Economics from Yale University, will join the faculty of Atlanta University's School of Business Administration in September, according to an announcement made public this week.

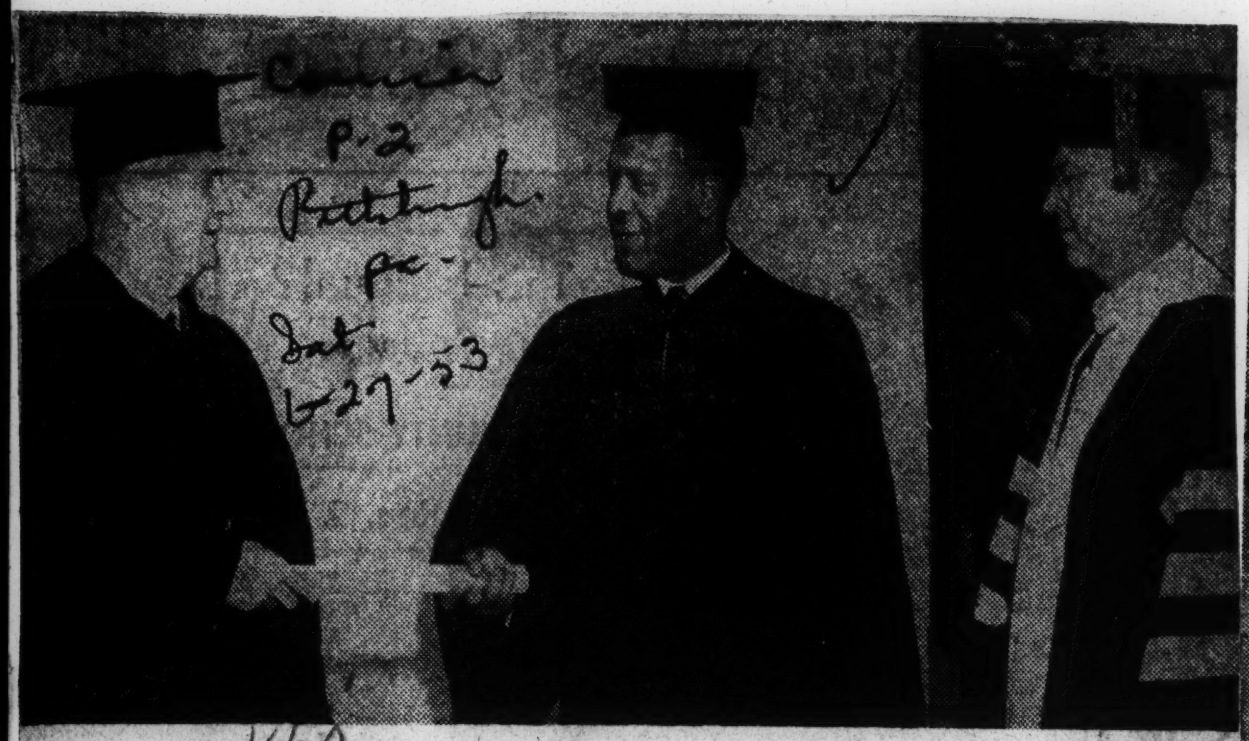
In releasing this information, President Rufus E. Clement stated that this appointment of Dr. Wallace is in keeping with the expansion program underway in the graduate and professional schools of Atlanta University. This is the first appointment to the faculty of the School of Business Administration since the elevation of Dr. Samuel Z. Westerfield to the directorship.

The new appointee did her undergraduate work at New York University, receiving the bachelor of arts degree in 1943. She matriculated at Yale for her graduate studies, earning the M. A. in 1944 and the Ph. D. degree in 1948. She has been a consistent winner of academic honors. At New York University, she was graduated magna cum laude an delected to Phi Beta Kappa. At Yale University, she was a University Fellow, a Susan Rhoda Cutler Fellow, Julius Rosenwald Fellow, and Sterling Fellow.

In 1944-45, Dr. Wallace was an economic statistician with the War Production Board. For two years at Yale, she was a research assistant with Prof. John Percy Miller as a graduate assistant in the Department of Economics.

Dr. Wallace obtained her teaching experience on the faculty of New York University College, 1948-1951. Since that time she has been associated with the National Bureau of Economic Research as economic statistician, and with the Department of Defense as statistician.

14j 1953 PH.D.



Old Dominion Ph. D.—Walter Nathaniel Ridley, the first of his race to receive a degree from the University of Virginia, receives his diploma as Doctor of Education from Colgate W. Darden Jr., the university's president, as Dean Lindley J. Stiles of the Department of Education watches. Dr. Ridley is head of the Department of Psychology at Virginia State College in Petersburg.—Thompson Photo.

Virginia U. Awards Doctorate to Negro

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va. — (ANP) — Walter Nathaniel Ridley, head of the department of psychology at Virginia State college, probably became the first known Negro to receive a doctorate from a state-supported Southern university when the University of Virginia awarded a Doctor of Education degree to him Monday, June 15.

A native of Newport News, Va., Dr. Ridley maintained a straight "A" average in all courses except one. For that one, he earned a B-plus average.

Besides his outstanding academic record at Virginia, Dr. Ridley was initiated into Kappa Delta Pi honor society for professional leaders in education.

A graduate of Howard University of Minnesota before transferring to the University of Virginia in the fall of 1951.

Dr. Ridley formerly was national president of the American Teachers Association and a charter [illegible] of the United States Commission on the United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization.

DR. HENRIETTA T. SMITH, of Cincinnati, Ohio, recently received a PhD degree in Psychology from Radcliff college. She is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. C. C. Smith of Cincinnati, and received her bachelor and master of arts degrees from the University of Cincinnati. After teaching psychology at Allen university for a year, Miss Smith took a leave of absence to attend Radcliff.

University Of Virginia Gives Doctor's Degree To Negro Educator

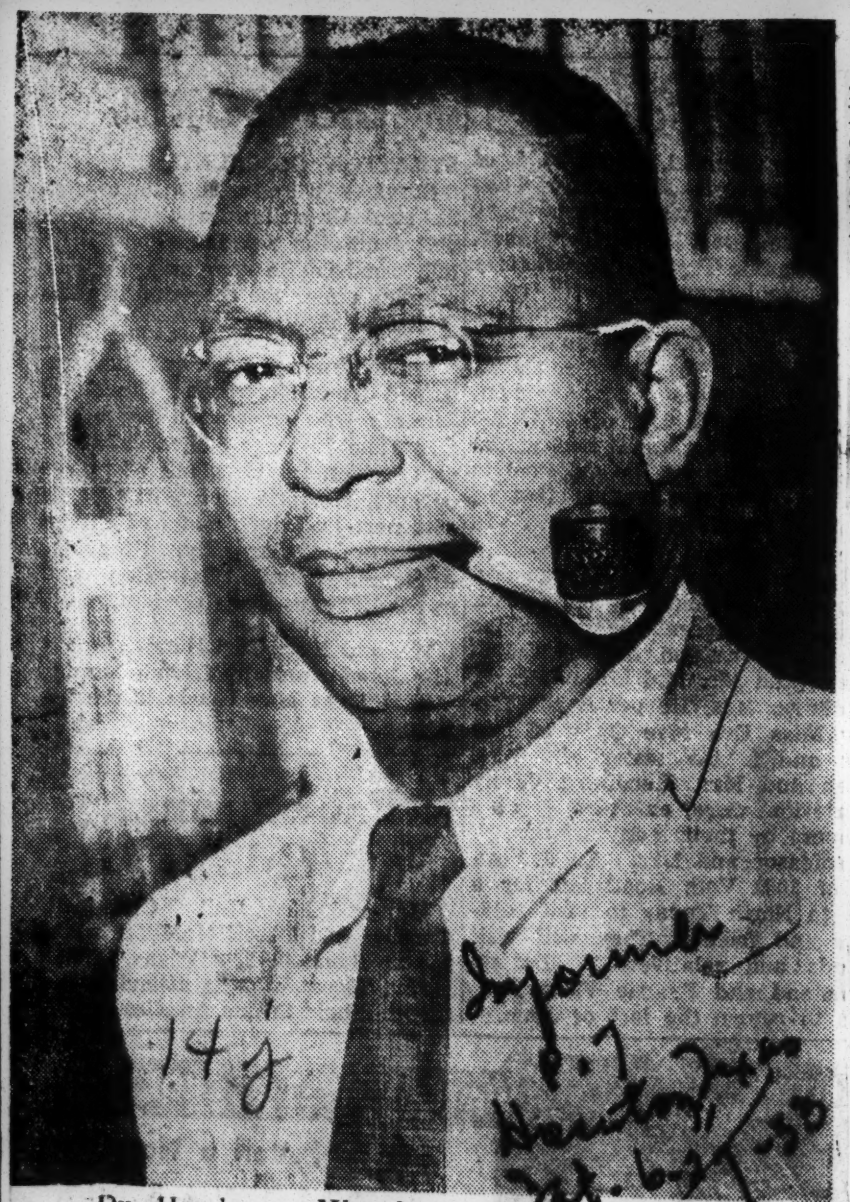
Walter Nathaniel Ridley, head of the department of psychology at Virginia State college, probably became the first known Negro to receive a doctorate from a state-supported Southern university when the University of Virginia awarded a Doctor of Education degree to him Monday, June 15.

A native of Newport News, Va., Dr. Ridley maintained a straight "A" average in all courses except one. For that one, he earned a B-plus average.

Besides his outstanding academic record at Virginia, Dr. Ridley was initiated into Kappa Delta Pi honor society for professional leaders in education.

A graduate of Howard university, the VSC psychologist later earned his Master of Arts degree there. He then did graduate work at Ohio State university and the University of Minnesota before transferring to the Univedsity of Virginia in the fall of 1951.

In the above picture Dr. Ridley is shown with (left to right) Former Governor Colgate W. Darden, Jr., now president of the University and Prof. Lindley J. Stoles, Head of the Department of Education of the University.



Dr. Henderson Kingsberry Wood, Tennessee State University biology professor, just received his doctorate of philosophy in zoology and cytogenetic from Indiana University—Foto by Earl S. Clanton III

Alabama State's Only Woman Ph.D. Has Caried Background

Dr. Reva White Allman is the only woman on the faculty of Alabama State College, Montgomery, Ala., who holds a Ph.D. She came to Alabama State College two years ago as professor of education and since that time has also become one of the thesis advisers for the graduate school.

Dr. Allman received her early training in the public schools of Birmingham, where she was born. Her college work was done at Miles College, where she received the B.A. degree in English. She studied at Fisk University on scholarship and was awarded the M.A. degree in secondary education. In each of these educational experiences she was an honor student and was actively engaged in [illegible] curricular activities as [illegible] and debating.

[illegible].D. degree was earned at the [illegible]ersity of Michigan in the field [illegible] secondary education. It was here that Dr. Allman received a fellowship for two consecutive years from the General Education Board, and a grant-in-aid scholarship from the Horace Rackham School of Graduate Studies.

Maintaining an honor roll position at the University of Michigan, Dr. Allman was elected a member of Pi Lambda Theta, national honorary sorority for women in education.

She has held some important positions since the Ph.D. was conferred upon her a few years ago. Among them are the Birmingham public schol system; supervisor of critic teachers at the Alabama Agricultural and Mechanical College, where she later served as chairman and teacher of the department of education; chairman of the division of education at Miles College, and co-ordinator of the counseling program and chairman of college testing.

Dr. Allman has written a bulletin for Cadet Teachers and has published articles in national magazines.

She is a member of Omigron Omega Chapter of Alapha Kappa Sorority, of Xi chapter of Pi Lambda National Honorary Sorority for Women in Education, of Semper Fidelis Club, American Teachers' Association, and Alabama State Teachers Association.

Of social and civic connections in Montgomery, Dr. Allman holds membership in the Women's Political Council and she is president of Deck-A Bridge Club. She is listed in "Who's Who In Education In The South And Southwest."

Her versatility and scholarship keep her in demand as a consultant and evaluator in numerous curriculum meetings. She has appeared on several speaking engagements and very recently gave two radio programs on the subjects, "Making Democracy Work" and "The Power of Ideas."

We salute Dr. Reva White Allman, and we sincerely hope that young people may become inspired by her brilliant career and in their own ways attempt to emulate her patterns of leadership, scholarship and service.

Miss Henrietta T. Smith gets Radcliff doctorate

COLUMBIA, S.C.—Miss Henrietta T. Smith of Cincinnati, Ohio, recently became one of the youngest persons to earn the doctor of philosophy degree in the field of psychology from world-renowned Radcliff college in Massachusettes.

Dr. Smith, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. C. C. Smith of Cincinnati, received her bachelors and masters of arts degrees from the University of Cincinnati.

After teaching a year at Allen University as a professor in psychology, she went on leave to enter Radcliff.

She was a member of the editorial board of the "Harvard Educational Review," from 1951 to 1953, and was research assistant in the laboratory of human development under Dr. Robert R. Sears, past president of the American Physochology Association.

Dr. Smith will be director of student personnel and counseling at Allen University here.

She will join other Allen PhD holders, including:

Dr. Howard D. Gregg, University of Pennsylvania; Dr. Joseph Henry, University of Ottawa, Canada; Dr. Forest O. Wiggins, University of Wisconsin;

Dr. Henderson S. Davis, Boston University; Dr. W. L. Tandy, Illinois University, and Dr. J. Julian Jenkins, Boston University.

HENRIETTA T. SMITH

TSU Adds Seven Ph. D.'s To Staff

NASHVILLE, Tenn. — Seven new professors, holding the Doctor of Philosophy degree, will join the Tennessee State University faculty this month for the 1953-54 school year.

The list includes two women doctorates, youthful Dr. D. Victoria Toms of Washington, D. C., who will teach German; and from Kansas City, Mo., Dr. Hazel B. Williams, who recently received her doctorate in English from New York University.

The other doctorates include Robert Cobb, health and physical education, coming from Florida A. and M. University; Robert Ellis, physics, rejoining the staff after a leave of absence to study; Edward C. Lewis, music, recently receiving his doctorate from the University of Wisconsin; William McIntosh, political science, returning after a leave of absence to study, and Albert A. Thompson, sociology, coming from Johnson C. Smith North Carolina.

Earns first Ph.D. degree in Bombay

BOMBAY, India (ANP)—Lawrence B. Wilson, an official of the American consulate general office in India, has the distinction of being the first American to earn a Ph.D. degree from the Bombay university.

Mr. Wilson, a resident of Los Angeles, joined the foreign service in 1951 as cultural affairs officer and was sent to Bombay.

Being a student of politics who always liked to keep himself abreast on the subject and up-to-date, Mr. Wilson decided to spend his spare time doing research on the politics of India. He devoted Saturdays, Sundays, holidays and his free evenings to this work.

He gave much credit to his wife, Millie, for helping him in the preliminary typing of his thesis and for being a constant source of encouragement to him in this work.

14j 1953

Ph.D.

Atlanta U. Prof. Wins Doctorate

ATLANTA, Ga. — Paul I. Clifford, assistant professor of education in the School of Education of Atlanta University, received the degree of Doctor of Philosophy from the department of education of the division of the social sciences, University of Chicago, at the 257th convocation on June 12 in Rockefeller Chapel.

VSC Professor Gets Ph. D.

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va. — When Walter Nathaniel Ridley, Professor of Psychology at Virginia State College and a charter member of the United States Commission on the United Nations' Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization, received his Doctor of Education degree from the University of Virginia on June 15 he became its first Negro graduate as well as the first of his race to receive a degree on the doctoral level from any Southern state university.

He was also the first Negro to be initiated into a University of Virginia honorary fraternity, the Kappa Delta Pi professional education society.

He received "A" grades on all his courses except one, and on that he made a B-plus.

Gets Doctrate Degree

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va. — Walter Nathaniel Ridley, head of the department of psychology at Virginia State College, received a doctor of education degree last Monday at the University of Virginia and thus became its first Negro graduate. He is one of two Negroes to receive degrees on the doctoral level from Southern state universities this year.

PASTOR GETS PH.D.—The Rev. Benjamin Allen, pastor of the First Baptist Church, Cranford, N.J., was one of three post-graduates to receive the Ph.D. degree at Drew University in Madison, N.J., on June 8. Members and friends congratulating him are: front row, left to right—Dr. James M. Ellison, president, Virginia Union University; Mrs. Adele Kelsey, Dr. and Mrs. Allen and Mrs. Cobb-Parker. Back row: Mrs. Dorothy Horne, James Kelsey, Mrs. William Jones, George White, Sam L. Fuller, Joseph B. Judkins Jr., and Mrs. Vadies Roy.

Associated Press Wirephoto

First Negro Graduate

Walter N. Ridley of Petersburg, Va., is the first member of his race ever to receive a degree at the University of Virginia. Ridley, who is head of the philosophy department at Virginia State College, received a doctor of education degree at commencement exercises Monday.

Gerren Awarded Ph. D. In Music Education

LAWRENCE, Kans. — The doctor's degree in music education was conferred on Nicholas D. Gerren at the University of Kansas commencement exercises here Monday, June 8. Gerren is an assistant professor of music at Lincoln university, Jefferson City Mo., and a widely known concert violinist.

Earns Doctorate At U. Of Texas

HOUSTON, Tex. — (ANP) — Ray Floyd Wilson, Giddings, Texas, last week received a Ph. D. in chemistry and applied mathematics from the University of Texas. He thus became the first Negro to earn a doctorate from the historic longhorn-state university.

Dr. Wilson has accepted a position on the faculty of Texas Southern university.

He enrolled at the UT on a joint grant from the Atomic Energy Commission and the UT. Prior to his work at the Texas institution, Dr. Wilson had earned his B. S. at Samuel Huston college and his M. S. at TUS.

Among the organizations in which he is a member are Phi Lambda Upsilon, honorary chemistry society, and Sigma Phi, honorary research society in chemistry.

TWO GRANTS AWARDED:

3 College Educators Receive Doctorates

Three educators received doctors of philosophy degrees last week while two others earned grants for further study in their respective fields.

The three receiving the degrees were:

1. Dr. Henderson K. Wood, of Tennessee State university, who became the 37th member of that institution's faculty to be so honored.

A zoologist and cytogenetician, Dr. Wood's doctoral dissertation dealt with the phenomenon of Siamese twins. He has taught biology at Tennessee State for five years.

2. Dr. Paul I. Clifford, Atlanta university, received his degree from the University of Chicago. His dissertation dealt with the personality organization of American men of science.

Dr. William P. Robinson, assistant professor of political science and History at Central State College, Wilberforce, Ohio, was the third Ph.D. recipient.

Dr. Robinson's dissertation centered around the subject, "Judicial Limitations." He is a member of the Association of Social Science Teachers and the American Political Science Association.

Harvard Conference

Dr. William F. Goins of Tennessee State university education department will participate in the summer conference on Science Education at Harvard University, July 15-Aug. 12.

Recently ordained a minister, Bryant George of Charlotte, N.C will go to India on missionary duties. He is a graduate of Johnson C. Smith university college and seminary.

Recipient of a Whitney Opportunity Fellowship last year, Gus Ridgel, assistant professor of business education at Fort Valley college, Ga., was recently notified that his fellowship had been renewed.

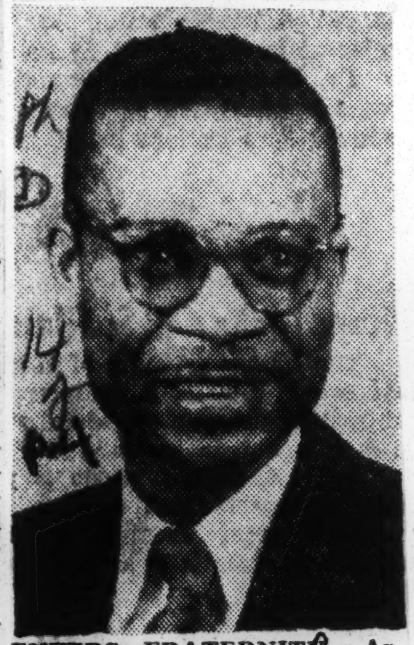
Arthur A. George of North Carolina, doctoral candidate at New York university, was one of five colored persons initiated into the Phi Delta Kappa national honor fraternity. He formerly taught at Shaw University and Texas college.

Wins Scholarship

Theodore M. Alexander Jr. of Atlanta, recent graduate from Morehouse College, will spend summer in Europe on a ship award.

The award was made by the Experiment in International Living of Putney, Vermont. The organization sponsors young persons of various countries who desire a better understanding of peoples everywhere.

Alexander will visit France, Italy and England. The major part of his time will be spent in Finland, living with a family there and participating in the activities of Finnish youth.



ENTERS FRATERNITY—Arthur A. George, doctoral candidate at New York University, was one of five Negroes initiated into Phi Delta Kappa National Honor Fraternity recently at the spring convocation. Mr. George, who is the son of Dr. and Mrs. A. L. George, of Charlotte, N. C., formerly taught at Shaw University and Texas College.

FORMER NORFOLK RESIDENT GETS PH.D. DEGREE

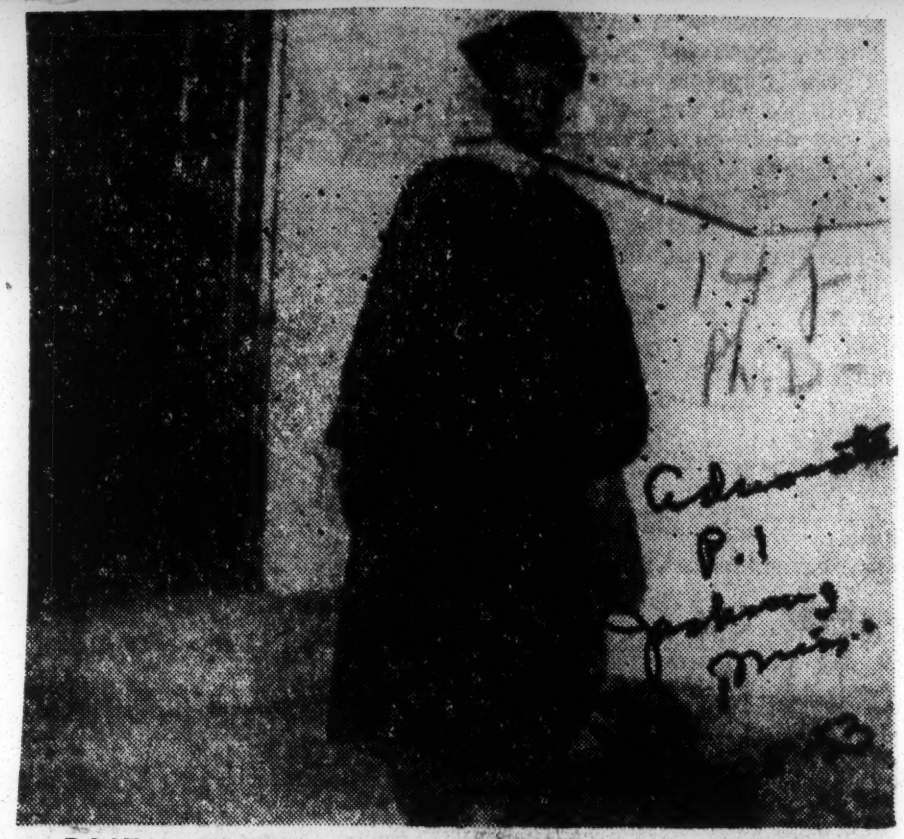
W.P. ROBINSON

New York-William Peters Robinson, a member of the faculty of Central State College, Wilberforce Ohio, was awarded the degree of doctor of philosophy on June 10 at New York University. He was designated by university officials to represent at the candidates receiving the doctorate degree. Prof. Robinson, who is a native of Norfolk, Va. used for the subject of his dissertation, "Limitations on Judicial Review." He is the son of Mrs. Avis Peters Robinson and the late William C. Robinson.

He received his elementary and high school education in the public schools of Norfolk, graduating with honors from Booker T. Washington High School.

Continuing his education at Howard Univ. Prof. Robinson received his bachelor of arts degree cum laude, and was awardeda fellowship to pursue studies at Howard University leading to the master of arts degree. He is employed at Central State College under the administration of Dr. Charles Wesley who was on the Howard faculty before taking up the presidency of Central State.

Journal and Guide
p. 2
Norfolk, Va.
Sat. 6-27-53



DOCTOR OF PHILOSOPHY: The above is Prof. C. C. Mosley, for a long time a member of the faculty of Southern Christian Institute, Edwards, Mississippi, and now a member of the faculty of Rust College, Holly Springs, Mississippi, who recently obtain the degree of Doctor of Philosophy from the University of Indiana. Dr. Mosley is shown wearing the robe of his office during a Ceremony held in his honor at Rust College.

Doctorates Go To Three At OSU

COLUMBUS, Ohio (ANP) — Doctorate degrees were awarded to three persons during commencement exercises at Ohio State university here recently.

The recipients and their fields are: Kenneth C. Miller, foreign language education, Ralph J. Bryson, English-education, and Louis Austin, bacteriology.

Dr. Miller is head of the department of modern foreign languages at Southern University, Baton Rouge, La. He received his A.B. at Wichita University in French, and his M.A. from Ohio State in Spanish.

Dr. Bryson has served as an assistant in the instructional materials laboratory of the department of education at Ohio State for the past two years. A native of New York, Dr. Austin taught at Ohio State while working on his doctorate.

Doctorates Go To Three At OSU

COLUMBUS, Ohio (ANP) — Doctorate degrees were awarded to three persons during commencement exercises at Ohio State university here recently.

The recipients and their fields are: Kenneth C. Miller, foreign language education, Ralph J. Bryson, English-education, and Louis Austin, bacteriology.

Dr. Miller is head of the department of modern foreign language at Southern University, Baton Rouge, La. He received his A.B. at Wichita University in French, and his M.A. from Ohio State in Spanish.

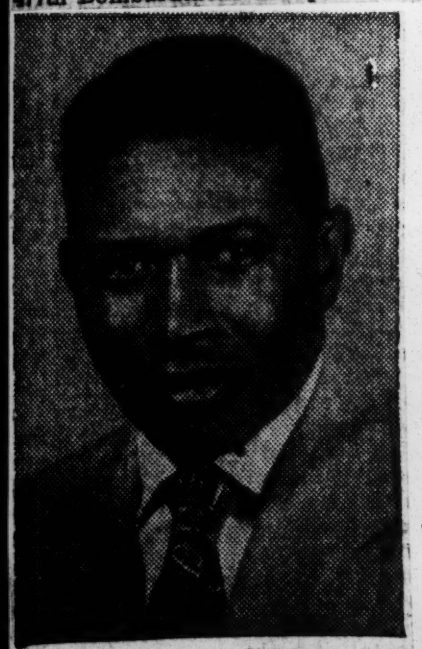
Dr. Bryson has served as an assistant in the instructional materials laboratory of the department of education at Ohio State for the past two years. A native of New York, Dr. Austin taught at Ohio State while working on his doctorate.

Native Missourian, Now Teaching at North Carolina College, Receives Ph.D.

COLUMBUS, Ohio — Stewart B. Fulbright Jr., professor of Commerce at North Carolina college, Durham, received the doctor of philosophy degree in business administration from Ohio State University here August 28.

He is the second North Carolina U. professor to recieve the doctorate degree from Ohio State during the past year. Dr. Lincoln J. Harrison also of N. C. C.'s commerce department, was awarded the Ph. D. here on March 20, 1953.

Fulbright, a veteran of World War II, served as a pilot with the 477th Bombardment Group.



STEWART B. FULBRIGHT JR.

He is a native of Springfield, Mo., and attended public schools in his home town, He later recieved the A.B. degree from Lincoln university. He earned his M.B.A. degree at the University of Chicago. Before coming to North Carolina college in 1947 he taught ta Lincoln university in Missouri and at the Metropolitan School of Tailoring in Chicago.

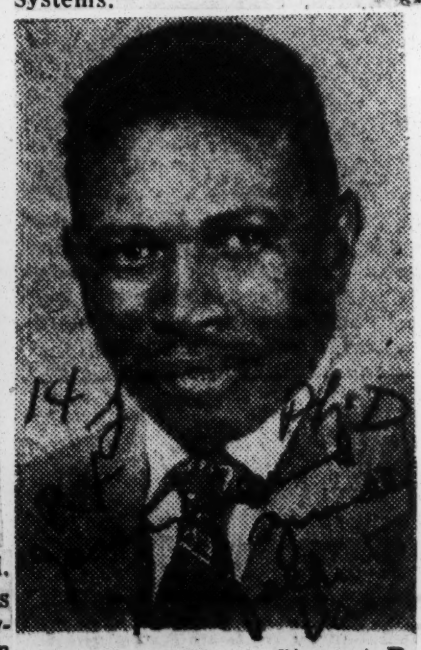
He is a member of Phi Delta Kappa and Delta Pi Epsilon Honorary societies, and the Kappa Alpha Psi fraternity.

Fulbright's disertation at Ohio State university was on "Training Programs in Negro Insurance Companies." It was directed by Dr. J. M. Hanna, noted authority in business education at Ohio State.

Dr. Fulbright's parents are Mr. and Mrs. S. B. Fulbright, Sr., who reside at 221 S. McAllister Avenue, Springfield, Mo. He is married to the former Miss Della Cox of Jefferson City, Mo. The Fulbrights have one child, Gina Delise, who is one year old.

RECEIVES PH. D.

E. LANSING, Mich. — Ray Thompson, counselor-trainee at North Carolina College, Durham, and guidance consultant with the N. C. State department of public instruction, was awarded the D. Ed. degree here recently. Thompson, a native of Jasper, Ala., submitted a dissertation on "Counselor Training in State Supported Negro Colleges and Universities in the States with Dual Educational Systems."



GETS DEGREE — Stewart B. Fulbright Jr., professor of commerce at North Carolina College, Durham, recently received the doctor of philosophy degree in business administration from Ohio State University, Columbus, Ohio.

Dr. Wallace, Baltimorean, joins Atlanta U. faculty

ATLANTA, Ga. — Dr. Phyllis A. Wallace, a native of Baltimore, Md., and holder of a Ph.D degree in Economics from Yale university, will join the faculty of Atlanta University's School of Business Administration in September, according to an announcement made public this week.

According to President Rufus E. Clement, this is in keeping with the expansion program underway in the graduate and professional schools of Atlanta university. This is the first appointment to the faculty of the School of Business Administration since the elevation of Dr. Samuel Z. Westerfield to the directorship.

Honor Student

The new appointee did her undergraduate work at New York university, receiving the bachelor of arts degree in 1943. She matriculated at Yale for her graduate studies, earning the M. A. in 1944 and the Ph.D. degree in 1948. She has been a consistent winner of academic honors.

At New York university, she was graduated magna cum laude and elected to Phi Beta Kappa. At Yale University, she was a University Fellow, a Susan Rhoda Cutler Fellow, Julius Rosenwald Fellow, and Sterling Fellow.

In 1944 - 45, Dr. Wallace was an economic statistician with the War Production Board. For two years at Yale, she was a research assistant with Professor John Percy Miller as well as a graduate assistant in the Department of Economics.

Dr. Wallace obtained her teaching experience serving on the faculty of New York City college, 1948 - 1951. Since that time she has been associated with the National Bureau of Economic Research as economist-statistician, and with the Department of Defense as a statistician.

4 Receive PH. D. At Ohio State U.

..By BARBEE W. DURHAM...

COLUMBUS, Ohio. — (ANP) — There were four Negro students among the 77 who received Ph. D. degrees at Ohio State university at the summer convocation last week and 13 among the 351 who received their master's degrees.

Among those receiving Ph. D.'s were: Albert Cornelius Antoine, chemistry, New York City; Richard Hudson Dunn, horticulture, Petersburg, Va.; Stewart Benjamin Fullbright Education, Springfield, Mo., and Earlie Endris Thorpe, history, Durham, N. C.

Among those receiving master's degrees were: Eddie Mae Caldwell, education, Dayton, Ohio; Urcelle Louise Carter, education, Wilmington, Ohio; Umer G. Hathaway, fine arts, Montgomery, Ala.; Frank Emmett Lewis, education, Columbus, Ohio; Ralph Milner, education, Manchester, Ga.; Murray Lee Neely, physical education, Columbus, Ohio; Samuel Charles Nixon, education, Sebring, Fla.; Marjorie Reed, home economics, Richland, Ga.; Clara Fairfax Savoy, education, Columbus; Mayola Lightfoot Senior, education, Toledo, Ohio; Anne Wilhelmina Jordan, education, Wilmington; Robert Leslie Lewis, education, Natchez, Miss., and William Van Quisenberry, education, Dayton.

2 Ph. D's added at Clark college

ATLANTA—Two persons holding doctorates and five Clark graduates are among those receiving appointments at Clark College this year, according to an announcement by President James P. Brawley.

Dr. Albert C. Antoine, a graduate of the City College of New York and Ohio State university, from which he earned the Ph.D. degree in chemistry, will head the department of chemistry.

In the department of physics will be Dr. Sabinus H. Christensen, a graduate of Pratt Institute and holder of the master of science and doctor of science degrees from Harvard university. He will also teach mathematics.matics.

Clark Graduates

The Clark graduates are:

The Rev. George A. Tate, Miss Emma L. Johnson, Mrs. Marie W. Cooper, Miss Samuella Gray, Mrs. Anona Walker Standard, Henry M. L. James, Mrs. Mineola Hardiman, Chestyn Everett, Mrs. M. Barbee Boone, Mrs. Georgia B. Wilkes, and Mrs. Albert C. Antoine.

DR. MAGGIE BROWNE DANIEL, professor of English at Alabama State college has been awarded the Ph.D. Degree from the University of Wisconsin. Dr. Daniel is the daughter of Mrs. Fannie C. McIntyre of Ft. Worth, Texas, and is one of two women professors of the college who hold doctorates.

year at Calcutta University in India on a Ford Foundation scholarship.

"The awarding of the Ph.D to Mr. Logan highlights the policy which Bennett college administration has followed for a number of years of advancing the faculty training from among the most promising and successful teachers on the staf Dr. David D. Jones, president said.

Bennett teacher earns Ph.D degree

GREENSBORO, N. C.

Frelise Logan, instructor in history at Bennett College, will be awarded the Ph. D. degree at Western Reserve university at the fall convocation in absentia, since he and Mrs. Logan will be sailed for India. Dr. Logan will study for a DOCTOR — Dr. Maggie Browne Daniel, professor of English at Alabama State College, was awarded the Ph. D. degree from the University of Wisconsin in August. She came to Alabama State College in 1948 and taught until 1951 when she took a two-year leave of absence to complete the doctorate at Wisconsin.

Gets Ph. D. In Bombay, India

BOMBAY, India — (ANP) — Lawrence B. Wilson, an official of the American consulate general office in India, has the distinction of being the first American to earn a PHD degree from the Bombay University.

Wilson received his B. A. and M. A. degrees from the University of Illinois and has studied at the University of California at Los Angeles.

Arthur E. Teele gets PhD. degree

WARRENTON, N.C. — Arthur E. Teele of Vaughan, N.C., and 611 Harrison ave. nw, Roanoke, Va., was awarded the degree of doctor of philosophy at Cornell university in September.

A. E. TEELE

His doctoral thesis is entitled, "Education in North Carolina, 1862-1872."

In the fall of 1952, Cornell university awarded Dr. Teele a grant-in-aid of research for school year 1952-53. Dr. Teele is now located at St. Augustine's college in Raleigh.

James W. Chapman, a native of Louisiana, received the Doctor of Philosophy degree from the Ohio State University at the annual fall commencement. He holds the B.A. degree from Southern University and the M.A. degree from the University of Pennsylvania with graduate study at Oxford University, London, England, and the University of Paris, France. He is a member of the national sociology honorary fraternity, Alpha Kappa Delta and the Kappa Alpha Psi Fraternity.

Major Clarence Laws, former staff member of the Louisiana Weekly, returned to the city this week following a two year tour of duty in the European theatre. The army officer, who was separated from the service at Camp Chaffee, Ark., is also former executive secretary of the New Orleans Urban League. Major Laws visited the office Monday and chatted with former co-workers.

GETS PH.D. — Mrs. Vivian Floyd Lewis, who is head of the women's division of the health, recreation and physical education division at Central State college, received the doctor of philosophy degree from the Ohio State university at the winter commencement on December 18. Having written her doctoral dissertation on the subject "A Study of the Informational Needs of College Women Sports Spectators" she holds the B.A. degree from Wilberforce university and the M. A. degree Western Reserve university. She is a member of the American Association of Health, Recreation and Physical Education, the Ohio section and the Alpha Kappa Alpha sorority.

14j 1953

PHI BETA KAPPA

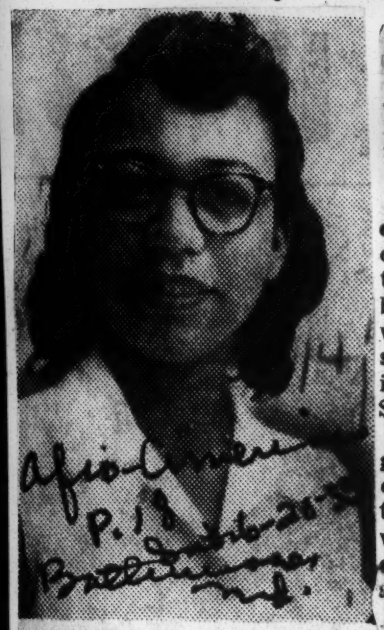
Penn Track Star Phi Beta Kappa

PHILADELPHIA (ANP)—The lates psrson to dispute the adage that "brains and brawn do not go together" is Arthur T. Faulk, a member of the track team at the University of Pennsylvania, who last week earned membership in Phi Beta Kappa, the nation's highest academic fraternity.

Faulk, a pre-medical student, is a former honor student and track star at Roxborough high school. He was valedictorian of his high school graduating class.

His selection for recognition in Phi Beta Kappa is not the only honor which has come to him since matriculating at the U. of P. Among the others are election to Alpha Epsilon Delta national pre-medical society and Phi Lambda Upsilon honorary chemical society.

Faulk has been accepted for admission to the U. of P. medical school.



WINNER OF the National Scholarship contest sponsored by Phi Delta Kappa Sorority is Miss Mary Bunton of 1336 Quincy st., nw, a graduating senior at Dunbar high school in Washington. She plans to enter Radcliffe College.

Frederica Frohberg, Winner In Phi Delta Kappa Contest

BROOKLYN, N. Y.—Miss Frederica Cornelia Frohberg, daughter of Mrs. Thelma Frohberg and the late Herman C. Frohberg, both natives of South Carolina, was the highest of the 202 high school senior girls who competed in the test given by the National Sorority of Phi Delta Kappa.

Each year the test is given to girls in the upper third of their class who plan to prepare for the teaching profession. This year's winner was entered by Theta chapter of New York, and the result of the test was announced by the national program chairman Mrs. Grace H. Racker.

FREDICA FROHBERG

Miss Frohberg, the third child in a family of seven children, began school in Philadelphia, Pa., and completed the grades in Brooklyn. She was summa cum laude on the honor roll each term and received various certificates for high scholarship.

Secretary of the school's honor society, she received the History, Science, and Art medals upon her graduation. She entered Hunter College High School in 1949 and excelled in Latin. She was a member of the art staff of the school magazine and vice president of her class for several terms.

MISS FROHBERG RECEIVED fourth prize in the city-wide Latin three-year sight reading contest given under the auspices of the New York Classical Club of New York University; the Bronze Medal for Excellence in Latin Three years; and honorable mention in Latin poetry reading contest for students taking four years of Latin. She also received numerous certificates for excellence in Latin dating from the beginning of her high school career, and graduated from Hunter College High School in January, 1953.

A member of Brown Memorial Baptist Church of Brooklyn, and a member of its Young People's Choir, she is presently attending Hunter College with hopes of becoming a teacher of classics in the New York City school system.

Phi Delta Award Three Teacher Scholarships

TOLEDO, Ohio—The national sorority of Phi Delta Kappa has just announced through Mrs. Grace Racker, notional progrm director, the 1953 winner of its National Scholarship contest.

High School girls in the upper third of their senior class, who desire to prepare themselves for the teaching profession, are invited every year, by the various chapters of the sorority through out the country to take th scholarship test. This year a total of 202 girls completed.

Frederica C. Frohberg, 18 years old, Brooklyn, N. Y. has been awarded the National and Eastern entered by Theta chapter, New York City, and is the daughter of Mrs Thelma Frohberg and the late Herman C. Frohberg

Frederica is the eldest in a family of seven children, a January graduate of Hunter College High school where she spent three years and was the recipient of numerous certificates for excellence in Latin dating from the beginning of her high school career

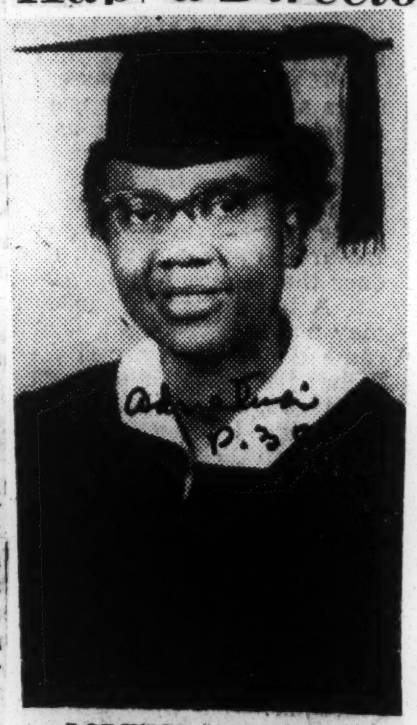
She is a member of Brown Memorial Baptist church of Brooklyn, and a member of its Young Peoples choir, and has high hopes of becoming a teacher of classics in the New York City system.

Southern Regional winner is Edna E. Ware, the seventeen year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James A. Ware, Bessmer, Ala. Edna was Nu chapter's contestant and a June graduate of Brighton High school, Brighton, Ala. She plans to enter Miles college this fall to prepare herself for teaching chemistry.

Mary Jane Benson, Detroit, Mich. was awarded the Mid-Western Regional Scholarship. Mary Jane is eighteen and one of two children in her family.

She graduated in January from Eastern High school. She was entered by Chi chapter, and will major in physical education at Michigan State Normal college next fall.

Scholarship Awards Announced By Phi Delta Kappa Director



LORETTA WILLIAMS

Mrs. Grace H. Racker, National Program Director of the National Sorority of Phi Delta Kappa, announced that ($3,000) in new scholarships has been awarded for 1953 to high school graduates, who are going to pursue teaching careers.

The national award of ($900) was won by Miss Frederica C. Frohberg sponsored by Theta Chapter in New York. Miss Frohberg topped the National list of 202 students who competed in Intelligence and Achievement College Entrance examinations for the award. She is a graduate of Hunter High School in New York City.

Regional winners in the contest are Miss Shirley Lawson, sponsored by Chi Chapter in Detroit, Mich. and Miss Edna Earl Ware sponsored by Theta Chapter in Birmingham, Ala. Local award ranging from $25 to $200 will be given to the highest ranking students in localities throughout the country where the sorority has chapters.

In addition to these awards, the National Sorority of Phi Delta Kappa will renew awards to Ethel Mae Sanderson of Alabama State College in Montgomery, Ala. Mariann Russell of St. Johns College in Brooklyn, N. Y. and Louise Greenfield of Hunter College, N. Y.

The National Sorority of Phi Delta Kappa is composed of women in education.

The national scholarship test was given to 11 girls from the various high schools in the city. Of this number, Miss Loretta Mabel Williams, Route 3, Montgomery, Ala., has been awarded a scholarship fee of $25 to the college of her choice, by the Beta Beta of the National Sorority of Phi Delta Kappa in Montgomery for obtaining the highest rating.

14j 1953

RACHEL HERSTEIN FUND

4 NYC Students Get Scholarships

NEW YORK — Four scholarships of $100 each were awarded recently to NYC high school graduates by the NAACP, from the Rachel Herstein Fund.

The NAACP has been trustee of the fund, which awards the scholarships to outstanding colored students graduating from New York City high schools, since 1939.

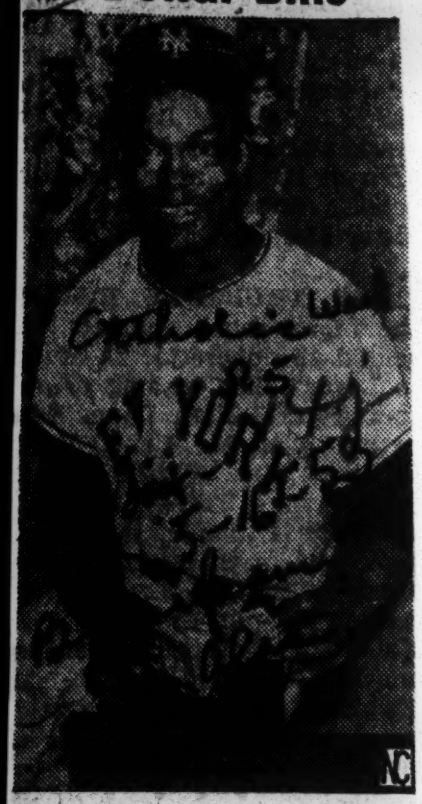
Recipients of the awards for 1952 were Sadie Lindsey of Manhattan, a graduate of High School of Commerce, who ranked second in a class of 320; Edith McGinley of Jackson Heights, graduating from Newtown High School, 15th in a class of 221;

Harold Rodgers of the Bronx, graduating from High School of Science with an excellent record in biology and chemistry; and Samuel Roman of Brooklyn, a graduate of E. New York Vocational High School, who will study to be an engineer.

14j 1953

REGIS COLLEGE MEMORIAL SCHOLARSHIP
Denver, Colorado

Dollar Bills



Monte Irvin, top outfielder for the New York Giants and benefactor of Regis College, Denver, Colo., Memorial Scholarship dedicated to a Negro alumnus, is shown stuffing dollar bills into the high top baseball shoe he wore last year after breaking his ankle in an exhibition game. (NC Photos)

14j 1953

ROBERT SENGSTACKE ABBOTT MEMORIAL JOURNALISM SCHOLARSHIP

Grambling Sect'y Wins The Abbott Memorial Award

GRAMBLING, La.— Mrs. Mary Alice Hobdy, secretary to the dean of instruction at Grambling college, is the winner of the coveted Robert Sengstacke Abbott Memorial Journalism scholarship for the 1953 - 54 session.

Dr. Armistead S. Pride, dean, school of journalism, Lincoln University, Jefferson City, Mo., made the announcement early last week.

The $500.00 memorial scholarship grant is made each year by the Chicago Defender to an outstanding student for study in the school of journalism at Lincoln university.

Mrs. Hobdy was selected on the "basis of scholarship, character and aptitude for journalistic study and work."

The scholarship covers school expenses for one year.

ABBOTT SCHOLAR — Mrs. Mary Alyce Hobdy, secretary to the dean of instruction at Grambling college, Grambling, La., wins 7th annual Robert S. Abbott Memorial scholarship in journalism for a year of study at the Lincoln university School of Journalism, Jefferson City, Mo. The scholarship carries a $500 cash award with it.

Secretary Wins Abbott Award

MRS. HOBDY

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. — Mrs. Mary Alyce Hobdy, secretary to the dean of instruction at Grambling College, has won the seventh annual Robert S. Abbott Memorial Scholarship in journalism for a year of study at the Lincoln University School of Journalism. The scholarship carries a $500 cash award with it.

Mrs. Hobdy is an honor graduate from Tougaloo College in Mississippi. She taught English at Harris High School, Meridian, Miss., for three years and served on the staff of the Meridian Morning Star. Her husband, Frederick, is assistant football coach at Grambling.

The Chicago Defender, donor of the scholarship in memory of its founder, established the award in 1946 to encourage youth in the study of journalism. The seventh scholarship, which was increased from $400 to $500 two years ago, will bring to $3,000 the total amount the Chicago Defender has invested in the annual award.

Two former winners are now Defender staff members. Nina M. Redd, who received the Bachelor of Journalism degree in June 1952, is a reporter in the women's department of the paper. S. Lee Blackwell, Johnson C. Smith graduate who completed the Lincoln U. journalism course in 1951, has served two years as general assignment reporter with the Defender.

One other Lincoln U. journalism graduate, Zack Weston, in the class of 1949, started last fall with the Defender as special assignment writer after receiving the Master of Journalism degree from Northwestern University in August. He served two years as reporter for the Kansas City Call.

Each Abbot Scholar spends a three-months' summer internship with the Defender at the close of the scholarship year.

14j 1953

Jackie To Get LL. D. Degree From Bethune

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla (SNS)—During the half-time on Saturday, in the Memorial Stadium, Daytona Beach, Florida, JACKIE ROBINSON, professional baseball and football player will have the Honorary Degree of Doctor of Laws conferred upon him. He is the first Negro to be chosen to play in Major League Baseball, beginning with the Montreal Royals, farm team of the Brooklyn Dodgers, during spring training of 1946 here in Daytona Beach, and signed with the Brooklyn Dodgers in 1945. For his outstanding play was named "Rookie of the Year" in the National League in 1947.

Bethune-Cookman College Wildcats will play the Xavier Gold Rush of New Orleans, Louisiana. The kick-off will be at 2:30 p. m. President Richard V. Moore states that the Homecoming celebration will begin at ten o'clock in the morning with a parade starting in front of the Administration Building of the College.

The Executive Secretary of the National Alumni Association asks that all Alumni please register in the Alumni Office on the second floor of White Hall.

AT $5,000 SCHOLARSHIP PRESENTATION — This group took part Saturday in the presentation of Southern Life insurance company's $5,000 scholarship award to the most promising business pupil graduating from a Maryland high school this term. Left to right are: Dr. Martin D. Jenkins, president of Morgan State college; Carl Murphy, president, AFRO-AMERICAN Newspapers; Willard W. Allen, president, Southern Life Insurance company; George A. Green, award winner from Douglass high school: Mrs. Mary A. Stewart, mortician, Salisbury, Md.; and G. Russell Waller, manager, Mutual Benefit Society.

14j 1953

WOODROW WILSON FELLOWSHIP

James Atwater Wins Wilson Fellowship

DURHAM, N.C. — (ANP) — James Leon Atwater, president of the Student Government association at North Carolina college has been awarded $1,250 in cash grants as part of a Woodrow Wilson fellowship.

JAMES ATWATER

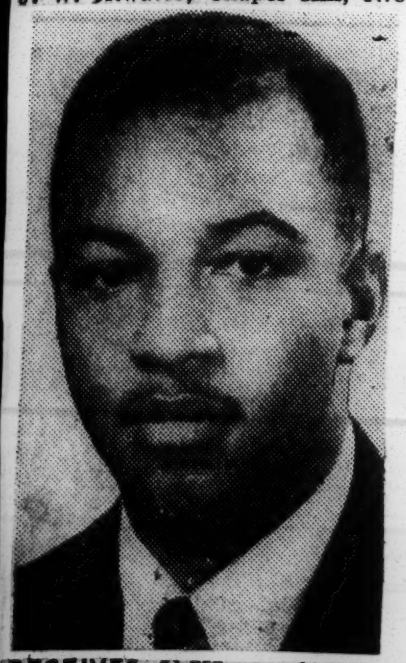
Atwater, graduating senior at NCC where he has been an honor student throughout his college career, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Atwater, Chapel Hill, N.C.

Mrs. J. W. Atwater, 509 Church st., Chapel Hill, N.C., and president of the Student Government Association, North Carolina College, Durham, has received a $1,250 cash award from the Woodrow Wilson Fellowship foundation for one year's graduate study at the University of Pennsylvania.



RECEIVES $1,250 — James Leon Atwater, son of Mr. and

Awarded $8,000 Research Grant

Dr. Ezra L. Totton, of the department of chemistry at the North Carolina College at Durham, was recently awarded a research grant of $8,000 by the Wright Air Development Center. Dr. Totton and his students will engage in the synthesis of intermediates to be used in the preparaton of plastics.

Since receiving the doctorate degree from the University of Wisconsin in 1949, Dr. Totton has been chairman of the department of chemistry at North Carolina College. During this time he has been actively engaged in teaching and research.

Negro educator says schools equal white at high school level

MOBILE, Ala., June 16 (AP)—A Negro educator said today he is convinced public school systems in the South give Negro students at the high school level equal educational opportunities with white students.

Dr. D. F. Martinez, president of Johnson Memorial Institute Junior College at Batesville, Miss., said in an interview with The Mobile Register his opinion is based on observations in such cities as Mobile, New Orleans and Birmingham.

Dr. Martinez said that "propaganda" to the effect that Negro students in the South do not have equal educational opportunities "simply is not true."

Former director of Negro public schools in Missouri, Dr. Martinez is in Mobile for the meeting of the Bishops' Council of the African Methodist Episcopal Zion Church in the United States.

The Negro educator and others attending the church conference yesterday heard reports on a $700,000 building program now under way at four church-supported educational institutions in the South.

They are: Trenton College, Rockhill, S. C., $250,000; Lomax-Hannon College, Greenville, Ala., $250,000; Walters Institute, to be moved from Lexa to Warren, Ark., $100,000, and Johnson Memorial Institute, being moved from Stover to Batesville. Miss., $55,000.

School board approves Negro vocational school

BY ALICE MURPHY, News staff writer

The first major step towards providing a vocational high school for Birmingham Negroes was approved today by the city school board.

In a special session this morning the board signed its approval of an agreement with a large national foundation which has offered to pay $600,000 for the establishment of the school.

The money is expected to pay for construction costs and the equipment of the shop buildings.

The name of the foundation is not to be made public until the final agreement is complete. However, the agreement which school board members approved this morning was drawn up by the foundation and there is little doubt that it will also be approved by them.

Preliminary plans drawn by the school board's architects, Warren, Knight & Davis, show the building will have at least 12 classrooms and five shop rooms, with a lunchroom.

A LARGE PLOT of land in Avondale bordered by 41st-st, First-av, n, and the Central of Georgia Railroad tracks is the proposed site for the school. The land board members have in mind is included in the Birmingham Housing Authority plans for a slum-clearance program.

Because the name of the foundation is not to be revealed yet, however ,the complete agreement was not available for public study. It is understood, however, that the only obligations of the school board to the foundation will be to name the school for the founder of the foundation; and a guarantee from the board to pay any costs which may be in excess of the $600,000.

Supt. Frazer Banks has explained that the building plans, site, and type of materials of construction must be approved by the donor, but that the purchase of the site, drawing of plans, and construction contracts will be the responsibility of the board. The school system will be required to meet certain specific standards having to do with curriculum and personnel, but the board is to have complete control of the operation of the school.

DR. T. M. KEGLEY, director of research for the city school system, estimated it will cost approximately $100,000 a year to operate the school.

The school board expects to get additional funds from the state minimum program fund, which allots a certain amount of money for each teacher-unit. Dr. Banks said the board also hopes to receive additional states monies under the vocational eduction program.

The school is expected to accommodate about 500 students.

The preliminary plans also show long-range plans for additional buildings that would almost double the size of the first part of the vocational school, and also would include establishment of a Negro elementary school nearby.

Parker recognized— All white high schools approved

Birmingham's high schools are starting the New Year right.

Dr. C. J. Going, director of city high schools, said today he has received word that all city white high schools have been continued on the approved list of the Southern Assn. of Colleges and Secondary Schools for 1954.

In addition, this year, Dr. Going said Parker High School has received word it is Birmingham's first Negro high school to be approved by the association. Dr. Going said Parker High had received word from Dr. J. C. Blair, director of Negro education for the State Department of Education, congratulating the principal, teachers, and pupils on their accreditation by the Southern Assn.

Carver High School Offers Well Rounded Curriculum

By E. P. WALLACE

The Carver High School's Curriculum includes a varied program with emphasis being placed on extra-curricular activities as well as a balanced literary one. This was revealed during an observation tour by this writer Monday morning.

Carver High's fifty-two faculty members assumed their years responsibilities with a smile according to comments made by principal M. H. Griffin as he explained the secret of success at this institution and pointed out that the group was very co-operative.

The two spacious lunch rooms one for elementary children and the other for High School groups, are among the best equipped in the state. Prof. Griffin pointed out that a huge modern mixer had just been purchased which would mean a speeding up of the work in the kitchen as well as serve as a help mate.

The elementary building, housing the 20 elementary teachers and pupils, is the latest in architecture and has added a new look to the plant, located South of Fairview Avenue where Oak and the Avenue intersect. The next move will be the addition of a gymnasium.

Among the many extra activities on the camping is the Boy Scouts of America by the latest of them. This phase of extra work wil be directed by Prof. Leon Williams who will have a strong faculty member troop committee to assist him.

Assistant Principal W. E. Thompson solicited the service of a Boy Scout official this past Monday to help Director Williams in setting up the troop. Approximately sixty boys of scouting age responded to the call and it now seems that Carver will have two troops instead of one.

H-"Y" and Gray "Y" leaders are getting ready to complete their set-up with those organizations. Football is already in operation with other units to be organized within the next few days. With the perfection of science Clubs, "Y" teens and other, Carver's Program will be complete.

Of the 1,975 students enrolled, the greater portion of them are now and will be affilliated with one or more extra-activity on the campus before the year is over.

Classroom work has gotten off to a good beginning. Within the next few days, all attention will be directed toward the climaxing features of the first six weeks work. With the issuing of academic cards, teachers will be handing down their initial evaluation of the child thus far.

Carver's Principal, Prof. M. H. Griffin, is ripe with experience. This, plus his literary attainment fits him for the audious task of such a huge institution.

14k 1953

D.C.

4 on Board Would Join Units to Cut School Cost

But Corning Sides With 3 Others in Opposing Unified Gym-Auditorium

By Jeanne Rogers
Post Reporter

For economy, and over the protetts of Schools Superintendent Hobart M. Corning, four Board of Education members yesterday urged construction of a combined gymnasium and auditorium at Washington Vocational High School.

Two members of the board's building and grounds committee, Mrs. Frank S. Phillips, chairman, and Miss Mary Parker, said they thought there was no need for separate units, as planned for a new addition to the Negro girls' school, O st. between N. Capitol and 1st sts. nw.

Walter N. Tobriner said "in this day of economy" he felt the school property could have a combined facility. He noted enrillment had dropped from 570 in 1947 to 395 today. Robert R. Faulkner said he thought it was "high time to consider the high cost of school buildings and consolidate new things."

Corning and the three Negro members of the board said a combined facility would curtail the school program. "It seems there should be a thorough restudy of the school curriculum," Corning declared, "if each plan is to be questioned." He said the combination of these two special rooms has been "pretty well abandoned across the country."

Mrs. Phillips said Budrick High School for white girls has such a combined unit and the principal "feels they are putting on an adequate program." West A. Hamilton, third member of the building committee, said he would prepare a minority report on the proposed change. The matter will come up for board action May 20.

Corning told the committee he intends to announce any recommendations for changed use of present school buildings "immediately after" a Supreme Court decision on the constitutionality of segregation. He said announcement of a major change now might prove "wholly unnecessary and unwise."

Both Hamilton and Mrs. Velma Williams said they wanted relief for overcrowded conditions at Payne Negro Elementary School by next fall. Corning was to have made a recommendation for this relief at the May board meeting.

Fight Over Washington High Nipped

Dr. Corning Asks Board Members To Postpone Decision

WASHINGTON

A showdown fight over the controversial plans for a new addition to the M. M. Washington vocational high school, was postponed indefinitely Wednesday at a meeting of the board of education.

The delay was requested by Dr. Hobart M. Corning, superintendent of education, who asked board members to postpone a final decision on the plans, until he is able to provide them with additional information on the needs of the school.

In granting the request, the board headed off an expected clash between Mrs. Frank S. Phillips, chairman of the building and grounds committee, and Col. West A. Hamilton, committee member.

Mrs. Phillips has advocated the reduction of a number of facilities in the new building, while Colonel Hamilton, one of the board's three colored members, has been insistent that these facilities be included.

Last week in a stormy meeting of the building committee, Mrs. Phillips joined with Miss Mary Parker, committee member, in labeling the plans as "unacceptable," while Colonel Hamilton insisted that the plans be adopted without change.

The issue was expected to come up for a vote on Wednesday before the full board, but Dr. Corning's request, shelved the dispute.

School Transfer

In other actions the board heard a request from Austin Williamson, vie-president of the Northwest Boundary Civic Association, that the Raymond elementary school at Tenth and Spring rd., nw, be transferred from white to colored pupils.

Basis for the request was Mr. Williamson's assertation that the Raymond school has a capacity of 648 and an actual enrollment of 305, while a companion white school, Petworth, has a capacity of 576 and an enrollment of 227.

On the other hand, Mr. Williamson declared, the Parkview elementary school for colored children in the area, has a capacity of 936 with an actual enrollment of 1,088 and a projected enrollment in September of 1,308.

Warning that "fine words and noble sentiments will not solve the problems," Mr. Williamson suggested that the white pupils be combined in the Petworth building, and the Raymond school be turned over to colored children.

Under Advisement

The board took the request under advisement and asked that a report on the situation be prepared by Dr. Corning.

The Wednesday meeting, the last before the personnel of the board is changed, was also marked by a wrangle between Colonel Hamilton and Mrs. Phillips, over the adoption of plans for a new colored elementary school at 6th and East Capital sts.

Colonel Hamilton opposed a motion by Mrs. Phillips to approve the plans with the added provision that school officials be instrurted to investigate several of her suggestions for reduring the cost of the building.

Despite the opposition of Colonel Hamilton and Mrs. Velma Williams, the motion was carried by a vote of 52.

The board also upheld the dismissal of a complaint filed by Mrs. Pearl A. Frealng, protesting her transfer from the Dunbar to Spingarn high school.

14k 1953

FLORIDA

Diplomas Handed to 58 High School Graduates

Diplomas were handed to 58 Greater Miami White and Negro high school graduates at commencement exercises held Thursday at Miami Jackson and Booker T. Washington High schools.

A total of 53 seniors of six high schools took part in exercises Thursday evening at Miami Jackson High where the summer academic high school is centered each year.

Five seniors took part in the exercises Thursday morning at Booker T. Washington High, the Negro summer school.

Assistant School Superintendent W. W. Matthews handed out diplomas at Jackson High.

Lila Merein, senior of Miami High, spoke on "Looking Ahead," and Mark Tanenbaum, senior of Miami Beach High, on "The Master Chessboard."

The Rev. John Haldeman of Allapattah Baptist Church gave the invocation. Mrs. Laura DeFonso conducted singing by a school ensemble.

Represented in the graduation class were 22 seniors from Miami Senior High; three from Technical High; three from Miami Jackson High; eight from Coral Gables High; eight from Miami Beach High and nine from Miami Edison High.

W. C. Cogdell, assistant director of Negro schools, handed out the diplomas at Booker T. Washington High.

Cynthia Symonette, president of the June graduating class, gave "The Challenge to the Class."

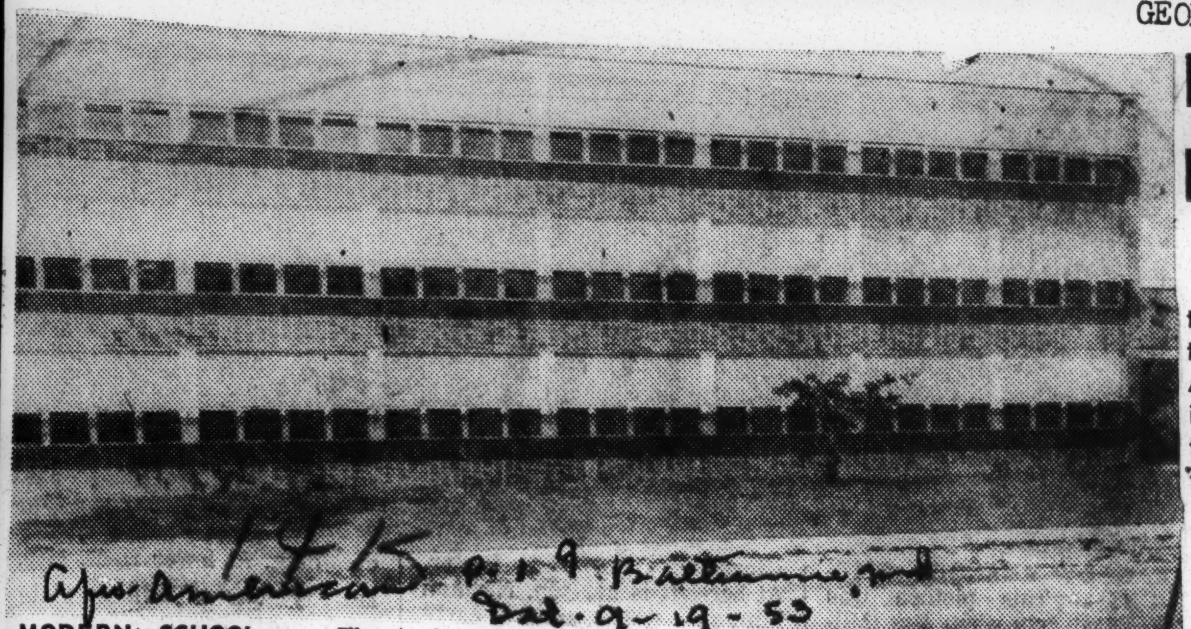
Clara Francis, senior of Washington High, spoke on "Honesty," and Dorothy Johnson, senior of Carver High, on "Loveliness."

Music was supplied by a choir conducted by Miss Leila Roberts Williams.

Represented in the class were two seniors from Washington High; two from Carver High and one from Dorsey High.

14k 1953

GEORGIA



MODERN SCHOOL — The new Lucy Laney high school, the cost of which runs close to three quarters of a million dollars, is the most modern school building in Richmond county.

Lucy Laney high honors founder who devoted life to education progress

By JULANE LAMPKIN

AUGUSTA, Ga. — The Lucy Laney high school, one of the finest in the south, means little more than a sleek new building located on Gwinnett st., but to old citizens of Augusta, it is a living memorial to a woman who dedicated her life to furthering education for the colored race.

Lucy C. Laney was one of the pioners in the field of education.

To realize her dream of educational opportunities for colored people, she had to overcome countless obstacles, first, to obtain her own education and then to assure others the same opportunity. She opened the first kindergarten and the first nurses' training class in Augusta.

Miss Laney endured many hardships, going without warm clothes and even without sufficient food when school finances were short. But finally her dream was realized.

The school, which is completely fireproof, has 21 general classrooms, 15 special classrooms and an auditorium gymnasium, fully equipped with shower-lockers for students. The cafeteria and kitchen are in a separate wing.

The school has various shops, including a paint booth, providing instructions in that type of work and also offering facilities for maintenance of school equipment.

The school has also a very elaborate homemaking department with spaces for dressmaking classes, homemaking activities and cooking. Special courses are being offered in:

Radio, shoe repairing, automobile mechanics cosmetology, mechanical drawing, brick masonry, plastering, woodwork, industrial arts, distributive education, typing, shorthand, business machines general business, bookkeeping, and accounting.

Charles W. Johnson is principal of the school, and Hubert E. Wilson is assistant. Current session begins on Sept. 8.

HIGH SCHOOL IS NAMED FOR BISHOP FOUNTAIN

BY OZEIL FRYER WOOLCOCK

One day after Bishop and Mrs. W. A. Fountain celebrated their 54th wedding anniversary, Bishop Fountain was honored at two ceremonies on Sunday afternoon when the Builders Class of Allen Temple A. M. E. Church celebrated its 40th anniversary during the church's 84th Homecoming week; and at the new elementary and high school at Forest Park, Clayton County, Georgia, that was dedicated and named after the prelate.

In the first unit of the church a testimonial dinner was held in the Bishop's honor with his wife sharing in the celebration. More than two-hundred guests, including members and friends of the city, paid high tributes to the bishop who is listed in "Who's Who."

C. L. Gideons, supervisor, introduced the presiding officer, J. C. Johnson, a founder of the class, and retired executive of the Pilgrim Life Insurance company.

Introduced for short tributes by the master of ceremonies were Mrs. Lizzie McDuffie, Prof. C. L. Harper, Miss Doris Drummond, who flew down from New York for the occasion; Miss Ella Mae Tate, representing the Gate City teachers; Dr. J. R. Coan of Morris Brown College; Mrs. Alma Bryan a community leader; William Gordon, Atlanta Daily World; Mrs Emmie Maddox, public school teacher; Dr. R. L. Chamberlain, president of the organization; R. O. Sutton, representing the Citizens Trust Company; Mrs. Dollie Alexander; C. N. Cornell, principal of Washington High School; Dr. L. D. Middleton of Morris Brown College; Edmond Kemp, representing the youth of the church; R. Henry Reaves, founder of the Builders Club; Miss Jessie M. Jones, organist of Allen Temple and Mrs. Ozeil F. Woolcock of the Atlanta Daily World.

School Lacks Facilities, Strike Begins

LAFAYETTE, La.—A student-parent strike at the Paul Breaux High School here was in effect Friday, having begun Tuesday.

Center of controversy is the New Paul Breaux High School now nearing completion which will not have an auditorium or gymnasium.

Parents demand facilities equal to those provided for white high school students or an end of the segregated system.

Also, the parents say, the new school's playground could have been located better and that the new building should have inside toilets. Of some 655 students enrolled only nine attended classes Friday, according to William Smith, Principal of the school.

The strike is being actively sponsored by the Progressive Women's League, Mrs. Eva Reynolds Domingue, President.

La. Students May Prolong School Strike

LAFAYETTE, La. — It was learned here early this week that the 750 Paul Breaux high school students who staged a four-day strike last week will continue their action, of some agreement isn't reached between the Progressive Women's League, composed of parents, and the superintendent of schools, J. C. Landry.

The students walked out Feb. 24 protesting limited school facilities. At the time they and their parents demanded either a new modern high school or the end of segregation.

The parent-student group are against the idea of accepting the proposed new high school for them, the original plans of which call for no gymnasium nor auditorium. They are also definitely against the present school building which has no inside toilets.

In the conference between the striking students, their parents and Supt. Landry, a definite demand was to be made that the new school be modern in every respect, or that segregation must be wiped out entirely.

Landry is reported to have assured the students and their parents that the new Paul Breaux high school will be modern in every respect, but their concern now is whether this assertion means a gymnasium and auditorium, and the proper placement of a playground.

Negro Students To End Strike In Louisiana

Lafayette, La., Feb. 27 (AP)—A leader of the parent-student strike at Paul Breaux High School for Negroes here said today the students will return to school Monday.

Eva Reynolds Domingue, president of the Progressive Women's League, said parents had decided to send their children back to school.

Today was the fourth day of the strike which cut school attendance to almost nothing as parents demanded equal school facilities or an end to segregation.

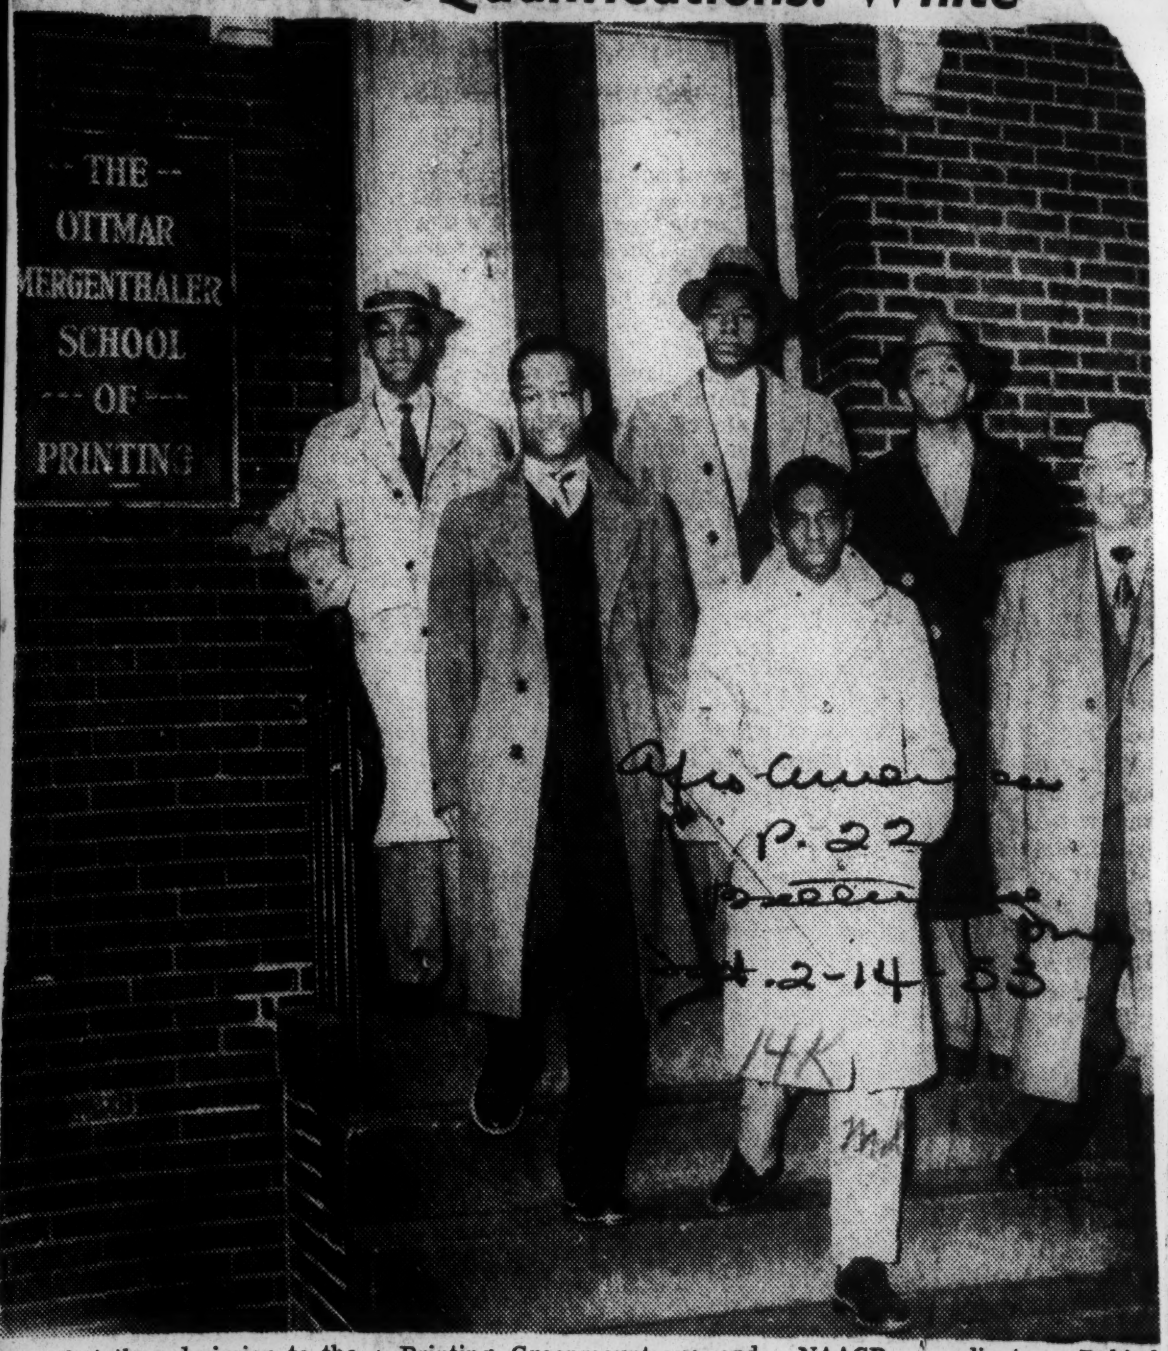
Negro parents don't like the present Negro high school and don't like the new Negro school nearing completion any better.

The new school, also to be named Paul Breaux High School, will not have a gymnasium or auditorium.

14k 1953

MARYLAND
DISCRIMINATION

REJECTED! Qualifications: White



Told that the admission to the school is open to members of the white race only, four Dunbar High School pupils leave the Mergenthaler School of Printing, Greenmount ave. and Eager st., after being rejected. Front, left to right, are Howard Boone, James Mosby and Bowen K. Jackson, NAACP coordinator. Behind them are Robert Scales and David Kaintuck, with Jesse Scales, father of Robert.

Printing School Rejects 4 Pupils

NAACP Asks School Board Action; Gets Official Refusal

BALTIMORE

Four high school youths were refused admittance to the Mergenthaler School of Printing, Tuesday, because of their color.

The NAACP immediately dispatched a letter to John H. Fisher, deputy superintnedent of schools, isking that he either order the school principal to admit the youths, or else bring the subject before the School Board.

Mr. Fischer is acting as head of the public school system because of Superintendent William H. Lemmel's sudden death last week.

The Mergenthaler, a public school, is the only school in the city offering highly technical training in printing and the related arts.

The School Board decided Thursday that the four youths should not be admitted to Mergenthaler at this time, but that a study should be made of the possibility of providing equal printing instruction at Douglass and Dunbar schools.

Roszel C. Thomsen, president of the board of commissioners, said that the $4,000,000 Carver school, yet to be constructed, will offer a course identical to that at Mergenthaler.

Mrs. Juanita Mitchell of the Baltim[illegible] NAACP; Clarence Mit[illegible]d of the Washington [illegible]bureau; S. Edward Smith, [illegible]sonnel manager of the AFRO, and Donald G. Murray, attorney, presented arguments before the board for the immediate admission of qualified students.

"We feel that it would be a denial of the constitutional rights of these boys to deny them an education opportunity in printing at this time," Mrs. Mitchell declared.

Mr. Smith, who has just returned from a 780-mile trip in an effort to recruit printers, said that the AFRO "has been short-handed in printers for the last 10 years," while not one colored printer has been trained locally.

"I don't see how we can postpone one day the admission of colored students to the Mergenthaler printing course," he said.

Mr. Thomsen originally advised the board that on the basis of consultation by school officials and printing authorities, an equal course could be provided in a colored school in six months, including the hiring of colored or white teachers and the buying of equipment or moving some from Mergenthaler.

Because of this, Mr. Thomsen said, the board was obligated under the City Charter to maintain separate schools.

Mr. Mitchell, however, did not agree.

"This decision today is neither legally correct or morally justifiable," he said.

Mr. Thomsen recommended that a committee make a study of the printing course at Mergenthaler and of the possibility of instituting a similar course at a colored school. The three men he suggested for the committee were:

Carl Murphy, president of the AFRO-AMERICAN Newspapers; Hugo Delscheimer of the Waverly Press, and William Schneidereith of the Fidelity Trust company.

Applying for admittance to the white school were James Mosby, 15, 1738 E. Lanvale st.; David Kaintuck, 15, 1027 Rutland ave., Robert Scales, 15, 3029 Walbrook ave., and Howard Boone, 18, 1202 Short ct.

Dunbar High Pupils

The 15-year-old boys are all graduates of the Dunbar Junior High School, while Boone is a graduate of the Dunbar Senior High School seeking a special linotype course.

They were accompanied to the school, Greenmount ave. and Eager st., by Bowen Jackson, NAACP Coordinator, and Jessie Scales, father of one of the youths.

Upon arrival at the office of the principal, John G. Edelmann, Mr. Jackson informed the school head that the four youths were applying for entrance to Mergenthaler.

Mr. Edelmann was also told that the applicants were all qualified as to the age and educational requirements.

"A White School!"

The school principal was then quoted as saying: "Well, Mr. Jackson, as you know this is a white school and we do not accept colored entrants."

He refused to state whether such a policy was a result of a School Board directive, however.

Mr. Edelmann concluded the interview with the reminder that his instructions were not to accept colored applicants.

When news of the rejection became known there were rumblings that Mrs. Ethel J. Hucles, counselor at Dunbar, faced disciplinary action because she released names of the qualified pupils to the NAACP.

Scoffs At Rumor

Houston Jackson, assistant superintendent of schools scoffed at such a possibility. "As far as I'm concerned there will be no action against Mrs. Hucles and, if necessary, I will defend her."

When asked about the rejection of the youths seeking entrance to Mergenthaler, Mr. Jackson said: "I've previously stated that if Mergentahaler opens up before Carver and there are courses offered not available in the public schools, the matter should be taken before the School Board.

"I did learn that the NAACP had contacted various principals and requested then to send children to Mergenthaler for registration.

"That wasn't proper because no principal has a right to send pupils to the special schools such as Mergenthaler.

Blames City Code

"The real trouble lies with the City Code which clearly states that separate schools must be maintained. The School Board cannot allow integrated schools unless the Code is changed.

"The City Solicitor, Mr. Biddison, however, has determined that the schools must be equal. Therefore the colored pupils were admitted to Poly," Mr. Jackson concluded.

The NAACP has deferred further action on the Mergenthaler school situation until a response is received from the letter dispatched to Mr. Fischer.

Qualified applicants for training at the Towson State Teachers' College and pupils desiring training in printing at the Mergenthaler School should contact the local NAACP office, 402 Dolphin st.

Baltimore Refuses To Mix Students

BALTIMORE —(ANP) — The School Board voted last week not to admit Negro girls to Western high school, an all-girl institution although there is no such institution for Negro girls in the city.

Roszel C. Thomsen, chairman of the board, said the majority of the board was not convinced that education at an all-girls school was better than at co-educational schools, and so they could not see that the constitution of the United States required them to overrule the provision of the Baltimore City Code requiring separate education of races.

Thomsen announced further that the majority of the board was not convinced either that the A-course about to be set up at Douglas high school for both colored girls and boys would not be equal to that at Western.

IMMEDIATE APPEAL

Dr. Bernard Harris, sr., the board's only Negro member, was the lone member of the seven to vote for the admission of Negro girls to the school.

Mrs. Juanita Jackson Mitchell, attorney for the plaintiffs, said that the decision will be appealed at once in the courts.

Jack Greenberg, NAACP attorney, and one of the many witnesses representing the NAACP, said there were two legal issues before the school board: segregation per se and the issue of separate but unequal facilities. As to say that the white girl in Baltimore has her choice of either. The Negro girl cannot choose, he said.

Others appearing were Dr. Ellis O. Knox, director of the department of education at Howard university who said Douglas was vastly inferior to Western in facilities; Emerson Brown, jr., attorney for Alumni association, Douglas; Dr. Carroll Chandler, a member of Johns Hopkins faculty and of the Urban League, who supported the admission of the Negro girls'; Mrs. Mae Gollman, Baltimore Fellowship; Mrs. Naomi Richardson, Maryland Civil Liberties Union; and Dr. Dwight O. W. Holmes, president emeritus of Morgan college.

Board Refuses To Admit Negroes To White School

BALTIMORE — (ANP) — The School Board voted last week not to admit Negro girls to Western High School, an all-girl institution, although there is no such institution for Negro girls in the city.

Roszel C. Thomsen, chairman of the board, said the majority of the board was not convinced that education at an all-girl school was better than at co-educational schools, and so they could not see that the constitution of the United States required them to overrule the provision of the Baltimore City Code requiring separate education of races.

Thomsen announced further that the majority of the board was not convinced either that the A-course about to be set up at Douglas high school for both colored girls and boys would not be equal to that at Western.

Dr. Bernard Harris, Sr., the board's only Negro member was the lone member of the seven to vote for the admission of Negro girls to the school.

Mrs. Juanita Jackson Mitchell, attorney for the plaintiffs, said that the decision will be appealed at once in the courts.

Jack Greenberg, NAACP attorney, and one of the many witnesses representing the NAACP, said there were two legal issues before the school board: segregation per se and the issue of separate but unequal facilities. As to the controversy over whether co-educational or single-sex-education is better, he would only say that the white girl in Baltimore has her choice of either. The Negro girl cannot choose, he said.

Others appearing were Dr. Ellis O. Knox, director of the department of education at Howard university, who said Douglas was vastly inferior to Western in facilities; Emerson Brown, jr. attorney for Alumni Association, Douglas; Dr. Carroll Chandler, a member of Johns Hopkins facilty and of the Urban League, who supported the admission of the Negor girl's, Mrs. Mae Gellman, Baltimore Fellowship; Mrs. Naomi Richardson, Maryland Civil Liberties Union, and Dr. Dwight O. W. Holmes, president emeritus of Morgan college.

Boasts School Unit Will Equalize Negro Education

JACKSON, Miss. — (ANP) — Ground has been broken on the site of a school which Mississippi hopes will fulfill demands for equal facilities for Negro and white pupils and thus relieve the threat of integration in public schools here.

The embryonic school is the Hinds County Agricultural high school at Utica Institute which is being constructed from a $390,000 appropriation by the county permitted by the state legislature.

Mississippi boasts that the two-building unit will equalize educational facilites for Negroes.

According to Robert M Mayo, the Hinds county superintendent of education, thetrustees decidded to pattern the new high school after the Mississippi State Vocational School at Itta Bena after architests employed by them had traveled over the state inspecting the most modern school plants.

The new school will not replace any of the existing buildings at Utica Institute, but will provide additional facilities.

The institute itself was founded about 50 years ago by William H Holtzlaw, a colored Mississippian.

Vocational education was stressed in Holtzlaw's school, and the buildings were constructed largely by the students. Although their lack of professional planning becomes more apparent, they still are being used.

The institute was governed by a board of trustees appointed by Holtzclaw himself. When he died the management of the school was taken over by his son.

Through the years, the younger Holtzclaw found it increasing hard to meet the financial obligations of the institution and finally the trustees deeded the land and buildings situated there to Hinds county.

The school was then placed under the supervision of the board of trustees of the Hinds Junior College and Agricultural High School.

In commenting on the new school Mayo said:

"The school is superior in accommodation and design to most of the white schools in the county because it is more modern. We are sure it will meet the equal facilities test, both now and in the future."

Miss Bernadine Holtzclaw, a senior at the institute and granddaughter of its founder, turned the first spade of earth in the groundbreaking ceremony.

Toledo names first Negro teacher

TOLEDO, Ohio ANP)—James W. Hill, 40, who graduated with high honors in June from the University of Toledo, is slated to be named the first colored high school teacher in Toledo at a meeting next week of the local school board.

Mr. Hill's appointment has been assured by the school system's administrative heads. He will be assigned to a teaching position in Scott high school.

Indications are that the school board will turn a deaf ear to the pleas for the appointment of the first colored principal. The board is scheduled to fill the vacancy of Washington school left by the resignation of Mrs. Sadie Galvin, veteran principal.

STATE TEACHERS TO PROBE SPENDING OF SEPARATE SCHOOL FUNDS IN 11 OKLAHOMA COUNTIES

Certified Accountant Employed to Check Up On Expenditures Made by Administrative Boards

LEGISLATORS BUTTONHOLED RESPECTING BASIC AID

The legislative committee of the Oklahoma Association of Negro Teachers, headed by F. D. Moon, following a morning session at Douglass High school, spent Tuesday afternoon on the 4th floor of the capitol, where they button-holed legislators, in an effort to secure sponsors for the legislation desired passed by Negro teachers.

During the morning session decision was made to hire L. Kipp, certified accountant, to check separate school funds in eleven of the counties of the state. Negro principals have complained for years that separate school funds are disiapiated in an unaccountable way. A portion is taken as payment for white supervision, and another item is funneled into "supplies" that never reach the Negro school.

The county funds for Negro schools that Kipp will be asked to check are in Okmulgee, Muskogee, Creek, McCurtain, McIntosh, Wagoner, Logan, Seminole, Washington and Carter counties. Kipp has done previous auditing of school funds for the state teachers.

Efforts will be made this year by the OANT to increase the basic aid, and the teachers argued Tuesday that but for the constant raids made on their enrichment funds they could increase teacher's salaries to bring them up to par with white teachers in the hinterlands. In addition to teacher's salaries retirement funds were discussed at length, and some talk was made of amending present legislation having to do with the one mill levy for improvements.

Teachers who attended the Tuesday meeting, in addition to Moon included C. Whitlow, Tulsa; Jesse Lucas, Muskogee; A. M. Jordan, Wewoka; L. R. Kirkpatrick, Muskogee; G. A. Jackson, Okmulgee; R. B. Gracey, Chandler; J. J. West, Ponca City; Adolphus Williams, Sapulpa; Gil Smith, Bristow; E. E. Weaver, Anadarko; Mrs. Gloria Ainsworth, Ardmore; H. F. V. Wilson, Ardmore; Mrs. Bessie Hogan, Hugo; George Tilmon, Sand Springs; E. M. Watson, Shawnee; C. R. Buford, Ada; C. R. Johns, Seminole; E. W. Warrior, Muskogee.

White Nurse Blasts Separate Schools

State High School Courses For Blacks Inadequate

"These segregated high schools do not provide the curriculum to prepare Negro girls for the course in nursing that we have established here," declared Mrs. Ada Hawkins, head nursing instructor at the Oklahoma University School of Nursing, to a representative of the Black Dispatch last week.

Mrs. Hawkins' astonishing statemen came following inquiry as to why so many Negro girls had failed in their examinations in the nursing school, and comes as a severe indictment of the separate school system of the state.

This charge was brought last year by the NAACP before several teacher groups in the separate school, but apparently nothing has been done to correct this situation.

Evidence that there is positively no discrimination in the nursing school came last week when it was pointed out that Mrs. Marie Mink, formerly head nurse at the Edwards Memorial hospital, has been elevated to the position of instructor in nursing art at the Oklahoma University School of Nursing.

Mrs. Mink has an R. N. diploma from the St. Mary's Infirmery, St. Louis, Mo., B. S. in Education, Southern university, and M. S. in Nursing from Columbia university.

The Inferiority of Negro Schools

We have been insisting all along, since the opening of the State Nursing school to enrollment for Negro girls that adequate preparation be made to prepare Negro high school graduates to meet the scholastic requirements of the nursing school.

As many of our readers know, a large number of Negro girls have been turned away from the nursing school with the charge they are deficient in chemistry and allied sciences. This allegation has been made against many of our smaller high schools of the state not having courses equal to Booker T. Washington in Tulsa, Manual Training high school in Muskogee, and Douglass High in Oklahoma City.

Our attention this week, however, is claimed by the father of a girls who graduated this year with honors from Douglass high school in this city, which proves conclusively that something needs to be done with the curriculum in the Oklahoma City separate schools, if one is to give full faith and credit to the charges brought against Douglass high school.

The young girl in question had applied for admission to the nursing school out on Thirteenth street, and on being advised she had failed the preliminary examination, wrote an additional letter asking for a clearer picture of the grades she had made. She specifically requested she be told the points exposed in her examination where she is weak. The second letter from the nursing school follows:

> "The tests in the Ohio High School content in both mathematics and science were in the first decile in relation to beginning college students, which would mean that ninety per cent of the students taking the tests would have exceeded the scores that were obtained in these areas. The reading score was not available and perhaps some of the difficulty lies in reading. It would be very well, if possible, to concentrate on improving ability insofar as speed and vocabulary are concerned, if this is the case.
>
> "If it is possible for you to go to college for a year we would strongly recommend that you consider taking some science course, college algebra and English."

It is difficult for us to believe an honor student from the 1953 Douglass high school class would fail in an examination given beginning college students, and that this young woman would fail in the sciences, algebra and English. Up to now we had assumed these courses at Douglass were up to standard and fully adequate, but the letter written under date of July 22 reveals another totally and different story.

Before the Sipuel decision several years ago, we had no opportunity to accurately determine and weigh the difference between the white and Negro schools of this state, and while we were assured in our mind inferior standards were offered Negro children, it has taken just such experiences as this young Negro girl has suffered to reflect clearly and accurately the differentials between white and Negro education in this state. Perhaps the only final answer is total integration, for we have always felt separate schools were instituted in order to provide inferior education for black people and place lags in their intellectual advancement.

This problem is not one wholly for the Negro teacher to resolve. It is rather one for independent groups, such as Parent-Teacher associations. Usually when one passes a Negro school and sees one light on, he will discover a few

Third and Walnut. Immediate inquiry should be made as to why an honor student at Douglass high school this year should be declared deficient in English, algebra and the sciences when she arrives at the door of the University of Oklahoma. The question that should be asked is, "Do high school students from Central, Classen and Capitol Hill have to take a year in some teachers college before they can go to the State Nursing School?"

Patrons of the school meeting in a Negro Parent-Teacher association, but the matter is entirely different in the white structure. White parents will fill a school building because of the active interest whites have in the type and pattern of education given their children.

What we have revealed here is a matter that should be taken up immediately by the Parent-Teacher association of Douglass high school with the administrative authorities at

Of course there might be a satisfactory answer to the above question if this young woman was just a "mine run" selection who might be mediocre in some major fields, but this is by no means the case. Here we have a young girl designated as an honor student, which means she is the best Douglass affords. Looks as though in this contrast between black and white schools we are beginning to strike pay dirt. Something is rotten in the state of Denmark.

As the matter stands now, the University of Oklahoma recommends an honor student at Douglass high school spend a year in college, brushing up on the sciences, algebra and English, before she is qualified and prepared to enter the University School of Nursing.

5 NEGRO HIGH SCHOOLS TO ASK ACCREDITATION

City Units Begin First Step On December Action

Ernest C. Ball, city schools superintendent, said yesterday applications of five Negro high schools, requesting accreditation will be submitted to the Secondary Commission of the Southern Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools in December.

An improvements program at the Memphis schools over several years has progressed to the point where the applications are being filled out, Mr. Ball said.

The Negro schools are performing the first step toward future accreditation — self evaluation. Later they will be avaluated by an outside committee and both reports will be studied by a state reviewing committee of the association when it convenes here in December for its annual meeting.

The accreditation decision was disclosed in reply to a letter to the Board of Education by the Memphis branch of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People. The group in a resolution urged the necessary steps be started toward accreditation of the schools within the calendar year.

First In Texas

Negroes Get Mixed Hi School

FT. WORTH — Two Negro girls are attending regular classes in OUR LADY OF VICTORY. Their enrollment in the Catholic school, making the first mixed high school in Texas, has occasioned a flurry of comment in school circles, but most white pupils going to OLF have taken it in their stride.

Only five OLV pupils have been withdrawn from the high school since the Negro pupils enrolled, but only two of those were in the classes with the Negro girls, OLV officials said.

P. 1

The Negro girls are sisters, Joe Ann Bennett, 14, a high school freshman, and Marjorie Bennett, 18, a college freshman. They are daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Norris and Ell G. Bennett of Fort Worth.

Marjorie is a 1953 graduate of I.M. Terrell (Negro) High where a third sister, Constance, 16, is now a junior.

The two girls are the first Negroes to attend OLV. This possibly is the first mixed high school class in Texas history.

Rumors around town of a large Negro enrollment and of mass withdrawals of OLV pupils today were branded false by OLV.

According to several white pupils in OLV the Negro girls are accepted as fellow pupils. One girl said, "There's no fuss about it. They are just there. I'm in the same class with one of the Negro girls and everything is all right."

Catholic schools here offer no advanced classes exclusively for negro pupils. They have a Negro grade school, Our Mother of Mercy, at 1007 E. Terrell Ave.

Norcom High School

PORTSMOUTH, Virginia, has just completed a new building for its I. C. Norcom High School at a cost of approximately $3,000,000. In design and construction the building meets the requirements of the times as to secondary education, and is a credit to Portsmouth's School Board which planned it and to the City Council which provided the basic means for its construction. The plant appears capable of being adapted to all practical methods of modern education, literary and technical. To be perfectly frank, Portsmouth's new Norcom is a high school, not a Negro high school, in the pattern of the past.

It required progressive, objective planning to bring forth such a high school plant in a city the size of Portsmouth. The need for it is there, of course, but in the past the policy has been to provide the minimum standards in design and construction on the theory that those who were to use the facility "could make out" with it. Portsmouth has thrown that policy "out of the window" and has built for the education of its Negro youths a school plant equal to any in the South, regardless of race.

What is obvious is that, in the design and construction of the building, care has been taken to preserve the esthetic factors that make education complete, without overdoing this important element. The auditorium, for example, is equipped with a pipe organ and stage arrangements which admit of the utmost development and expression of the musical and dramatic talents of the students. There are space and facilities for the complete development of the physical education and athletic development of the students which give the appearance of having been planned with as much care as that devoted to the classrooms and shops. An overall appraisal of the new Norcom is that the plant was designed and constructed to meet any educational needs of present or future.

Superintendent Mapp, the Portsmouth School Board, the City Council and Principal W. A. Waters and his faculty all deserve commendation, but even more do the citizens of Portsmouth deserve congratulations. Portsmouth has filled a long standing gap in its educational system in a most acceptable manner. The new plant is admirably located which enables it to lend itself more completely to the high school education of the City's youths, and to the total educational advancement of the community.

Refuse To Attend Jim Crow Unit

West Point Pupils Enroll at Schools Outside of County

WEST POINT, Va. —(NNPA)— Local colored high school students, who this year continued to boycott the Hamilton Holmes School in King William County, are apparently attending schools in other areas, authorities said last Thursday.

An investigation, prompted by the absence from county schools they were instructed to attend by the West Point School Board, followed a report that pupils were attending a privately operated school there.

There is no such school, W. E. Garber, division superintendent of schools for West Point and King William county, said.

Refusal of colored high school pupils here to attend the county high school is similar to the situation in 1952 when the Beverly Allen School here was limited to elementary pupils only.

Colored high school pupils were ordered to attend the Hamilton-Holmes School, some eighteen miles away in the county. They refused, raising the question of racial discrimination in school facilities provided for them in contrast with those provided for white pupils. Prosecution of parents followed under the State's "compulsory attendance" law and the case has gone to the Virginia Supreme Court.

Six colored pupils were promoted last June from the Beverly Allen elementary school. None showed up when the Hamilton-Holmes school opened this year.

Garber said he plans to determine if the six pupils, each of whom must stay in school until 16 years old, are attending classes elsewhere.

He said he learned that parents had discussed setting up a school of their own here and even had hired a teacher before the plan was dropped.

The superintendent plans to ask each parent where the children are going to school and check with the schools to confirm their attendance.

Va. School Boycott Enters Second Term

Special to Journal and Guide

WEST POINT, Va.—(NNPA) —Local colored high school students, who this year continue to boycott the Hamilton Holmes School in King William County, are apparently attending schools in other areas, authorities said last Thursday.

An investigation, prompted by the absence from county schools they were instructed to attend by the West Point School Board, followed a report that pupils were attending a privately operated school there.

There is no such school, W. E. Garber, division superintendent of schools for West Point and King William county said.

* * *

REFUSAL OF colored high school pupils here to attend the only county high school is similar to the situation in 1952 when the Beverly Allen School here was limited to elementary pupils only.

Colored high school pupils were ordered to attend the Hamilton-Holmes School, some eighteen miles away in the county. They refused, raising the question of racial discrimination in school facilities provided for them in contrast with those provided for white pupils.

Prosecution of parents followed under the State's "compulsory attendance" law and the case has gone to the Virginia Supreme Court.

SIX COLORED pupils were promoted last June from the Beverly Allen Elementary School. None showed up when the Hamilton-Holmes School opened this year.

Garber said he plans to determine if the six pupils, each of whom must stay in school until 16 years old, are attending classes elsewhere.

He said he learned that parents had discussed setting up a school of their own here and even had hired a teacher before the plan was dropped.

The superintendent plans to ask each parent where the children are going to school and check with the schools to confirm their attendance.

14 L 1953

Alabama

Negro educator honored—Carol W. Hayes (behind cake), director of Birmingham Negro schools, received a plaque, awarded by the Birmingham Council of Colored PTA at the 56th annual Founders Day of National PTA in a program at Parker High School. Presenting it was Mrs. Sallie Anderson, council president.

Left to right in picture are Mrs. Clara Brown Rodgers, program chairman; Mrs. Wilhelmina Vaughn, Fairfield Elementary School principal; P. D. Jackson, Western High School principal; Mrs. Anderson, Mr. Hayes and Mrs. J. A. Dupuy, Birmingham Board of Education president.

Carol W. Hayes, Negro educator honored here, credits his success to others

A Birmingham Negro educator, who has served schools here 30 years, gives credit for his success to the help of others.

He is Carol W. Hayes, director of Birmingham Negro schools.

Highlight of his career came last night when he was honored in a program at Parker High School marking the 56th annual Founders Day of the National Congress of Parents and Teachers.

MRS. SALLIE ANDERSON, president of the Birmingham Council of Colored PTA, presented him with a plaque in recognition of his efforts in furthering the progress of the schools and his race.

Born in Hopkinsville, Ky., Prof. Hayes came to Birmingham in 1922. He was educated at Tennessee State Teachers College and Fisk University at Nashville and at Columbia University.

He is a member and former president of the Alabama State Teachers Assn.; life member of the American Teachers Assn.; member of the department of supervisors and directors of Instruction of the National Educational Assn., and a member of the U. S. Office of Education's National Advisory Council on education of Negroes.

A trustee of the First Congregational Church, he also is treasurer of that church's building fund. Among other civic activities, he has been head of the Negro division of the Community Chest campaigns, area warden for Civil Defense and head of the United Negro College Fund.

He was promoted last year from supervisor to director of the Negro schools.

MRS. J. A. DUPUY, president of the Birmingham Board of Education, spoke at the meeting. She discussed "The Development of the Child."

The program began with an organ prelude by Mrs. Mary C. Stoldenwerck, PTA music committee chairman, and prayer by the Rev. L. S. Brannon, Thirgood CME, church pastor.

The Parker High School choir presented musical selections, with William Henry directing.

Mrs. Clara Brown Rodgers, historian and chairman of the Founders Day Committee, introduced the program. Mrs. Wilhelmina Vaughn recited the history of PTA.

P. D. Jackson, program committee chairman, introduced Mrs. Dupuy. C. A. Howze, parliamentarian of the PTA Council, was master of ceremonies.

Supervisor Negro Rural Schools Retires After 48 Years Of Education Service

After nearly a half century of unstinted labor and sacrifice to improve the educational facilities for colored children in Marengo County, Mrs. Amelia Love Johnson is retiring from active service and will now enjoy some well earned leisure, attended by the good wishes of thousands of friends with whom she has worked and served. The following sketch of her life is furnished to the Democrat-Reporter by one of her fellow workers:

"Mrs. Amelia L. Johnson was born and reared in Alberta, Wilcox County, Alabama. She received: (1) high school training at the Presbyterian School of Wilcox County, Alabama; (2) B.S. degree from the Tuskegee Institute at Tuskegee, Ala.; (3) additional training at Knoxville College, Knoxville, Tenn. She began her tour of services in the Presbyterian School of Wilcox County, Alabama, where exceptional services were rendered for five years."

"Mrs. Johnson came to Marengo County during the year of 1909 and served in the elementary school system of said county as a classroom teacher for eighteen years. Her first service in this county were rendered at the Pleasant Hill School of two years on this assignment, Mrs. Johnson was assigned to the Thomaston's School a principal teacher. The Thomaston's School at this time was privately owned and operated, and during the year of 1922, Mrs. Johnson saw fit to serve as a pioneer in the procurement and construction of a public school in the Thomaston's community."

MRS. A. L. JOHNSON

Magnolia, Ala. After spending

"Application was submitted for a three-teacher Rosenwald School, revealed that the enrollment for lthe proposed schoo merited high school facilities. To initiate this project, Mrs. Johnson donated a lot of five acres on which a three-room building was erected.

"The last project attempted was a library for the colored boys and girls of the county. Around $3,000 has been accumulated to this effect and the project promises to mature in the nera future. Aid from the county and state has made possible additional, essential improvements."

"The teachers and citizens of Marengo County are very grieved to know that Mrs. Johnson now sees fit to retire from her tour of services as supervisor for the county. Yet it is understood that one who has served so well for such a long period deserves a period of relaxation. To this end, the teachers of Marengo County wished for her a lounge chair in hopes that she may relax and continue to counsel and advise those who will seek to uphold and improve the work which she has started."

Dr. Scott Given New School Post

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. — Two new school supervisory positions were created and 10 major posts in the local public school system filled by the Board of Public Instruction recently.

One of the new posts is that of director of colored schools and named to that post was Dr. J. Irving E. Scott, who returns to the local public school system after serving tenures at Wiley College in Texas and in South Carolina State college, Orangeburg.

He had been principal here at the A. L. Lewis junior high school for a number of years to take over the Wiley deanship.

Dr. Scott will assume the position of Supervisor of Elementary Education in colored schools held previously by Miss Edna M. Calhoun.

Dr. Scott Named Schools Chief

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. — Dr. J. Irving E. Scott, a former Jacksonville school principal, has been named to fill the newly created post of general supervisor of Negro schools for Duval county.

Dr. Scott's appointment and the appointment of Miss Nettie Bogden, supervisor of elementary schools, as coordinator of curricular aids, were made on the recommendation of Mrs. Iva T. Sprinkle, who was elected last year to the superintendent of public instruction.

The post of general supervisor abolishment of the post of superintendent of Negro elementary schools, which was announced last July 1.

The position of superintendent of Negro elementary schools was held for 12 years by Miss Edna Calhoun.

At the time Miss Calhoun's post was abolished it was indicated that she was offered a teacher's position. But there has been much speculation regarding whether she would accept what is generally regarded as a demotion.

DR. J. I. E. SCOTT

The newly-appointed supervisor is well-known in Jacksonville where for a number of years he served as principal of Davis Street school, Darnell-Cookman school and A. L. Lewis school.

Dr. Scott is the author of a number of text books and is the director of one of the South's leading educational organs. Recently he was on the faculty of South Carolina State Teacher's college.

PRINCIPALS, SUPERVISORS MEET — Principals and Supervisors affiliated with the Georgia Teachers and Education Association held a two-day meeting at Atlanta School Friday and Saturday, November 20-21. Highlighting events were, left to right, seated Prof. C. L. Harper, executive secretary GTEA; Miss B. E. Usher, director of instruction in Atlanta colored schools; Mrs. Manella Dempsey, consultant, Georgia Negro elementary school, and Miss Martha L. Martin, president Georgia Jeanes Association.

Standing, left to right are C. V. Duval, president, Georgia Council of Principals and C. M. Richardson, consultant, Georgia Secondary Schools. — (Alexander Adams Photo)

O.B 14 L Pa

Foreman—Mrs. Alyce Woodruff, 7012 Idlewild Street, Pittsburgh, Pa., is foreman of a Criminal Court jury which is currently hearing the vice case involving public officials of the borough of McKees Rocks, Pa. Mrs. Woodruff is the wife of Robert J. Woodruff, a supervisor in the Pittsburgh Public Schools Division of Guidance and Child Accounting. 14 L Pa

14m 1953

Georgia

Teacher Fired, Asks $84,000 Damages

ALEXANDERIA, GA. — The $84,000 damage suit brought by Mrs. Gladys O'Neill against the Chatham county school board got under way last week.

The suit named William A. Earl, superintendent as defendant. Mrs. O'Neill charges she was dismissed without cause in 1951 as a fifth grade teacher. She is asking the total amount which she would have received in salary if she had remained until she retired.

Booker T. Smalley, attorney for Mrs. O'Neill, said that the suit was based on damage to her reputation and professional character as a result of the matter of her dismissal without notice.

The board refused to renew her contract or to give her a hearing on her dismissal Smalley said.

Alabama County Teachers Elect W. Grant President

MOBILE, Ala. — Wayman R. F. Grant Sr., principal of Chickasaw Terrace school, has been elected president of the Mobile county teachers association.

Mr. Grant served as graduate assistant to the faculty of teaching and curriculum, Columbia University during the summer of 1952 and has been recommended for 16th edition of "Who's Who in American Education."

The new Chickasaw Terrace teachers, under his leadership, developed a teachers handbook and student handbook in connection with Teachers college at Columbia University. They also worked in research with modern trends in report cards.

Leader in Research

Their most recent research contribution was a study of teachers and principals evaluation. After this research material was compiled on evaluation, the teachers evaluated each other and each teacher evaluated the principal.

His faculty-staff was the first school in the county to have a 100 per cent membership in the National education association. the

Wayman R. F. Grant

American teachers association, Alabama state teachers association and Mobile County Teachers Association.

A life member of the National education association, American and Alabama state teachers associations; member of National secondary and national elementary, and superintendent of the intermediate Sunday school at Samuel Chapel AME Church. Prichard.

On educational setup—

State's Negro teachers may form own group to petition Legislature

Alabama's Negro teachers may set up their own special committee to go before the State Legislature to appeal for "the equalization of educational opportunity between the races in the state."

A recommendation for such a step will be placed before the delegate assembly of the state Negro teachers' organization, the Alabama State Teachers Assn., by their president, J. D. Thompson of Cottage Grove, in Montgomery March 26-27.

* * *

THE RECOMMENDATION will call for a committee of five or seven members, to be appointed by the ASTA president, with an expense account of $50,000, "to be used as it sees fit in the achievement of its objective."

Its duty would be to work with the State Legislature and boards of education in an effort to influence legislation and educational policy.

OTHER RECOMMENDATIONS to be placed by the president before the delegates call for an expansion of the association by the organization of district units, whose presidents would serve as vice presidents of the state group.

An amendment to the organization's constitution calling for secret ballot elections on the local level for state officers, with primary balloting to take place 60 days before the date of the annual meeting, and with nominations to be made by Jan. 1 of each year and signed by at least 20 members in good standing.

Another recommendation will call for business of the state group arising between annual meetings to be transacted by elected members of the association's executive committee.

Teachers Contribute $5,000 To 'More Education' Program

MONTGOMERY, ALA.—(SNS)—While efforts to equalize educational opportunities by blotting out the racial gap in begging Negro teachers in Alabama contributed and estimated $5000 to a fund sponsored by the Alabama Education Association for the AEA's "more education" program.

J. D. Thompson, president of the Alabama State Teachers Association, revealed this information on the heels of issuing a public letter in which he "set forth (the ASTA) position" on the "$2 voluntary contribution of Negro teachers to the AEA special fund.

Mr. Thompson said that Negro teachers in the Birmingham Public School System contributed $1,197.00 while Negro teachers in the Jefferson County School System contributed $420.00

In point IV of his proposed program, presented at the opening session of the March 1953 ASTA convention Mr. Thmpson recommended the raising of a $50,000 fund and the creation of "a Committee on Education and Legislation whose duty shall be to work to influence legislation and educational policy—the principal objective—to urge equalization of educational opportunity between the races in the state."

But a delegation from the Birmingham Negro Teachers Association, described as "the Birmingham Bloc" led the opposition to the ASTA $50,000 equal-education fund, and defeated it. Professor W. J. Moore, principal of the Lewis School is president of the BNHA and was nominally head of the delegation.

On May 17, Geoffrey Birt, writing in The Montgomery Advertiser-Journal, wrote: "The Alabama Education Association has levied a voluntary $2 a head charge on school teachers for a special legislative lobbying fund." He pointed out that there were 17,000 white and about 7,000 Negro teachers in the Alabama public schools.

This money was to be used chiefly for a publicity campaign.

Ads appeared in the white press but not a single one was given to the Negro newspaper press.

Here is the text of Mr. Thompson's letter:

Not long ago the Alabama Education Association set up a plan whereby all school teachers in Alabama, both white and Negro, are asked to make a voluntary contribution of $2.00 in order to promote the AEA legislation program. Since than I, as president of the Alabama State Teachers Association, have been variously approached by our teachers to find out what position ASTA or its president takes in this matter. I take this method to set forth such position.

The Alabama State Teachers Association has not endorsed the AEA proposal. The ASTA president does not endorse it. In the first place, as far as I know, ASTA has not been asked to endorse the plan. And I do not endorse it for two or more reasons. First, ASTA had no part in proposing such a program. It seems unfortunate that the two educational associations in Alabama whose ultimate objectives should be about the same have no machinery for cooperative efforts. I have publicly praised AEA very highly for the usual good programs which it sponsors, but at the same time I have complained that AEA gives practically no attention or recognition to ASTA.

Another reason why I do not endorse the AEA plan is this. I feel that every penny the Negro teachers can spare should be used in efforts to achieve equal educational opportunities for Negroes. Thus we see that due to the peculiar circumstances of ASTA and Negro teachers generally, ASTA must have some goals divergent to those of AEA. For example, as an immediate goal AEA wants MORE, while ASTA wants EQUAL. AEA is trying desperately to hold its teacher college graduates for the many teaching positions which are open in the State; STA should be trying just as desperately to find job opportunities for its many unemployed qualified teachers. My estimate is that by next September there will be anywhere between 500 and 1000 unemployed Negro teachers in Alabama.

In spite of the fact that teacher salaries in Alabama are not what they should be, ASTA president is more concerned about other aspects of educational situation than he is the 10 per cent salary increase. Frankly, I am opposed to any general salary increase or any over-all expansion in the educational program in the State until the level of educatioal opportunity for Negroes is brought up equal to that for whites.

Please do not misinterpret my intentions. This letter is no attempt to discourage any of our teachers who wish to contribute $2.00 or more to AEA for its program. We are only stating our position on this matter and giving the reasons why. The contribution is said to be 'voluntary.' It is great to be living in a country where we can sometimes exercise our free will. However, we know that many times when a Negro says that he agrees to something it does not mean that he actually agrees. It may mean that for his own good he thinks it is best to agree. Thus, if our employers ask us, though ever so subtly, to cooperate in this matter naturally we are going to "agree."

Guest Editorial

Teachers Show Courage

(From Cleveland Call-Post)

BY a vote of 219 to 80, the American Federation of Teachers, A.F.L., at its thirty-sixth annual convention, voted to ban segregation in its 400 local unions throughout the nation.

The resolution noted that the federation was a leader among educational, institutional and labor organizations in the fight against segregation. Declaring that segregation still obtained in the federation, it said that no local chapter that defined or recognized jurisdiction on a basis of race or color, or permitted the practice of such jurisdiction, would be recognized as valid "and the practice of any local in limiting its membership on account of race or color, shall render its charter void."

The only opposition to this amendment which was presented by the Boston Teachers Union Local 66, was from the Atlanta, Ga., local. Its spokesman, Emory S. Lunsford, said he knew the step would be taken some time, but had hoped it would not come so soon.

The feelings of the delegates were summed up by Dr. Counts who asserted that in the nation's struggle to lead the free world against Communist despotism, the question of minority treatment assumed a fateful urgency. It is about time, he declared, that Americans took literally their professions of equality and pronouncements of justice and democracy.

In taking this type of leadership, the American school teachers are giving added hope and encouragement to those who believe that the schools, next to the home, must be the spawning grounds for our democracy.

In abolishing segregated locals, the American Federation of Teachers is setting the proper example for all other labor unions. This move is also designed to have great effect on the movement now gaining momentum to abolish all segregated schools. Certainly, we cannot rid the public schools of segregation without first abolishing all forms of segregation in our teaching corps.

We hail the teachers for this forward step. We feel sure their example of practicing what they teach, will have repercussions throughout all of our school rooms.

Vote Financial Aid to Ousted School Head

Alabama Principals Will Aid Fight to Save Kidd's Position

MONTGOMERY, Ala. — In session here Aug. 21, the Alabama Association of School Principals voted to give financial and other assistance to Prof. James E. Kidd in his fight for reinstatement to his principalship job.

Mr. Kidd, deposed head of the Monroe Junior High School, Lower Peachtree, was reportedly dismissed by the Monroe County Board of Education on alleged charges of inefficiency, absenteeism and neglect of duty. He had obtained tenure under the Alabama tenure law.

It has been common knowledge that a number of Negro teachers in the Alabama Black Belt bearing tenure status or who were active in civic improvement work had failed to get contract renewals or received job cancellations.

* * *

A WOMAN teacher in Pickens County was dropped but later restored under legal pressure because her students resented appearing in a cotton-picking scene during a city-wide pageant celebrating the half-century anniversary of the city.

Monroe County with 13,161 Negro and 12,511 white citizens has only one Negro voter.

Prof. J. D. Thompson, principal of the Coosa County Training School and president of the Alabama State Teachers Association brought the dismissal to the attention of the delegates.

Bryant Foster, principal of Van Buren High School, Eufaula, was elected president, succeeding Prof. Leon Kennedy of Birmingham, principal of Wenonah High School.

Other major officers elected were S. J. Whisenhunt, principal of the Escambia County Training School, Atmore, vice president; E. R. Stickney, principal of the Calhoun School, secretary-treasurer, and Walter Dewey branch, principal of Hard School, Bessemer, research secretary.

Duty of Our Teachers

THE NEWS from Alabama that the State Teachers Association (colored) rejected its leader's proposal that the teachers contribute to the educational equality drive, while contributing $5,000 to the all-white Alabama Education Association project for "more education" makes us pause for station identification.

Certainly it is difficult to understand why a group of Southern Negro teachers would not give generously to the NAACP educational equality drive, especially since the association has been the one force that has done most to equalize teachers' salaries in the South.

We wonder how Negro teachers throughout the South are contributing to this educational equality fund in the absence of any NAACP breakdown of contributors.

We would like to think that all of them are making a real effort to give all they can to the NAACP in this campaign because they owe the association so much for its successful efforts in equalizing salaries.

We should like to remind the teachers that the financing of this fight for complete educational equality must be done by those Negroes who have income above the subsistence level, and that they are now in this class.

There is scarcely a Negro teacher in the country who cannot afford to contribute at least ten dollars to this campaign.

Sheer gratitude alone would seem to make it mandatory that those who have benefitted most from the NAACP efforts should be the first to come to its aid.

If the 80,000-odd Negro teachers do not lend substantial support to this campaign, individnally and through their state associations, where do they think the money is coming from?

Our teachers should regard it as a solemn duty to support this great campaign, no matter what it costs, and we have enough confidence in them to believe that they will.

Equal School Facilities Urged By Negro Teachers Group Chief

Equalization of Negro and white educational facilities in the state was urged yesterday by J. D. Thompson, Negro, president of the Alabama State Teachers Association.

"We should use any legitimate means to do so," Thompson said.

He spoke before more than 3,000 Negro teachers at the Alabama State College for Negroes here. The Negro educators are holding their annual meeting concurrently with the white school teachers who are in session in Birmingham.

The organization of a committee on education and legislation to achieve equal educational opportunities was recommended by Thompson.

Full political rights, greater participation in employment and policy-making on a state level, establishments of a teacher-welfare and defense commission with funds, were recommended by the ASTA president.

He also told the educators that enforcement of the state compulsory school attendance law should be carried out along with raising the professional status of teaching.

A panel discussion on "Greater Goals for our Professional Organizations" was held yesterday morning.

Members of the panel were Walker Carroll, chairman of the ASTA trustee board; Vernon McDaniels, professor of secondary education, Tuskegee Institute; M. E. Chambliss, ASTA music chairman; R. C. Johnson, secretary of ASTA executive committee, and Dr. H. Councill Trenholm, president of the Montgomery college and chairman of ASTA headquarters.

Dr. Felton G. Clark, president of Southern University, Baton Rouge, La., was the main speaker at the public session last night.

The conference will begin this morning at 9 o'clock.

New officers will be installed at a final business session this afternoon, and the meeting will be concluded with the annual musical concert, directed by Dr. Hall at 8 p.m. in the gymnasium of the college here.

THE TIP-OFF

BY EMORY O. JACKSON

MONTGOMERY, Ala. — (SNS) — This afternoon at Alabama State College, the delegate assembly of the Alabama State Teachers Association, will decide the fate of the far-reaching reform program advocated by its president, J. D. Thompson, principal of Coosa County Training School, Cottage Grove, Alabama. The recommendations, which are merely ideas for revamping the association's administrative machinery, electoral process and financing of its program, has run into difficulties.

Today I am presenting the text of the portion of the speech in which Mr. Thompson argued brilliantly yesterday before the convention of teachers. He is standing, at the moment, almost alone, fighting with his back to the wall for a program which if adopted would mean much to the teachers. In other days, the leadership from Birmingham supplied the strength which gave the ASTA its get-the-vote program and other service-to-teachers activities, many of which have been discarded. Negro teachers in Alabama aren't bearing much of the financial load in the costly and tough fight for first-class citizenship. Mr. Thompson's program is a challenge to them.

His speech says in part: "I shall discuss briefly certain points in each of the six recommendations."

NO. 1 proposes a plan for election of officers very similar to that used by AEA. It is democratic. It will give a president chance to present proposals to the delegate assembly soon after he is elected, and not have to wait 12 months before getting any consideration on any plans he may propose. This plan will eliminate using much time and effort during annual sessions campaigning for office the way we did last year. It will also eliminate "cut and dried" elections as we have experienced in previous years. (recent previous years). This plan may not be a perfect one — it is not expected to be. But we can always make desirable changes when we find them needed.

NO. 2 — There are those who believe in minimum organization in the matter of the districts. But usually where there is minimum organization, there must be maximum autocratic control. This plan of district organization will give greater opportunity for local participation and growth. In most of the district meetings I attended last fall there was general complaint on the conduct of the district meetings. In its meeting last fall District 1 voted unanimously to endorse permanent organization of the districts.

NO. 3 — This matter of limiting the executive committee, I am pleased to say was a suggestion which came from a person who is at present a member of the executive committee. One main point in this matter was made very clear to me by this person. The executive committee as it is now composed gives double representation to some groups. Why should any particular group need a special representative on the executive committee when all members of the executive committee, the officers, etc. were elected by the members of the association, and thus represent all members of the association. Why do the science teachers need a representative on the committee any more than the English teachers or the history teachers or any other group of teachers. Members — the regular elected members of the executive committee represent all members of the association. Another point I have in this matter is this. From my own experience, I have seen little need for a large number of persons on the executive committee. The most that this committee does is to attend to routine matters. After all, all matters of great significance must come before the delegate assembly anyway. At least the association can save some money by having fewer persons to whom to pay travel and expenses attending committee meetings.

NO. 4 — This is the item which has aroused so much concern. It is a definite proposal to insist on equal educational opportunities for the Negro youth in our State. It may appear some out of proportion but it is not for 8,000 teachers. If you pass or approve this proposal I will see to it that persons of the highest integrity, courage, and intelligence that we can get in this State will be appointed on the committee. You will note that in some instances the proposals give the president the power of appointment. The reason is this only. Since the executive committee does not endorse these proposals, they cannot logically be asked to execute them should they be approved by you.

NO. 5 — Increased membership dues are recommended only on the basis that you will approve of a project whereby more money will be needed in an effort — a sincere effort to get some concrete results for Negro education in this State. I am opposed myself to continued increase in dues unless we are going to at least try to get better results than we have been getting in our association. I say again, it is not how much we spend that counts, but what we get for the money we spend.

NO. 6 — Little needs to be said about the importance of this. For some time we have placed great stress on the ballot. We have had a VOTE COMMISSION for years. But take my word for it. This vote commission is treated like a step-child. We say that we cannot do anything until we get votes, but we do very little to get more votes. Mr. Henry J. Williams, chairman of this commission for several years is most conscientious. He has worked hard, but he has had very little help, and not much encouragement. Not much from the association which appointed him. This matter of getting the ballot should be one of the really big objectives of our association, and no pains should be spared in this job. I recommend $500 and would as soon recommend $5,000 if it can be used to advantage.

You will note that nothing has been said about the HEADQUARTERS BUILDING. I have been in favor of this project since it was first brought up several years ago. I was on the executive committee when it was recommended that the matter be placed before the association for consideration. I voted for it. But I favored it, not so much because of what we were doing in the association to make it justifiable but for what I hoped the association might do in the future. But for the time being, the building is in my opinion very well taken care of. The matter is behind us as far as I am concerned — all except paying for it. You adopted a plan last year which should take care of the building. BUT THE BUILDING, EVEN THOUGH I AM PROUD OF IT, IT DOES NOT EXCITE ME. FOR WHAT GOES ON INSIDE OF ANY BUILDING IS MORE IMPORTANT THAN THE BUILDING. THE BUILDING IS NOT A PROGRAM. The building is an instrument to be used in helping to carry out a program. LIKEWISE, I have said nothing in my recommendations about a full-time executive secretary. I said last year that I WOULD NOT FAVOR A FULL-TIME EXECUTIVE SECRETARY UNTIL WE SET UP OBJECTIVES AND A PROGRAM WHICH WOULD JUSTIFY A FULL TIME SECRETARY. The secretary is like the building, it is an instrument to be used in carrying out a program. If we have no program except to hold meetings I cannot see the need for any of these things.

Twelve months ago I took what I called the ISSUES to you — the members and delegates of the association. Today, again, I take these issues to you and you only for your consideration and decision. I have tried hard to see the side of the OPPOSITION. I cannot see it.

Many persons are speaking of TEN YEARS PROGRESS. We have made progress in the last ten years BUT WHY? I say, look at the court battles which have been fought in the last ten years. One prominent educator in this State recently said in a speech that the progress in Negro education in the South in recent years has been due to two things. (1) To a religious awakening and (2) To demands from Negroes themselves. I say that much of it has been due to demands by Negroes themselves, but demands by Negroes in other states, NOT IN ALABAMA.

There are only three methods open to us. (1) Beg and plead, which we have always done. (2) Use of the ballot. But with most of our folks disfranchised by methods both fair and foul I predict that it will yet be many years before our vote becomes really effective. (3) Use of the courts This method has been used and found effective.

He who would deny you the use of the courts would also deny you justice in the first place. Nobody who respects the law, and believes in justice would fear the courts.

NEGROES IN TEXAS, ARK., OKLA, MO., N. C., S. C., TENN., GA., LA., and even in AFRICA are demanding their rights. It's time now for Negroes in Alabama to demand theirs. HUMAN NATURE DOES NOT CHANGE ACROSS STATE BOUNDARY LINES. However, a few circumstances make lots of difference. And we must check up on these circumstances.

Alabama Teachers Hear President Thompson Deliver Fighting Speech

By Birmingham World Staff Writer

MONTGOMERY, Ala. —(SNS)— "Let it not be said by the next generation that we, their predecessors stood still in the midst of a flowing stream, and never even lifted our hands to resist a backward tide," declared J. D. Thompson, president of the Alabama State Teachers Association, in a fighting speech at the 70th nnual ASTA convention in session at Alabama State College.

Mr. Thompson, the 36t6h president of the association, was pleading to the teachers to adopt his six-point program "in the interest of some changes." He asked for a change in the election machinery, geopraphic districts for the association, a $50,000 lobby fund, a $500 appropriation for the vote commission, revamping the executive committee and increase of the membership fee.

He said that he had received cooperation "on minor matters" from the executive committee but that they "generally oppose" my plans

In discussing his activities during the ASTA year Mr. Thompson asserted "I haven't been agle to find anything much to do" because what he has been called on to do under the present set up. Any average high school student could have done." But he said there was one exception when one counted his "efforts in the interest of some changes and a proposed program." Unless, he said, the delegates change "the present pattern of the association" he will have another recommendation to mke. That is, "Hereafter, the president be chosen by drawing names irom a hat. Drop in the names of all candidates, and let the lucky name drawn be president."

J. D. THOMPSON

A 30-teacher delegation from the Birmingham Negro Teachers Association headed by W. J. (Bill) Moore has indicated that it will fight to the bitter end the basic reforms advocated by Mr. Thompson. One member of the delegation, interviewed in Birmingham prior to the convention, charged that Mr. Thompson was trying to tear up the association, was suggesting dues check off by the superintendent of boards of education. However none of such things was included in either the speech or the recommendations of Mr. Thompson. Another member of this delegation suggested it was a fight on "a certain personality in the association." But most of the recommendations made by Mr. Thompson were contained in the platform upon which the teachers elected him a year ago.

To this type of opposition, Mr. Thompson pointed out in his speech that "I have been amazed and puzzled at some of the things which have been said relative to the president and of many of the attitudes which have been displayed. I feel that I have become a widely hated person in Alabama. I have been called many things - a radical, fanatic and no telling what else. It seems that some how I have become a villain."

Then he went on to put his finger on the real source of opposition like that coming from the "Birmingham Bloc" which is out to wreck his program. "One thing which has aroused statewide concern . . . (is the) contention which I have taken from the outset . . . that educational opportunity in the state (of Alabama) should be equalized and the ASTA should use whatever legitimate means it can find to bring this about."

He went on: "It does not seem that statement would cause as much concern over the state it has caused. It has been said that I should be fired from my job. Special efforts have been made to have this done. There are some strong suspicions about these matters. In all of this I have been steadfast in my original contention. I have not taken back one word. I have not added one word. I have tried hard to make this position clear to all."

"It has been said that I should be run out of Coosa County and out of Alabama. But that proposition makes one error in its calculation I know that I can be fired. There is no question about it. I can be carried some place. But I cannot be run anywhere. Because I do not run. The president in his life time has seen some hungry days. I am not afraid of hunger."

Turning to the "many critics" of his six-point program, Mr. Thompson said they have accused him of having "the wrong objectives for the association" but that he says "we have the right objectives to develop a better school system, greater opportunities for Negro boys and girls, as well as to secure for ourselves as teachers those things to which we are entitled."

To the criticim that he does not "have the right approach," he argued that "we must use methods which will best fit our case and circumstances." He then asserted: "It is difficult for me to understand why many persons who disagree with these approaches will not even discuss the issues before us.

He said it had been suggested that his program will "lose ASTA members . . . who pay dues through the superintendent's office" be he answered this by saying "if that is the way we must hold such members it does not matter much about losing them."

To the "we may split the association" opposition he said that his refreshing reform program "will not split the association because as long as I am president the majority is going to rule." He challenged the saying that his goals would adversely affect race relations. "Good race relations (as viewed by his critics) simply means that the Negro gets the worst of everything and keeps his mouth shut" He suggested that "many scare tactics" had been used againts the proposed ASTA program and that "many of us are scared."

"If we have become satisfied or scared, woe unto us and the Negro boys and girls of Alabama. One of our biggest handicaps is simple complacency.

He assailed the 'wait and be patient" doctrine and gradualism and asserted "the time to fight is when the battle is on." Failing to do this and waiting until things settle down "the Negro is going to find himself right where he was - at the bottom."

Dr. Felt on G. Clark, president of Southern University, Baton Rouge, La., was scheduled to address the public session last night.

The final business session was scheduled for two o'clock this after noon where reports of the auditing committee, of Executive Secretary Robert C. Hatch, Treasurer W. E. Morton, the legislation and resolution committee headed by Research Secretary H. Councill Trenholm and the committee on nominations of officers chaired by B. M. Montgomery.

Other matters for consideration included the employment of a full-time paid executive secretary, which has been approved by the convention in principle, and a strengthened vote commission. Other officers include Vice Presidents: Mrs. Thelma Morris, Montgomery; Miss Tessie Oliver, Union Springs; Leon Kennedy, Birmingham; Mrs. Hattie B. Witt, Birmingham; L. B. Sykes, Lanett; Menrie Smith, Anniston; Treasurer, W. E. Morton, Opelika; Research Secretary, Dr. H. Councill Trenholm, Montgomery, Executive Committee: C. W. Orr, Normal; Robert C. Johnson, Birmingham, and Robert I. Beasley, Eutaw.

Contribute to 'White' Chest

Alabama Teachers Ignore EE Fight; Seek More Money

MONTGOMERY, Ala.—Negro teachers in Alabama, having rejected a proposal by their own association leader to raise a financial war chest to fight for equalized educational opportunities, reportedly have raised approximately $5,000 to support the white teacher association's "more education" project.

The Alabama State Teachers Association has an announced program of getting out the facial grin in Alabama public association while the all-white Alabama Education Association is using its "money pot" to raise the salaries of teachers.

J. D. Thompson of Cottage Grove, Ala., president of the Alabama State Teachers Association revealed this information on the heels of issuing a public letter in which he "set forth (the ASTA) position" on the "$2 voluntary contribution" of Negro teachers to the AEA special fund.

Mr. Thompson said that Negro teachers in the Birmingham public school system contributed $1,197 while Negro teachers in the Jefferson County school system contributed $420.

14m(1) 1953

D.C.

White Teachers' Union Moves Toward Merger With Negroes

The white District teachers' union has elected a committee to work with members of the Negro teachers' local in drafting a constitution which, if ratified, would merge the segregation units of the American Federation of Teachers, AFL.

This action on the part of Local 8 virtually approves integration of the units which has been sought since 1946 by Negro Local 27. Both locals held separate meetings Wednesday to discuss the conditions of an acceptable constitution.

A third AFL unit, Local 867, which was organized seven years ago on a bi-racial basis, will meet next week to discuss whether to join the other two groups if a merger is effected. This local is made up of school attendance officers.

About a year ago, Local 8 began to consider a possibility of merger as a result of a resolution adopted by the national union convention in Syracuse which urged an end to segregation in locals.

Spokesmen of the teachers' locals yesterday said a joint meeting will be held in June for a vote on the ratification of a constitution that would bind the groups together.

Teachers Here Merge Unions

Post
Dec. 6-12-53
p. 17
Washington
D.C.
Negro
Local 29

The District's white and Negro teacher unions merged Wednesday without a single dissenting vote.

Three units will make up the new local, which still has to get its charter approved by the national union, the American Federation of Teachers, A.F.L.

They are Local 8, white teachers, Local 29, Negro teachers, and Local 867, a biracial group of school attendance officers. Several weeks ago, these units agreed to work out a constitution which would bind them together.

This constitution was accepted by the units during separate meetings. The first integrated meeting followed and a biracial set of officers was approved. The names will not be announced until the new local receives a charter.

Dr. L. D. Reddick To Be Friedlander Speaker

COLUMBUS, Ga. — (SNS) — Dr. L. D. Reddick, chief-librarian of Atlanta University has been selected by the Friedlander Committee of the Muscogee County Teachers Association as the speaker for this year. The program will be presented at the Spencer High School, Sunday afternoon, March 8, 1953 at 4 o'clock.

Besides being an able and efficient university librarian executive, he is also educator and historian. He graduated magna cum laude from Fisk University and received his Ph. D. from the University of Chicago. His achievements and experiences are indeed challenging. He has held positions in some of the country's outstanding colleges and universities, having been assistant professor of history at Kentucky State College, associate professor of history at Kentucky State College, associate professor at Dillard Universty, lecturer in the history department at New York City College and lecturer at the New School for Social Research.

One of Dr. Riddick's greatest contributions to Negro literature was made when he was curator of the famous Schomburg Collection of Negro Literature located at the New York Public Library. It has been said that during Dr. Reddick's curatorship this collection became the most famous library of Negro literature in the United States.

Dr. Reddick has proved to be an excellent literary figure having been at one time editor of "The Crecent," the official organ of the Phi Beta Sigma Fraternity, and assistant editor of the Journal of Negro History. His timely and scholarly writings have appeared in such magazines as the New Republic, School and Society, Social Frontier, Journal of Southern History, Journal of Negro History, Crisis and Opportunity.

Besides being head-librarian at Atlanta University, Dr. Reddick takes an active part in the civic life of Atlanta's cosmopolitan community.

This year's program promises to be one of the best sponsored by Friedlander Committee. The public is invited to attend

Education Equality for All Is Negro Teachers' Plea

More than 3,500 Negro teachers attending the annual meeting of the Georgia Teachers and Education Association Friday approved a report of the resolutions committee calling for "equality of education for all children without regard for race or color."

The State Board of Regents, the State Board of Education and the county boards of education were advised in the report "not to discriminate against any school child." The GTEA pointed out the need of adequate facilities and opportunities for the education of Negroes had been placed before these public authorities in previous resolutions.

"Any attitude temporizing or stalling to avoid implementing these resolutions," the committee said, "will leave this body no alternative than to seek the above objective by means other than resolutions."

The GTEA, headed by C. L. Harper, also went on record as opposing a move by the Board of Regents to inaugurate graduate institutions in education in Negro state colleges. The organization said the addition of graduation instruction "in institutions which from the point of view of personnel, appropriations and facilities are desperately trying to meet first class academic college standards is not only unfair to these colleges at this time but is unsound educationally."

The organization also opposed out-of-state aid to Negroes which "clearly does not meet the requirements of the law as interpreted by the Supreme Court of the United States."

The resolutions committee and the GTEA went on record "against dismissing teachers without preferring charges" and in favor of a law on tenure. It also opposed the practice of arranging the school term for Negroes "to meet the convenience of white farmers."

The GTEA expressed its approval of the Minimum Foundation program and the School Building Authority to the governor and Legislature; its approval of equalizing salaries on the state level to the State Board of Education, and its approval of a promise by the State Board of Regents to meet the requirements of the Southern Association of Secondary Schools and Colleges, which resulted in the "approval" of three Negro colleges.

Integration of Schools Inevitable, K.T.A. Told

Negro teachers were told here yesterday that some of them are going to be casualties when the schools are completely integrated.

And integration is inevitable, said Dr. William R. Ming, Jr., a University of Chicago law professor. He spoke at a Kentucky Teachers Association session at Central High School.

School boards forced into taking Negro children aren't going to be willing to take Negro teachers at the same time, Ming predicted. Other Negro teachers won't be employed because of inefficiency or because they are "too old to learn new tricks."

He urged teachers to stay in the fight for integration so they will maintain their professional standing when the fight is won.

Wants Negro Teachers Used

After his speech the group adopted a resolution opposing any integration plan that does not include a corresponding plan for the use of Negro teachers.

Included in adopted resolutions was an increase of annual dues from $3 to $4. Members had voted down the proposal the previous day.

Other resolutions called for:

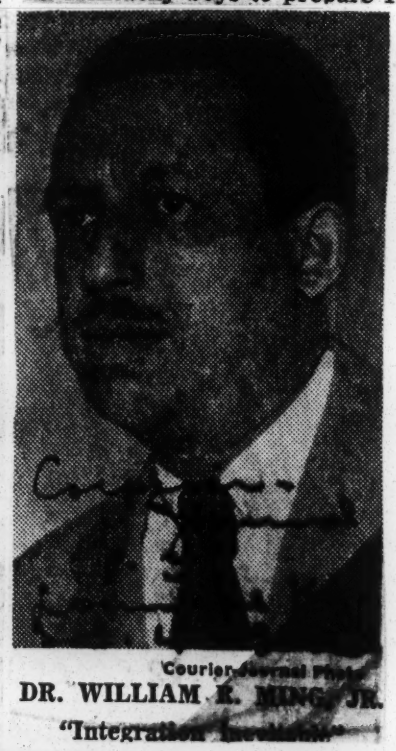
1. Complete integration in tax-supported schools.
2. Outright repeal of the Day Law, which prohibits teaching white and Negro children in the same classroom.
3. Increasing the retirement fund so that minimum benefits will be raised from $80 to $100 a month for all teachers reaching the retirement age after 20 years of service.
4. Making the State job of assistant supervisor of Negro education full-time.

More Revenue Is Sought

5. Finding more revenue to raise teacher salaries to meet the national average of $3,400 a year.
6. Working for repeal of Section 186 of the Kentucky Constitution, which distributes school funds on a census basis rather than on school attendance.
7. Increasing appropriations for construction and operations at Kentucky State College, Frankfort; Lincoln Institute, Lincoln Ridge, and West Kentucky Vocational Training School for Negroes, Paducah.

The K.T.A. opposed:

1. Regional education based on race or creed.
2. Unequal opportunities for all Kentucky boys to prepare for military service through R.O.T.C. programs.
3. A "double standard" of accrediting schools. The same measurements should be applied to all, the group said.



Courier-Journal Photo

DR. WILLIAM R. MING, JR.
"Integration inevitable"

Peabody Man Is Head

A proposed resolution opposing newspaper publication of findings of school supervisors or evaluating committees before the findings have been referred back to schools was dropped.

Dr. Willard E. Goslin, chairman of the division of educational administration at George Peabody College for Teachers, Nashville, was another speaker yesterday. He told the teachers:

"There are some people in America who are unsure how free they want us to be. Some of them are in Congress; some of them are out on the street corner. They whittle away at the base of freedom by making schoolteachers afraid."

The convention ended last night with the annual musicale. Groups from Kentucky State College, Central High School, Lincoln Institute, and the University of Louisville, as well as guest artists, took part.

14m(1) 1953

Mississippi

Say Negro Teachers Waived Retirement Benefit Under Threat Of Losing Jobs

The state Negro Teachers Association said Saturday some of its members have charged that certain county superintendents of education have forced them to sign waivers of retirement benefits on threat of losing their jobs.

The association said the obvious motive for such acts would be to save the county education department money since counties must pay part of the cost of retirement benefits for each teacher that participates in the plan.

The association said so far only the allegations have been made but that an investigation is underway and concrete evidence, where it is found, will be turned over to the attorney general.

Meanwhile, the association said "it is hoped that the governor and the attorney general will themselves investigate such reprehensible conduct on the part of superintendents.'

Gov. Hugh White and Attorney Gen. J. P. Coleman were out of town and unavailable for comment.

The association did not say which of the 82 county superintendents had been accused of the threats.

But the allegations said those accused acted like this:

They called Negro teachers of the county before them and passed out waiver blanks for the Negroes to sign indicating they did not want to take part in the retirement program.

The association said many of the teachers did not realize they had the alternative of participating.

Those that did know and insisted they wanted the retirement plan were warned to sign the waiver or lose their jobs, the association said.

The State Association of Negro Teachers announced Saturday they "deplore the attempt to state educational authorities to establish make-shift and pseudo-graduate training at Jackson and Alcorn Colleges . . . "

The teachers complained that neither of the colleges have been approved for more than undergraduate work and they are opposed to creating "easy credit mills" that would not require the same academic standards as white colleges.

The association said "better trained principals can be secured by giving more generous graduate aid for study in out-of-state universities . . . this aid should be the policy until such time as the state can provide graduate training with our state for Negroes . . ."

Negroes Pledge Cooperation --Not Obstruction, To Plan For Equalization Of Schools

Spokesmen for the 7,000-member Mississippi Negro Teachers Association, headed by President J. D. Boyd of Utica Institute, Thursday reported an attitude of "helpful cooperation" rather than one of "obstruction, fighting and antagonism" after a meeting with the Legislative Recess Education Study committee on the [illegible] program for equalization of Negro and white schools of the state.

"The Mississippi Negro Teachers Association," President Boyd said, "is willing to go along with the Education Committee's program in the hope that we can get a program of equal opportunities for our children started as early as possible."

The meeting was a follow-up to an earlier meeting held in the office of Gov. Hugh White with Negro and white educators to discuss the program in full. Thursday's meeting was an effort to "reconcile our differences," Boyd said, "and it was a helpful conference tended to clear up rather than deepen suspicions of the program for equalization."

Sen. George Owens of Pontotoc, vice-chairman of the Legislative Recess committee, headed the group of 13 out of 18 members of the committee. They met with seven members of the Negro Teachers Association including President Boyd, E. S. Bishop of Corinth, L. T. Ellis of Laurel, A. A. Alexander of Brookhaven, Walter Washington of Utica and A. L. Johnston of Prentiss.

State Rep. Ney Gore of Quitman, secretary of the Legislative committee, said the meeting yesterday served to clear up certain objectionable phases of the program in the minds of Negro educators and proved helpful to all.

Boyd said his race wants to see the program first enacted into law, after which diferences can be "ironed out peacefully" rather than throw a kink into the whole program by objecting to minor phrases and words that at first may seem to set forth discriminatory powers to boards.

"After a very careful study of all parts of the program Thursday, the Negro Teachers Association feels that it can continue to work with the Legislative Recess committee in a spirit of cooperation rather than one of fighting," Boyd said.

PEA Committee Raising Funds

TEACHERS PLAN TO BUILD HERE $75,000 HOME, OFFICE BUILDING

The officers and members of the Palmetto Education Association this week announced their plan to build a $75,000 Home. The building will house the administrative offices of the association, ten offices for rent, lounges for ladies and men and a small auditorium. The auditorium, with a seating capacity of 200, will be available for public meetings.

The Association has commissioned architect John Branch Orangeburg to draw the plans and supervise construction. Mr. Blanche has completed the specification and will soon offer them to contractors wishing to make bids.

Special Committee Appointed

John R. Bowen, President of PEA, was authorized by the Executive Committee to appoint two special committees to assist with construction plans and financing of the building.

Dr. J. C. Parler, supervising principal of the Orangeburg City Schools, was named chairman of the Contribution committee with G. W. Lebby, Bluffton; C. W. Fields, Columbia; L. B. Moore, Abbeville; J. E. Beck, Greenville; Alvin Arnold, Pageland and C. M. McQueen, Hartsville representing the sixth districts.

John R. Harper, Camden, was named chairman of the Building committee with Rev. M. D. Bogan, W. Columbia; John Dorman, Orangeburg; G. A. Anderson, Florence and U. G. Conyers, Sumter.

14m(3) 1953

Mississippi

TEACHERS CAN REGAIN RETIREMENT BENEFITS

Those Who Signed Waivers Have Until June 30 To Act

From The Commercial Appeal Jackson, Miss., Bureau

JACKSON, Miss., April 18. Negro teachers who signed waivers rejecting retirement benefits under Mississippi's new Federal Social Security-State annuity program have until June 30 to rescind their actions, it was announced Saturday.

W. R. Hough, executive secretary of the state system, released a letter sent employers in February stating employes who had signed the rejection waivers could withdraw them and qualify for benefits under the program.

The announcement followed recent charges of the Mississippi Negro Teachers Association that "Several county superintendents have circumvented the program by forcing Negro teachers to sign waivers of their retirement benefits on threat of losing their jobs." The association asked that Governor White and Attv. Gen. J. P. Coleman "Investigate such reprehensible conduct on the part of such superintendents and take necessary action to correct the situation."

It was reported that waivers had been suggested because those making less than $1,200 a year would not benefit under the state retirement system, and the employers were suggesting the waivers in order to sidestep payment of the employers' part of the contribution. Under the act, employes making $100 or less a month are not required to pay into the state part of the system, although deductions are made for the Federal plan in the dual system.

Mr. Hough said the state board had suggested that all employes be entered in the system "with the thought that in the future an employe might earn more than $1,200 annually and may want to count his prior service records." Those signing the waivers lose prior service in computing their retirement benefits in event their annual pay later exceeds $1,200 a year.

Mr. Hough also pointed out that under the state retirement system all members, regardless of annual salary, are eligible for disability benefits, which are based on total salary regardless of whether it was $1,200 a year or less, and regardless of whether the employe had made any contributions to the system.

"It appears to me that each employe, whether they earn $1,200 a year or not, should be encouraged to become a member of the system," Mr. Hough said.

Teachers Forced To Waive Benefits

JACKSON, Miss. (ANP) —Colored teachers here have charged some county superintendents of education with forcing them to sign waivers of retirement benefits on threat of being fired, according to the Mississippi Teachers Association.

The association itself issued a blast at efforts to establish graduate schools at Jackson and Alcorn colleges.

The association, in commenting on reported efforts to get colored teachers to waive retirement benefits, said the only moment of the Mutual Benefit Society. The case was heard by Judge Michael M. Manley.

tive behind such a move is one to save money by the counties. An investigation is underway and whatever evidence is discovered will be turned over to the attorney general.

Deplore State Attempt

Relative to the issue of forming graduate schools at Jackson and Alcorn, members of the association said they "deplore the attempt of state educational authorities to establish make-shift and pseudo-graduate training at Jackson and Alcorn."

The teachers complained that neither of the colleges has been approved for more than undergraduate work, and they are opposed to creating "easy credit mills" that would not require the same academic standards as white colleges.

Meanwhile, the state is going ahead with plans to establish the graduate school at Jackson. In an effort to outline a program to begin summer graduate work, three white and three colored educators met last week in Atlanta.

List Of Educators

The six educators who attended the planning confab were: Dr. E. R. Jobe, executive secretary of the board of trustees of institutions of higher learning; Dr. Forrest Murphy, head of the department of education, University of Mississippi; E. T. Rawson, head of the division of colored education, state department of education;

Also J. L. Reddix, president of Jackson college; H. T. Sampson, dean of Jackson college, and N. R. Burger, Hattiesburg, president of the state Principals' Association.

Educational Facts And Figures

When the Alabama Legislature meets a little more than three weeks hence, it will face an educational finance problem of major importance. On the one hand more money is needed if the state's educational system is to be maintained even at its present level—which, admittedly, is relatively low. On the other hand, there are a state budget already strained to the limit and the opposition, both by the administration and by people generally to more taxes for any purpose.

The facts of the situation are clear enough. The March issue of The Education Bulletin, published by the Alabama Education Association, presents some significant figures and comparisons.

TEACHER SALARIES—The average annual salary of the instruction staff (teachers, principals, and instructional supervisors) in 1951-52 was $2537. For classroom teachers it was $2487. The beginning salary of Alabama highway patrolmen is $3240, of welfare case workers $2880, and the average salary paid merit system employes is $2960.

To raise Alabama instructional salaries to the level of the nation would call for $21,464,688, which would not include increases earned by teachers through education for higher certificates or provision for new teachers to meet increased enrollment. The Alabama Education Association is asking for an increase of 10 per cent in salaries which, together with increases for improved training and for new teachers to meet increased enrollment, would call next year for $6,146,550. This would leave Alabama teachers still far behind the nation in average salary. In purchasing power, Alabama teacher salaries are below the 1939 level.

SCHOOL BUILDINGS—A study made in 1951 by the Alabama State Department of Education and the U. S. Office of Education showed $289,529,007 needed to give Alabama adequate school buildings. Latest figures available (1949-50) give Alabama's cost value of public school property per pupil as $162, that for the nation $511.

FREE TEXTBOOKS—State law places the first six grades under the free textbook program. Present appropriations are sufficient to buy books only through 3½ grades. An additional $425,000 annually is needed to meet the state's own standard.

TRANSPORTATION—Only one state has a lower transportation cost than Alabama. To replace obsolete and unsafe equipment, $3,348,000 is needed.

These are only some of the figures that the AEA has compiled to make a dark picture, a picture of pressing need. What can be done?

The AEA is asking for the 10 per cent salary increase noted above. It is proposing a $100 million bond issue to meet the most urgent of building needs. And it is requesting a constitutional amendment that would allow counties and cities to increase their school taxes, if they wish. Both the latter two propositions must, of course, be submitted to voters for ratification.

The state now provides 74.3 per cent of the total school dollar. The state should not decrease its appropriation, nor abandon the minimum school program, but it would be better in many ways to enlist more local support. This cannot be done without a constitutional amendment.

We have quoted figures above. Those figures should be understood in terms of human realities. They mean underpaid teachers leaving the profession or for a state that pays more. They mean unsafe, unhealthful buildings. They mean dangerous school buses. They mean children retarded by lack of textbooks. They mean shortcomings in quality of instruction and in the education of citizens of tomorrow.

There is the possibility of more federal aid. If the international situation should improve, easing the strain on the national budget, more federal assistance may be extended to education, thus more nearly equalizing educational opportunities among the states even as Alabama's minimum program fund does within the state.

These are basic considerations to be faced in dealing with an urgent, fundamental problem.

Equal Pay For Ark. Teachers

LITTLE ROCK (Ark.) — The Pulaski County Special School District last week approved a single salary schedule for both white and Negro teachers. The pay will be dependent solely on training and experience.

County School Supt. E. F. Dunn estimated the action increased salaries of the 53 Negro teachers in the area a total of $22,000.

14m(4) 1953 D.C.

Board Asks Funds For 85 New Teaching Positions

WASHINGTON, D.C. (NNPA) — The Board of Education and school officials requested a total of $231,505 for eighty-five new teaching positions in the colored schools of Washington for the next fiscal year, according to hearings on the District of Columbia appropriation bill made public Thursday.

Dr. Hobart M. Corning, superintendent of schools, asked for an appropriation of $37,917 for nine class 3-C teachers for the senior high level of Division 2, the colored schools.

He said this request was to bring the pupil-teacher ratio in the colored senior high schools tion standards, which is one teacher for each twenty-five children.

ALSO REQUESTED was an item of $79,123 for twenty-one teachers for colored junior high schools, also to bring the pupil teacher ratio in the colored junior high schools more nearly to standards, and an item of $212,465 for fifty colored elementary-school teachers.

"The need is due to two things," said Dr. Corning. "It is due to the influx of the colored population, on the one hand, and it is also due to the increased birthrat

TO KEEP THEM FROM LEAVING JOBS:

Must up teachers pay $500 a year

14 m (4)

CHICAGO — Salaries of public schoolteachers must be upped an average of $500 a year across the country immediately if their exodus to jobs in business and industry is to be checked, Carl J. Megel, president of the American Federation of Teachers, AFL declared here last week.

He reiterated that teachers are leaving their desks at the rate of 100,000 a year "in order to secure cost of living pay," and said adequate state tenure laws are "also essential to teacher stabilization in the near future."

"Immediate answer to the question 'Can we keep good teachers?' is no," Megel said, 'now up to superintendents and school boards who, between now and spring, must act on salary increases in budgets for the coming year.'

"Our 400 affiliated locals in as many cities are now up with increased pay proposals.

"Tachers everywhere are tiring of present-day educational 'boondoggling' and inaction in the evergrowing crisis resulting from low pay and overcrowded classes. At long last, teachers across the nation are assuming a forceful leadership expressed in an 'either or else' attitude.

"Present average teachers' pay ranges from a low of $1,675 annually in Mississippi to a high of $4,625 in New York State.

The national average 8—$3,310 before income taxes — is 25 per cent under the average pay of occupational workers and 60 per cent less than the earnings of other professions requiring comparable education and training."

Megel said a $500 per teacher raise for the country's one million teachers would call for a $500 million increase in school budgets.

Beneficiaries Must Pay

"Under present school tax formula, without federal aide" he said, "the financing must come from local property taxes and increased state aid. Teachers have become fed up with the old school board song, 'We haven't got the money".

The AFT president said that bills for tenure laws making it impossible for school administrators to fire qualified teachers without proving cause will be submitted to most state legislatures at their next sessions.

"Such laws," he added, "would help stabilize the profession by placing teachers under tenure after a reasonable probation period and make teaching more attractive to young people contemplating it as a life work."

Instructors' Jobs Under Kan. Threat

TOPEKA, Kans.—A sinister plot by school boards in 10 of the largest cities in the state to oust Negro public school teachers if the United States Supreme Court outlaws segregated schools was disclosed here last week.

The disclosure was made on April 6 in an article by Anna Mary Murphy, staff writer for the Topeka State Captial. The articles stated that a "state-wide survey of first-class Kansas cities which still have segregation revealed a mass unannounced weeding-out of Negro teachers is taking place."

Parents of colored children here filed one of the five cases now pending before the Supreme Court on the constitutionality of segregation in public schools.

It has been learned that Negro leaders here are mobilizing to halt the whole-sale plan.

The article indicates that Kansas school boards are operating on the assumption that the country's highest tribunal will decide against segregated schools. If the court rules in favor of the Negro parents separate schools would be outlawed throughout the state. Smaller Kansas communities already have integrated schools.

The newspaper article discussed the school situation in eight of the ten largest cities in the state. No mention was made of Wichita, the largest city, or Lawrence, the other first-class city.

Miss Murphy implied in her article that the plan to "purge" Negro teachers out of the school system was made at executive sessions and not during regular meetings of the school boards. The Topeka school board, the article says, failed to renew the contracts of its most recently employed Negro teachers.

"When the March 15 deadline for notifying teachers of their contract renewals came, the Topeka board did not notify several of the most recently employed Negro teachers," the article said. "No action was taken authorizing any teacher renewals in a public meeting."

It was pointed out that there are 237 Negro teachers employed in first class cities of the state, and 7,521 Negro students. Although no mass firings have taken place, the article states, boards have anticipated the abolition of segregation for several years by filling all vacancies with white tecahers.

Miss Murphy quoted several school superintendents as saying: "Integrating the pupils will not pose as much of a problem as realigning the facilities. Other than the blow to Negro teachers, the result of a reversal of the present segregation statute would not be too severe in Kansas."

Equalization Money Sought

Mississippi Group To Check On Funds Set Aside For Negro Teachers But Never Used

14m(4)

By KENNETH TOLER

JACKSON, Miss., March 21.—The Legislative Roving Investigating committee is going to try to find out about something the Recess School Equalization group disclosed but was unable to expose. It centers around a paragraph in the final report of the committee after nine months effort to develop a plan for equalizing the racially segregated public schools.

Here's what stirred the investigative instincts of the roving committee headed by Representative John Junkin of Adams County.

"According to the report of the State Auditor, in many counties money specifically appropriated for equalizing the pay of Negro teachers which was sent to the counties for that purpose never got to the Negro teachers. For that matter, it has never been returned to the State Treasury, either. The committee does not know for what purpose the money was spent."

Mr. Toler

It was the last sentence in the paragraph that drew attention of the roving committee members who met this week and discussed it. They said it would not be left unanswered insofar as they are able to get at the facts.

And, accordingly, the "rovers" plan to "get at the facts."

Just what procedure will be used has not been disclosed. But since the matter was documented by State Auditor W. D. Neal, it is likely he will be the No. 1 witness called to shed light on admission of the school group that it "does not know for what purpose the money was spent." The Junkin Committee is also highly interested in ascertaining the recipient-sources of the money since "it has never been returned to the State Treasury, either."

Others May Be Called

It may be that state and county school officials will also be called before the investigators.

Just how much information the Auditor has on the subject was not revealed by the education committee. It reported, however, that copies of the State Auditor's report "are on file in the records of this committee."

Under the method of disbursing state funds to the counties, they are sent to the county superintendent of education and handled from that level by that official. State educators have said once the money is disbursed to the county, they are without power or authority to check its end use.

Another matter being inquired into by the "roving" committee is the practice of some departments, under authority of law, to withdraw lump sums appropriated by the Legislature and then deposit in special accounts in private banks. Some of the "rovers" have said all funds should channel through the regular course—a requisition issued by the State Auditor on the State Treasurer.

Fiscal officials contend if all public moneys were required to take the regular course that added personnel would be needed to handle the separate items. The separate checks are now handled within the departments which draw their own checks against their deposited funds in their individual accounts in the banks.

Meanwhile, a sub-committee of the investigating group is due at Holly Springs Thursday for a look-see into operations of the State Park in that vicinity. The nature of the visit was not disclosed.

Superintendents Strongly Assert Negro Teacher Funds 'Not Mis-Used But Un-Used'

By PHIL STROUPE

County superintendents of education charged with misuse of state funds earmarked for equalization of Negro teachers' salaries Wednesday came to Jackson and vehemently proclaimed that the "funds are not misused but unused."

Meeting with Asst. Atty. Gen. James T. Kendall and State Auditor William D. Neal in the State Senator chamber, the superintendents called for a public apology from State Rep. John R. Junkin of Adams county, chairman of the Legislative Investigative Committee who charged that funds were not spent for the purposes outlined in the law covering the special $3,000,000 appropriation.

Junkin's report stated that 38 counties had spent funds for purposes other than for raising Negro teachers' salaries. Tuesday Kendall, who is making the investigation at the request of Junkin's committee, said that eight of the 38 counties had been exonerated from the claim after explaining funds disposition in their counties.

The investigation is continuing to determine the status of the other 30.

Kendall said Wednesday that several legal questions remain as to whether: 1) The law requires that unspent portions of the funds be returned to the state treasury. 2) Whether county superintendents can explain their figure juggling by using it for transportation facilities rather than for Negro teachers salaries.

E. Ray Izard, superintendent in Copiah county, which was one of the eight counties cleared on Tuesday, said:

"The State of Mississippi has suffered a grave injustice. We are in the midst of a great reorganization of our public schools and are waiting on the U. S. Supreme Court to decide the segregation issue before we continue with our program. A charge such as the one leveled against county superintendents by the Investigative Committee will fall on the ears of the U. S. Supreme Court and some people will go to their graves believing that these chargse are true.

"I don't believe the committee treated us right when it revealed the names of the counties without first calling in the superintendents for a hearing.

"This meeting here today," Izard continued, "will be in vain unless that gentlemen (he referred to Junkin without naming him) publicly appologizes."

Supt. John Bynum of Jefferson Davis county said: "I think it is one of the most unfair things that has ever happened to county superintendents and someone is responsible."

Several of the superintendents remained in Jackson after the meeting to confer with Auditor Neal on their explanations of the funds.

Atty. Gen. J. P. Coleman said earlier that any money spent unlawfully will have to be repaid to the treasury.

MONEY FOR NEGROES APPARENTLY MISUSED

State Seeks Return Of Funds Earmarked For Teachers

INVESTIGATION STARTS

By The United Press

JACKSON, Miss., May 13.—The state attorney general's office launched an investigation Wednesday into charges that 38 counties spent money appropriated by the legislature to increase Negro teacher salaries for other purposes.

Atty. Gen. J. P. Coleman appointed assistant Atty. Gen. James T. Kendall to conduct the investigation after the legislative investigating committee asked Mr. Coleman to take "proper legal action to recover any money that was spent contrary to the provisions of the act."

Seek to Recover

In 1950 the legislature appropriated $3,000,000 earmarked for increasing Negro teacher salaries.

Representative John Junkin of Natchez, committee chairman, said it appears certain counties have "deliberately flauted the provisions of the laws to spend the money for other purposes. The money should either be used for what it was meant or go back to the state treasury."

Representative Junkin said information on the reported discrepancies had been obtained from Auditor William Neal who said he had been unable to determine for what purposes the money had been spent.

"All we con go by is the audit report," Mr. Junkin said. "It may be that some of the counties can clear themselves."

The matter first came to light when Mr. Neal reported the apparent discrepancies to the Legislative Recess Education Study Committee which published his statement in its final report. Mr. Junkin's "watchdog" committee took it from there.

"If there have been any unlawful expenditures," Mr. Coleman said, "this office will seek to recover them."

Figures Listed

Under a 1952 law the attorney general is charged with recovering any funds spent unlawfully by public officials when requested by the state auditor.

Mr. Junkin said the responsibility for the school money rests with the county school systems as the money was distributed by the State Department of Education according to law.

Wollowing are the counties listed by Mr. Neal whose expenditures for Negro teacher salaries were than their appropriations for that purpose and the differences between the two amounts:

Alcorn $2,562, Amite $9,027, Calhoun $2,164, Chickasaw $3,767, Choctaw $162, Claiborne $12,682, Clay $20, Copiah $3,507, De Soto $15,698, Greene $590, Hancock $942, Harrison $2,980, Issaquena $1,150, Itawamba $1,276, Jackson $5,082, Jasper $1,496, Jefferson Davis $539, Jones $4,101, Kemper $18,607, Lafayette $7,457, Lee $1,628, Leflore $3,122, Newton $9,552, Quitman $587, Smith $28, Stone $1,994, Tate

4 EXPLANATIONS SEEN IN NEGRO FUND ISSUE

Money Set Aside for Teachers Unspent By Some Counties —Kendall Reports

By KENNETH TOLER

From The Commercial Appeal Jackson, Miss., Bureau

JACKSON, Miss., May 15.—An investigation into whereabouts of funds allocated by the Mississippi Legislature for increases in Negro teachers' salaries indicated they may be in one of four places, James T. Kendall, assistant attorney general, said Friday.

Mr. Kendall began the investigation when charges were brought that 38 counties had failed to raise Negro salaries from an earmarked appropriation.

Sees Four Explanations

Mr. Kendall said there are four points involved in the issue:

"Some of the counties may still have the funds on hand.

"Some may have earmarked monies to separate school districts as tuition for Negroes whose schools have been closed.

"Some may have transferred the funds into another county for payment of salaries where a line school serves two counties.

"And some may have equalized salaries of Negro teachers with whites and have a balance on hand."

Eight Not Involved

A check of a report by State Auditor W. D. Neal, on which the accusations were based, Friday developed that some of the counties originally listed in the charges still have the earmarked funds on hand. Eight of the 38 not involved are Choctaw, Clay, Copiah, Hancock, Issaquena, Newton, Winston and Yazoo. Twenty-four of the other 30 are shown to have balances in their common school funds in excess of amounts claimed to have been al-

Negro Teachers Complaints Are Disregarded By Legislative Education Study Group

Say Bad Features To Stay In Proposed Bills

Jackson, Miss., May 1[illegible] (DSN) — The complaints of Mississippi Negro Teachers against certain obvious defects in some of the bills designed to bring about equal educational opportunity in the state despite the [illegible] representatives of the state Negro Teachers' organization, according to wellfounded reports were completely disregarded at a meeting here last week with the Legislative Educational Study Committee which has written the bills for action at an extra session of the State legislature which Governor White plans to call following the decision of the U. S. Supreme Court.

The meeting of the representatives of the Negro Teachers organization with members of the legislative Educational Study committee is seen as having been brought about by objections raised by representatives of the Negro Teachers' organization at a previous meeting with Governor Hugh White at which they pointed out certain objectionable features in a number of the proposed bills.

Chief points of objections of the Negro Teachers is the use of the words "satisfactory" and "discretion" in certain of the proposed bills.

The Negro teachers pointed out that learning any part of the action necessary to bring about equalization of educational opportunity to the "satisfation" or "discretion" of any official or group of officials leaves the problem of equalization of education for Negroes subject to the same condition existing at present.

The Negro teachers insisted that [illegible] matters of equalization be spelled out without leaving anything the satisfaction or discretion anyone.

According to reports, Atty. Ney[illegible]ore, secretary of the Legislative [illegible]ducational Study Group, and [illegible]okesman at the meeting told [illegible]e Negro representatives that no [illegible]anges would be made in the pro[illegible]sed bills, and after alluding to [illegible]e possibility that the insistence [illegible] the Negro teachers for more [illegible]an was contained in the propos[illegible] bills, told them that the courts [illegible]uld be always open to them in [illegible]ich to make their complaints.

The spokesman for the Negro [illegible]achers was Prof. J. D. Boyd, [illegible]esident of the association who [illegible]aded a committee which includ[illegible] Prof. A. A. Alexander, Prof. [illegible] Washington, Prof. E. S. Bishop, [illegible]d Prof. A. L. Johnson.

Charge Mississippi Counties Snitch $160,000 Earmarked For Teachers

JACKSON, Miss (ANP) — Some 38 Mississippi counties have been charged with misappropriating a total of $160,000 designed for increases in pay to colored teachers. An investigation into the charge now is under way.

Attorney General J. P. Coleman appointed James T. Kendall, an assistant, to conduct the investigation after the legislative investigating committee asked Coleman to take "proper legal action to recover any money that was spent contrary to the provisions of the act."

The misappropriation charges were made in connection with some $3,000,000 provided by the state legislature in 1950 for increases to colored teachers.

Deliberately Flouted Law

Rep. John Junkin, Natchez, legislative investigating committee chairman, said it appears that certain counties have "deliberately flouted the provision of the laws to spend the money for other purposes. The money should either be used for what it was meant or go back to the state treasury."

The supposed discrepancies were reported by William Neal, state auditor, who said he was unable to determine for what purposes the money had been spent.

Neal reported the apparent discrepancies to the legislative recess education study committee which published his statement in its final report.

In State of Mississippi

Negro Teacher Robbed!

JACKSON, Miss.—(ANP)—Mississippi counties which failed to use a special appropriation for raising Negro teachers' salaries must return the funds to the state treasury.

That was the decision of James T. Kendall, assistant attorney general, after a meeting with county superintendents representing some thirty-eight counties accused of misappropriation of money approved for raising colored teachers' salaries.

Eight of the counties accused were cleared and some twenty-four others said the funds were not "misused, but unused." Kendall said these funds would have to be returned to the state treasury.

Some county superintendents had said that they had used their share of the $3,000,000 appropriation for transportation facilities rather than for Negro teachers' salaries.

A Legislative Summary

State teachers will get a base $100 per month increase in pay under the new legislative enactments of the 24th session of the Oklahoma legislature, plus substantial gains in increament payments for services. This will mean much to the Negro teachers of the state if the leaders of the OANT are alert to see that these gains are properly and adequately distributed as provided by law.

No one should consider that these new legislative provisions will be properly safeguarded by simple reason of their enactment. The current experience in Mississippi, where it has been exposed thousands of dollars have been feloniously misappropriated, should be sufficient warrant to alert Oklahoma teachers seeing that the new increases are actually funneled through, not only to teachers in the larger counties, but to the little fellows out near the forks of the creek who often times do not have much say about what is going on down at the county seat. An effort some-time ago on the part of teachers right here in Oklahoma to find out what is going on in the administration of school funds was effectively squelched when a news story appearing in the columns of this paper, exposed what the state teachers had in mind. It may be that the NAACP will have to enter this fight before Oklahoma's Negro teachers will secure their just desserts and proper share of the school funds.

The three million dollars voted for state parks should be eyed quizzically. It should be recalled effort is being made to establish an all-Negro park up on the Grand river. Protest has been made against this proposal by the Oklahoma Conference of Branches, NAACP. The NAACP feels the rising tempo of liberalism in Oklahoma should be recognized by the Oklahoma Planning and Resources Board, and Negroes admitted to all parks. Some of this huge appropriation will be used to promote the revenue bond program, proposed by the Planning Board, and this publication suggests another trip be made to the Planning Board in opposition to the proposed jim crow park, which is said to be tagged for a half million dollar allotment, if the revenue bonds can be floated.

Citizens of the state who have loved ones incarcerated in mental instittuions should immediately become interested in the $15,012,230 appropriated for the mental health hospital program. It is fully established that an adequate reclamation program in our insane asylums can return thousands of unbalanced citizens to normalcy, and when we study the recent disclosures made by a legislative committee showing the indifference and marble-hearted treatment given average white and black patients in the state mental hospitals, we realize that something should be done immediately. Since the state has segregated all Negro mental patients at Taft, efforts should be made immediately to see that the state board of affairs makes additional provision for psychiatric treatment at Taft. It is generally rumored that the Taft institution is extremely weak along this line and should have at least four psychiatrists on the job day and night. At the present time we have only one.

The club women of the state, who have in the past exhibited so much interest in this field, should empower a special committee to take this matter up with the state board of affairs and the state mental health board, to the end that Negroes unfortunately unbalanced may receive proper treatment.

Toll roads received considerable attention from the 24th annual session of the legislature and a bill was passed providing for the extension of this type of road in two directions in Oklahoma. This publication approves the general idea of charting roads by the shortest route to a given point, as contrasted to the old idea of guiding highways by circuitous routes through every little hamlet and village; but we are of the opinion that citizens residing on all traffic arteries should, if they require with standard regulations, have an opportunity to exploit business opportunities on such highways. We can forgive the loss of business suffered by the small towns on abandoned highways, but we cannot agree that those same business men should not have the right to move to the new highway and enjoy profits from the traveling public. This idea of establishing super-highways, and at the same time crushing the opportunity of the little fellow to sell oil and food, is in the judgment of the Black Dispatch offering death instead of life to free enterprise. There are too many methods being devised these days to prevent the little man from entering into competition in the transportation business and communication services, and it appears we have gone entirely too far when after we grant one company a monopoly on food services we tell that company no one can eat in his restaurants but those who have paid tolls on the highway. Railroads have never followed any such rule respecting Harvey Houses. You do not have to have a railroad ticket in your pocket before you can eat there.

A young man came to our office last week and posed this question: Will Negroes be permitted to eat in the restaurants soon to be opened on the Turner Turnpike? We shall have to wait and see what provision has been made in this new system of road services, where no one can eat except a toll rider. We would assume, however, that no class or color discrimination could obtain in this service since the basic requirement for eating is vested in possession of a toll ticket. We suggest all Negroes riding on the highway, who are hungry and need food, present themselves as all other travelers who possess toll tickets. At all times be gentlemen and ladies, but insist upon services to which you are entitled. Since the ticket holds you on the pike, all ticket holders should be the beneficiaries of all emoluments, privileges and benefits.

The most stupid and assinine bill introduced in the present legislature was the proposal to kill the sale of 3.2 beer in the state. We are delighted to know the senate killed this measure, but a bill was passed to provide for local option in cities on Sundays. About all this new measure will do is to generate more disrespect for law. The fellow who likes to drink beer will order a double supply on Saturday and drink it in his home on Sunday. In addition to this it will increase the sale in blind tigers and semi-private parties. Beer drinking will not cease. It will simply go underground.

We hope the day will come when Oklahoma will cease partnership with Mississippi in the prohibition business. At the present time we are the dupes of Texas, Arkansas, Colorado, Kansas and Missouri, all bordering states shipping whiskey into Oklahoma. From this ocean of contraband goods we derive no revenue, but in turn spend millions of good dollars trying to reverse the trend of human nature in futile law enforcement. This writer could get along if there were not an ounce of alcohol in the world, but the folk who like freedom and do not want government meddling into the individual identity, are the folk sumptuary laws have caused to disrespect law enforcement. The legislature should have left the liquor question alone unless it was going to provide a means by which citizens could vote out prohibition.

This Year Colored Teachers Are Not "Unequal" Victims

School People Of Both Races Hurt By High Cost Of Living And "Bite" Of Income Tax Collector; But Politicians Fear Doing All They Want To Do Because Raises Must Come From Raising Taxes On Everybody

With the two organizations of Nashville teachers putting in their requests for salary raises to the boards of education this week, considerable attention was focussed upon the public schools as a result of the State Department of Education's report on "the salary situation" in Nashville and Davidson County.

The matter of greatest interest, as far as the public is concerned, was the publication of salaries not being paid, showing what white men and women teachers get, in comparison with what colored men and women get. These figures do not support any theory that colored teachers are not as well paid as white teachers, unless the factor of the "teacher load" enters into the matter. The teacher load has been referred to as the number of pupils a teacher has in her classes.

Here are the figures on monthly salaries paid in Davidson County Schools as reported last week:

Colored Men, $337.86; Colored Women, $344.93.

White Men, $337.24; White Women, $323.07.

These figures indicate that the average salary for colored men teachers in Davidson County is 62 cents a month more than the average for white men teachers. They also show that the average salary for colored women teachers is $21.86 more than the average monthly salary for white women.

The figures for the City of Nashville show the following:

White Men, $386.81; Colored Men, $387.73.

Colored Women, $362.09; White Women, $360.68.

Thus the figures or Nashville schools show that white men teachers on the average receive $1.09 more per month than colored men teachers, while colored women teachers receive on the average of $1.41 more per month than white women teachers.

GRADE TEACHERS HARDEST HIT

This week committees from the county and city school organizations were to go before their school boards to ask for salary increases. The principal argument for increases, of course, is the increased cost of living and the fact that teachers without several dependents are severely "nicked" each month by the income tax collector.

Teacher upkeep, including food, clothes and a car, which now has become a necessity for teachers, renders it virtually impossible for teachers to save anything out of the salaries they are getting, which to some might seem liberal. The better pay in education goes to persons in the higher brackets, superintendents, assistants, supervisors, and school principals. It is the grade teachers, who admittedly do the hardest work, but who do not get what they deserve for their services. This fact is recognized by the authorities, but officials of the city and county who must struggle with making ends meet out of what they collect in taxes are expressing little enthusiasm for as high increase in salaries as the representatives of the teachers are demanding.

JUDGE BRILEY AND MAYOR WEST SHY

Neither Judge Beverly Briley of the County Court nor Mayor Ben West has come out with an announcement that he intends to see that the teachers get all of the salary increase they are requesting. There is a good reason for his. Both are elected officials. They must face the fact that to increase teachers salaries they must also raise taxes. They do not know how enthusiastic the public has become about increasing taxes, even for so worthy a cause as schools.

It is said that county taxes will have to be raised eight cents on the $100 assessed value of property to provide the amount of salary increases the teachers are demanding. Teachers and their families are in favor of this but how about that overwhelming majority of the taxpayers who get no part of increase for teachers? Taxing all of the people, to provide salary increase for a small part of the population is something that government officials must be prompted to do by strong public demand.

Teachers and educators have tried valiently and have put their cause before the public very forcibly but they seem not to have won many recruits among the political leaders.

It was expected that the legislature which recently adjourned would have done something to bring in more revenue out of which teachers could get salary increases, but it did not do so. The members were afraid to pass even the "enabling act" that would have allowed cities and counties to levy an additional one-cent sales tax for schools Money for free school books is to come from a bond issue the legislature voted

In this connection it is recalled that Governor Jim McCord back in 1947 put over the 2-cent sales tax all of which money was earmarked for schools including salaries for teachers. It was expected the sales tax would bring in $20 million and this would be enough to take care of the needs of the schools and teachers. But instead, the first year the sales tax brought in $41 million—twice the amount expected and one million dollars more This year the tax is to bring in more than $50 million, which will be twice the amount sought in 1947 and $10 million more

A nice little, stiff state income tax would "turn the trick" for the schools and teachers. But you just can't get legislators to assess a state income tax on the big corporation.

STILL TALK FEDERAL AID

They still talk in Washington about giving Federal Aid to Education, but this is resisted, especially by the Southern politicians. This is because the Federal Government will insist that Federal Aid money must be dispensed equally, on a per capita basis for both colored and white children and that no state will be allowed to reduce any funds now going to colored schools and still get its share of Federal Aid. The Southern politicians reply to this demand by Uncle Sam by saying "Give us the Federal money but don't tell us how to run our business."

The educators are saying that poor pay is driving the best teachers out of the professions. The political leaders say privately that they know this is not so. The best teachers are so intensely interested in their work that they will not leave it for a few dollars extra in some other work.

What pleases Nashville and Davidson county teachers, and certainly the boards called upon to raise salaries, is the report that in only one other county in the state are salaries of teachers as high as in Davidson County, on the average. That is Knoxville and Knox County. The average monthly salary for city and county teachers in Knoxville and Knox County was $350.32 last year. In the city of Knoxville the average monthly salary is $413.42.

Teachers of Memphis and Shelby County do not get as high average pay as they do in Nashville and Davidson County, nor do they in the other major city and county of the state, Chattanooga and Hamilton County. .

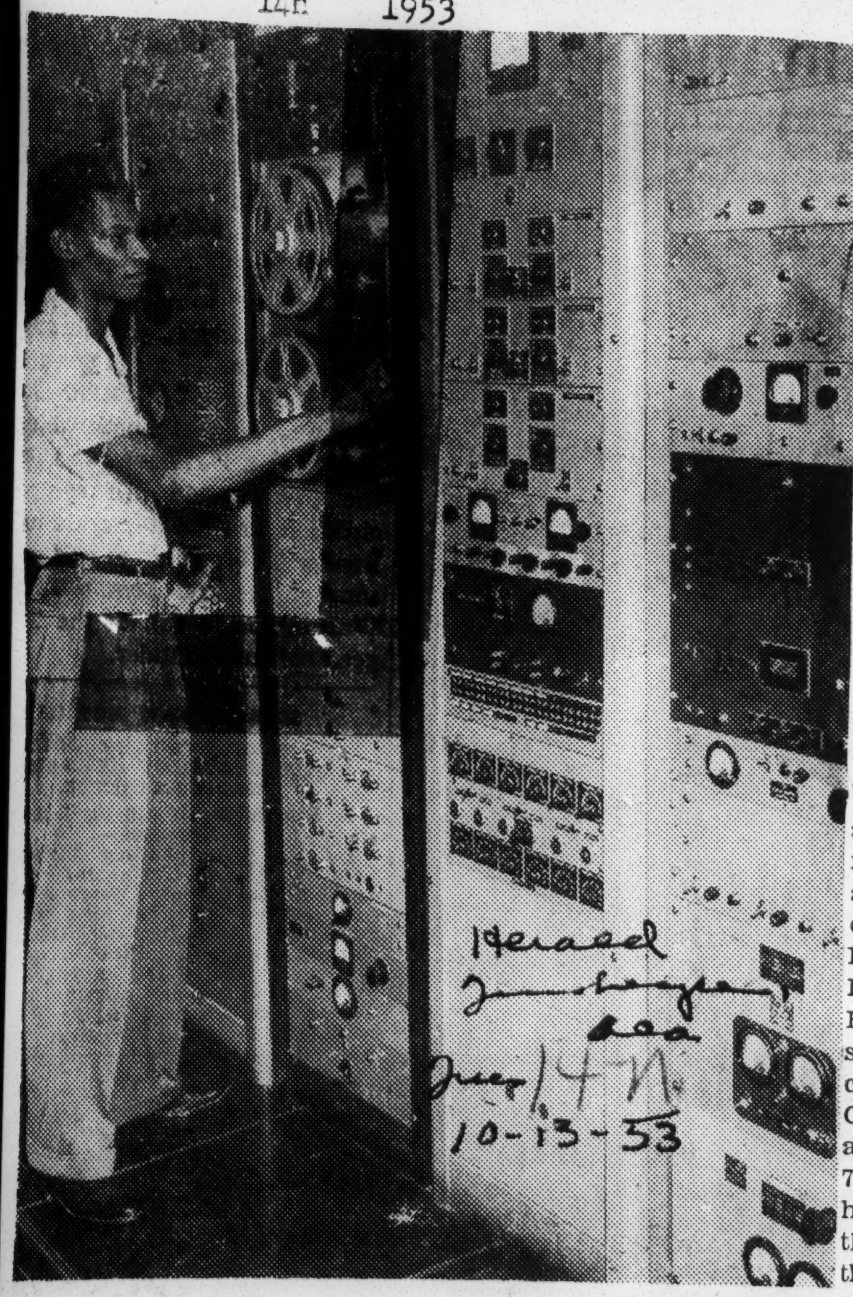
It is reorted that big political jobs and jobs in Big Business are beckoning to white man teachers and the authorities are bothered with resignitions of teachers, who, understandably will take jobs offering $5,000 or more. But there appears not to be any such offers being made colored principals and teachers or elsewhere in the state.

THAT BASS-LOOBY DEBATE

This situation will doubtless remind many of the war of words which took place between Supt. W. A. Bass and Attorney Z. Alexander Looby some ten years ago when the fight was on to get the salaries of colored teachers raised to the level of white teachers, Mr. Bass had said there was no racial discrimination in the fact white teachers got more than colored teachers—just a case of supply and demand, said Mr. Bass. Mr. Looby in typical lawyer fashion, then propounded to Mr. Bass the question: "If you say you have more jobs than teachers for white schools but more teachers than jobs for colored schools, then why don't you fill vacancies in the white schools with colored teachers?"

"The people wouldn't stand for it," said Mr. Bass. Then and there Mr. Bass' beautiful "supply and demand" theory did a fadeout. Also, Mr. Bass' contention that the standard of living for colored teachers was lower than that of white teachers did a fadeout. His honor, Judge Elmer Davies, had asked: "Can you tell me where, in this town, a Negro, because he is a Negro, can get a bottle of milk cheaper than a white person?" It showed the judge was getting ready to rule, which he did.

14n 1953



TESTING RECORDER—William Buckley, Jr., a senior in electrical engineering at Tuskegee Insittute is shown above starting the play-back system of a magnetic tape recorder. He used this to study amplifiers at the U. S. Naval Ordance Laboratory at White Oak, Silver Springs, Md., while employed as a student-aid trainee for the Summer. Buskley is the son of Mrs. Myrtle Johnson, of Jackson Miss., and a graduate of Lanier High School of that city.

Enrollment Is Near Record As Institute Opens Term

Tuskegee Institute moved into its seventy-third term Monday morning with a near record freshman class of approximately 700. When total figures are compiled by the registrar, the enrollment for the Fall term is expected to top any year since the peak period of G. I. enrollment.

In discussing the ground swell in enrollment with officials the belief was general that increased numbers of high school graduates rather than higher income is the determining factor. Many of the students are entering on the several self-help and scholarship programs offered by the institute.

A record number of students are being aided this year by home-town clubs, churches and fraternal organizations. It is reported by the dean of students that the calibre of students enrolling in the freshman class, for the most part, were in the upper third of their high school graduating classes.

Registration planned for Friday and Saturday spilled over into Monday, and no late registration was charged until Tuesday and later.

A highlight of Freshman Week was President and Mrs. L. H. Foster's reception for the class. The very colorful affair was held at the Faculty-Staff Club. In the receiving line, in addition to Dr. and Mrs. Foster, were Vice-President and Mrs. I. A. Derbigny, Dean and Mrs. C. G. Gomillion, Dean anjd Mrs. J. Julius Flood. Henry Jackson, president of the senior class, and Arthur Scavalla, chairman of the Student-Faculty Council. It took the promising and determined line of nearly 700 young people an hour and a half to receive the blessings of the school officials, partake of the refreshments, and become a part of the Tuskegee Institute family.

Saturday they went with the upper classmen to witness their first football game where Tuskegee overcame their new rivals in the state, the Alabama A. & M. Bulldogs, by a score of 6-2.

Monday morning, those who had completed registration began regular class schedules.

'Skegee Named Co-Sponsor Of Nuclear Studies

OAK RIDGE, Tenn.— (SNS) — Meeting in Oak Ridge Tuesday, the Oak Ridge Institute of Nuclear Studies named Tuskegee Institute as one of its sponsoring universities. Southern Methodist University of Dallas was the other.

Representing Tuskegee in Oak Ridge was Dr. Russell W. Brown, director of the Tuskegee Institute Carver Foundation. Dr. Paul M. Gross, president of the Nuclear Studies Institute and vice president of Duke University, made the announcement and said that there are now 32 sponsoring agencies connected with the program.

Tuskegee students will soon be able to participate in nuclear studies at Oak Ridge, one of the principal seats of atomic energy study.

Dr. Brown of Tuskegee will be a member of the governing council which is composed of one representative from each sponsoring group. The Institute is managed by a board of directors elected by the council.

Council chairman is Dr. George H. Boyd, dean of the University of Georgia Graduate School; executive director is Dr. William G. Pollard of Oak Ridge.

Miss Vroman To Be Guest Speaker

Mary Elizabeth Vroman, author of the best-seller "See How They Run," will be the guest speaker at a dinner honoring seniors Friday evening at the Isstitute cafeteria. Miss Vroman is a teacher at the Booker T. Washington High School, Montgomery.

This is her second visit to Tuskegee Institute since her return from Hollywood where she went to give technical advice on the filming of her story. She was recently the guest of the English department of the Institute at a dinner given in her honor, and at that time and again on a Tuskegee Institute program broadcast over Station WTUS, she captivated listeners who heard her discuss interesting features of her work as both a teacher and writer.

The United Men's Congress and Associated Women Student's Organizations are sponsoring the program presenting Miss Vroman on Friday.

Reading Seminar Here Attended By Many Educators

The seminar in reading conducted by the Department of English at Tuskegee Institute last Friday at the Hollis Burke Frizzell Library brought together principals, deans, teachers and students from several sections of the country. The speaker at the morning and afternoon sessions was Maj. James L. Jackson, director of the reading improvement laboratory at Maxwell Field. A native of Illinois, Maj Jackson holds the Ph. D. degree from the University of Illinois. Formerly he was professor of English at the University of Arkansas.

Maj. Jackson opened the morn- session by reviewing the general aims of a reading program and by explaining the operation of the reading improvement laboratory at Maxwell Field. He stressed the importance of helping students develop habits in reading and demonstrated machines that may be used to increase the rate of reading and improve the reading comprehension. Making no effort to launch a course in the techniques of reading, Maj. Jackson directed his attention to teachers of English and of other subjects, all of whom had assembled for the purpose of receiving stimulation in a very import area of teaching.

Book Week Prizes Given At Library

Approximately 75 children, their parents and visitors witnessed the awarding of prizes to winners of annual National Children's Book Week contests sponsored by the children's room of the Hollis Burke Frissell Library at Tuskegee Institute last Saturday morning.

Three divistons were set up to judge the 75 posters submitted by children of local schools to illustrate the national theme "Reading Is Fun." For the first division, Betty and Wilexia Shields, second and third grades, Children's House, won the first award for their jointly produced poster. Thomas Campbell, III, first grade, St. Joseph School, received the second award. Third award went to Ronald Green, second grade, St. Josehp's.

In the second division Marshall Cabiness, fifth grade, St. Joseph, won the first award; to Henry Hooten, Jr., fourth grade, St. Joseph, went the second award; and Marian Judkins, fifth grade, Children's House, received the third award.

In the third division six awards were made with no attempt to classify them according to levels of achievement. The prize winners were Dyanne Robinson, sixth grade, St. Joseph; Charles Fernandes, eighth grade, Children's House; Ruth Curtis, seventh grade, Children's House; George Cooper, eighth grade, Children's House; Jewel Brown, eighth grade, St. Joseph; and Keynard Agnew, eighth grade, St. Joseph. The prizes awarded were games and art craft sets.

Second event of the day, the king and queen contest promoted to select the boy and girl who best impersonated well-known book characters by use of costum and performance, delighted children and adults alike with many attractive costumes and clever pantomiming pointing up real knowledge of characters by the contestants.

Voncille Talbert, sixth grade, Washington Public School, received the title of "Book Queen" for her excellent impersonation of "Little Red Riding Hood." Her prize was a dresser set including a mirror, comb and brush.

"Book Week King" is Charles Webster, first grade, whose costume and clever actions really brought to life the "Gingerbread Boy." Honorable mention went to William Thornton, Jr., for his impersonation of the "Barefoot Boy."

An added attraction was the books sent by Rich's Inc. of Atlanta, which provided a rare opportunity for the children, their parents and teachers, and Tuskegee Institute students of Children's Literature to handle a collection of beautifully bound, wonderfully illustrated books that they would otherwise have to travel to a large city to see.

14n 1953

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE

Serves The Nation!

A Class "A" Professional and Technical College

Journal and Guide p.21
Norfolk Va.
Dat. 5-9-53

GRADUATE STUDY IN

Agriculture, Home Economics and Education and Courses Leading to the

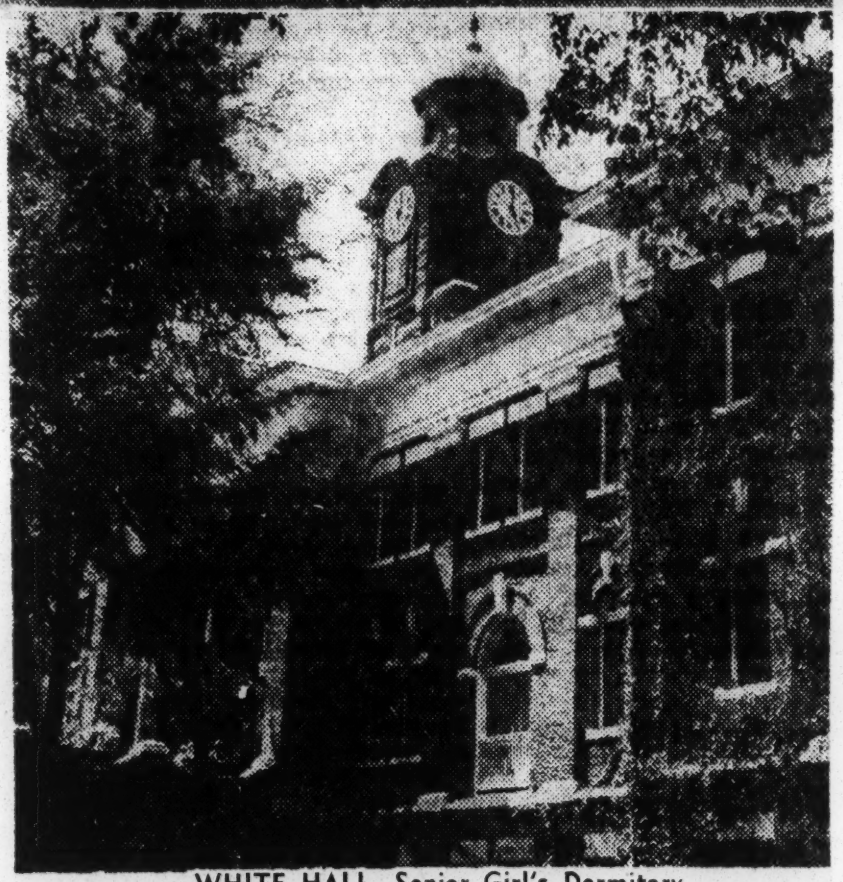
Bachelor Of Science Degree In:

- Agriculture
- Education
- Home Economics
- Nursing
- Commercial Dietetics
- Electrical Engineering
- Physical Education
- Mechanical Industries

★ D.V.M. Degree in VETERINARY MEDICINE



WHITE HALL, Senior Girl's Dormitory

Newest Methods of Food Preparation And Service

SUMMER SCHOOL

TWO TERMS — TEN WEEKS

June 8 to July 11, 1953

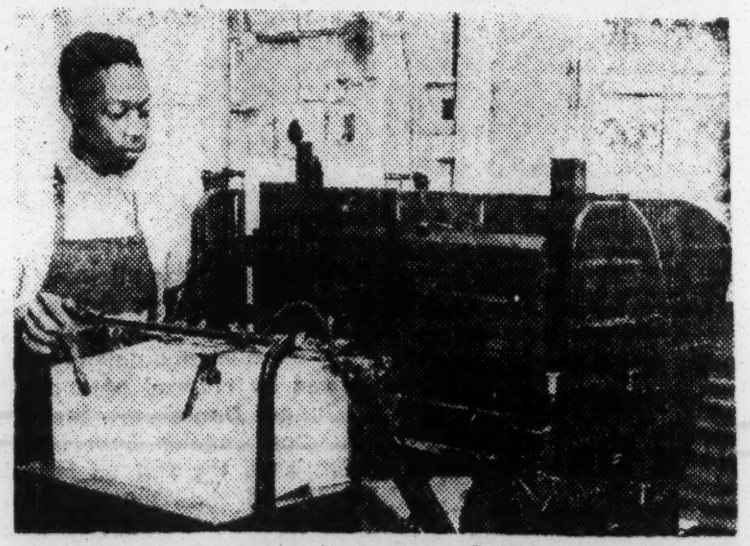
July 13 to August 15, 1953

★ RESERVE OFFICERS TRAINING CORPS
Infantry and Air Forces

Special Courses In Trades and Vocational Rehabilitation

F. D. PATTERSON, President

For further information, address
THE REGISTRAR
TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, ALA.



Student In Printing Division

Tuskegee Meet Hears Of South

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, Ala., July 1 — As a feature of the weekly assembly program, the Tuskegee Institute Little Theater presented "My Name Is Legion" at Logan Hall on Wednesday morning, July 1. Written by Nora Stirling and Nina Ridenour, this play has been released to the Tuskegee Institute Little Theater by the National Association for Mental Health and the American Wing Community Theater.

"My Name Is Legion" is a dramatization based on "A Mind That Found Itself," the provocative autobiography by Clifford Whittingham Beers, founder of the mental health movement in America.

The cast included George W. Turner and Frank R. Cannon, school principals attending the workshop conducted by the school of education. Charles Powell and Theodore H. Gipson, graduates students; Devaughn Belton and John T. Cotton, regular students. Other roles are being played by Dr. Alonza J. Davis, dean of the School of Education and president of the Tuskegee Mental Hygiene Society; Singer A. Buchanan, associate of English and director of the Little Theater.

The play opened before an appreciative audience at the Washington Chapel AME Church at 7:30 Sunday night, June 28. At this time Dr. Prince P. Barker, chief on neuropsy services at the Veterans Administration Hospital, Tuskegee, established the mood of the play. Mrs. Lexine H. Weeks, at the organ, played background music.

According to Mr. Walker, director of "My Name Is Legion," repeat performances are being planned for another local church and for out-of-town engagements.

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE
Serves the Nation!
A Class "A" Professional and Technical College
GRADUATE STUDY IN
Agriculture, Education and Home Economics. Courses leading to the Bachelor of Science Degree in: Commercial Dietetics, Electrical Engineering, Nursing, Mechanical Industries and Physical Education.
D. V. M. Degree in Veterinary Medicine.
SUMMER SCHOOL
July 13 to August 15, 1953.
FALL QUARTER SCHEDULE
Sept. 14-Monday; New Students Arrive
Sept. 17-Thursday; Old Students Arrive
Sept. 18-19: General Registration
Sept. 21-Monday; Fall Quarter Classes Begin
Reserve Officers Training Corps
Infantry and Air Forces
Special Courses in Trades and Vocational Rehabilitation
LUTHER H. FOSTER, President
For Further Information, Address: The Registrar, Tuskegee Inst., Ala.

Children's House P.-T. A. Meets

The Chambliss Children's House P.-T. A. held its November meeting on last Tuesday evening, when Mrs. Vera C. Foster, president, directed proceedings and Dr. Ira L. Ferguson, associate professor of education and hygiene, Tuskegee Institute School of Education, was heard by the group. His subject was "What Children Think of Their Teachers," and his discussion was based on his article which appeared in a national magazine recently. The Rev. Mr. Robert DuBose offered the invocation.

Contrary to what some teachers believe, he said, his survey which he made among students in several schools revealed that children do not like teachers who fail to make them work, who sit at the desk all the time, who have "pets" in their classes, who are sarcastic to students, or who elevate some children in their classes above others in an attempt to gain the friendship of their prominent parents, or because of personal prejudices, or for other unjust reasons. Students like teachers, according to Dr. Ferguson's study, who are gentlemanly or ladylike, who know their subjects thoroughly and present them in an interesting manner, who have such a background or have had such broad experiences as will enable them to contribute something worthwhile to the subject being studied, rather than have to depend solely on the material included in textbooks. They like teachers who show fairness to all pupils, are sincerely interested in the welfare of all of the children, rather than in just the salaries they are paid; are honest and sincerely accept criticism without a feeling of resentment.

Mrs. Pearl W. Headd, assistant professor of education in the School of Education at Tuskegee Institute, directed the showing of a film on the variety of methods used in schools to teach children. Students were seen enjoying the many types of modern machines and visual aids provided by their schools. It revealed that in most instances children are able to learn much quicker and more effectively when they learn by doing, with audio-visual aids, and when teachers use many of the interesting modern methods of instruction. Here, again, supplementary material to the textbook was urged.

Mrs. Ethel Hardy Smith, soprano and instructor of voice at the Tuskegee Institute Department of Music, sang "Life and Death," by Coleridge Taylor. Postponement of the appearance of her women's chorus was due to conflict with their rehearsals for their scheduled television program in New York.

Mrs. Vera C. Foster expressed her appreciation to the chairman of the program committee, Mrs Gertrude Anderson, for inviting such able people to participate. She also thanked Mrs. Georgia Poole, chairman of the book committee, for the fine display of carefully selected and classified books which she had discussed in her report and which were displayed as wholesome reading experiences. These beautiful books were made available to the P.-T. A. through the efforts of the book committee, Mrs. Fannie Harris, co-chairman, and through the courtesy of an Atlanta store. Among them were included several types of literature: religious, picture, safety and health, social behavior, geography, history, communications, arithmetic, nature study and science, riddle books, favorite classics, fables and fairy tales.

Mrs. Audrey Byrd, chairman of the Christmas committee, announced that the Christmas party, which is the P.-T. A. gift for the children, will be held on the evening of December 16th. In the preceding years, this annual event has inspired almost 100 per cent attendance on the part of parents, and it includes a delightful play in which the children take parts.

Mrs. Lillian Thompson, membership chairman, reported that she has received excellent response to her committees request for early payment of the membership fee. That group will determine each month which grade has the largest number of parents present at the general meeting. A banner goes to the winning class. October winner was the second grade.

The attractive posters which were placed around the assembly room were made by Mrs. Elaine Thomas and Mr. William Peterson portraying the theme of that meeting "Our School, Our Children, and Our Homes."

After Mrs. Foster had expressed her appreciation for the cooperation of all P.-T. A. workers, the meeting was adjourned, and delightful refreshments were served by Mrs. Ruth Hume, chairman of the hospitality committee, and Mrs. Dennie Hicks, co-chairman.

14n 1953

OUTSTANDING AMONG EXHIBITS at the 48th annual convention of the Shoe Service Institute of America, held June 13-17 in Chicago's Sherman hotel, was on depicting the intricate course of shoe repair and construction being done at Tuskegee Institute in Alabama. Senior students, left to right, William Joseph Fears, William J. Thornton and William F. Kimbrough demonstrate their skill in shoemaking and orthopedic brace making. More than 500 shoe specialists from various parts of the country witnessed the demonstrations.

Tuskegee Exhibit Is Highlight Of 48th Shoe Service Convention

By HUGH GARDNER

Tuskegee institute is fast becoming one of the prime factors in the American shoe industry.

This was proven to 500 or more delegates and friends who attended the 48th annual convention of the Shoe Service Institute of America held June 13-17 at Chicago's Sherman hotel. Along with numerous other exhibits on the mezzanine floor was an outstanding one from the Alabama institute, whiich caught the attention of shoe salesmen, wholesalers, and manufacturers of shoe machine equipment.

Practical demonstations were given by three seniors, William F. Kimbrough, William J. Thornton and William Joseph Fears under the supervision of Moses Beasley, director of the shoemaking division at Tuskegee.

The highlight of the demonstration was the measuring and construction of a long leg brace for polio victims and various other orthopedic levices.

T. W. Jones, dean of the School of Mechanical Industries at Tuskegee, made two addresses during the convention — Shoe Servicemen Go To College and Where Are Your Future Shoe Servicemen Coming From?

Before more than 500 who attended the meetings, he expressed the hope that a good number of shoe servicemen would come from Tuskegee institute, which was founded 72 years ago by the great American educator, Booker T. Washington. In a brief summary of the institution as it is today, he said it has more than 5,000 acres of land, 157 buildings, 550 persons are on its faculty and staff and it has 1,900 students. Approximately 400 graduate every year.

He fully described the four-year course in shoe making and orthopedic brace making stating that every individual, in addition to this trade, is well rounded out with a general education. He mentioned the interne program providing for a year for each student in the shoe industry, and told of the live campus facilities for the making of orthopedic braces, the Veteran's hospital and polio clinic serving as outlets.

Dean Jones asked the manufacturers to help the Tuskegee program by keeping modern equipment at the institution; to set up all-expense scholarships and to help work out an easier method of financing graduates who plan to go in business.

He pointed out that while Tuskegee needs this help, the manufacturers need the skill of well educated men the school produces.

Mrs. T. W. Jones, wife of the dean and principal of the Childrens House at Tuskegee, addressed the wives of the shoe manufacturers Wednesday morning at Edgewater Beach hotel.

Tuskegee Institute was invited to the convention by William L. Wardell, executive vice president of the Shoe Service Institute of America whose offices are at 222 W. Adams st., in Chicago.

He became vitally interested in the school after attending its annual trade conference held on the campus March 19-20 of this year.

'Stars Of Tomorrow' Thrill Great Crowd At Tuskegee

TUSKEGEE, Ala., Aug. 16—A large crowd of students, Institute faculty and staff members, and citizens, in general, attended the annual musical, "Stars of Tomorrow" under the direction of Mrs. Alberta Simms, of the Institute Music Department.

Versatile Mrs. Simms thrilled the attendees with her soprano solo, "Good Morning To You," which followedl the Lord's Prayer, said by Dr. Carleton L. Lee with chorus singing the song by that name.

There followed "Oh, What A Beautiful Morning (from "Oklahoma"), Rogers Hammerstein, with the chorus leading and the audience joining as directed.

The Tuskegee Boy Scouts who attended the California Jamboree were seen now as they were seated on an elevation from the floor, while they were displaying fishing rods and blowing harmonicas in good vacation style. Included in this group were William Stafford, George Cooper, Russell Davis and Charles Trout Jr.

A concert arrangement of "Skip to My Lou," by Wilson, was then heard, with the chorus, a charming soloist, Nathaniel Buford, and a dainty skipper, Anlaurie Britt, cooperating.

Lois Williams, pianist, gave a spirited, impressive audition of "Patrol March Grotesque," by Sinding. She is a graduate of Virginia State College.

The fascinating voices of the Institute Male Quartette, Capt. William Wiley, director, were blended in the song, "Sit Down Servant," arrangement by Shaw. In this group were Messrs. Willie Paul Sr., Dwight Burgess, and James Wallace Jr.

The Misses Frances Ramsey and Margaret Benton, students of Mrs. Lexine Weeks, played in an accomplished way a moving composition, "Malaquena," by Lecuona.

A dedication to the principals attending the Principal's Workshop was a popular musical selection, "I Believe," by Stillman. Soloists were Miss Vivian Sampson, and Mr. Terry Gooch, with the chorus. In this connection, registered nurses, Misses Ruthie Robertson and Helen Rock, played special parts in expressing the fact that ability can develop with confidence.

Arthur Bragg Sings

Supported by the chorus, the well-loved song, "The Toreador," by Bizet, was sung in fine voice by Mr. Arthur Bragg, tenor and Institute instructor in Mathematics.

O'Hara's "Love Is The Wind" was then caroled in a charming manner by Mr. Lemuel Bland, Principal of the Ralph Bunche School, King George County, Va., and a baritone.

At the end of this first group, Dr. L. H. Foster, Tuskegee Institute's prisident, gave what might be termed a command performance on this program, when Mrs. Simms presented the vice-president, Dr. I. A. Derbigny, and requested that he go to the rear of Logan Hall where the president was standing, to escort him to a seat in the front of the building. During this walk, the audience craned necks to see these distinguished and greatly esteemed administrators whose presence was acknowledged with resounding applause.

Mrs. Ethel Hardy Smith, the guest star, gave an operatic performance. The voice instructor for the Institute's Department of Music, she sang in excellent silvery voice and equalled the swallows, indeed, as she effected the very intricate trills and warbles, ching great heights and depths range of "Villanelle" (The Swallows, by Del Acque. "Let All My Life Be Music," by Spross, was great encouragement toward that end as Mrs. Smith sang it. By their great applause, the audience seemed to have been elated over the singing of this nationally known concert artist.

"Morning," by Speaks, starring Miss Mary Carolyn Derbigny and Mr. Walter Jackson, with the chorus and featuring petite girls called "Dew Drop Faries," was dedicated to President and Mrs. Foster.

Mr. L. M. Ringer, principal of Willard School, Willard, N. C., sang "The Big Bass Viol," by Bohannon, in a voice with tonal quality very similar to the music of that instrument. This delightful number ended the second group.

Two numbers combined in a sort of operetta launched the third and last group. Lambert's "When Johnny Comes Marching Home" was sung by the chorus while Lt. Federick Ratcliff played the part of Johnny and was amorously greeted by someone who cared (played by Mrs. Obie Lee Wright). Lt. Ratcliff was recently awarded the Bronze Star for meritorious service in the Koran conflict.

He, while playing his role, was offered Skegee Bread (cake) which was brought in by Mr. Devor Dandy who sang an adaptation of "Shorten' Bread" in a charming voice as he did last year on this annual program.

Talent Joins Together

For the last number, all of the talent came together with the addition of graceful majorettes and the color guard carrying U. S. flags and showing Tuskegee pennants, all the while singing and playing their parts to the tune of "The Battle Hymn of the Republic." Mrs. Simms made this finale even more effective by waving "Good Bye" to the audience as the curtain closed. She served as Mistress of Ceremonies for the entire program and added to the high spirit of the occasion by her lively introduction of each number.

Participants:

Sopranos: Mrs. Eleanor Foster, Mary Carolyn Derbigny, Rosie B. Oliver, Patricia Eldridge, Gloria Yancy, Dovie Burnley, Jeanne E. Reed, Delores Burgess, Ruth Reliford, Ceatrice Taylor, Lydia Hanking, A. C. Horne, Octavia Shivers, Ramona Williams, E. N. Nettles, Earline Anderson, Mattie Washington, Bessie Jenkins, Alyce Joyce Doss, Elese Amakyi, Obie Lee Wright, Georgia Walker, Erma J. Ross, Catherine Lamarr, Ruth Ross, Millie Singleton, Edith Kitchens, Mary Myhand, Lillian L. Peterson, Mary L. Wilson, Lorene Dunham, Marian Tucker, Leveda McGlorie.

Altos: Joann Brown, Vivian Sampson, Hazel M. Land, Cathrilla Sampson, Sarah Myers, Katherine Turner, Laura George, Charlotte Thompson, Mattie H. Pouncy, Myrtle Coulon, Willie M. Davis, AnLaurie Britt, Charlotte Palmer, Jessie Butler, Vetre Barrett, Tansy Echols, Letitia Smith, Mattie P. Bennett, Beatrice Johnson, Martha McNabb, Alma C. Boykin, Frankie M. Thomas, Clarice Henderson, Dorothy Brown, Vivian P. Magby, Mary Nichols, Corine McNeal, and Minnie Calloway.

Tenors: Arthur Bragg, Sherrow Hudson, Leon M. Donaldson, Cecil T. Walker, C. Travis Billups, Rufus Williams, James R. Wallace, Choir President F. C. Jackson, Willie J. Paul, Freddie Washington, Robert F. Frisby.

Basses: Walter L. Jackson, Lemued C. Bland, George Fitzpatrick, William T. Lawson, Sylvester Johnson, Dwight Burgess, Thomas M. Ringer, Robert L. McDuffie, Terry Gooch, and Captain William Wiley.

Student Directors: Mrs. Delores C. Burgess, Mr. Willie Paul, Mr. Robert L. McDuffie, Miss Clarice Henderson, Mr. Nathaniel Buford, and Mr. C. Travis Billups.

Tuskegee Male Singers: Willie Paul, Dwight Burgess, James Wallace, Capt William Wiley, director.

Majorettes: Tuskegee Institute High School—Mary Benton, Ruth Pitts, Mary Clements; Lewis Adams School—Mrs. J. B. Blackmon, director; Lottie M. Adams, Alfreda E. Swan, Dorothy Mindingall, Dorothy James, and Mary McDonald; Washington Public School—Mrs. M. R. Cravens, instructor, Dorothy Freeman, Lillian Chambers, Mary Ruth Grant, Annie Jerrido, and Margaretta Alexander. Tuskegee Institute—Miss Nell Jackson, instructor; Carrie Henderson, Irma Williams, Blanche Chaney, Marian Tucker, Ann White, and Mary Carolyn Derbigny.

Dew Drop Faries, Tap Dancers: Mr. J. Ticholson, instructor; Michele Murray, Gwendolyn, Enid Williams.

Flag Bearers and Guard: Clinton Brown (others).

Band Instruments, Trumpets; Mr. George Whitehead and Mr. George Pugh; Bell Lyre; Mrs. Dona Cooper Crawford; Percussions, Mr. Charles Stephens and Mr. Ralph White.

Art Posters: Mr. T. W. Jones; Ornamental Horticulture: Mr. Edward Pryce.

Consultants: Chaplain Carlton Lee, Dean C. G. Gomillion, Major C. Abbott, Major Walter Dabney, Mr. E. W. Ramsey, Mr. W. E. Bronson, Dr. J. H. M. Henderson, Mrs. Lettie Carter, Mrs. M. K. Frazier, and Dr. A. J. Davis.

Sponsor: Dr. I. A Derbigny.

Co-chairmen: Mrs. Lexine Weeks, Mrs. Ethel Hardy Smith, Mrs. Alberta L. Simms, and Mr. Alton Davenport, acting director of the Music Department.

LABORATORY WORKER— Melvin Herndon, a senior student in electrical engineering at Tuskegee Institute, is shown above making adjustments to a naval research laboratory developed spectrum analyzer while employed as a student-aid-trainee at that laboratory for the Summer. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Herndon, Bessemer, Ala., and is a graduate of Dunbar High School of that city. He qualified for this job at the Naval Research Laboratory in Washington, D. C., by taking and successfully passing a competitive Civil Service examination. He is an honor student and has been cited as an Institute Scholar at Tuskegee Institute. Herndon returned to Tuskegee Institute in September to complete the senior year of the five-year electrical engineering program.

14n 1953

Tuskegee Land Project Moving Under Forestry Service Group

By DON McKEE

The U.S. Land Utilization Project near Tuskegee, along with its personnel, will be officially transferred to the U.S. Forestry Service Jan. 1, according to reports here.

The 10,747-acre project is now under the federal Soil Conservation Service. Personnel consists of seven employes.

Transfer of the project from one agency to another is part of Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson's reorganization plan which he announced Nov. 3. Benson has ordered all land under Title 3, Bankhead-Jones Land Act, to be transferred to the Forestry Division.

An unofficial estimate set the total acreage in the U.S. to be transferred to the Forestry Service at about 7,000,000 acres.

C. F. Burnham, forest supervisor of Alabama National Forest here, said he understood the reason for transferring the lands is most of them are now forest lands.

When brought up under the New Deal resettlement program, the lands were mostly run-down farms, he said. And now that they have been developed into forests, they are being transferred to the proper agency.

Of the 10,747 acres in the project near Tuskegee, 4,000 acres are forest plantations, planted between 1936 and 1941, Burnham said.

The forest supervisor said no change would be made in the policies of the project.

O. C. Medlock, state conservationist, head of the Soil Conservation Service, said he understood the project was to be transferred, but had not been officially notified. His office took over control of the project in 1937, he said.

Policies which Burnham said would be continued include:

Major development, including reforestation, establishment of pastures and seed production areas, and general maintenance and protection of the area.

Major consideration has been given to demonstrational value of the project, stressing sound land use, management of forest and pasture lands, establishment, adaptation and cultural practices for new forage and soil-building grasses and legumes.

Annual Institute Week Of Prayer Set For Jan. 5-8

The annual Week of Prayer at Tuskegee Institute will be observed Jan. 5-8, it is announced by the Rev. Daniel W. Wynn, acting chaplain. The general theme will be, "Accept Christ In Campus Living."

Dr. Williams Holmes Borders, pastor of the Wheat Street Baptist Church, Atlanta, will be guest minister for the week.

The program will begin on Tuesday Jan. 5, at 1:15 o'clock in the Trade "A" auditorium with the English department's presentation of the play, "Everyman."

On Wednesday evening and each night following the services will begin at 8:15 o'clock in the Institute chapel with the Rev. Mr. Borders presenting the special message.

Other features of the week will be early morning services in the Trade "A" auditorium each morning form Wednesday through Friday; consultation with Rev. Borders and Rev. Wynn at the chaplain's office, and special discussions by the Bible Study Group.

Music will be furnished by the Institute choir on Wednesday, Jan. 6; the A. W. S. Chorus, directed by Mrs. Ethel Hardy Smith, on Thursday, Jan. 7; and the Tuskegee High School chorus, directed by Mrs. A. A. Davenport, on Friday, Jan. 8.

WIN PLACES IN WHO'S WHO—Pictured above are the 25 students at Tuskegee Institute who were elected to the 1953-54 Who's Who Among Students in American Colleges and Universities.

Landscaped Entrance To Beautify East Approach To Institute Campus

A beautified entrance to the Tuskegee Institute campus from the east on the approach from downtown Tuskegee will be provided by a project soon to be started.

The plan, according to H. K. Logan, business manager, and J. L. Anderson, superintendent of buildings and grounds, is to grade the present site of Cassedy Hall to provide a fuller view down the main thoroughfare to Carnegie Hall. The entrance plan follows the design originated some years ago by D. A. Williston, nationally recognized landscape architect, and includes necessary revision made by Edward L. Pryce, Tuskegee Institute landscape architect.

The Tuskegee Institute board of trustees approved these plans which include the removal of two historic buildings, O. D. and Cassedy Halls, recently condemned by engineers as unsafe for further use. The memory of these historic buildings will be preserved by placing their cornerstones and some of the structural brick and wood in the Institute Museum.

Both O. D. and Cassedy Halls were constructed before the turn of the century and during the first five-year period following the founding of Tuskegee Institue in 1881. O. D. Hall was named for Mrs. Olivia Davidson Washington, the wife of Booker T. Washington, and was the first men's dormitory constructed of brick. Cassedy Hall was originally used for a trade building but was later converted into a men's dormitory.

The new entrance, when complete, will greatly enhance the appearance of the east campus.

LIBRARY GIVEN MEMENTOES—M. D. Sprague, Tuskegee Institute librarian, is shown above receiving from Ernest Davidson Hughes, great-grandson of Booker T .Washington, several prized items from the Washington Collection. Among the items were a bound volume of Institute catalogs from 1881 through 1894 and a handwritten manuscript from Dr. Washington to Gen. Samuel Chapman Armstrong. There was a total of six priceless items in the gift. Looking on, left to right ,are Eric Kenneth Hughes, Marshall Cabiness, Jr., and David Eugene Cabiness. All are great-grandsons of the founder of Tuskegee Institute.

Musical Will Be Presented At Institute

"Stars of Tomorrow", the annual Summer school musical, will be presented at Logan Hall on Wednesday, August 12th, at 10 oclock a. m. This program is sponsored by Dr. I. A. Derbigny, vice president, Tuskegee Institute. Co-chairmen are instructors of the Institute Music Department, Mrs. Lexine Weeks, piano, Mrs. Ethel Hary Smith, voice, Mrs. Alberta Lillian Simms, public school music and actnig director of the Institute's choir, and Captain Alton A. Davenport, acting director of the music department.

The program will include piano selections and singing, with related activities, including dramatics, dancing, and majorettes' routine.

The fairies and tap dancers will be directed by Mrs. Victoria Nicholson, music instructor at the Chambliss Children's House. The majorettes will represent the Tuskegee Institute High School, the Children's House, Lewis Adams School, and Washington Public School. Captain William Wiley will direct the Male Singers, and the band instruments will be played under the direction of Mr. George Whitehead. Also, the Civil Air Patrol will be directed by Mr. Charles Smallwood.

Group To Repeat Popular Comedy

The Tuskegee Institute Little Theatre will repeat its performance of Sidney Howard's "The Late Christopher Bean" with a matinee at the Tuskegee Institute High School next Monday at 1 p. m.

Among the actors and actresses are Carole Patterson, who plays the leading role, Eula Patrick, DeVaughan Belton, and Sarajean D. Mosely, Co-chairman, department of English at the Tuskegee Institute High School.

Howard's delightful comedy opened on Feb. 19, when the Little Theatre players appeared at the Weaver Theatre at Maxwell Field. It was repeated before a large audience at Logan Hall on Feb. 20.

One-Act Comedy Is Presented By Little Theatre

"Funeral Flowers for the Bride," a one-act comedy by Beverley DuBose Hamer, was presented at Logan Hall on last Wednesday morning by the Little Theatre, Saunders E. Walker, director, Singer A. Buchanan, associate director, and an efficient cast.

The drama was about a widower, Zeke Gash (Charles Powell), whose wife had not yet been buried and who was so distraught, afraid, and confused by thos bereavement that he did not believe he could go on any longer, especially since he was left with five children, including a most troublesome, incorrigible daughter, Ruby (Sara Lara).

Remembering that his wife had repeatedly urged him, during her illness to get someone to help, Zeke proposes to the first woman, Sadie Johnson (Elleves Inabinet), who comes by the house to bring flowers and to offer her sympathy.

As the body was supposed to have been lying in state in a coffin right in the living room of the mountain home which the scene was representing, Ruby, Sadie, the City Preacher (played by Theodore Gipson), and the audience were shocked by Zeke's decision to wed before the funeral, but the seemingly crazed man waved his shotgun around and appeared to be getting himself married when the curtain closed.

This hilarious comedy seemed to have greatly amused the audience which was composed largely of Summer School students.

The production crew was listed as follows: Staging and make-up, Johnnie E. Locket, and Saunders E. Walker; lighting, Sim Bellamy and James N. Harris; programs and publicity, Ella N. Williams, Katie C. Dixon, and Gladys Sampson; ushers, Nancy Johnson, Era Jean Buchanan, Annie White and Eunicestine Clark.

Institute Offers Study Course On World Problems

A course on "World Problems" will be offered by Tuskegee Institute for the first time during the Winter and Spring quarters. It is a sequence course open to undergraduates and will be offered on Mondays, Tuesdays, and Thursdays at 6:20 p.m.

The course includes an exploration of the historical development of the world community, an examination of the nature and causes of struggles between nations, and a study of the nature and purposes of world organizations.

S. N. Webster will be the instructor for the course. Visitors to the campus from foreign countries will serve as resource personnel.

Credit earned in the course may be used to meet graduation requirements.

The Winter quarter begins Dec. 14.

Pianist Heard In Recital At The Institute Chapel

Tella Marie Debose, pianist, was heard in recital in the Chapel at Tuskegee Institute on last Wednesday morning. The accomplished artist played a program of familiar classics in a very exact manner. Charmingly attired in a deep blue sheer dress, the pleasant musician played Sonata, Op. 120—Allegro Moderato and Allegro, by Schubert; Prelude in E. Flat Major, by Rachmaninoff; The Little White Donkey, by Ibert; Rhapsody, Op. 79, No. 2, by Brahms; Two Mazurkas—Op. 17, No. 1 and Op. 41, No. 2, by Chopin and Grande Valse Brillante, Op. 18, Chopin.

Mrs. Debose is a graduate of Talladega and Oberlin Colleges and she is now a member of the faculty of the Southern University School of Music.

Foreigners Visit Institute Campus

Highlighting the list of visitors to the Institute campus over the weekend was a delegation representing the Associated Women of the World project. They were Mrs. Elhami Greiss, of Egypt; Mrs. Kameswaramga Kuppuswamy and Dr. Krishanabir, of India; Mrs. Iqbal Hassain Malik and Mrs. Said Amin Ud-Din of Pakistan.

They made a brief survey of Tuskegee Institute's program, both on and off campus. Much interest was shown in the housing program and in improved health and living conditions aided by the several agencies working out from the Institute.

They were guests for dinner with Mrs. L. C. Foster and members of the Women's Federated Club of Tuskegee Institute. A round-table discussion was held in the Faculty-Staff Club Monday evening. Each person gave a complete picture of what women are doing in their several countries to lift the educational and economic levels of their people.

14n 1953

3 From India Visit Tuskegee

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, Ala., March 12—Tuskegee Institute has three important visitors from India for a period of two weeks. Their visit to the United States is sponsored by the Point IV program.

They are: S. K. Singh, educational administrator from Jaipur; P. K. Trivedi, educational administrator, Rajkot, and Sant Parsod, principal of a basic training school, Binar, India.

Among the contacts made while here were: Visits and observations in the School of Education, rural life field projects, School of Agricurture, School of Veterinary Medicine, Division of Natural Sciences, the library, the School of Mechanical Industries, and many civic and social organizations.

Visits were made to Cotton Valley School, Shambliss Childrens' House, Tuskegee Institute High School, and Lewis Adams School. At Lewis Adams School they were guest speakers at the Monday morning assembly. They explained conditions in the several states from which they come. "School conditions," they stated, are being improved, but still there are not enough ing population." They are studyschools and teahcers for the growing population." They are studying the Ameriacn system of education with a view toward improving their own.

Son Of Prominent African Educator Visits Institute

Visiting Tuskegee Institute this week is O. Rudolph Aggrey, an employee of the United States Department of State and son of the late Dr. J. E. K. Aggrey, famous educational leader in Africa.

Young Aggrey returned to this country on May 30 after spending two years as vice-consul, information officer at the American Consulate General, in Lagos, Nigeria. Despite the prominent role played by his father in the African continent, this was the first time he had been to Africa.

His father came to America from Gold Coast, West Africa, to attend Livingstone College, at Salisbury, N. C. He married in this country and remained for a long period furthering his education at Columbia University and working with the Phelps-Stokes Fund.

It was shrotly after his return to Africa on a special educational commission for the Phelps-Stokes Fund that Aggrey served as cofounder of Achimota College, in Gold Coast, West Africa. This college was founded on the pattern of Hampton and Tuskegee where Dr. Aggrey and the governor of the Gold Coast spent several weeks of observation before establishing the college.

Mr. Aggrey will go to France after a short vacatin in Salisbury. He will be attached to the United States Information Administration in Paris.

He is a graduate of Hampton Institute and Syracuse University, in New York.

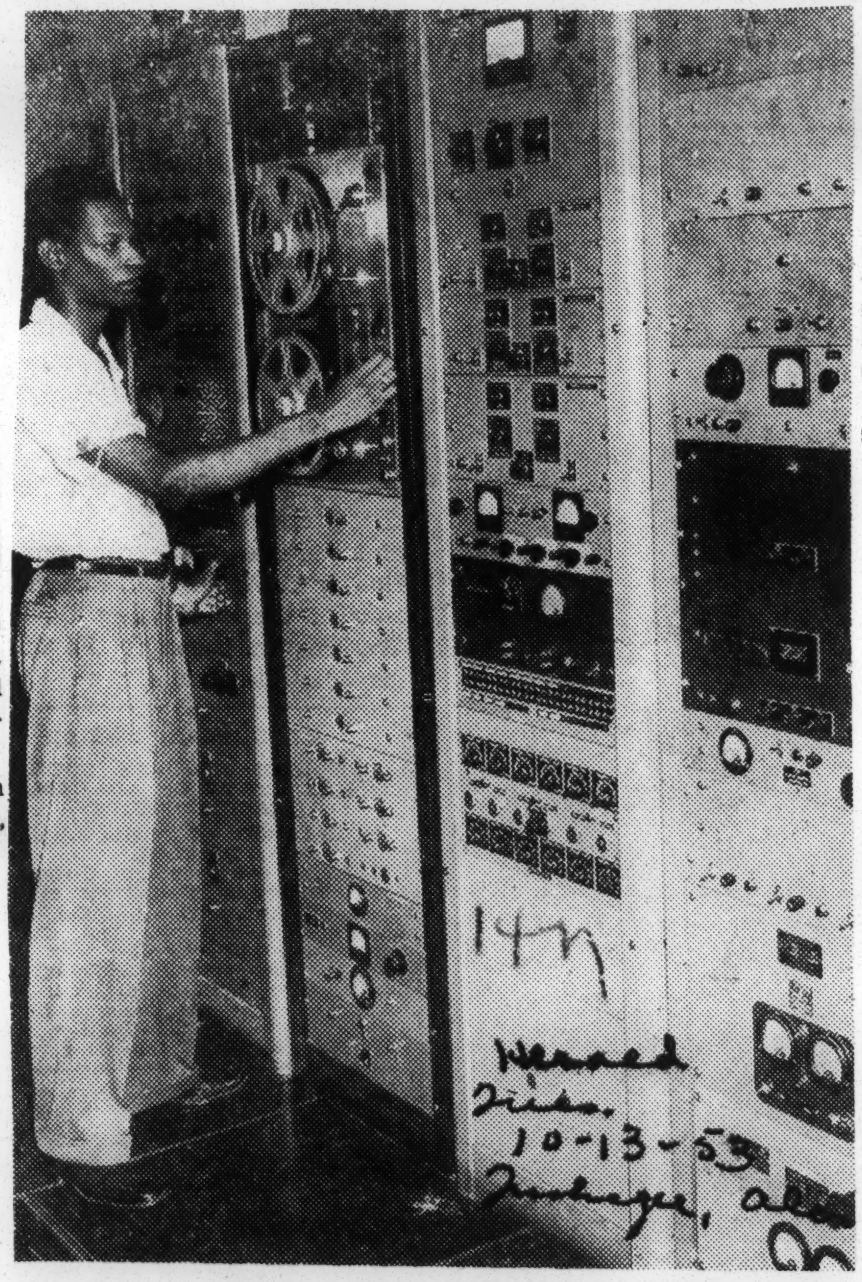
Blood Needed For Polio Research

Under the sponsorship of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, the Carver Foundation is participating in the program of polio research by producing tubes of a human tissue cell to be used by other laboratories that are grantees of the National Foundation. The tubes produced by the Carver Foundation contain a culture medium for growth of the polio virus.

Previously it was necessary to use live monkeys for this purpose where as now the virus can be cultivated in test tubes in which the human cell has been grown.

Human blood serum is necessary for this tissue culture work and is needed in large quantities.

The Carver Foundation pays $15 per pint to donors and would appreciate being contacted by adults in the Tuskegee community who are interested in contributing blood. Volunteers may call 1221 or come by. The need is urgent.



TESTING RECORDER—William Buckley, Jr., a senior in electrical engineering at Tuskegee Insittute is shown above starting the play-back system of a magnetic tape recorder. He used this to study amplifiers at the U. S. Naval Ordance Laboratory at White Oak, Silver Springs, Md., while employed as a student-aid trainee for the Summer. Buskley is the son of Mrs. Myrtle Johnson, of Jackson Miss., and a graduate of Lanier High School of that city.

Little Theatre To Repeat Play

The Tuskegee Institute Little Theatre will give a repeat performance of "My Name Is Legion" at the Greenwood Baptist Church at 7 o'clock next Sunday evening This dramatization of Clifford Beer's provocative autobiography, "A Mind That Found Itself", has been heartily received by audiences at the Washington Chapel A. M. E. Church and at Logan Hall on the Tuskegee Institute campus.

According to Prof. Saunders E. Walker, director of the Little Theatre, subsequent presentations of the play will be held at Alabama State College and in Birmingham.

The cast includes Prof. Walker, Singer A. Buchanan, associate director of the Little Theatre, and Dr. Alonzo J. Davis, dean of the School of Education. These are supported by Frank R. Cannon and George W. Turner from the Principals Workshop; Charles Powell and Theodore H. Gipson, graduate students; and Devaughn Belton and John T. Cotton, undergraduates.

Mrs. Lexine Weeks serves as organist-pianist for the group.

INSTITUTE ANNIVERSARY MARKED—

Group Gathers At Founding Site

A group of about 60 Tuskegee Institute Summer school students and faculty members, along with some members of the community, assembled on the lawn of the Butler Chapel A. M. E. Z. Church at 9:30 a. m. Saturday in observance of the anniversary of the opening of Tuskegee Institute on that spot on July 4, 1881. Among persons assembled were one of the 30 students who greeted Booker T. Washington on the day he opened school and several descendents of Lewis Adams, one of the two men who sought a teacher who would open Tuskegee Institute for Negro youth. On the spot where Tuskegee was founded now stands a beautiful marker constructed of Alabama marble. The pastor and members of Butler Chapel A. M. E. Z. Church have been responsible for the beautification of the area surrounding the marker.

The program consisted of brief presentations by Capt. A. J. Neely, graduate and former registrar, former dean of men, and recently retired executive secretary of the Tuskegee Institute Alumni Association. The Rev. W. E. Carson, pastor of the Butler Chapel, also spoke briefly. The chief attraction, however, was the presence of Mrs. Eliza Wilson Harris, one of the 30 students who entered Tuskegee Institute on the day that it opened. Mrs. Harris, who still lives in Tuskegee, spoke very interestingly of her association with Dr. Washington and of her experiences as a student during the early days of the Institute.

Following the program, refreshments were served by the members of the Associated Women Students, under the supervision of Mrs. Hattie S. West, dean of women at Tuskegee Institute.

14n 1953

New College Fund Series Announced

NEW YORK—The weekly series of programs by outstanding college choirs, presented by the American Broadcasting Company in cooperation with the United Negro College Fund, will feature the choral groups of Fisk University, Clark College and Knoxville College for the last three weeks in March, Fisk University and Tuskegee Institute for the first two weeks in April, it was announced last week by W. J. Trent Jr., executive director, at the College Fund headquarters, 22 East Fifty-fourth street.

The schedule of the broadcasts, which eminate from New York each Sunday over Station WABC, formerly WJZ, 10:30-11:00 a.m., and are heard over 170 stations in the United States and Canada, is as follows: Fisk University, Nashville, Tenn., March 15; Clark College, Atlanta, Ga., March 22; Knoxville College, Knoxville, Tenn., March 29; Fisk University, April 5; Tuskegee Institute, Tuskegee, Ala., April 12.

125 Tuskegee Students Named To Dean's List

A total of 125 students of a student body numbering 1,875 made the Deans list this year at Tuskegee Institute.

Highest scholastic honors went to Miss Barbara D. Williams, of Tuskegee Institute Ala.

During the year, 10 students with an "A minus" or better average were tapped by the Alpha Kappa Mu honor society. Atty. Hobart Taylor, of Detroit, was guest speaker for the society's final program.

OTHER AWARDS

The Tuskegee Institute Club of Society of the Sigma Xi second such club in one of our institutions, was installed with 12 charter members. It is also expected that the 14 members of the staff and faculty who are members of Phi Delta Kappa Honor society will form a field chapter in the year coming.

Other awards include: Miss Willie Dillard, $700 from the James Fund for graduate study at Tuskegee; Miss Mollie Player, of Shreveport, La., $1,700 from James Fund, study at Western Reserve; Cedric F. Thompson, $600 for study at Cornell; Miss Naomi Turner, $1,800 for study at Western Reserve.

9 Finish 5-Year Plan At Tuskegee

Nine students who had studied on the Tuskegee Institute Five-Year Scholarship plan were graduated from the institute on Monday, May 16.

The Five-Year Work Scholarship plan is a plan of work and study which will enable a number of promising and industrious students with limited money to get a college education.

Under the plan, the student usually works full-time during the first two years and carries a half class load. In the other three he works part time and completes the curriculum.

By DR. F. D. PATTERSON

Dr. Patterson Says Private College Needed

President Tuskegee Institute, 1935 1953

I take this means of expressing to the Tri-State Defender my earnest congratulations and appreciation for this inspiring Graduation edition.

Through the years that I have worked at Tuskegee Institute trying to help mold a better and more secure future for our youth I have been constantly mindful of the spade work done by Booker T. Washington and his successor Robert R. Mooton. They left us a great heritage of human service.

As I contemplate moving into another sphere of service aimed at providing more opportunities for the youth of Africa and other countries, I can all the more appreciate the fine corps of friends that have come to us through the efforts of the United Negro College Fund.

MUST JUSTIFY EXISTENCE

We must keep alive the influence of the private college. Private colleges must justify their existence. They must do a superior job. More and more we must recognize the individual worth of the student. Growth and reform come from the student's grappling, first hand with his problems.

In the later years Tuskegee has become expecially interested in helping youth of excellent ability who are without funds to obtain and education.

This we have attempted through scholarships and workstudy opportunities. Our interests in these students have been more than justified.

TUSKEGEE FUTURE

Nine of these five-year work scholarship students graduated in this year's class. They for the most part will be skilled in more than one trade or profession by having had several opportunities to work and learn on several productive jobs.

An additional interest of mine has been to help develop Tuskegee institute along the lines of a professional and technical college with a strong program of practical and scientific reserach. I am pleased to report much progress in this direction.

As I take leave from my duties as president of Tuskegee institute I see for it a bright and promising future.

Dr. Foster Host To 78 Principals

Dr. L. H. Foster, president of Tuskegee Institute, met the 78 school principals in attendance at the Summer School in an informal meeting Wednesday evening in the Pine Room of Dorothy Hall.

The principals were brought up to date on the program and purpose of the Institute. An exchange of questions and answers revealed that fourteen states were represented with 49 elementary school principals and 29 high school principals.

The unusually large number, as explained by J. Julius Flood, personnel director, who served as master of ceremonies, may be accounted for by the presence of the Regional Workshop meeting at Tuskegee this summer.

It was recognized by all present that the high moral tone of institutions of higher learning is dependent upon the quality of teaching and guidance received by the pupils in the public school system. The discussion centered around implementing this objective.

The states represented were Alabama, Arkansas, Georgia, Louisiana, Mississippi, Maryland, Oklahoma, Florida, Tennessee, South Carolina, North Carolina, Kentucky, Texas and Virginia.

News Among The Colored People

BY REV. C. W. KELLY

At its Summer meeting held last Friday, in the office of Dr. John W. Chenault, the Tuskegee Institute Chapter, National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, re-elected its full slate of officers for the fourth consecutive term.

Officers are Mrs. Bettye Steele Campbell, Jr., vice-chairman; Mrs. Laura N. Jones, secretary; Charles E. Trout, treasurer, and Dr. John W. Chenault, medical director.

Members of the executive committee, other than the officers named, are Mrs. Louise Trigg, Bernard Cohn, Louis Rabb, Mrs. Sallie Peterson Harris, and Dr. Luther H. Foster.

The chapter heard a report from the area polio meeting held in Memphis, Tenn., given by Mrs. Laura N. Jones.

A report was made by Dr. Chenault on the incidence of polio in the Macon County area on the recent installation of an air-conditioning unit in the isolation ward of the Infantile Paralysis Hospital.

The chairman, Mrs. Turner, reported several activities and projects which the chapter has engaged in over the past season. Among the items reported were contribution of a total of $2,500 to the National Foundation emergency fund; participation in several state and regional meetings; purchase of a set of filing cabinets to keep chapter records, honoring of Dr. F .D. Patterson for his long and fruitful work as a member of the executive committee of the chapter. A citation was given to Dr. Patterson.

The treasurer reported net receipts, to date, for the 1953 March of Dimes Campaign amounted to $4,390.56.

Charles V. Hendley, grand master of the Most Worshipful Prince Hall Grand Lodge F. & A. M. of Alabama, has issued his official call for the Grand Lodge to convene at Tuskegee Institute, July 21-23.

Master masons from all over the state will attend this meeting. Since the Eastern Stars of the State of Alabama will convene at the same time, it is expected that more than 2,000 people will be the guests of the 7th District which is the host for this meeting.

The Grand Board of Trustees of the Grand Lodge will meet next Monday morning.

The local committee in charge of entertainment has arranged a public meeting to be held Monday evening in Logan Hall. A fine program has been prepared. Master Masons and Eastern Stars are urged to arrange to arrive in time to attend this meeting.

The local housing committee will have headquarters at Logan Hall, beginning Monday morning and will remain there as long as is necessary to see that every one is comfortably accomodated.

On Tuesday evening at 7:30 o'clock our Lodge of Sorrows will be held in the Institute chapel. Every Master Mason is expected to attend this meeting. The memorial address will be delivered by Bishop A. W. Womack, of the C. M. E. Church of Indianapolis, Indiana. This meeting will be open to the public.

Five nurses from the Tuskegee V. A. Hospital, recnetly returned from the biennial convention of the Southern Division of the American Nursese Association in Ashville,N. C. The registration of Southern nurses at the convention totaled 260.

Featured speakers at the convention were Miss Dorothy V. Wheeler, director of nursing service, Veterans Administration; Chancellor Robert Burton House, of the University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill; Dr. Genevieve K. Bixler, consultant in research Des Moines, Iowa; and William McGlothlin, consultant of the Southern Regional Educational Board, Atlanta.

Those who attended from Tuskegee were Mrs. Ina Carithers, Mrs. Mary S. Harper, Miss Marie L. Lawrence, Mrs. Elsie McMillian, and Mrs. Minnie Whitfield.

FOR BETTER FARM HOMES—

Tuskegee Project Lauded

The Tuskgeee low cost rural housing project was seen as one means of providing better farm homes in an article by Frank M. Stewart, state commissioner of agriculture, in a recent issue of the Alabama Farmers' Bulletin.

Commenting on the need for better farm homes and the Tuskegee program, Commissioner Stewart wrote, in part, as follows:

Nothing promotes family happiness and contentment more than an attractive and comfortable home. A desirable farm home is even more desirable than a city home because farm families spend more time in the home.

The reason for so many of our farm homes being so unattractive and inconvenient is, in most cases, easy to understnad—the high cost of building and lack of money.

How can we build cheaper and better farm homes? The following facts compiled by the Rural Life Council of Tuskegee Institute, after 10 years of experimental work, can be of enormous help for anyone striving to build a new home with limited funds.

The plans as formulated by the Tuskegee Institute are based on the willingness of a family to do most of the work neessary to build a new home.

Here are the chief items that the Institute has listed as necessary for a successfully built new home.

1. The experiments that have been made with homemade concrete blocks.

2. Practically all the labor is done by the farm family.

Now let's talk about those homemade concrete blocks. For a modern four-room house it will take 3500 blocks to build the outside walls and partitions. To make 3500 blocks will require 150 sacks of cement, 300 cubic feet of sand and 300 cubic feet of cinders or gravel. On most farms a coarse sand and gravel mixture can be used at the rate of one part cement to 4 and one-half parts sand and gravel. The forms for mixing the blocks can be made by anyone who can use a saw and drive a nail.

The interesting part of the Tuskegee report is the total material cost of a modern four-room house with front and side porches, electric wiring, bathroom fixtures and built-in cabinets. The total cost as compiled by the Rural Life Council is $2,056.70. The labor of course is not included but the plans are so simple and easy that unskilled workmen can do almost all of the labor required.

IN COMEDY CAST— Mrs. Sarajean Mosely (top) had the leading role in the Little Theatre production of "The Late Christopher Bean" presented last Friday night at Tuskegee Institute High School. Miss Carole Patterson (lower) played the role of "Abby" in this comedy. (News story on inside page.)

Theatre Group To Present Comedy

Mrs. Sarajean Duncan Mosely, co-chairman of the Department of English at the Tuskegee Institute High School, has been cast in a leading role of Sidney Howard's "The Late Christopher Bean," which opens at 8 o'clock on Friday evening at Logan Hall. It is being presented by the Tuskegee Little Theatre.

Miss Carole Patterson, talented daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Patterson and a junior in the Department of Education, will play the role of the lovable "Abby" in this brilliant comedy.

Little Theatre To Present Festival Of Three Plays

In observance of its sixteenth anniversary, the Tuskegee Institute Little Theatre will hold a Drama Festival with a bill of one-act plays to be presented at the Little Theatre on Thursday and Friday nights, April 2 and 3. Curtain time will be 8:15 o'clock.

The bill of plays will begin with "The High Window" which, directed by Singer A. Buchanan, associate director, will feature Carole Patterson, Benjamin Haynes, Irby Cox, Elleves Inabinet and Rosa Laura.

The next play on the program will be Alice Gerstenberg's "Beyond," directed by Saunders E. Walker, director of the Little Theatre. The cast will include Carole Patterson and Delores Jones, of the English Department. The women's octette, under the direction of Mrs. Ethel H. Smith, of the Department of Music, will furnish background music for this play.

The final play will be "Indian Summer," directed by Mr. Buchanan, in which the following faculty members will appear: Gwendolyn A. Thomas, Saunders E. Walker, Dolores Jones and Mr. Buchanan.

Following the performances the audience will be invited to inspect recent improvements in decorating the backstage and dressing rooms of the Little Theatre.

Sixty-three teachers of vocational homemaking in Alabama were welcomed to Tuskegee Monday morning by Dr. L. H. Foster, president.

Dr. Foster explained the Institute's gratitude for the outstanding work being done by the group in training programs for youth and adults. He commended especially the work of the New Homemakers of America and their many tangible services to Tuskegee, including the playground equipment at the Infantile Paralysis Unit of the John A. Andrew Memorial Hospital.

Greetings were extended by R. E. Carmack, director of vocational education for Alabama, and Mrs. Ruth Stovall, state supervisor of home economics education.

A full schedule is set up for the week under the theme, "Improved Home and Family Living". Teaching skills, coordination of homemaking with total school and community organization, and a planned public relations approach will be the major features.

Officers and enlisted men of Company B, 926th Engineer Construction Battalion, at Tuskegee Institute, are taking two weeks training at Camp Rucker, Ala. They were joined by the Headquarters and Headquarters and Service Company from Opelika at Tuskegee. The 926th Engineer Construction Battalion is training with its parent unit, the 412th Engineer Brigade, which consists of units from Alabama, Mississippi, Georgia and Florida. The officers and enlisted men will receive refresher training in all phases of military instruction.

Lt. Bennie T. Lipman, Jr., is the commanding officer of Company B. The other officers are Lt. Theodore Jones, Jr., Lt. George Brooks, Jr., Lt. Pedro Pointer and Lt. Sim Bellamy, Jr. Just prior to leaving for training, Lt. Jones was promoted to first lieutenant.

The enlisted men receiving training are M-Sgt. Wilson H. Richburg, SFC Harvey J. Guinn, SFC Charlie W. Hayden, SFC Cecil R. Walker, Sgt. Fred D. Brown, Sgt. Robert L. Gardner, Sgt. Francisco C. Herrera, Jr., Sgt. Elmer Jackson, Cpl. Jesse S. Gullante, Cpl. Wilson Moore, Cpl. Grant Pickins, Jr., Pfc. Ceotis Barrow, Pfc. Henderson Freeman, Pfc. Edward Harrison, Jr., Pfc. Otis Smith, Pvt. Edgar M. Crawford, Pvt. Ira L. Foster, Pvt. David McNeil, Jr., and Pvt. Miles. Jr.

The steering committee and advisory board of the Tuskegee Community Organization met last Tuesday night at 7:30 p. m. at the Tuskegee Institute High School. Mrs. Helen T. Dibble served as chairman of the meeting.

The main purpose of the meeting was to reorganize and elect a chairman as the former chairman, Rev. Charles W. Kelly, has been incapacitated for some time and unable to serve. Mrs. Bettie Steele Turner, who is well known for her outstanding ability and achievements in civic work, especially in dealing with youth organization, was elected chairman. A. W. Walker was elected Vice-Chairman. Mrs. Clara E. Williams, secretary, and L. W. Driver, treasurer, were re-elected.

Mrs. Turner accepted the position of chairman with an expression of enthusiasm and willingness to serve in that capacity.

A special committee, composed of Mrs. Helen T. Dibble, George Edsell and A. W. Walker, was assigned to work with the new chairman in studying the suggestions previously offered by the planning committee and report their evaluation, modification and recommendations at the next meeting in September.

Members present were Miss Elizabeth Cobb, K. B. Young, John T. Bracken, Milton Hicks, R. E. Guinn, George Edsell, A. W. Walker, L. W. Driver, Mrs. Bettye Steele Turner, Mrs. Laura Buck McCray, Mrs. Clara E. Williams, Mrs. Helen T. Dibble and Mrs. Corrie P. Williams.

Dr. L. H. Foster Begins 1st Term As Tuskegee Head

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, Ala., Sept. 12—In his first regular term as president of the Tuskegee Institute for Negroes, Dr. L. H. Foster addressed the All-Institute Conference at its 73th gathering.

Dr. Foster stressed that the Institute's essential strength must come "not from striking changes, but through the continual building of a program of service."

Leading national educators participated in the conference, which began Friday. They included Dr. Flournoy Arthur Coles Jr., recently returned from Thailand as an economic officer with the Technical Economic Mission to that country.

Other speakers were Dr. Thomas R. Fisher, deputy director, educational and technical training staff of the Technical Co-operation Administration, Washington, D.C.; Miss Eleanor A. Eaton, director of the American Community Project, sponsored by Adult Education, New York University, and Ernest E. Neal, director, Rural Life Council.

The conference marked the beginning of the Institute's 73rd regular term.

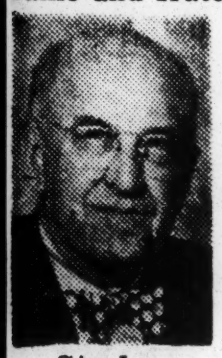
Tuskegee Marks Education Week

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, Ala. —The Tuskegee Civic Association will observe American Education Week at its regular monthly meeting Sunday, Nov. 8. C. O. Cobbin, president of the TCA, announced that the theme this year is "Good Schools Are Your Responsibility."

Will Rogers At Auburn And Tuskegee

By C. M. Stanley
Editor, The Alabama Journal

WILL ROGERS, the famous humorist and homespun philosopher, always made a hit wherever he appeared, but he probably never made a more lasting impression anywhere than he made upon Auburn students when he came and fraternized and bought "hot dogs" for them in 1929. P. O. Davis, director of the Extension Service at Auburn was one of the hosts when Rogers came as a guest of the Auburn Kiwanis Club and he has written for me a reminiscent account of a couple of days spent with Rogers at Auburn and Tuskegee:



Stanley

"MY DEAR MR. STANLEY: The Auburn Kiwanis Club is now in its 25th year. Our biggest project during that time was presenting the late Will Rogers in our second year, March 20, 1929.

"Mr. Rogers was in his prime and made a lasting impression upon Auburn. The Alumni Gymnasium was the only building in Auburn big enough for his audience which included Gov. and Mrs. Bibb Graves.

"The auditorium was full. The Kiwanis Club guaranteed him $1,200 plus a portion of the income above the guarantee. This raised his total to about $1,500.

"WILL came to Auburn about two days after performing in Florence. There he pulled some funny wisecracks about the late Tom Heflin, who was then on a delicate political spot. Tom sent him a hot telegram in which he referred to him as a 'propagandist running around over Alabama and propagandizing him.'

"Of course Will was merely having fun. He never had any 'cut' for anybody. His purpose was to make people laugh. He wired his apologies to Tom, and when he arrived in Auburn we had Tom's second telegram in which he accepted his apologies.

"Will read the telegram, grinned, and said: 'That's great. We'll go it again now. Me and Tom can't afford to fall out. We're in the same business.'

"STUDENTS at Auburn flocked around Will and he had a big time buying them hot dogs, sandwiches, and cold drinks after his performance which kept people laughing for a long time.

"He was in Auburn on a Saturday night. The next day Mrs. Davis and I took him and his secretary to Tuskegee Institute. We made the trip on a muddy road after a spring rain.

"We arrived at Tuskegee Institute in time to see the late President R. R. Moton, before the church service. All of us attended their church service, which nobody left after the benediction. Dr. Moton presented Mr. Rogers and he gave them much the same monologue as at Auburn the night before.

"THERE was one exceedingly funny incident which I have continued to enjoy. Dr. Moton told us in his home about a trip which he had just had around the world; and that the trip was presented to him by the board of trustees of Tuskegee Institute. He revealed high appreciation of the gift.

"Mr. Rogers in his program referred to the fact that Dr. Moton had just had a trip around the world as a gift. He declared that to be 'wonderful' and said: 'I know he deserved it.'

"To this he added: 'It reminds me of our pastor out at Beverly Hills. He's a good fellow and all of us love him, but when he gets to preaching he can't find a good place to stop. So we just made up money and sent him around the world.'

"Laughter was long and loud and Dr. Moton seemed to enjoy it fully as much as any other person.

"MR. ROGERS went from Tuskegee to Montgomery for an afternoon performance. Mr. Rogers is, of course, too well known for any comment by me. It was indeed a real and genuine pleasure to have that contact with him.

"In driving from Auburn to Tuskegee he spent considerable time reading the morning newspapers. As you know, he often said: 'All I know is what I see in the newspapers.'"

CHAIRMAN Hugh Comer of Avondale Mills who teaches one of the largest Sunday School classes in Alabama in Birmingham every Sunday morning is another man who enjoys telling a joke at his own expense.

Mr. Comer was once invited as a "lay preacher" to occupy the pulpit of a church at Pell City in St. Clair County and accepted. They seemed to like the sermon so well that the same church invited him back the following year.

On the second trip he explained to the congregation that he had only two sermons and couldn't remember which he had preached there the year before.

"I will read you the texts of both sermons," he said, "and you can tell me which you remember my using last year."

After he had read the two texts it developed that no one in the congregation could remember which text the speaker had used the previous year.

REFERRING to the recent death of Miss Margaret Booth who conducted a school for young women in Montgomery 39 years, George Mark Wood, an intimate friend of the family, took from his pocket a beautiful little pocket knife with white handle.

"On one of her trips to Europe," he said "Miss Booth brought this knife from Oberammergau where she had attended the Passion Plays as a gift for George Mark Jr., who was then only three years old. Of course a little boy that age couldn't be allowed to have such a sharp knife even though it was a beautiful souvenir from Oberammergau, so I put it in my own pocket. It has been carried there ever since, and the souvenir lettering long ago wore away from its white surface."

Frequently George Mark Wood Jr., who served through the recent war and is now in business with his father, asks when he is going to be old enough to be permitted to carry that knife.

INTERSTATE Commerce Commissioner J. Haden Alldredge is responsible for this bit of current history in Washington:

"The investigation craze in the national capital has given rise to a new philosophy: 'When in doubt, do right!'"

14n 1953

Tuskegee Donates Land For School

TUSKEGEE, Ala.—Tuskegee Institute, through the action of the Board of Trustees, has announced a grant of land, not to exceed 15 acres, to the state of Alabama for a new $385,000 high school.

The new structure will be located on a site adjoining the present Tuskegee Institute high school. The new school is made possible through a Federal appropriation granted to areas with a concentration of Federal employes.

The proximity of the Veterans Administration hospital, with its staff of nearly 1,500 civilian employees, was the condition which qualified this community for the Federal grant. The State of Alabama, in addition to the land area granted. will contribute approximately $50,000 through the Macon County School Board toward the new high school.

The present high school is located on Franklin road on a site deeded to the Macon County School Board by Tuskegee Institute, on Oct. 23, 1941. The old building, which has become far from adequate to care for the growing high school enrollment. will be used as a junior high school.

Another action of the Tuskegee Institute Board of Trustees during its Fall meeting, was to grant a long term lease of 100 acres of land near the Tuskegee Institute Lake to the Boy Scouts of America for a camping site for scouting.

Tuskegee Grants Land For State High School

TUSKEGEE—Tuskegee Institute, through the action of the board of trustees, announces a grant of land, not to exceed fifteen (15) acres, to the State of Alabama for a new $385,000 high school.

This new structure will be located on a site adjoining the present Tuskegee Institute High School. The new school is made possible through a federal appropriation granted to areas with a concentration of federal employees.

THE PROXIMITY of the Veterans Administration Hospital, with its staff of nearly 1500 civilian employees, was the condition which qualified this community for the federal grant. The State of Alabama, in addition to the land area granted, will contribute appromimately $50,000 through the Macon County School Board toward the new high school.

The present high school is located on Franklin road on a site deeded to the Macon County School Board by Tuskegee Institute, on Oct. 23, 1941. The old building, which has become far from adequate to care for the growing high school enrollment, will be used as a junior high school.

ANOTHER ACTION of the Tuskegee Institute Board of Trustee during its Fall meeting, was to grant a long term lease of 100 acres of land near the Tuskegee Institute Lake to the Boy Scouts of America for a camping site for scouting and other organizations approved by institute officials.

Tuskegee Institute has followed a policy of cooperation toward making a better community over the entire period of its existence. The 500 acre site of the Veterans Administration Hospital was deeded to the federal government by Tuskegee Institute for the sum of one dollar. The Vocational Education and Extension Service building sites represent similar cases where grants were made to federal and state governments.

'Skegee Seminar Hears Dr. McLean

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, Ala. — Dr. Franklin C. McLean, Professor of Psychology, University of Chicago, and Secretary-Treasurer, National Medical Fellowships, Inc., stated in a recent seminar on "Post Graduate Professional Education and Research," held at the Veterans Administration Hospital, Tuskegee, Alabama, that today opportunities are entirely adequate for persons of qualification who apply for advanced training. He emphasized that race is no longer a drawback.

This was the second annual seminar of this nature presented by the Dental Service of the Veterans Administration Hospital. Dr. Clifton O. Dummett, Chief, Dental Service, was in general charge of the seminar.

Following a speech of welcome by Dr. T. T. Tildon, Manager, VA Hospital, Dr. F. D. Patterson opened the seminar and served as presiding officer.

Other participants were: Doctor Emanuel Cheraskin, Associate Professor, Dental School, University of Alabama; Dr. Clarence Mason, Director of Research, George Washington Carver Foundation, Tuskegee Institute; and Mrs. Estelle M. Osborne, Assistant Professor, Nursing Education, New York University.

Dr. McLean has spent much time and study toward securing grants and fellowships for Negro Medical and Research students.

News Among The Colored People

BY REV. C. W. KELLY

The eighth annual Food Show, Nutrition Institute and Buyer's Conference will be held at Tuskegee Institute March 26-27-28. Leaders in the foods industry from many sections of the country have indicated plans for attending the three-day meeting.

Robert R. Moton, Jr., in general charge of the Food Show, is expecting the largest participation in the history of the organization. He is being assisted by William Driggins, director of the Department of Commercial Dietetics; Mrs. G. E. Munday, editor of Service Magazine, and members of the Booker T. Washington Culinary Association.

The Food Show is a project of the commercial dietetics program. It has done much to educate the public in better food habits and to induce higher standards in commercial food establishments.

Food shows are now being held in many sections of the country as a result of the pioneering efforts of the Tuskegee Institute Food Show.

As has been true in the past there will be 20 or more booths in the main exhibit section of the Student Center. Commercial food establishments and the several schools of the Institute will put up exhibit booths.

Sessions will begin Thursday, March 26, at 10 a. m. The annual meeting of the National Culinary Association will be held on the night of March 25.

Special features of the three-day meeting will be commercial exhibits, demonstrations and a workshop in nutrition directed by Dr. Cecile Hoover Edwards and Dean Mayme Powell, of the School of Home Economics.

From an initial grant of $55,000 from R. W. Woodruff, chairman of the board of the Coca-Cola Company and a trustee of Tuskegee Institute, work will soon begin on a new food processing and storage laboratory at Tuskegee Institute, Dr. F. D. Patterson announced this week.

In discussing details of the proposed project, Dean L. A. Potts, of the School of Agriculture, said that the laboratory will serve principally for teaching and research purposes. Graduates in agriculture, home economics, and the food service areas are being called upon more and more to assist in preparation, packaging, freezing and storage of foods.

The new unit will not only be opened for the training of students, but will offer in-service training for professional workers and render services to farm families.

Dean Potts stated that the principal objective is to make available more adequate food processing services for more people. It is planned that cold storage and freezer-locker service will be offered to local citizens.

Additional advantages listed include services to the food production units of the farm and animal science divisions of the School of Agriculture. These units can develop long range planning schedules of production as a result of the new plant.

It is expected that after the food processing and storage laboratory has become established it will become a part of Student Industries at Tuskegee Institute, providing learning experiences and producing income to allow more students to earn their school expenses.

In commenting upon Mr. Woodruff's gift, Dr. Patterson stated that his being a leading Southern industrialist is an important factor to be considered. He said, "It is a wholesome sign of the new era of progress in the South.

Members of the Tuskege Institute class of 1933 will hold their reunion on the campus early in April. Leaders of the class,located in various parts of the country, have already circulated letters among their classmates to stimulate interest in the reunion. All members are urged to return to Tuskegee for the activities, which will be colorful and interesting.

Plans are being made for the entertainment of the full membership of the clas of 1933 by Robert R. Hall, Miss Irene B. Burroughs, Mrs. Dorinda K. Fair, Lee .A Jones and William Wiley, of the resident committee.

Fisk, Clark, 'Skegee, K. C. Choirs on Air

NEW YORK—The weekly series of programs of outstanding college choirs, presented by the American Broadcasting Company in cooperation with the United Negro College Fund, will feature the choral groups of Clark College and Knoxville College for the last two weeks in March and Fisk University and Tuskegee Institute for the first two weeks in April.

The schedule of the ABC broadcasts, which emanate from New York each Sunday over Station WABC, formerly WJZ, 10:30-11 A. M., and are heard over 170 stations in the United States and Canada, is as follows: Clark College, Atlanta, Ga., March 22; Knoxville College, Knoxville, Tenn., March 29; Fisk University, April 5, and Tuskegee Institute, Tuskegee, Ala., April 12.

14n 1953

AERIAL VIEW OF TUSKEGEE CAMPUS—A portion of the aerial photograph. The 500-acre campus contains 157 major buildings. The student body of nearly 1,900 comes from 33 states and seven foreign countries.

Tuskegee Follows Program Of Teaching and Research

By CHARLES E. TROUT
Director, Public Relations

TUSKEGEE INST., Ala. — Tuskegee Institute, like many similar institutions of higher learning, grew from an humble beginning. It differs with some of these institutions, not merely in its material development, but in having followed a well conceived and carefully executed plan.

Through three administrations, this plan of development has remained unbroken. It has developed a program of instruction based upon the needs reflected in conditions as they existed in the larger community. Thus grew up the institution whose pattern and development people from all over the world have come to study.

* * *

INSTRUCTION on the undergraduate level is offered in agriculture, commercial dietetics, education, engineering, home economics, mechanical industries, nursing, physical education, and veterinary medicine.

Graduate courses are offered in agriculture, home economics, and education. Summer school offers an opportunity for in-service teachers to work toward advanced degrees. Two sessions of five weeks each, beginning June 8 and July 13, make it possible to earn a full quarter's credit.

Other activities which enhance one's training and provide wholesome recreation and out of class activities include: senior units in Infantry and Air Force ROTC; the Band, Orchestra, and Choir; The Little Theater, honor societies, fraternities and sororities, debating groups, social clubs, student publications and athletics, including swimming, basketball, football, and track.

CHURCH AND vesper services afford religious inspiration and instruction for all students. The Young Men's and Young Women's Christian Association are active on the campus.

This program of complete and wholesome college life is carried on in quite an unusually beautiful setting. The campus of nearly 500 acres contains a total of 157 major buildings. There are 225 regularly employed faculty members and a staff of 187.

The student body of nearly 1900 comes from 33 states and seven foreign countries.

* * *

BECAUSE OF its pioneering work in the several areas which have opened new opportunities for thousands of people throughout the country and many sections of the world, Tuskegee Institute is host to many important conferences and seminars throughout the year.

It continues to grow, particularly in the quality of services it offers. As the demands of society upon the individual have increased, so has the institution sought to meet these demands.

In the latter years, Tuskegee Institute has become especially interested in helping youth of excellent ability who are without funds to secure an education. This we have attempted through scholarships and work-study opportunities.

* * *

OUR PROGRAM at Tuskegee Institute has evolved through the patient process of trying to render the most service to the most people. Because of present demands for trained leadership, we are moving into the area of professional and technical training.

"WORLD PEACE" WINS—

Tuskegee Herald

Prizes Listed In Parade

Tuskegee, Ala.

The float "World Peace," entered by the School of Home Economics at Tuskegee Institute, won first prize in tre annual Homecoming Day parade last Saturday. One of the largest and most elaborate in the procession, the winning float featured a large white "dove of peace" and a rainbow signifying a promise of a better world. June 11-18-52

Second place was won by the Department of Commercial Dietetics for its float "C. D. Goes to Dinner," while third prize went to the John A. Andrew Hospital for its float "Rehabilitation Techniques." P. 1

Led by the crack Institute band, the parade passed between massed crowds from the campus through downtown streets. Military organizations on the campus were well represented, as were Boy Scouts, Cub Scouts, Girl Scouts, Brownies, public schools and each class at the Institute.

Sororities and fraternities represented were Alpha Kappa Alpha, Alpha Phi Alpha, Delta Sigma Theta, Kappa Alpha Psi, Omega Psi and Zeta Phi Geta.

Other groups in the line of march were the Agricultural Forum, Cibues Club, Industrial Arts Club, Physical Education Club, Associated Women Students, United Men's Congress, Arnold Air Society, Little Theatre, School of Engineering, School of Mechanical Industries and the School of Music.

Tuskegee Singers To Be At Day Street Baptist

Montgomery Advertiser

The Day Street Baptist Church of which the Rev. M. C. Cleveland is pastor will present the World Famous Tuskegee Singers in one of their noted concerts Tuesday night, July 28, at 8. An invitation is extended to all.

Montgomery, Ala.

Tickets are available from most of the members of the church. A capacity house is expected and only as comfortable listening capacity will be sold. So get your tickets in advance to assure your hearing these wonderful singers.

July 24-28-52

Special Play Here Monday

advertiser

Montgomery, Ala.

Through the courtesy of the Little Theater of Tuskegee Institute, there will be a presentation of "My Name Is Legion" in Tullibody Auditorium of Alabama State College at 11 a.m. Monday. A dramatization of the autobiography of Clifford W Beers the play has significant interpretations in the area of mental hgyien but is not so technical that the lay public will not enjoy and appreciate it.

July 7-18-52

P. 8

The June 22 issue of Life magazine gives a vivid and moving review of the book and the play. Ten members are in the cast under the direction of Saunders Walker, professor of dramatics at the Institute and director of the Little Theater.

Organ music for the background will be played by Mrs. Weeks also of the Institute. In the cast there are three school principals who are enrolled in the Tuskegee Institute Workshop.

The play has been given to capacity audiences at the Institute, at the Greenwood Baptist Church at Tuskegee and at other churches of the community and is acclaimed as an excellent job in the area of dramatics.

The public is cordially invited to share the play. There is no admission.

The Tuskegee Institute community canning plant had its first individual patron last Thursday when Mrs. R. L. Mindingall opened the season with 24 quarts of cream style corn and 39 pints of a variety of jellies. The produce was of good quality in spite of the drought that has destroyed many of the gardens and truck patches of Macon County.

Tuskegee News Thurs. 7-31-52

Mrs. Mindingall has been one of the leading patrons of the plant since it opened in 1949. She said she has planned to do much of her canning in the plant again this season and that she probably will increase the variety of products canned.

Tuskegee, Ala.

The plant is now open each Tuesday and Thursday. Persons who do not care to pay cash for canning may bring their produce and can on shares.

P. 8

Patrons are urged to get their produce to the plant before 1 p. m. each day and are expected to supply their own seasonings such as salt, sugar, spices, etc.

Visiting Tuskegee Institute this week is O. Rudolph Aggrey, an employee of the United States Department of State and son of the late Dr. J. E. K. Aggrey, famous educational leader in Africa.

Tuskegee, Ala.

Young Aggrey returned to this country on May 30 after spending two years as vice-consul, information officer at the American Consulate General, in Lagos, Nigeria. Despite the prominent role played by his father in the African continent, this was the first time he had been to Africa.

P. 8

His father came to America from Gold Coast, West Africa, to attend Livingstone College, at Salisbury, N. C. He married in this Country and remained for a long period furthering his education at Columbia University and working with the Phelps-Stokes Fund.

Thurs. 7-3-52

It was shrotly after his return to Africa on a special educational commission for the Phelps-Stokes Fund that Aggrey served as co-founder of Achimota College, in Gold Coast, West Africa. This college was founded on the pattern of Hampton and Tuskegee where Dr. Aggrey and the governor of the Gold Coast spent several weeks of observation before establishing the college.

Mr. Aggrey will go to France after a short vacatin in Salisbury. He will be attached to the United States Information Administration in Paris.

He is a graduate of Hampton Institute and Syracuse University, in New York.

14n 1953

News Among The Colored People

Tuskegee News

BY REV. C. W. KELLY

Tuskegee, Ala.

The Young Women's Christian Association for the past several weeks has been affording opportunity for discussion of a very popular subject, "Courtship, marriage and divorce", in meeting of the Bible Study Group. On Thursday evening, Jan. 29, seventeen members of the Bible Study Group enjoyed the discussion of "Divorce" from the Biblical point of view by Mr. Robert Jefferson, sophomore, School of Education, and from the sociological point of view by Mrs. Elva J. Howell, instructor in geography and sociology.

On Thursday night, February 5th, the Bible Study Group participated in a question-answer session on "Courtship, Marriage and Divorce." The consultant on this occasion was Dr. Ira L. Ferguson associate professor of Education at the Institute.

On February 7-8, Miss Doris Wilson, national student YWCA secretary, was on the campus. She was interested in getting to participate in the Summer projects sponsored by the National Student YMCA and YWCA. She was guest speaker at the monthly meeting of the YWCA and addressed her audience on a very broad and interesting subject, "The YWCA." At this meeting, also, Mr. Frank J. Toland, assistant professor of history, TI, spoke on "The Explosion of Some Myths and Misapprehensions Respecting the Negro."

The YWCA and YMCA joined with the other student Christian associations in cooperating with the Sunday School's observance of a Universal Day of Prayer for students on the morning of Sunday, February 15th, in the Trade "A" Auditorium. At this meeting the guest speaker was Mr. Ernest Neal, director of the Rural Life Council.

Final plans for the "Jamboree", a dance festival with floor show to be held at the Propellor Club Saturday evening ,were completed at a meeting of Beta Xi Omega Chapter of Alpha Kappa Alpha Sorority.

Mrs. Georgia Davis and Mrs. Margaret Cabiness, chairman and co-chairman of the affair, announced a stage presentation scheduled for midnight featuring specialty dances, a comedy team, vocalists, a one-man band and a novelty guitar number. Claude Shannon, of Montgomery, will provide the dance music.

Hostesses for the meeting which was held in Dorothy Hall lobby, were Mesdames Yolanda Robinson, Clarice King, Gertrude Reid, Dorothy Robinson, Kathleen Scott and Miss Juanita Patrick.

At the conclusion of the business sesison open-faced sandwiches, spiced peaches and punch were served by the hostesses in the beautifully appointed main dining room of Dorothy Hall.

In the spirit of Brotherhood Week, the junior class of Greenwood Baptist Church Sunday School invited the children of the fourth grade of Washington Public School to be their guests at the Sunday School session last Sunday morning. Mrs. Hattie Flennoy and Mrs. Josephine Walton, both of the staff of Washington Public School, accompanied the little visitors.

The Sunday School lesson "How Jesus Answered Questions" was splendidly reviewed by Mrs. Walton who has an excellent background in religious training. At the close of the session Mrs. Walton received many compliments from children and adults alike for her clear and forceful exposition of the lesson.

Both the visiting chidren and their little hosts expressed themselves as being delighted with their new-found friends from the other side of town and promised to exchange personal visits at an early date. Mrs. Flennoy and Mrs. Walton were highly pleased with this fine start toward friendly relations between the two groups of children.

An enthusiastic audience warmly applauded "The Late Christopher Bean", renowned comedy by Sidney Howard, presented by the Tuskegee Institute Little Theatre in their sixteenth season under the direction of Mr. Saunders E. Walker, head cf the English Deparment. Mr. Singer A. Buchanon served as associate director.

Mr. Dwight Burgess, as Dr. Haggett, turned in an excellent performance. His interpretation of the simple New England doctor whose private world is suddenly turned upside down by his family's frantic efforts to seize for themselves a fortune in oil paintings was convincing and natural.

The part of Abby, the main female character was played by Miss Carole Patterson with great charm and the determination of a young woman who knew what she wanted.

An excellent performance also was given by Mrs. Sara Jean Mosely in the role of Mrs. Haggett, the haggling mother who wanted the best for her daughters.

Miss Eula Patrick as the kittenish old-maid, Ada Haggett, provided most of the comedy element with her mirth-provoking simpers and smirks.

Among the supporting characters Charles Powell as the unscrupulous dealer, Tallant, gave a splendid performance which was an excellent foil for the quiet dignity of the art critic played by Benjamin Haynes.

Miss Josephine Hatcher was charming as the sweet Susan of the family and was ably seconded by DeVaughn Belton as her fiance.

Mr. Louis Matamorse as Rosen acquitted himself creditably of a difficult character part which required a sustained accent somewhere between Yiddish and New Yorkese.

The stage setting was admirably executed reflecting both the New England pride of a doctor's wife who must "keep up appearances" and the easy going temperament of the doctor himself who was holding office hours temporarily in the dining room. The Victorian clock on the mantlepiece, an authentic New England rocker and the warm contrast of honey maple furniture against the stark brown walls created an unmistakable New England atmosphere.

The very able production staff included bookholder, Ocie Marsh; lighting, Hugh F. Barrington and James N. Harris; and properties, Oscar Butler.

A charming touch was added to the performance by the sorors of the undergraduate chapters of Alpha Kappa Alpha, Delta Sigma Theta and Zeta Phi Beta Sororities who, attired in lovely evening frocks, formed a glittering receiving line at each entrance door.

During intermission the guests refreshed themselves with punch served at a beautifully decorated table and chatted about the play.

Mesdames E. L. Patterson, I. K. Campfield, T. M. Campbell and D. Fair, were presented orchids by the Little Theatre in token of the appreciation felt for permitting their daughters to star in various productions of "The Late Christopher Bean."

At the conclusion of a veritable ovation Mrs. Sara Jean Mosely was presented a large basket of beautifully arranged flowers in appreciation for her willingness to appear as guest artist "at a time when the casting of Mrs. Haggett was very difficult."

Camilla Williams, leading soprano for the New York City Opera Company, will appear in recital at Tuskegee Institute at 5:30 p. m. Sunday under auspices of the Entertainment Course of the Institute.

Miss Williams was born in Danville, Va., and is a graduate of Virginia State College, whose Alumni Association granted her a scholarship which she used to study under Mme. Marian Szekely-Freschl. In less than a year with her teacher, she won the annual Marian Anderson Award. In 1944, she again emerged as a winner when she participated in the Philadelphia Orchestra Youth Concert Auditions.

Early in 1946 she was offered the coveted role of "Butterfly" by Lazzlo Halasz, music director of the New York City Opera Company. One of her most ardent champions in this endeavor was famed Geraldine Farrar, the most famous "Butterfly" of her timeTradition was broken and news made when, in May, 1946, kimona-clad Camilla Williams fluttered out and created a new Cio-Cio-San and was acclaimed by famous vocalists and musicians in general and the leading publications.

Since then, the soprano has appeared regularly with the New York City Opera, both at home and on tour. She soon added other roles to her repertoire, such as "Nedda" in "Pagliacci" "Mimi" in "La Boheme" and the role of "Aida."

Tuskegee Institute Holds Festival Of Memories In Honor Of Visiting Faculty And Student Body

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, Ala. July 29—A program presented in honor of the visiting faculty and the students enrolled in the summer session of 1953, the Festival of Memories at Tuskegee Institute on Logan Hall lawn, on Thursday evening, July 23, with more than 1,100 people in attendance, will be unforgotten for many reasons:

For the ethereal way the audience was projected into the future, to the year 1980, from which they were supposed to have been looking back upon what was actually happening in the seventh month of 1953. This particular transplanting was due to the very clever use of words by the festival chairman, Saunders E. Walker, Delores E. Jones, Singer A. Buchanan and Robert A. Smithey who were narrators during the evenings entertainment.

For such touching moments as the point in the program when Dr. I. A. Derbigny, vice president of the Institute, and his lovely daughter, Mary Carolyn, patrons of the festival stood when requested by the chairman and remained on their feet while the Institute choir wafted into the air the sweet tune, "Memories."

Artistic Stage Setting

For the artistic stage setting which was ingeniously bordered with a wide semi-circle of grounded, lighted candles about 10 inches high and alternated with sprigs of pink crape myrtle.

For Bervick Simeon's rendition of the song, "I Believe," in a naturally enchanting voice.

For the magnificent revelation of an extraordinary bass voice when the popular teen-ager and youth leader, Theodore Williams sang "Without A Song."

For the elegant trombone solo and baritone solo contributed by the Alabama State College representatives who were chosen by Dr. Fred Hall, head of the music department of that college.

Memories of the Institute would just not be memories without Capt. William Wiley's incomparable musical aggregation, the Tuskegee male singers, who added to their history of charming performances their festival interpretation of "Smoke Gets in Your Eyes," and "Lassie O' Mine." They were also featured when the Institute choir sang "Memories." The male singers included Capt. Wiley, Dwight Burgess, James Wallace and Willie Paul.

Delta Trio Sings

A combination of women's voices which is known as "The Delta Trio" was heard as they sang, for memory's sake, "The St. Louis Blues." This group is composed of three popular senior soloists, Mrs. Juette Neal, soprano, Mrs. Ruth Ballard, contralto, and Mrs. Inez Pitts, soprano.

"Garmena," as sung by Mrs. Clara E. Williams, well known community worker who just this year made her debut in yet another field as a soprano songstress, was an inspiring, melodious rendition.

The jocund V. A. Ensemble made things interesting with their fascinating, enlivening rhythm, with J. J. Johnson playing the saxophone in a bewitching manner. Others in this group were James T. Williams, Horace Reeves, Willie Reed, Betty Ann Johnson and Annie K. Kelly. They featured "Someone to Watch Ovxer Me," "Moulin Rouge," "I Believe," and "Red Top."

Dainty dancers, prettily costumed, bearing the name "Gibsonian Dance Troupe," presented four interpretive dances. "The Doll Dance," and "Dance of the Autumn Leaves" was performed by Barbara Jean Dunn, Mabel Hill, Jeannie Pitts, Frances McQueen, Enid Williams, Rebecca Odom, Patricia Byrd and Judy Byrd. "The Dance of the Rosettes" was done in a flowery graceful manner by birls in cherry-red ballet costumes. They were Annette Crouse, Florence Steele, Michele Murray, Cookie Ross, Carol Ann Munday, Louise Harper, Clintonna Robinson and Dyann Robinson.

Children's Dances

Dyann and Clintonna presented the "Dance of the Sails" in a manner which has placed these little sisters among the favored Tuskegee entertainers. All of these children are members of the new dancing classes which are being instructed by Mrs. Jessie K. Gibson.

A group of comely, harmonious dancers of the college level interpreted "A Ritual of Death" in such an effective manner to send chills down the spine at the right times, and they did generally hold the audience spellbound. Superb as "Death," lovely Nina Cooper stalked and overcame her victim, supple, exquisite Barbara Williams, despite the protective dancing of masterful, impressive Frank Johnson. Picturesque Letitia Smith and Juanita Watson set the mood for this dance.

The program was further lent variety when exciting drama appeared as Carolyn Sprague, Howard University co-ed, taking the part of the daughter, and Johnnie Lockette, graduate in drama from Drake University, in the role of the mother, very competently portrayed these characters in a playlet which was entitled "Time and the Conways," and which divulged a misunderstanding between these relatives over the inevitable question of money.

Dramatist Performs

The accomplished dramatist, Singer A. Buchanan, gave a profound performance of a scene from the celebrated play, "Death Takes A Holiday."

The chairman of the festival, Walker gave credit to Buchanan and Miss Delores E. Jones, both of the English department of the Institute, in whose minds, Walker said, originated the ideas for the Festival of Memories and who were editors of the script.

Walker, who is the exemplary head of the English department, acting director of the Division of General Studies, and director of the Little Theatre at the Institute, told the festival attendees that the entire program was given in honor of the remarkably fine body of summer school students which numbers in its ranks 50 principals of schools who are engaged in activities of the principals' workshop at the Institute.

Narrators for the festival and all other participants have been warmly commended together with Walker, chairman, for making this outing possible.

Festival Staff Members

Other members of the festival staff were: James T. Williams of the V.A. Hospital, festival associate; Mrs. Lexine Weeks, music consultant; Mrs. Alberta Simms and Mrs. Ethel Hardy Smith, music associates; Aubrey Paige, Saunders E. Walker and Daniel Harrell, in charge of effect lighting; James L. Hendon, in charge of general lighting; James N. Harris, in charge of amplification; Singer A. Buchanan, drama consultant; Jessie N. Gibson and Mildred Chenier, dance consultants, and E. J. Bass and G. N. Ivy were in charge of refreshments which consisted of ice cold watermelon, served the audience after the program was concluded. Charles E. Trout was in charge of publicity.

The chairman, Walker, in expressing his appreciation for the fine co-operation given the staff of the Festival of Memories in carrying out plans for the program, stated that "A festival that draws upon local participants may prove far-reaching in encouraging the talented segment of a communitj; and, incidentally, festivals may be planned and executed upon a minimum outlay of expense." "They do require, however, interest, patience and teamwork." advised Walker.

14n 1953

Tuskegee Aim Is For More Professionals

President Explains $1 Million Program

Tuskegee Institute is undergoing a $1,000,000 expansion program to keep pace with a growing demand for highly-trained Negroes, Tuskegee President Dr. L. H. Foster said here yesterday.

New engineering and dormitory buildings are under construction and the curriculum is being expanded, he said.

"It has always been the aim of Tuskegee to serve the needs of the state and the country," he said.

"Our expansion is, in that respect, a reflection of the growing need for Negro professionals and technically trained persons."

The engineering building, he said, will cost approximately $750,000 and will house classrooms for the teaching of civil and mechanical engineering.

Electronics Taught Now

The only engineering course at present, he said, is in electronics.

In addition to the new courses in engineering, courses in food processing, nutrition and dietetics will be added, Dr. Foster said.

The new dormitory will enable the school to enroll several hundred more resident students than the approximately 2000 normally enrolled.

The dormitory will be completed at a cost of approximately $150,000, Dr. Foster said.

A portion of the building funds are being furnished by the United Negro College Fund.

Nurses Training, Too

Tuskegee's curriculum now offers training in the trades, agriculture, veterinary medicine and nursing, plus the customary academic courses.

The nursing program is the only one in the state that allows Negro women to take the state nursing examination and become registered nurses.

One of the more popular programs at Tuskegee, Dr. Foster said, is a plan which was set up to help students finance their education.

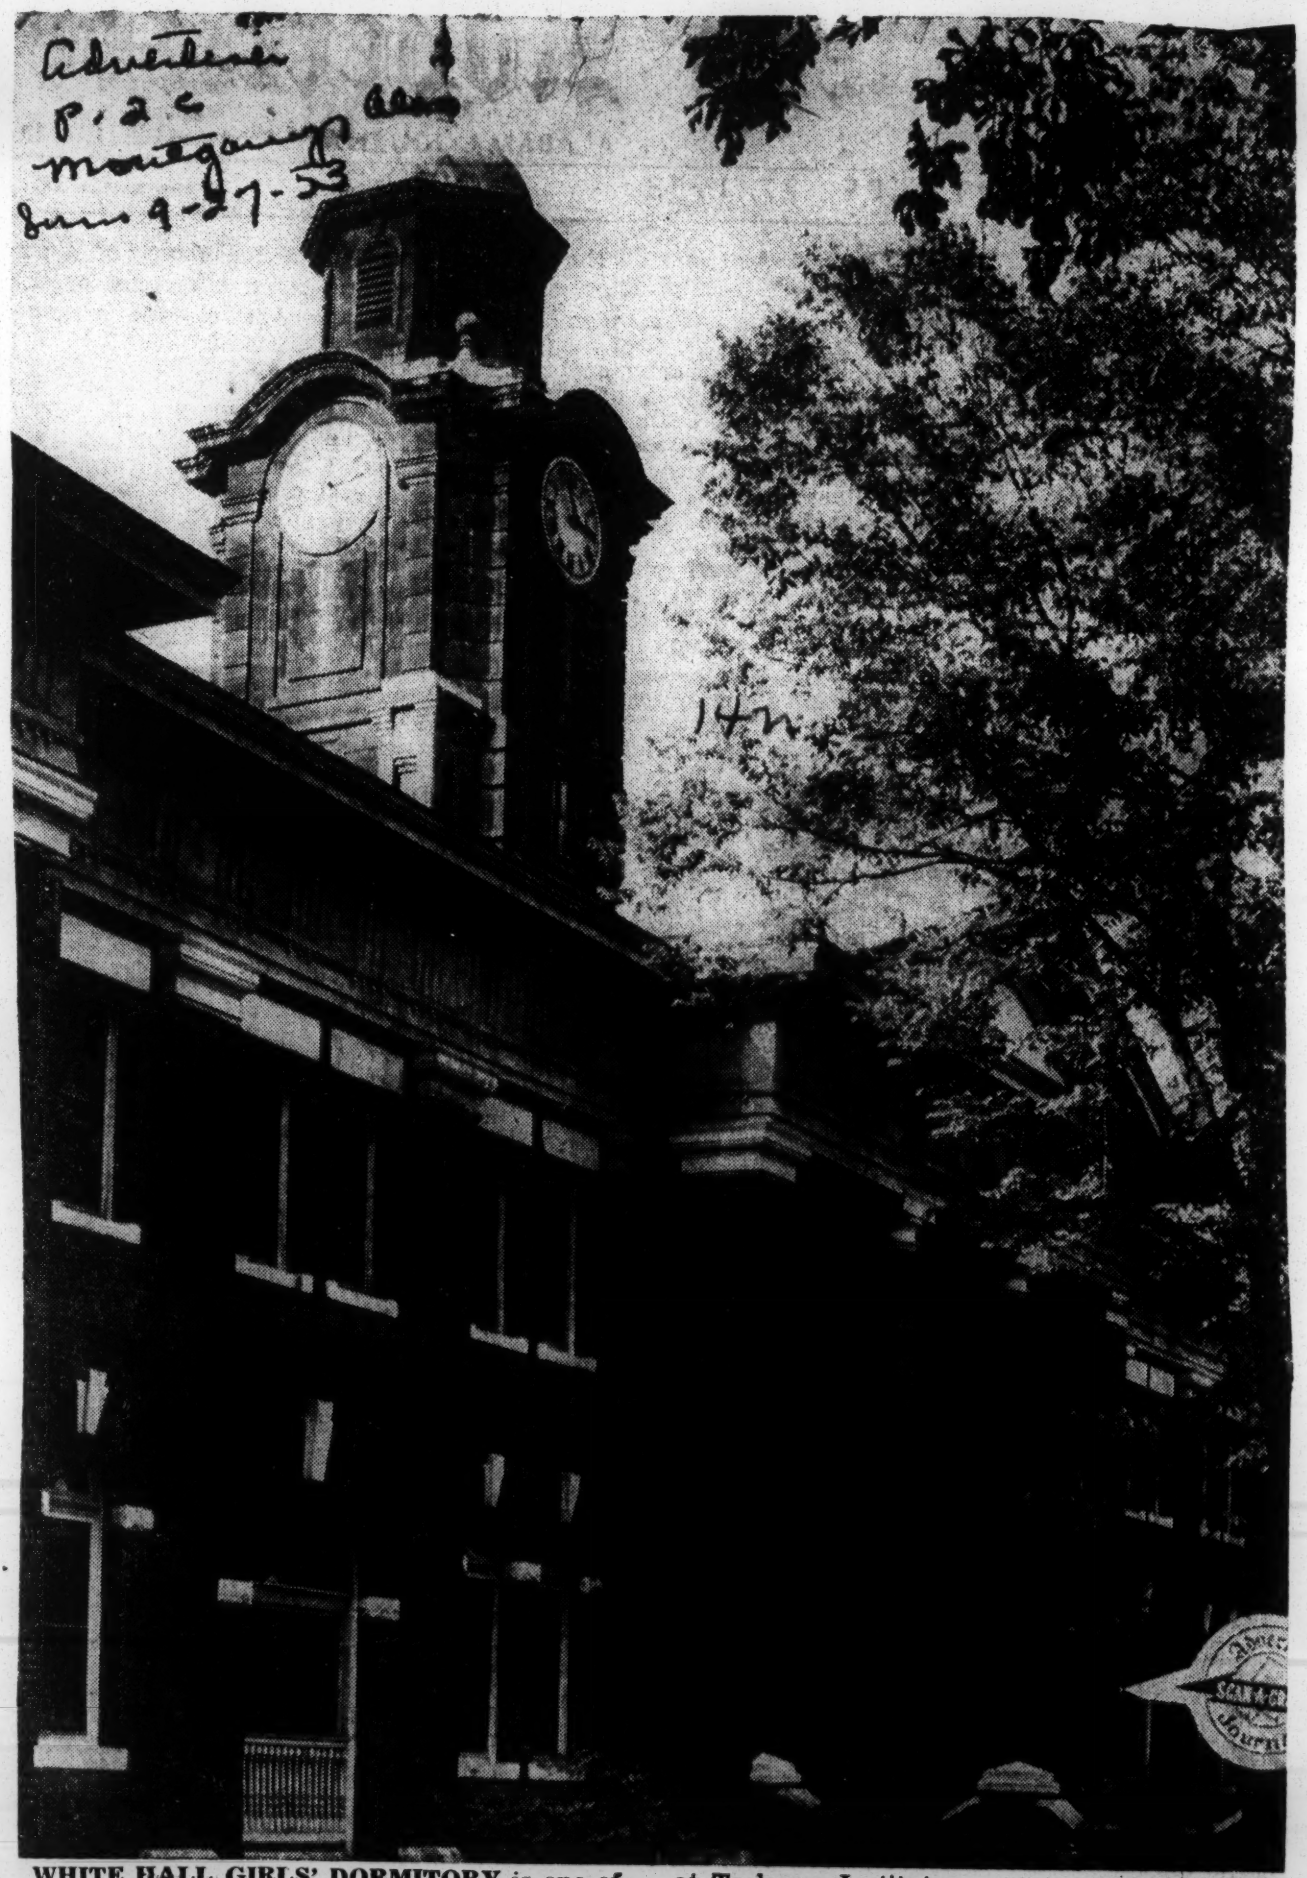
To be eligible for the program, a student must have an exceptional high school record.

The student pays $150 at the beginning and then works at jobs on the campus and in surrounding trades places, putting in approximately four hours at the job each day.

"They get a four-year college education in five years and also learn a trade while doing so," Dr. Foster explained.

Another popular plan, he said, is the co-operative plan, wherein the student studies for three months and then spends three months working in the trade or occupation being studied.

TUSKEGEE HEAD—Dr. L. H. Foster, president of Tuskegee Institute, told here yesterday of the growing demand for Negro professionals.



WHITE HALL GIRLS' DORMITORY is one of the many beautiful buildings on the campus at Tuskegee Institute.

Booker T. Washington Creed Is Continued

Tuskegee Grew Great Under Founder's Idea

Booker Washington Creed Is Basis For Institute's Service

By DR. L. H. FOSTER
President, Tuskegee Institute

Tuskegee Institute was founded by legislative act of the State of Alabame in 1881 as a result of the efforts of Lewis Adams, an ex-slave, and George W. Campbell, a former slave holder.

Under the wise and dynamic leadership of Booker T. Washington, its founder and first principal, it almost immediately outgrew the $2,000 annual state appropriation and by 1893 an independent board of trustees was approved and Tuskeege Institute became a private institution as it is today.

The Institute offers some programs under state and regional contracts, but most of the work is independently financed.

Based on Creed

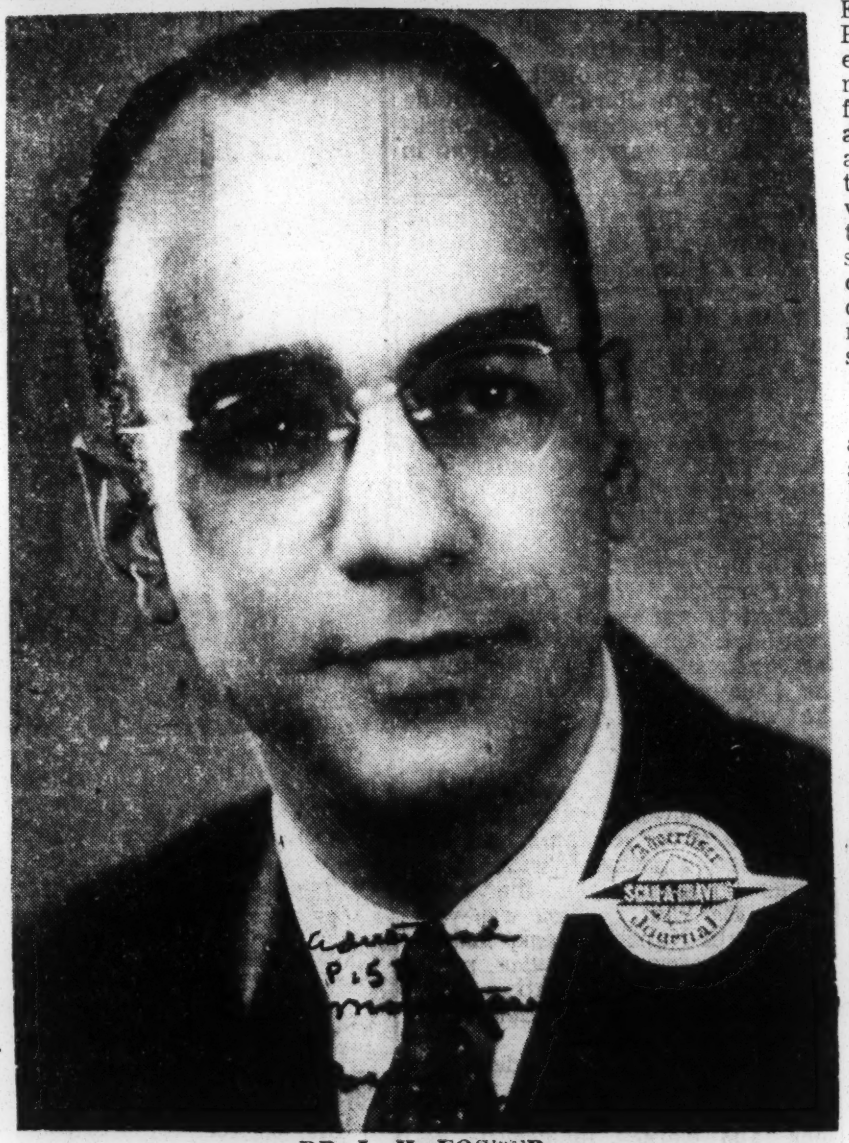
The program at Tuskeege is built around the philosophy:

1. We believe in the dignity of labor.
2. We believe in doing what we do well.
3. We believe in the power of education.
4. We believe in the life of service.

Tuskegee Institute's educational program is an effort to implement this creed through the preparation of persons who are thoroughly competent in some vocation or profession, sincerely dedicated to a life of service, and so trained that they are effective as citizens and persons.

Seeks Better Ways

From the beginning, Tuskegee Institute has sought to discover newer and better ways of doing things which must be done anyway. Dr. Carver's life was devoted to this purpose. Better ways to grow animals and plants and conserve the soil. better ways to promote health and conserve human resources, better ways to develop new and useful products from natural resources; better ways to build homes and churches from materials all around us, better ways to furnish and care for these homes and to rear the children within them; better ways to teach and learn constitute our chief endeavor.



DR. L. H. FOSTER
Tuskegee's New President

As a result of urgent demands, there grew up at Tuskegee Institute several research institutes such as the Carver Foundation and the Rural Housing Projects. Complementing these are: The Department of Records and Research, which is concerned with the facts of Negro life and history and publishes the Negro Year Book, and the Rural Life Council which gives major attention to the problems and conditions of rural life.

Elevates Levels

As more adequate opportunities for training have become available otherwise, Tuskegee Institute has constantly elevated its levels of operation, thus reflecting its dedication to needs and its independence from predetermined levels of operation.

Tuskegee Institute's methods are direct and practical. Theory is covered thoroughly in class, Laboratory and shop experiences provide additional avenues for understanding, but the experience of the Institute has shown abundantly that the most valid way to learn after some training is on an actual job.

Tuskegee Institute seeks to provide opportunity for capable youth who are unable to pay their way. In addition to the usual forms of scholarship and work aid, the Institute has developed a Five - Year - Work - Scholarship Plan for the most needy. At present, some 325 students are enrolled under this plan. They work full time for two years and carry a half schedule of studies (usually at night). Then for three years they either alternate or combine work and study so as to complete their college courses. With some scholarship aid from the Institude, only a bare minimum of financial support from parents is needed. This plan is open only to students of exceptional promise.

Graduates In Demand

Tuskegee Institute graduates are in constant demand. A substantial number remain in Alabama to serve the citizens of this state; many are called to other parts of the country or to work in foreign lands.

Tuskegee Institute looks toward a future of service. This is a timetested goal for us—an objective of real substance. It challenges us to be continually attuned to the essential needs of those we serve. Steadfast in the principles of our Founder, energetic and imaginative in operating our daily programs, wise in our assessments of possible future developments; all of these are guideposts Tuskegee Institute continually strives to follow. This is a program which gives us strength and encouragements as we look toward our future of service.

Tuskegee President Makes Appointments

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, Ala.—In a move to fill certain key administrative positions left vacant by promotions and other causes, Dr. L. H. Foster, newly elected president of Tuskegee Institute, made known Friday several important appointments.

Succeeding him in his former position as business manager will be Harold K. Logan, who, since 1950, has served as purchasing agent for the Institute.

James W. Bryant was appointed, in addition to his duties as resident auditor, to serve as acting secretary to the Tuskegee Institute Board of Trustees. This position was formerly held by Robert R. Moton, Jr., assistant to the president, who resigned on June 1st to enter private business in Atlanta, Ga.

Appointed to fill the position of purchasing agent was John A. Fernandes, former manager of the Institute Book Store.

In these three key positions the president has placed men with who mhe has been closely associated over a period of years and in whom he has been closely associated

The 41-year old newly appointed business manager was born in Denver, Col. He is the foster son of the late Warren Logan who served as treasurer of Tuskegee Institute under Dr. Washington's and Dr. Moton's administrations.

He attended high school at Tuskegee Institute, holds an A. B. degree from Talladega College and the Master of Business Administration degree from New York University. He has been continuously employed by the Institute since returning from overseas Army duty in 1946. He is married and has two children, a son and a daughter.

James W. Bryant, who becomes secretary to the Board of Trustees is 37 and was born in Richland Ga. He holds a Bachelor of Science degree in Business Administration from Tuskegee Institute (1938) and the Master of Business Administration degree from the University of Pennsylvania. His first assignment after finishing college was application and enrollment clerk at Tuskegee Institute. He held several positions of responsibility elsewhere before returning to the Business Office of Tuskegee Institute where he has been for seven years. He and his wife, who is also an alumnus of Tuskgee Institute, have two children.

Tuskegee Fills 3 Key Posts

Logan, Fernandes, Bryant Appointed

TUSKEGEE, Ala.—In a move to fill key administrative positions left vacant by promotions and other causes, Dr. L. H. Foster, newly elected president of Tuskegee Institute, announced this week several important appointments.

Succeeding him in his former position as business manager will be Harold K. Logan. who, since 1950, has served as purchasing agent for the institute.

James W. Bryant was appointed, in addition to his duties as resident auditor, to serve as acting secretary to the Tuskegee board of trustees. This position was formerly held by Robert R. Moton Jr., assistant to the president, who resigned on June 1 to enter private business in Atlanta, Ga.

Fernandes Named

Appointed to fill the position of purchasing agent was John A. Fernandes, former manager of the institute book store.

In these three key positions the president has placed men with whom he has been closely associated over a period of years and in whom he places great confidence.

The 41-year-old newly appointed business manager, Mr. Logan, was born in Denver, Colo. He is the foster son of the late Warren Logan who served as treasurer of Tuskegee Institute under Dr. Washington's and Dr. Moton's administrations.

He attended high school at Tuskegee ,holds an A.B. degree from Talladega College and the master of business administration degree from New York University. He has been continuously employed by the institute since returning from overseas Army duty in 1946. He is married and has two children, a son and a daughter.

Both In Thirties

Mr. Bryant, new secretary to the board of trustees, is 37 and was born in Richland, Ga. He holds a bachelor of science degree in business administration from Tuskegee (1938), and the master of business administration degree from the University of Pennsylvania. He and his wife, who is also an alumnus of Tuskegee, have two children.

Mr. Fernandes, new purchasing agent, is 34, and was born in Massachusetts. He attended the Massachusetts State college at Amherst. He has a wife and three children.

Changes Made In Institute Staff By New President

In his first move to fill important administrative positions left vacant by promotions and other causes, Dr. Luther H. Foster, president of Tuskegee Institute, Tuesday morning announced several important appointments.

Suceeding him in his former position as business manager will be Harold K. Logan. Logan, who grew up in this community, was promoted from the position of purchasing agent, which he has held for the past two years.

James W. Bryant was appointed, in addition to his duties as resident auditor, to serve as acting secretary to the Tuskegee Institute board of trustees. This was a posotion left unfilled by the June 1 resignation of Robert R. Moton, who has entered private business in Atlanta.

John A. Fernandes succeeded H. K. Logan as purchasing agent. Fernandes was manager of the Institute book store at the time of his appointment.

William E. Brunson was appointed director of the Department of Commercial Dietetics following the resignation of the former director, William H. Driggins. Mr. Brunson, a graduate from the department which he now heads, was with the foods department at the University of California, at Berkeley.

Saunders E. Walker, head of the department of English, will serve as acting director of the division of general studies for the Summer School session. He will be assisted by Frank J. Toland, associate professor of history.

AGRICULTURAL LEADERS of the sixty-second Annual Farmers Conference at the famed Booker T. Washington Monument. Left to right are: L. J. Washington, Agriculturist with the Farmers Home Administration, Washington, D. C.; T. M. Campbell, Field Agent, U. S. D. A.; Robert Durr, Birmingham Editor of the Weekly Review; Dr. F. D. Patterson, Tuskegee President; John J. Haggerty, Director Office of Foreign Agricultural Relations and Conference speaker and W. B. Hill, State Leader, Alabama Extension Service.

Sunday School Teacher Wins Annual Farm Award

TUSKEGEE, Ala. — A 33-year-old farmer whose gross income was $130,101 in 1952 has received Tuskegee Institute's annual Negro farm family merit award.

Hillard P. Jenkins, director of a 1,052-acre farm near Loxley, Ala., received the award at Tuskegee's sixty-second annual farmers' conference which was held on the school's campus last week. More than 3,000 persons from six southern states attended the conference.

Jenkins is a Sunday school teacher and deacon in the Mount Nick Baptist Church in Daphne, Ala. He also attends adult vocational agricultural classes in his home county.

The farmer and his wife have three children. In 1952, Jenkins built a $16,000 seven-room farm house with gas circulating heat, telephone, laundry and garage. The farm also has a large trench silo, a quonset-type barn and modern farming equipment valued at $25,000.

The total acreage includes sixty-eight acres of permanent pasture grass, 652 rented acres under cultivation, 350 acres in Irish potatoes, forty acres in cotton, seventy acres in sweet potatoes, 400 acres in soybeans and 160 acres in cotton.

In 1952, Jenkins realized $6,000 in cotton, $93,000 in Irish potatoes, $3,000 in sweet corn, $12,500 in field corn, $9,622 in sweet potatoes and $22,560 from marketing 106 head of feeder steers.

The Rev. R. D. Gragg, pastor of the Gildfield Baptist Church, Pushmatha, Ala., received a certificate of achievement for the year's outstanding Negro rural pastor.

TUSKEGEE HOST TO 15TH ANNUAL FARM & HOME MEET

TUSKEGEE, Ala., Jan. 28 — (Special) — Farmers and homemakers from most of Alabama's counties, where there are Extension workers and vocational teachers, began pouring into Tuskegee Institute today for the Fifteenth Annual Farm and Home Short Course. A few came from Georgia and Mississippi.

There is an eagerness noted in their manner that bespeaks their concern over the changing patterns of agriculture which are going on all around them. They have seen the inroads which livestock and mechanization are making on the number of family-sized farms. They are witnessing a falling off in attendance in their community churches and schools, and they are bewildered.

Now they are at Tuskegee Institute to see what they can learn from professional agriculture and home economics leaders to help them with their problems. The theme of the conference is "Making the Family Farm a Better Business."

Specialists from the several agencies of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, the Alabama Extension Service, and other state agencies will join with Dean L. A. Potts and his staff to try to answer some of the farmers' questions.

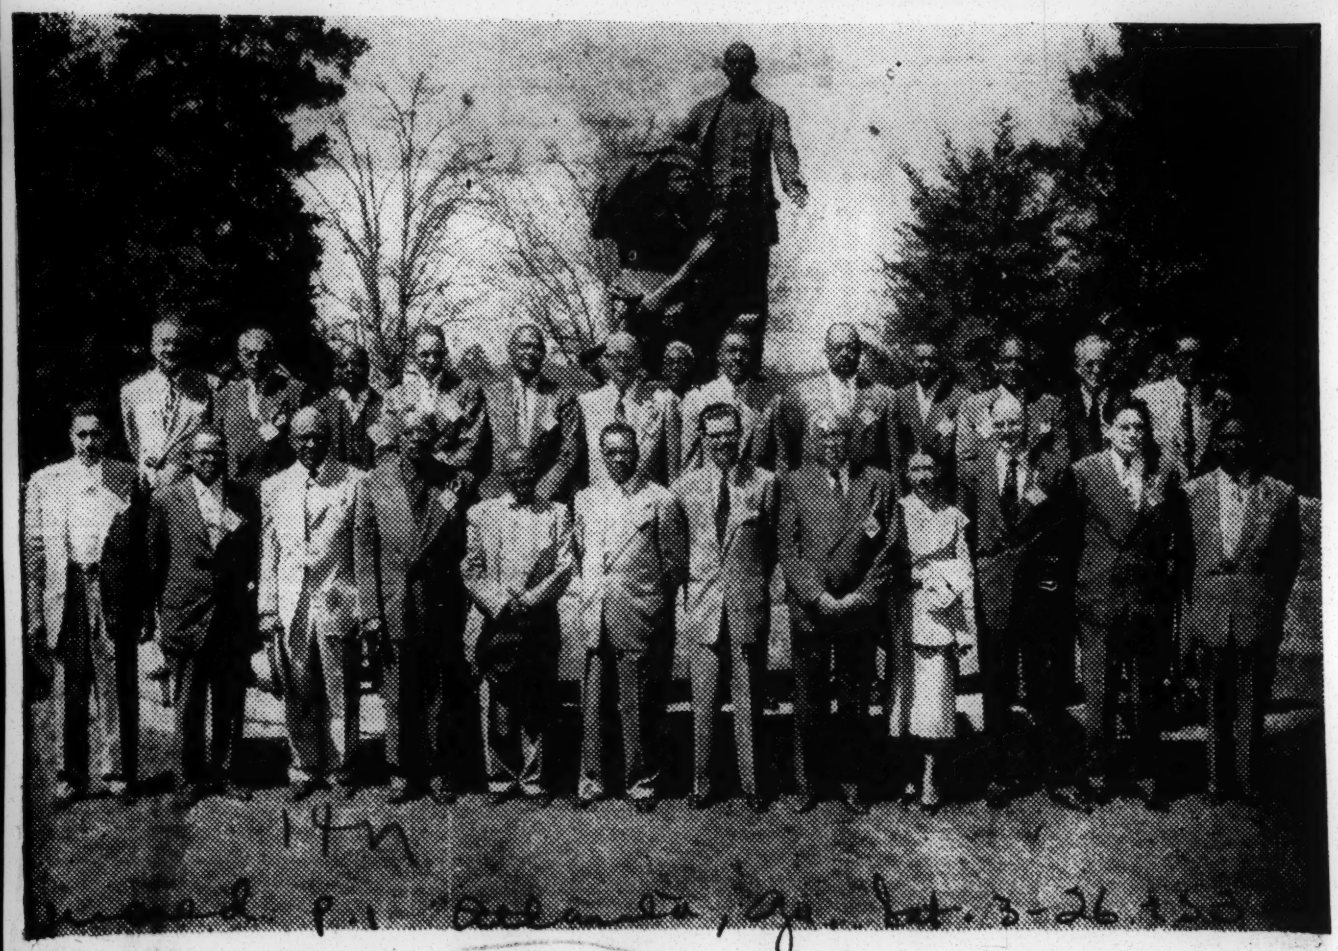
Topics outlined include: 1. Combining land, labor and capital for obtaining the highest production and profit. 2. Marketing products to the best advantage. 3. Avoiding financial tangles. 4. Money management. 5. Consumer problems.

Specific attention will be given to a restudy of farm enterprises which offer promise in the farm program for 1953.

The homemakers, under the leadership of Dean Mamye L. Powell of the School of Home Economics will join with the men on most of the major topics, because management involves the entire family. In addition, they will study labor saving devices and marketing home products.

Along with the farmers, the Rural Ministers of this area, under the leadership of Rev. V. A. Edwards, Director, Religious Extension at Tuskegee Institute, will hold their own special Short Course. They will study the whole area of religious and social readjustment.

The Short Course will conclude with a banquet on Tuesday night at which Hobart Taylor, prominent business man from Houston, Texas, will address the group. On Wednesday, over 3,000 farmers and leaders from six or more Southern States will gather here for the 62nd Annual Farmers' Conference. J. J. Haggerty, Director, Office of Foreign Agricultural Relations, U.S.D.A., will be the principal speaker.



14n

CONSULTANTS AT THE SIXTH ANNUAL TRADE CONFERENCE held March 19-20 at Tuskegee Institute, Tuskegee Institute, Alabama. Reading left to right (fourth) is L. S. Gaillard, Sr., Birmingham; (6) T. W. Jones, Dean, School of Mechanical Industries, (7) Thomas Green, of RCA, Camden, N. J., (11) J. F. Ingram, supervisor, Vocational Industrial Education, State Department of Education, Montgomery. Among those on the back row are: (1) Prof. E. J. Oliver, principal, Fairfield Industrial High School; (11) Clifford J. Campbell, principal Dunbar High School, Chicago, Ill.; (12) Vernon J. Douglass, director, Vocational Education, Birmingham (Ala.) Board of Education and L. S. Gaillard, Jr., building contractor, Birmingham.

14n 1953

BUTLER CHAPEL A.M.E.Z. CHURCH
THE OPENING OF TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE ON THAT SPOT JULY4, 1881

INSTITUTE ANNIVERSARY MARKED—

Group Gathers At Founding Site

A group of about 60 Tuskegee Institute Summer school students and faculty members, along with some members of the community, assembled on the lawn of the Butler Chapel A. M. E. Z. Church at 9:30 a. m. Saturday in observance of the anniversary of the opening of Tuskegee Institute on that spot on July 4, 1881. Among persons assembled were one of the 30 students who greeted Booker T. Washington on the day he opened school and several descendents of Lewis Adams, one of the two men who sought a teacher who would open Tuskegee Institute for Negro youth. On the spot where Tuskegee was founded now stands a beautiful marker constructed of Alabama marble. The pastor and members of Butler Chapel A. M. E. Z. Church have been responsible for the beautification of the area surrounding the marker.

The program consisted of brief presentations by Capt. A. J. Neely, graduate and former registrar, former dean of men, and recently retired executive secretary of the Tuskegee Institute Alumni Association. The Rev. W. E. Carson, pastor of the Butler Chapel, also spoke briefly. The chief attraction, however, was the presence of Mrs. Eliza Wilson Harris, one of the 30 students who entered Tuskegee Institute on the day that it opened. Mrs. Harris, who still lives in Tuskegee, spoke very interestingly of her association with Dr. Washington and of her experiences as a student during the early days of the Institute.

Following the program, refreshments were served by the members of the Associated Women Students, under the supervision of Mrs. Hattie S. West, dean of women at Tuskegee Institute.

CHOIR IN BROADCAST—

Tuskegee Herald

Institute Singers Praised

Tuskegee, Ala.

The appearance of the Tuskegee Institute Choir on the first international broadcast of the Birmingham Symphony Orchestra last Wednesday night was heralded by Lilly May Caldwell, Birmingham News staff writer, as a highlight of the evening. The choir was under the direction of Mrs. Alberta Lillian Simms.

In describing the choir's participation, Miss Caldwell said, "A highlight of the evening was the singing of the Tuskegee Choir, in a group of spirituals, sung as only the Negro can sing them. The choir from Tuskegee Institute is beyond question one of the best in the country, and I'm glad we've telling the world about it in this international broadcast."

The program was a salute to Birmingham, England, where the Voice of America will be rebroadcast by the British Broadcasting Company throughout Europe, and a tribute to the people of England upon the occasion of the coronation of their queen.

The program was tape recorded by Harold Boker, of the Voice of America. At the time of broadcast, it was heard on the Alabama Network.

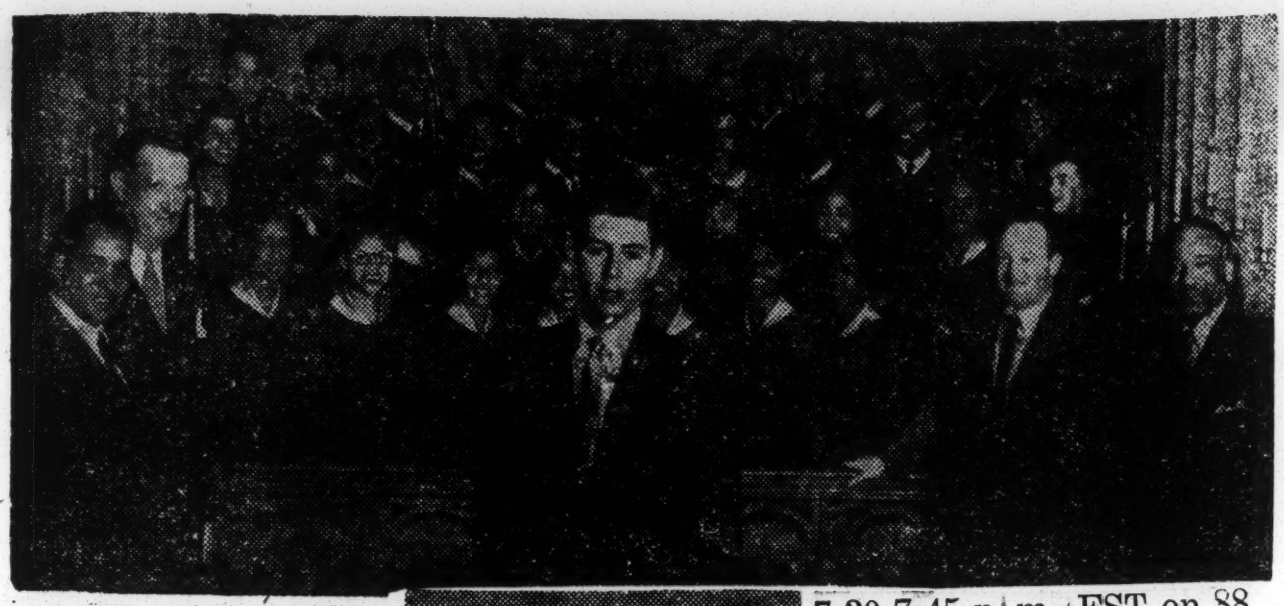
Accompanying the choir to Birmingham were numbers of the music department, including Mrs. Alberta L. Simms who directed the group during the evening's performance; Mrs. Lexine H. Weeks, instructor in piano, Mrs. Ethel Hardy Smith, instructor in voice, and Capt. William L. Wiley, business manager for the choir, and director of the Tuskegee Institute male singers.

The choir sang: 'Oh, What A Beautiful City", William L. Dawson; "Listen To the Lambs", R. Nathaniel Dett; "Rocking Jerusalem," John Work; and "Ain' A That Good News," William L. Dawson.

July 4-21-53

Special parts were taken by Gertrude Knowles, Clarice Henderson, Be Alva Walker, Joann Brown, Mary Carolyn Derbigny, and Ann Moore.

Others making the trip to Birmingham were Rosemary Hickman, Ann Fisher, Bessie Stockard, Cynthia Glover, Ramona Williams, Betty Jo McClintock, Mildred Campbell, Frances Morgan, Margaret Carstarphen, Freddie M. Lawler, Letitia Smith, Hazel Land, Etta Marshall, L. Glover, Hames Wallace, Fred Grumes, Roosevelt Bentley, Allen C. Williams, Booker T. Isom, Jr., Willie Paul, Calvin Swartz, Sherron Hudson, James Nichols, William H. Johnson, Titus Saunders, Erby Cox, Garland Smith, Edward C. Werner, Carnelous Blount, Major Jones, Donald Gaillard, Robert Tinsley and Sylvester Johnson.



Tuskegee Choir Stars With Eddie Fisher

Pict. 12-26-53

Famous Tuskegee Institute choir under the direction of William L. Dawson, was the guest of TV star Eddie Fisher on "Coke Time" Christmas night. The singers will appear again with Mr. Fisher on his New Year's TV program, NBC-TV, January 1, 7:30 p. m.

Directs Tuskegee Choir On TV Xmas Day

p. 4

Dec 12-11-53

William L. Dawson, nationally and internationally prominent composer and director, will lead his famous Tuskegee Institute choir on the Eddie Fisher—"Coke Time", NBC-TV shows for Christmas and New Year's, Dec. 25 and Jan. 1.

The two TV productions will be televised at 7:30-7:45 p. m., EST on 88 NBC-TV outlets across the nation. The Coca-Cola Company, Atlanta, Ga., sponsor of "Coke Time" suggests that TV-viewers in the various sections of the country check TV guides for exact time of programs in their areas.

TO APPEAR NATIONALLY ON TV: The nationally famous "Coke Time" television show, starring Eddie Fisher, will reintroduce to America the Tuskegee Institute choir with William L. Dawson, director, on Christmas Day and on New Year's Day. Thirty-five members of the choir, chosen for the trip, left Tuskegee Institute this week by special Pullman accommodations and reported to the NBC Studios, in New York. After witnessing several live TV performances, they went into final rehearsals for the 15-minute production which they did yesterday afternoon. This will be a kinescope production for distribution to 90 affiliate TV stations from coast to coast. Nearly every community in the United States will be reached by the telecast. In Tuskegee over the week was Marek Wienhiem who heads television, film, and radio reproduction for a leading advertising concern in New York City, and is a special representative for the Eddie Fisher Show, "Coke Time," on which the Tuskegee Choir will appear. According to his description of the program, Eddie Fisher will open the program with three special numbers emphasing the Christmas theme. He will then introduce Director William L. Dawson and his choir for two special numbers. Immediately following, Eddie Fisher will join with the choir in singing three Christmas favorites: O' Little Town of Bethlehem, Silent Night and Adeste Fideles. Wienhiem indicated that the program will go out over NBC, New York City, and all NBC affiliates in the Eastern Standard Time zone, at 7:30 p.m., at 6:30 p.m. Central Time, and one hour earlier, Mountain Time. A special "hot" kinescope production in every way resembling a live show, will go out over the NBC Studio in New York. Other stations will carry the regular kinescope reproduction and all stations will carry the same program at the same instant though the clock time will differ with the time zones. This is one of the many invitations extended to the Tuskegee Institute Choir for concert, radio and television appearances. Since appearing at the opening of Radio City Music Hall, in 1933. the choir has become known around the world for its interpretation of classical and folk music. William L. Dawson, the director of the choir has gained distinction as a composer and arranger.

14n 1953

COMMENCEMENT

Commencement Speaker Advises Tuskege Grads to Remain in Dixie

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, Ala. — Dr. Alvin C. Eurich, vice-president, Fund for the Advancement of Education of the Ford foundation, last week told some 205 graduating seniors at Tuskegee institute that it is not necessary to migrate to other areas, for there are jobs to be done here.

Speaking from the subject, "Toward A World Of Free Men," Dr. Eurich told the graduates:

"Dangers to our future arise internally from our failure to recognize fully the need to provide equal opportunities to all men, regardless of race, color, creed, national origin, or economic status.

"Externally, our chief dangers arise from sheer ignorance, or our failure to learn about other peoples and cultures and our willingness to apply to peoples everywhere those principles that have made our country great."

The Rev. Shelton Hale Bishop, rector, St. Phillips' Episcopal church, New York, preached the baccalaureate sermon. His sermon discussed the vanity of seeking honor for oneself.

The commencement week activities included:

A presentation of "All My Sons," by the Little Theatre cast; Armed Forces and ROTC day; a reunion of the class of 1943, and the presentation of an award of merit to Thomas Monroe Campbell, retired field agent, USA department of agriculture, extension service. The award was presented by the Alabama extension service and Tuskegee institute.

Speaking from the subject, "Toward a World of Free Men," Dr. Eurich told the graduates:

"Dangers to our future arise internally from our failure to recognize fully the need to provide equal opportunities to all men, regardless of race, color, creed, national origin, or economic status . .

Ignorance Chief Danger

"Externally, our chief dangers arise from sheer ignorance, or our failure to learn about other peoples and cultures and our willingness to apply to peoples everywhere those principles that have made our country great."

The Rev. Shelton Hale Bisho, rector, St. Philips' Episcopal church, New York, preached the baccalaureate sermon. His sermon discussed the vanity of seeking honor for oneself.

The commencement week activities began with a tribute to Dr. F. D. Patterson, president of Tuskegee, who will resign.

Grads Urged Stay In Dixie

Afro-American

Tuskegee Speaker Raps Migration

TUSKEGEE, Ala.—Dr. Alvin C. Eurich, vice president of the Ford Foundation for Advancement of Education, last week told 205 graduating seniors at Tuskegee Institute that it is not necessary to migrate to other areas, for there are jobs to be done here.

News Among The Colored People

BY REV. C. W. KELLY

Dr. Curltis Dixon, vice president and executive director of the Southern Education Foundation, Atlanta, defended the present generation of young people in his address at the Summer school commecement at Tuskegee Institute last Friday evening, when 175 students were awarded degrees.

He first listed the current barrage of indictments hurled at modern youth, "that he is apathetic, of low aim, seeks security above all things, is ready to conform, and is in search of a faith." They are further accused, said Dixon, of being unimpressed by authorities and their elders, are cynical, indifferent to things which count such as religion, patriotism and morality.

"Some," he stated, "go so far as to say that modern youth is disillusioned, that he is ultra conservative, over-cautious, uninventive and uninterested in minority causes."

Dr. Dixon then proceeded to defend this "silent generation," stating that the youth of today "stands on his own two feet, looks the world straight in the eye and gives full measure for value received."

Dr. Dixon believes that a new man is evolving out of the pulling and pushing influences in which this generation has been caught up. He sees the creation of the "international man—the twentieth century man."

It is his opinion that they do not feel that they are "living on the brink of disaster," as does the generation ahead of them. "They," he stated, "are harder to fool than their parents—they are realistic."

This first class to graduate under Dr. L. H. Foster's regime was in many ways an unusual class, beginning with the class president, Frank Fennell, Seguin, Tex., who entered Tuskegee Institute in 1949 on the five year work scholarship plan. He worked to earn his total expenses while finishing the course in secondary education with honors. In addition, Frank found time to be active in several student organizations.

Educator Defends Youth Before Tuskegee Grads

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE — (ANP) — A southern educator last week defended the present generation of young people in an address before some 175 candidates for degrees at the summer school graduation at tuskegee institute here.

Dr. I. Curtis Dixon, vice president and executive director of the Southern Education Foundation, Atlanta, Ga., dismissed current criticism of youth of today, saying the present generation is undergoing an evolution.

Among the criticisms dismissed by Dr. Dixon were those that today's youth is apathetic, of low aim, seeks security above all things, ready to conform, in search of faith, disillusioned, ultra conservative, over cautious uninventive and interested in minority causes.

In answering these accusations, Dr. Dixon said that a new man is evolving out of the pulling and pushing influences in which this generation has ben caught up. Out of this he sees the creation of the "International Man," the "20th Century Man."

He pointed out that today's youth do not feel that they are "living on the brink of diseaster" as does the generation ahead of them. "They," he stated, "are harder to fool than their parents. They are realistic."

In conclusion, Dr. Dixon said, "It is unfair to draw conclusions about generations because we have no standard of measurement. I'm not too worried about this generation."

Prior to becoming head of the Southern Education Foundation, Dr. Dixon was connected with the Rosenwald Fund.

Among the graduates in this class were three five year scholarship plan students. They were Frank Fonnell, president of the class; Miss Laura W. Porch, Calhoun, Ga., and Joseph Hopkins Miami, Fla.

Tuskegee graduates 175 Afro-American educator defends youth

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE — (ANP) — A southern educator last week defended the present generation of young people in an address before some 175 candidates for degrees at the summer school graduation at Tuskegee Institute.

Dr. I. Curtis Dixon, vice president and executive director of the Southern Education Foundation, Atlanta, Ga., dismissed current criticism of youth of today, saying the present generation is undergoing an evolution.

Among the criticisms dismissed by Dr. Dixon were those charging that today's youth is apathetic, of low aim, seeks security above all things, ready to conform, in search of faith, disillusioned, ultra conservative, over cautious, univentive and interested in minority causes.

Among the graduates in this class were three five-year scholarship plan students. They were Frank Fonnell, president of the class; Miss Laura W. Porch, Calhoun, Ga., and Joseph Hokins Mi mi, Fla.

Miss Porch made the honor roll two successive years and earned the Jesse O. Thomas Prize in 1952 for displaying the most independent thinking, creative imagination and resourcefulness.

Probably the best example of persistency in a student is the case of S. M. Blount, Union Springs, Ala., who began study at Tuskegee in 1914. His lifelong ambition has been to earn a degree in agriculture from Tuskegee Institute.

Youth Of Today Called Realistic Toward Problems By Graduation Speaker Here

Dr. Curltis Dixon, vice president and executive director of the Southern Education Foundation, Atlanta, defended the present generation of young people in his address at the Summer school commecement at Tuskegee Institute last Friday evening, when 175 students were awarded degrees.

He first listed the current barrage of indictments hurled at modern youth, "that he is apathetic, of low aim, seeks security above all things, is ready to conform, and is in search of a faith.' They are further accused, said Dixon, of being unimpressed by authorities and their elders, are cynical, indifferent to things which count such as religion, patriotism and morality.

"Some," he stated, "go so far as to say that modern youth is disillusioned, that he is ultra-conservative, over-cautious, uninventive and uninterested in minority causes."

Dr. Dixon then proceeded to defend this "silent generation," stating that the youth of today "stands on his own two feet, looks the world straight in the eye and gives full measure for value received."

Dr. Dixon believes that a new man is evolving out of the pulling and pushing influences in which this generation has been caught up. He sees the creation of the "international man—the twentieth century man."

It is his opinion that they do not feel that they are "living on the brink of disaster," as does the generation ahead of them. "They," he stated, "are harder to fool than their parents—they are realistic."

This first class to graduate under Dr. L. H. Foster's regime was in many ways an unusual class, beginning with the class president, Frank Fennell, Seguin, Tex., who entered Tuskegee Institute in 1949 on the five year work scholarship plan. He worked to earn his total expenses while finishing the course in secondary education with honors. In addition, Frank found time to be active in several student organizations.

Dr. Dixon To Address 175 At Exercises

Dr. J. Curtis Dixon, executive director of the Southern Education Foundation, Atlanta, will deliver the address to 175 graduates at the Summer School commencement exercises Friday evening in the Institute chapel.

Dr. Dixon has had a distinguished career with several educational foundations. His organization is currently sponsoring the Principal's Workshop which brought 50 principals from 14 states together here at Tuskegee Institute this summer for an intensive ten-week course in current educational problems.

Tuskegee Institute began its final week of Summer School on Sunday with Dr. Carleton L. Lee delivering a challenging informal baccalaureate sermon at the morning worship service. He chose as his subject, "Keeping of a Trust."

In his message he extolled the virtues and the responsibilities of the teaching profession and pointed up the many efforts being made by organized groups to discredit the public school system. He urged each person to employ faith, initiative and foresight in keeping inviolate the great democratic process of the American public school system.

"Stars of Tomorrow," the annual presentation of the Summer School Music Department to be presented in Logan Hall at the Wednesday morning assembly, will be the second phase of Commencement Week.

This program, sponsored each year by Dr. I. A. Derbigny, vice president and director of the Summer Scrool, is under the direction of Mrs. Alberta L. Simms. As acting director of the Institute choir and instructor in public school music, Mrs. Simms draws freely on the musical talent from both the school and the community.

The public is extended an invitation to attend this musical treat.

On Thursday evening at 7:30 o'clock President and Mrs. L. H. Foster will entertain the graduates and their parents at an informal reception on the lawn of "The Oaks," historic former residence of the founder.

Commencement Season At Tuskegee Institute Will Get Under Way This Week End

A prominent educator and an outstanding business leader will head the list of speakers for the 1952 Commencement season, which gets under way next Sunday at Tuskegee Institute.

Dr. Adam D. Beittel, president of Talladega College, Talladega, Ala., will deliver the Baccalaureate address to the graduating classes next Sunday in the Institute chapel. Dr. Beittel, trained as a minister, was pastor of several outstanding churches prior to entering the field of education. From 1929 to 1932 he was professor of religion at Earlham College and immediately before going to Talladega he was professor of sociology at Guilford College. He was made dean of Talladega College in 1937 and since 1945 has been president.

Charles D. Jackson, publisher of Fortune Magazine, vice-president of Time, Inc., and internationally prominent in business circles, will deliver the commencement address to the class of 1952 next Monday. After attending elementary school in Switzerland, Mr. Jackson returned to America and was graduated from Princeton University. Immediately upon graduation from college he went into the marble and stone importing business with his father, soon inheriting the business, which he operated successfully until it was sold some years later. He then went into journalism and became assistant to the president of Time, Inc., the publishers of Time, Life, Fortune and Architectural Forum. He has served the government in several capacities and for a number of years was deputy chief of psychological warfare and head of the OWI for North Africa, the Middle East and Turkey. Mr. Jackson has been in the forefront in the fight for the cause of democracy around the world.

The 1952 Commencement season will include a Little Theatre presentation of the famous play, "The Night of January 19," to be given Friday night, the annual President's Essay Contest, to be concluded Saturday with the awarding of annual prizes by the various schools and departments, and the reunion activities of the class of 1942, back for their tenth reunion.

Music for all the services will be furnished by the Tuskegee Institute Choir.

Tuskegee's New President

Another of Alabama's important institutions of learning appears to have made a fortunate choice in the selection of a new president. The trustees of Tuskegee Institute, the world-famous coeducational establishment for Negroes, announce the election of Dr. Luther Hilton Foster Jr. as the school's fourth president, succeeding Dr. F. D. Patterson.

Dr. Foster has had excellent training and experience to fit him for his new duties. He was graduated from Virginia State College, where his father was president, and also received degrees from Hampton Institute, the Harvard Business School and the University of Chicago. He served as budget officer at Howard University in Washington and for the last 11 years has been business manager at Tuskegee, performing as well other duties there and for several educational associations.

Tuskegee, founded in 1881 by Booker T. Washington, has had only three other presidents—Washington himself, Dr. Robert R. Moton and Dr. Patterson, who resigned to become educational director of the Phelps Stokes Fund. The fine work these men did contributed to making Tuskegee a first-rate institution for Negro education. Dr. Foster now follows in a great tradition and has the opportunity to carry it onward. He seems well qualified to do so.

Tuskegee Institute has contributed incalculable good to making life better in Alabama, the South and the nation, and those contributions under Dr. Foster's leadership may be expected to continue and grow.

Virginian Chosen For Tuskegee Presidency

AS THE fourth head of the college founded by BOOKER T. WASHINGTON the trustees of Tuskegee Institute have chosen a Virginian born on a college campus of a father who became a college executive, and who himself has directed his whole education and experience to the task of administering educational institutions. He is LUTHER HILTON FOSTER JR., the forty-year-old business administrator of Tuskegee, who has given the institute eleven capable years in that post.

His preparation for his work came early; for he lived in the home of his father, who for years was treasurer-business manager of Virginia State College and then its president until his death. Having demonstrated marked talent for his chosen work, he edid administrative apprenticeship on a General Education Board fellowship at Hampton and Virginia State, from both of which institutions he received bachelor degrees.

Not only was he admirably prepared by on-the-job training in that manner, but he went on to Harvard for a master of business administration degree, and then to the University of Chicago for an M. A. and in turn for the highest degree, Ph.D. Prior to taking up his work at Tuskegee, young Dr. FOSTER served our largest university, Howard, as budget officer.

The new president of the world-famous institution follows in the footsteps of three great men, BOOKER T. WASHINGTON, ROBERT R. MOTON, and FRED D. PATTERSON, who resigned to become educational director of the influential Phelps-Stokes Fund. What they achieved puts a heavy burden of responsibility upon young, but demonstrably capable shoulders. He inherits a rich tradition of leadership and service.

Without the full confidence of his faculty co-workers and the hard-headed men constituting the Tuskegee board of trustees, Dr. FOSTER certainly would not have been selected. For the board could have had, for the Tuskegee presidency, almost any educator of its choice. Friends of Tuskegee and the public generally may with assurance share their confidence and be certain that under him Tuskegee will continue to render great service to the cause of educational advancement and interracial understanding.

Dr. Foster Begins Duties As President

6-4-53

Dr. Luther Hilton Foster, Jr., officially took over his new duties Monday as fourth president of Tuskegee Institute, where he has served for the past 11 years as business administrator. He succeeded Dr. F. D. Patterson, who resigned, effective June 1, to become educational director of the Phelps-Stokes Fund in New York.

A native of Virginia, the new president of Tuskegee Institute is 40 years old and had won an influential position on the Institute staff before his elevation to the presidency. In addition to his duties as business administrator, he has served as a member of the president's staff and a member of the board of trustees of the George Washington Carver Foundation, of which he is treasurer.

His election to succeed Dr. Patterson was announced Saturday by Basil O'Conner, chairman of the Institute board of trustees.

Dr. Foster graduated from Virginia State College and Hampton Institute with B. S. degrees. He got his masters degree in business administration at Harvard and M. Ph. degree from the University of Chicago.

The new Tuskegee president is secretary of the American Association of College Business Officers. He is also a member of the editorial board of the National Committee on publication of college business manuals.

Tuskegee's business manager for 11 years may head institute

BY REX THOMAS

MONTGOMERY, May 23—(AP)—A 40-year-old Negro educator whose father was a college president in Virginia was reliably reported Saturday to have a better than even chance to become the new head of famed Tuskegee institute.

Dr. L. H. Foster Jr., who has been Tuskegee's business manager 11 years, is one of five men still being considered by the school's board of trustees to succeed President F. D. Patterson when he leaves this Summer.

Dr. Patterson has resigned to become educational director of the Phelps Stokes Fund.

An eight-member screening committee of Tuskegee board members meets in Montgomery Friday to decide on its recommendation to the other trustees. The report will be made to the board at a meeting at Tuskegee Saturday.

ALTHOUGH TUSKEGEE, which was founded by the late Booker T. Washington, is a private institution, the state of Alabama appropriates $300,000 a year to help pay the costs of operation. Thus, six Alabamians are on the board of trustees, including the state superintendent of education who serves as an ex-officio member.

Three of those — Supt. W. J. Terry, State Sen. John Pinson of Sumter County and former State Rep. Henry Neill Segrest of Tuskegee—are on the nominating committee.

Usually well-informed sources around the state capitol mention Dr. Foster as the favorite among the five candidates for president still under consideration. He reportedly has the endorsement of Dr. Patterson himself.

Foster, a native of Lawrenceville, Va., is a graduate of Tuskegee who later won a Ph.D. degree from the University of Chicago.

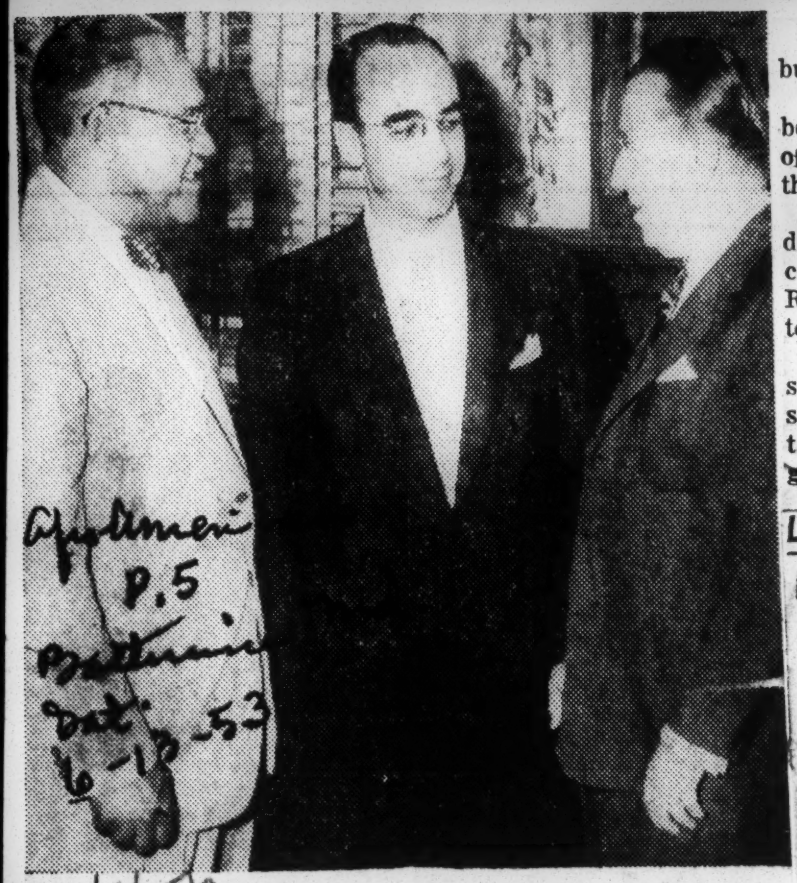
His father, the late Dr. L. H. Foster Sr., was president of Virginia State College.

THE OTHER four Negro educators still being mentioned are:

Hollis Freeman Price, 48, president of LeMoyne College at Memphis, who has had three years of graduate work at Columbia University.

Dr. Robert C. Hatch, 46, state supervisor of instruction in the division of Negro education in the Alabama State Education Department and a part-time instructor at Alabama State College for Negroes at Montgomery. He attended Alabama State and Fisk University and has a Ph.D. from Columbia.

Dr. G. Robert Cotton, 43, president of Kansas Technical Institute at Topeka, Kan., who got his Ph.D. at Ohio State.



TUSKEGEE'S NEW PREXY—Dr. Luther H. Foster Jr., center, receives best wishes on his new post as president of Tuskegee Institute from Dr. F. D. Patterson, left, whom he succeeded, and Basil O'Connor, right, chairman of the board of trustees. Dr. Foster assumed his new position on June 1.

Luther H. Foster Jr.

To find the fourth president of Tuskegee Institute, the board of trustees happily did not have to conduct a prolonged search.

In selecting Dr. Luther Hilton Foster Jr., the trustees have placed the future of the school in experienced and capable hands.

For 11 years, he has served as administrator of the famous Alabama institution. During that period he has worked in close liaison with his predecessor, Dr. Frederick D. Patterson.

His complete knowledge of the inner workings of the school founded by Booker T. Washington, should make his shift from business administrator to president a comparatively easy one.

It might well be said that Dr. Foster was predestined for the assignment he was given last week.

Born on a college campus, he lived his formative years in the shadow of his able father, who for years served as business manager - treasurer of Virginia State College.

Just as the son has now done, the father moved up from the business office to that of president, a position he occupied with distinction until his death.

Dr. Foster's apprenticeship training for his new post was not all received at the knees of his father or at the side of Dr. Patterson.

Having earned B.S. degrees from both Virginia State and Hampton Institute, he was awarded the master of business administration degree by Harvard, and M.A. and Ph.D. degrees by the University of Chicago.

Prior to reaching Tuskegee, he was budget officer at Howard University.

It is thus not surprising that Tuskegee's board chairman, Basil O'Coner in the name of the trustees expressed full confidence in the abilities of the new president.

Dr. Foster is a worthy heir to the traditions of leadership and service to the community built by Booker T. Washington, Robert Russa Moton and Frederick D. Patterson.

We congratulate him on his richly deserved appointment. We wish him every success as he embarks on the responsible task of carrying on and expanding Tuskegee's important educational program.

Logan Becomes Business Manager

'Skegee's President Appoints Staff Men

TUSKEGEE—In a move to fill certain key administrative positions left vacant by promotions and other causes, Dr. L. H. Foster, newly elected president of Tuskegee Institute, made known today several important appointments.

Succeeding him in his former position as business manager will be Harold K. Logan, who, since 1950, has served as purchasing agent for the institute.

James W. Bryant was appointed, in addition to his duties as resident auditor, to serve as acting secretary to the Tuskegee Institute board of trustees. This position was formerly held by Robert R. Morton Jr., assistant to the president, who resigned on June 1, to enter private business in Atlanta, Ga.

APPOINTED TO fill the position of purchasing agent was John A. Fernandes former manager of the institute book store.

Atlantan Mentioned For Post

'Skegee Prexy To Be Named

(Special To The World)

TUSKEGEE, Ala. — An Atlanta educator is one of five men still being considered by the Tuskegee Institute Board of Trustees to succeed President F. D. Patterson when he leaves this summer.

Informed sources, however, say that Dr. L. H. Foster, Jr., who has been Tuskegee's business manager for 11 years, has a better than even chance to become the new head of the institution.

An eight-member screening committee of the Tuskegee board will meet in Montgomery Friday to decide on its recommendation to the other trustees. This committee will report to the board at a meeting Saturday at Tuskegee.

In addition to Dr. Foster the other four educators still being mentioned for the post are:

Dr. Samuel Milton Nabrit, dean of the graduate school of Atlanta university.

Hollis Freeman Price, 48, president of LeMoyne College at Memphis.

Dr. Robert C. [illegible], 46, state supervisor of instruction in the division of Negro education in the Alabama State Education department and a part-time instructor at Alabama State College.

Dr. G. Robert Cotton, president of Kansas Technical Institute at Topeka, Kansas.

Dr. Patterson has resigned to become educational director of the Phelps Stokes Fund.

Virginian Named President Of Tuskegee Institute

By CHARLES E. TROUT

TUSKEGEE, Ala. — Dr. Luther Hilton Foster Jr., 40-year-old business administrator of Tuskegee Institute, was elected the college's fourth president at a meeting of the board of trustees held here Saturday.

In making the announcement, Chairman of the Board Basil O'Connor expressed the complete confidence of the board in the abilities of the new president.

The election climaxed a search for a successor to Dr. F. D. Patterson, who on March 11, 1953, tendered his resignation to become the educational director of the Phelps-Stokes Fund.

* * *

THE PRESIDENCY of Tuskegee Institute, because of the high calibre of men who have held the position, is looked upon as a post of leadership and service.

Booker T. Washington, founder of Tuskegee Institute, received international acclaim for his statesmanship and pioneer work in industrial education.

No less was true of Robert R. Moton, who continued Dr. Washington's role of leadership and expanded greatly the resources of the institute.

* * *

DR. FOSTER, the son of the late Dr. Luther Hilton Foster Sr., who gave many years of distinguished service as treasurer-business manager and later as president of Virginia State College at Petersburg, has keen knowledge of the operations of Tuskegee Institute through his eleven years of service in his previous position.

He holds the B. S. degree from both Virginia State College and Hampton Institute.

He also holds the M. B. A. from Harvard University and an M. A. and a Ph.D. from the University of Chicago.

PRIOR TO coming to Tuskegee, Dr. Foster was budget officer of Howard University, Washington, D. C.

He has been an intimate part of Tuskegee since coming here. He served, in addition to his duties as business administrator, as a member of the president's staff and a member of the board of trustees of the George Washington Carver Memorial Foundation, of which he is also treasurer.

He is secretary of the American Association of College Business Officers and a member of the editorial board of the National Committee on Publication of a College Business Manual.

* * *

DR. FOSTER is a vestryman of St. Andrew's Episcopal Church and he and his talented and charming wife have two children, Adrienne Maria, eight, and Luther Hilton Foster 3rd, 7.

The new president assumed office June 1.

Execution Highlights

RALEIGH, N.C.—"They killed an innocent man this morning."

This was the reaction of Herman L. Taylor, local attorney, who has led the six-year fight to save Raleigh Speller, following the latter's execution in the Central Prison gas chamber Friday morning.

Mr. Taylor, a Columbia University law graduate who quit his job in the North Carolina college Law School after two years because of disgust over its glaring inequalities as compared with the state's school for white law students, was Speller's attorney.

Thankless Task

He has been involved in the almost thankless task of fighting for racial justice in the courts since the day he entered private practice here in 1947.

Much of his time has been spent, usually without fees, in defending so-called civil rights cases, with emphasis on the elimination of extorted confessions and jury discrimination.

It was a single-handed fight until last October when he and Samuel S. Mitchell, LIU. graduate, who had been practicing in Fayetteville, formed a partnership.

"But Speller did not die in vain," the attorney continued, pointing to signs of gradual improvement in jury-selection practices in eastern North Carolina since the case came into the limelight.

Only One Woman There

Mrs. Shirley Fletcher Delany of the Carolinian, one of four weekly paper representatives present, was the only woman among the 27 persons who witnessed the gas chamber execution of Speller and Clyde Brown, Friday morning.

She bore the ordeal as well as any, although a young white reporter from Winston-Salem fainted.

Gas executions are perhaps as humane as any other form of capital punishment. Victims are said to become unconscious with the first inhalation of the hydrocyanide fumes, and except for slight abdominal convulstions, show no signs of suffering or distress.

The gas is formed by dropping cyanide pellets into hydrochloric acid in a vat underneath the chair in which the victim is strapped, and the vapor puffs are visible at close range.

Central Prisons gas chamber is a room approximately 5 by 12 feet, with one full-length window through which witnesses watch, face to face with the victims and little more than three feet away; and another smaller window down for prison officials and doctors.

Stethoscopes, taped to the victim's chest and extending out to the official observation position, permit the doctors to determine when death comes.

No relatives of a doomed prisoner, nor any members of the accuser's family is permitted to witness an execution.

Tuskegee Elects A New President

According to a recent United Press dispatch, "Dr. Luther Hilton Foster became the fourth president in the history of Tuskegee Institute" on June 1, 1953. It said that "Foster succeeds Dr. F. D. Patterson who stepped down to become educational director of the Phelps Stokes fund in New York." What will be the primary tests by which Dr. Foster will be measured as the new president of Tuskegee Institute? No one can be sure in this age which is characterized by the uncertain and the unexpected. But one or two things are clear.

Foremost among these is the ghost of Booker T. Washington. It will not down. What that spirit teaches may be found to some extent at least from the following quotations from "Up From Slavery":

"My plan was not to teach them to work in the old way, but to show them how to make the forces of nature--air, water, steam, electricity, horse-power--assist them in their labour."

"The individual who can do something that the world wants done will, in the end, make his way regardless of his race."

"We try to keep constantly in mind the fact that the work of the school is to be judged by it graduates."

In accepting the honorary Master's degree from Harvard University, Mr. Washington said: "It seems to me that one of the most vital questions that touch our American life is how to bring the strong, wealthy, and learned into helpful touch with the poorest, most ignorant, and humblest, and at the same time make one appreciate the vitalizing, strengthening influence of the other."

Mr. Washington's last Chapel talk to faculty and students at Tuskegee was on the topic, "Team Work."

These quotations seem to indicate that Dr. Foster will find one test of his leadership in the extent to which he is able to identify Tuskegee's training and program with the problems and the necessities of life among the masses of the people.

Dr. Foster May Succeed Patterson

MONTGOMERY, ALA. (SNS)—Dr. L. N. Foster, Jr., 40 treasurer of Tuskegee Institute, is expected to be named successor to Dr. F. D. Patterson when the Tuskegee board of trustees meet at the institute on May 30. Foster is rounding out his eleventh year as business manager of Tuskegee. He is a Tuskegee graduate with a Ph. D. from the University of Chicago.

Emory O. Jackson, editor of the Birmingham World, predicted in a story which ran March 13 that Foster would become the fourth president of Tuskegee. In a dispatch to the Atlanta Daily World May 16 he repeated his prediction in a story on the recent board meeting.

bilities of the new president. The election climaxes a search for a successor to Dr. F. D. Patterson who on March 11, 1953 tendered his resignation to become the educational director of the Phelps Stokes Fund.

The presidency of Tuskegee Institute because of the high calibre of men who have held the position is looked upon as a position of leadership and service. Booker T. Washington, founder of Tuskegee Institute, received international acclaim for his statesmanship and pioneer work in industrial education. No less was true of Robert R. Moten who continued Dr. Washington's role of leadership and expanded greatly the resources of the institute.

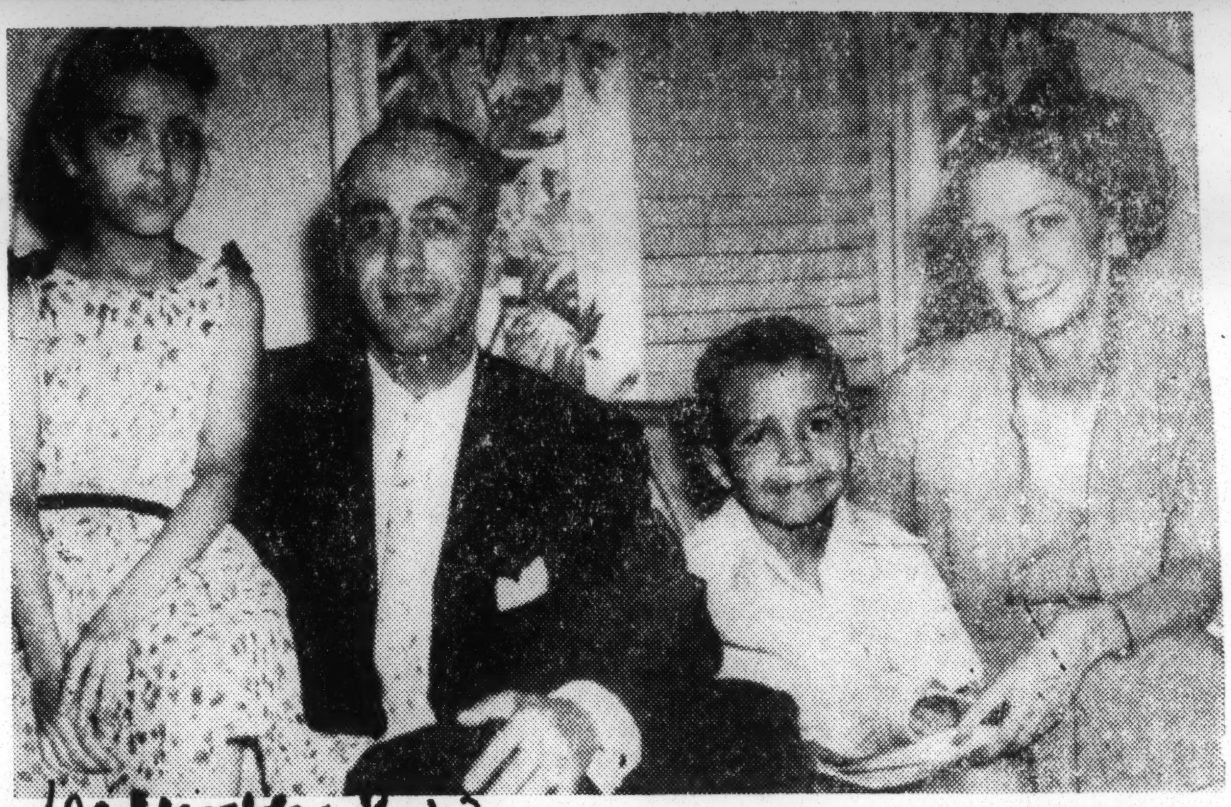
Dr. Foster, the son of the late Dr. Lutcher Hilton Foster, Sr., who gave many years of distinguished service as president of Virginia State College at Petersburg, Va., has keen knowledge of the operations of Tuskegee Inst., through his 11 years of service in his previous position. He holds the B. S. degree from both Virginia State College and Hampton Institute. He also holds the M.B.A. from Harvard University and a M.A. and a Ph. D. from the University of Chicago. Prior to coming to Tuskegee Dr. Foster was budget officer of Howard University, Washington, D. C.

He has been an intimate part of Tuskegee Institute since coming here. He served in addition to his duties as business administrator as a member of the president's staff and member of the board of trustees of the George Washington Carver Foundation of which he is also treasurer.

He is secretary of the American Association of College Business Officers and a member of the editorial board of the National Committee on Publication of a College Business Manual.

Dr. Foster is a vestryman in the St. Andrews Episcopal church and he and his talented and charming wife have two children, Adrienne Maria, eight, and Luther Hilton Foster III, seven.

The new president assumed office June 1st.



DR. LUTHER HILTON FOSTER, Tuskegee Institute's fourth president, and members of his family, got together for informal portrait. Mrs. Foster was formerly Vera Chandler of Omaha, Neb. The children, Adrienne Maria, 8, and Luther Hilton, III, 5, are enrolled in the Chamblis Children's House, campus elementary school, at Tuskegee Institute.

Dr. Luther Hilton Foster Named 4th President Of Famed Alabama Institution

TUSKEGEE, INST., Ala., June 8 — Dr. Luther Hilton Foster, Jr., 40-year-old business administrator of Tuskegee Institute was elected Tuskegee Institute's fourth president at a meeting of the board of trustees held here recently.

In making the announcement chairman of the board Basil O' Connor expressed the complete confidence of the board in the a-

Foster Names Logan, Two Others To Key Positions At Tuskegee

TUSKEGEE, Ala. — In a move to fill certain key administrative positions left vacant by promotions and other causes, Dr. L. H. Foster, newly elected president of Tuskegee Institute, this week announced several important appointments.

Succeeding him in his former position as business manager will be Harold K. Logan, who, since 1950, has served as purchaing agent for the Institute.

James W. Bryant was appointed, in addition to his duties as residen auditor, to serve as acting secretary to the Tusgegee institute board of trustees. This position was held by Robert R. Moton, Jr., assistant to the president, who resigned on June 1st to enter private business in Atlanta.

Appointed to fill the position of purchasing agent was John A. Fernandes, former manager of the Institute Book store.

In these three key positions the president has placed men with whom he has been closely associated over a period of years and in whom he places great confidence.

The 41 year-old newly appointed business mgr. was born in Denver, Colo. He is the foster son of the late Warren Logan who served as treasurer of Tuskegee Institute under Dr. Washington's and Dr. Moton's administration.

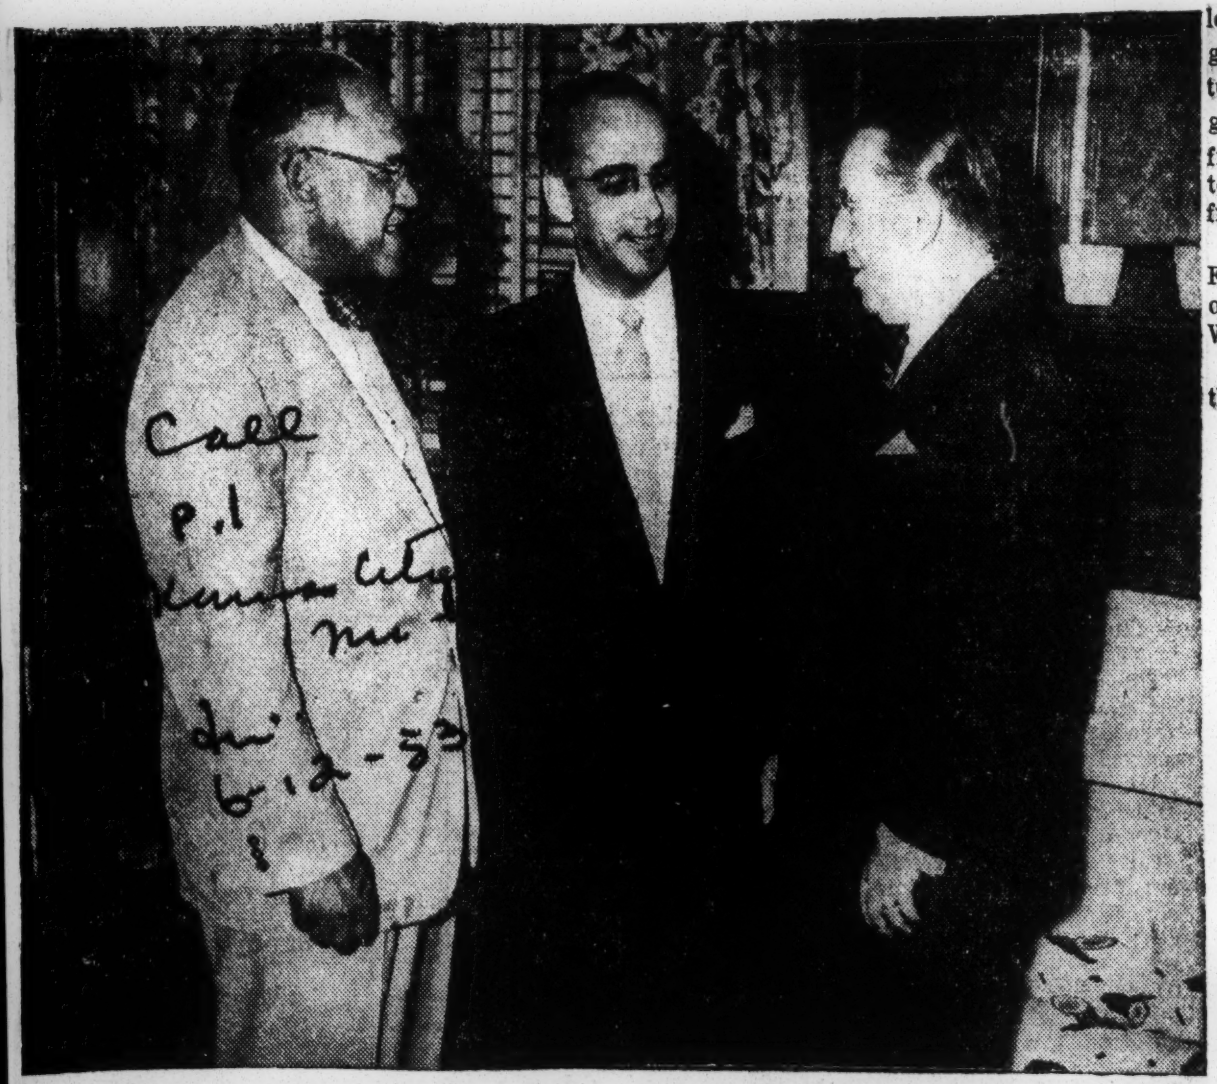
Jame W. Bryant, who becomes sec. to the Board of Trustees, is 37 and was born in Richland, Ga. He holds a bachelor of science degree in Business Administration from Tuskegee institute and the master of business administration degree from the University of Pennsylvania.

John A. Fernandes, Tuskegee Institute's new purchasing agent, is 34 years old and was born in Masachusett. He attended Masachusetts State college at Amherst. During the past five years, he has been manager of the Institute Book store.

14n 1953

DR. LUTHER HILTON FOSTER, JR.

ELECTED FOURTH PRESIDENT
TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE



NEW PRESIDENT TAKES OVER AT TUSKEGEE.—As of June 1, Tuskegee institute in Alabama had its fourth president, Dr. Luther Hilton Foster Jr., 40, a man, who like his predecessors, came up through the ranks. He was business administrator of Tuskegee before being elevated to the presidency by a vote of the school's board of trustees. In the above photograph, Dr. Foster (center) is chatting with Dr. Frederick D. Patterson Jr. (left), the outgoing president, and Basil O'Connor, chairman of the board of trustees. Dr. Patterson leaves Tuskegee to become educational director of the Phelps-Stokes Fund. Other presidents of Tuskegee were the great Booker T. Washington, founder of the school, and Dr. Robert R. Moton, who succeeded him.—ANP Photo.

Dr. Foster Wins Out Over Four

Dr. Luther Hilton Foster, jr., business manager of Tuskegee Institute for the past 11 years, took over as fourth president of the institution on June 1.

The Virginia-born educator was named to the position by the Trustee board Saturday morning at 11 a.m. He was chosen from a field of five who were being considered.

Announcement that the 40-year-old Dr. Foster had been selected to succeed Dr. F. D. Patterson, who resigned to become director of the Phelps-Stokes Fund, was announced officially by Basil O'Connor, chairman of the trustee board.

EXPRESS CONFIDENCE

In making the announcement, Mr. O'Connor said the trustees "express complete confidence in the ability of Dr. Foster to give Tuskegee the continued high type of leadership it has always had."

Others who had been considered for the post included Dr. H. F. Price, president of LeMoyne college; Dr. Robert C. Hatch, of the Alabama State Education department; Dr. G. Robert Cotton, of Topeka, Kansas, and Dr. Samuel Milton Nabrit, of Atlanta university.

The new president selected by an eight-member nominating committee is the son of the late Luther Hilton Foster, Sr., former president of Virginia State college at Petersburg, Va. He has been identified with education nearly all his life.

EDUCATIONAL BACKGROUND

Dr. Foster received the bachelor of science degree from Virginia State and Hampton Institute and earned the masters degree in business administration from Harvard. He holds the master's degree and a Ph.D. degree from Chicago university.

Before coming to Tuskegee, Dr. Foster served as budget director officer at Howard university in Washington, D. C.

The new prexy is married and the father of two children.

NEW TUSKEGEE PREXY — Dr. Luther Hilton Foster, jr., 40-year-old business administrator of Tuskegee institute, is elected Tuskegee's fourth president at a meeting of the board of trustees. He succeeds Dr. F. D. Patterson, who resigned to become educational director of the Phelps-Stokes fund.

TUSKEGEE BOARD—Members of the Tuskegee Institute board of trustees met at Tuskegee Saturday, May 30, to formally elect Dr. Luther Hilton Foster Jr., 40-year-old former business administrator, to the presidency of the institute. Seated, reading from left to right, are John H. Pinson, Geiger, Dr. F. D. Patterson, Dr. Foster, Chairman Basil O'Connor and Henry Neill Segrest, Tuskegee. Standing are A. A. Alexander, Washington, D. C.; Frank S. Tennille, Montgomery; William Rosenwald, New York City; Claude A. Barnett, Chicago; Thomas D. Russell, Alexander City; A. V. Weaver, Birmingham; Daniel W. Andrews, Winston-Salem, N. C.; W. J. Terry, Montgomery, and A. G. Gaston, Birmingham.

Behind the Headlines

By ROBERT M. RATCLIFFE
(Courier's National News Editor)

Tuskegee Picked Foster Over 4 Others

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE board of trustees had five men under consideration before finally selecting 40-year-old Dr. Luther H. Foster Jr. to succeed Dr. Fred D. Patterson as president of the Alabama institution. Under consideration were Hollis F. Price, 48, president of LeMoyne College, Memphis, Tenn.; Dr. Robert C. Hatch, 46, state supervisor for the Alabama Education Department; Dr. Robert Cotton, 43, president of Kansas Technical Institute at Topeka, Kan.; Dr. Samuel Milton Nabrit, dean of the graduate school of Atlanta University, and Dr. Foster, business manager of Tuskegee.

Mr. Ratcliffe

Virginian Chosen For Tuskegee Presidency

AS THE fourth head of the college founded by BOOKER T. WASHINGTON, the trustees of Tuskegee Institute have chosen a Virginian born on a college campus of a father who became a college executive, and who himself has directed his whole education and experience to the task of administering educational institutions. He is LUTHER HILTON FOSTER JR., the forty-year-old business administrator of Tuskegee, who has given the institute eleven capable years in that post.

His preparation for his work came early; for he lived in the home of his father, who for years was treasurer-business manager of Virginia State College and then its president until his death. Having demonstrated marked talent for his chosen work, h ecid administrative apprenticeship on a General Education Board fellowship at Hampton and Virginia State, from both of which institutions he received bachelor degrees.

Not only was he admirably prepared by on-the-job training in that manner, but he went on to Harvard for a master of business administration degree, and then to the University of Chicago for an M. A. and in turn for the highest degree, Ph.D. Prior to taking up his work at Tuskegee, young Dr. FOSTER served our largest university, Howard, as budget officer.

The new president of the world-famous institution follows in the footsteps of three great men, BOOKER T. WASHINGTON, ROBERT R. MOTON, and FRED D. PATTERSON, who resigned to become educational director of the influential Phelps-Stokes Fund. What they achieved puts a heavy burden of responsibility upon young, but demonstrably capable shoulders. He inherits a rich tradition of leadership and service.

Without the full confidence of his faculty co-workers and the hard-headed men constituting the Tuskegee board of trustees. Dr. FOSTER certainly would not have been selected. For the board could have had, for the Tuskegee presidency, almost any educator of its choice. Friends of Tuskegee and the public generally may with assurance share their confidence and be certain that under him Tuskegee will continue to render great service to the cause of educational advancement and interracial understanding.

14n 1953

DR. LUTHER HILTON FOSTER, JR. PRESIDENT, TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE

Tuskegee President Makes Appointments

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, Ala.—In a move to fill certain key administrative positions left vacant by promotions and other causes, Dr. L. H. Foster, newly elected president of Tuskegee Institute, made known Friday several important appointments.

Succeeding him in his former position as business manager will be Harold K. Logan, who, since 1950, has served as purchasing agent for the Institute.

James W. Bryant was appointed, in addition to his duties as resident auditor, to serve as acting secretary to the Tuskegee Institute Board of Trustees. This position was formerly held by Robert R. Moton, Jr., assistant to the president, who resigned on June 1st to enter private business in Atlanta Ga.

Appointed to fill the position of purchasing agent was John A. Fernandes, former manager of the Institute Book Store.

In these three key positions the president has placed men with who mhe has been closely associated over a period of years and in vhom he has been closely associated

The 41-year old newly appointed business manager was born in Denver, Col He is the foster son of the late Warren Logan who served as treasurer of Tuskegee Institute under Dr. Washington's and Dr. Moton's administrations.

He attended high school at Tuskegee Institute, holds an A. B. degree from Talladega College and the Master of Business Administration degree from New York University. He has been continuously employed by the Institute since returning from overseas Army duty in 1946. He is married and has two children, a son and a daughter.

James W. Bryant, who becomes secretary to the Board of Trustees, is 37 and was born in Richland, Ga. He holds a Bachelor of Science degree in Business Administration from Tuskegee Institute (1938), and the Master of Business Administration degree from the University of Pennsylvania. His first assignment after finishing college was application and enrollment clerk at Tuskegee Institute. He held several positions of responsibility elsewhere before returning to the Business Office of Tuskegee Institute where he has been for seven years. He and his wife, who is also an alumnus of Tuskgee Institute, have two children.

14n. 1953

DR. LUTHER HILTON FOSTER, JR.

ELECTED FOURTH PRESIDENT
TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE

Tuskegee Picks Dr. Foster

Patterson's Successor Is Named

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, Ala. —Dr. Luther Hilton Foster Jr., 40, business administrator of Tuskegee Institute, was elected Tuskegee Institute's fourth president at a meeting of the board of trustees held here Saturday.

In making the announcement Basil O'Conner, chairman of the board expressed the complete confidence of the board in the abilities of the new president.

The election climaxed a search for a successor to Dr. F. D. Patterson who on March 11 tendered his resignation to become the educational director of the Phelps Stokes Fund.

DR. FOSTER, whose late father gave many years of service as president of Virginia State College at Petersburg, Va., had given eleven years of service in his previous position.

He holds the B.S. degree from both Virginia State College and Hampton Institute. He also holds the MBA from Harvard University and an MA and a PhD from the University of Chicago.

Prior to coming to Tuskegee, Dr. Foster was budget officer of Howard University, Washington, D. C.

He served, in addition to his duties as business administrator, as a member of the president's staff and member of the board of trustees of the George Washington Carver Foundation of which he is also treasurer.

* * *

DR. FOSTER is a vestryman in the St. Andrew Episcopal Church, and he and his talented and charming wife have two children, Adrienne Maria, 8, and Luther Hilton Foster III, 7.

The new president assumes office June 1.

Tuskegee Institute's New President

Dr. Luther Hilton Foster, Jr., 40-year-old, Virginia-born educator has been elected president of Tuskegee Institute. His elevation had been expected. The Tuskegee Board of Trustees announced last Saturday, May 30 that he had been unanimously elected to succeed Dr. F. D. Patterson who resigned.

Eleven years of service at Tuskegee, a wonderful family background, a formidable array of academic degrees from three of the best institutions, and sound knowledge of the fiscal problems of Tuskegee Institute should equip Dr. Foster to lead this institution to even greater heights and services than before. As fourth president of Tuskegee Institute, he has an immortal list of predecessors in Booker T. Washington, founder and first president; Dr. R. R. Moton and Dr. Patterson.

In making the announcement of Mr. Foster's election, Board Chairman Basil O'Connor said the trustees voiced "complete confidence in the ability of Dr. Foster to give Tuskegee the continued high-type leadership it has always had. "Such is good recommendation and should serve to win for Dr. Foster the solid support he will need in guiding this great institution during the years ahead.

Educational work in America is under constant challenge. Today the challenge is more clamorous because of the swift changes, the tensions, scares and threats. Independent and church-related institutions are facing tough problems, financial and otherwise. But these things should serve only to give Dr. Foster's mind and heart a chance to make a contribution to education.

Working under Dr. Patterson, the new and fourth Tuskegee president has had the opportunity to learn from him. This contact should prove to be of tremendous value. And it assures Tuskegee of the experienced hands necessary for the institution not to suffer from the presidential switch.

The new president brings enough youth to give vigor, freshness, and creativeness to the pilotship and also presents the experience to blend soberness, balance and steadiness necessary to make him a progressive, enlightened and forthright educational leader. He could make himself the example and the symbol of the better South on the scene rather than in the dream.

We know that Dr. Foster will have much counsel about what Tuskegee needs; on how to run an institution of that kind; and on ways of handling problems emerging from the new thinking. We do not care to deal in that area.

We congratulate Dr. Foster upon his achievement and wish for him a successful administration. We believe that he will get the support of the Tuskegee alumni and others interested in the institution. He will need full support, the cooperation of faculty, students, trustees and alumni in order to make good. Let us all get behind the new President of Tuskegee Institute and help him.

Business Officer Is Fourth President Of Famed College

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, Ala. — Dr. Luther Hilton Foster, Jr., forty-year-old business administrator of Tuskegee Institute, was elected Tuskegee Institute's fourth president at a meeting of the board of trustees held here Saturday.

In making the announcement, Chairman of the Board Basil O'Conner expressed the complete confidence of the Board in the abilities of the new president. The election climaxed a search for a successor to Dr. F. D. Patterson who on March 11, 1953, tendered his resignation to become the educational director of the Phelps Stokes Fund.

The presidency of Tuskegee Institute—because of the high calibre of men who have held the position—is looked upon as a position of leadership and service. Booker T. Washington, founder of Tuskegee Institute, received international acclaim for his statesmanship and pioneer work in industrial education. No less was true of Robert R. Moton who continued Dr. Washington's role of leadership and expanded greatly the resources of the Institute.

Dr. Foster, the son of the late Dr. Luther Hilton Foster, Sr., who gave many years of distinguished service as president of Virginia State College at Petersburg, Va., has keen knowledge of the operations of Tuskegee Institute through his eleven years of service in his previous position.

He holds the B. S. degree from both Virginia State College and Hampton Institute. He also holds the M. B. A. from Harvard University and a M. A. and Ph D. from the University of Chicago. Prior to coming to Tuskegee Dr. Foster was budget officer of Howard University, Washington, D. C.

He has been an intimate part of Tuskegee Institute since coming here. He served, in addition to his duties as business administrator, as a member of the President's staff and member of the Board of Trustees of the George Washington Carver Foundation of which he is also treasurer.

He is secretary of the American Association of College Business Officers and a member of the editorial board of the National Committee on Publication of a College Business Manual.

Dr. Foster is a vestryman in the St. Andrew's Episcopal Church and he and his talented and charming wife have two children, Adrienne aria, eight, and Luther Hilton Foster III, seven.

The new president assumes office June First.

Dr. Foster Wins Out Over Four

Dr. Luther Hilton Foster, jr., business manager of Tuskegee Institute for the past 11 years, took over as fourth president of the institution on June 1.

The Virginia-born educator was named to the position by the Trustee board Saturday morning at 11 a.m. He was chosen from a field of five who were being considered.

Announcement that the 40-year-old Dr. Foster had been selected to succeed Dr. F. D. Patterson, who resigned to become director of the Phelps-Stokes Fund, was announced officially by Basil O'Connor, chairman of the trustee board.

EXPRESS CONFIDENCE

In making the announcement, Mr. O'Connor said the trustees "express complete confidence in the ability of Dr. Foster to give Tuskegee the continued high type of leadership it has always had."

Others who had been considered for the post included Dr. H. F. Price, president of LeMoyne college; Dr. Robert C. Hatch, of the Alabama State Education department; Dr. G. Robert Cotton, of Topeka, Kansas, and Dr. Samuel Milton Nabrit, of Atlanta university.

The new president selected by an eight-member nominating committee is the son of the late Luther Hilton Foster, Sr., former president of Virginia State college at Petersburg, Va. He has been identified with education nearly all his life.

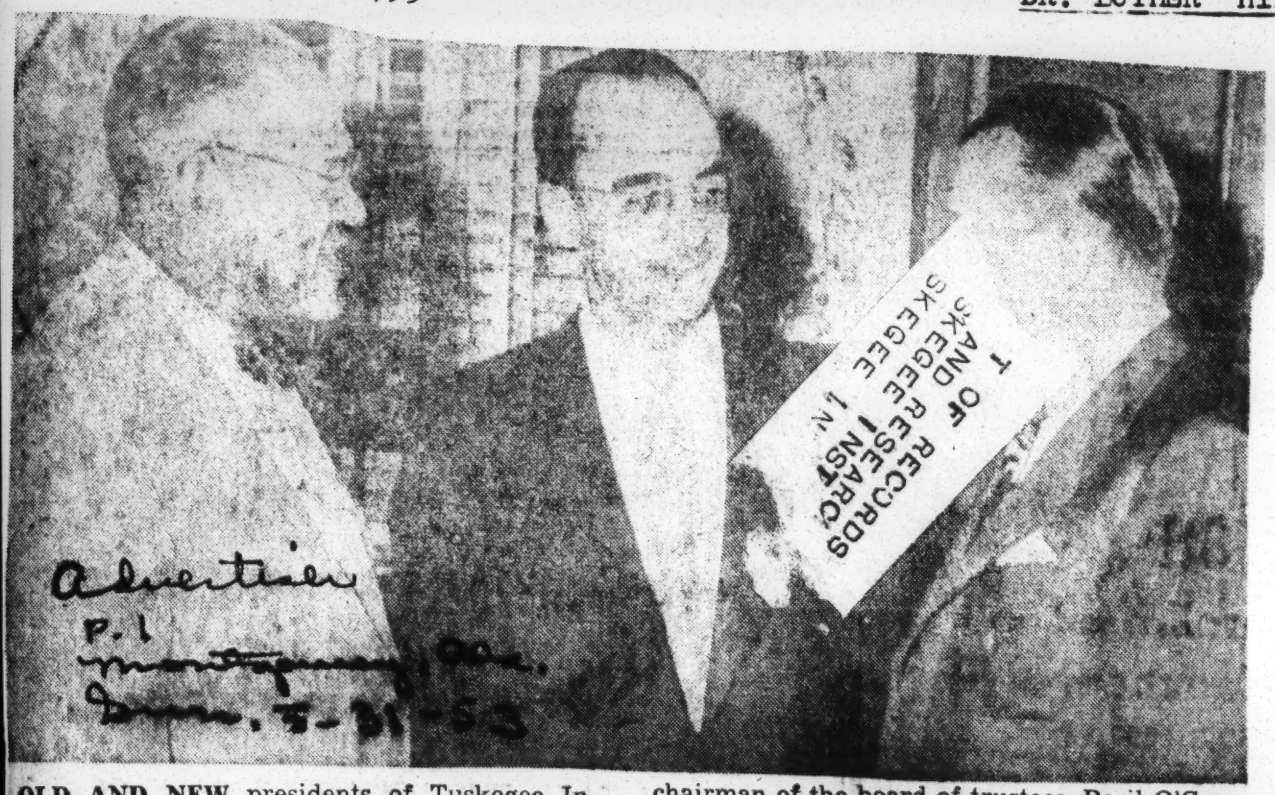
EDUCATIONAL BACKGROUND

Dr. Foster received the bachelor of science degree from Virginia State and Hampton Institute and earned the master's degree in business administration from Harvard. He holds the master's degree and a Ph.D. degree from Chicago university.

Before coming to Tuskegee, Dr. Foster served as budget director officer at Howard university in Washington, D. C.

The new prexy is married and the father of two children.

NEW TUSKEGEE PRESIDENT—Dr. Luther Hilton Foster, Jr., (center) here shown after being elected to the presidency of Tuskegee Institute. Represented in the picture, in addition to Basil O'Connor, chairman of the Board, and Dr. F. D. Patterson, whom Dr. Foster succeeded, are: (left to right) A. V. Weaver, Birmingham, John H. Pinson, Geiger, Dr. Patterson, Dr. W. J. Terry, Montgomery, Dr. Foster, Chairman O'Connor, Henry Neill Segrest, Tuskegee; Frank S. Tennille, Montgomery, and A. G. Gaston, Birmingham.



Advertiser
P. 1
Montgomery, Ala.
Dec. 5-31-53

OLD AND NEW presidents of Tuskegee Institute. Dr. Fred D. Patterson (left) retiring president; his successor, Dr. L. H. Foster, and chairman of the board of trustees, Basil O'Connor, meet following the announcement of Foster's election as the new president of the institute.

Foster Elected At Tuskegee

4th President Named At Negro Institute

TUSKEGEE, Ala., May 30 (AP)—A Virginia-born Negro educator, Dr. Luther Hilton Foster Jr., 40, today was elected Tuskegee Institute's fourth president.

His selection to succeed Dr. F. D. Patterson, who resigned to become educational director of the Phelps Stokes fund, was announced by Basil O'Connor, chairman of the Tuskegee Board of Trustees.

In making the announcement O'Connor, a former law partner of the late President Franklin D. Roosevelt, said the trustees expressed "complete confidence in the ability of Dr. Foster to give Tuskegee the continued high-type leadership it has always had."

Dr. Foster, who has been business manager at Tuskegee for 11 years, officially takes over as president of the famed Negro college next Monday.

Like his father, the late Dr. L. H. Foster Sr. who was president of Virginia State College at Petersburg, Va., the new Tuskegee president has been identified with Negro education nearly all his life.

Before coming to Tuskegee, Dr. Foster was budget officer at Howard University, Washington, D.C.

Sun. 5-31-53

As Tuskegee president he succeeds three other distinguished Negro educators. The late Dr. Booker T. Washington, founder of the school served as its first president. He was replaced by Dr. Robert R. Moton, and Patterson took his place.

Dr. Foster graduated from Virginia State College and Hampton Institute with B.S. degrees. He got his Master's degree in business administration at Harvard and M.Ph. degree from the University of Chicago.

While at Tuskegee, Foster served as a member of the president's staff and the board of trustees of the George Washington Carver Foundation of which he is treasurer.

The new Tuskegee president is secretary of the America Association of College Business Officers. He is also a member of the editorial board of the National Committee on publication of college business manuals.

Dr. Foster is married and the father of two children, Adrienne Maria, 8, and Luther H. Foster III. He is a vestryman at the St. Andrews Episocpal Church here.

Foster New Tuskegee President

Louisville P.1

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, Ala. —Dr. Luther Hilton Foster, jr., 40-year-old business administrator of Tuskegee Institute, was elected Tuskegee Institute's fourth president at a meeting of the board of trustees held here Memorial day. He assumed office June 1.

Courier-Journal 5-30-53

In making the announcement, chairman of the board Basil O' Conner expressed the complete confidence of the board in the abilities of the new president.

The election climaxed a search for a successor to Dr. F. D. Patterson who on March 11 1953 tendered his resignation to become the educational director of the Phelps Stokes Fund.

A COVETED POST

The presidency of Tuskegee Institute because of the high calibre of men who have held the position is looked upon as a position of leadership and service.

Booker T. Washington founder of Tuskegee Institute received international acclaim for his statesmanship and pioneer work in industrial education. No less was true of Robert R. Moton who continued Dr. Washington's role of leadership and expanded greatly the resources of the institute.

Dr. Foster the son of the late Dr. Luther Hilton Foster sr., who gave many years of distinguished service as president of Virginia State college at Petersburg, Va., has keen knowledge of the operations of Tuskegee Institute through his eleven years of service in his previous position. He holds the B. S. degree from both Virginia State college and Hampton Institute. He also holds the M. B. A. from Harvard university and a M. A. and a Ph.D. from the university of Chicago. Prior to coming to Tuskegee Dr. Foster was budget officer of Howard university, Washington D. C.

Louisville Courier-Journal

FAMILIAR WITH DUTIES

He has been an intimate part of Tuskegee Institute since coming here. He served in addition to his duties as business administrator as a member of the president's staff and member of the board of trustees of the George Washington Carver foundation of which he is also treasurer.

He is secretary of the American Association of College Business Officers and a member of the Editorial Board of the National committee on Publication of a college business manual.

Dr. Foster is a vestryman in the St. Andrews Episcopal church and he and his talented and charming wife have two children, Adrienne Maria, eight and Luther Hilton Foster III. seven.

Foster New Tuskegee President

DR. LUTHER HILTON FOSTER, (seated, second from right) new president of Tuskegee Institute, with trustees who elected him. At the new administrator's left are Sen. John H. Pinson, and Dr. F. D. Patterson, succeeds as president. Other trustees are (standing, left to right) Archie A. Alexander, Des Moines, Iowa; Frank Tennille, Montgomery, Ala.; William Rosenwald, New York; Claude A. Barnett, Chicago; Thomas D. Russell, Alexander City, Ala., A. Wiebel, Birmingham; Daniel W. Andrews, Winston-Salem, N. C.; Dr. W. J. Terry, State Supt. of Education of Alabama, and A. G. Gaston, Birmingham.

Dr. Foster New Tuskegee Head

TUSKEGEE, Ala., May 30—(AP) Dr. Luther H. Foster Jr., 40, business manager of Tuskegee Institute, Saturday was elevated to the presidency of the famed Negro college by its boards of trustees.

Foster was unanimously named to the post to succeed Dr. F. D. Patterson, who has resigned to become director of the Phelps Stokes Fund.

The new president, a graduate of Virginia State College, and Hampton Institute, is a native of Virginia, where his father, the late Dr. L. H. Foster Sr., was president of Virginia State.

Foster will be the fourth president of the institute, founded in 1881 by the late Negro educator, Booker T. Washington.

Dr. Foster has been business manager at Tuskegee for the past 11 years. He holds a Ph.D. degree from the University of Chicago.

He won out over four other Negro educators who had been under consideration for president.

Dr. Luther H. Foster Jr. New Tuskegee President

TUSKEGEE, Ala.—Dr. Luther H. Foster Jr., 40-year-old business administrator of Tuskegee Institute was elected Tuskegee Institute's fourth president at a meeting of the board of trustees held here Saturday.

The new president assumed office June 1.

In making the announcement, chairman of the board Basil O'Conner expressed the complete confidence of the board in the abilities of the new president.

The election climaxed a search for a successor to Dr. F. D. Patterson who on March 11 tendered his resignation to become the educational director of the Phelps-Stokes Fund.

High Calibre Men

The presidency of Tuskegee Institute, because of the high calibre of men who have held the position, is looked upon as a position of leadership and service.

Booker T. Washington, founder of Tuskegee Institute, received international acclaim for his statesmanship and pioneer work in industrial education. No less was true of Robert R. Moton who continued Dr. Washington's role of leadership and expanded greatly the resources of the Institute.

Dr. Foster, the son of the late Dr. Luther H. Foster Sr., who gave many years of distinguished service as president of Virginia State college at Petersburg, Va., has keen knowledge of the operations of Tuskegee Institute through his 11 years of service in his previous position.

List Of Degrees

He holds the B.S. degree from both Virginia State college and Hampton institute. He also holds the M.B.A. from Harvard University and a M.A. and a Ph.D. from the University of Chicago.

Prior to coming to Tuskegee, Dr. Foster was budget officer of Howard University, Washington, D.C.

He has been an intimate part of Tuskegee Institute since coming here. He served, in addition to his duties as business administrator, as a member of the president's staff and member of the board of trustees of the George Washington Carver Foundation of which he is also treassurer.

He is secretary of the American Association of College Business Officers and a member of the editorial board of the National committee on Publication of a College Business Manual.

Dr. Foster is a vestryman in the St. Andrews Episcopal church and he and his talented and charming wife have two children, Adriene Maria, 8, and Luther H. Foster 3rd, 7.

14n 1953

DR. F.D. PATTERSON, PRESIDENT -TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE
RESIGNATION

Albert BARNETT

Writer Refers To Interesting Facts About World And People

THE RESIGNATION OF DR. F. D. PATTERSON as third president of Tuskgee Institute, brings to mind some of the notable achievements of his administration which lasted for 18 years.

Carrying on in the tradition of the school's famed founder, Dr. Booker T. Washington, Dr. Patterson, soon after he took the helm in 1934, devoted himself to the task of getting more money for Tuskegee so that more unskilled hands could be turned to profitable use in the struggle for economic independence.

At that time, Tuskegee's main source of financial support came from grants by wealthy philanthropists, special foundations and other interested groups, with a small, but increasing sum contributed by loyal alumni organizations throughout the country.

Alarmed at a reported 50 percent decrease in income to Tuskegee—and the other private Negro colleges—Dr. Patterson called public attention to their plight and suggested that the schools should cooperate in an annual fund-raising project.

As a result, the United Negro College Fund was organized in October, 1943, and the following year was incorporated under the membership laws of New York State.

Response to this annual appeal on the part of the public, has been gratifying to Fund officials. As a result of this response, it has helped reduce the annual deficit between the total income and total operating expense of the 32 member colleges. The annual deficit averages about 10 percent of the school's income. Toward meeting this, Fund officials, through various campaign drives, raised $1,375,000 in 1952.

Total amount raised since the Fund was incorporated nine years ago, is more than 11 million dollars. This, in itself, is a remarkable tribute to Dr. Patterson who conceived the idea, then followed through to help make it a reality.

In Chicago last week, Dr. W. J. Trent, national director of the Fund, assured this writer that Dr. Patterson will retain his post as president of the Capital Fund—which has a goal of 25 million dollars to be used for building and expansion programs of the member schools. Largest single contribution to the Capital Fund was 5 million dollars, by John D Rockefeller, jr.

Many consider the outstanding achievement of Dr. Patterson's administration was his one-story, four room cottage made in 1947 of concrete blocks and constructed at a cost of ONLY $1,000. It spelled victory for Tuskegee's eight-year struggle to bring adequate housing within the reach of the average farmer, who by furnishing the labor himself—had only to pay actual cost of the material. A similar house, let out by contract would cost $7,000 to $8,000.

After various tests for material had been made without success it was Dr. Patterson's suggestion in 1946 that finally solved the problem. Assembling the staff of the Department of Mechanical Industries at the institute, he said:

"Why not use a concrete block? The ingredients are cement and gravel, and water and labor. Since gravel can be found in almost any creek bed a farmer would only have to BUY THE CEMENT in order to make them."

Dr. Patterson's idea was accepted and the details worked out by his staff. After a series of experiments, a mixture of one part cement to six parts of pit run gravel was used.

Several weeks later when the concrete blocks were pulled from the wooden forms and dried, they were taken to the building site where construction was started. The blocks were used for exterior walls, for chimneys and for all interior partitions. Louis E. Fry, architect and housing consultant, in a pamphlet titled "It Can Happen Here," published in 1947, explained the novel features and advantages of the new concrete cottage. He stated in part:

"Houses with concrete floors in direct contact with the earth are cooler in summer than those made of wood. . . . Walls and floors of concrete are rat proof because they cannot be knawed. They are termite proof because termites cannot digest cement and gravel. They are roach and ant resistant because there are fewer cracks.

"The floors can be scrubbed without hurting them and if properly treated they are practically scuff proof. Concrete cannot burn, so houses built this way are more fire-resistant than the more usual types . . . . Other parts of the house are more orthodox. The roof is framed of wood in the usual manner and covered with asbestos-cement shingles. Ceilings are of insulation board in large sheets, painted to match the walls. Doors and windows together with their frames are of stock patterns.

"Heating, lighting and plumbing are handled in the usual way, except that they are a bit more adequate. The result of all this is that a very pleasant place to live has been created. Its strongest appeal is that IT CAN BE BUILT BY FARMERS WITH SMALL CASH OUTLAY"

All this is a deserved tribute to a great president of a great institution, for Dr. Frederick Douglas Patterson, like his predecessors, Dr. Booker T. Washington and Dr. Robert Russa Moton—was motivated by the single idea of helping his fellow man enjoy some of the blessings and comforts of life.

Dr. Patterson was tactful, prudent and determined. When once he had charted his course neither storm nor tide could deter him from it. He had the common touch but best of all common sense—the knack of knowing what to do and how to do it. Matthews, great student and observer must have had Dr. Patterson in mind when he wrote this gem:

"The crown of all faculties is common sense. It is not enough to do the right thing; it must be done at the right time and place. Talent knows WHAT TO DO. Tact knows WHEN AND HOW TO DO IT."

Tuskegee Should Turn Polytechnic

George S. Schuyler In The Pittsburgh Courier

THE trustees of Tuskegee Institute will have the task in June of selecting a new president to replace the capable Dr. Frederick D. Patterson, who rapleces Dr. Channing Tobias at the Phelps-Stokes Fund. In addition to that difficult task, I think they should consider the question of whether Tuskegee should not become a different kind of school than it has been in recent years. Their answer will determine what kind of president they should select because whoever they choose will head the institution for many years. What the curricula should be ought, in my opinion, be determined by the changing character of American civilization and the problems and opportunities Negroes will face.

Booker T. Washington (who was much maligned by the DuBois school of thought) was sounder than his critics because he stressed the philosophy of pragmatic preparation for the immediate problems facing the newly emancipated freed-men who lacked knowledge and skills necessary for successful living where they were.

The Negro population of the South was predominantly rural and largely ignorant of the fundamentals of prospering in that area. Ruined by a disastrous war brought upon itself, the South needed rebuilding, peace and prosperity, so that a higher standard of living might be enjoyed by its inhabitants, black and white, who were equally ignorant and burdened by the front porch philosophy and racial antagonism stemming from the vicious system of chatel slavery.

HOW to live off the land, how to build houses and barns, how to improve health and diet, how to know something about the world beyond them and the necessity for co-operation and thrift—these were the immediate needs. Tuskegee Institute not only did that job but inspired others to do likewise. Its example was copied all over the world.

The South had changed and is changing. Industry and manufacture have greatly increased in importance in that section. The rural population has declined and the urban population grown. The typical Southerner, black and white, is a town and city dweller. The one-crop system is almost a thing of the past and diversification is the order of the day.

The demand for mechanically skilled labor is ever growing, and engineers, chemists and other technical professions, has increased. There has been marked migration not only from country to city but from the South to the North, East and West where industralization is even more advanced than in Dixie.

Obviously, preparation for a new kind of existence is needed, especially by Negroes, if they are to keep pace with the economic demands of the time. Preparation for merely teaching school, doing hand tailoring, laying brick, shoeing mules, fashioning clothing out of flour sacks, and learning other handicrafts is clearly not enough.

What is needed now is not a primitive trade school but a polytechnic institute, a technical college on a par with the best such as Stevens Institute, the Rennselaer Polytechnic and the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, an institution which will prepare young Negroes for the Atomic Age. There are a sufficient number of liberal arts colleges to supply the other needs.

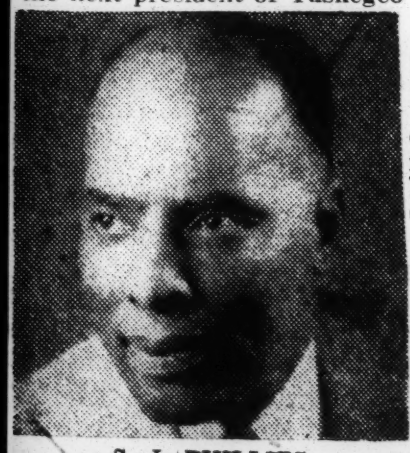
WHAT is needed is an institution concerned primarily with enabling young Negroes to avail themselves of the new opportunities being offered to them by the virtue of the rapidly changing point of view as to their place in the economic scheme of things. While we contend for fair employment practices, we have to be able to function where and when they are granted or won. What more appropriate place to do this than Tuskegee Institute?

If the trustees can be persuaded to make Tuskegee that kind of school exclusively, there are quite a few men capable of heading up the job on the basis of what they have accomplished. I am thinking of a man like S. J. Phillips, president of the Booker T. Washington Memorial Foundation, the man responsible for restoring the Booker T. Washington Birthplace in Virginia, the coining and distribution of the B. T. Washington memorial half-dollar and more recently the Washington Carver half-dollar. These accomplishments alone would not necessarily qualify him to head a technical school, but the successful operation of his fine industrial school in Roanoke, Va., recognized by the U.S. Government and the State of Virginia, certainly does. It has turned out hundreds of skilled workers capable of holding their own in modern industry.

S. J. Phillips is one of the few men I know who possesses the kind of vision needed to prepare young Negroes to measure up to the exacting requirements of the new industrial age. As a Tuskegee alumnus and a believer in the tradition of that institution, he understands that in a civilization like this one cannot survive without the necessary technical qualifications. American industry and commerce are crying for skilled workers and technicians, and they are in short supply. The time for us to take advantage of this situation is now. We just need the vision and the will to do it.

Dr. Jemison Backing S. J. Phillips for 'Skegee President

SELMA, Ala. — Dr. D. V. Jemison, president of the National Baptist Convention, USA, Inc., has endorsed a native Alabamian, S. J. Phillips, president of the Booker T. Washington Birthplace Memorial, for the next president of Tuskegee



S. J. PHILLIPS

Institute, and has written the board of trustees of that institution requesting that consideration be given this endorsement.

In stating reasons for his support of Phillips, Dr. Jemison says that he has known the candidate for years; that he has a good Christian background; that he is well-trained, has wide contact and experience, and knows how to make friends and deal with people of all races and sections.

"Phillips," says Dr. Jemison, "has been able to take the teachings of Booker T. Washington and apply them to today's needs in such a manner that great good has been accomplished for our most underprivileged classes. He has been able too, to get the support of the Congress of the United States to such an extent that in three instances legislation has been passed that add to the dignity and pride of our people (the minting of the Booker T. Washington half dollar; the Carver-Washington half dollar, and the establishment of the birthplace of George Washington Carver as a national shrine).

As president of Tuskegee Institute he could render invaluable service to our people —and to the South in particular and the nation in general."

Foster May Get Tuskegee Nod

Educator 1st Of 5 Considered For Post

TUSKEGEE, Ala., May 23—A 40-year-old Negro educator whose father was a college president in Virginia was reliably reported today to have a better than even chance to become the new head of famed Tuskegee Institute.

Dr. L. H. Foster Jr., who has been Tuskegee's business manager for 11 years, is one of five men still being considered by the school's board of trustees to succeed President F. D. Patterson when he leaves this summer.

Dr. Patterson has resigned to become educational director of the Phelps-Stokes fund.

An eight-member screening committee of Tuskegee board members meets in Montgomery May 29 to decide on its recommendation to the other trustees. The report will be made to the board at a meeting at Tuskegee the following day.

Although Tuskegee, which was founded by the late Booker T. Washington, is a private institution, the State of Alabama appropriates $300,000 a year to help pay the costs of operation. Thus, six Alabamians are on the board of trustees, including the state superintendent of education who serves as an ex-officio member.

Three of those — Supt. W. J. Terry, State Sen. John Pinson of Sumter County and former State Rep. Henry Neill Segrest of Tuskegee — are on the nominating committee.

Usually well-informed sources around the state capitol mention Dr. Foster as the favorite among the five candidates for president still under consideration. He reportedly has the endorsement of Dr. Patterson himself.

Foster, a native of Lawrenceville, Va., is a graduate of Tuskegee who later won a Ph.D. degree from the University of Chicago.

His father, the late Dr. L. H. Foster Sr., was president of Virginia State College.

The other four Negro educators still being mentioned are:

Hollis Freeman Price, 48, president of LeMoyne College at Memphis who has had three years of graduate work at Columbia University.

Dr. Robert C. Hatch, 46, state supervisor of instruction in the division of Negro education in the Alabama State Education Department and a parttime instructor at Alabama State College for Negroes at Montgomery. He attended Alabama State and Fisk University and has a Ph.D. from Columbia.

Dr. G. Robert Cotton 43, president of Kansas Technical Institute at Topeka, Kan., who got his Ph.D. at Ohio State.

Dr. Samuel Milton Nabrit, dean of the graduate school at Atlanta University.

Dr. Patterson, a veterinarian and former professor of veterinary medicine at Tuskegee, is the third president in the history of the famed Negro college.

Washington, the founder, was succeeded as head of the school by Dr. Robert R. Moton, and Patterson took Moton's place.

In his new job with the Phelps Stakes fund, the outgoing Tuskegee president will replace Dr. Channing Tobias, the Georgia-born leader in racial affairs.

Tuskegee's Next President

The Board of Trustees of Tuskegee and a sub-committee from that body are now considering the problem of finding a new president for Tuskegee Institute. They should have the prayers and the good wishes of all Americans, that they may be fully successful in their endeavors. What kind of a president should they be looking for? One good place to start looking might be to muse with the late Booker T. Washington, founder of the Institution. In the first place, Mr. Washington saw more clearly than many of our present-day colleges seem to realize that there is primarily need for identifying what goes on at the campus with the problems of the masses of the people in community life. In his "Up From Slavery," he said:

"We try to keep constantly in mind the fact that the worth of the school is to be judged by its graduates. Counting those who have finished the full course, together with those who have taken enough training to enable them to do reasonably good work, we can safely say that at least six thousand men and women from Tuskegee are now at work in different parts of the South; men and women who, by their example or by direct effort, are showing the masses of our race how to improve their material, educational, and moral and religious life."

If "the worth of the school is to be judged by its graduates," then it is no great tribute to what has been done at Tuskegee since Mr. Washington died in 1915, if the Board of Trustees is unable to find a Tuskegee graduate who can translate the dreams of Booker T. Washington into the demands and the needs of 1953. There are undoubtedly many more thousands of Tuskegee people in community life than were there when Mr. Washington wrote his famous autobiography, and the proper and effective organization of these thousands alone could mean a new day for Tuskegee Institute.

Mr. Washington also said this in "Up From Slavery": "Ten years ago I organized at Tuskegee the first Negro Conference. This in an annual gathering which now brings to the school eight or nine hundred representative men and women of the race, who come to spend a day in finding out what the actual industrial, mental, and moral conditions of the people are, and in forming plans for improvement." Here is a clear intent to identify what goes on at Tuskegee with what is needed in the community, and to fashion the school's training accordingly.

While the methods and the techniques of 1953 make new and different demands, the principles remain the same. So, what type of person should be Tuskegee's next president? It all depends upon what those who have the power consider the purpose of Tuskegee to be in 1953. What role do they believe that Tuskegee should play in the twin community problem of struggle to break the barriers of segregation and discrimination and of making continued progress toward a better life in the iterim? How can Tuskegee and its graduates best be organized and directed to deal with this problem

14n 1953

DR. F.D. PATTERSON, PRESIDENT- TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE
RESIGNATION

Why Dr. Patterson Quit Tuskegee!

TUSKEGEE, Ala. — Why did Dr. Frederick D. Patterson resign as president of Tuskegee Institute?

Whom will trustees likely name as his successor when they meet here on the campus April 11?

The Tuskegee presidency pays an annual salary of $12,000. It also provides a house, food, upkeep, entertainment expense all of which adds $8,000 more to the president's income.

At the age of 52, Dr. Patterson leaves Tuskegee to become director of the Phelps - Stokes fund in New York. This new position reputedly pays only $6,500 a year.

Several Reasons Given

Why would anybody quit one job to accept another at a 60 per cent salary reduction?

Several reasons have been suggested in Dr. Patterson's case. For 18 years as Tuskegee's president, he's been forced to spend 70 per cent of his time traveling raising funds.

He has been forced to sacrifice his family life. He sees little of his wife, the former Catherine Moton, and his son, Frederick Jr., 12.

He has been thinking of making a change for a long time. He has decided to do it while he still has 13 active years to devote to his new work.

Fewer Headaches Seen

He'll have fewer headaches with the Phelps-Stokes fund. And above all, after 24 strenuous years, he'll be able to exchange the pressure of living in Alabama for the freer air of New York.

Why Dr. Patterson Leaves Tuskegee

New Post Pays About Half Present $20,000 Job

Why did Dr. Frederick D. Patterson resign as president of Tuskegee (Ala.) Institute?

Whom will trustees name as his successor April 11?

What is the new job Dr. Patterson will take in New York?

Heretofore Tuskegee's presidency has been considered a life-time job.

Booker T. Washington held it for 34 years (1881-1915). His successor, Robert R. Moton, 20 years (1915-35), and Dr. Patterson, 18 years (1935-53).

The job pays $12,000, house, food, upkeep, and entertainment expense, the probable equivalent of $20,000.

At the age of 52, Dr. Patterson leaves Tuskegee to become director of the Phelps-Stokes Fund in New York at a salary said to be $6,500.

Excellent Record

Friends explain that Dr. Patterson has an excellent record at Tuskegee, increased its budget from one to three million dollars.

He expanded the veterinary hospital, commercial dietetics, woman's hospital, polio, and maternal care programs.

The United Negro College Fund was his idea.

The next step in the school's program is expansion of training for jobs. This is an area at some point between a school of engineering and the work being done in land grant colleges.

Job Finished

Friends say Dr. Patterson has made his contribution to Tuskegee and both he and trustees feel the new work should be placed on younger shoulders.

Actually, he has been 25 years at the school, seven years as teacher, 18 years as president.

He spends 70 per cent of his time on the road raising money and living out of a suit case.

He sees his family too little, especially his son of 12.

Planned For Some Time

He has been thinking of making a change for a long time. If he is going to do it, they say, he should, while he has 13 active years to devote to his new work.

He leaves Tuskegee, one trustee said, with the "finest good wishes of all trustees and everybody else."

At Phelps-Stokes, he will have a chance to continue many of the things he is doing at Tuskegee.

Successors

Probable successors include Dr. Luther H. Foster Jr., Tuskegee business manager; Dr. Irving A. Derbingny, dean and vice-president; Dr. Robert C. Weaver, director of John H. Whitney Foundation.

Others are Dr. Laurence Foster, dean of Lincoln U. (Pa.), Dr. Alphonse Heningburg of Queens College, NYC, who was the alumni's choice to succeed Dr. Moton in 1935.

Also mentioned are Dr. Alonzo G. Moron, president of Hampton and Dr. Robert P. Daniel, president of Virginia State college.

Dr. Moron is new at Hampton and a spokesman said he is too busy to consider a change.

What College Heads Say

Commenting on the Patterson resignation, one educator said, "Patterson has done a beautiful job at Tuskegee. Perhaps he wants to move on to something else while he is young enough to move."

Another said, "The closing years of a college president are not usually as productive as his earlier years. He'll have fewer headaches at Phelps-Stokes."

Still another added this: "Any college president who had spent 25 years in Alabama an gets a chance to work in New York deserves to make a change."

"I came from Mississippi to a northern school years ago," a college president told the AFRO. "I was making $4,000 in Mississippi. My new job paid only $2,500."

Dr. Patterson isn't leaving because of pressure from the state of Alabama, the AFRO was told. "The state appropriation is $500,000 a year, and state white trustees work as hard for the school as any of the northern trustees."

Phelps-Stokes

Some data on Phelps-Stokes Fund:

Phelps - Stokes Fund (1911): original endowment $936,000; 101 Park ave., N.Y. 17, N.Y.

The Fund has devoted its major attention to education of colored people and race relations in the U.S. and Africa, and the improvement of housing conditions in New York City.

It has sponsored the University Commission on Race Relations; the Commission on Interracial Co-operation; the Committee on Colored Americans in Defense Industries; The Committee on Africa, the War, and Peace Aims; and various interracial institutes.

The Fund is now especially concerned with advancing projects in the interest of improving training of colored ministers, in promoting mutually sympathetic race relations through education, and in the work of advancing education in Liberia.

Dr. Patterson Resigns

The resignation of Dr. Frederick Douglass Patterson as president of Tuskegee Institute came as a surprise to the educational world.

He explained that he had spent 24 strenuous years at the Alabama school, 18 of them as president during a crucial period in the institute's history.

He expressed the desire to devote more time to his family and to do this he was willing to make way for a younger man to take over Tuskegee's presidency.

Dr. Patterson as Tuskegee's third president worked administrative miracles in raising the school's budget from $1 million when he took over to its present $3 million.

He skillfully consolidated the gains of his predecessors and persuaded the State of Alabama to contribute half a million dollars annually to the school's upkeep. Many temporary wooden structures on the campus were replaced by permanent brick buildings.

He worked untiringly to make a success of the United Negro College Fund campaign. It can truthfully be said this cooperative effort to meet the financial plight of the small, private college is a monument to his perspicacity.

Booker T. Washington established Tuskegee in 1881 and served as its president 34 years until his death in 1916.

Robert Russa Moton after 19 years at the helm retired in 1935 only because of poor health.

Dr. Patterson has held the presidency 18 years and resigns at the age of 52 to take a job not quite so strenuous and which permitted him to reside in the less racially hostile atmosphere of New York.

Maybe this whole thing can be attributed to the tremendous pressure of modern times. Dr. Patterson on one occasion revealed that he spent the major portion of his time on the road living out of a suitcase while raising funds.

Perhaps our major educational institutions like Tuskegee have grown to such huge proportions that men elected to head them can no longer consider such appointments as lifetime jobs.

See Foster as Tuskegee's Next President

Who'll be the president of Tuskegee Institute, when Dr. F. D. Patterson leaves in June for New York? Luther Foster, business manager of Tuskegee, is said to have the inside track. He also is reported to have the blessings of Dr. Patterson . . .

Gloom Covers Tuskegee, Students, Faculty Await Word Of New Prexy

By FAY YOUNG

TUSKEGEE, Ala.—A shroud of gloom engulfs the campus of Tuskegee Institute over the resignation of Dr. Frederick Douglass Patterson as president. The early spring which sent the thermometer into the 80's, the varied colored blooms of the azelias and roses and the sweet scented jassamine vied with the honeysuckle while myraid of deep purple (some times white) of the Asiatic wisteria and the blossoming fruit trees all was for naught.

Faculty members heads of the various departments of the institure, the veterinary schools, the Carver Research laboratory and the John Andrew Memorial hospital talked in low tones.

All the beauty of the campus and the flowers is lost in the gloom. Tuskegee Institute is sad—and so are its people. The student body passes with a puzzled look on the individual faces. The parade to the chapel Sunday morning seemed to have lost its military precision. After the services, little groups gathered and whispered.

Dr. Patterson had resigned, effective of June 1. The resignation had been accpeted by the board of trustees.

Who will succeed him? If Dr. Patterson, who returned to the campus Sunday, knows—he isn't talking. The trustees will meet here in April, vote to elect and announce the result.

There is a strong belief that the trustees know now who will be named. Also if they were not sure that the institution founded by the late Booker T. Washington in 1881 would be left in safe hands, these students would have asked Dr Patterson to delay his resignation. Instead they not only accpeted it but announced that Dr. Patterson would assume duties with the Phelps Stokes Fund left vacant by the retirement of Dr. Channing H. Tobias.

Who is THE man?. Right now the guess is that it is between Dr. Irving A. Derbigy, vice president with a doctorate in education from Columbia university, and Luther H. Foster jr., with a Master in Business Administration from Harvard university and a doctorate in school management from the University of Chicago. Ernest Neal, with an M. A. from Fisk and assistant professor of sociology in the school of education and a Dr. Alonzo Davis, who heads that department, have been suggested, An outsider just wouldn't do.

Robert R. Moton, jr., son of the late president of the institute and executive assistant to Dr. Patterson is expected to resign this week. His position is an appointed one.

Dr. Patterson is the first member of the institute's faculty with an earned doctorate. He received it from Cornell university, Ithica, N. Y., in bacteriology. He assumed charge of the agriculture department following the murder of Russell Atkins by one J. D. Thompson. The slayer was sent to the state hospital for mental diseases for life.

Dr. Patterson was elected president in April 1935 on a Sunday morning after the trustees were deadlocked six and six Saturday. Charles Johnson, now president of Fisk and at that time connected with Dillard university, had a strong backing headed by Edgar B. Stern, president of the New Orleans cotton exchange and son-in-law of the late Julius Rosenwald who was a strong financial supporter of both Washington and Moton. He was eliminated.

Ligon Wilson, president of Snow Hill (Ala.) Institute and a graduate of Tuskegee, and Frederick D. Patterson remained. The trustees went to the home of Dr. Moton, a very sick man, on that Sunday morning. Moton, whose daughter, Katherine, later married Dr. Patterson the third man to rule the educational kingdom founded by Dr. Washington.

All agree that Dr. Patterson has done an excellent job. There are some who have fought him—but to no avail. Now as he leaves—all join hands in paying him a glowing tribute. They do not blame him from relinquishing the man-killing job but it breaks their hearts to see him leave.

Our Opinions

Tuskegee's Opportunity

The sudden and unexpected resignation last week of Dr. Frederick D. Patterson as president of Tuskegee creates a vacancy at the institution that should not be filled without the most careful consideration by those empowered to choose Dr. Patterson's successor.

Dr. Patterson was the institution's third president following Dr. Robert Russa Moten, who retired, and Dr. Booker T. Washington first head of the school.

Dr. Patterson is leaving Tuskegee where he rose from relative obscurity to national prominence in the educational world after 25 years of service. He has been faithful to the traditions of the school and none of his predecessors was any more conscientious.

In his new capacity as head of the important Phelps Stokes Fund we hope that Dr. Patterson continues to develop stature. With his academic background and experience we feel that he has the equipment necessary to meet the challenges of his new job.

Tuskegee is one of the nation's most important educational centers because it is the keystone of an educational philosophy advocated by Dr. Washington. Institutions throughout the world have been patterned after Tuskegee which is vindication of Washington who had many critics during his career. The school itself has rendered great service in war as well as in time of peace.

The question in our mind is whether Tuskegee with its great physical plant, its tradition and possibilities has exploited all its potentialities.

We feel that the next president of Tuskegee should be chosen with possibility in mind that Tuskegee has a new mission in this atomic age, this age when more doors are open to Negroes than ever before, this age when progress is speeded up, when the ingenuity of man challenges every gain.

We hope that Tuskegee in the future will continue to keep its position of leadership in the phase of education in which it specializes and we hope the new president will be an architect for such leadership.

Quits

DR. F. D. PATTERSON

Patterson Quits At Tuskegee

By FAY YOUNG

TUSKEGEE, Ala. — A thunderbolt struck Tuskegee Institute suddenly Monday afternoon March 9, when at a faculty meeting Dr. Frederick D. Patterson, president of the Institute with tears streaming down his checks announced his resignation, effective June 1, 1953.

No intimation had been heard of Dr. Patterson's decision which he explained was due to the advice of his physician. His present life had been too strenuous and he was sorry to leave. Dr. Patterson will take the place of Dr. Channing H. Tobias, retired, with the Phelps Stokes foundation in New York city.

Faculty members, previously unaware of Dr. Patterson's position left the meeting in tears. Dr. Patterson said in his talk that he hoped a successor would be picked from one of their group (meaning the faculty).

Although no definite person has been named, those who may be considered are Robert Moton, son of the late Robert R. Moton, president of Tuskegee, who has been Dr. Patterson's assistant; Dr. Luther H. Foster, business manager, and Dr. I. A. Derbigny, vice president of the institution. Dr. Foster has his Ph.D. degree in business administration. Dr. Derbigny has his Ph.D. in education.

Unit Meets On 'Skegee Prexy

NEW YORK—A six-man committee of trustees of famed Tuskegee Institute met for the first time yesterday to choose a president of the institution to succeed Dr. Frederick Douglas Patterson who resigned recently.

However, Basil O'Conor, board chairman, made it clear that no president had actually been chosen.

O'Conor asserted that "specific names were discussed without the availability of persons being known. No conclusions were reached. This was a preliminary discussion."

14n 1953

DR. F.D. PATTERSON, PRESIDENT -TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE
RESIGNATION

Dr. Patterson Resigns

The announced resignation of Dr. Frederick D. Patterson from the presidency of the famous Tuskegee Institute will be met with serious regret. He brought to this institution that high tone and prestige in keeping with an honored landmark founded by Booker T. Washington and further illustrated by the late Dr. R. R. Moten who was called to the helm upon the death of Dr. Washington. World p. 6

Tuskegee is her own illustration; she has made a contribution across the years upon which she can safely rest her deservedness. The early friends of Booker Washington and their successors, never lost faith in that institution and its management so ably administered by Dr. Patterson.

Dr. Patterson gave the fruit of his best years in carrying on a time honored tradition of which the race and nation will ever be proud.

It is earnestly hoped that he will find more time for recreation as well as many long years of usefulness in the new field t which he aspires.

Our Opinions

Tuskegee's Opportunity

The sudden and unexpected resignation last week of Dr. Frederick D. Patterson as president of Tuskegee creates a vacancy at the institution that should not be filled without the most careful consideration by those empowered to choose Dr. Patterson's successor.

Dr. Patterson was the institution's third president following Dr. Robert Russa Moten, who retired, and Dr. Booker T. Washington first head of the school.

Dr. Patterson is leaving Tuskegee where he rose from relative obscurity to national prominence in the educational world after 25 years of service. He has been faithful to the traditions of the school and none of his predecessors was any more conscientious.

In his new capacity as head of the important Phelps Stokes Fund we hope that Dr. Patterson continues to develope stature. With his academic background and experience we feel that he has the equipment necessary to meet the challenges of his new job.

Tuskegee is one of the nation's most important educational centers because it is the keystone of an educational philosophy advocated by Dr. Washington. Institutions throughout the world have been patterned after Tuskegee which is vindication of Washington who had many critics during his career. The school itself has rendered great service in war as well as in time of peace.

The question in our mind is whether Tuskegee with its great physical plant, its tradition and possibilities has exploited all its potentialities.

We feel that the next president of Tuskegee should be chosen with possibility in mind that Tuskegee has a new mission in this atomic age, this age when more doors are open to Negroes than ever before, this age when progress is speeded up, when the ingenuity of man challenges every gain.

We hope that Tuskegee in the future will continue to keep its position of leadership in the phase of education in which it specializes and we hope the new president will be an architect for such leadership.

To Head Phelps-Stokes Fund Starting June 1st

Tuskegee Institute, Ala.—(ANP)—Dr. Frederick D. Patterson, tdis week announced that he has resigned as president of Tuskegee institute as of June 1, 1953.

The noted educator will become director of the Phelps-Stokes Fund in New York, June 1, replacing Dr. Channing H. Tobias who already is past the retirement age.

In resigning from Tuskegee, Dr. Patterson is concluding 25 years at the famed school, 18 of them as its president. Booker T. Washington, founder, was the first president. serving 34 years, and Robert R. Moton was his successor, serving 18 years.

Dr. Washington died in office, and Dr. Moton served until he felt compelled to retire because of physical disability. Dr. Patterson, although he undoubtedly could have remained at Tuskegee for the rest of his working days, declared in his letter of resignation to the board of trustees that he "had given more than twice the average length of tenure for college administrators."

The Phelps-Stokes Fund was established in 1911 under the will of Miss Caroline Phelps Stokes for work in the field of Negro education both in the United United States and in Africa. Dr. Patterson has been a member of its board for many years.

Basil O'Connor of New York, chairman of the Tuskegee board, in announcing Dr. Patterson's resignation, said it was received "with extreme regret" and would be presented to the board at its next meeting on April 11.

Dr. Paterson in his statement declared:

"It has been a joy and inspiration to work with the faculty and staff at Tuskegee. It is a source of growing satisfaction to note the mounting achievements of the student body and their increased willingness to measure up to full responsibilities of citizenship.

"In going to the Phelps-Stokes Fund, however, I see a promise of usefulness in a broad program of service to educational institutions for Negro youth. During the next few years of transition, I can think of no service more important than that which may assist our institutions to make the most of their resources as they seek to meet fully the standards of higher education."

At Tuskegee, Dr . Patterson came to a school with a budget of less than a million dollars, but now has an annual budget exceeding $3,000,000. He established a school of veterinary medicine which is the only Negro-operated school of its kind in the world and one of the only three such schools in the South.

In the field of low cost housing Dr. Patterson and Tuskegee are pioneers. The federal government now regards Tuskegee as an important resource in that field.

As an educator, Dr. Patterson's outstanding achievement probably was the initiation and development of the United Negro College Fund which he has served as president for the past 10 years. Through the UNCF 32 phivate colleges banded together to raise funds to prevent deficits. Since 1945, the UNCF has raised more than $20,000,000.

Although he is going to the Phelps-Stokes Fund he will continue his work with the UNCF.

Officials of the Phelps-Stokes Fund praised the choice of Dr. Patterson as its new head. Emory Ross, president, said Dr. Patterson's character, training, experience and achievements in education qualify him for his new post. Ross added:

"The international influence of America's success and failures in Negro education and in further facilitating Negro citizens' participation and contribution in American life is greater than ever before. It is a critical element in our world struggle. So also is America's relationship to Africa, its people and their aspirations and problems. The trustees of the improvement of opportunities for disadvantaged groups regardless of race.

Dr. Patterson will remain at Tuskegee until June 1. The Tuskegee board is expected to form a committee to select a new president.

Dr. Tobias said:

"Dr. Patterson has demonstrated by his administration of Tuskegee institute and his pioneering in collective financing of college education that he is fully capable of directing a foundation whose principal objectives in of veterinary medicine and received his M.S. there in 1927. He earned his Ph.D. from Cornell university in 1932.

Before coming to Tuskegee he was an instructor in veterinary science and director of agriculture at Virginia State college.

In 1935, Dr. Patterson was married to Miss Catherine Elizabeth Moton, daughter of the school's

Dr. Patterson was born Oct. 10, 1901. He was graduated from Iowa State college in 1923 as a doc-second president. They have one son, Frederick D. Patterson, Jr., 12 years old.

They will reside in New York after the Tuskegee school year ends.

Noted Educator Ends 25 Years at Famed School; to Direct Stokes-Phelps Fund

Tuskegee Institute, Ala.—(ANP)—Dr. Frederick D. Patterson, this week announced that he has resigned as president of Tuskegee institute as of June 1, 1953.

The noted educator will become director of the Phelps-Stokes Fund in New York, June 1, replacing Dr. Channing H. Tobias who already is past the retirement age.

In resigning from Tuskegee, Dr. Patterson is concluding 25 years at the famed school, 18 of them as its president, serving 34 years, and Robert R. Moton was his successor, serving 18 years.

Dr. Washington died in office, and Dr. Moton served until he felt compelled to retire because of physical disability. Dr. Patterson, although he undoubtedly could have remained at Tuskegee for the rest of his working days, declared in his letter of resignation to the board of trustees that he "had given more than twice the average length of tenure for college administrators."

DR. F. D. PATTERSON

To Work In Education

The Phelps-Stokes Fund was established in 1911 under the will of Miss Caroline Phelps Stokes for work in the field of Negro education both in the United States and in Africa. Dr. Patterson has been a member of its board for many years.

Basil O'Connor of New York, chairman of the Tuskegee board, in announcing Dr. Patterson's resignation, said it was receivced "with extreme regret" and would be presented to the board at its next meeting on April 11.

Dr. Patterson in his statement declared:

"It has been a joy and inspiration to work with the faculty and staff at Tuskegee. It is a source of growing satisfaction to note the mounting achievements of the student body and their increased willingness to measure up to the full responsibilities of citizenship.

Broad Program

"In going to the Phelps-Stokes Fund, however, I see a promise of usefulness in a broad program of service to educational institutions for Negro youth. During the next few years of transition, I can think of no service more important than that which may assist our institutions to make the most of their resources as they seek to meet fully the standards of higher education."

At Tuskegee Dr. Patterson came to a school with a budget of less than a millian dollars, but now has an annual budget exceeding $3,000,000. He established a school of veterinary medicine which is the only Negro-operated school of its kind in the world and one of only three such schools in the South.

In the field of low cost housing Dr. Patterson and Tuskegee are pioneers. The federal government now regards Tuskegee as an important resource in that field.

Outstanding Achievement

As an educator, Dr. Patterson's outstanding achievement probably was the initiation and development of the United Negro College Fund which he has served as president for the past 10 years. Through the UNCF 32 private colleges banded together to raise funds to prevent deficits. Since 1945, the UNCF has raised more than $20,000,000.

Although he is going to the Phelps-Stokes Fund he will continue his work with the UNCF.

Officials of the Phelps-Stokes Fund praised the choice of Dr. Patterson as its new head. Emory Ross, president, said Dr. Patterson's character, training, experience and achievements in education qualify him for his new post. Ross added:

"The international influence of America's successes and failures in Negro education and in further facilitating Negro citizens' participation and contribution in American life is greater than ever befort. It is a critical element in our world struggle. So also is America's relationship to Africa, its people and their aspirations and problems. The trustees of the Phelps-Stokes Fund believe that Dr. Patterson can give special leadership qualities in these matters."

Dr. Tobias said:

"Dr. Patterson has demonstrated by his administration of Tuskegee institute and his pioneering in collective financing of college education that he is fully capable of directing a foundation whose principal objectives include improvement of opportunities for disadvantaged groups regardless of race."

Dr. Patterson will remain at Tuskegee until June 1. The Tuskegee board is expected to form a committee to select a new president.

Graduate of Iowa

A native of Washington, D. C., Dr. Patterson was born Oct. 10, 1901. He was graduated from Iowa State college in 1923 as a doctor of veterinary medicine and received his M.S. there in 1927. He earned his Ph.D. from Cornell university in 1932.

Before coming to Tuskegee he was an instructor in veterinary science and director of agriculture at Virginia State college.

In 1935, Dr. Patterson was married to Miss Catherine Elizabeth Moton, daughter of the school's second president. They have one son, Frederick D. Patterson Jr., 12 years old.

They will reside in New York after the Tuskegee school year ends.

Resignation Of Dr. Patterson

The resignation of Dr. F. D. Patterson from the presidency of Tuskegee Institute poses fundamental questions about Tuskegee and Hampton, as well as about the outlook of curricula in Negro colleges and universities. The published accounts reported Dr. Patterson as saying that he had to spend so much time away from Tuskegee raising money that he had no time with his family. Why should the president have to do this? Why can't a specialist in fund-raising be hired for this purpose, so that the president can stay on the campus and run the school?

There is talk among Hampton alumni about the tendency to cut out or to curtail everything at Hampton except the liberal arts and sciences, and there is talk among Tuskegee alumni that this tendency has progressed to some extent at Tuskegee. If Hampton and Tuskegee become centers for teaching abstractions in the liberal arts and sciences, Negro youths will have to go a long way to find one of their own institutions in which they can learn to translate these abstractions into the practical necessities of community living. All of our colleges and universities teach political science and government, for instance, but the crying political need today is to learn how to manage and organize the newly-won freedom of the ballot which is suggested and culminated by the "Jaybird" decision of the Supreme Court of the United States. In too few of our colleges and universities is much community significance given to what they teach.

14n 1953

DR. F.D. PATTERSON-PRESIDENT, TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE
RESIGNATION

Patterson Resigns As Tuskegee Head

To Replace Tobias As PSF Director

Has Been At Ala. Institute 25 Years — 18 As President

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, Ala. (ANP) — Dr. Frederick D. Patterson, last week announced that he has resigned as president of Tuskegee Institute as of June 1.

The noted educator will become director of the Phelps-Stokes Fund in New York, June 1, replacing Dr. Channing H. Tobias, who already is past the retirement age.

In resigning from Tuskegee, Dr. Patterson is concluding 25 years at the famed school, 18 of them as its president. Booker T. Washington, founder, was the first president, serving 34 years, and Robert R. Moton was his successor, serving 18 years.

Successors' Last Jobs

Dr. Washington died in office, and Dr. Moton served until he felt compelled to retire because of physical disability.

Dr. Patterson, although he undoubtedly could have remained at Tuskegee for the rest of his working days, declared in his letter of resignation to the board of trustees that he "had given more than twice the average length of tenure for college administrators."

The Phelps-Stokes Fund was established in 1911 under the will of Miss Caroline Phelps Stokes for work in the field of education both in the United States and in Africa. Dr. Patterson has been a member of its board for many years.

Board Must Approve

Basil O'Conor of New York, chairman of the Tuskegee board in announcing Dr. Patterson's resignation, said it was received "with extreme regret" and would be presented to the board at its next meeting on April 11.

Dr. Patterson in his statement declared:

"It has been a joy and inspiration to work with the faculty and staff at Tuskegee.

"It is a source of growing satisfaction to note the mounting achievements of the student body and their increased willingness to measure up to the full responsibilities of citizenship.

"In going to the Phelps-Stokes Fund, however, I see a promise of usefulness in a broad program of service to educational institutions for youth.

"During the next few years of transition, I can think of no service more important than that resources as they seek to meet fully the standards of higher education."

Tripled Budget

At Tuskegee Dr. Patterson came to a school with a budget of less than a million dollars, but now has an annual budget exceeding $3,000,000. He established a school of veterinary medicine which is the only colored operated school of its kind in the world and one of only three such schools in the south.

In the field of low cost housing Tuskegee leads. The federal government now regards Tuskegee as an important resource in that field.

As an educator, Dr. Patterson's outstanding achievement probably was the initiation and development of the United College Fund, which he has served as president for the past 10 years.

Through the UNCF, 32 private colleges banded together to raise funds to prevent deficits. Since 1945, the UNDF has raised more than $20,000,000.

Although he is going to the Phelps-Stokes Fund he will continue his work with the UNCF.

Selection Praised

Officials of the Phelps-Stokes Fund praised the choice of Dr. Patterson as its new head. Emory Ross, president, said Dr. Patterson's character, training, experience and achievements in education qualify him for his new post. Ross added:

"The international influence of America's successes and failures in education and in further facilitating colored citizens' participation in American life is greater than ever before.

"It is a critical element in our world struggle. So also is America's relationship to Africa, its people and their aspirations and problems. The trustees of the Phelps-Stokes Fund believe that Dr. Patterson, can give special leadership qualities in these matters."

Tobias' Statement

Dr. Tobias said:

"Dr. Patterson has demonstrated by his administration of Tuskegee Institute and his pioneering in collective financing of college education that he is fully capable of directing a foundation whose principal objectives include improvement of opportunities for disadvantaged groups regardless of race."

Dr. Patterson will remain at Tuskegee until June 1. The Tuskegee board is expected to form a committee to select a new president.

A native of Washington, Dr. Patterson was born Oct. 10, 1901. He was graduated from Iowa State college in 1923 as a doctor of veterinary medicine and received his M.S. there in 1927 He earned his PhD from Cornell University in 1932

Before coming to Tuskegee he was an instructor in veterinary science and director of agriculture at Virginia State college.

In 1935, Dr. Patterson was married to Miss Catherine E. oton, daughter of the school's second president. They have one son, Frederick D. Patterson Jr., 12 years old.

They will reside in New York after the Tuskegee school year ends.

Resigns At Tuskegee

Dr. Frederick D. Patterson, president, Tuskegee Institute for 18 years, who resigned on Wednesday, effective June 1, to accept a post as director of the Phelps-Stokes Fund.

DR. F. D. PATTERSON
... to Phelps-Stokes Fund

Taking New Post

Dr. Patterson Quits, Skegee

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, Ala. —(ANP)—Dr. Frederick D. Patterson last week announced that he had resigned as president of Tuskegee Institute as of June 1.

The noted educator will become director of the Phelps-Stokes Fund in New York, June 1, replacing Dr. Channing H. Tobias who already is past the retirement age.

* * *

IN RESIGNING from Tuskegee, Dr. Patterson is concluding twenty-five years at the famed school, eighteen of them as its president. Booker T. Washington, founder, was the first president, serving thirty-four years, and Robert R. Moton was his successor, serving eighteen years.

Dr. Patterson, although he undoubtedly could have remained at Tuskegee for the rest of his working days, declared in his letter of resignation to the board of trustees, that he "had given more than twice the average length of tenure for college administrators."

The Phelps-Stokes Fund was established in 1911 under the will of Miss Caroline Phelps-Stokes for work in the field of Negro education both in the United States and in Africa. Dr. Patterson has been a member of its board at its next meeting on April 11.

BASIL O'CONNOR of New York, chairman of the Tuskegee board, in announcing Dr. Patterson's resignation, said it was received "with extreme regret" and would be presented to the board at its next meeting in on April 11.

At Tuskegee, Dr. Patterson came to a school with a budget of less than a million dollars, but now has an annual budget exceeding $3,000,000. He established a school of veterinary medicine which is the only Negro-operated school of its kind in the world and one of only three such schools in the South.

In the field of low-cost housing, Dr. Patterson and Tuskegee are pioneers. The Federal Government now regards Tuskegee as an important resource in the field.

* * *

AS AN educator, Dr. Patterson's outstanding achievement probably was the initiation and development of the United Negro College Fund, which he has served as president for the past ten years. Through the UNCF, thirty-two private colleges banded together to raise funds to prevent deficits. Since 1945, the UNCF has raised more than $20,000,000.

Although he is going to the Phelps-Stokes Fund, he will continue his work with the UNCF.

Dr. Patterson will remain at Tuskegee until June 1. The Tuskegee board is expected to form a committee to select a new president.

A NATIVE of Washington, D. C., Dr. Patterson was born Oct. 10, 1901. He was graduated from Iowa State College in 1923 as a doctor of veterinary medicine and received his M. S. there in 1927. He earned his Ph. D. from Cornell University in 1932.

Before coming to Tuskegee he was an instructor in veterinary science and director of agriculture at Virginia State College.

In 1935, Dr. Patterson was married to Miss Ctherine Elizabeth Moton, daughter of the school's second president. They have one son, Frederick D. Patterson Jr., 12 years old.

They will reside in New York after the Tuskegee school year ends.

Who Will Head Tuskegee?

IT IS noted with surprise and extreme regret that Dr. Frederick D. Patterson is resigning as president of Tuskegee Institute as of June 1, and speculation is rife as to his successor.

Tuskegee Institute is one of our largest and best known institutions of higher education with an enviable reputation established by Booker T. Washington and Dr. Robert R. Moton. Dr. Patterson has built upon the solid foundation they established and maintained.

Like his predecessors in the post, Dr. Patterson has distinguished himself as an educational statesman and, by virtue of his position, as a recognized leader of the Negro group.

As one of the founders of the United Negro College Fund and its principal spokesman and energizer, he has rendered great service to the task of establishing a businesslike method of financing the private Negro colleges of the country in a period when large private benefactors were and declining.

He has coped successfully with the numerous problems surrounding a large educational institution like Tuskegee located in an area whose traditions make the task a difficult one requiring much tact and ingenuity.

Who now will take his place when he assumes his new post as director of the famed Phelps-Stokes Fund replacing Dr. Channing H. Tobias?

Happily, the job of finding a successor will not be as difficult as it would have been in the distant past, because capable Negro educators are much more numerous today than they were a generation ago; and this plentitude of talent will make the task of the board of trustees much easier.

The whole country will look forward with keen interest to the selection of Dr. Patterson's successor whoever he may be.

$100,000 Gift Announced

Tuskegee Board Will Pick New President by June 1

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, Ala. (ANP) — The April 11-12 weekend was a momentous one at Tuskegee Institute as a result of three events:

1. The board of trustees accepted the resignation of Dr. Frederick D. Patterson as president of Tuskegee and selected a committee to pick a new head by June 1;

2. Two gifts of $100,000 and $500 were presented to the college;

3. Dr. Guy Benton Johnson, eminent sociologist of the University of North Carolina, delivered the Founders Day address and cited the need of a philosophy to meet the issues involved in the pending decision of the U. S. Supreme Court on segregated schools.

Chairman Basil O'Connor announced that the board at its semi-annual meeting April 11 formally accepted Dr. Patterson's resignation, to become effective at a date to be agreed upon him and the chairman.

O'Connor selected the following persons to serve on a committee to consider Dr. Patterson's successor and report at a special board meeting not later than June 1:

Chairman O'Connor, ex officio Archie A. Alexander, Des Moines, Iowa; Daniel W. Andrews, Winston-Salem, N. C.; Claude A. Barnett, Chicago; William Rosenwald, New York; J. W. Terry, Alabama State superintendent of education, Montgomery; George Warren, New York; Senator John H. Pinson, Gieger, Ala., and Henry Neill Segrest, Tuskegee.

At Tuskegee's thirty-fourth Founders Day exercises, Dr. Patterson announced two gifts to the school: $100,000 from the Russell Foundation of Alexander City, Ala., to erect and equip a nursery school on the campus, and $500 from a group of Negro employes of the Birmingham Cast Iron Co., to be spent on the erection of bleachers for the athletic field.

The $100,000 award was given in memory of Benjamin Russell Sr., a trustee for Tuskegee, 1936-'41. Thomas D. Russell, son of Russell and president of the donating firm, is a member of the board now and also is chairman of Carver Foundation's board of trustees.

14n 1953

DR. F.D. PATTERSON, PRESIDENT-TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE
RESIGNATION

HAS SERVED INSTITUTE
25 YEARS.

TO BE DIRECTOR OF PHELPS-STOKES FUND
IN NEW YORK

Tuskegee Institute, Ala. (ANP)
Dr. Frederick D. Patterson last week announced that he had resigned as president of Tuskegee Institute as of June 1, 1953.

The noted educator will become director of the Phelps-Stokes Fund in New York, June 1, replacing Dr. Channing H. Tobias who already is past the retirement age.

In resigning from Tuskegee, Dr. Patterson is concluding 25 years at the famed school, 18 of them as its president. Booker T. Washington, founder, was the first president, serving 34 years, and Robert R. Moton was his successor serving 18 years.

TWICE AVERAGE TENURE

Dr. Washington died in Office, and Dr. Moton served until he felt compelled to retire because of physical disability. Dr. Patterson, although he undoubtedly could have remained at Tuskegee for the rest of his working days, declared in his letter of resignation to the Board of Trustees that he "had given more than twice the average length of tenure for college administrators."

The Phelps-Stokes Fund was established in 1911 under the will of Miss Caroline Phelps Stokes for work in the field of Negro Education both in the United States and in Africa. Dr. Patterson has been a member of its board for many years.

Kansas City, Mo. Call.p.1.
Fri. 3-20-53

Basil O'Connor of New York, Chairman of the Tuskegee Board in announcing Dr. Patterson's resignation, said it was received "with extreme regret" and would be presented to the board at its next meeting on April 11.

HIS WORK A JOY

Dr. Patterson in his statement declared:

"It has been a joy and inspiration to work with the faculty and staff at Tuskegee. It is a source of growing satisfaction to note the mounting achievements of the student body and their increased willingness to measure up to the full responsibilities of citizenship.

"In going to the Phelps-Stokes Fund, however, I see a promise of usefulness in a broad program of service to educational institutions for Negro youth. During the next few years of transition, I can think of no service more important than that which may assist our institutions to make the most of their resources as they seek to meet fully the standards of higher education."

At Tuskegee, Dr. Patterson came to a school with a budget of less than a million dollars, but now has an annual budget exceeding $3,000,000. He established a school of veterinary medicine which is the only Negro-operated school of its kind in the world and one of only three such schools in the South.

Low-cost Housing Pioneer

In the field of low-cost housing Dr. Patterson and Tuskegee are pioneers. The federal government now regards Tuskegee as an important resource in that field.

As an educator, Dr. Patterson's outstanding achievement probably was the initiation and development of the United Negro College Fund which he has served as president for the past 10 years. Through the UNCF 32 private colleges banded together to raise funds to prevent deficits. Since 1945, the UNCF has raised more than $20,000,000.

Although he is going to the Phelps-Stokes Fund he will continue his work with the UNCF.

Officials of the Phelps-Stokes Fund praised the choice of Dr. Patterson as its new head. Emory Ross, president, said Dr. Patterson's character, training, experience and achievements in education qualify him for his new post. Ross added:

Special Leadership

"The international influence of America's successes and failures in Negro education and in further facilitating Negro citizens' participation and contribution in American life is greater than ever before. It is a critical element in our world struggle. So also is America's relationship to Africa, its people and their aspirations and problems. The trustees of the Phelps-Stokes Fund believe that Dr. Patterson can give special leadership qualities in these matters."

Dr. Tobias said:

"Dr. Patterson has demonstrated by his administration of Tuskegee institute and his pioneering in collective financing of college education that he is fully capable of directing a foundation whose principal objectives include improvement of opportunities for disadvantaged groups regardless of race."

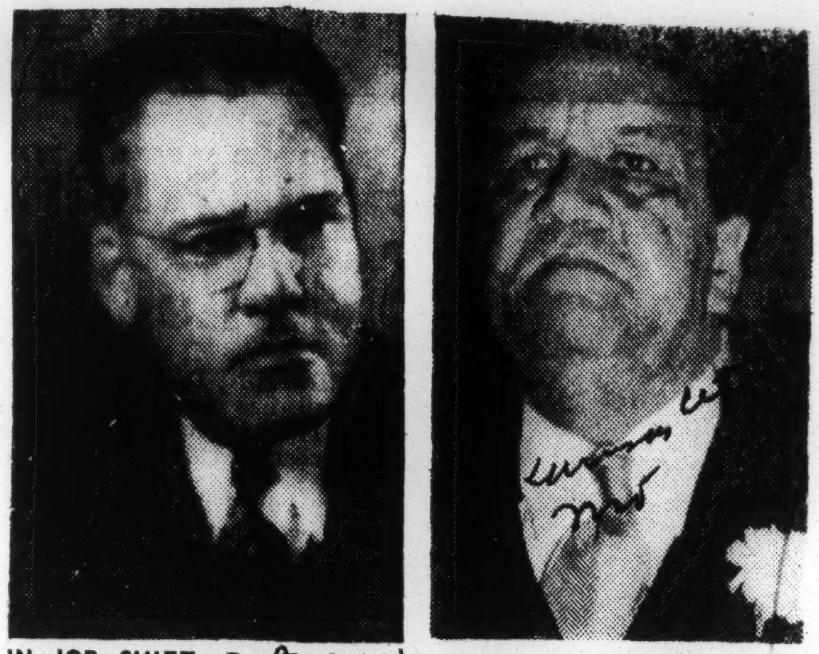
Dr. Patterson will remain at Tuskegee until June 1. The Tuskegee board is expected to form a committee to select a new president.

A native of Washington, D. C., Dr. Patterson was born Oct. 10, 1901. He was graduated from Iowa State college in 1923 as a doctor of veterinary medicine and received his M. S. there in 1927. He earned his Ph.D. from Cornell university in 1932.

Before coming to Tuskegee he was an instructor in veterinary science and director of agriculture at Virginia State college.

In 1935, Dr. Patterson was married to Miss Catherine Elizabeth Moton, daughter of the school's second president. They have one son, Frederick D. Patterson Jr., 12 years old.

They will reside in New York after the Tuskegee school year ends.



IN JOB SHIFT.—Dr. Frederick D. Patterson, left, president of Tuskegee institute announced last week that he is resigning that position in June to become head of the Phelps-Stokes Fund, now directed by Dr. Channing H. Tobias, right. Dr. Tobias plans to retire.

Dr. Patterson Resigns To Head Phelps-Stokes Fund

Special to Journal and Guide

BIRMINGHAM, Ala.—Although considerable speculation surrounded the announcement last week that Dr. F. D. Patterson had resigned as president of Tuskegee Institute, sources close to Tusgekee were unable immediately to throw any light on possible reasons behind the resignation.

The statement of Dr. Patterson indicated that he was leaving the school under no type of pressure other than an urge to devote full time to the Phelps-Stokes Fund and United Negro College Fund.

He has asked board chairman Basil O'Conner of New York to make his resignation effective June 1. He will succeed Channing H. Tobias as educational director of the Phelps-Stokes fund.

THE ANNUAL meeting of the board is usually held at Tuskegee in April, but there was no immediate clue as to whether Dr. Patterson's successor will be announced at this time.

Three members of the present administration and the head of a religious seminary in Atlanta were named immediately pushing into the picture as potential candidates.

Patterson has served this seventy-year old institution as its third president for 18 years.

THE STUDENT body numbers around 2,000 students. Announcement of the resignation was made public March 12 although Dr. Patterson mentioned it March 9 in his faculty meeting.

Reports from Tuskegee indicate that Dr. Patterson was not available for comment.

* * *

DR. PATTERSON gave as reasons for his decision:

1. The belief that his 18 years spent in the service as president of Tuskegee Institute come close to the upper limit of what is regarded as satisfactory tenure in the post.

2. The new position will permit use of his experiences in higher education gained in working over the past 30 years.

3. Through favorable and long time association of the Phelps-Stokes fund with Tuskegee Institute and the fact that he will be able to continue an active relationship with the United Negro College Fund of which he is president and founder, he hopes that his services might be made more effective.

In releasing the statement Mr. O'Connor stated that the United Negro College Fund, under Dr. Patterson's leadership had raised over 20 million dollars since 1945.

* * *

IT IS EXPECTED that the chairman of the board of trustees will soon appoint a committee from the board to set up plans for choosing a successor.

Dr. Patterson will remain at his post through June 1 and indicated a willingness, if requested, to be available for any service he can render.

* * *

HE SAID, "THIS is one of the most difficult decisions I have ever had to make".

Speaking of the position soon to be taken as educational director of the Phelps-Stokes Fund, he said, "My chief concern in this new post shall be that of working for those changes and developments which seek a higher level of educational opportunity for Negro youth in private colleges."

* * *

CONCERNING his relationships with faculty and staff he said, "Despite the compelling reasons I have given as the basis of my action, I greatly regret that I shall sever an intimate association which has been a most happy one. I have a strong belief in the future of Tuskegee Institute as a technical and professional college: You, in your several relationships, have made this institution what it is. I shall therefore, leave the work with the most solid confidence in its future.

Dr. Patterson has been connected with Tuskegee for approximately 25 years. He was elevated to the presidency in 1935.

* * *

DR. WASHINGTON died in office, and Dr. Moton served until he felt compelled to retire because of physical disability. Dr. Patterson, although he undoubtedly could have remained at Tuskegee for the rest of his working days, declared in his letter of resignation to the board of trustees that he "had given more than twice the average length of tenure for college administrators."

The Phelps-Stokes Fund was established in 1911 under the will of Miss Caroline Phelps Stokes for work in the field of Negro education both in the United States and in Africa.

Basil O'Connor of New York, chairman of the Tuskegee board, in announcing Dr. Patterson's resignation, said it was received "with extreme regret" and would be presented to the board at its next meeting on April 11.

* * *

DR. PATTERSON in his statement declared:

"It has been a joy and inspiration to work with the faculty and staff at Tuskegee. It is a source of growing satisfaction to note the mounting achievements of the student body and their increased willingness to measure up to the full responsibilities of citizenship.

"In going to the Phelps-Stokes Fund, however, I see a promise of usefulness in a broad program of service to educational institutions for Negro youth. During the next few years of transition, I can think of no service more important than that which may assist our institutions to make the most of their resources as they seek to meet fully the standards of higher education."

* * *

AT TUSKEGEE Dr. Patterson came to a school with a budget of less than a million dollars, but now has an annual budget exceeding $3,000,000. He established a school of veterinary medicine which is the only Negro-operated school of its kind in the world and one of only three such schools in the South.

As an educator, Dr. Patterson's outstanding achievement probably was the initiation and development of the United Negro College Fund which he has served as president for the past 10 years. Through the UNCF 32 private colleges banded together to raise funds to prevent deficits. Since 1945, the UNCF has raised more than $20,000,000.

Although he is going to the Phelps-Stokes Fund he will continue his work with the UNCF.

* * *

OFFICIALS OF the Phelps-Stokes Fund praised the choice of Dr. Patterson as its new head. Emory Ross, president, said Dr. Patterson's character, training, experience and achievements in education qualify him for his new post. Ross added:

"The international influence of America's successes and failures in Negro education and in further facilitating Negro citizens' participation and contribution in American life is greater than ever before. It is a critical element in our world struggle. So also is America's relationship to Africa, its people and their aspirations and problems. The trustees of the Phelps-Stokes Fund believe that Dr. Patterson can give special leadership qualities in these matters."

* * *

DR. TOBIAS SAID:

"Dr. Patterson has demonstrated by his administration of Tuskegee institute and his pioneering in collective financing of college education that he is fully capable of directing a foundation whose principal objectives include improvement of opportunities for disadvantaged groups regardless of race."

Dr. Patterson will remain at Tuskegee until June 1. The Tuskegee board is expected to form a committee to select a new president.

In 1935, Dr. Patterson was married to Miss Catherine Elizabeth Moton, daughter of the school's second president. They have one son, Frederick D. Patterson Jr., 12 years old.

They will reside in New York after the Tuskegee school year ends.

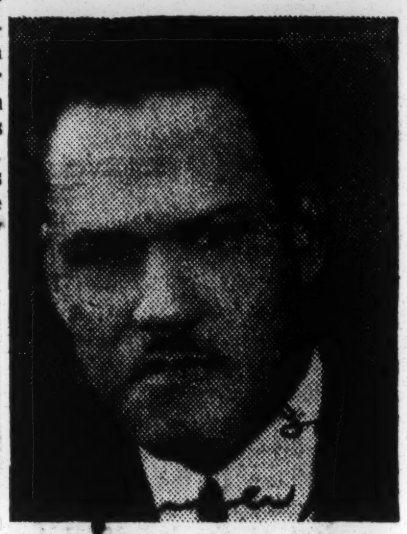
Patterson Quits At Tuskegee

By FAY YOUNG

TUSKEGEE, Ala. — A thunderbolt struck Tuskegee Institute suddenly Monday afternoon March 9, when at a faculty meeting Dr. Frederick D. Patterson, president of the Institute with tears streaming down his checks announced his resignation, effective June 1, 1953.

No intimation had been heard of Dr. Patterson's decision which he explained was due to the advice of his physician. His present life had been too strenuous and he was sorry to leave. Dr. Patterson will take the place of Dr. Channing H. Tobias, retired, with the Phelps-Stokes foundation in New York city.

Quits



DR. F. D. PATTERSON

Faculty members, previously unaware of Dr. Patterson's position left the meeting in tears. Dr. Patterson said in his talk that he hoped a successor would be picked from one of their group (meaning the faculty).

Although no definite person has been named, those who may be considered are Robert Moton, son of the late Robert R. Moton, president of Tuskegee, who has been Dr. Patterson's assistant; Dr. Luther H. Foster, business manager, and Dr. I. A. Derbigny, vice president of the institution. Dr. Foster has his Ph.D. degree in business administration. Dr. Derbigny has his Ph.D. in education.

14n 1953

DR. F.D. PATTERSON, PRESIDENT -TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE
RESIGNATION

Dr. D. F. Patterson Resigns As President Of Tuskegee Institute To Become Educational Director Of Phelps - Stokes Fund

Board Of Trustees To Appoint Board Committee To Name New President

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, Ala., Mar. 11.—Dr. F. D. Patterson resigned his post as president of Tuskegee Institute today, to become Educational Director of the Phelps-Stokes Fund in New York, effective June 1, 1953.

Announcement of his resignation was made by Tuskegee Institute Chairman of the Board of Trustees, Basil O'Connor.

Dr. Patterson gave as reasons for his decision: 1) The belief that his eighteen years spent in the service as president of Tuskegee Institute comes close to the upper limit of what is regarded as satisfactory tenure in this post. (2 The new position will permit use of his experiences in higher education gained in working over the past thirty years. 3) Through favorable and long time association of the Phelps-Stokes Fund with Tuskegee Institute and the fact that he will be able to continue an active relationship with the United Negro College Fund, of which he is president and founder, he hopes that his service might be made more effective.

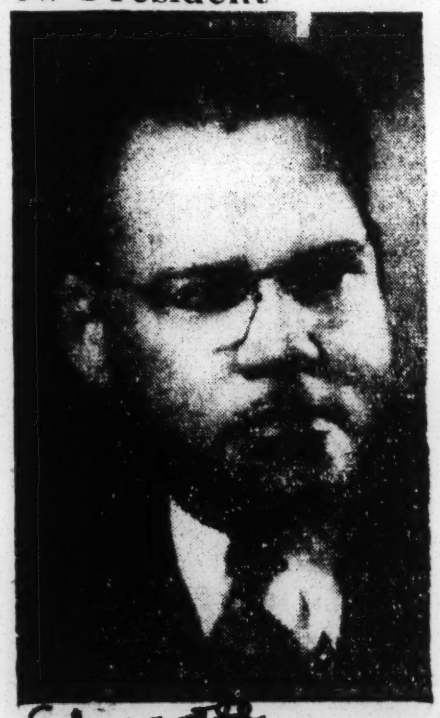
In releasing the statement, Mr. O'Connor stated that the United Negro College Fund, under Dr. Patterson's leadership, had raised over twenty million dollars since 1945.

Speaking of the position soon to be taken as Educational Director of the Phelps-Stokes Fund. Dr. Patterson said, "My chief concern in this new post shall be that of working for those changes and developments which seek a higher level of educational opportunity for Negro youth in private colleges."

It is expected that the chairman of the Board of Trustees will soon appoint a committee from the Board to set up plans for choosing successor to Dr. Patterson. He will remain at his post through June 1st, and he indicated a willingness, if requested, to be available for any service he can render.

He said, "This is one of the most difficult decisions I have ever had to make."

Concerning his relationships with faculty and staff, he said, "Despite the compelling reasons I have given as the basis of my action, I greatly regret that I shall sever an intimate association which has been a most happy one. I have a strong belief in the future of Tuskegee Institute as a technical and professional college. You, in your several relationships, have made this institution what it is. I shall therefore, leave the work with the most solid confidence in its future.



Dr. F. D. Patterson, above, whose resignation has been given as president of Tuskegee Institute, Tuskegee, Ala.

Dr. Patterson was elevated to the presidency of Tuskegee Institute in 1935, to become the third president in a fifty-four years period. His eighteen years tenure in office brings to seventy-two years the period served by Washington.

He came to Tuskegee Institute in 1928 as Head of the Veterinary Division. In 1933, he became director of the School of Agriculture and president of Tuskegee Institute in 1935.

He holds the degrees of D.V.M. and Master of Science from Iowa State College, the Ph.D. degree from Cornell University, and has done study in College Administration at Stanford University.

Dr. Patterson was married in June, 1935, to Miss Catherine Elizabeth Moton. They have one child, Fred D. Patterson, Jr., wso is 12 years of age.

His career as president of Tuskegee Institute has been an up-hill fight to overcome depression-born economic problems and to develop and improve course offerings and facilities at the Institute. He has succeeded admirably well on all counts.

With full credit to his illustrious predecessors, Dr. Patterson has played a large part in developing a dynamic educational program at Tuskegee Institute. The felt needs in the society from which students are drawn have been the basis for the projection of the Institute's program. This program of artful and useful training has drawn the attention of peoples around the world.

Tuskegee Institute has, indeed, been fortunate to have had the leadership which Dr. Patterson has given over this turbulent eighteen years period and stands to benefit in no small manner from his continuing counsel and good will in the years ahead.

Dr. Patterson Quits Tuskegee To Head Phelps-Stokes Fund

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, Ala.—(ANP)—Dr. Frederick D. Patterson, this week announced that he has resigned as president of Tuskegee Institute as of June 1, 1953.

The noted educator will become director of the Phelps-Stokes Fund in New York, June 1, replacing Dr. Channing H. Tobias who already is past the retirement age.

In resigning from Tuskegee, Dr. Patterson is concluding 25 years at the famed school, 18 of them as its president. Booker T. Washington, founder, was the first president, serving 34 years, and Robert R. Moton was his successor, serving 18 years.

Dr. Washington died in office, and Dr. Moton served until he felt compelled to retire because of physical disability. Dr. Patterson, although he undoubtedly could have remained at Tuskegee for the rest of his working days, declared in his letter of resignation to the board of trustees that he had given more than twice the average length of tenure for college administrators."

The Phelps-Stokes Fund was established in 1911 under the will of Miss Caroline Phelps Stokes for work in the field of Negro education both in the United States and in Africa. Dr. Patterson has been a member of its board for many years.

Basil O'Connor of New York, chairman of the Tuskegee board, in announcing Dr. Patterson's resignation, said it was received "with extreme regret" and would be presented to the board at its next meeting on April 11.

Dr Patterson's Omission

(From The Montgomery Advertiser)

With the resignation of Dr. F. D. Patterson as president of Tuskegee Institute, Alabama loses a good and valuable man. He is, as The Anniston Star says, "a gentleman and a scholar."

Tuskegee is a world-famous institution and as a brilliant symbol and instrument of the remarkable progress of the Negro race its administration is subject to special consideration by Negro leaders throughout the country. There being so much of pride and aspiration embodied in this institution, it is natural that there should be divisions over how it should be run.

It is the business of Tuskegee's president to moderate these differences and maintain harmonious relationships with such diverse elements as the members of the Alabama legislature, on whose appropriations the school depends in large measure, and patrons of the school throughout the nation. This is an exacting and vexatious job, we imagine, and only a wise and self-disciplined man could maintain the balances. This, we believe, Dr. Patterson has accomplished in good measure.

As we read Dr. Patterson, he has resigned to become director of the Phelps-Stokes Fund not least because he feels that in his 14 years at Tuskegee he has largely made his contribution. However that is, we submit that Dr. Patterson is leaving behind in Alabama one piece of unfinished business — the writing of a book about what he sees and foresees in Alabama and the South.

Both of his predecessors, Washington and Moton, contributed such books. The South was never more receptive to the counsels of viewpoints of men such as Dr. Patterson than now. To that extent Dr. Patterson is leaving Alabama without "settling up." But, of course, it is by no means too late and we hope that some enterprising book publisher will prod Patterson into making this contribution.

Tuskegee President Submits Resignation

Patterson, Founder Of College Fund, Asks Release By June 1

BY EMORY O. JACKSON
(Editor, Birmingham World)

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. — (SNS) — Dr. Frederick D. Patterson has submitted his resignation as president of Tuskegee Institute. An official announcement of his resignation was released by the college Wednesday.

The nationally known educator notified Basil O'Connor, chairman of the Board of Trustees that he would like to be relieved of his duties around June 1 or some other date suitable to the board.

The official announcement did not state Dr. Patterson's immediate reasons for his resignation. According to reports, he plans to accept the educational directorship of the Phelps-Stokes Fund.

Reports from Tuskegee indicate that both Dr. Patterson and Board Chairman O'Connor are in New York and were not available for comment.

Dr. Patterson gave as reasons for his decision: 1. The belief that his 18 years spent in the service as president of Tuskegee Institute comes close to the upper limit of what is regarded as satisfactory tenure in this post. 2. The new position will permit use of his experiences in higher education gained in working over the past thirty years. 3. Through favorable and long time association of the Phelps Stokes Fund with Tuskegee Institute and the fact that he will be able to continue an active relationship with the United Negro College Fund of which he is president and founder, he hopes that his services might be made more effective. In releasing statement Mr. O'Connor stated that the United Negro College Fund, under Dr. Patterson's leadership had raised over 20 million dollars since 1945.

It is expected that the Chairman of the Board of Trustees will soon appoint a committee from the board to set up plans for choosing a successor to Dr. Patterson.

Dr. Patterson will remain at his post through June 1 and indicated a willingness, if requested to be available for any service he can render.

He said, "This is one of the most difficult decisions I have ever had to make."

Speaking of the position soon to be taken as educational director of the Phelps Stokes Fund, he said, "My chief concern in this new post shall be that of working for those changes and developments which seek a higher level of educational opportunity for Negro youth in private colleges."

Concerning his relationships with faculty and staff he said, "Despite the compelling reasons I have given as the basis of my action I greatly regret that I shall sever an intimate association which has been a most happy one. I have a strong belief in the future of Tuskegee Institute as a technical and professional college: You, in your several relationships, have made this institution what it is. I shall therefore, leave the work with the most solid confidence in its future.

While no mention was made of a possible successor to the veteran educator, Treasurer L. H. Foster, Jr., is being spoken of as having the inside track to become the fourth president of this famed institution.

Father of the United Negro College Fund, Dr. Patterson has been connected with Tuskegee for approximately 25 years. He was elevated to the presidency in 1935.

A native of Washington, D. C., he earned two baccalaureate degrees at Indiana State College and received his Ph. D. from Cornell University in 1932. Since that time he has been awarded honorary degrees from Virginia State College and Wilberforce University.

In addition to the United Negro College Fund, Dr. Patterson is a member of the National Urban League, Southern Regional Council, Southern Agricultural Commission, National Planning Commission and served on the President's Commission on Higher Education.

He is also a member of the Methodist Church, Phi Kappa Phi and Alpha Phi Alpha fraternities.

14n 1953

DR. F.D. PATTERSON-PRESIDENT OF TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE
RESIGNATION

Dr. Patterson, Tuskegee chief, to resign, join Phelps-Stokes

Dr. F. D. Patterson, for 18 years president of Alabama's Tuskegee Institute, will resign June 1 to devote his energies to Negro youth training at the national and international level.

The 51-year-old president of one of the world's leading Negro schools said in New York today he has accepted a position as educational director for the Phelps-Stokes Fund.

The fund carries on an educational program for Negro youths and youths of other minority groups in America and Africa.

The founder and president of the United Negro College Fund, which has raised $20 million in the last 10 years in support of 31 private Negro colleges across the nation, Dr. Patterson said he would continue his active association with that organization.

BASIL O'CONNOR, chairman of Tuskegee's board of trustees, said today Dr. Patterson has agreed to remain president of the school until his successor can be named.

Dr. Patterson is third president of Tuskegee, which was founded in 1881 by Booker T. Washington. The school now has enrollment of 2000 students.

A native of Washington, D. C., he was educated at Iowa State College and received a Ph.D. from Cornell University. He served as instructor of veterinary medicine first at Virginia State College, later becoming head of the department at Tuskegee.

He was later appointed head of the agriculture department. He has been a member of the Tuskegee faculty 25 years and its president 18 years.

In his letter of resignation Dr. Patterson gave age, tenure at Tuskegee, and the opportunities of the new position as his reasons for accepting the new post.

He said also that his duties as Tuskegee's president place a burden on himself and his wife to the detriment of their only child, a 12-year-old son.

Mrs. Patterson is the daughter of Tuskegee's second president, the late Robert Russa Moton.

EMORY ROSS, president of the Phelps-Stokes Fund, said in New York today that Dr. Patterson had been selected for the post because of "outstanding character, experience and accomplishments in the field of education."

Ross said that the "international influence of America's successes and failures in Negro education and in further facilitating Negroes' participation and contribution in American life is greater than ever before. It is a critical element in our world struggle, a field in which Dr. Patterson can give exceptional leadership."

Dr. Patterson will replace Dr. Channing H. Tobias in the post.

Quitting college—Dr. F. D. Patterson.

TUSKEGEE HEAD QUITTING

Patterson's Resignation Effective June 1—To Join Stokes Fund

The impending resignation, effective June 1, of Dr. Frederick D. Patterson as president of Tuskegee Institute, was announced yesterday "with extreme regret" by Basil O'Connor, chairman of the Tuskegee Board of Trustees. Dr. Patterson will become director of the Phelps Stokes Fund for work in Negro education, Mr. O'Connor said.

Dr. Patterson has agreed to serve Tuskegee until the appointment of a successor, Mr. O'Connor said. His resignation will be presented to the board at its April 11 meeting. He will succeed Dr. Channing H. Tobias as director of the fund, which was established in 1911 by the will of Miss Caroline Phelps Stokes, and is now used for the improvement of housing and race relations as well as for education in this country and Africa.

Dr. Patterson Resigns

The announced resignation of Dr. Frederick D. Patterson from the presidency of the famous Tuskegee Institute will be met with serious regret. He brought to this institution that high tone and prestige in keeping with an honored landmark founded by Booker T. Washington and further illustrated by the late Dr. R. R. Moten who was called to the helm upon the death of Dr. Washington.

Tuskegee is her own illustration; she has made a contribution across the years upon which she can safely rest her deservedness. The early friends of Booker Washington and their successors, never lost faith in that institution and its management so ably administered by Dr. Patterson.

Dr. Patterson gave the fruit of his best years in carrying on a time honored tradition of which the race and nation will ever be proud.

It is earnestly hoped that he will find more time for recreation as well as many long years of usefulness in the new field to which he aspires.

Dr. Patterson Has Served South Well

The entire South will regret to learn of the resignation of Dr. F. D. Patterson as president of Tuskegee Institute in Alabama to accept the position of educational director of the Phelps-Stokes Fund in New York. For 18 years he has worked hard and successfully to build Tuskegee to the stature it holds today—the outstanding Negro school in the South.

We are pleased that the cause of higher education will still have Dr. Patterson's services. His 30 years of experience fits him to take over his new task and to continue his fine work in Negro education. Under his leadership, the United Negro College Fund, of which he is president and founder, has raised over $20,000,000 since 1945.

We are grateful for the contributions he has made to education in the South and are hopeful that these may be continued in his new role.

14n 1953

DR. F.D. PATTERSON-PRESIDENT OF TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE

RESIGNATION

Patterson Quits As President Of Tuskegee

Negro Educator Drops Post To Take Over Education Fund Job

TUSKEGEE, Ala., March 11—The announcement of the resignation of Dr. F. D. Patterson, president of Tuskegee Institute for the past 18 years, was described by school officials here today as a "bolt from the blue."

Dr. Patterson announced in New York City that he is resigning June 1 to become educational director of the Phelps-Stokes Fund there.

The fund is used for an educational program for Negro youths and other minority groups here and in Africa.

Patterson, 51, has been a member of the faculty at Tuskegee Institute for 25 years. School officials said that his resignation came as a complete surprise.

Patterson came to Tuskegee as head of the veterinary division, serving until 1933, when he became director of the school of agriculture. In 1935, he succeeded the late Dr. Robert R. Moton as president.

A native of Washington, D.C., he is a graduate of Iowa State College (D.V.M. and M.S.), and Cornell University (Ph.D.). His wife is the former Catherine Elizabeth Moton, daughter of his predecessor at Tuskegee.

In a letter to Basil O'Connor, chairman of Tuskegee's board of trustees, Patterson gave his tenure of office and age, as well as the opportunities of the new position, as his reasons for resigning.

His duties as president of Tuskegee, he added, place a burden on both himself and his wife to the detriment of the well being of their only child, Fred D. Patterson Jr., 12.

He plans to move to New York as soon as his resignation becomes effective.

Patterson is the third president of the school, which was founded in 1881 by Booker T. Washington. The enrollment of the school at present is roughly 1,900.

O'Connor said Dr. Patterson's resignation was received "with extreme regret," and would be presented to the board of trustees at its next meeting on April 11.

He added that Patterson had agreed to serve Tuskegee until a successor had been appointed. Dr. Patterson, with the strong endorsement of the Phelps-Stokes Fund, would continue active association with the United Negro College Fund, of which he is president and founder, he said. Under Patterson's direction, the college fund has raised a total of $20,000,000 in the past 10 years.

Emory Ross, president of the Phelps-Stokes Fund, said Patterson was selected for his new position because of his "character and his training, experience and accomplishments in the field of education."

Tuskegee's Dr. Patterson To Join Fund

NEW YORK, March 11 — (AP) — Dr. F. D. Patterson, 51, said Wednesday he is resigning June 1 as president of Tuskegee Institute in Alabama, one of the nation's best-known Negro schools.

He is joining the Phelp-Stokes fund in New York City, replacing Dr. Channing H. Tobias as educational director. The fund carries on an educational program for Negro youths and other minority groups here and in Africa.

Dr. Patterson has been a member of the faculty of Tuskegee for 25 years and its president for 18 years. He was the institute's third president since its founding in 1881 by Booker T. Washington. Tuskegee has an enrollment of about 2,000.

In a letter of resignation to Basil O'Connor, chairman of Tuskegee's board of trustees, Dr. Patterson gave his age and tenure at Tuskegee, plus the opportunities of the new position as his reasons for resigning.

He added that his duties as Tuskegee's president place a burden on himself and his wife to the detriment of their only child, a 12-year-old son.

Dr. Patterson will move to New York when his resignation becomes effective.

"It was a difficult decision," added the educator of his leaving Tuskegee.

Dr. Patterson Resigns Post At Institute

Dr. F. D. Patterson, president of Tuskegee Institute since 1935, has resigned as president, effective June 1, to become educational director of the Phelps-Stokes Fund in New York. The official announcement was made Wednesday in New York by Basil O'Conner, chairman of the Institute board of trustees.

Henry Neill Segrest, Tuskegee attorney and member of the board, said Thursday that Dr. Patterson's decision to resign had been known to board members and faculty for several days but announcement was withheld until it could be made by Mr. O'Conner.

Mr. Segrest said the board of trustees had a meeting scheduled here on April 11, at which time it is expected that the matter will be brought officially before the board. He said no applicants for the position have yet been received.

Dr. Patterson has been associated with the Institute for 25 years, coming here as head of the veterinary division and later being named director of the school of agriculture. He succeeded the late Dr. Robert R. Moton in 1935.

He gave as his reasons for resigning the pressure of work at the Institute and the opportunities offered by his new position.

The Phelps-Stokes Fund is used for an educational program for Negro Youths and other minority groups here and in Africa.

Another Great Tuskegee Leader

Booker T. Washington, the founder and first president of Tuskegee Institute, established a lofty example and tradition of leadership. The second president, Dr. Robert R. Moton, followed that example well and added his own notable part to that tradition. Dr. F. D. Patterson, the third president, who soon will give up that post to take up other work, has been a fitting successor of the two other Tuskegee educators, extending this remarkable line, deepening its tradition, making his own highly constructive and creative contribution to a distinguished record of service going back more than 70 years to the founding of Tuskegee in 1881.

Dr. Patterson has been president for 18 years, having been a member of the faculty for seven prior years. He will resign June 1, but it is understood he will continue at his post until his successor is named. He will become educational director for the Phelps-Stokes Fund, which carries on an educational program for youths of Negro and other minority groups in America and Africa.

The exceptional opportunities for service which he sees in the position he will assume were stressed by Dr. Patterson as one of the major reasons for his decision. His age, his long tenure at Tuskegee and family considerations also were mentioned.

Dr. Patterson's departure will mean a severe loss for Tuskegee and for Alabama and the South. He has given himself and his exceptional capacities — of scholarship, of judgment, of executive administration, and of progressive initiative—with unremitting devotion and ceaseless energy to the basic cause of education. His work, of course, has centered in Tuskegee, but it has not been confined to that field and its influences and achievements have spread far.

He is the founder and president of the United Negro College Fund, a movement which has raised $20,000,000 in the last 10 years for 31 private Negro colleges.

He has served his own people with rare fidelity and ability and effectiveness. And in serving education and his own people, he has, of course, served all people in fundamental ways.

He has been and is a wise counselor and constructive worker in the difficult field of racial relations, clearly seeing and concentrating on primary objectives of justice, good will and enlightenment.

Dr. Patterson will be sorely missed in Alabama, but he surely will maintain his special concern in Tuskegee and the South and his work will continue to be substantially felt in this region. As for the institute itself, we have no doubt that, in making his own decision, Dr. Patterson was confident that its great program would continue to advance under competent new leadership.

Dr. Patterson's Omission

With the resignation of Dr. F. D. Patterson as president of Tuskegee Institute, Alabama loses a good man and valuable. He is, as The Anniston Star says, "a gentleman and a scholar."

Tuskegee is a world-famous institution and as a brilliant symbol and instrument of the remarkable progress of the Negro race its administration is subject to special consideration by Negro leaders throughout the country. There being so much of pride and aspiration embodied in this institution, it is natural that there should be divisions over how it should be run.

It is the business of Tuskegee's president to moderate these differences and maintain harmonious relationships with such diverse elements as the members of the Alabama legislature, on whose appropriations the school depends in large measure, and patrons of the school throughout the nation. This is an exacting and vexatious job, we imagine, and only a wise and self-disciplined man could maintain the balances. This, we believe, Dr. Patterson has accomplished in good style.

As we read Dr. Patterson, he has resigned to become director of the Phelps-Stokes Fund not least because he feels that in his 14 years at Tuskegee he has largely made his contribution. However that is, we submit that Dr. Patterson is leaving behind in Alabama one piece of unfinished business—the writing of a book about what he sees and foresees in Alabama and the South.

Both of his predecessors, Washington and Moton, contributed such books. The South was never more receptive to the counsels of viewpoints of men such as Dr. Patterson than now. To that extent

Dr. Patterson is leaving Alabama without "settling up." But, of course, it is by no means too late and we hope that some enterprising book publisher will prod Patterson into making this contribution.

14n 1953

DR. FREDERICK DOUGLASS PATTERSON-PRESIDENT, TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE
RESIGNATION

TESTIMONIALS
APPRECIATIONS
ETC.

Mrs. Ward Heads Group Set To Honor Pres. Patterson

Mrs. Belzora S. Ward, president of the Metropolitan Council of Negro Women's Clubs, has been elected general chairman of a group to develop plans for sponsoring a testimonial in tribute of Dr. F. D. Patterson, president of Tuskegee Institute.

Dr. Patterson, father of the ten-year old United Negro College Fund Drive, has resigned his post as head of the famous Black Belt educational institution.

The tribute would be used to stimulate the local 1953 United Negro College Fund Campaign which has a goal of $25,000. The honor ceremony is scheduled to be held in May or June.

Founders and Trustee Day activities are scheduled for April 11-12 at Tuskegee. Dr. Guy Benton Johnson, professor of sociology and anthropology at the University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill, N. C., is scheduled to deliver the "Founder's Day Address" at 2 p m. Sunday, April 12 in Institute Chapel.

A committee seeking a successor to Dr. Patterson who has accepted the directorship of the Phelps-Stokes Fund is slated to present its findings to the full board of trustees Saturday, April 11. Basil O'Connor of New York is chairman of the board.

The meeting at which the testimonial promotion committee was organized was held Monday night in the Smith and Gaston Chapel. Mrs. Maggie Greene of Bessemer was named secretary and A. G. Gaston, treasurer.

Mrs. A. G. Gaston is chairman of the fund drive in Jefferson County. Dr. P. S. Moten and Mr. Gaston are serving as honorary chairmen.

Others elected to steer the testimonial are:

Mrs. Bessie S. Estell of Avondale School, W. J. Moore of Birmingham Negro Teachers Association and Dr. J. King Chandler III, president of Daniel Payne College —citations committee.

A. G. Gaston, Paul L. Ware and Mrs. Carrie Russell, finance.

Mrs. Flora Lewis, chairman of the 1953 UNCF drive in Bessemer, heads invitations.

Mrs. Naomi P. Patton, Prof. C. W. Hayes, T. J. Guice and Mrs. Lucille Douglas—program committee.

W. Arnett Bryant, Robert Durr and Miss Mattie B. Rowe—publicity

Mrs. Hattie J. Calloway, Mrs. Alva Coar Harris and Mrs. Rosa Latham—reception.

Mrs. Larnie J. Williams and A. D. Shores—testimonial.

Others include Dr. W. A. Bell, Mrs. Ruth J. Jackson, Robert L. Mabry, Mrs. Ludie P. Dowell and Charles Townsend.

PLANS FOR a testimonial in honor of Dr. F. D. Patterson, who recently resigned as president of Tuskegee Institute, were set in motion by a group of citizens of Greater Birmingham and the Bessemer districts at a meeting Monday evening at Smith and Gaston chapel.

In addition to the testimonial, the group included as one of its objectives the raising of $25,000 for the United Negro College Fund, which was founded by Dr. Patterson, and joins the Birmingham UNCF committee in urging all citizens to make this goal a reality.

Committee officers elected and appointed are: Mrs. Belzora S. Ward, general chairman; Mrs. Maggie Greene of Bessemer, secretary; A. G. Gaston, treasurer; Mrs. Bessie S. Estell, principal of the Avondale School, chairman; W. J. Moore of the Birmingham Teachers Assn.; Mrs. Margaret B. Little, president of Birmingham Spelman Club and Dr. J. King Chandler, president of Daniel Payne College, Citation committee.

Prof. Paul L. Ware, A. G. Gaston, R. L. Mabry and Mrs. Carrie Russell, finance committee.

Mrs. Naomi Pharris Patton, Prof. C. W. Hayes, Mrs. Ludie P. Dowdell, and T. J. Guice, program committee.

W. Arnett Bryant, Robert Durr and Miss Mattie B. Rowe, publicity. Mrs. Hattie J. Calloway, Mrs. Alva Coar Harris, Mrs. Rosa Latham, reception committee. Mrs. Larnie J. Williams, Atty. Arthur D. Shores, and Dr. L. D. Green, testimonial committee. Others working with the committees are Dr. W. A. Bell, Mrs. Charles Townsend, Mrs. Ruth J. Jackson, Rev. H. B. Gibson, Mrs. Lucille Douglass and Mrs. Lucile Lay.

The public is invited to attend a meeting of the testimonial committee, Wednesday, at Smith and Gaston's at 7 p.m.

Testimonial Dinner Due This Spring

Birmingham Citizens Plan To Honor Fred D. Patterson

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. — A group of leading citizens of this city have organized a committee to set in motion plans for honoring Dr. F. D. Patterson, resigned president of Tuskegee Institute, at a testimonial dinner here in May or June.

Mrs. Belzora S. Ward, president of the Metropolitan Council of Negro Women, was elected general chairman of the "Patterson Testimonial Committee."

Dr. Patterson, one of the founders of the ten-year old United Negro College Fund Drive, has accepted the post of director of the Phelps-Stokes Fund.

* * *

THE TRIBUTE would be used to stimulate the local 1953 United Negro College Fund campaign which has a goal of $25,000.

The meeting at which the testimonial promotion committee was organized was held Monday night, April 6, in the Smith and Gaston Chapel. Mrs. Maggie Greene of Bessemer was named secretary and A. G. Gaston, treasurer.

Mrs. A. G. Gaston is chairman of the fund drive in Jefferson County. Dr. P. S. Moten and Mr. Gaston are serving as honorary chairmen.

Other elected to steer the testimonial are: Mrs. Bessie S. Estelle of Avondale School, W. J. Moore of Birmingham Negro Teachers Association, and Dr. J. King Chandler III, president of Daniel Payne College, citations committee.

A. G. GASTON, Paul L. Ware and Mrs. Carrie Russell, finance.

Mrs. Flora Lewis, chairman of the 1953 UNCF drive in Bessemer, heads invitations.

Mrs. Naomi P. Patton, Prof. C. W. Hayes, T. J. Guice and Mrs. Lucille Douglas, program committee.

W. Arnett Bryant, Robert Durr and Miss Mattie B. Rowe, publicity.

Mrs. Hattie J. Calloway, Mrs. Alva Coar Harris and Mrs. Rosa Latham, reception.

Mrs. Larnie J. Williams and A. D. Shores, testimonial.

Others include Dr. W. A. Bell, Mrs. Ruth J. Jackson, Robert L. Mabry, Mrs. Ludie P. Dowell and Charles Townsend.

14n 1953

DR. FREDERICK DOUGLASS PATTERSON - PRESIDENT, TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE
RESIGNATION

APPRECIATIONS
TWENTY-FIVE YEAR
SERVICE AWARD

Tuskegee Pays Open Homage To Its Retiring President

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, Ala., May 14—The faculty, staff, students and community of Tuskegee Institute turned out in record numbers Friday evening, May 8, to pay homage to Dr. F. D. Patterson, the retiring president of Tuskegee Institute, and his wife, Mrs. Catherine Moton Patterson.

The reception in Logan Hall was by far the most colorful affair yet held at the Institute, and will be long remembered by all who attended.

With background music furnished by the Institute Ensemble, the hundreds of guests mingled among themselves and greeted Dr. and Mrs. Patterson, who were seated on the platform together with vice president and Mrs. Derbigny, business manager and Mrs. L. H. Foster, and the presidents of the United Men's Council and the Associated Women Students.

At exactly 8:30 p.m. the formal program began with the rendition of two selections by the world-famed Tuskegee Institute Choir, directed by Mrs. Alberta L. Simms, with Gertrude Knowles and William H. Johnson as soloists.

The scroll, containing "An Appreciation" to President Patterson in recognition of his 25 years of service, including 18 years as president, was presented to him by Dr. I. A. Derbigny.

Gifts of beautiful watches, appropriately engraved, donated by the entire Tuskegee family, were presented to Mrs. Patterson, by Barbara Williams, "Miss Tuskegee" for 1953, and to Dr. Patterson, by Cedric Thompson, president of the Student-Faculty Council.

Although deeply moved by the splendid occasion and the honors paid to him, Dr. Patterson expressed his deep gratitude to the Tuskegee family for this expression, and gave particular thanks to the general chairman, Dr. Derbigny and his staff of co-workers who labored to make the occasion a success. The program ended with the singing of the "Tuskegee Song."

Dr. Patterson Honored At Tuskegee

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, Ala. — (ANP) — A scroll, containing "An Appreciation" to Dr. F. D. Patterson, was presented to the Tuskegee institute president at a reception on the campus last week.

The scroll was the highlight of a tribute paid to Dr. Patterson, who will retire as president June 1, and his wife, Catherine Moten Patterson.

Students, faculty members, staff and members of the Tuskegee community turned out in record numbers for the gala occasion held in Logan hall.

Also presented to Dr. Patterson and his wife were watches donated by the Tuskegee family. Miss Barbara Williams, "Miss Tuskegee" for 1953, made the presentation to Mrs. Patterson and Cedric Thompson, president of the student-faculty council, awarded the watch to Dr. Patterson.

Later Dr. Patterson was one of several persons at Tuskegee who received gold keys and certificates of appreciation for having worked at the institution for 25 years. The occasion was a Sunday vesper service.

Principal speaker for the service was Dr. J. R. Otis, president of Alcorn AM college, Alcorn, Miss., who served Tuskegee for some 21 years before going to Alcorn.

Besides Dr. Patterson, other persons honored were C. G. Comillion, dean of students, and Mrs. Irene Jones McCoy, research clerk, department or records and research.

A member of the local chapter of the local chapter of the Tuskegee institute alumni association, Woddia Pryce, presented a special citation from that group to Dr. Patterson during the service as a token which the spokesman said was intended to express the association's "love" for him.

School Cites Retiring Prexy

Dr. Patterson At Tuskegee 25 Years

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, Ala. (ANP)—A scroll, containing "An Appreciation" to Dr. F. D. Patterson, was presented to the Tuskegee Institute president at a reception on the campus last week.

The scroll was the highlight of a tribute paid to Dr. Patterson, who will retire as president, June 1, and his wife, Catherine Moton Patterson.

Also presented to Dr. Patterson and his wife were watches donated by the Tuskegee family.

Miss Barbara Williams, Miss Tuskegee for 1953, made the presentation to Mrs. Patterson, and Cedric Thompson, president of the student-faculty council, presented the watch to Dr. Patterson.

Received Other Honors

Later Dr. Patterson was one of several persons at Tuskegee who received gold keys and certificates of appreciation for having worked at the institution for 25 years.

Principal speaker for the service was Dr. J. R. Otos, president of Alcorn A. and M. college, Alcorn, Miss., who served Tuskegee for some 21 years before going to Alcorn.

Besides Dr. Patterson, other persons honored were C. G. Comillion, dean of students, and Mrs. Irene Jones McCoy, research clerk, department of records and research.

14n 1953

DR. F.D. PATTERSON, PRESIDENT-TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE
RESIGNATION

COMMITTEE-FIVE TRUSTEES

Tuskegee successor to Patterson sought

NEW YORK, March 24—(AP)—A committee to recommend a successor to Dr. Frederick Douglas Patterson as president of Tuskegee Institute will meet in New York City April 1.

The board of trustees is scheduled to meet April 11 at Tuskegee, Ala., to consider the recommendation. The first announcement of a successor is expected to come from the board's meeting, it was said here yesterday.

Basil O'Connor, chairman of the board, has named a committee of five trustees to recommend a new president. O'Connor will serve as an ex-officio member of the committee.

The five trustees named to serve on it are Daniel W. Andrews, Winston-Salem, N. C.; A. A. Alexander, Des Moines, Iowa; Claude A. Barnett, Chicago; William Rosenwald, New York City, and Dr. Trygvie Gunderson, Boston.

Committee Named To Fill Patterson Post At Tuskegee

NEW YORK, March 23 (AP) — A committee to recommend a successor to Dr. Frederick Douglas Patterson as president of Tuskegee Institute will meet in New York City April 1.

The board of trustees is scheduled to meet April 11 at Tuskegee, Ala., to consider the recommendation. The first announcement of a successor is expected to come from the board's meeting, it was said here today.

Basil O'Connor, chairman of the board, has named a committee of five trustees to recommend a new president. O'Connor will serve as an ex-officio member of the committee.

The five trustees named to serve on it are Daniel W. Andrews, Winston-Salem, N. C.; A. A. Alexander, Des Moines, Ia.; Claude A. Barnett, Chicago; William Rosenwald, New York City, and Dr. Trygvie Gunderson, Boston.

Tuskegee Seeks New President

NEW YORK, April 1 (AP) — A six-man committee of trustees met for the first time today to seek a new president of Tuskegee Institute to succeed Dr. Frederick Douglas Patterson.

Basil O'Connor, board chairman, said afterwards:

"Specific names were discussed without the availability of the persons being known. No conclusions were reached. This was a preliminary discussion."

He said the committee will meet again at Tuskegee, Ala., April 11. On the same day the committee will report to the full board of trustees. O'Connor said there will be no specific recommendation but that the board will be acquainted with discussions held by the committee.

Attending today's meeting, besides O'Connor, were Daniel W. Andrews of Winston-Salem, N.C.; A. A. Alexander of Des Moines, Ia.; Claude A. Barnett of Chicago; William Rosenwald of New York, and Dr. Trygvie Gunderson of Boston.

Group Will Name 'Skegee President

NEW YORK—A committee to recommend a successor to Tuskegee Institute President Dr. Frederick D Patterson, will meet in New York City April 1.

The Board of Trustees is slated to meet April 11 at the school to consider the recommendation, and the announcement of the new president will come from the meeting, informed sources said.

A committee of five trustees has been named by chairman Basil O'Connor to recommend a new president. O'Connor will serve as an ex-officio member of the committee.

SUCCESSOR TO DR. PATTERSON—

Committee To Make Recommendation

First official steps toward selecting a successor to Dr. F. D. Patterson, who has resigned effective June 1 as president of Tuskegee Institute, were taken this week when a committee was named to recommend someone to be named to the post. The committee will meet in New York April 1 to consider the matter.

Basil O'Connor, chairman of the Institute board of trustees, announced selection of the committee composed of Daniel W. Andrews, Winston-Salem, N. C., A. A. Alexander, Des Moines, Ia., Claude A. Barnett, Chicago, William Rosenwald, New York City, and Dr. Trygvie Gunderson. Boston.

The board of trustees has scheduled a meeting at the Institute on April 11, at which time it will consider the recommendation made by the committee.

Meanwhile, here in Tuskegee speculation as to the successor to Dr. Patterson has suggested several members of the faculty or staff as possible candidates, although no one professes to have any definite information. Some were disposed to expect an "outsider" to be named as the fourth president of the Institute.

In New York Mr. O'Connor said he would meet with the committee on April 1 as an ex-officio member.

College Fund Founder Asks Release By June

BY EMORY O. JACKSON
(Editor Birmingham World)

Dr. Frederick D. Patterson has submitted his resignation as president of Tuskegee Institute. An official announcement of his resignation was released by the college Wednesday.

Dr. Patterson will succeed Channing Tobias as educational director of the Phelps-Stokes Fund.

The nationally known educator notified Basil O'Connor, chairman of the Board of Trustees that he would like to be relieved of his duties around June 1 or some other date suitable to the board.

Reports from Tuskegee indicate that both Dr. Patterson and Board Chairman O'Connor are in New York and were not available for comment

Dr. Patterson gave as reasons for his decision: 1. The belief that his 18 years spent in the service as president of Tuskegee Institute comes close to the upper limit of what is regarded as satisfactory tenure in this post. 2. The new position will permit use of his experiences in higher education gained in working over the past thirty years. 3. Through favorable and long time association of the Phelps Stokes Fund with Tuskegee Institute and the fact that he will be able to continue an active relationship with the United Negro College Fund of which he is president and founder, he hopes that his services might be made more effective. In releasing statement Mr. O'Connor stated that the United Negro College Fund, under Dr. Patterson's leadership had raised over 20 million dollars since 1945.

It is expected that the Chairman of the Board of Trustees will soon appoint a committee from the board to set up plans for choosing a successor to Dr. Patterson.

Dr. Patterson will remain at his post through June 1 and indicated a willingness, if requested to be available for any service he can render.

He said. "This is one of the most difficult decisions I have ever had to make."

DR. F. D. PATTERSON

Speaking of the position soon to be taken as educational director of the Phelps Stokes Fund, he said, "My chief concern in this new post shall be that of working for those changes and developments which seek a higher level of educational opportunity for Negro youth in private colleges."

Concerning his relationships with faculty and staff he said, "Despite the compelling reasons I have given as the basis of my action. I greatly regret that I shall sever an intimate association which has been a most happy one. I have a strong belief in the future of Tuskegee Institute as a technical and professional college: You, in your several relationships, have made this institution what it is. I shall therefore, leave the work with the most solid confidence in its future."

While no mention was made of a possible successor to the veteran educator, Treasurer L. H. Foster, Jr., is being spoken of as having the inside track to become the fourth president of this famed institution.

Father of the United Negro College Fund, Dr. Patterson has been connected with Tuskegee for approximately 25 years. He was elevated to the presidency in 1935.

A native of Washington, D. C., he earned two baccalaureate degrees at Indiana State College and received his Ph. D. from Cornell University in 1932. Since that time he has been awarded honorary degrees from Virginia State College and Wilberforce University.

In addition to the United Negro College Fund, Dr. Patterson is a member of the National Urban League, Southern Regional Council, Southern Agricultural Commission, National Planning Commission and served on the President's Commission on Higher Education.

He is also a member of the Methodist Church, Phi Kappa Phi and Alpha Phi Alpha fraternities.

Tuskegee's presidential vacancy causing much jockeying and politicking among educators. The institute not only needs a new president, but an entirely new curricula. With the South rapidly becoming industrialized, Tuskegee should strive to be the M.I.T. of Dixie. We have enough liberal arts colleges.

Board To Name Tuskegee President

$150,000 In Gifts To School Announced On Founder's Day

TUSKEGEE, INSTITUTE, Ala (ANP)—The April 11-12 week end was a momentous one at Tuskegee Institute. The board of trustees accepted the resignation of Dr. Frederick D. Patterson as president and selected a committee to pick a new head by June 1.

Two gifts of $100,000 and $500 were presented to the college and Dr. Guy H. Johnson, sociologist, cited the need of a philosphy to meet the issues involved in the pending decision of the U. S. Supreme Court on segregated schools.

Chairman Basil O'Connor announced that the board, at its semi-annual meeting April 11, formally accepted Dr. Patterson's resignation, to become effective at a date to be agreed upon by him and the chairmen.

O'Connor selected the following persons to serve on a committee to consider Dr. Patterson's successor.

Chairman O'Connor, himself; ex-officio Archie A. Alexander, Des Moines, Ia.; Daniel W. Andrews, Winston-Salem, N. C.; Claude A. Barnett, Chicago; William Rosenwald, New York; J. W. Terry, Alabama, state superintendent of education, Montgomery; George Warren, New York; Sen. John H. Pinson, Gieger, Ala., and Henry N. Segrest, Tuskegee.

At Tuskegee's 34th Founder's Day exercises, Dr. Patterson announced two gifts to the school: $100,000 from the Russell Foundation of Alexander City, Ala. to erect and equip a nursery school, and $500 from a group of colored employees of the Birmingham Cast Iron co. to be spent on the erection of bleachers for the athletic field.

The $100,000 donation will be used jointly by the school of Home Economics and School of Education in nursery school education and child development programs. Students and guests cheered wildly when the gift was announced and the donor's widow, Mrs. Russell Sr., and his daughter, Mrs. J. C. Allison were introduced.

In what many regard as the most important utterance by a white southerner in recent years on the question of jimcrow schools, Dr. Johnson told the audience that anyone who thinks transition of education from segregation to integration means the end of civilization is a fool.

The problem of this transition, he said, will not be met "by setting race against race."

Dr. Patterson Resigns Post At Institute

Dr. F. D. Patterson, president of Tuskegee Institute since 1935, has resigned as president, effective June 1, to become educational director of the Phelps-Stokes Fund in New York. The official announcement was made Wednesday in New York by Basil O'Conner, chairman of the Institute board of trustees.

Henry Neill Segrest, Tuskegee attorney and member of the board, said Thursday that Dr. Patterson's decision to resign had been known to board members and faculty for several days but announcement was withheld until it could be made by Mr. O'Conner.

Mr. Segrest said the board of trustees had a meeting scheduled here on April 11, at which time it is expected that the matter will be brought officially before the board. He said no applicants for the position have yet been received.

He gave as his reasons for resigning the pressure of work at Dr. Patterson has been associated with the Institute for 25 years, coming here as head of the veterinary division and later being named director of the schools and the opportunities offered by his new position. The Phelps-Stokes Fund is using named director of the schooled for an educational program of agriculture. He succeeded the late Dr. Robert R. Moton in 1935. for Negro Youths and other minority groups here and in Africa.

DIFFICULT DECISION—

Tuskegee Herald

Dr. Patterson To Leave After 18 Fruitful Years

Tuskegee, Ala.

Dues. 3-17-53

Dr. F. D. Patterson, president of Tuskegee Institute for the last 18 years, made one of the most difficult decisions of his life in finally making up his mind to leave the school he has served so long. This was revealed by Dr. Patterson himself in commenting on his decision to faculty members.

DR. F. D. PATTERSON

"Despite the compelling reasons I have given as the basis of my action, I greatly regret that I shall sever an intimate association which has been a most happy one," Dr. Patterson said. "I have a strong belief in the future of Tuskegee Institute as a technical and professional college. You in your several relationships, have made this institution what it is. I shall, therefore, leave the work with the most solid confidence in its future."

Dr. Patterson resigned his post as president of Tuskegee Institute last week to become educational director of the Phelps-Stokes Fund in New York, effective June 1. He gave as reasons for his decision the belief that his 18 years spent in the service as president of Tuskegee Institute comes close to the upper limit of what is regarded as satisfactory tenure in this post; the new position will permit use of his experiences in higher education gained in working over the past thirty years, and though favorable and long-time association the Phelps-Stokes Fund with Tuskegee and the fact that he will be able to continue active relationship with the United Negro College Fund, of which he is president and founder, he hopes that his services might be made more effective.

Speaking of the position soon to be taken as educational director of the Phelps-Stokes Fund, Dr. Patterson said, "Chief concern in this new post shall be that of working for those changes and developments which seek a higher level of educational opportunity for Negro youth in private colleges."

Tuskegee Herald

It is expected that the chairman of the board of trustees will soon appoint a committee from the board to set up plans for choosing a successor to Dr. Patterson

Tuskegee Ala.

Dr. Patterson will remain at his post through June 1, and he indicated a willingness, if requested, to be available for any service he can render.

Dr. Patterson was elevated to the presidency of Tuskegee Institute in 1935, to become the third president in a 54 years period. His 18 years tenure in office brings to 72 years the period served by Washington, Moton and Patterson.

Dues. 3-17-53

He came to Tuskegee Institute in 1928 as head of the veterinary division. In 1933 he became director of the School of Agriculture and president of Tuskegee Institute in 1935.

He holds the degrees of D. V. M. and Master of Science from Iowa State College, the Ph. D. degree from Cornell University, and has done study in college administration at Stanford University.

Dr. Patterson was married in June, 1935, to Miss Catherine Elizabeth Moton. They have one child, Fred D. Patterson, Jr., who is 12 years of age.

His career as president of Tuskegee Institute has been an uphill fight to overcome depression-born economic problems and to develop and improve course offerings and facilities at the Institute.

ROUND ABOUT with EDITH WASHINGTON

Herald

Tuskegee Ala.

Editor's Note: Readers of The Herald no doubt join the management in welcoming back as a columnist our former editor, Mrs. Edith Washington, whose first column of a new series appears below.

DR. PATTERSON—

The resignation of Dr. Fred D. Patterson as president of Tuskegee Institute was received with sincere regret by faculty, staff, students and friends.

Ala.

He has given 18 years of faithful service to a task never easy, but, I am sure, a task that has been soul-satisfying. In the 18 years he has served as president, Dr. Patterson's contribution to the Institute and to the race has been great. Outstanding is the United Negro College Fund, an example of cooperation that is noteworthy. He can look with pride at the Veterinary Medicine School, the Tuskegee low-cost housing method, the Department of Commercial Dietetics, Dorothy Hall guest house, the Carver Foundation and many other lesser projects.

That he is wise to place "family first" in our chaotic age is to be commended. Nothing in life is higher—except God. The Herald wishes him success in his new field, the Phelps-Stokes Fund, where he will continue to serve mankind.

9 Finish 5-Year Plan At Tuskegee

Nine students who had studied on the Tuskegee Institute Five-Year Scholarship plan were graduated from the institute on Monday, May 16.

The Five-Year Work Scholarship plan is a plan of work and study which will enable a number of promising and industrious students with limited money to get a college education.

Under the plan, the student usually works full-time during the first two years and carries a half class load. In the other three he works part time and completes the curriculum.

WORK-STUDY PLAN WORKS—

Nine Are Given Degrees

Tuskegee Institute this year conferred degrees upon nine students who earned their college education under the five-year work scholarship plan. The successful students were Hosea Belcher, of Tampa, Fla.; Mae Agnes Carmon, of Springfield, Ky.; Jeffie B. Doublass, of Hillsboro, Miss.; Sylvester Jackson, Jr., of Selma; William H. Johnson, of Tampa, Fla.; Carrie Belle Land, of Brooksville, Fla.; John H. Smith, Jr., of Selma; Senora A. Townsend, of Marion, Ark., and Joe N. Weems, of Calhoun, Ga.

The five-year work scholarship plan is a plan of work and study which enables a number of promising and industrious students with limited money to get a college education. Under the plan, the student completes a four-year degree curriculum in five years. During the first two years at the Institute, the student usually works full time and carries a half-class load, thus completing the freshman class schedule in two years. During the next three years the student works part-time and completes the curriculum in which he is enrolled.

Although these nine students worked enough to earn on the average, three-fourths of the cost of their education, most of them participated actively in student organizations. One was president of the volunteer fire squad for two years. One was president of the Institute chapter of the Future Teachers of America and a soloist in the Institute Choir; one was president of the ROTC Officers Club for one year, and one was president of his class for two years, president of the Y. M. C. A. for one year and chairman of the Student-Faculty Council for one year.

One is listed in the 1953 edition of Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges, and two are listed in this publication and in the 1953 edition of American Student Leaders. Two were recipients of prizes at commencement.

Five of the nine students were enrolled in the School of Education, two in the School of Home Economics, and two in the Department of Physical Education.

Tuskegee Institute counts among its most successful graduates persons who have earned a large portion of their educational fees by pride in the studenteV etao shmh work on productive jobs.

9 Graduates At Tuskegee In Work Plan

TUSKEGEE Institute, Alabama, May 30—Among the May 18 graduates from Tuskegee Institute Institute were nine students who had studied on the Five-Year Work Scholarship plan. The successful students were Hosea Belcher of Tampa, Florida, Mae Agnes Carmon of Springfield, Kentucky, Jeffie B. Douglass of Hillsboro, Mississippi, Sylvester Jackson Jr., of Selma, Alabama, William H. Johnson of Tampa, Florida, Carrie Belle Land of Brooksville, Florida, John H. Smith Jr., of Selma, Alabama, Senora A. Townsend of Marion, Arkansas, and Joe N. Weems of Calhoun, Georgia.

The Five-Year Work Scholarship plan is a plan of work and study which will enable a number of promising and industrious students with limited money to get a college education. Under the plan, the student is able to complete a four-year degree curriculum in five years. During the first two years at the Institute, the student usually works full-time and carries a half-class load, thus completing the Freshman class schedule in two years. During the next three years the student works part-time and completes the curriculum in which he is enrolled.

Although these nine students worked enough to earn, on the average, three-fourths of the cost of their education, most of them participated actively in student organizations. One was president of the Volunteer Fire squad for two years. One was president of the Institute Chapter of the Future Teachers of Aremica and a soloist in the Institute Choir; one was president of the R. O. T. C. officers club for one year; and one was president of his class for two years, president of the Y.M.C.A. for one year, and chairman of the Student-Faculty Council for one year. One is listed in the 1953 edition of Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges, and two are listed in this publication and in the 1953 edition of American Student Leaders. Two were recipients of prizes at commencement.

14n 1953

FOOD PROCESSING AND STORAGE LABORATORY
INITIAL GRANT OF $55,000 from MR. R.W. WOODRUFF, Chairman-COCA-COLA COMPANY  AND TRUSTEE OF TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE

Tuskegee Institute To Benefit From Coca-Cola Head Grant

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, Ala., March 11—From an initial grant of $55,000 from R. W. Woodruff, chairman of the Board of the Coca-Cola Company and a trustee of Tuskegee Institute, work will soon begin on a new Food Processing and Storage Laboratory at Tuskegee Institute, Dr F. D. Patterson announced this week.

In discussing details of the proposed project, Dean L. A Potts of the School of Agriculture said that the laboratory will serve principally for teaching and research purposes. Graduates in agriculture, home economics, and the food service areas are being called upon, more and more, to assist in preparation, packaging, freezing and storage of foods.

The new unit will not only be opened for the training of students, but will offer in-service training for professional workers and render services to farm families.

Dean Potts stated that the principal objective is to make available more adequate food processing services for more people. It is planned that cold storage and freezer-locker service will be offered to local citizens.

Additional advantages listed include services to the food production units of the farm and animal science divisions of the School of Agriculture. These units can develop long range planning schedules of production as a result of the new plant.

It is expected that after the Food Processing and Storage Laboratory has become established, it will become a part of Student Induustries at Tuskegee Institute, providing learning experiences and producing income to allow more work students to earn their school expenses.

In commenting upon Mr. Woodruff's generous gift, Dr. Patterson stated that his being a leading Southern industrialist is an important factor to be considered. He said, "It is a wholesome sign of the new era of progress in the South."

Tuskegee Gets $55,000 Grant For Laboratory

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, Ala.—(ANP) — Tuskegee Institute last week received an initial grant of $55,000 from R. W. Woodruff, chairman of the board of the Coca-Cola company and a trustee of Tuskegee institute, for work on a new Food Processing and Storage laboratory at the school.

The new unit not only will serve for training students, it will offer in service training for professional workers and render services to farm families.

In commenting upon Woodruff's generous gift, Dr. Frederick D. Patterson, president of Tuskegee Institute, said the fact that he is a leading southern industrialist is an important factor to be considered. He added:

"It is a wholesome sign of the new era of progress in the South."

14n 1953

INAUGURATION -FOURTH PREISDENT -TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE
DR. LUTHER HILTON FOSTER, JR.

New Tuskegee Institute Head To Be Installed November 1

By GEOFFREY BIRT

TUSKEGEE, Ala., Sept. 22—Tuskegee Institute's fourth president, Dr. Luther H. Foster, will be formally inaugurated in office Nov. 1, in ceremonies culminating a three-day program, it was learned here today.

Significantly, a conference on the subject, "The New South and Higher Education," will take place on this campus on the eve of the inauguration.

White and Negro educators will participate. Date of this one-day conference will be Oct. 31.

The Institute's board of trustees has also scheduled its fall meeting to coincide with the inaugurattion and conference. The board will meet, it was stated here today, on Oct. 30.

Detailed programming for these plans its still incomplete, it was learned, but many educational, business, and political leaders are expected to visit the campus during these three days.

Tuskegee to install Foster as president

Colorful ceremonies will be fourth inaugural in 72 years

TUSKEGEE, Ala. — Scholars and friends from throughout the nation will gather at Tuskegee Institute on Oct. 31 and Nov. 1 to take part in the ceremonies which will see Dr. L. H. Foster inaugurated as the school's fourth president.

At the exercises, to be held in the Institute chapel, Dr. John D. Russell, chancellor and executive secretary, New Mexico Board of Educational Finance and formerly professor of education at the University of Chicago and later specialist in higher education in the U.S. Office of Education, will deliver the inaugural address.

President Robert P. Daniel, Virginia State college, Petersburg, Va., will present the president-elect. Investiture of the new president will be performed by Tuskegee Institute's chairman of the board of trustees, Basil O'Connor.

Salutations Set

Salutations to President Foster will be given in order for the following organizations by the representatives listed:

For the students — Arthur Scavella, chairman of the Institute council. For the faculty — Dr. A. Florence May, secretary of the faculty. For the alumni—Theodore T. Greene of Chicago, president of the Tuskegee Institute General Alumni association.

For Hampton Institute—President Alonzo Moron For the United College Fund— William J. Trent Jr., executive director, NYC. For the American Teachers Association—Dr. H. Council Trenholm, executive secretary and president of the State Teachers college, in Montgomery, Ala.

Dr. Harry V. Richardson, president of Gammon theological seminary, Atlanta and formerly Tuskegee chaplain, will open and close the service.

Inaugural day will be preceded by a meeting of the Tuskegee Institute board of trustees and be a symposium, "The New South and Higher Education," which convenes on Oct. 31. The symposium will seek answer to the question, "What are the implications for higher education of the changing socio-economic conditions of the South?"

DR. L. H. FOSTER NEW PRESIDENT OF TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, ALA.

American greats will attend the inauguration of Tuskegee Institute's fourth president, Dr. L. H. Foster, Oct. 31 and Nov. 1.

Founded by Booker T. Washington seventy-two years ago, other presidents were Dr. R. R. Moton and Dr. F. D. Patterson.

Dr. John Dale Russell, Chancellor and Executive Secretary, New Mexico Board of Educational Finance will speak.

Tuskegee Institute To Inaugurate Fourth President, Dr. L. Foster

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, Ala.—In its seventy-two-year history only two inaugural ceremonies have been held at Tuskegee Institute: Dr. Robert R. Morton's, in 1916, and Dr. F. D. Patterson's in 1935.

Scholars and friends from throughout the nation will journey to the Institute on Oct. 31 and Nov. 1 to take part in the ceremonies which will see Dr. L. H. Foster inaugurated at Tuskegee Institute's fourth head.

At the exercises, to be held in the Institute chapel, Dr. John Dale Russell, chancellor and executive secretary, New Mexico Board of Education Finance, will deliver the inaugural address.

Dr. Robert P. Daniel, president of Virginia State college, Petersburg, Va., will present the president-elect. Investiture of the new president will be performed by Tuskegee Institute's chairman of the Board of Trustees, Basil O'Connor.

Salutations to President Foster will be given in order for the following organizations by the representatives listed:

For the students—Arthur Scavella, chairman of the Institute Council. For the faculty—Dr. A. Florence May, secretary of the faculty. For the Alumni — Theodore T. Greene, of Chicago, president of the Tuskegee Institute General Alumni Association.

For Hampton Institute — President Alonzo Moron, of Hampton Institute, Hampton, Va. For the United Negro College Fund—William J. Trent, jr., executive director, New York City. For the American Teachers Association—Dr. H. Council Trenholm, executive secretary and president of the State Teachers College, in Montgomery, Ala.

There will also be representatives for the People of the State of Alabama, the American Council of Education, the American Association for the Advancement of Science, and the foundations.

The Tuskegee Institute Choir, under the direction of William L. Dawson, is preparing special music for the occasion.

Dr. Harry V. Richardson, president of Gammon Theological Seminary, Atlanta, Ga., and formerly Tuskegee Institute's Chaplain, will open and close the service.

Inaugural Day will be preceded by a meeting of the Tuskegee Institute Board of Trustees and by a symposium, "The New South and Higher Education," which convenes on Saturday, Oct. 31. The Symposium will seek answer to the question, "What are the implications for higher education of the changing socio-economic conditions of the South?"

New South To Be Theme At Inaugural Conference

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, Ala.—The dynamic and often startling changes in the South brought about by industrialization, increasing urbanization and diminishing farm population pose inescapable problems to higher education and will be the chief concern of a pre-inauguration symposium at Tuskegee Institute on October 31.

Following the theme "The New South and Higher Education," the symposium will be a feature of the inaugural exercises which will formally induct Dr. Luther Hilton Foster into the office of president of Tuskegee Institute.

LEADERS ON HAND

A number of the nation's leading sociologists and economists will be on hand for both the morning and afternoon sessions of the conference. Among those scheduled to play leading roles in the discussions are: Dr. Rupert B. Vance, professor of sociology, University of North Carolina, and author of many important studies; Dr. Donald J. Bogue, associate director of the Scripps Foundation; Dr. George S. Mitchell, executive director of the Southern Regional Council.

CHANGES IN SOUTH

Dr. Benjamin U. Ratchford, professor of economics, Duke University, and co-author of "Economic Resources and Policies of the South;" Dr. Ira D. Reid, outstanding sociologist and professor of sociology at Haverford College; Dr. Charles H. Thompson, dean of the Graduate School, Howard University; and Dr. Edward C Ackerman, assistant general manager of TVA.

A review of the socio-economic changes in the South brought about by conditions which are proving difficult to control, needs careful study, if wholesome adjustments are to be made. Such factors as the industrialization of the South, mechanization of agriculture, increasing urbanization, and the beginnings of a two-party political system will receive the attention of those who gather for the symposium.

What effect these changes will have on the region and how its institution of higher learning should adjust their curricula and revise their emphasis to meet the needs of the people will be dealt with on the basis of the discussed changes.

ENTIRE REGION

The symposium is designed to deal with problems affecting all the people of the South rather than any one group. It is the opinion of the committee planning the conference that only a concern for the entire region has any lasting value and significance.

Outstanding educators from all parts of the South, representing some of the most distinguished colleges and universities, have indicated that they will attend.

An impressive roster of college and university representatives, civic, social and scientific organizations, alumni and trustees, will be present for Dr. Foster's inauguration at 2:30 o'clock, November 1, in the Institute Chapel.

While no formal invitations have been extended, the general public is cordially invited to attend the inaugural exercises and the reception which follows at 6:30 o'clock Sunday, November 1, in Logan Hall.

Tuskegee Institute To Inaugurate Fourth President

Tuskegee Institute, Ala.—In its seventy-two-year history only two inaugural ceremonies have been held at Tuskegee Institute, Dr. Robert R. Morton's in 1916, and Dr. F. D. Patterson's in 1935.

Scholars and friends from throughout the nation will journey to the Institute on Oct. 31 and Nov. 1, to take part in the ceremonies which will see Dr. L. H. Foster inaugurated as Tuskegee Institute's fourth head.

At the exercises, to be held in the Institute chapel, Dr. John Dale Russell, chancellor and executive secretary, New Mexico Board of Education Finance, deliver the inaugural address.

Dr. Robert P. Daniel, president of Virginia State college, Petersburg, Va., will present the president-elect. Investiture of the new president will be performed by Tuskegee Institute's chairman of the Board of Trustees, Basil O'Connor.

Salutations to President Foster will be given in order for the following organizations by the representatives listed:

For the students—Arthur Seavella, chairman of the Institute Council. For the faculty—Dr. A. Florence May, secretary of the faculty. For the Alumni—Theodore T. Greene, of Chicago, president of the Tuskegee Institute General Alumni Association.

For Hampton Institute — President Alonzo Moron, of Hampton Institute Hamption, Va. For the United Negro College Fund—William J. Trent, Jr., executive director, New York City. For the American Teachers Association—Dr. H. Council Trenholm, executive secretary and president of the State Teachers College, in Montgomery, Ala.

There will also be representatives for the People of the State of Alabama, the American Council of Education, the American Association for the Advancement of Science, and the foundations.

The Tuskegee Institute Choir under the direction of William L. Dawson, is preparing special music for the ceremony.

Inauguration of Tuskegee's New President Oct. 31

Tuskegee, Ala.—In its seventy-two year history only two inaugural ceremonies have been held at Tuskegee Institute: Dr. Robert R. Moton's, in 1916, and Dr. F. D. Patterson's, in 1935.

Scholars and friends from throughout the nation will journey to the Institute on October 31 and November 1 to take part in the ceremonies which will see Dr. L. H. Foster inaugurated as Tuskegee Institute's fourth head.

At the exercises, to be held in the Institute Chapel, Dr. John Dale Russell, chancellor and executive secretary, New Mexico Board of Educational Finance and formerly professor of Education at the University of Chicago and later specialist in Higher Education in the U. S. Office of Education, will deliver the inaugural address.

President Robert P. Daniel, Virginia State College, Petersburg, Va., will present the president-elect. Investiture chairman of the Board of Trustees, Basil O'Connor.

Special Music

The Tuskegee Institute Choir, under the direction of William L. Dawson, is preparing special music for the occasion.

Dr. Harry V. Richardson, president of Gammon Thealogical Seminary, Atlanta, Ga., and former Tuskegee Institute's Chaplain, will open and close the service.

Inaugural Day will be preceded by a meeting of the Tuskegee Institute Board of Trustees and by a symposium, "The New South and Higher Education," which convenes on Saturday, October 31. The symposium will seek answer to the question, "What are the implications for higher education of the changing socia-economic conditions of the South?"

The program begins at 8.30 Saturday morning, October 31, with greetings from Dr. I. A. Derbigny, vice-president of Tuskegee Institute and will proceed with speakers and discussants.

Saturday morning Chapel Service at 8:00, in Logan Hall, William Warfield, celebrated baritone, will be heard in recital.

The Sunday morning Chapel Service will be addressed by Dr. Howard P. Thurman, dean of the Chapel of Boston University.

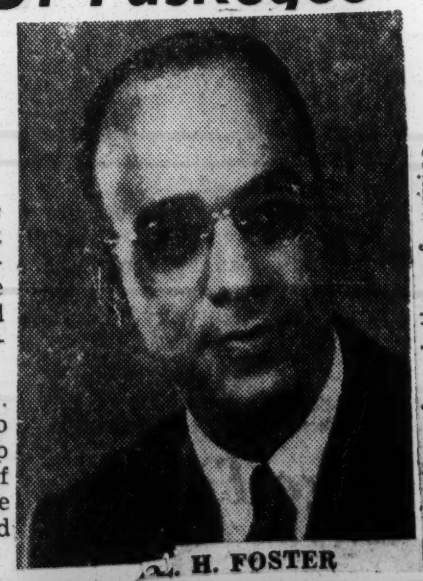
On Sunday evening, at 6:30, a reception honoring President and Mrs. L. H. Foster will be held in Logan Hall.

Dr. Luther Foster Installed As President Of Tuskegee

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, Ala.—Dr. Luther Hilton Foster, Tuskegee Institute's fourth president was inaugurated during a mammoth ceremony as hundreds looked on.

Witnesses declared this to be the most colorful ceremony at Tuskegee since the 50th Anniversary Observance in 1931. More than 90 colleges and scientific and social organizations were represented at the official gathering

In his inaugural statement, Dr. Foster gave encouragement to those concerned about sharp changes in over all policies of Tuskegee Institute. He said the institute would continue to build on the firm foundation of service so well established by the great leaders who went before him.



H. FOSTER

by mechanization de-arm population, shifts to livestock farm
to the general welfare.
tinue to grow, it must foster a brought on by program which lives effectively in creasing farm
He pointed out that there are it's locality.
still problems right here in our This involves concern with midst involving both human and changing pattern of agriculture natural resources that will con-

14n 1953

10- MAN COMMITTEE "TO ELECT" PRESIDENT OF TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE

Atlantan Mentioned For Post

'Skegee Prexy To Be Named

(Special To The World)

TUSKEGEE, Ala. — An Atlanta educator is one of five men still being considered by the Tuskegee Institute Board of Trustees to succeed President F. D. Patterson when he leaves this summer.

Informed sources, however, say that Dr. L. H. Foster, Jr., who has been Tuskegee's business manager for 11 years, has a better than even chance to become the new head of the institution.

An eight-member screening committee of the Tuskegee board will meet in Montgomery Friday to decide on its recommendation to the other trustees. This committee will report to the board at a meeting Saturday at Tuskegee.

In addition to Dr. Foster the other four educators still being mentioned for the post are:

Dr. Samuel Milton Nabrit, dean of the graduate school of Atlanta university.

Hollis Freeman Price, 48, president of LeMoyne College at Memphis.

Dr. Robert C. Hatch, 46, state supervisor of instruction in the division of Negro education in the Alabama State Education department and a part-time instructor at Alabama State College.

Dr. G. Robert Cotton, president of Kansas Technical Institute at Topeka, Kansas.

Dr. Patterson has resigned to become educational director of the Phelps Stokes Fund.

TO SPEAK AT BACCALAUREATE SERVICES.—Dr. Maynard P. Turner, left, will deliver the baccalaureate service sermon of Kansas Technical Institute, Topeka, which will be held on Sunday, May 31, in Bradford Miller Hall auditorium, at 7 p.m. Dr. Turner is a graduate of Fisk University where he received his B.A. degree in 1934. He served as instructor of science at Western College during the school year 1934-35, and instructor of mathematics for drugs and solutions and physical therapeutics in the School of Nursing of the Kansas City General Hospital No. 2 during the school year 1935-36. He was granted the Bachelor of Divinity Degree in 1943. He became Dean of Western Baptist Seminary in September, 1944 which position he held for five years. He became president of Western Baptist Seminary in September, 1950. The speaker is a member of Alpha Phi Alpha fraternity, Society of Biblical Literature and Exegesis, National Association, American Palestine Committee, General Assembly representing the National Convention, U.S.A. and many other organizations. The commencement exercises which will be held Monday, June 1, will have the president of Kansas Tech, Dr. G. Robert Cotton, right, as speaker. Dr. Cotton holds an A. B. degree from Hampton Institute, M. S. from Pittsburg State Teacher's college and Ph. D. from Ohio State university. He has been president of the school for six years.

Dr. Foster May Succeed Dr. Patterson

MONTGOMERY, ALA.— (SNS)— Dr. L. N. Foster, Jr., 40 treasurer of Tuskegee Institute, is expected to be named successor to Dr. F. D. Patterson when the Tuskegee board of trustees meets at the institute on May 30. Foster is rounding out his eleventh year as business manager of Tuskegee. He is a Tuskegee graduate with a Ph. D. from the University of Chicago.

Emory O. Jackson, editor of the Birmingham World, predicted in a story which ran March 13 that Foster would become the fourth president of Tuskegee. In a dispatch to the Atlanta Daily World May 16 he repeated his prediction in a story on the recent board meeting.

14n 1953

10-MAN COMMITTEE "TO ELECT" PRESIDENT OF TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE

Dr.G.Lamar Harrison
President
Langston Univ.

Barnett Sought Harrison's Name As Candidate

Regent Likes Proposal For Technical School

Announcement last week at Tuskegee Institute that Dr. Luther H. Foster had been elected by the board of trustees to succeed Dr. F. D. Patterson as president, caused many Oklahomans to look quizzically upon recent stories running in the Black Dispatch stating that Dr. G. Lamar Harrison was being considered for this post.

Inquery at Langston university this week elicited a fuller statement from Dr. Harrison, who had previously stated, when questioned, that he had been asked to submit his name as an applicant for the position.

"I think the two letters I hand you at this time will fully cover the questions you ask, and also indicate fully my attitude in the matter' said the Langston prexy in discussing the matter. The two letters follow. One written under date of April 1st and the other under a May 12th date line:

Refuses To Be Candidate

May 12, 1953

Mr. Claude Barnett, Director
Associated Negro Press
3531 South Parkway
Chicago 15, Illinois

My dear Mr. Barnett:

May I take this means of expressing my thanks to you for the very kind letter you wrote. It is rather interesting that so many have talked to me recently regarding Tuskegee, including a number of the Tuskegee alumni, urging me to allow my name to be submitted to the Trustees for consideration for the presidency of Tuskegee. I deeply appreciate the honor of being considered. However, unless I change my mind my answer is the same as it was the last time we talked. In the event I do change my mind, I will call you.

By the way, I have had many favorable reactions on the part of the students and administrative officers at Oklahoma Baptist University ,a white college in the state, to my address to that group a few weeks ago. The president of one of the other white colleges in the state has extended me an invitation to address his student body after school opens next fall.

Remember me kindly to Mrs. Barnett and tell her we enjoyed having her so much and we are looking forward to having her with us again in the near future.

I am enclosing a news release concerning Langston University.

With best wishes, I am

Sincerely yours,
G. L. Harrison,
PRESIDENT

* * *

April 1, 1953

Mr. Claude Barnett
Director, Associated Negro Press
3531 South Parkway
Chicago, Illinois

My dear Mr. Barnett:

First, permit me to state that I enjoyed immensely my visit with you last week, and the very fine dinner at the Parkway. You were very, very kind to me.

Since I talked to you, I have given considerable thought to Tuskegee Institute. I have tried to give a careful study of the institution, not as a candidate for the position as head of the institute, but as a student in the field of Education, and as an administrator who has had considerable experience as well as formal training. I have studied the background of the institution and also the modern times and trends. I am more convinced that the major function of Tuskegee should be that of a technical institution. I should like to see Tuskegee be recognized as an institute of technology in the South in the same manner as Massachusetts Institute of Technology is recognized in the North or the California Institute of Technology is recognized in the West.

I realize that today it seems that I am stretching my imagination or day dreaming, but the possibilities are there. Demands of today are for technically trained persons and the opportunity for trained Negro technicians are greater now than ever before in history. We have a large number of Negro colleges that are designed as liberal arts and teacher colleges; offering a certain amount of agriculture, home economics and the mechanical arts. This is true of most of our state-supported Negro colleges. But, I would like to see Tuskegee go far beyond that in developing a great technological institution.

It does not mean the elimination of arts and sciences because they are valuable in giving a person certain backgrounds and will enable him to better deal with other people as a technician. But the major emphasis should be that in technical training.

I believe the time is ripe for the institution to be developed in such a manner so as to be recognized. There are many large firms that would contribute financially to the institute if they knew the institution would be primarily concerned with turning out properly trained technicians in the various fields.

I realize that it will require a careful search for a president who will be able to carry out such a program. I should like to call your attention to the fact that it does not necessarily mean that the president must be a person who specializes in technical training. Often times, one of the dangers in heading an institution of that type with a person who has specialized in technical training and has not acquired a broad philosophy of education is that he will attempt to personally direct the work in the various departments. Not having time to give attention to these matters, he frequently will not do a good job. It is far better, therefore, to select a president who has a broad philosophy and a clear conception of what the institution should be and then he would be expected to select department heads or directors who would be expected to carry out the program.

Again, I say one of the dangers of selecting a person who is technically trained is that he, himself, wants to ursurp the functions of department heads or directors.

I am taking this time out for two reasons: First, because I am genuinely interested in seeing that Tuskegee becomes the great institution it is destined to be. And secondly, because you were kind enough to ask me to express my opinions on the matter. I will be 53 years old my next birthday. If I were ten years younger, I would be interested in being a candidate for the position.

Again, I wish to thank you for the many courtesies you extended to me. Do let me know what you think of my suggestions.

With very best wishes, I am

Sincerely yours,
G. L. Harrison,
PRESIDENT

10-MAN COMMITTEE SLATES MEETING ON 'SKEGEE PREXY

Foster, Hatch Derbigny Among Top Candidates

BY EMORY O. JACKSON

MONTGOMERY, Ala. — (SNS — A ten-man committee headed by Basil O'Connor, of New York City, chairman of the board of trustees of Tuskegee Institute, is scheduled to meet Saturday, May 16, to recommend a successor to Dr. F. D. Patterson, who resigned the presidency of the famed Black Belt institution in March.

The full board is scheduled to meet Saturday, May 30 at Tuskegee Institute to act upon the special committee's report. It is expected that the board will pick Dr. Patterson's successor at this time.

Members of the special screening committee searching for a successor to the resigned third president of Tuskegee Institute are: A A. Alexander, David W. Andrews Claude A. Barnett, director of the Associated Negro Press; State (Alabama) Senator John H. Pinson William Rosenwald, Henry Mill Segrest, Dr. W. J. Terry, state superintendent of Education of Alabama and George E. Warren.

Several prominent persons have been mentioned in connection with filling the Tuskegee presidential vacancy, among them, S. J. Phillips, director of the Booker T. Washington Birthplace Memorial project in Virginia; Dr. Benjamin E. Mays, president of Morehouse College, Atlanta, Ga.; Dr. Harry V. Richardson, president of Gammon Theological Seminary, Atlanta, Ga.; Dr. L. H. Foster, Jr., treasurer of Tuskegee Institute; Dr. Irving A. Derbigny, 52-year-old vice president of Tuskegee Institute and Dr R. C. Hatch, executive secretary of the Alabama State Teachers Association.

Dr. Foster was recently elected business manager of the American Association of College Business Officers at the fourteenth annual convention held May 3-5 at Fort Valley (Georgia) College. His name has been described as being among the leading candidates for the unfilled prime office at Tuskegee Institute.

When the board met April 6 at Tuskegee, Board Chairman O'Connor said that "specific names were discussed without the availability of persons being known." Identity of persons under consideration was not revealed. No "conclusions were reached" at this meeting which was a "preliminary discussion." However, the discussions ended up with the special committee being named to screen the "specific names" that were discussed.

Widespread reports with the color reliability indicated that some effort was made to put the name of Mr. Phillips before the board It is known that he is interested in the position and probably has some support among the board members appointed by the State of Alabama.

Dr. Patterson in his letter of resignation suggested that his separation become effective June 1. He has accepted the directorship of the Phelps-Stokes Fund. For a quarter of a century he has been connected with Tuskegee Institute

Candidates for Tuskegee Presidency Add 2 To List

MONTGOMERY, Ala. —(Specia o the World)—Two new names were being talked here among the suggested, real and rumored, candidates to succeed Dr. F. D. Patterson as president of Tuskegee Institute.

In a story this week, the Oklahoma Black Dispatch, Oklahoma City, said that Dr. G. Lamar Harrison, president of Langston University admitted that a Tuskegee Board member asked him to become a presidential candidate. The newspaper added that Dr. Harrison said that he refused but added "did at the request give this trustee a lengthy letter telling him what he felt was the future educational field in which this institution should function."

The other fresh name emerging into the picture is that of President Hollis F. Price of LeMoyne College, Memphis, Tenn.

It is understood that Dr. Harry V. Richardson, president of Gammon Theological Seminary, Atlanta, has bowed out of the picture.

S. J. Phillips, perhaps the most active candidate, has won the backing of Dr. D. V. Jemison, Sr. of Selma, president of the National 15 to the Birmingham Post-Herald Baptist Convention. In a letter May said that Phillips "is capable through education, contact, experience, attitude and achievement" to do the job necessary to develop the institution to do a large scale job in offering vocational and technical training to Negro youth."

But Dr. L. H. Foster, Jr., treasurer is believed to stand in a more favorable position than any of the other mentioned candidates.

The special committee of the Board of Trustees headed by Basil O'Connor of New York is scheduled to meet today at Tuskegee Institute to recommend a successor to Dr. F. D. Patterson who resigned in March. The full board is scheduled to meet May 30 at Tuskegee to consider the recommendation of the screening and nomination committee.

LOOMS AS PRESIDENT OF TUSKEGEE

DR. G. LAMAR HARRISON

Reliable rumors eminating from Chicago this week indicate the trustees of Tuskegee Institute in their meeting last week seriously considered Dr. G. Lamar Harrison, president of Langston university as successor to Dr. Frederick D. Patterson, who resigns as president of Tuskegee June 1st.

When reached over long distance telephone Wednesday morning Dr. Harrison confirmed the fact that he had been contacted by a trustee of Tuskegee Institute and asked to throw his hat in the ring. Dr. Harrison said he refused to become an candidate, but did at request give this trustee a lengthy letter telling him what he felt was the future educational field in which the institution should function. Harrison said this trustee had circulated his letter among the other trustees, and it was in this way his name came up before the trustee for discussion.

The Langston prexy when questioned said he suggested that Tuskegee of the future be converted into a technological institute, and it is this idea which seems to have caught the fancy of the trustees.

It is significant the board desisted from selecting a head of the institute at its last meeting. Reports have it decision as to the new head has been deferred until a June meeting.

A Call to Higher Responsibility

While Oklahoma would be distressed in the loss of Dr. G. Lamar Harrison should he be selected as head of Tuskegee Institute, we are sure the Negroes of the nation would materially gain in educational leadership if the Langston university prexy would make decision to accept this enlarged field of educational responsibility.

Dr. Harrison has headed Langston university for fourteen years and during this troublesome period vexed with the controversial questions of integration, he has not only kept faith with the Negroes of this state, but has maintained the confidence and respect of the regents of his institution, and the Regents for Higher Education. This is what encourages us to suggest he is the proper man to take over a tought assignment such as the Alabama school, where in the heart of Dixie there is constantly needed a man of tremendous balance and considered judgment.

We recall when the NAACP launched the Ada Lois Sipuel case several years ago there was constant desire and effort on the part of reaction to misrepresent the position of Dr. Harrison respecting the basic issues jutting out of this controversial question. Throughout all of this difficult period Dr. Harrison constantly made himself clear to the Negroes of this state, at which time he was 100 per cent cooperative, and at the same time masterfully presented his position to his white supporters in such a way as to make his position acceptable to them.

We recall when the regional college idea was gathering popularity all over the nation and when Governor Roy Turner saw fit to elevate Dr. Harrison to a national board, Dr. Harrison had everyone, including the governor, to know he did not approve of this idea and gave ample and satisfactory reasons substantiating his position.

Our personal observations and experiences with the Langston president convince us he is the type of man who would fit well into the Tuskegee post. The Alabama school needs a shot in the arm, and we believe Oklahoma has a man competent, bold and forthright enough to meet the impending issues of the moment. Dr. Harrison's suggestion that Tuskegee should be converted into a technological school meets with our instant approval. God knows we have enough teacher colleges, which solely teach others to teach others to teach, but we have no school solely devoted to industrial science and practical arts. What Negroes sadly need in the U. S. is a school that teaches the actual "know how" in conquering every day life situations. As we sense this period of human existence and the relationship of races, we believe the time is ripe for the Negro to become more firmly grounded in the economies of life. Right now world changes call upon Negro leadership in action and we have few trained in thrifty and careful administration as it relates to production, processing, manufacture, transportation and communication. A school of technology is sorely needed just at this hour when few white schools of this character will admit black enrollees.

As we said at the outset, Oklahoma's loss would be Alabama's gain. We believe the trustees of that institution would be acting with vision and understanding of the needs of the moment in selecting Dr. Harrison for this important post, and if he is called we hope Dr. Harrison will respond affirmatively to this demand that he step higher up the ladder of responsibility and duty.

Ministers Workshop Is Sponsored At Tuskegee

TUSKEGEE, Ala. — The Chaplaincy Service with the cooperation of the Neuropsychiatric and Social Services of the Veterans Administration Hospital of Tuskegee, Ala., the John A. Andrew Mental Hygiene Clinic, the Rural Life Council and the Religious Extension Service of Tuskegee Institute recently sponsored a workshop for ministers. The theme of the workshop was "Christ and Mental Peace."

The workshop convened at the Greenwood Baptist Church. The Tuskegee Interdenominational Ministers Council conducted devotions. The Rev. Merrel D. Booker, pastor, the New Hope Baptist Church, Dallas, Texas, who was invited as guest consultant delivered an inspiring and illuminating message on "Fenced in Religion." Representing Dr. Luther H. Foster, president of Tuskegee Institute, the Rev. Daniel W. Wynn, acting Institute chaplain, extended a warm welcome to the workshop group.

The workshop was resumed the following day at the VA Hospital. The conference was extended a cordial welcome by Dr. T. T. Tildon, manager, VA Hospital, Tuskegee, Ala. Chaplain C. H. Pierson led the devotions with Mrs. Bettye Ann Johnson, music technician, serving as organist. The theme was explored and discussed in terms of its practical application to daily living. It was approached from the following aspects: "The Rural Ministry Can Help Effect Peaceful Living," "Emotional Conflicts and An Adjusted Personality" and "Techniques for Peaceful Living."

The following persons led discussions on these topics: The Rev. V. A. Edwards, director, Relgious Extension Service, Tuskegee Institute, presided over the panel; Dr. Harry V. Richardson, president Gammon Theological Seminary, Atlanta, Ga.; Dr. Benjamin Blassingille, Neuropsychiatric Service and Mrs. E. D. Morgan, Case Supervisor, VA Hospital, Tuskegee, Ala.; Mr. E. E. Neal, director of Rural Life Council, Tuskegee Institute; the Rev. Merrel D. Booker, Certified Chaplain Supervisor, formerly chaplain of Freedman's Hospital, now pastor, New Hope Baptist Church, Dallas, Texas, Clinical Consultant for the Workshop and Mrs. Naomi P. Blassingille, Mental Hygienist, John A. Andrew Mental Hygiene Clinic, Tuskegee Institute.

One of the recommendations of the workshop pointed up the need for ministers and other leaders in the community in which they serve to be continually on the alert so that they may detect among the people they serve the symptoms of maladjustments stemming from sociological, psychological or physiological causes and assisting such persons by counseling with them, and when necessary referring them to appropriate agencies which may help them make the best possible adjustment to their situation.

Dr. S. P. Delaney, Chief Librarian contributed to the success of the workshop by setting up a book exhibit dealing with the subjects under discussion and sharing the Library facilities for the purpose of registration. Chaplain H. J. C. Bowden served as chairman of the committee which planned the organization and procedure of the workshop. Chaplains A. L. Thomas and C. H. Pierson assisted in coordinating the various details and Chaplain K. D. S. Pegue served as director. Mrs. Mattie S. Bibb, secretary Neurological Service and Mrs. A. L. Thompson, clerk-stenographer, chaplaincy service were in charge of registration. Mesdames H. J. C. Bowden, W. E. Lewis and K. D. 'S. Pegue served refreshments.

14n 1953

MISS TUSKEGEE

Courier P.18
Pittsburgh Pa
3-21-53

SHE'S OUR CHOICE, TOO!—Miss Barbara D. Williams, who was the students' choice as "Miss Tuskegee," gets a vote from us, too, as she holds the four-leaf clover chart containing the names of the seventeen-member institutions of the Southern Intercollegiate Athletic Conference. The conference basketball tournament was played at the Alabama school last week-end.

CHRISTMAS COMING—"Miss Tuskegee" of 1953-54 sr points out an important date coming up in little more week. The comely young is Miss Jacqueline Herman, a week. The comely young lady is Miss Jacqueline Herman

Mobile Miss Will Be 'Miss Tuskegee' Next School Term

Herald
Tuskegee Ala.

Miss Jacquelyn Herman, of Mobile, a junior in institution management, has been elected by Tuskegee Institute students as "Miss Tuskegee" for the 1953-54 school term.

Miss Herman is a member of the Institute's hospitality committee, vice president of the Commercial Dietetics Club and "Miss Omega", (Sweetheart of the Lambda Epsilon Chapter, Omega Psi Phi Fraternity). In 1950-51 Miss Herman was "Miss Freshman" and in 1951-52 she was "Miss Commercial Dietetics."

Miss Herman is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. Herman, of Mobile.

SCHOOL PROBLEMS STUDIED—

Southern Principals Attend Parley

In the belief that the school is a key figure in the modern approach to the problems confronting public school education, the Southern Education Foundation in cooperation with other State Departments of Education over the South is sponsoring a 10-week Principals Workshop at Tuskegee Institute this Summer.

Forty-six principals of public elementary and secondary schools from 13 states are in attendance. Dr. Alonzo J. Davis, dean of the Tuskegee Institute School of Education, is directing the Workshop. Emphasis is on the improvement of techniques and competencies of the school principal.

Assisting Dr. Davis and serving as chairman is A. Odell Thurman, prinipal of Wendell Phillips School, Kansas City, Mo. He has for the past several years served as visiting professor of education in the Tuskegee Institute Summer School.

Consultants for the Workshop are Dr. Maurice Ahrens, director of curricular services, Corpus Christi Public Schools, Corpus Christi, Tex.; Dr. S. E. Duncan, supervisor of North Carolina Negro High Schools and visiting professor of education, Tuskegee Institute; Vernon McDaniel, associate professor of education, Tuskegee Institute; Carol Hayes, director of Negro education, Birmingham Public Schools; Dr. V. H. Watson, principal of Carver High School, Winston Salem, N. C.; and Dr. Chancellor Williams, visiting professor from Howard University, Washington, D. C.

The Workshop was planned in a joint meeting at Tuskegee Institute in September, 1952. Present for the meeting were representatives of the Southern Education Foundation of Atlanta Georgia; representatives of several Departments of Education from the Southern states, and Dr. F. D. Patterson and members of his faculty and staff.

DR. ALONZO J. DAVIS, heads Principals Workshop

The 46 principals selected by their states to attend the workshop were granted full-expense scholarship.

Resource personnel include members of the Tuskegee Insti-- tute faculty; representatives of State Departments of Education in the Southern region, and the staff of the Tuskegee Institute Rural Life Council.

Carol W. Hayes Consultant In Workshop At Tuskegee

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, Ala.—(SNS)—Carol W. Hayes, director of Negro Education, Birmingham City Schools, was one of six consultants chosen to participate in the ten-week Principals' Workshop currently in session at Tuskegee Institute.

In the belief that the school principal is a key figure in the modern approach to the many problems confronting public school education, the Southern Education Foundation, in cooperation with the several state departments of Education over the South, is sponsoring this workshop.

Forty-six principals of public elementary and secondary schools from thirteen states are in attendance. Dr. Alonzo J. Davis, Dean of the Tuskegee Institute School of Education is directing this initial Principals' Workshop. Emphasis is upon the improvement of techniques and competencies of the school principal.

Assisting Dr. Davis, and serving as day to day chairman, is A. Odell Thurman, principal of Wendell Phillips School, Kansas City, Missouri. He has for the past several years served as visiting professor of Education in the Tuskegee Institute Summer School.

Other consultants for the Workshop, chosen for their capabilities in the several problems to be studied, are: Dr. Maurice Ahrens, Director Curricular Services, Corpus Christi Public Schools, Corpus Christi, Texas; Dr. S. E. Duncan, Supervisor, Negro High Schools, State of North Carolina and Visiting Professor of Education, Tuskegee Institute; Vernon McDaniel, Associate Professor of Education, Tuskegee Institute; Dr. W. H. Watson, Principal of Carver High School, Winston Salem, North Carolina; and Dr. Chancellor Williams, Visiting Professor from Howard University, Washington, D. C.

The Workshop was planned in a joint meeting at Tuskegee Institute in September, 1952. Present for the meeting were representatives of the Southern Education Foundation of Atlanta, Ga.; representatives of the several Departments of Education from the Southern States and Dr. F. D. Patterson and members of his faculty and staff. The steadily increasing number of consolidated schools increases the responsibility of leadership which can effectively combine the several agencies and groups for dynamic approaches to the problems of public school education.

The 46 principals selected by their states to attend the workshop were granted full-expense scholarship. Two major factors in making their period of study effective and pleasant are the services of Mrs. Mary Henry Gresham as office assistant and the Tuskegee Institute librarian, M. D. Sprague.

Resource Personnel include members of the Tuskegee Institute faculty; representatives of State Departments of Education in the Southern Region, and the staff of the Tuskegee Institute Rural Life Council.

Principals and Supervisors enrolled in the workshop were as follows: G W Adams, Hearne, Texas; Augustus Arterbery, Langston, Oklahoma; Lemuel C Bland, Edgehill, Va ; Miss Elizabeth Brother, Fort Lauderdale, Fla.; Mrs Lillian T Brower, Newport News, Va.; Mrs Dovie Burnley, Memphis, Tenn

Frank R Cannon, Nicholasville, Ky ; Mrs Ruth B Crockett, Vidalia, La ; L A Cummings, Ripley, Miss.: Charles E Davis, Elloree, South Carolina; Leroy Floyd, Chattahoochee, Fla ; Bryant Foster, Eufaula, Ala ; Miss Frankie N Golden, Quitman, Ga ; Mrs. Hunter W Goodman, Norfolk, Va.; H A Gordon, Kilmichael, Miss ; S A Guinyard, Barnwell, S C ; Eddie R Hampton, Morganfield, Ky ; W E Harris, Hastings, Fla ; Wallace A Higgins, Clarksdale, Miss ; Bunzie F Holmes, Blakely, Ga ; W Lamar Herd, Ocean Springs, Miss.

C A Jackson, Okmulgee, Oklahoma; LeRoy Jackson, West Memphis, Ark ; David J Johnson, Timmonsville, S C ; J General Johnson, Fredericksburg, Va.; Scott E Johnson, Huntsville, Texas; Mrs Ruth R Lawson, Shreveport, La ; O R Lumpkin, Fort Valley, Ga.; H H Marshall, Saluda, S C ; Nathaniel Mitchell, Cochran, Ga ; Eugene G Mobley, Charlottesville, Va

Miss Hettie McDaniels, Memphis, Tenn ; W L McDuffie, Trenton, S C ; Kay W McMillan, Fort Worth, Texas; Richard F. McMullen, Belcross, N C ; O M McNair, Belzoni, Miss ; Clyde L. Oliver, Marion, La ; Mrs Nona W Powell, Sayreton, Ala ; Thomas M Ringer, Willard, North Carolina; M J Shivers, Blytheville, Ark

Miss Arizona P Suggs, Forest City, Ark ; Squire D Tarver, Blackshear, Ga ; D V Tolliver, Sicily Island, La ; C N Toney, Pine Bluff, Ark ; George W Turner, Lewisburg, Tenn ; and S J Whisenhunt, Atmore, Ala.

Principals' Workshop At Tuskegee Institute Draws Wide Interest

Outstanding Educators Serve As Consultants

Tuskegee Institute, Ala., June 27.—In the belief that the school principal is a key figure in the modern approach to the many problems confronting public school education, the Southern Education Foundation in cooperation with the several State Departments of Education over the South is sponsoring a ten-week Principals' Workshop at Tuskegee Institute this summer.

Forty-six principals of public elementary and secondary schools from thirteen states are in attendance. Dr. Alonzo J. Davis, Dean of the Tuskegee Institute School of Education is directing this initial Principals' Workshop. Emphasis is upon the improvement of techniques and competencies of the school principal.

Assisting Dr. Davis, and serving as day to day chairman, is A. Odell Thurman, principal of Wendell Phillips School, Kansas City, Missouri. He has for the past several years served as visiting professor of Education in the Tuskegee Institute Summer School.

Consultants for the Workshop were chosen for their capabilities in the several problems to be studied. They are: Dr. Maurice Ahrens, Director Curricular Services, Corpus Christi Public Schools, Corpus Christi, Texas; Dr. S. E. Duncan, Supervisor, Negro High Schools, State of North Carolina and Visiting Professor of Education, Tuskegee Institute; Vernon McDaniel, Association Professor of Education, Tuskegee Institute; Carol Hayes, Director of Negro Education, Birmingham Public Schools; Dr. V. H. Watson, Principal of Carver High School, Winston Salem, North Carolina; and Dr. Chancellor Williams, Visiting Professor from Howard University, Washington, D. C.

The Workshop was planned in a joint meeting at Tuskegee Institute in September, 1952. Present for the meeting were representatives of the Southern Education Foundation of Atlanta, Georgia; representatives of the several Departments of Education from the Southern States and Dr. F. D. Patterson and members of his faculty and staff. The steadily increasing number of consolidated schools increases the responsibility of leadership which can effectively combine the several agencies and groups for dynamic approaches to the problems of public school education.

The 46 principals selected by their states to attend the workshop were granted full-expense scholarship. Two major factors in making their period of study effective and pleasant are the services of Mrs. Mary Henry Gresham as office assistant and the Tuskegee Institute librarian, Mr. M. D. Sprague.

Resource Personnel include members of the Tuskegee Institute faculty; representatives of State Departments of Education in the Southern Region, and the staff of the Tuskegee Institute Rural Life Council.

Principals and Supervisors enrolled in the workshop are as follows: G. W. Adams, Hearne, Tex.; Augustus Arterbery, Langston, Okla.; Lemuel C. Bland, Edgehill, Va.; Miss Elizabeth Bother, Fort Lauderdale, Fla.: Mrs. Lillian T. Brower, Newport News, Va.; Mrs. Dovie Burnley, Memphis, Tenn.

Frank R. Cannon, Nicholasville, Ky.; Mrs. Ruth B. Crockett, Vidalia, La.; L. A. Cummings, Ripley, Miss.; Charles E. Davis, Elloree, S. C.; Leroy Floyd, Chattahoochee, Fla.; Bryant Foster, Eufaula, Ala.; Miss Frankie N. Golden, Quitman, Ga.; Mrs. Hunter W. Goodman, Norfolk, Va.; H. A. Gordon, Kilmichael, Miss.; S. A. Guinyard, Barnwell, S. C.; Eddie R. Hampton, Morganfield, Ky.; W. E. Harris, Hastings, Fla.; Wallace A. Higgins, Clarksdale, Miss.; Bunzie F. Holmes, Blakely, Ga.; W. Lamar Herd, Ocean Springs, Miss.

C. A. Jackson, Okmulgee, Okla.; LeRoy Jackson, West Memphis, Ark.; David J. Johnson, Timmonsville, S. C.; J. General Johnson, Fredericksburg, Va.; Scott E. Johnson, Huntsville, Tex.; Mrs. Ruth R. Lawson, Shreveport, La.; O. R. Lumpkin, Fort Valley, Ga.; H. H. Marshall, Saluda, S. C.; Nathaniel Mitchell, Cochran, Ga.; Eugene G. Mobley, Charlottesville, Va.

Miss Hettie McDaniels, Memphis, Tenn.; W. L. McDuffie, Trenton, S. C.; Kay W. McMillan, Fort Worth, Tex.; Richard F. McMullen, Belcross, N. C.; O. M. McNair, Belzoni, Miss.; Clyde L. Oliver, Marion, La.; Mrs. Nona W. Powell, Sayreton, Ala.; Thomas M. Ringer, Willard, N. C.; M. J. Shivers, Blytheville, Ark.

Miss Arizona P. Suggs, Forest City, Ark.; Squire D. Tarver, Blackshear, Ga.; D. V. Tolliver, Sicily Island, La.; C. N. Toney, Pine Bluff, Ark.; George W. Turner, Lewisburg, Tenn.; and S. J. Whisenhunt, Atmore, Ala.

46 Principals At 'Kegee Workshop

TUSKEGEE, Ala. — Forty-six principals of public elementary and secondary schools from 13 states are in attendance at the 10-week principals' workshop at Tuskegee Institute this summer, sponsored by the Southern Education Foundation.

Dr. Alonzo J. Davis, dean of the Tuskegee school of education, is directing the workshop, assisted by A. Odell Thurman, principal of Wendell Phillips school, Kansas City, Mo., day-to-day chairman. Emphasis is upon improvement of techniques and competencies of the school principal.

Noted Consultants

Consultants for the workshop are:

Dr. Maurice Ahrens, director curricular services, Corpus Christi, Texas; r. S. E. uncan, supervisor, N.C. colored high schools; Vernon McDaniel, associate professor of education, Tuskegee Institute; Carol Hayes, Birmingham public schools;

Dr. W. H. Watson, principal of Carver high school, Winston-Salem, N.C., and Dr. Chancellor Williams, visiting professor from Howard university, Washington, D.C.

The 46 principals selected by their states to attend the workshop were granted full-expense scholarship. Two major factors intended to make their period of study effective and pleasant are the services of Mrs. Mary Henry Gresham as office assistant and the Tuskegee Institute librarian, M. D. Sprague.

Resource Personell include members of the Tuskegee Institute faculty; representatives of state departments of education in the southern region and the staff of the Tuskegee Institute rural life council.

education, the Southern Education Foundation in cooperation with the several State Departments of Education over the South is sponsoring a ten-week principals' workshop at Tuskegee Institute this summer.

Forty-six principals of public elementary and secondary schools from thirteen states are in attendance.

Dr. Alonzo J. Davis, dean of the Tuskegee Institute School of Education, is directing this initial principals' workshop.

Assisting Dr. Davis, and serving as day-to-day chairman, is A. Odell Thurman, principal of Wendell Phillips School, Kansas City, Mo.

He has for the past several years served as visiting professor of education in the Tuskegee Institute summer school.

Principals' Workshop Set At Tuskegee

TUSKEGEE INST., Ala.—In the belief that the school principal is a key figure in the modern approach to the many problems confronting public school

14n 1953

Back in the days when Booker T. Washington was president of Tuskegee Institute, there was a night school here that gave instruction, among other things, in domestic service. While it was not officially a part of the Institute, it had the full cooperation of Dr. Washington. One day this week we had a call from T. M. Campbell, who retired several weeks ago after 40 years with the U. S. Department of Agriculture, and he revealed that he is taking the initiative in trying to get such a school started again. He has made a number of speeches over the county in which he tells his hearers that domestic service should be and can be made a distinctive field of service. This is a laudable project and one which every person in the county should support.

Proposed Night School in Domestic Service (Tuskegee, Ala.)
By- Mr. T.M. Campbell

14n 1953

AF-ROTC Unit At Tuskegee Stands Annual Inspection

TUSKEGEE, Ala., March 16 — Annual federal inspection of AFROTIC Detachment No. 15, Tuskegee Institute, was held on March 15 and 16, Maj. H. E. Carter, professor of air science and tactics, announced this week.

This marks the first time the inspection has been carried out under the supervision of the newly created AFROTC Headquarters of the Air University, located in Montgomery, Ala. Prior to August, 1952, the AFROTC was under the jurisdiction of the Continental Air Command.

The primary purpose of the inspection was to examine the training, both in the classroom and on the drill field, of the 365 AFROTC cadets now enrolled in Tuskegee Institute and to note any deficiency and difficulties which need correction in this unit.

Teaching procedures, adequacy of instructor facilities, effectiveness of instructors and general military bearing of the cadets were some of the points on which the detachment was graded. Two days were spent at the institution, with the inspecting team reviewing the corps of cadets on parade.

The inspectors also scrutinized the administration and supply methods of the unit and discussed the AFROTC program with school and local officials.

Members of the liaison groups who as the personal representatives of Gen. Deichelmann have already made two visits to the detachment since the new AFROTC Headquarters opened.

Copies of the reports will be forwarded to AFROTC Headquarters and also to the professor of air science and tactics.

The inspection was conducted under the direction of Col. Adolf M. Wright, AFROTC inspector general.

Members of the liaison team making the inspection were: Col. Franklin G. Pruyn, Lt. Col. John H. Thompson, Maj. Karlin I. Sintow.

New Type Of Training Slated At Tuskegee

TUSKEGEE, Ala. — (SNS)—Tuskegee Institute has been picked as the first college in the state to inaugurate a new type of Reserve Officers Training Corps (ROTC) training system in a effort by the Army to streamline its ROTC program, it was recently announced by Colonel Herbert G. Sitler, Chief of the Alabama Military District, headquarters at U. S. Government building, Birmingham.

Yes, ROTC students at the institute will find a change when they return to school this fall.

Previously, ROTC graduates from Tuskegee were commissioned only in the Infantry. Under the new program, they will get a chance at other branches of the Army dependent on new tests, interviews and other criteria being set up by the Department of the Army.

Instead of specializing in one particular branch of the Army, such as Infantry, the new program will be called General Military Science and will be designed to prepare an ROTC graduate for several branches of the Army.

Under the present system, after a cadet has finished two years of basic ROTC, required by most colleges for non-prior service students, and accepted for senior ROTC his last two years, he begins immediately to prepare for the branch of service he selects.

There are many drawbacks to this system, such as an overflow of officers in certain branches of the Army as Quartermaster, Signal Corps and others. Choices of service now at Tuskegee will depend on the student's ROTC class standing, his major subjects in school, his leadership abilities, classification tests and interviews by Regular Army and College representatives.

The Department of the Army is keeping close watch on the schools over the country that are trying this new system and hopes to eventually convert all ROTC units to the new program if the Schools and personnel involved think it worthwhile.

ROTC

New Type Of Training Slated At Tuskegee

Tuskegee, Ala., July 11 — Tuskegee Institute has been picked as the first college in the state to inaugurate a new type of Reserve Officers Training Corps (ROTC) training system in an effort by the Army to streamline its ROTC program, it was recently announced by Colonel Herbert G. Sitler, Chief of the Alabama Military District, headquarters at U. S. Government building, Birmingham.

Yes, ROTC students at the institute will find a change when they return to school this fall.

Previously, ROTC graduates from Tuskegee were commissioned only in the Infantry. Under the new program, they will get a chance at other branches of the Army dependent on new tests, interviews and other criteria being set up by the Department of the Army.

Instead of specializing in one particular branch of the Army, such as Infantry, the new program will be called General Military Science and will be designed to prepare an ROTC graduate for several branches of the Army.

Under the present system, after a cadet has finished two years of basic ROTC, required by most colleges for non-prior service students, and accepted for senior ROTC his last two years, he begins immediately to prepare for the branch of service he selects.

There are many drawbacks to this system, such as an overflow of officers in certain branches of the Army as Quartermaster, Signal Corps and others. Choices of service now at Tuskegee will depend on the student's ROTC class standing, his major subjects in school, his leadership abilities, classification tests and interviews by Regular Army and College representatives.

The Department of the Army is keeping close watch on the schools over the country that are trying this new system and hopes to eventually convert all ROTC units to the new program if the Schools and personnel involved think it worthwhile.

New Type Of Training Slated At Tuskegee

TUSKEGEE, Ala. — (SNS)—Tuskegee Institute has been picked as the first college in the state to inaugurate a new type of Reserve Officers Training Corps (ROTC) training system in a effort by the Army to streamline its ROTC program, it was recently announced by Colonel Herbert G. Sitler, Chief of the Alabama Military District, headquarters at U. S. Government building, Birmingham.

Yes, ROTC students at the institute will find a change when they return to school this fall.

Previously, ROTC graduates from Tuskegee were commissioned only in the Infantry. Under the new program, they will get a chance at other branches of the Army dependent on new tests, interviews and other criteria being set up by the Department of the Army

Instead of specializing in one particular branch of the Army, such as Infantry, the new program will be called General Military Science and will be designed to prepare an ROTC graduate for several branches of the Army.

Under the present system, after a cadet has finished two years of basic ROTC, required by most colleges for non-prior service students, and accepted for senior ROTC his last two years, he begins immediately to prepare for the branch of service he selects.

There are many drawbacks to this system, such as an overflow of officers in certain branches of the Army as Quartermaster, Signal Corps and others. Choices of service now at Tuskegee will depend on the student's ROTC class standing, his major subjects in school, his leadership abilities, classification tests and interviews by Regular Army and College representatives.

The Department of the Army is keeping close watch on the schools over the country that are trying this new system and hopes to eventually convert all ROTC units to the new program if the Schools and personnel involved think it worthwhile.

ROTC System At Institute Due For Change In Fall

ROTC students at the Tuskegee Institute will find a change when they return to school in the Fall. Tuskegee has been picked as the first college in the state to try a new type of Reserve Officers Training Corps training system in an effort by the Army to streamline its ROTC program, announces Col. Herbert G. Sitler, chief of the Alabama Military District.

Previously, ROTC graduates from Tuskegee were commissioned only in the infantry. Under the new program, they will get a chance at other branches of the Army dependent on new tests, interviews and other criteria being set up by the Department of the Army.

Instead of specializing in one particular branch of the Army, such as infantry, the new program will be called general military science and will be designed to prepare an ROTC graduate for several branches of the Army.

Under the present system, after a cadet has finished two years of basic ROTC, required by most colleges for non-prior service students, and accepted for senior ROTC his last two years, he begins immediately to prepare for the branch of service he selects.

There are many drawbacks to this system, such as an overflow of officers in certain branches such as quartermaster, signal corps and others. Choices of branches of service now at Tuskegee will depend on the student's ROTC class standing, his major subjects in school, his leadership abilities, classification tests and interviews by Regular Army and College representatives.

MAJOR GIVEN MEDAL—Dr. I. A. Derbigny, vice president of Tuskegee Institute, is shown above congratulating Maj. Edward L. Strawther shortly after he was decorated by Maj. Walter H. Dabney, Army ROTC, Tuskegee Institute, with the Legion of Merit for his services in the Far East. Standing by are Maj. Dabney and Capt. Spurgeon Moore, assistant to Maj. Dabney

Lt. Murray At ROTC Workshop

1st Lt. Albert L. Murray, assistant professor of air science and tactics at Tuskegee Institute, is one of 26 Air Force officer instructors from 21 colleges and universities located in Ohio, West Virginia, Kentucky, Tennessee, Alabama and North Carolina, attending an Air Force ROTC workshop at the Ohio State University, Columbus, Ohio. The workshop began on Aug. 2, and will be in session through Friday of this week.

This is one of 30 workshops being conducted throughout the nation during the month of August. The primary purpose of the workshop is to acquaint the officer instructors with the new Air Force ROTC curriculum which will go into effect this Fall. At the close of the workshop the officer instructors will return to their schools to organize and conduct an in-service training program for their college instructors.

The new curriculum parallels an established trend in higher eduation in that it is a change-over from a highly specialized program to a generalized program.

Peterson Training At Fort Benning

Special To The Herald

FORT BENNING, Ga.—Cadet William Peterson of the Tuskegee Institute is one of 2,000 Infantry ROTC students attedning the six-weeks summer encampment at Fort Benning.

Cadet Peterson is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William Peterson, Sr., Tuskegee Alabama.

The six-week camp is designed to give practical application of the theories ROTC cadets study during the academic year. The course stresses leadership and includes a study of Infantry weapons ,tactics and techniques.

At least 124 cadets will be commissioned second lieutenants of Infantry upon completion of the camp. The remainder will be commissioned next year when they have completed four years of college.

Peterson Training At Fort Benning

Special To The Herald

FORT BENNING, Ga.—Cadet William Peterson of the Tuskegee Institute is one of 2,000 Infantry ROTC students attedning the six-weeks summer encampment at Fort Benning.

Cadet Peterson is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William Peterson, Sr., Tuskegee, Alabama.

The six-week camp is designed to give practical application of the theories ROTC cadets study during the academic year. The course stresses leadership and includes a study of Infantry weapons ,tactics and techniques.

At least 124 cadets will be commissioned second lieutenants of Infantry upon completion of the camp. The remainder will be commissioned next year when they have completed four years of college.

14n 1953

RURAL LIFE COUNCIL

Tuskegee Official Urges World Community Chest

14n

TUSKEGEE — Ernest E. Neal, director of Tuskegee Institute's Rural Life Council, has proposed a World Community Chest, where "people from the different nations can work together for a better understanding and a love for each other."

Mr. Neal, who said his recent tour of India inspired the idea for an organization wherein help would be reduced to the lowest common denominator, the individual, asserted that several international organizations are at work on special areas of interests.

"But we have no world organization where just people from the different nations can work together for a better understanding and love for each other," he declared.

The council director said that "I suggest the organization of a World Community Chest, dedicated to the relief of human misery and the promotion of institutions for teaching freedom of the mind and the dignity of the individual."

Neal said the suggested fund would work on a global scale something like the Community Chest does in the United States, from people, "who are interested in freedom."

He spent two months in India on a study mission financed by the Ford Foundation, and attended several international conferences in a joint undertaking of the foundation, the Indian government and the Point Four program.

Neal declared that India faces a "mammoth task" because of unemployment and drought-produced famine in some sections. He said he had not worked out details of his plans but that it should:

1. Swiftly provide food for starving people ignored by their own countries or where the problem is beyond the nation's resources.

8-27-53

2. Offer freedom-loving individuals everywhere the chance to attend institutions and study "the teaching of Lincoln, Jefferson, Martin Luther (Frederick Douglas, Negro leader in the emancipation fight), the Bill of Rights and other human documents that tell of men's struggle to be free."

3. Send technicians to nations where Point Four is not accepted or to those where groups are working on social programs "free from the influence of government."

The Negro And The Farm

By Stuart X. Stephenson

TUSKEGEE, ALA.

SOMEWHERE along the line there has been a failure to develop a profitable program for the Negro tenant farmer. This failure has led to their absorption by cities enjoying an expanded war economy.

Prof. Ernest E. Neal, director of Rural Life Council for the past five years here at Tuskegee Institute, declared in a special interview recently that the changing rural scene had been dramatic—and alarming—with fewer Negro farm owners in 1950 than in 1920.

"There are great needs among the Negro people — health, economics and total home life," he said, pointing out that these needs can be met only through a program of education.

"But will there be a place, a farm, for these one-time tenant farmers to return to if our inflated economy forces them back?" That question is being asked by Prof. Neal and other educators who have seen the cow and the tractor drive many Negroes away from the soil.

If there shall be no return for these people, then the economic problems of some of the great cities will be enormously increased, Prof. Neal believes.

Advertiser

ALABAMA has vast untilled lands, but on these lands where tenant shacks once stood are to be found only cow sheds. How could these people return and pick up the hoe, or drive their own tractors and milk their own cows?

Suppose these people who have migrated do not wish to return? In a sense they were forced out, and the end of the rainbow could be in sight for some. How could they return to the sold? Mon. 6-29-53

These are questions that concern the people, the economy and the leaders of the South.

P 4A

It is Prof. Neal's thinking that the educational programs of the future should not concern agriculture alone "for there are many boys and girls who would prefer, and be better suited for, work in urban areas." The schools, then, should teach the pupils a trade and better equip them for jobs in the city where they could fit into that economy.

Mon. Journal

"All schools and all agencies are interested in the general economy of the South and they should see to it that the youth have the training they need," Prof. Neal said.

Ala.

HOW can the future Negro farmers get the foothold you propose for them? we asked. Prof. Neal immediately pointed out the need for expanded markets and facilities to handle the "enlarged agricultural future" and above all "some provision must be made to extend the necessary credit."

Prof. Neal is certain that many Negro boys were discouraged early in life by their fathers. "It had never occurred to the elders to let their sons share in the management and profit of the fram," he pointed out.

And as the cow gradually overshadows the traditionally-famous leader "King Cotton" and belts tighten in the urban areas, the economy of a great nation may begin to fray.

"Yes, our people must be informed and accepted in the general economy. They can do a great work and I believe they are so destined," Prof. Neal said with feeling.

Prof. Neal received his BA degree at Knoxville College, his Master's at Fisk and he did post-graduate work at the University of Michigan.

Another View Of The Negro Farmer

Editor, The Advertiser:

14n

There appeared in your paper of June 27 an article entitled "The Negro and the Farm," which was the result of an interview of Prof. Ernest E. Neal by Stewart X. Stephenson. Prof. Neal is director of Rural Life Council of Tuskegee Institute.

Advertiser

I would like to present some first-hand information on this subject. I was born and reared on the farm I now operate and am 41 years old. I am a high school graduate and had two years at Alabama Polytechnic Institute back in the early '30's. I have worked and dealt with Negroes all my life and think I understand them and their customs. At the present time I have 14 families on my plantations and have 25 on my payroll and could have more if I so desired.

P 4

The reason I am replying to Mr. Stephenson's interview is because there are misleading statements made in it. Prof. Neal states that "the cow and tractor drove the Negro away from the soil." This may have been the case in a few instances, but very few. Many a time have I seen a plantation owner plan his work for the following day and upon arising the next morning find that all his Negro labor had left overnight without any notice. Now just what would you do in a case like this? There was nothing left for them to do except resort to tractors and livestock. I know of farmers who are in need of farm labor, but are afraid to invest money in houses because they have been tricked before.

Mon. Journal

Several years ago our government set up the Farm Security Administration to aid the farmers and we all know how it worked out. In my locality it was a complete flop in regard to the Negro farmer. About half of the farmer's time was spent going somewhere to sign up, and the other half was spent attending meetings and waiting on supplies that arrived too late to plant a crop with. Hence a crop failure and a mortgage foreclosure. The farmers' products are always the last ones to advance in price and always the first ones to fall as evidenced by what has happened recently, therefore the farmer can't keep pace with wages paid by industry, thereby keeping labor on the farm.

Ala. 7-9-53

Prof. Neal spoke of a line of credit for the Negro in order that he might set up once more on the farm. It has been proven that local credit lines are the only satisfactory ones. Government lending agencies have proven to be failures as far as most Negroes are concerned. The first lesson the average Negro has to learn is the meaning of the word "responsibility" and he will get along better in this world. This also applies to the other races as well. As I see it the only Negro farmers who failed were the ones who were too lazy and shiftless to work. I know of several Negro farmers in my vicinity who are doing well and are an asset to the community. They own their farms, have tractors, automobiles, trucks and most modern conveniences. However, they get up and work.

Safford, Ala. JOHN GIVHAN.

Ernest E. Neal, director of the Rural Life Council, Tuskegee Institute, will help study and recommend solutions for the South's urban development problems as a delegate to the Southern Regional Congress on City Planning in session Monday and Tuesday at Roanoke, Virginia.

Journal

The Southern Regional Education Board and the Regional Committee on City Planning are sponsoring the Congress. Membership of the committee is made up of representatives of the Universities of North Carolina and Oklahoma, Georgia Institute of Technology, and the board.

8-20-53

Purposes of the Congress are to define the opportunities for city planning instruction, research and service in the South. The delegates will make action recommendations to the participating organizations and institutions.

Journal

Over 100 experts in city planning were expected to attend the Congress.

Mr. Neal will serve on a small working committee which will consider "Professional Planning Services for Southren Communities." Twelve such committees working on various subjects will produce recommendations for approval of the Congress as a whole at its final general session.

Neal Takes Part In Congress On Urban Planning

Ernest E. Neal, director of the Rural Life Council, Tuskegee Institute, will help study and recommend solutions for the South's urban development problems as a delegate to the Southern Regional Congress on City Planning in session Monday and Tuesday at Roanoke, Virginia.

The Southern Regional Education Board and the Regional Committee on City Planning are sponsoring the Congress. Membership of the committee is made up of representatives of the Universities of North Carolina and Oklahoma, Georgia Institute of Technology, and the board.

Purposes of the Congress are to define the opportunities for city planning instruction, research and service in the South. The delegates will make action recommendations to the participating organizations and institutions.

Over 100 experts in city planning were expected to attend the Congress.

Mr. Neal will serve on a small working committee which will consider "Professional Planning Services for Southren Communities." Twelve such committees working on various subjects will produce recommendations for approval of the Congress as a whole at its final general session.

Chairman of the Congress is Howard K. Menhinick, regents' professor of city planning, Georgia Institute of Technology.

Speakers at general sessions will include Mayor Charles Farnsley, of Louisville, Ky.; Den Lloyd W. Chapin, Georgia Institute of Technology; Dr. John E. Ivey, Jr., director, Southern Regional Education Board; and Carl Feiss, Chief, planning and engineering branch, Division of Slum Clearance and Urban Redevelopment, Housing and Home Finance Agency.

14n 1953

SCHOLARSHIP GRANTS
JAMES FUND

Scholarship Grants Given By Institute

In an effort to keep abreast with increasing demands for high standards of teaching and other services, Tuskegee Institute announced this week, through the office of the vice-president, 13 scholarship grants for Summer study.

These grants, made possible by the James Fund, will enable these 13 members of the faculty and staff to study at some of the outstanding colleges and universities in the nation.

Those who will be away all or part of the Summer include Dr. Walter C. Bowie, member of the faculty of the School of Veterinary Medicine who is studying at the University of [illegible] Dr. Earl H. Brown, of the veterinary faculty who is enrolled at Michigan State College; Mrs. Lola P. Carter, of the Carver Foundation who is studying at the Oak Ridge Institute of Nuclear Studies.

Capt. Alton Davenport, who directs the Institute band and orchestra and is studying at Vandercook College. Dr. Joseph E. Fuller, who will do post-doctorial study in mathematics at Columbia University.

Vernon McDaniel, associate professor of education, and Miss Roumania Peters, of the department of physical education, who are studynig at New York University; Russell Ragland, instructor in mathematics, who is studying at the University of Iowa.

Dr. R. D. Reid, chairman of the division of general studies, and Mrs. Irene Reid, of the School of Home Economics, who are studying at the University of Minnesota.

Guy R. Trammell, head of the electrical division, who returned for Summer study at Purdue University; Mrs. Laly Washington, administrative assistant of the Carver Foundation, who is enrolled at New York University; Mrs. Emma C. Walker, assistant professor of the English Department, who is studying at Ohio State University.

Awards for study during the regular 1952-53 term were announced as follows:

Mrs. Mildred M. Brown, who will do advanced study in physical education at the University of Iowa on a James Fund scholarship; Mrs. Sarah Harper, of the School of Home Economics, and Mrs. Thelma Whittaker, who will study at Cornell University; Albert W. Spruell, of the School of Agriculture, who will be way for study on a General Education Board scholarship.

Scholastic Dignitaries Honor Tuskegee Scholarship Night

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, Ala., May 14 — Men of scholastic achievement and distinction honored young arrivals into the ranks of the accomplished scholars when on last Wednesday evening, Dr. F. D. Patterson, president of Tuskegee Institute; Attorney Hobart Taylor Jr., Chief of the Civil Division of the Office of the Prosecuting Attorney of Wayne County, Mich.; Dr. Carleton L. Lee, chaplain, and Dr. I. A. Derbigny, vice president of the Institute participated on the Scholarship Night program at the Institute Chapel.

At this time 10 students were tapped into the Beta Tau Upsilon Chapter of the Alpha Kappa Mu honor society which has chapters in 52 Class A colleges and which was founded in 1937 by Dr. Derbigny, Institute vice president, and Dr. G. W. Gore, president of Florida A&M College.

One hundred and twenty-five students received certificates for having made a B average for the year and whose names have, therefore, been placed on the Dean's List or Honor Roll at Tuskegee Institute.

Attorney Hobart Taylor, delivered the main address at this meeting. He spoke on "Integration of the Negro into the Industrial Life of the South," and pointed out that in this part of the country, industrial progress of the Negro has not increased along with economic and educational progress.

Taylor urged concentration on making advancement in this field. Also charging that the enlightened minority have a responsibility to awaken the large majority of citizens to developments, progress, rights, and privileges concerning Negroes, and to encourage all to take an active interest in bringing about understanding and co-operation among races towards realizing equal rights for all. Attorney Taylor said that we can gain more ground this way than by force or any other means.

The 10 students who, by making an A average or better became eligible for and were inducted into the Alpha Kappa Mu Honor Society are Eunicetine Clark, Tuskegee Institute, Ala., junior, School of Education; Alfred Collins, Birmingham, Ala., junior, department of physical education; Mrs. Alma R. Hunter, Little Rock, Ark., senior, School of Home Economics; Rosa Lara, Tampa, Fla., junior, School of Home Economics; Helen Lois Moore, Tuskegee Institute, Ala., junior, School of Education; Mary V. Myhand, Opelika, Ala., junior, School of Home Economics; Carol T. Patterson, Tuskegee Institute, Ala., junior, School of Education; Leroy W. Washington, El Paso, Tex., senior, School of Education, and Edgar L. Smith, Pittsburgh, Pa., senior, School of Mechanical Industries.

The officers of the Beta Tau Upsilon Chapter of AKM, Tuskegee Institute, are Cedric Thompson, president! Eula Mae Patrick, secretary-treasurer, and Willie Dillard, assistant secretary-treasurer.

The large audience witnessing these proceedings seemed greatly impressed when awards were made to graduating seniors. These awards were:

To Miss Willie B. Dillard, $100 from the James Fund to do graduate study at Tuskegee Institute.

To Miss Mollie Player, $1,700 from the James Fund to do graduate study at Western Reserve University.

To Cedric F. O. Thompson, $600 from the James Fund to do graduate study at Cornell University.

To Miss Naomi Turner, $1,800 from the James Fund to do graduate study at Western Reserve University.

To Miss Barbara Williams, $1,800 from the James Fund to do graduate study at New York University.

To Miss Eula Patrick, General Education Board Scholarship which will include tuition and fees, living expenses, railroad fare, and incidentals, to study at Cornell University, which amounts to approximately $2,000.

Miss Carol Patterson was recently elected to the position of national assistant secretary of Alpha Kappa Mu.

BRAINY GIRLS — These young ladies were among the ranks of Tuskegee students honored recently during the institute's annual "Scholarship Night" program. Tapped into Alpha Kappa Mu, honor society, were Alma R. Hunter, left, and Carol T. Patterson. Eula Mae Patrick, right, is secretary-treasurer of the Beta Tau Upsilon Chapter of the honor group.

Tuskegee Honors 135 On Scholarship Night

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, Ala. (ANP)—Some 10 students were inducted into Beta Tau Upsilon honor society and 125 others received honor certificates during scholarship night held in the chapel at Tuskegee institute.

Dr. F. D. Patterson, retiring president of Tuskegee; Atty Hobart Taylor Jr., Detroit, Mich.; Dr. Carlton L. Lee, chaplain, and Dr. I. A. Derbigny, vice president of Tuskegee, participated in the event.

Students Inducted

Students accepted in the honor society by virtue of having earned an "A" average are:

Eunicetine Clark, Walter Evans, Helen Moore, Carol T. Patterson, all of Tuskegee Institute; Alfred Collins, Birmingham; Mrs. Alma R. Hunter, Little Rock, Ark.; Rosa Lara, Tampa, Fla.; MaryV. Myhand, Opelika; Leroy Washington, El Paso, Texas, and Edgar L. Smith, Pittsburgh, Pa.

Receiving James Fund

Also receiving the James Fund awards on scholarship night were several members of the graduating class. Those honored included:

Miss Willie B. Dillard, $700 to do graduate study at Tuskegee.

Miss Millie Player, $1,700, Western Reserve university.

Cedric Thompson, $600, Cornell University.

Miss Naomi Turner, $1800, at Western Reserve university.

Miss Patrick To Cornell

Miss Barbara Williams, $1,800, New York University.

Miss Eula Patrick, general education board scholarship includes tuition and fees, living expenses, railroad fare, and incidentals, to study at Cornell University which amounts to approximately $2,000.

STUDENTS GET HONORS—

Year-End Awards Listed

Awards and special honors came to a number of members of the faculty and students at Tuskegee Institute this academic year, according to Dr. I. A. Derbigny, vice-president.

A total of 125 students out of a student body numbering 1857 made the Dean's list this year. Highest scholastic honors in the graduating class went to the following students in the order given: Miss Barbara Dean Williams, Tuskegee, School of Home Economics; Mrs. Alma Rose Hunter, Little Rock, Ark., School of Home Economics; Miss Willie Byrd Dillard, Greenwood, Miss., School of Home Economics; Izzard M. Wilson, Rockhill, S. C., Department of Commercial Dietetics; Miss Eula Mae Patrick, Tuskegee, School of Home Economics; Edgar L. Smith, Jr., Pittsburg, Pa., School of Mechanical Industries; Cedric Fitz-Oswald Thompson East Orange, N. J., School of Agriculture.

Ten students making an average of "A minus" or better were tapped by the Alpha Kappa Mu Honor Society. The officers of the Beta Tau Upsilon Chapter of this honor society for the year just closed were Cedric Thompson, president; Eula Mae Patrick, secretary-treasurer; and Miss Willie Dillard, assistant secretary-treasurer.

A concluding feature of this season's program presented by Alpha Kappa Mu and at which Attorney Hobart Taylor, of Detroit, was guest speaker was the announcement of several awards for graduate study.

The coveted General Education Board Scholarship, valued at $2,000 was awarded to Miss Eula Patrick, of Tuskegee. She will do graduate work at Cornell University.

Miss Willie Dillard was awarded $700 from the James Fund to do graduate study at Tuskegee Institute.

Miss Mollie Player, of Shreveport, La., received $1,700 from the James Fund to do graduate study at Western Reserve University.

Cedric F. Thompson received $600 from the James Fund for study at Cornell University.

Miss Naoma Turner received $1,800 from the James Fund for study at Western Reserve University.

Miss Barbara Williams will attend New York University on an $1,800 scholarship award from the James Fund.

While the students were garnering their honors, Tuskegee Institute Club of the Society of the Sigma Xi was installed on the campus with 12 charter members. This event marked the establishment of the second such club in one of our institutions.

The commencement address was by Dr. Alvin C. Eurich, vice-president, Fund for the Advancement of Education, Ford Foundation, New York City.

Prominent Attorney Will Speak At Scholarship Night

Hobart Taylor, Jr., a native of Texas, and chief of the civil division of the office of the prosecuting attorney of Wayne County, Michigan, will serve as speaker for Scholarship Night, Wednesday, beginning at 6:30 p. m., in the chapel at the Institute. At this time, 10 new members will be inducted into the Alpha Kappa Mu Honor Society, which was founded in 1937 by Dr. I. A. Derbigny, vice-president of Tuskegee Institute, and Dr. G. W. Gore, president of Florida A. & M. College.

Mr. Taylor holds an M. A. degree in economics from Howard University, and an L. L. B. from the University of Michigan. While in law school, he served as editor of the Michigan Law Review. He later became research clerk for Chief Justice Starr, of the Michigan Supreme Court, and in 1945 entered the private practice of law in Detroit. In 1949, he was appointed to the staff of the prosecuting attorney of Wayne County.

Mr. Taylor is a member of the Grievance committee of the State Bar of Michigan, the Lawyers Reference Service Committee of the Detroit Bar Association, the National Bar Association, the American Bar Association, the Wolverine Bar Association, and the National Association of Compensation and Claimant Attorneys. At one time he served on the Advisory Committee for the Reorganization of State Government.

The 10 persons to be tapped on Wednesday evening's Scholarship Night program are Eunice-teen Clark, Tuskegee, junior, School of Education; Alfred Collins, Birmingham, junior, School of Mechanical Industries; Walter Evans, Tuskegee, junior, Department of Physical Education; Mrs. Alma R .Hunter, Little Rock, Ark., senior, School of Home Economics; Rosa Lara, Tampa, Fla., junior, School of Home Economics; Helen Lois Moore, Tuskegee, junior, School of Education; Mary V. Myhand, Opelika, junior, School of Home Economics; Carol T. Patterson, Tuskegee, junior, School of Educatin; Leroy W. Washington, El Paso, Texas, senior, School of Education; and Edgar L. Smith, Pittsburg, Pa., senior, School of Mechanical Industries.

The officers of the Beta Tau Upsilon Chapter of AKM, Tuskegee Institute, are Cedric Thompson, president; Eula Mae Patrick, secretary-treasurer; and Willie Dillard, assistant secretary-treasurer.

Carol Patterson is a national officer of this honor society, having been elected as national assistant secretary of Alpha Kappa Mu.

Fifty-two Class A colleges have chapters of this organization. To be eligible for admission into this scholarship group, students must be juniors or seniors and must have an average of A minus or better.

Better Student Training Discussed At Tuskegee

By EMORY O. JACKSON

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, ALA.—Five speakers representing a combination of technical training and experience, together with a panel of consultants, discussed with teachers and students at the Sixth Annual Trade Conference of Tuskegee Institute ways of bettering student training in this field.

Appearing were Thomas Green of Camden, N. J.; J. F. Ingram and Dr. J. C. Blair of Montgomery; Vernon J. Douglass of Birmingham and Clifford J. Campbell of Chicago.

In his welcome greetings, President F. D. Patterson stated the new thinking in trade training was citizen balancing, the concept of integration and opportunity, the observation that racial and regional standards are vanishing and that today one must meet uniform standards uniformly applied. "There are no more any such things as Negro jobs," Dr. Paterson said. He added that a worker is now judged by national standards.

Mr. Green who spoke on "What Industry Expects of the Technical Man" laid down these essential for success: (1) constructive discontent, (2) originality or vision, (3) courage, (4) sense of humor, (5) special technical knowledge, creativeness, ability and capacity to make the industrial team. Mr. Green is from the Administrative Control Section, Engineering Products Division, Radio Corporation of America.

He said that this technical man must have a desire to solve problems, capacity to understand the human relations involved. He suggested that he needed a basic knowledge of the trade fundamentals, of the tools and materials, a mind to think and learn and the knack of working well with others.

Mr. Ingram, supervisor, Vocational Industrial Education, State Department of Education, discussed "Alabama Vocational Program and the Trade Teacher.

Mr. Douglass, director, Vocational Education, Birmingham Board of Education, discussed 'General Education and the Trade Teacher." He pointed out that Birmingham has 25 key industries and that he conducted a skeleton survey among them to determine a few facts about their requirements. Most of them require an elementary education for common laborer, high school for skilled labor and trade or special training for supervisory.

He discussed the program at all-white Glenn Vocational School, the all-white apprentice training program and other programs by some unions which bar Negroes from membership, although he did not mention such. Among such unions was the plumbers.

Dr. Blair, director, Division of Education for Negroes, State Department, discussed "Accrediting Vocational Teachers in Alabama."

Mr. Campbell addressed the wind-up banquet.

The conference was under the directions of Dean T. W. Jones of the School of Mechanical Industries.

Among the consultants were: Donald F. White, architect-engineer, Detroit; Lewis W. McKissack, architect, Nashville; Edgar H. Davis, general contractor, Memphis Tenn.; Dick Cumberland, district representative, Skill Corp., Opelika; Leroy Gaillard, Jr; general contractor, Birmingham; Carlton McLendon, furniture, Montgomery; E. J. Oliver, principal, Fairfield Industrial High School Clifford F. Smith, Houston, Texas; Ernest Dimitry, New York City; W. L. Wardell, Chicago; George Schley, bricklayer, Montgomery; Malachi Morse, Tuskegee Institute; L. B. Steadham, Opelika; J. W. Shepard, Opelika;

Among others from Birmingham were T. A. Lawson, director, State Vocational and Trade School, Wenonah; James A. Smith, instructor in auto mechanics, State Vocational Trade School; Leroy S. Gaillard, Sr., plumber.

Edward Blair, Memphis, Theodore Hillard of Cleveland; James E. Jackson, Frank Merriweather and Francis Griffin, Buffalo, N. Y.; John Clark, Walter Blount, Hugh Barrington; Sam Besteda, Mobile; Nathan Cross, St. Louis; Otto Simmons, Buffalo.

Better Student Training Discussed At Tuskegee

By EMORY O. JACKSON

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, ALA.—Five speakers representing a combination of technical training and experience, together with a panel of consultants, discussed with teachers and students at the Sixth Annual Trade Conference of Tuskegee Institute ways of bettering student training in this field.

Appearing were Thomas Green of Camden, N. J.; J. F. Ingram and Dr. J. C. Blair of Montgomery; Vernon J. Douglass of Birmingham and Clifford J. Campbell of Chicago.

In his welcome greetings, President F. D. Patterson stated the new thinking in trade training was citizen balancing, the concept of integration and opportunity, the observation that racial and regional standards are vanishing and that today one must meet uniform standards uniformly applied. "There are no more any such things as Negro jobs," Dr. Paterson said. He added that a worker is now judged by national standards.

Mr. Green who spoke on "What Industry Expects of the Technical Man" laid down these essential for success: (1) constructive discontent, (2) originality or vision, (3) courage, (4) sense of humor, (5) special technical knowledge, creativeness, ability and capacity to make the industrial team. Mr. Green is from the Administrative Control Section, Engineering Products Division, Radio Corporation of America.

He said that this technical man must have a desire to solve problems, capacity to understand the human relations involved. He suggested that he needed a basic knowledge of the trade fundamentals, of the tools and materials, a mind to think and learn and the knack of working well with others.

Mr. Ingram, supervisor, Vocational Industrial Education, State Department of Education, discussed "Alabama Vocational Program and the Trade Teacher.

Mr. Douglass, director, Vocational Education, Birmingham Board of Education, discussed 'General Education and the Trade Teacher." He pointed out that Birmingham has 25 key industries and that he conducted a skeleton survey among them to determine a few facts about their requirements. Most of them require an elementary education for common laborer, high school for skilled labor and trade or special training for supervisory.

He discussed the program at all-white Glenn Vocational School, the all-white apprentice training program and other programs by some unions which bar Negroes from membership, although he did not mention such. Among such unions was the plumbers.

Dr. Blair, director, Division of Education for Negroes, State Department, discussed "Accrediting Vocational Teachers in Alabama."

Mr. Campbell addressed the wind-up banquet.

The conference was under the directions of Dean T. W. Jones of the School of Mechanical Industries.

Among the consultants were: Donald F. White, architect-engineer, Detroit; Lewis W. McKissack, architect, Nashville; Edgar H. Davis, general contractor, Memphis, Tenn.; Dick Cumberland, district representative, Skill Corp., Opelika; Leroy Gaillard, Jr; general contractor, Birmingham; Carlton McLendon, furniture, Montgomery; E. J. Oliver, principal, Fairfield Industrial High School Clifford F. Smith, Houston, Texas; Ernest Dimitry, New York City; W. L. Wardell, Chicago; George Schley, bricklayer, Montgomery; Malachi Morse, Tuskegee Institute; L. B. Steadham, Opelika; J. W. Shepard, Opelika;

Among others from Birmingham were T. A. Lawson, director, State Vocational and Trade School, Wenonah; James A. Smith, instructor in auto mechanics, State Vocational Trade School; Leroy S. Gaillard, Sr., plumber.

Edward Blair, Memphis, Theodore Hillard of Cleveland; James E. Jackson, Frank Merriweather and Francis Griffin, Buffalo, N. Y.; John Clark, Walter Blount, Hugh Barrington; Sam Besteda, Mobile; Nathan Cross, St. Louis; Otto Simmons, Buffalo.

Consultants Differ at Tuskegee Confab Over Role Of Trade School

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, Ala. — (ANP) — Consultants were at odds at the concluding session of the sixth annual Trades conference here last week over industry's definition of the role of the trade school in preparing young men and women to meet the demands of present-day businesses.

The difference of opinion began when W. L. Wardell, executive vice-president, Shoe Service Institute of America, Chicago, insisted upon the need for maintaining the highest possible academic standards while training young people in the trades.

However, Nathan Gross, representative of the National Garment Manufacturer's union, St. Louis, disagreed. He contended that schools must decide either on developing scholars or tradesmen, and it is next to impossible to develop both in the allotted four years given to college training.

Opinions of other consultants were equally divided on the issue. In a summary of the two-day meeting, Ernest Dimitry, master machinist and special instructor, New York Naval shipyard, expressed the over-all view that more time needs to be given for the student to gain practical experience.

Some said that a fifth year added to the training curriculum might be the answer. Others spoke in high praise of the interne program now in operation which permits the student to work in industry for two quarters during their advanced two years in college.

Another conclusion which drew sharp discussion both from students and consultants, was the decision of the panel on Industrial Education which, in effect, stated that in order to qualify as a teacher of trades, at least five years of practical job-experience is necessary.

This view conflicts with the present practice of sending out graduates with little or no on-the-job experience to fill the several demands for teachers in the trades areas of public and private educational institutions.

The consultants staff strongly advised closer inter-departmental co-operation to eliminate duplication and enhance merchandizing as a means of developing small independent business enterprises among the graduates from Tuskegee Institute's School of Mechanical Industries.

CONSULTANTS AT THE SIXTH ANNUAL TRADE CONFERENCE held March 19-20 at Tuskegee Institute, Tuskegee Institute, Alabama. Reading left to right (fourth) is L. S. Gaillard, Sr., Birmingham; (6) T. W. Jones, Dean, School of Mechanical Industries, (7) Thomas Green, of RCA, Camden, N. J., (11) J. F. Ingram, supervisor, Vocational Industrial Education, State Department of Education, Montgomery. Among those on the back row are: (1) Prof. E. J. Oliver, principal, Fairfield Industrial High School; (11) Clifford J. Campbell, principal Dunbar High School, Chicago, Ill.; (12) Vernon J. Douglass, director, Vocational Education, Birmingham (Ala.) Board of Education and L. S. Gaillard, Jr., building contractor, Birmingham.

Trade Conference-Open House Is Slated This Week By Institute Industries Unit

The School of Mechanical Industries at Tuskegee Institute will hold its annual Trade Conference and Open House on Thursday and Friday of this week. This is the sixth in a series of conferences whose purpose is to foster a more effective liaison between the trade school and industry.

This years's theme is "Industry Looks at the Trade School Curriculum." Sponsors plan to sit down with 30-odd consultants from industry and the State Department of Education and get their opinions as to whether the school offers a sufficient number of trade courses to effectively cover specific areas; offer sufficient material in the way of related courses; give sufficient time to these trade and related courses; place enough stress on the "intangibles."

The key-note speech, "What Industry Expects of the Technical Man" will be given by T. G. Greens, liaison officer between the engineering and personnel departments of the Radio Corporation of America,, Camden, N J. His speech will begin the first general session at 8:30 a. m. Friday.

More than a score of experts in the various fields of mechanical industries will appear on the various programs.

The general sessions at 8:30 a. m. and at 2:30 p. m. Friday are open to the general public and interested persons are cordially invited. These sessions will be held in the auditorium of Trades "A" building. The public is also cordially invited to the Open House, which will be held from 6:30 p. m. until 9:30 p. m. Friday night at the Wilcox Trades Buildings on the campus.

Dean T. W. Jones, of the School of Mechanical Industries, reports that there is every indication for a successful conference.

Summer Students Taken On Tour Of Institute Campus

Tuskegee Herald
Tuskegee, Ala.
Thurs. 6-23-53

"Know your Institution," was the motive behind a tour of the campus Saturday morning beginning at 9 o'clock and participated in by a small but enthusiastic group of students. P1

The group, representing nine different states, began the tour by getting a close-up view of Dr. Washington's study on the second floor of "The Oaks." The tour was directed by the Public Relations Office.

Of great interest to the group was a visit to the Carver Foundation Research Laboratories where research fellows, busy at work, took time to explain to the group the processes being followed in their projects. Expressions were heard both as to quality and quantity of work being conducted by the Foundation.

At Dorothy Hall, the group saw boarding and lodging facilities equal to the best in metropolitan hotels.

By bus they went to the School of Veterinary Medicine where a number of clinical cases were being treated.

The tour ended with a brief visit through the V. A. Hospital.

The next tour is to be an out-of town visit to either Ft. Benning, Ga., or Maxwell Field, at Montgomery.

1300 Entered In Summer School Here

Tuskegee Herald
Tuskegee, Ala.
Thurs. 6-16-53

In the second week of the Tuskegee Summer School Dr. I. A. Derbigny, vice-president and director of the Summer School, reports that more than 1,300 persons have been enrolled for the first term. P. 1

The Principal's Workshop being sponsored by the Southern Education Foundation of Atlanta is one of the features of the Summer School. To date 48 school principals from 14 states have been enrolled.

The first assembly program last Wednesday featured Dr. L. H. Foster in his first public appearance since taking over the helm as president. He urged those in attendance at the Summer School session to take full advantage of the "plus" features offered at Tuskegee Institute.

"In addition to its rich curriculum," he stated, "there are many other phases of our program which offer rewarding experiences."

He pointed out the George Washington Carver Museum, the excellent facilities of the Hollis Burke Frizzell Library, and the several schools and departments that are rendering a unique and valuable public service.

Members of the Summer School are going on an extended tour Saturday morning. The tour will begin at "The Oaks", home of the founder and presently the Office of Public Relations.

After a visit to the "Den" (Dr. Washington's Study) the tour will be conducted through the various schools and departments and then by bus to the John A. Andrew Memorial Hospital, the School of Veterinary Medicine, and the Veterans Hospital. The tour will be over at 11:30 a. m.

On Wednesday, in the Institute chapel, Miss Lois Towles, pianist, will be featured. Other attractions have been prepared by the various schools and departments of the Institute.

14n 1953

TRUSTEE
MR. A.G. GASTON

The A. G. Gastons to Tour Africa and S. A.

BIRMINGHAM—A. G. Gaston, president of Smith and Gaston Interests, and his wife, this week announced plans for an extensive tour of Africa and South America.

The touring Gastons will visit Bishop E. C. Hatcher, presiding prelate of the Fourteenth Episcopal District of the African Methodist Episcopal Church in Monrovia, Liberia, Africa.

Mr. Gaston, a former president of the National Negro Business League, is a personal friend of Alabama-born Bishop Hatcher. He is also a top layman in the AME Church, and treasurer of Daniel Payne College, Birmingham.

The itinerary of Mr. Gaston calls for his leaving New York City early in November by plane to Lisbon, Portugal. From Lisbon, he will plane to Dakar to meet Bishop Hatcher at Monrovia.

Bishop Hatcher has informed Mr. Gaston that "plans are under way to receive the two Birmingham visitors in a very colorful and state manner."

Mr. Gaston said, We (he and Mrs. Gaston) plan to visit with Bishop and Mrs. Hatcher and members of his conference, including the conference in Accra, Gold Coast, West Africa, on Nov. 24, where a great reception is in preparation.

"The Prime Minister, the Hon. Kwame Nkrumah has indicated a desire to have us visit with him in Accra. From information coming to me, the welcome mat has been thrown out for us in West Africa."

Travel plans are mapped for the Gastons to spend the whole of November in West Africa. Early part of December, they will journey to Johannesburg and Capetown.

A. G. Gastons in Brazil; nearing end of wide tour

RIO DE JANERIO, Brazil — (ANP) — Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Gaston arrived here from the Gold Coast, West Africa, early last week.

The Alabama businessman and his wife, Mrs. Minnie Gaston, are completing a tour which took them to Liberia, Gold Coast, South America, Panama, Mexico and then back to Birmingham, their home.

Hailed by Liberian newspapers as "the first colored millionaire family to visit Africa," the Gastons were feted by officials and the governmental set. They were the guests of Bishop E. C. Hatcher of the AME church.

Honored By Tubman

President and Mrs. Tubman gave a dinner for them at the executive mansion. Gabriel Donnis, secretary of state, was host at a cocktail party at the state department.

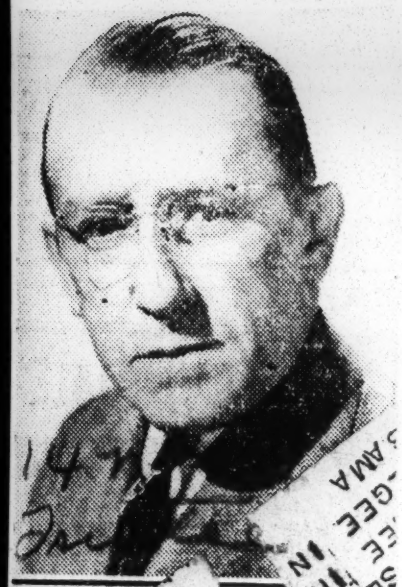
From Liberia they flew to the Gold Coast, where they met Prime Minister Kwame Nkrumah, before flying to South America.

Gaston Enterprises

Gaston operates the Booker T. Washington Insurance co., in Alabama. He owns the Booker T. Washington Business college, the Mason City Cemetery and the Finely Gardens apartments in Birmingham.

14n 1953

TRUSTEE



fantile Paralysis is a former law partner of the late President Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Also appearing on program were V. T. Anthony, state representative for the foundation, and Dr. Felix J. Underwood, executive officer, Mississippi State Board of Health.

O'CONNOR TO SPEAK

Basil O'Connor, president of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, will help launch Montgomery's annual March of Dimes Campaign here Dec. 14. O'Connor, who was onetime law partner with the late President Franklin D. Roosevelt, is scheduled to make a speech preliminary to the fund-raising drive beginning in January. C. C. Horton, state director for the March of Dimes, made arrangements for O'Connor's appearance. The foundation official is also president of the executive committee of the Warm Springs, Ga. Foundation and president of the American Red Cross.

Hint VI Post For Alexander

WASHINGTON, — Archie Alexander, the Des Moines engineer, is a hot tip to get the governorship of the Virgin Islands. Alexander's engineering firm has just completed an apartment house building on the old homestead of Frederick Douglass in Anacostia (District of Columbia) and is beginning the construction of a bridge here.

Tuskegee Trustee Speaks At Jackson College

JACKSON, Miss. — (ANP) — Basil O'Conner, Tuskegee Institute's trustee board chairman was principal speaker at a special assembly hour in Jackson college last week. O'Conner also head of the National Foundation for In-

'Commissioner Of Tuskegee Institute'

"Commissioner of Tuskegee Institute" is an odd-sounding title as titles go. It was conferred on Frank Tennille recently.

There are five commissioners, appointed by the governor under an act of 1945, who serve on the Board of Trustees of the Institute. The commissioners represent the state on the board. When the state began making allocations to the Institute in 1945, the commissioner seats on the board were set up so that the state would have some voice in the expenditure of the $300,000 allocated to Tuskegee each year.

Besides Tennille, the commissioners are Henry Neill Segrest of Tuskegee, Sen. John Pinson, Sumter County, A. C. Gaston, prominent Birmingham Negro, and George Wilkinson of Mobile, whose term has now expired.

Arthur Wiebel Joins Tuskegee Commissioners

BIRMINGHAM, Ala.—Arthur V. Wiebel, president of the Tennessee Coal and Iron Company here, has been named by Governor Gordon Persons to be a member of the board of commissioners of Tuskegee Institute.

He succeeds George Wilkinson of Mobile.

On His Way to Present Credentials to the Queen

Associated Press radiophoto

Winthrop Aldrich, new American Ambassador to Britain, stepping into a landau in London yesterday as coachman stands by LONDON, Feb. 20 (AP).—Winthrop Aldrich, new American Ambassador to Britain, made a ceremonial call at Buckingham Palace today to present his credentials to Queen Elizabeth II. The Queen also received Mrs. Aldrich in the audience room overlooking the palace grounds. Observing tradition, the Ambassador rode to the palace in a landau drawn by spirited horses. The Ambassador and Mrs. Aldrich were presented to the Queen by Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden. Mr. Aldrich did not choose to wear the ceremonial knee breeches in which some Ambassadors appear. He wore morning clothes.

TUSKEGEE TRUSTEE NEW AMBASSADOR TO BRITAN

LONDON (ANP)—Winthrop W. Aldrich, for many years a trustee of Tuskegee Institute and now the new U.S. Ambassador to Great Britain, arrived here Wednesday and announced that he expected only the best of relationships between the United States and Her Majesty's governments.

Tuskegee Choir TV Appearance Set Christmas And New Year's

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, Ala., Dec. 24 — The nationally famous "Coke Time" television show, starring Eddie Fisher, will present to America the Tuskegee Institute Choir with William L. Dawson, director, on Christmas Day and on New Year's Day.

Thirty-five choir members will be seen at that time. This will be a Kinescope production for distribution to 90 affiliate TV stations from coast to coast.

According to advance information, Eddie Fisher will open the program with three special numbers emphasizing the Christmas theme. He will then introduce Director Dawson and his choir for two special numbers. Immediately following, Eddie Fisher will join with the choir in singing three Christmas favorites: "O Little Town of Bethlehem," "Silent Night," and "Adeste Fideles."

The New Year's Day show will follow a different theme.

The Tuskegee Choir has made several appearances on both radio and television. It is made up of young people from many states over the nation.

The names and hometowns of those who are to appear are:

Willie A. Billup, Athens, Georgia; Cornelius Blount, Albany, Georgia; Joann Brown, Bainbridge, Georgia; Mildred Campbell, New York, N. Y. Margaret Carstarphen, Gadsden, Alabama; Orpha Cooke, Morehead City, N. C.; Jean Lois Davis, LaGrange, Georgia; Mary Carolyn Derbigny, Tuskegee, Alabama; Leon Donaldson, Burton, South Carolina; Ann Eliot, Albany, Georgia; Ann Fisher, West Palm Beach, Florida; Mrydia Flemings, Enterprise, Alabama; Donald W. Gillard, Clemson, S. C.; Cynthia Glover, Anniston, Alabama; Emmett W. Groomes, Jacksonville, Fla.; Ernestine Groomes, Jacksonville, Fla.; Clarice Henderson Birmingham Alabama; Lucille Jones, Mobile, Alabama; Major Jones, Charlottesville, Virginia; William H. Johnson, Okmulgee, Oklahoma; Alexander Luten, South Bend, Indiana; Mildred Meadows, Detroit, Michigan; Annie Moore, Birmingham, Alabama; Willie J. Paul, E. St. Louis, Ill.; Theron Quarterman, New York, N. Y.; Titus A. Saunders, Meigs, Georgia; Arthur He don Shaw, Moultrie, Georgia; Letitia Smith, Montgomery, Alabama; Earnestine Sparks, Birmingham, Ala.; Bessie Stockard, Nashville, Tennessee; Calvin Swartz, Whigham, Georgia; BeAlva Y. Walker, Texarkana, Arkansas; William H. Wiley, Tuskegee Institute, Ala.; and Ramona Williams, St. Louis, Missouri.

'Skegee Choir To Appear On "Coke Time"

NEW YORK CITY - The internationally known 36-voice Tuskegee Institute choir will be the guest of Eddie Fisher, star of "Coke Time," on the NBC star's Christmas and New Year's TV programs.

The famous choir, which is under the direction of William L. Dawson, head of the Tuskegee Institute School of Music, will appear with celebrated Mr. Fisher on the young artist's TV shows, originating from NBC's Radio Center, New York City, on Friday, December 25, and Friday, January 1. The Eddie Fisher NBC-TV show is seen from 7::30 to 7:45 p. m., EST.

These programs are carried by the 88 NBC-TV outlets over the nation. The Coca-Cola Company, sponsors of "Coke Time," urgpe res sponsors of "Coke Time," urges persons in the various NBC-TV locations to check their TV guides for exact time of the program. In some NBC-Radio locations the Eddie Fisher show is rebroadcast via radio.

Thirty-six young singers and students in the Tuskegee Institute School of Music will appear on the two programs featuring the world renouned choir. A check of the organization's personnel shows it composed of students from thirteen states. The Tuskegee choir has appeared in leading concert halls, theatres and auditoriums in the United States and abroad.

GUEST CONDUCTOR — William L. Dawson, noted composer and director, will lead his famous Tuskegee Institute Choir on the Eddie Fisher-"Coke Time," NBC-TV shows for Christmas and New Year's, December 25 and January 1. The two TV productions will be televised on 88 NBC outlets across the nation.

On 'Coke Time'

William L. Dawson, nationally and internationally prominent composer and director, will lead his famous Tuskegee Institute choir on the Eddie Fisher "Coke Time," NBC-TV shows for Christmas and New Year's, December 25 and January 1. The two TV productions will be televised at 7:30-7:45 p. m., EST, on 88 NBC-TV outlets across the nation. The Coca-Cola Company, Atlanta, Georgia, sponsor of "Coke Time" suggests that TV-viewers in the various sections of the country check TV guides for exact time of programs in their areas.

Tuskegee Choir Set For Yule Broadcasts

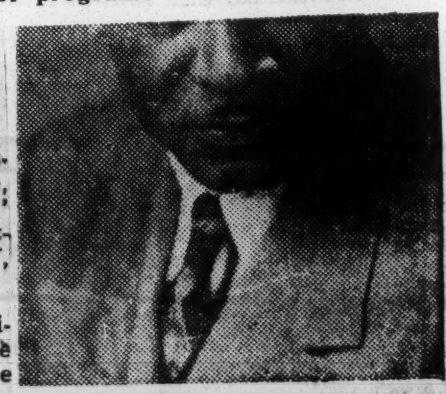
NEW YORK CITY — The internationally known 36-voice Tuskegee Institute choir will be the guest of Eddie Fisher, star of "Coke Time", on the NBC star's Christmas and New Year's TV programs.

The famous choir, which is under the direction of William L. Dawson, head of the Tuskegee Institute School of Music, will appear with the celebrated Mr. Fisher on the young artists TV shows, originating from NBC's Radio Center, New York City, on Friday, December 25, and Friday, January 1.

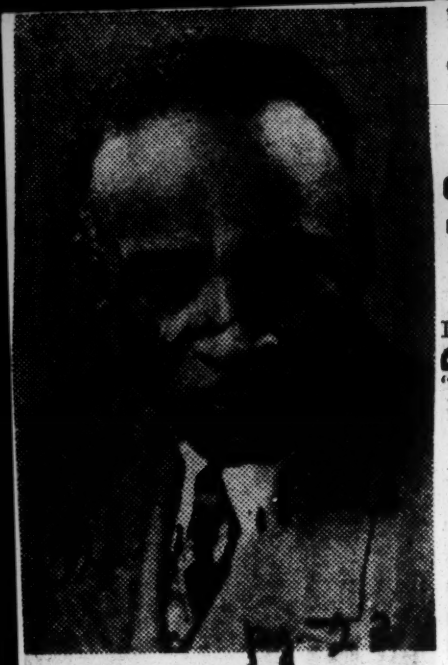
Tuskegee Choir To Sing On TV Show

NORFOLK — The famous Tuskegee Institute Choir of Tuskegee, Ala., will appear on "Coke Time" starring Eddie Fisher on Christmas Day, Dec. 25, on WVEC-TV, Channel 15.

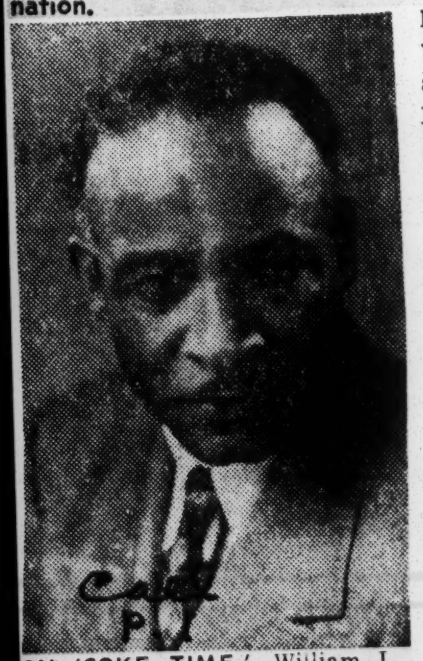
They will join the young baritone in [illegible] of the favorite Yuletide songs such as "Little Town of Bethlehem," "Adeste Fideles" and many others.



"COKE TIME" GUEST CONDUCTOR — William L. Dawson, nationally and internationally prominent composer and director, will lead his famous Tuskegee Institute choir on the Eddie Fisher — "Coke Time," NBC-TV shows for Christmas and New Year's, December 25 and January 1. The two TV productions will be televised at 7:30-7:45 P. M., EST on 88 NBC-TV outlets across the nation. The Coca-Cola Company, Atlanta, Georgia, sponsor of "Coke Time" suggests that TV-viewers in the various sections of the country check TV guides for exact time of programs in their areas.



"COKE TIME"—Guest conductor William L. Dawson, nationally and internationally prominent composer and director, will lead his famous Tuskegee Institute choir on the Eddie Fisher "Coke Time", NBC-TV shows for Christmas and New Year's. The two TV productions will be televised on 88 NBC-TV outlets across the nation.



ON 'COKE TIME.'—William L. Dawson, internationally prominent composer and director, will lead his famous Tuskegee institute choir on the Eddie Fisher—"Coke Time," NBC-TV shows for Christmas and New Year's, December 25 and January 1. The two TV productions will be televised at 6:30-6:45 p.m. CST on 88 NBC-TV outlets across the nation. The Coca-Cola Company, Atlanta, sponsor of "Coke Time" suggests that TV-viewers in the various sections of the country check TV guides for exact time of programs in their areas.

Tuskegee choir on "Coke Time"

Internationally known 36-voice Tuskegee Institute choir will be the guest of Eddie Fisher, star of "Coke Time", on the NBC star's Christmas and New Year's TV programs.

The famous choir is under the direction of William L. Dawson, head of Tuskegee's School of Music.

The programs are carried by the 88 NBC-TV outlets over the nation.

Thirty-six singers from 13 states will appear on the two programs.

Institute Choir In New York For Television Shows

Thirty-five members of the Tuskegee Institute Choir will take part in the Eddie Fisher television show on Christmas Day and one week later on New Year's Day. The choir members have gone to New York to begin rehearsals.

According to advance information, Eddie Fisher will open the program with three special numbers emphasizing the Christmas theme. He will then introduce Director Dawson and his choir for two special numbers. Immediately following, Fisher will join with the choir in singing three Christmas favorites: "O Little Town of Bethlehem," "Silent Night," and "Adeste Fideles."

The New Year's Day show will follow a different theme. Show time is 6:30 p.m. Central Standard Time on both appearances.

The Tuskegee Choir has made several appearances on both radio and television. It is made up of young people from many states over the nation.

Program Presented At API Sunday By The Tuskegee Institute Choir

The Tuskegee Institute Choir sang to an audience that filled the Graves Center Amphitheater, Auburn Polytechnic Institute, Sunday night, June 26, 1953.

This is the twentieth year that this program has been sponsored by the A. P. I. Faculty Committee on Religious Life, Episcopal, Methodist, and Presbyterian Chruches, of Auburn, Alabama.

The choir sang "Deep River," by Burleigh; "Listen to the Lambs," by Dett, soloist, Miss Carolyn Derbigny; "I Know the Lord," soloist, Mrs. Rosie Oliver; "Rise Shine, for Thy Light Is Coming," soloist, Mr. Walker Jackson; "Trampin," by the Male Chorus, directed by Captain William Wiley; "Rock in Jerusalem," by Work, soloist, Miss Jewette Reynolds.

Mrs. Albreta Lillian Simms directed the choir. The guest speaker for this occasion was Chaplain K. D. S. Pogue of the United States Veterans Administration, Tuskegee, Alabama.

Following the concert a reception was given in honor of the choir at the Auburn Methodist Church. From a table bedecked with beautiful flowers, the choir shared in the delicious refreshments. During this period, everyone joined in the singing of hyms which express love of God and fellow man. The evening came to a pleasant close with the choir singing "The Lord's Prayer," by Malotte, and "The Sevenfold Amen," by Stainer .

In a letter to Mrs. Simms, choir director, the chairman of the sponsoring committee, the Reverend Mr. Joel D. McDavid, stated, "Your fine spirit, the unselfishness of your choir with their time and talent, and the congenial good will spread by you and the choir stirs us all to new appreciation for all men. Please express our sincere gratitude to each member of your fine choir for their service to our Church community." Mr. McDavid is also the minister of the Auburn Methodist Church.

Institute Choir In New York For Television Shows

Thirty-five members of the Tuskegee Institute Choir will take part in the Eddie Fisher television show on Christmas Day and one week later on New Year's Day. The choir members have gone to New York to begin rehearsals.

According to advance information, Eddie Fisher will open the program with three special numbers emphasizing the Christmas theme. He will then introduce Director Dawson and his choir for two special numbers. Immediately following, Fisher will join with the choir in singing three Christmas favorites: "O Little Town of Bethlehem," "Silent Night," and "Adeste Fideles."

The New Year's Day show will follow a different theme. Show time is 6:30 p.m. Central Standard Time on both appearances.

The Tuskegee Choir has made several appearances on both radio and television. It is made up of young people from many states over the nation.

Institute Choir To Present TV Show Christmas

Dr. L. H. Foster announced this week that the Tuskegee Institute Choir has been invited to New York City to make a special Christmas film for a soft drink company.

The 15-minute production, made expressly for television re- production will go out on a TV network on Christmas Day.

William L. Dawson, 40 members of his present choir, and several former choir members which he invited to return for this special performance are now in rehearsal and will leave the campus on Dec. 18. They expect to return in less than one week.

This is an unusual honor and one in which the administration, the faculty, students, and alumni take just pride. Time of the TV performance on Christmas Day will be announced.

Tuskegee Students To Tour India

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, Ala. — (ANP) — Two students from Tuskegee institute here will be among some 60 students who will participate in "Project India," an educational tour sponsored by the Ford Foundation for Education. The students will be briefed at three educational centers for the trip.

The Tuskegee representatives are Miss Carole Patterson, Tuskegee institute, and Joseph Saunders, Meigs, Ga., who will join some 28 other students for briefing at the University of California at Los Angeles. The remaining students will be briefed at either Harvard university or Columbia university.

After the briefing, the group will assemble in New York in July to fly to India. They will visit and live with Indian students in their several colleges and universities for the purpose of exchanging ideas and studying living conditions firsthand.

Accompanied by professors and instructors who will serve as counsellors, the students will return during the second week in September.

Tuskegee Students On 'Project India'

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, Ala. (ANP) — Two Tuskegee students will be among some 60 who will participate in "Project India," an educational tour sponsored by the Ford Foundation for Education.

Tuskegee representatives are Miss Carole Patterson, Tuskegee, and Joseph Saunders, Meigs Ga. The group will assemble in New York in July to fly to India for the purpose of exchanging ideas and studying living conditions firsthand.

Two Students At Institute Will Take Part In Study Of Living Conditions In India

Tuskegee Institute will be represented on "Project India" this Summer by two of its outstanding student leaders. "Project India" is an educational tour sponsored by the Ford Foundation for Education. Approximately 60 students from several colleges and universities over the nation will be briefed at three educational centers for the trip. These centers are Harvard, Columbia and the University of California at Los Angeles.

The Tuskegee representatives are Carole Patterson, Tuskegee, and Joseph Saunders, Meigs, Ga. Miss Patterson and Mr. Saunders will receive their orientation at the University of California where they will join 28 other students on Friday of this week.

The group will assemble in New York early in July and fly to India. They will visit and live with Indian students in colleges and and universities for the purpose of exchaging ideas and studying living conditions first hand.

Since all participants are college students with a select group of college professors and instructors for counsellors, they will return during the second week in September to make the school opening deadline.

Miss Patterson is a junior in the school of Education, elementary department. She is a Tuskegee product all the way from nursery school. She has been an honor student throughout her high school and college life.

Her co-curricular interests have been the Student-Faculty Council, of which she is a member; the Little Theatre, the Institute Choir and she has done special creative work in the division of ceramics.

She is also a member of the Alpha Kappa Mu, educational honor society, and she is national assistant secretary-treasurer of that organization as well as the president of the local chapter. She is a member of the AKA Sorority.

Joseph Saunders is a five-year scholarship student in his junior year. He works at the John A. Andrew Memorial Hospital as laboratory technician in preparation for a career in medicine. His major is chemistry.

His co-curricular interests are the Institute Band, for which he is the drum major; the Student Fire Squad, of which he is president; The Campus Digest staff as a member. He is business manager of his class.

He is Alpha Phi Alpha and a member of the Inter-Fraternal Council. He is also president of the Alpha Phi Omega Fraternity, a national service organization, and a member of the Beta Kappa Chi, national scientific honorary society.

Before leaving for California, the first leg of their journey, they were briefed by Dr. L. H. Foster, newly-elected president; Carlton L. Lee, chaplain and student counsellor; Ernest E. Neal, Rural Life Council director recently returned from India, and Charles E. Trout, director of public relations.

Tuskegee Opens 73rd Year With All-Institute Meeting

By CHARLES TROUT
(Special to the Courier)

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, Ala.—In opening the seventy-third and his first regular term as president of Tuskegee Institute and the thirteenth annual All-Institute Conference which began Friday morning, Dr. L. H. Foster said, "The essential strength of this institution comes, not through striking chances, but through the continual building of a program of service."

He said that this is really a growing process — the evolution of a program which lives effectively in its environment.

Dr. Foster complimented Dr. I. A. Derbigny, vice president, for the painstaking efforts that he has put into the All-Institute Conference since it was started in 1941. The emphasis of the conferenc has grown from a local concept to global proportions. The theme for this year's conference was "The Role of Tuskegee Institute in Education for Effective World Citizenship." Participating were both faculty and students.

As a pioneer in this type of school opening conference, Tuskegee Institute has been extremely fortunate in securing some of the nation's leading educators as consultants. For this conference the keynote address was delivered by Dr. Flourny Arthur Coles Jr., recently returned from Thailand where he was economic officer with the Technical Economic Mission to that country.

Dr. Coles described the strategic importance of Southeast Asia in the conflict between democracy and communism. He said that a three-pronged revolution is in process involving the political, social, economic and religious life of the people.

The speaker regards the country of Thailand with its 200,000 square miles and nineteen million people as an outpost where the principles of democracy are being put to severe test. Thailand has outlawed communism and has sought and made use of economic and technical assistance from the United States in the development of its natural and human resources.

Dr. Coles stressed the fact that we are in Thailand to assist and not to take over any of its operations as a sovereign nation. He said, "Eager eyes are watching to see what we do for and to Thailand." His conclusion is that events in Southeast Asia are vitally affecting conditions in Western Asia and in Africa.

Dr. Thomas R. Fisher, deputy director, education and technical training staff of the Technical Cooperation Administration, Washington, D. C., and Miss Eleanor A. Eaton, director of the American Community Project, sponsored by Adult Education, New York University, and formerly on the staff of the well-known radio series, "The Peope Act," served on the consultants' staff.

The three consultants, with Ernest E. Neal, director, Rural Life Council, appeared on a panel as one of the conc features of the All-Institute Conference.

Dr. Foster delivered the annual school opening address at a faculty luncheon following the conference. He said, "From the beginning, the program of Tuskegee Institute was designed and operated to touch, constructively, many more than the limited enrollment which could be accommodated here on the campus."

Dr. Foster praised the work of his illustrious predecessors for the development of the physical plant, a capable faculty and staff and providing a professional environment in which a high calibre of teaching and research, geared to these times, can be effectively carried out.

He said, "All of these are essential features of the Tuskegee program. They should be continued and they must be extended where appropriate."

Nursing director resigns at Provident

BALTIMORE

Mrs. Maida S. Brannon, director of nurses at Provident Hospital, resigned this week after serving the hospital for four years.

Mrs. Brannon

The resignation is effective September 30. John L. Procope, administrator, told the AFRO Mrs. Brannon has strengthened the nursing service during her administration, and he is sorry to see her go.

Mrs. Lowe Acting

Mr. Procope said that until a successor is named, Mrs. Ocie Lowe, assistant director, will act in her stead.

Mrs. Brannon said she has no immediate plans for the future except that she is looking forward to a month's vacation which she will take beginning sometime in August.

Mrs. Brannon assumed the director of nursing post at Provident on Sept. 1, 1949. Before coming here, she had served seven years (1940-47) as superintendent of nurses at Douglass Hospital in Philadelphia, and received a B. S. degree in nursing at the University of Minnesota (1949).

Tuskegee Graduate

A native of Phoenix City, Ala., Mrs. Brannon is the former Maida Stephens, and the widow of the Rev. George M. Brannon, an AME minister of the Alabama conference who died in 1916. They have one daughter, Mrs. Mae Ruth Wilson who resides in Lawton, Oklahoma.

Mrs. Brannon is a graduate of Tuskegee Institute, where she received her nursing diploma in 1923 and her academic diploma in 1925. She served as night superintendent of nurses at the Tuskegee Institute hospital for one year, 1925-26.

Wide Experience

Registered to practice in Ala., Tex., Tenn., Mich., N. Y., Md., and Pa., Mrs. Bannon has ad wide nursing experience. From 1926-27, she was in charge of nursing at Brewer Hospital, Greenwood, S. C., 1928-37, superintendent of nurses at Prairie View State college, Texas;

From 1937-38, she was superintendent of nurses at Meharry Medical college; 1938, a similar post at Mercy Hospital, Detroit; and 1939-40, a member of the nursing staff at Sea View hospital Staten Island, N.Y.

During her Baltimore residence, Mrs. Brannon has not only helped to expand the hospital's nursing service and school of nursing, she has taken an active part in the community.

AFRO Honor Roll

Recognition was given her in 1951, when she won honorable mention on the AFRO honor roll.

In 1950, the Tuskegee Nurses' Alumni Association honored her with a tea and in 1952, she received the Tuskegee Alumni Merit Award in recognition of distinguished service in advancing human welfare.

She was also the recipient of an engraved cup from the International Trade Association of N. Y. and Baltimore in 1951 for superior service to public institutions.

When Mrs. Brannon came to Provident Hospital, she revived the education department, the division which gives instruction to nurses, and organized the in-service program for nurses aides.

Active In Drive

During her administration, the semi-private facilities on the second and third floors were equipped, and her team was the leading women's division in the $300,000 campaign (1951) for the hospital, reporting in excess of $14,000.

She was also instrumental in getting the physicians' wives to equip a second floor semi -private room with new furniture, and in getting various clubs to contribute to the beautification of the hospital.

Mrs. Brannon has served as a member of the Henryton Hospital School of Nursing advisory committee and as a steward and senior choir member of Bethel AME Church.

She has been active in Madison Ave. YWCA, holds membership in the American Nurses' Association, the National Nursing League, and the Ministers' Wives Alliance of Baltimore and vicinity.

Local Resident Wins Fellowship

Mrs. Letitia Brown, of Tuskegee, has received an Opportunity Fellowship for 1953, the John Hay Whitney Foundation announced this week. Mrs. Brown is presently living in Mount Vernon, N. Y., to complete her dissertation for Ph. D. in history from Radcliff College. Mrs. Brown received her B. S. degree from Tuskegee Institute, and her M. A. degree from Ohio State University, Columbus, Ohio. She also attended Radcliff College. Mrs. Brown has taught as a third and fourth grade teacher, a high school history teacher, college teacher, visiting professor and history tutor. She is considered as the ablest woman of her race to have studied at Radcliff College.

Among this year's winners are Negroes, Spanish-Americans, Chinese-Americans, Japanese-Americans, Puerto Ricans, American Indians, a native of the Marshall Islands and displaced persons.

The awards for training and study are made each year to American citizens of exceptional promise who, because of arbitrary barriers such as race, culture background, or region of residence, have not had the fullest opportunity to develop their abilities.

Most of the award winners will return to their communities and with their new knowledge and experience work toward the betterment of local economic, educational and social standards.

Lincoln (Mo.) U. Dept. Head Gets Fulbright Award

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. — (ANP) — A Fulbright fellowship last week was awarded to Miss Queen E. Shootes, acting head of the home economics department, Lincoln university here, to teach in Trinidad.

The Tuskegee Institute graduate has been given a two year leave of absence from her post at Lincoln. She will assist in introducing a course in home economics in the Government Teacher Training college, Port of Spain, Trinidad, British West Indies.

Miss Shootes attended Tuskegee from elementary school on in through college. She later taught at the Institute from 1934-49.

An honor student, Miss Shootes was a recipient of the Mrs. Edgar Stern Award, a four year scholarship, and the General Education Board Award on three occasions.

After graduating from Tuskegee, Miss Shootes went on to Cornell university where she earned her M. S., and later spent three years at the University of Wisconsin, working on her doctorate.

At the Wisconsin institution she was named to Omicron Nu, home economics honor society. She also is a member of Delta Sigma Theta sorority.

L.H. Foster to address Tuskegee alumni

Tuskegee Institute alumni in the Birmingham area will hear an address by Institute President L. H. Foster at 8 p.m. Tuesday at the 18th-st Branch YMCA. Members of the Birmingham Tuskegee Club will hold a reception for Dr. Foster after the program.

The club will hold its annual pep dance at Elks Rose at 10 p.m. Friday, according to G. W. Harrison, club president. Music will be provided by Eas' Whatley's orchestra. Proceeds from the event will be placed in a scholarship fund for a five-year-plan student at the institute.

Lt. Ratcliff Is Presented Medal At Service Here

First Lt. Frederick Ratcliff, veteran of World War II and the Korean confict and a student at Tuskegee Institute under the provisions of the Korean G. I. Bill, was awarded the Bronze Star here this week by Maj. Walter Dabney by direction of Headquarters 25th Infantry Division, U. S. Army.

Lt. Ratcliff was cited for outstanding leadership and gallantry displayed in comat during the period May 19, 1952, to Feb. 5, 1953. He entered Tuskegee Institute for the third time on June 8.

His education was interrupted twice previously. He entered school in the fall term of 1944 to take auto mechanics after finishing the Booker Washington High School in New Orleans.

On hand for the reading of the citation and presentation of the Bronze Star Medal were Dr. Luther H. Foster, Maj. Dabney, Capt. Spurgeon A. Moore, and the infantry color guard.

The citation read as follows

"First Lieutenant Frederick Ratcliff, 02205252, Infantry, Company K, 27th Infantry, United States Army. During the period 19 May 1952 to 5 February 1953, Lt. Ratcliff served in a highly commendable manner as a platoon leader with a rifle company in Korea. Displaying outstanding leadership qualities, sound tactical judgment and great physical stamina, he developed and maintained an aggressive, determined platoon in spite of a large influx of inexperienced replacements. His high personal standards and sincere devotion to duty earned him the respect and admiration of his men and the complete confidence of his superiors. Lieutenant Ratcliff's outstanding performance contributed materially to the high efficiency and continued success of his unit. His courage, resourcefulness and tireless efforts are in keeping with the best traditions of the United States Army."

FORMER STAR ATHLETES VISITORS AT TUSKEGEE

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, Ala. — Among the recent visitors to the Tuskegee Institute campus were several former athletes, who are rendering the same high type of service in their respective fields of activity that they gave while performing on the gridiron, on the basketball court, the baseball diamond and in track and field at the Institute.

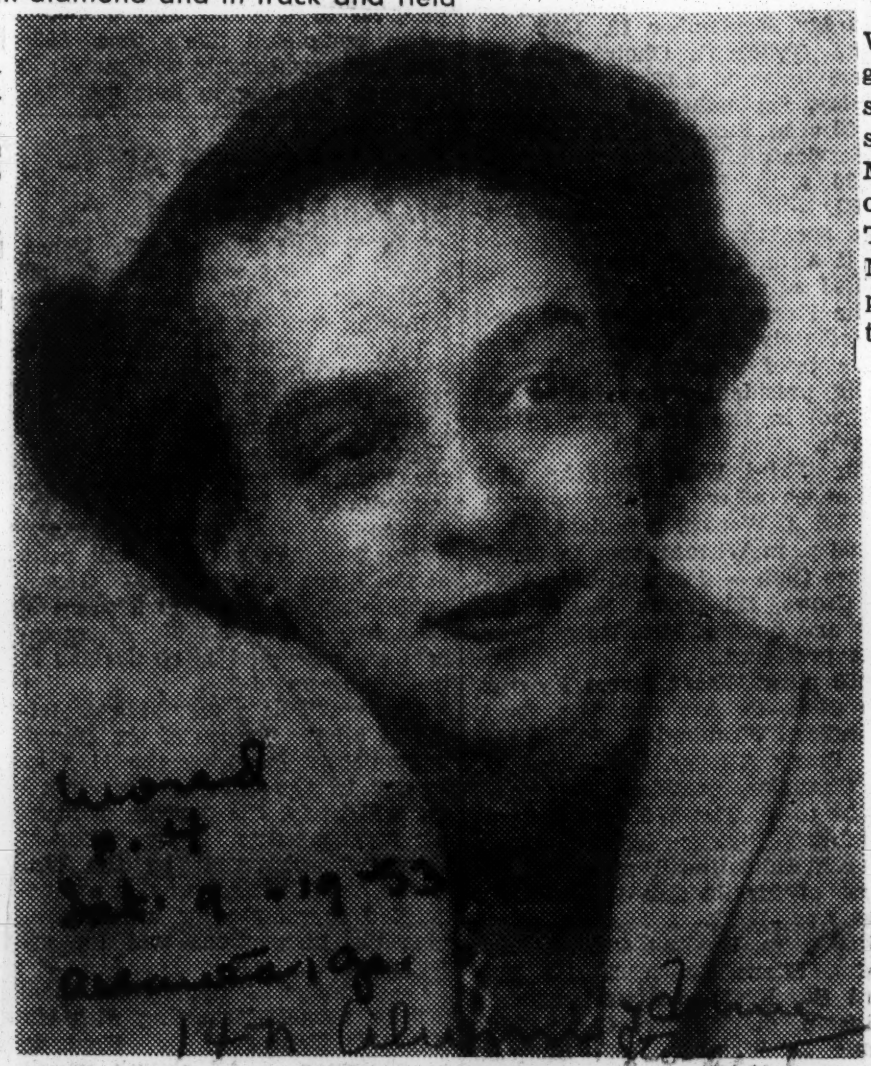
Those who registered at the Alumni Office were Cornelius (Siki) Robinson, now a law-enforcement officer at Bay City, Texas. Robinson was a guard on the 1923, 1924, 1925 and 1926 football team. He was a sixty-minute man, and of course, had never heard of the two platoon system. He was cordially greeted by his many friends.

Later, Owen J. Duncan, rated as an outstanding end, spent several hours on the campus. He was enroute to Mobile, Alabama, his first visit to his native city in several years. Duncan is now Principal of the Campbell County High School of Rustburg, Virginia.

Bernard J. Flood visited with several friends at the Institute for two or three days. Flood was not only a baseball player (catcher) of unusual ability, but he was also an excellent musician, and was a member of the band and the orchestra. He is now in Government Service with headquarters in New York City.

The lone woman athlete to return for a visit with parents and friends was Mrs. Florence Wright Mitchell, a former member of the Tuskegee Women's Championship Track and Field Team and the Women's Championship Basketball Team.

After graduating from Tuskegee Institute with a Bachelor of Science degree in Physical Education, Miss Wright attended Western Reserve University, Cleveland, Ohio, and was awarded the Master of Science degree in Physical Education. She spent the summer at Springfield College, Springfield, Massachusetts, pursuing studies leading to the Ph. D. degree in the field of Physical Education. Mrs. Mitchell is director of the Department of Physical Education for Women at Livingston College, Salisbury, North Carolina.



ANN REBA ELLIOTT

TO ATTEND JULLIARD—Miss Ann Reba Elliott, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Elliott will leave Tuesday, Sept. 22nd for New York City where she will enter the Juilliard School of Music. Ann is a graduate of Monroe High School and this year received her Bachelor of Science Degree in Physical Education from Tuskegee Institute in Alabama. Miss Elliott is the recipient of a Rockefeller Foundation Scholarship Award in Music.

Mrs. Maida Brannon, who resigned as director of nurses at Provident last month, has accepted a new job at Prairie View (Tex.) College.

She'll be nursing director, with a starting salary of $6,000 a year, plus expenses — almost twice as much as she received at Provident. Our wish that she would go to a place which would appreciate her true worth has come true!

Two Tuskegeeans Awarded Degrees

Special To The Herald

CHICAGO—Two Tuskegee residents were among the 371 University of Chicago students who were graduated at the University's two hundred fifty-eighth convocation at Rockefeller Memorial Chapel.

Maurice F. Seay, chairman of the University's department of education, presented the convocation address,, "From the Campus to the Community." R. Wendell Harrison, vice-president, conferred the degrees.

The Tuskegee residents who were graduated and their degrees are Cecelia C. Calhoun and Ethel H. Hall. Both were awarded master's degrees.

Smith Working Toward Doctorate

Special To The Herald

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J. — William P. Smith, Jr., of Tuskegee is attending the Summer session of Rutgers University, the state university of New Jersey. Mr. Smith is assistant professor of education at the Alabama State Teachers College for Negroes in Montgomery, where he teaches principles and method of education and psychology.

He holds a B.S. degree from Tuskegee Institute, attended Fisk University and earned a master of education degree from Rutgers in 1947. He is now working toward a doctor of education degree. This Summer he is participating in the Workshop in guidance leadership and is also taking a course in business administration of school systems.

While in New Jersey Mr. Smith is visiting his mother-in-law, Mrs. E. L. Horton, of East Orange.

Maj. White Going To Far East Area

Special To The Herald

FORT DIX, N.J. — Cecil W White, graduate of Tuskegee Institute, who was recently promoted to major at Fort Dix, N. J. is enroute to the Far East.

Son of Mrs. Jennie T. White of Marion Junction, Ala., he arrived at Fort Dix in May, 1952 and was a range officer with the 9th Infantry Division.

Maj. White fought in Italy during World War II and was operations officer during the Berlin Airlift. He wears the Bronze Star Medal, Purple Heart and Combat Infantryman badge.

He is a member of Kappa Alpha Psi fraternity.

Miss Magee Given Red Cross Position

Miss Ida Mae Magee, of Magnolia, Miss., a graduate of Tuskegee Institute, reported to Washington on Oct. 5 for two weeks orientation prior to sailing for the Far East and an overseas assignment in the American Red Cross services to the armed forces program.

Miss Magee will serve as a club worker in that phase of the program designed to offer supplemental recreation activities to able-bodied servicemen overseas.

Prior to entering Red Cross service she was employed fo two years as a physical education instructor at Palmer Memorial Institute, Sedalia, N. C.

She attended Tuskegee Institute, Tuskegee, Ala., where she received the B. S. degree in physical education in 1949.

14n 1953

Last Rites For Mrs. Jenkins Set

Funeral services for Mrs. Bessie Jenkins, popular Atlanta woman, who was found dead Monday, will be held today at Friendship Baptist Church at 1 p. m.

Mrs. Jenkins four sisters arrived from Cleveland Wednesday to complete funeral arrangements Ms. Jenkins was found [illegible] her home at 619 Crew Street, S. W. where she had lived several years with her husband, Peter Jenkins.

Mrs. Jenkins was an active member of the Grady Hospital Auxiliary, and member of Friendship Baptist Church.

CLASS- RE-UNIONS
1903- 50th Anniversary
1913-40th Anniversary

E. E. A. CAMPBELL, Jamaican attorney, who spoke for the class of 1913 at the recent reunion program in the Institute chapel, presents President L. H. Foster with the class gift of $2,000. The fund is to go toward improving the athletic field.

Jamaica Attorney Chosen To Make Alumni Address

E. E. A. Campbell, attorney at law, Jamaica, Britist West Indies, Tuskegee Institute class of 1913, will deliver the anniversary alumni address in the Institute chapel at 6:30 o'clock Sunday evening, Oct. 18.

The distinguished attorney, who enjoys an exceptional record in legal circles in the West Indies, will travel by plane to Montgomery, arriving there Wednesday, Oct. 14, and will be met by J. Henry Smith, executive secretary of the Tuskegee General Alumni Association, William Wiley, Mrs. Lilla Motley Wilson, Benjamin H. Crutcher, William J. Burke, Junius A. Kitchens and George W. Clark, members of the local committee of the class of 1913.

Other members of the class, who have indicated that they will be present for the reunion are Miss Eloise R. Cunningham and Miss Ethel S. Storey, Cleveland, Ohio; Mrs. Irene Richardson Jones, Los Angeles, Calif.; Miss Pearl C. Tate, Thomas D. Hill, Mrs. Lilla LaBranche Jones, Mrs. Laura Smothers Jones, Chicago; Ralph B. Stewart, Jacksonville, Fla.; John C. Kahn, Pine Bluff, Ark.; Maj. C. J. A. Paddyfote, Flordia A & M University, Tallahassee; William H. Richardson, Mobile; Mrs. Annie Gordon Perry, Tallahassee, Fla. and Edgar H. Davis Memphis, Tenn.

Welcome Mat Readied For Old Grads At Homecoming

Tuskegee Institute rolls out its welcome mat to returning alumni on Saturday in the traditional Homecoming ceremony.

Honored guests will be the senior alumni—the 50-year and 40-year classes.

The day begins with Homecoming parade beginning at the Booker T. Washington monument at 10:15 a.m.

The Knoxville College Bulldogs from Knoxville, Tenn., will oppose the Golden Tigers in a football game, starting at 1:30 p.m.

The entire student activities groups including the band, majorettes, young women's marching team, and the infantry and air force honor guard squads will be on hand for the game and halftime ceremonies.

At 7 p.m. a banquet honoring members of the classes of 1903 and 1913 will be held in the Pine Room of Dorothy Hall. At this ceremony the members of the 50-year class will be presented golden certificates by President L. H. Foster.

The homecoming dance will be held in Logan Hall, beginning at 8 p.m.

The Alumni executive committee meeting will be held at 9 a. m. Friday in the executive council room, and the annual meeting of the General Alumni Association will be held in the Peabody Room of Dorothy Hall, beginning at 1:30 p.m.

Sunday morning, the cathedral chimes in the chapel will play a special program, beginning at 8:50 a.m. The regular Sunday morning services will be observed in the Institute chapel.

Sunday evening at 6:30 o'clock, the classes of 1903 and 1913 will be presented in the Institute chapel by J. Henry Smith, executive secretary-general, Alumni Associaiton. Attorney-at-law E. A. A. Campbell, Kingston, Jamaica, British West Indies, of the Class of 1913 will deliver the alumni address. Dr. L. H. Foster will respond.

An after vesper service for the alumni will be held in White Hall.

Graduates Of '03 To Hold Reunion

Among the members of the Tuskegee Institute Class of 1903 who plan to return to the campus for the observance of the 50th anniversary reunion will be several who have not been back to the Tuskegee campus since their graduation. They will probably be amazed at the many changes, additions and improvements that have been made during the half century.

Members of the 1903 class expected to return for this significant occasions are Capt. Robert L. Campbell, Saugua, Calif.; Rev. Relph A. Daly, Selma, Ala.; William W. Greene, Milton W. Key, Mrs. Lena Jackson Whibby, William S. Little, Chicago; Mrs. Birdie Lee Jones, Florida A & M University, Tallahasse, Fla.; Eugene Lecompte, attorney-at-law, Ponce, Puerto Rico; Harry L. Nelson, Los Angeles, Calif.; William L. Powell, New Orleans; Robert Evans, tax accountant, Deep River, Conn.; Mrs. Marie Chambliss Varner, Cleveland, Ohio; Mrs Roxana Menafee Jones, Lexington, Ky.; Henry H .Keller, Springfield, Ohio; Mrs. Charles H. Evans, Mrs. Dorinda M. Fair, Stephen T. Powell and Winston T. Powell, Tuskegee.

Dr. L. H. Foster, Institute president, will welcome the reunioners anl J. Henry Smith, executive secretary of the General Alumni Association will extend cordial greetings.

CLASS RE-UNIONS
1903
1913

Re-union Speaker Calls For Continuing Emphasis On Principles Of Founnder

Representing his class at their 40-year reunion in the Institute chapel Sunday night, E. E. A. Campbell, prominent Jamaican attorney, voiced the time-tested principles of Booker T. Washington, Tuskegee's illustrious founder.

He stated that while Tuskegee should give every scope and encouragement for higher intellectual culture, whatever else it may do, training in the work of the hand should be its paramount aim. In so doing, it will supply the imperative need of the masses of the race and lay a solid foundation for its prosperity and security, Mr. Campbell said.

Attorney Campbell said that we, like Dr. Washington, have come to realize that industrial education is not incompatible with higher education. He traced the early development of the institution and told of the outstanding accomplishments of his class.

Back for the Homecoming celebration were 23 members of the Class of 1913. At the conclusion of the address the class presented a substantial sum to President L. H. Foster for special scholarship and development programs at the Institute. Aside from his contribution to the class gift, Thomas D. Hill, of Chicago, made a personal gift of $1,000 to the school.

Members of the 1913 class who returned for the reunion were Herman V. Blandon, Chicago; William J. Burke, Mt. Meigs, Ala.; E. E. A. Campbell, Kingston Jamaica; B. W. I. George, George W. Clark, Tuskegee Institute; Benjamin H. Crutcher, Tuskegee Institute; Miss Elise R. Cunningham, Cleveland, Ohio; Edgar H. Davis, Memphis, Tenn.; Mrs. Edna Chappell Harris, Chicago; Thomas D. Hill, Chicago; Mrs. Irene Richburg Jones, Los Angeles, Calif.; Mrs. John C. Kahn, Pine Bluff, Ark.; Mrs. Junius A. Kitchens, Opelika, Ala.; Mrs. Lillie Motley Wilson, Tuskegee Institute; Maj. J. J. A. Paddyfote, Florida A. and M. University, Tallahassee, Fla.; Mrs. Annie Gordon Perry, Tallahassee, Fla.; Thomas C. Provost, Birmingham; William H. Richardson, Mobile; Ralph B. Stewart, Sr., Jacksonville, Fla.; Miss Ethel S. Storey, Cleveland, Ohio; Miss Pearl C. Tate, Chicago; William Victor Terry, Chicago; Craig Tolliver, Danville, Ky.; William Wiley, Tuskegee Institute.

At a special ceremony Saturday evening, following the 7-7 deadlock with Knoxville College on the gridiron, members of the Class of 1903 were presented Golden Certificates by the president and inducted into the "Half-Century Club." Those so honored were Henry H. Keller, Springfield, Ohio; William L. Powell, New Orleans; Mrs. Marie Chambliss Varner, Cleveland, Ohio; Rev. Ralph A. Daly, Selma, Ala.; William W. Greene, Chicago; Mrs. Birdie Lee Jones, Florida A. and M. University, Tallahassee, Fla.; Mrs. Dorinda M. Fair, Tuskegee Institute; Mrs. Anna Breedlove Evans, Tuskegee Institute; Stephen T. Powell, Tuskegee Institute. and Winston T. Powell, Tuskegee Institute.

The Homecoming events from start to finish were of much inspiration to the present crop of nearly 2,000 students. The traditional "Tuskegee Spirit" was much in evidence.

In presenting the Class of 1913, Ralph B. Stewart, Sr., of Jacksonville, Fla., told of the outstanding accomplishments of his classmates. Many of them followed the trades learned at Tuskegee, while others sought higher degrees elsewhere and entered professional pursuits.

Dr. L. H. Foster expressed appreciation for the large scale participation of the alumni in their reunion exercises. Both the 50-year class, with 10 members returning, and the 40-year class with 23 members returning set records for the Homecoming reunion classes.

J. Henry Smith, executive secretary, General Alumni Association, and R. S. Darnaby, assistant, did an exceptional job in promoting interest among the alumni.

The Homecoming parade this year was non-competitive, yet it was one of the best witnessed at Tuskegee. The floats entered by class groups, campus organizations and the local public schools, the activities of the bands, both from the Institute and the high school, the ROTC and AFROTC marching units, the majorettes, and others, produced a thrilling sight as they paraded through the campus and down through the town of Tuskegee. The local Boy Scout and Girl Scout units, the Brownies, the Cubs, and the mule-drawn covered wagon of the Scouts who went West this Summer to the Jamboree, were an added thrill to the thousands who lined the streets to see the parade.

Mrs. Fair Hostess To 1903 Graduates

Mrs. Dorinda M. Fair was hostess at a delightful party at her home Friday evening when she entertained members of her graduating class of 1903 and a few other friends.

The spacious living room was adorned with crysanthemums and gladioli and the graduates of fifty years ago relived their school days as they told many tales about themselves and their beloved principal, Booker T. Washington.

A Columbia record of excerpts of the famous Atlanta Exposition speech which Dr. Washington made was played for the group who enjoyed hearing his voice again. Letters he had written, pictures of him lecturing and astride his horse and other interesting historical items were viewed and discussed.

Mr. Keller, a 1903 grad, recited a lengthy and inspiring poem to describe his feelings.

After a period of reminescing, the guests were invited into the dining room where a lace-covered table held platters of hors d' oeurves olives, pickles, spiced peaches, cookies and cold fruit punch.

Enjoying this delightful affair were Mrs Fa.r's classmates Mesdames Marie Chambliss Varner of Cleveland, Ohio; Mrs. Birdie Lee Jones, Tallahassee, Florida; Anna Breedlove Evans, Tuskegee; Rev. Ralph Daly, Selma, Ala.; Mr. Henry Keller, Springfield, Ohio; Mr. W. W. Green, Chicago, Ill.; Mr. Winston Powell and Mr. Stephen Powell, Tuskegee; and Mr. William Powell, New Orleans.

Other friends present were Mrs L. H. Foster, Sr., Mrs. L. H. Foster, Jr., Capt. and Mrs. Alvin Neely, Mesdames Addie Long, G K. Logan, E. M. Washington, Jean Lee, Lottie Young, Mary B. Kerr, and Lizzie Whitlow.

MR. AND MRS. CHARLIE M. WARNER

REPEAT SOLEMN VOWS — The wedding of the former Miss Florene Hill to Mr. Charlie Melvin Warner was solemnized Saturday, April 11 at eight p.m. at the home of the bride. The Rev. R. M. Williams officiated.

The bride, a teacher of Home Economics in the Livingston, Alabama school system, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elijah Hill, Sr. of 6431 North Fourth Court, Birmingham.

The groom, a printer presently employed in Pensacola, Florida, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jessie Warner, of 420 North 15th. Street, city.

Both the bride and groom, are graduates of Tuskegee Institute.

The room was beautifully d rated with bouquets of white diola blossoms and iron candle holding lighted tapers which lighted by Miss Alberta Web Tuskegee Institute, Ala.

Preceding the bride was th of honor, Miss Clarasee Jack Uniontown, Ala. She carri bouquet of orchids tide with streamers.

Albert Bates, a close friend of the groom, served as best man.

The lovely bride, given in marriage by her father, was beautifully attired in a street-length dress of powder blue lace with shantung trim. Her eye-shadow veil was held by a crown of blue velvet. Completing her outfit were blue lace mits with velvet trim. She carried a prayer book topped with an orchid and tied with pink ribbon streamers.

Mrs. Mae Rena Hill, mother of the bride, was attired in a beige lace dress with brown accessories. Mrs. Carrie Warner, mother of the groom, wore a plum-shade dress of silk shantung with back accessories. Both mothers wore corsages of white carnations.

West Point Miss Weds At 'Skegee

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, ALA. —(ANP) — Miss Mildred Jacqueline Hall, daughter of Mr and Mrs. Frank Hall, West Point, Ga. on last week became the bride of John H. Smith, Jr., son of Mrs. Willie Mae Smith of Selma, Alabama on the bridegrooms graduation day.

Miss Hall was graduated from Tuskegee as an honor student in May, 1952. While a student there, she served as basileus of the undergraduate chapter of the Zeta Phi Beta Sorority and president of the Home Economics Club. She is listed in the 1952 edition of Who's Who Among Students in American Colleges and Universities.

Presently, Miss Hall is a teacher of Home Economics at the Academy Street High School, Troy, Ala

Smith was graduated in May 18, 1953 Commencement at Tuskegee. He served as president of the Student-Faculty Council, president of the junior class, president of the YMCA, president of YMCA, president of the sophomore Sunday School Class, editor and Associate Editor of Campus Digest (school paper). He is ilsted in the '52 and '53 editions of American Student Leader Publication. Smith was president of the Senior Class and a member of the Student Council and Personnel and Guidance Committee, Omega Psi Phi Fraternity and the Arnold Air Society.

The marriage was solemnized in the Institute Chapel, just after the commencement exercises held earlier in the day.

Tuskegee Grad Food Show Head

MOBILE, Ala.—G. L. Taylor, Tueskegee graduate in commercial dietetics, was head food demonstrator at the city's annual Home Service - Food Show, at ILA auditorium, June 8-9.

Mr. Taylor has served four years as instructor-head of cooking ... schools in Florida, with a company in Hartford, Conn., and at Lincoln uni.

His experience extended into the Pullman car service as traveling student chef of Atlantic Coast Line on the Flordia Special between New York and Miami.

DECEASED
Miss EMMA J. BROWN,
SEWING INSTRUCTOR
YWCA , 175 West 137th Street
New York, N.Y.
Passed May 13, 1953
(Former Home-Gallion,Ala)
EMMA JUANITA BROWN
CLASS-1922

Ralph Ellison, author of "Invisible Man", returned to Tuskegee Institute Monday after an absence of nearly 17 years.

In this time, he has developed into one of the nation's foremost novelists. For his book, "Invisible Man," he received the 1952 National Book Award's citation and gold plaque. The award was for the outstanding novel of the year.

Mr. Ellison came to Tuskegee Institute in 1933 and enrolled in the School of Music, since discontinued, from the Douglas High School, in Oklahoma City. After spending three years at Tuskegee Institute trying to "find himself" as he expresses it, he left for New York City in the Summer of 1936 with plans for earning money to return to school in the Fall.

At Tuskegee, Ellison developed an insatiable interest in the arts and found many friends among the faculty who offered him help and encouragement. His major interests, besides music, were in sculpturing and creative writing. During his first Summer in New York, he studied sculpturing under Barthe.

In 1937, still in search of the one thing to which he hoped to devote his major efforts, he studied composition under W. Reigger. He had, in the meantime, formed acquaintance with the famous poet, Langston Hughes, who in turn introduced him to Richard Wright, author of "Native Son" and other widely acclaimed works of fiction.

He was with the Writers Project in 1938, and for the next two years he went to sea with the Merchant Marine. In 1945, the last year of its operation, Mr. Ellison received a Rosenwald Scholarship to further his work in composition.

The next year, following a brief return to the Merchant Marine, he began his novel, "Invisible Man." That same year, he was married to Miss Fannie McConnel, of Chicago.

With the publication of his book in 1951 by Random House, Mr. Ellison has been called upon to make appearances on radio and television programs and to comment on many subjects of national interest for the press.

Tuskegee Alumni Hold Founders Day Program

Houston's Tuskegee Institute Alumni observed Founders Day Sunday afternoon at Pilgrim Congregational church. William H. Bell, Texas Southern university registrar spoke briefly on "The Tuskegee Spirit." He was introduced by J. R. Alexander.

A feature of the event was recorded greetings from Tuskegee Institute. Enos Drew a baritone music student at TSU, offered "Bless This House," by May H. Brahe. Miss Maude Adair was also a soloist.

The organ prelude and postlude was by Mrs. Gloria O'Neal Duke. Invocation was given by Reverend John D. Moore, pastor of the church. A. L. Livingston, president of the Houston chapter of the Tuskegee club, gave the concluding remarks. Mass singing of the Tuskegee Alma Mater was rendered at the close of the program.

Officers installed were A. L. Livingston, president; Dr. F. B. McWilliams, first vice; C. F. Smith; second vice; George Haines, third vice; O.L. Bell, treasurer; Mrs. Imelda C. Mabrie, secretary and Miss T. M. Green.

Others were: M. W. Plummer, parliamentarian; J. R. Alexander, Sgt.-at-Arms; Mrs. G. A. McWilliams, chairman, program committee; Mrs. Eudora Richards, chairman, courtesy committee; George Bell, chairman, goodwill committee; Mrs. Mable Lott, chairman membership committee; Mrs. Ruth Thomas, financial secretary

Tuskegee's 1903 Class Regroups

TUSKEGEE, INSTITUTE, Ala. The fiftieth anniversary of the Tuskegee Institute Class of 1903 will be held at the institute Saturday, Oct. 17, at the time of the Homecoming football game with Knoxville College.

Esau Is Speaker At Food Session

Jesse W. Esau was the featured speaker at the annual culinary dinner held in Newnan, Ga., on May 7, at the Warner High School. This dinner was sponsored by the Sarah Fisher Brown Chapter of the National Culinary Association.

Mr. Esau's subject was, "Sanitation in Food Preparation and Service." Mr. Esau is president of the Booker T. Washington Chapter of the Culinary Association of Tuskegee Institute.

Members of the Sarah Fisher Brown Chapter are Mrs. Pauline Burns, Mrs. Stella Mathis, Mrs. Mae Lue Matthis, Mrs. Ida Strickland, Mrs. Pallis Braswell, Mrs. Beuna Woods, Mrs. Minnie Elliott, Mrs. Mattie Pearl, Mrs. Rena Render, Mrs. Annie Hines, Mrs. Kate Lawson, Bob Lawson, Miss Flossie Burns, Nurse Ophelia Robinson, Mrs. Josie Dawson, Mrs. Berthula Gaston. Mrs. Lorena White, Miss Ophelia Lockett, Mrs. Ethel Pharm, Mrs. Zula O'Neal, Miss Opal Dixon, Miss Annie T. Hill, Jimmie T. Hardy, Mrs. Lizzie Huggins and Mrs. Florence M. Hayes. Mrs. Verona Rosser is the president.

Betrothal

CLAXTON, Ala. — Mr. and Mrs. B. C. Britt announces the engagement of their daughter, Anlaurie, to John W. Levy, of Savannah, Ga.

The bride-elect is a graduate of Alabama A. and M. College, Normal, Ala., and is a candidate for a master's degree from the School of Home Economics at Tuskegee Institute in August.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. E. Levy Walker of Savannah, a graduate of Savannah State College, and is employed as band director at the Boxley Training School, Boxley, Ga. No date has been set for the wedding.

MISS ANLAURIE BRITT

Noted Novelist, Ralph Ellison, Back On Campus After Lengthy Absence

Ralph Ellison, author of "Invisible Man", returned to Tuskegee Institute Monday after an absence of nearly 17 years.

In this time, he has developed into one of the nation's foremost novelists. For his book, "Invisible Man," he received the 1952 National Book Award's citation and gold plaque. The award was for the outstanding novel of the year.

Mr. Ellison came to Tuskegee Institute in 1933 and enrolled in the School of Music, since discontinued, from the Douglas High School, in Oklahoma City. After spending three years at Tuskegee Institute trying to "find himself" as he expresses it, he left for New York City in the Summer of 1936 with plans for earning money to return to school in the Fall.

At Tuskegee, Ellison developed an insatiable interest in the arts and found many friends among the faculty who offered him help and encouragement. His major interests, besides music, were in sculpturing and creative writing. During his first Summer in New York, he studied sculpturing under Barthe.

In 1937, still in search of the one thing to which he hoped to devote his major efforts, he studied composition under W. Reigger. He had, in the meantime, formed acquaintance with the famous poet, Langston Hughes, who in turn introduced him to Richard Wright, author of "Native Son" and other widely acclaimed works of fiction.

He was with the Writers Project in 1938, and for the next two years he went to sea with the Merchant Marine. In 1945, the last year of its operation, Mr. Ellison received a Rosenwald Scholarship to further his work in composition.

The next year, following a brief return to the Merchant Marine, he began his novel, "Invisible Man." That same year, he was married to Miss Fannie McConnel, of Chicago.

With the publication of his book in 1951 by Random House, Mr. Ellison has been called upon to make appearances on radio and television programs and to comment on many subjects of national interest for the press.

He modestly credits all that he has been able to accomplish to his experiences at Tuskegee Institute. He got the depth and the breadth for furthering his own learning by those early contacts at Tuskegee Institute. He now lectures in some of the nation's most renowned institutions.

Wednesday morning at the 10:20 a. m. Summer School assembly in Logan Hall, he will be guest speaker.

ANN REBA ELLIOTT

TO ATTEND JULLIARD—Miss Ann Reba Elliott, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Elliott left Tuesday, Sept. 22nd for New York City where she will enter the Juilliard School of Music. Ann is a graduate of Monroe High School and this year received her Bachelor of Science Degree in Physical Education from Tuskegee Institute in Alabama. Miss Elliott is the recipient of a Rockefeller Foundation Scholarship Award in Music.—Albany, Ga.—(SNS).

14n 1953

MR. AND MRS. ROBIN BEECHER PRINCE

... to live in Miami

Kennedy-Prince Nuptials Are Performed in Tuskegee Institute

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, Ala.—In an impressive double-ring ceremony at the Greenwood Baptist Church, Miss Millicent Kennedy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Warner Kennedy of Tuskegee Institute, exchanged marriage vows with Robin Beecher Prince of Miami, Fla. The Rev. H. H. Newman officiated.

Miss Maxine Williams lighted the candles. Mrs. Emma Lou Roberts and Miss Jewette Reynolds furnished the music for the occasion. They were accompanied at the organ by Mrs. Beatrice Ashley.

The bride's attendants, Mrs. Dora Lee Hargrove, her sister from Langston, Okla., and Mrs. Norman Adamson Moreland from Chicago, were attired in similarly patterned full-length gowns of tulle over taffeta in complementing green and orchid.

EXQUISITE BRIDE

The bride, who entered on the arm of her father, chose a floor-length gown of lace over ivory bridal satin with a fitted bodice of lace with a yoke of chiffon outlined in seed pearls. Tight-fitted lace sleeves contributed to the medieval effect of the gown, which was further enhanced by gathered paniers of satin over a bouffant lace skirt and a full star of satin covered with lace. The fingertip veil of nylon illusion, with a delicately scalloped edge of chipped Chantilly lace, was attached to a shimmering halo of Chantilly lace and seed pearls. The bride carried an airy spray of white roses highlighted with pink buds and white chiffon leaves.

Oliver G. Prince, brother of the groom, Atlanta, Ga., served as best man. Ushers were Moses Beasley, James Bohannon, from Atlanta; Warner Kennedy Jr., Washington, D. C., brother of the bride, and Dr. Louis F. Cason.

A reception was held immediately after the ceremony at the Kennedy residence. Mrs. Alicia Ammons was in charge. Aides were Mrs. Gussie Lavender, Mrs. I. H. Morrow, Mmes. D. O. Williams, Victor Turner, Edward Ramsey, George Howell, W. W. Stokes, George Crawford, Anette Cochrane, Miss Constance Matthews, Mrs. Anne Roberts Wimms, Miss Dorothy Lewis, Miss Eugenia Williams, Mmes. Evadne Fears, Corrie P. Williams, I. K. Campfield, M. O. Martin, Rosa Harris, Bertelle Higgins and Miss Jean Harris.

Miss Lois Williams furnished incidental music for the reception.

Out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. Waldo Kennedy, Muskogee, Okla.; Theron Hooks, Tatums, Okla.; S. E. Winston, Taft, Okla., grandfather of the bride; Miss Davetta Winston, Eufaula, Okla., and Miss Joy Hargrove, Langston, Okla.

For her wedding trip to New York, the bride chose a pencil-striped suit with black patent accessories.

After Sept. 1, Mr. and Mrs. Prince will be at home in Miami, Fla.

Bertha Labranch Johnson Is Tuskegee Women's Day Speaker

TUSKEGEE INST., Ala.—A Women's Day program was observed at Butler Chapel AME Zion Church, Sunday, Sept. 27.

Mrs. Bertha Labranch Johnson, native of Mississippian, a graduate of Tuskegee Institute class of 1902, was invited to be the guest speaker.

It was at Tuskegee during her student days that Mrs. Johnson decided to be a missionary among her people. Her husband is a graduate of Alcorn College of the class of 1902. Both of them went to Prentiss, Miss., in 1907, and founded the Prentiss Normal and Industrial Institute.

ESTABLISHED SCHOOLS

They were interested in establishing a school for needy boys and girls. They began to give opportunities to those who wanted to work their way through high school. Since that time this institution has grown into a junior college with an overall student enrollment of 800. Mr. and Mrs. Johnson also established a vocational school in Laurel, Miss. She served the Mississippi State Federation of Colored Women's Clubs as its president for six years. It was during her tenure of office that the delinquent home for Negro youth was provided for by the State Legislature.

In 1941 she was awarded the Master of Science degree by her alma mater, Tuskegee. It was the first time that Tuskegee had ever awarded this honor to a woman. She is the mother of three children: Alcee LaBranch Johnson, Onette Waldo Johnson and Eva Clarke Johnson Dawson.

Alcee is director of instruction at the Prentiss Institute; Onette is a practicing attorney in Chicago, and Eva is a music teacher in the city schools of Houston, Tex.

Liberian Zeta Is Active On Campus

MISS RACHEL GITTENS

TUSKEGEE, Ala.

Miss Rachel Gittens of Monrovia, Liberia, a sophomore in the School of Home Economics at Tuskegee Institute, is a charter member of the Liberian Chapter of Zeta Phi Beta Sorority.

An honor student at Tuskegee Miss Gittens is a popular figure on the campus and active in student affairs. The wife of the Liberian President is an honorary member of the sorority.

Lt. Moore To Take Training Course

Special To The Herald

SELMA, Ala.—First Lt. James Moore, of Tuskegee, surface transportation officer at Craig AF Base here, has been assigned to attend a 10-weeks squadron officers course at Maxwell AF Base, Montgomery, beginning Thursday.

Lt Moore, a graduate of Tuskegee Institute in 1951, is a former employe of the Tuskegee Veterans Hospital where he worked in the telecommunications section.

His wife is currently employed in the nursing department of the VA Hospital.

MRS. THOMASENE WILLINGHAM

TO SAIL FOR FRANCE—Mrs. Thomasene Willingham (above), talented daughter of Prof. and Mrs. T. R. German, of Bessemer, Ala., is scheduled to leave for Brooklyn, New York, Thursday, December 3, from where she will sail for Chaumont, France, to join her husband, Lieutenant Larry Willingham, who is serving in the United States Air Force there.

Lt. Willingham is a native of Atlanta, Georgia. They both received the Bachelor of Science degree from Tuskegee Institute. Her father is principal of the Twenty-second Street School and her mother is an instructor at Dunbar High School.

SEPARATED BY DEATH: Inseparable in their companionship and in their devotion to the institution for which they labored to build, Prof. and Mrs. J. E. Johnson, founders of Prentiss Institute at Prentiss, Mississippi. Prof. Johnson died last Thursday in a Hattiesburg, Miss. Hospital. He was buried Monday on the grounds of the Institute.

Miss Magee Given Red Cross Position

Miss Ida Mae Magee, of Magnolia, Miss., a graduate of Tuskegee Institute, reported to Washington on Oct. 5 for two weeks orientation prior to sailing for the Far East and an overseas assignment in the American Red Cross services to the armed forces program.

Miss Magee will seve as a club worker in that phase of the program designed to offer supplemental recreation activities to able-bodied servicemen overseas.

Prior to entering Red Cross service she was employed to two years as a physical education instructor at Palmer Memorial Institute, Sedalia, N. C.

She attended Tuskegee Institute, Tuskegee, Ala., where she received the B. S. degree in physical education in 1949.

Miss Abbott Gets NYU Scholarship From Polio Unit

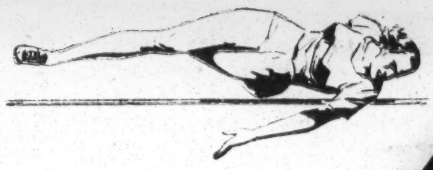
Miss Jessie Ellen Abbott, of Tuskegee Institute, has been awarded a scholarship in physical therapy under the nation-wide professional training program sponsored by the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, it was announced by Mrs. Bettye Steele Turner, chairman of the Macon County Chapter of the March of Dimes organization.

Miss Abbott will study at New York University, New York City, an institution approved for this type of training by the Council on Medical Education and Hospitals of the American Medical Association.

In announcing the award, Mrs. Turner stated that Miss Abbott is one of 19 residents of Alabama to receive a scholarship since the National Foundation began its physical therapy program in 1942 to combat a critical shortage of trained therapsits. The awards are made upon recommendation of a professional committee.

The National Foundation has awarded 1,925 scholarships in this field to date. It is estimated that there is an immediate need for 2,500 physical therapists to meet the increased demand for their professional services, and that at least 15,000 additional therapists will be needed within the next 10 years. Since 1942 more than $2,600,000 in March of Dimes funds has been allocated to support the physical therapy scholarship and teaching fellowship program.

Although physical therapists trained under the National Foundation program are not required to confine their work to the treatment of infantile paralysis, many of them are employed in that field. Others are available for polio epidemic emergencies.



DRINK Coca-Cola REG. U.S. PAT. OFF.

Alice Coachman

Olympic high-jump champion, pauses to refresh with ice-cold Coca-Cola.

It looks like fun to the galleries . . . but being an Olympic champion means days and weeks and years of hard work. A champion knows that a big secret of success is the secret of relaxing from time to time . . . taking the pressure off.

The same secret applies to your job, whatever you may do. You work better when you pause occasionally to relax and refresh. That's why you'll find people everywhere enjoying frosty bottles of delicious Coca-Cola . . . on the job, or in their homes. Visit a friendly red cooler where you work—get Coke by the case or carton for your home.

Follow the Champions. Have a Coke . . . and Work Refreshed

BOTTLED UNDER AUTHORITY OF THE COCA-COLA COMPANY BY

THE ATLANTA COCA-COLA BOTTLING COMPANY

"Coke" is a registered trade-mark.

©1953, THE COCA-COLA COMPANY

Former 'Skegee Ace Gets Post

Wkly. 3-14-53

MONTGOMERY, Ala. — Mrs. William M. Lewis, who achieved international fame as a track star at Tuskegee where she was Miss Evelyn Lawler, recently received an appointment as instructor of physical education at Alabama State College here.

A graduate of Tuskegee, Mrs. Lewis also attended Murray College in Jacksonville, Ill.

TO TRINIDAD.—Smilingly happily in the above picture is Miss Queen E. Shottes, acting head of the home economics department at Lincoln university, Jefferson City. And well she might, for the brilliant educator is the proud recipient of a Fulbright fellowship to introduce a course in home economics in the Government Teacher Training college, Port of Spain, Trinidad, British West Indies. Lincoln has granted Miss Shottes, a Tuskegee Institute graduate, a two-year leave of absence for her work in Trinidad.—ANP Photo.

Baby Boy Born To Olympic Star

MRS. ALICE COACHMAN DAVIS
Olympic high jump champion of 1948, Miss Alice Coachman who now is the Mrs. N. F. Davis gave birth to a fine baby boy Tuesday, January 29, 1953 at the Tuskegee Institute Hospital. Albany's internationally famous track star and the only mem ber of the American Women's team to win a metal in the 1948 Olympic Meet in London, England, by setting a world's record in the high jump beamed brightly as she presented her husband with a son. The baby boy has been named Richard. Mr. and Mrs. Davis reside at Tuskegee Institute where Mr. Davis is a member of the faculty at this college.

Georgia Instructor In Agriculture Dies At 43

FORT VALLEY, Ga. — Samuel F. Fugate, 43, head itinerant teacher for Negro schools with the Georgia State Department of Education, died March 20 at Macon Hospital, Macon, Ga., after a brief illness.

Although Mr. Fugate died comparatively young, he had had a varied and actvie career in the field of education since his graduation from college in 1934.

HE RECEIVED the B. S. degree in agriculture from Tuskegee Institute and the M. S. degree in agriculture from Cornell University. Later he held the following positions: manager, Self-Help Cooperative, manager and teacher in poultry production at Tuskegee; teacher of vocational agriculture at Swainsboro High and Indusrial School, Swainsboro, Ga.; instructor in farm mechanics at Fort Valley State College, and head itinerant trainer.

Born in Russellville, Ky., Mr. Fugate was a member of several professional and honorary societies, including the American Vocational Association, Georgia Vocational Association, Georgia State Council of State Workers and the Omega Psi Phi Fraternity, Inc.

He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Iola Belle Morse Fugate of Fitzgerald, Ga.; and daughter, Miss Alberta Fugate, who is attending high school in Beaufort, S. C.

SAMUEL P. FUGATE

D. F. Martinez Asked To Write Negro History

D. F. Martinez, former Director of Public Schools for Negro Children in Missouri has been invited by white writer and historian, William T. Morgan to assist him on points in his plans to write an important book of Negro achievements against the odds. Mr. Morgan, who lives in Warrior, Ala., plans to give a full treatise on the Negro in Africa, his coming to the Western Hemisphere as he terms it, From This—Through This—To This.

This book will have quotes from Dr. Booker T. Washington, founder of Tuskegee Institute, where Doctor Martinez graduated in the class of 1922 on the Honor Roll. Data will also be extracted from the writings of Dr. Nehemiah Adams of Boston, Mass. discussion of slavery written in the year 1854. The book is to be written with truism, without the slightest reference in bitterness or insults, but with greatest kindness in the actual historical setting of the Negro his achievements to envelope his activities in every phase of modern civilization.

Doctor Martinez is at present, President of Johnson Memorial Institute A-Junior College of Batesville, Miss., under the auspices of the Board of Christian Education, A. M. E. Zion Church.

Miss Roberts Wed To William Wiley

Miss Melva Roberts, daughter of Mrs. Irma Roberts, and Mr William Wiley, Jr., son of Mr and Mrs. William Wiley, Sr., of Tuskegee Institute, were united in marriage by the Rev. S. L. Lavixsount at St. Mark's Congregational Church in Roxbury, Mass., on Sept. 20.

The bride, was given in marriage by her brother, Chester D. Roberts, wore a ballerina length gown of white lace and net with a fitted bodice of satin, and carried a white prayer book with satin streamers and a white orchid.

The matron of honor, who was the bride's sister, Mrs. Raymond Jones, of Washington, D. C., was dressed in ballerina length pale blue taffetas.

The best man was John Burrell, of Brookline, Mass.

Immediately after the ceremony the wedding reception was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Kensill, aunt and uncle of the bride. The decorations were in white with white roses forming the centerpiece of the bride's table.

The bride is a graduate of Boston Clerical School and Bardetta College where she majored in accounting. At present she is employed as an accountant for the John Hancock Mutual Life Insurance Company of Boston.

The groom is a graduate of Tuskegee Institute and holds both bachelor's and master's degrees from the Boston Conservatory of Music.

Mrs. William Wiley, Sr., attended the wedding.

Miss Dubose Goes To Chicago Post

Special To The Herald

CHICAGO—Miss Lillian DuBose, graduate of Tuskegee Institute arrived at Michael Reese Hospital here this week to begin her internship at the Michael Reese School of Dietetics. Miss DuBose received her bachelor of science degree from Tuskegee Institute before enrolling in the one-year post-graduate course in dietetics.

The Michael Reese Hospital School of Dietetics is one of the oldest and best known in the nation. As a graduate of this school, Lillian will be eligible for membership in the American Dietetic Association, and a variety of interesting and rewarding positions throughout the country, including employment as a dietitian in a hospital, school, restaurant, research laboratory, or government service or industry.

All Chicagoland Pays Tribute To . . .

Gary's Greatest Home Builder, Andrew Means

Defender
Chicago, Ill.
Sat. 5-2-53
P9

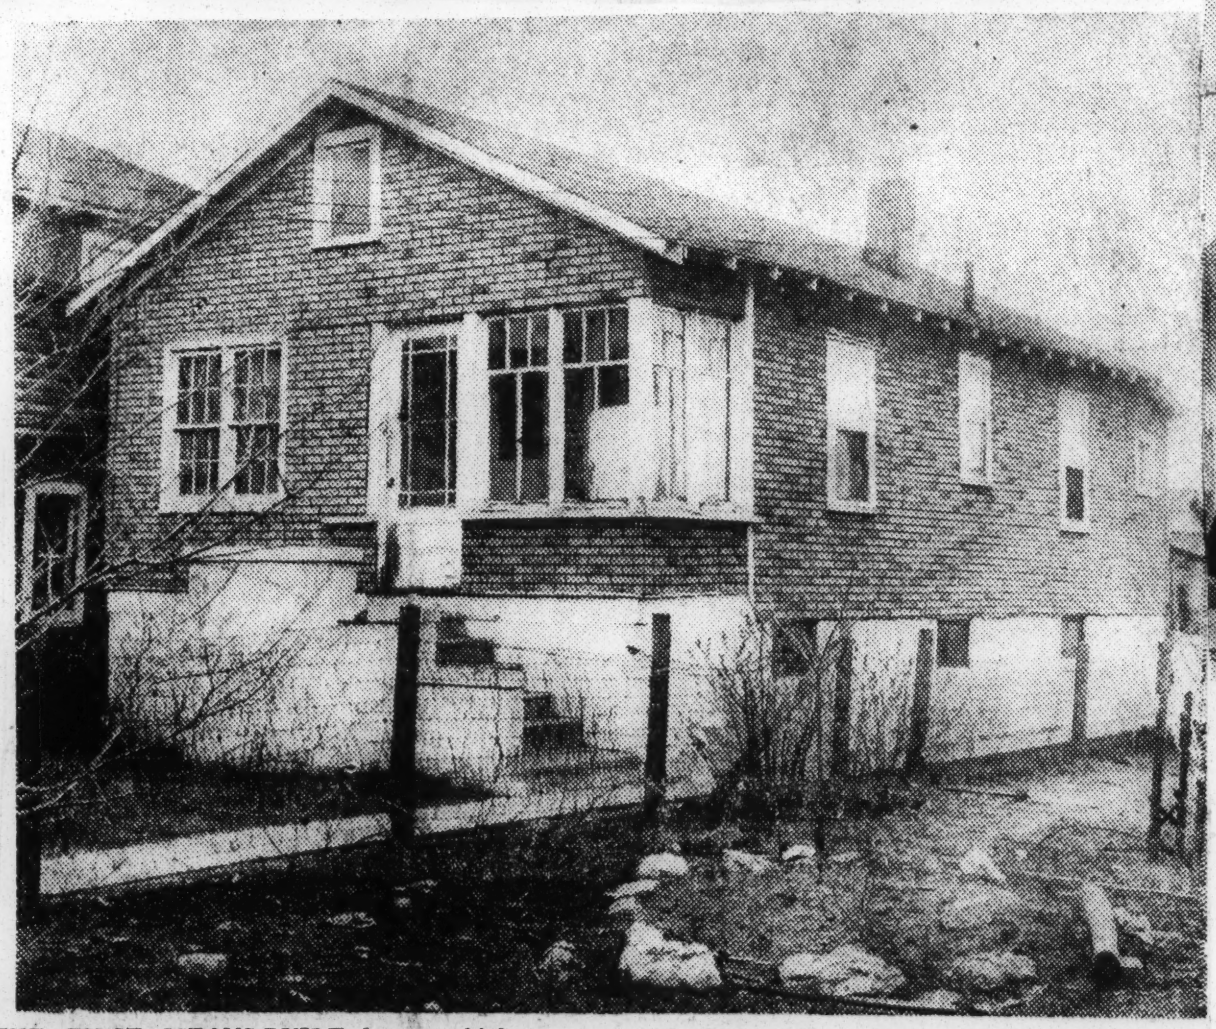
By J. W. SAUNDERS

GARY, Ind.—The all-day celebration held last week here marking the official opening of the Andrew Means Park Manor and the reception held in the new home of the Rev. Robert E. Penn on West 19th pl., marked a new civic era in this steel city where homeowning now is virtually on a rampage.

Thousands of residents of Greater Chicago motored here and inspected the new community bounded by 19th, 21st aves., Madison and Harrison sts., where contractor, Andrew A. Means and his construction company have just finished 200 modern homes.

The presence of these Chicagoland citizens as well as these beautiful, modern homes were both outstanding tributes to the courage, the sagacity and skill of Steel City's pioneer home builder.

Tribute was also paid to the Rev. Mr. Penn and family, formerly of Kansas City, Kan., now situated comfortably in the new parsonage of Gary's First Baptist church, which is located in the new community. The minister and his family enjoy the high esteem of the church members and the entire community as well.



THE FIRST MEANS-BUILT home which went up in Gary, Indiana, in 1923 when the firm was in its infancy.

MR. AND MRS. ANDREW MEANS

MEANS PART OF GARY SAGA

It was vividly recalled on Andrew Means Day that the rise of one of the world's greatest steel centers is closely linked with the life work of the famous home builder and both together constitute a story of American industry and housing without parallel in Indiana, if not in the nation.

Old-time Garyites say that Judge Elbert Gary founded the city in 1906 and eventually hired thousands of Negroes in his mills, but it was Andrew A. Means and his associates who built modern homes for the workers and enabled them to enjoy some of the comforts of life.

Means is ably assisted in his work by an efficient and fast moving staff that includes Geter Means, his brother, as secretary-treasurer and superintendent of construction; Mrs. Katie Means, his wife, assistant secretary and treasurer; Mannon Powers, vice president and general foreman; Walter McDonald, general sales and property manager, and Sylvia McDonald, office manager. Means Developers offices are located at 2247 Broadway, in Gary.

FIRST HOME IN 1923

Andrew A. Means, the number one man in Gary housing, built his first home in Gary in March, 1923. The home, a stout, two-story structure located at 727 W. 25th ave., is still standing today though the firm has since housed more than 1,000 families throughout the Gary district.

The sparkling new Park Manor development, boasting 200 modern units of 5-6-7 rooms, is strategically situated in the heart of Gary's residential district just 10 minutes from the city's downtown business center. In addition, its through-street location connects it with bus services to all points in the Greater Chicago Area.

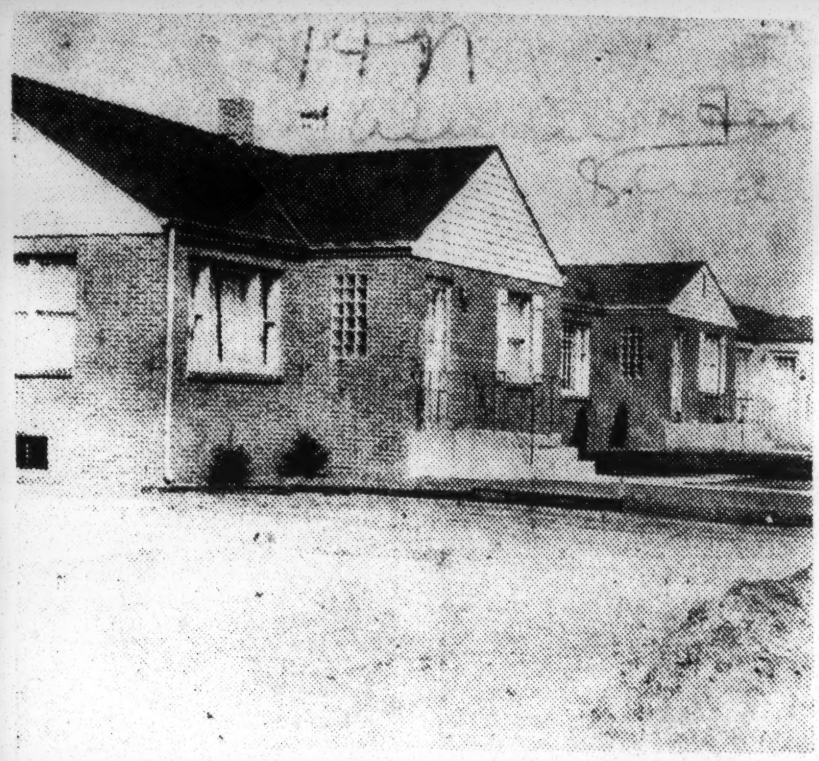
Homes in Park Manor range from $12,000—the price including installation of streets, sidewalks, sewers and all utilities.

Other housing projects built by Means Developers include the F. D. Patterson Village; Booker T. Washington Terrace; Means' Model Community; Gary Land Company's First Sub-Division and a school site addition.

TUSKEGEE GRADUATE

A graduate of Tuskegee Institute, Andrew A. Means is active in the business, civic and religious affairs of the Steel City. Chairman of the Board of Trustees, First Baptist church, he is a member of the Gary Chamber of Commerce; the U. S. Chamber of Commerce and the National Association of Real Estate Boards.

On April 26-30, for the second straight year, Means represented the Gary Chamber of Commerce at the annual meeting of the United States Chamber of Commerce in Washington, D. C.



VIEW OF THE MODERN homes built by the Means firm, which has turned vacant lots into a thriving community filled with happy and industrious people.

COMMUNITY NURSERY SCHOOL GETS NEW SUPERVISOR

Florida News

Miss Jeffie B. Douglass, of Hillsboro, Mississippi, arrived in the city Sunday to accept the post as supervisor of the Community Nursery School, 4th St. adjunct of the Negro Welfare Board. She fills a vacancy created by the resignation last July of Miss Ruth Taylor.

West Palm Beach, Fla.

Miss Douglass, a graduate of Tuskegee Institute, came here from Detroit, Michigan, where she served as assistant dietician at Grace Hospital. Prior to that time she spent one year in Tuskegee Nursery Ward of John A. Andrews Hospital where she gained experience in child care and development, nursery school education, child psychology and health and home nursing. Such a background aptly fits her to fill the position at the Community Nursery School.

Jan. 9-11-53

Miss Douglass' religious affiliation was with the Pilgrim Baptist Church in Hillsboro and she was actively engaged in YWCA work. Presently she is residing at the home of Mrs. Marie Gregory, 1030 Sapodilla Avenue.

1030 N. Sapodilla Ave. West Palm Beach, Fla.

Florida News
West Palm Beach, Fla.
Jan. 9-11-53
P. 1

MISS JEFFIE B. DOUGLASS

Bishop Pope Unites Tuskegee Lighthouse and Grad And Son

FAYETTEVILLE, N. C. — Miss Gertrude Knowles, Miami, Fla., "53 graduate of Tuskegee Institute, became the bride of Pfc Americus Hudson Pope in a solemn ceremony, conducted by the father of the groom, Bishop Daniel Carlton Pope, in the parsonage of Evans Metropolitan Church here Sunday, 4 P. M.

P. 3 Columbia S. C. Jan. 9-11-53

The bride, dressed in a gown made of white imported lace over white satin, came into the living room on the arm of Rev. C. R. Coleman, cousin of the groom and present pastor of the church. She wore a finger tip veil and carried a white orchid. Pfc Jerome Wagner, Ft. Bragg, served as the best man. She was attended by Mrs. Ethel Coleman, wife of Rev. C. R. Coleman

The bride was born in Miami, Fla,. the daughter of George and the late Mrs. Emma Knowles. She attended Carver High School and received her degree in Industrial Education at Tuskegee, last May. The groom was born in Harrisburg, Pa., the son of Rev. (new Bishop) D. C. Pope and the late Mrs. Louise Hudson Pope. He was married in the house where his late mother spent her last days.

Bishop Pope spoke the vows in a fatherly manner and yet with a dignity that befits his high office. The ceremony ended with the couple receiving God's benediction from the prelate with his hand upon the ead of the bride.

The couple will spend their honeymoon at the home of the bride. The groom is slated for overseas duty and will report for same at the end of the honeymoon. He was attended to 'L' Company, 504, AIR, Fort Bragg.

Robert Lee New Manager At Taft Hosp.

Jackson, Okla. Negro P. 1 Thurs. 10-8-53

Announcement has been made of Robert E. Lee to head the State Institutions at Taft, to succeed Edward D. Irons who resigned recently. Mr. Lee is a native Oklahoman. He attended high school and college at Tuskegee Institute majoring in vocational agriculture. He was employed at the Institutions from 1936 to 1940 as manager of farms, resigning the post to accept a position with the Farm Security Administration, a government agency.

Mr. Lee went into the army in 1944 and served until 1946 during that time he was stationed at Puebelo, and Denver, Colarado He is married to the former Miss Lilla Washington, niece of the late Booker T. Washington. He is a member of the Episcopal church Trinity Masonic Lodge No. 84, Alpha Phi Alpha Fraternity, and the Les Trieze Social Club.

Mr. Lee is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Lee of the Taft Community, and has two brothers and three sisters.

CLASS RE-UNIONS
1903 - 50th ANNIVERSARY
1913 - 40th ANNIVERSARY

Senior Alumni To Be Honored At Gala Tuskegee Homecoming

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, Ala., Oct. 15—Tuskegee Institute rolls out its welcome mat to returning alumni Saturday in the traditional homecoming ceremony.

Honored guests will be the senior alumni — the fifty-year and forty-year classes.

The day begins with homecoming parade beginning at the Booker T. Washington Monument at 10:15 a.m.

The Knoxville College Bulldogs from Knoxville, Tenn. will oppose the Golden Tigers in the 1:30 p.m. football game.

The entire student activities groups including the band, majorettes, young women's marching [illegible] and the infantry and air force honor guard squads will be on hand for pre-game and half-time ceremonies.

At 7 p.m., a banquet honoring members of the classes of 1903 and 1913 will be held in the Pine Room of Dorothy Hall. At this ceremony the members of the fifty-year class will be presented Golden Certificates by President L. H. Foster.

The homecoming dance will be held in Logan Hall, beginning at 8 p.m.

The alumni executive committee meeting will be held at 9 a.m. Friday in the Executive Council Room, and the annual meeting of the General Alumni Association will be held in the Peabody Room of Dorothy Hall, beginning at 1:30 p.m.

The Cathedral Chimes in the Chapel will play a special program beginning at 8:50 a.m. Sunday. The regular Sunday morning services will be observed in the Institute Chapel.

Sunday at 6:30 p.m., the classes of 1903 and 1913 will be presented in the Institute Chapel by J. Henry Smith, executive secretary general, Alumni Association. Attorney-at-Law E. A. A. Campbell, Kingston, Jamaica, British West Indies, of the Class of 1913 will deliver the alumni address. Dr. L. H. Foster will respond.

An after-vesper service for the alumni will be held in White Hall.

Campbell Is Guest Speaker At Tuskegee 40-Year Reunion

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, Ala. —Representing his class at their 40-year reunion in the Institute Chapel Sunday night, E. E. A. Campbell, prominent Jamaican attorney, voiced the time tested principles of Booker T. Washington, Tuskegee's illustrious founder.

He stated that while Tuskegee should give every scope and encouragement for higher intellectual culture. whatever else it may do, training in the work of the hand should be its paramount aim. He said, "In so doing, it will supply the imperative need of the masses of the race and lay a solid foundation for its prosperity and security."

Attorney Campbell said that we, like Dr. Washington, have come to realize that industrial education is not imcompatible with higher education. He traced the early development of the institution and told of the outstanding accomplishments of his class.

Back for the homecoming celebration were 23 members of the Class of 1913. At the conclusion of the address the class presented a substantial sum to President L. H. Foster for special scholarship and development programs at the Institute. Aside from his contribution to the class gift, Thomas D. Hill of Chicago, Ill., made a personal gift of $1,000 to the school.

Members of the 1913 class who returned for the reunion were: Herman V. Blandon, Chicago, Ill.; William J. Burke, Mt. Meigs, Ala.; E. E. A. Campbell, Kingston, Jamaica, B.W.I.; George W. Clark, Tuskegee Institute; Benjamin H. Crutcher, Tuskegee Institute; Miss Elise R. Cunningham, Cleveland, Ohio; Edgar H. Davis, Memphis, Tenn.; Mrs. Edna Chappell Harris, Chicago, Ill.; Thomas D. Hill, Chicago, Ill.; Mrs. Irene Richburg Jones, Los Angeles, Calif.; Mrs. John C. Kahn, Pine Bluff, Ark.; Mrs. Junius A. Kitchens, Opelika, Ala.; Mrs. Lillia Motley Wilson, Tuskegee Institute.

Major J. J. A. Paddyfote, Florida A. and M. University, Tallahassee, Fla.; Mrs. Annie Gordon Perry, Tallahassee, Fla.; Thomas C. Provost, Birmingham, Ala.; William H. Richardson, Mobile, Ala.; Ralph B. Stewart Sr., Jacksonville, Fla.; Miss Ethel S. Storey, Cleveland, Ohio; Miss Pearl C. Tate, Chicago, Ill.; William Victor Terry, Chicago, Ill.; Craig Toliver, Danville, Ky.; and William Wiley, Tuskegee Institute, Ala.

At a special ceremony Saturday evening, following the 7-7 deadlock with Knoxville College on the gridiron, members of the Class of 1903 were presented Golden Certificates by the president and inducted into the "Half-Century Club." Those so honored were: Henry H. Keller, Springfield, Ohio; William L. Powell, New Orelans, La.; Mrs. Marie Chambliss Varner, Cleveland, Ohio; Rev. Ralph A. Daly, Selma, Ala.; William W. Greene, Chicago, Ill.; Mrs. Birdie Lee Jones, Florida A. and M. University, Tallahassee, Fla.; Mrs. Dorina M. Fair, Tuskegee Institute, Ala.; Mrs. Anna Breedlove Evans, Tuskegee Institute, Ala.; Stephen T. Powell, Tuskegee Institute, Ala., and Winston T. Powell, Tuskegee Institute, Ala.

The Homecoming events from start to finish were of much inspiration to the present crop of nearly 2,000 students. The traditional "Tuskegee spirit" was much in evidence.

In presenting the Class of 1913, Ralph B. Stewart Sr. of Jacksonville, Fla., told of the outstanding accomplishments of his classmates. Many of them followed the trades learned at Tuskegee, while others sought higher degrees elsewhere and entered professional pursuits.

Dr. L. H. Foster expressed appreciation for the large scale participation fo the alumni in their reunion exercises. Both the 50-year class, with ten members returning, and the 40-year class, with twenty-three members returning set records for the homecoming reunion classes.

J. Henry Smith, executive secretary, General Alumni Association, and R. S. Darby, assistant, did an exceptional job in motivating interest among the alumni.

The Hocecoming Parade this year was no-competitive, yet it was one of the best witnessed at Tuskegee. The floats entered by class groups, campus organizations and the local public schools, the activities of the bands, both from the Institute and the high school, the ROTC and AFROTC marching units, the majorettes, and others, produced a thrilling sight as they paraded through the campus and down through the town of Tuskegee.

The local Boy Scout and Girl Scout units, the Brownies, the Cubs, and the mule-drawn covered wagon of the Scouts who went West this summer to the Jamboree, were an added thrill to the thousands who lined the streets to see the parade.

Advertiser P. 6 B
Montgomery, Ala. Wed. 10-21-53

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE GRADS OF 1903. Standing (left to right) front: Mrs. Marie Chambliss Varner, Cleveland; W. W. Green, Chicago; Mrs. Charles H. Evans, Tuskegee; William L. Powell, New Orleans Mrs. Birdie Lee Jones, Tallahassee, Fla.; Ralph A. Daly, Selma; Mrs. W. W. Green, Chicago; Mrs. Dorenda M. Fair, Tuskegee Henry H. Keller, Springfield, Ohio. Each received the coveted "Golden Certificate" and was inducted into the Half Century Club. (Photo by Polk).

50th Anniversary—

Tuskegee Homecoming Meet To Include Oldest Graduates

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, Ala., June 21—The 50th Anniversary of the Tuskegee Institute Class of 1903 will be held at the Institute Saturday, Oct. 17, at the time of the Homecoming football game with Knoxville College.

R. S. Darnaby of the Alumni Office is assembling the class roll. Elaborate plans are being made for the entertainment of those persons who were handed their diplomas by Dr. Booker T. Washington 50 years ago.

Resident members of the Half Century Club will welcome the new members with appropriate ceremonies. The 50 year reunioners will be honored at a banquet and will be presented the customary engrossed citation.

The members of the Class of 1913 are scheduled to hold their 40th Anniversary reunion on the campus during Homecoming week. Contact has already been made with more than 50 members of the class, many of whom have indicated that they will return to Tuskegee for this significant occasion. A full program of activities has been arranged for the members of the Class of 1913.

The annual meeting of the General Alumni Association will be held during Homecoming Week. J. Henry Smith, the recently elected executive secretary of the General Alumni Association will present Theodore T. Greene, president of the Alumni Association, who will preside.

Dr. L. H. Foster, who assumed the duties as president of Tuskegee Institute June 1 will address the members of the Alumni Association while it is in session. For the past 11 years Dr. Foster has served as business manager of the institute. He was elevated to the presidency, succeeding Dr. F. D. Patterson, who resigned to become educational director of the Phelps-Stokes Fund in New York City.

14n 1953

ALUMNI AND FORMER STUDENTS

NORTH CENTRAL REGION, TUSKEGEE GENERAL ALUMNI

Carolyn Browning Gets Tuskegee Alumni Post

Miss Carolyn Browning, civic and club leader was elected by Tuskegee Institute alumni when she was elected Director of the North Central Region, Tuskegee General Alumni association, at the organization 13th annual September conference, held in Detroit.

Miss Browning

Sessions A were held in Veteran's Memorial building of the Motor City and the host Alumni club, R.

Conrad Vaugn, president, Several hundred delegates and friends attended and the Chicago delgation was lel by Theodore T. Green, president of the General Alumni association and former director of the Regional.

Miss Browning, for two years was president of the Chicago chapter and during her administration a number of improvements were made on the club house at 4909 So. Parkway, including construction of the Tiger Room, the labor and installation being donated by club members.

Officials elected to aid Director Browning in developing the enlarged program planned for the Regional were: Eloise Cunningham, Cleveland, Ohio, recording secretary; Minnie L. Campbell, Detroit, assistant recording secretary, Valentine White, Chicago, corresponding secretary; Thomas J. Saddler, Detroit, financial secretary; Andrew Means, Gary, Ind., treasurer, and Joseph Williams, Detroit reporter. The Regional meets next September in Cleveland.

Dr. Foster To Address B'ham Tuskegee Club

Dr. Luther H. Foster, president of Tuskegee Institute, fourth to head the school, is scheduled to address the Birmingham Tuskegee Club at 8 o'clock tonight at the 18th Street Branch YMC.

DR. L .H. FOSTER

This is one of a series of lead-up events to the eleventh annual Tuskegee versus Clark football game at Rickwood Field Friday night, October 9. The club is promoting a pew rally at the Elk's Rest Friday night, October 2.

G. W. Harrison, president of the Birmingham Tuskegee Club, has sent out an urgent appeal to all graduates and former students of Tuskegee to attend tonight's meeting at a "Meet the President Fellowship Rally." He is also pushing the advance ticket sales. Tickets are on sale at many spots-downtown Birmingham, Fairfield and Bessemer.

Dr. Foster is scheduled to be formally inaugurated as fourth president of Tuskegee Institute, on Sunday, November 1. The inaugural ceremony will climax a three-day program beginning October 1 with the fall meeting of the board of trustees. A conference on "The New South and Higher Education" is scheduled for October 31.

Who Will Be "Miss Birmingham Tuskegee"?

WILL REIGN SUPREME AT FALL CLASSIC—What's the judges to decide, but one of the four charming young ladies (above) will be crowned "Miss Birmingham Tuskegee" next Friday night, October 2, when the Birmingham Tuskegee Club presents its Annual Pep Dance at the Elk's Rest. The colorful affair will get underway at ten o'clock p. m. and continue until two a. m. They are standing, left to right: Mrs. Mary H. Thompson, Miss Mozell Foreman, and Miss Katie Banks. In rear center is Miss Evelyn Young. The winner will reign supreme during the spectacular Fall Classic between the Tuskegee Institute Tigers and Clark College Panthers at Rickwood Field, Friday night, October 9, at eight o'clock.

Club To Hear Speech On Carver's Life

The Chicago Tuskegee club will meet Sunday, Jan. 25, at 5:30 p.m. in the clubhouse, 4859 S. Parkway with H. O. Abbott as the featured speaker of the evening.

Abbott, a personal friend of the late Dr. George W. Carver, will talk on the life of the great scientist. Members in charge of the club's program this year are Mesdames Teresa Prince, Edith Washington, Mammie Marshall, Dora Frazier, Dr. John Campbell and Attv. Rufus Sampson.

Tuskegee Prexy Visits Chicago

CHICAGO—(ANP)— Dr. Luther H. Foster, president of Tuskegee, made his first public appearance since his recent election when he addressed the Chicago Tuskegee Club at the organization's headquarters here Sunday afternoon.

An enthusiastic audience greeted the youthful leader as he described the current program to the graduates and former students of the institution and then revealed his hopes and plans for carrying on in the tradition of his predecessors, Booker T. Washington, R. R. Moton and F. D. Patterson.

"The Tuskegee program is a program of service," said Dr. Foster who is no stranger to the school having been a faculty member for 12 years before being chosen to head the institution.

"The program of service," he continued, "is the keystone around which we will continue to build."

A number of leaders in Chicago life were present to hear and to greet Dr. Foster. Claude A. Barnett presented him to the audience. Mrs. Mary B. Kerr, president of the Chicago Tuskegee Club,

14n 1953

Alumni and Former Students
TUSKEGEE SOUTHERN REGIONAL GENERAL TUSKEGEE ALUMNI ASSOCIATION

TUSKEGEE'S SOUTHERN ALUMNI MEET — Dr. F. D. Patterson, president of Tuskegee Institute (left), is shown here with alumni dignitaries at the 11th Annual Meeting of the Tuskegee Southern Regional General Tuskegee Alumni Association. Shown with the president are (left to right) J. H. Smith, executive secretary; Henry B. Jackson, director of the association; Charles H. Ryan, president of Memphis-Tuskegee Alumni Association; and Dr. Hollis F. Price, president of LeMoyne College, scene of the meeting. — (Hooks Photo)

ALUMNI AWARDS

Mr. R.S. Darnaby of Tuskegee Institute, and Honorable E.C.B. Jones, Secretary of War, Monrovia, Liberia will receive Alumni Awards at the Commencement Exercises on May 18.

Campus Chat
May 1953
Tuskegee Institute,
Ala.

Tuskegee Herald
Thurs May 26,1953
P.1
Tuskegee,Ala.

Owens And Darnaby

JESSE OWENS, voted the greatest track athlete in the last half century, must have felt very good the night of May 30. His three Big Ten conference track records remained right where he established them 18 years ago.

A few of us remember, along with Owens and his competitors, that afternoon of May '25, 1935, in Ann Arbor, Mich., at which time the University of Michigan was playing host to the Big Ten track and field championships meet. Owens established three world records and tied one that memorable day. His 9.4 seconds for the 100-yard dash, his 20.3 seconds for the 220, and his 26 feet, 8 1-4 inches for the broad jump remain Big Ten records.

To show that he hadn't gone back any (that's the way he puts it) he played 27 holes of golf the following morning with Ralph Metcalfe, his teammate on the record breaking United States 1936 U. S. Olympic 400-meters relay team.

Neither would admit that golfing is an old man's game. "What're you talking about?" Metcalfe said, with a grin. "A long way from it," put in Jesse.

Three other Negroes' records remained intact. Dave Albritton, classmate of Owens at Ohio State university, high jumped 6 feet, 7 1-4 inches in 1938 and Herb McKenley's 46.2 to give the University of Illinois first place in the 440-yard run in 1946 and Michigan's Charley Fonville put the shot 56 feet, 5 inches in 1948.

CAPTAIN R. S. DARNABY (baptised Robert Stewart Darnaby) was honored when Tuskegee Institute bestowed upon him the coveted "Alumni Merit Award" during the recent commencement exercises at the Institution. A citation from F. D. Patterson, retiring president of Tuskegee Institute, accompanied the award.

Darnaby, a graduate of the Institute, served in World War I, "with the spirit of a good soldier." The same is true of him as a civilian.

As secretary-treasurer of the Southern Intercollegiate Athletic conference since its founding two decades ago, as public relations-publicity man for the Tuskegee Institute athletic department and as secretary of the alumni association, Captain Darnaby has done a most excellent job and has time to devote to the Boy Scouts, the Veterans of Foreign Wars and the American Legion. His concern for young people and for civic and community betterment, his loyalty to and honesty for the Institute, its athletic department and all the other things he is interested in merits the award.

In the field of journalism and sports reporting, he has carved a name for himself in the hall of fame. His work with the Montgomery Advertiser has been most valuable in increasing the cause of interracial goodwill in the Alabama capitol and is far reaching. The name of Captain Darnaby has become a legend in intercollegiate athletic circles everywhere. He is a regulat attendant at the National Football Coaches associations along with Major Cleve L. Abbott, director of athletics at Tuskegee Institute.

Hats off to Langston university's dynamic president, Lamar G. Harrison. The recently dedicated gymnasium at Langston, Okla., has been named the Felton G. Gayles gym—and rightly so. Gayles, who came from Morehouse college, is known to everyone. Friends and foes respect and praise him for his ability as a coach and a leader. His teams have been outstanding despite the fact that some Langston alumni want a championship team each season, which just "ain't to be."

Now we have a Hurt gym at Morgan State and a Gayles gym at Langston and a couple of others named after men who have done something worthwhile in athletics and who can walk in and out of the portals while they live. Must we humans wait until a man dies before they are so honored?

The old excuse "it has never been done before" is deader than a doornail.

14m 1953

Alumni and Former Students

CAPTAIN A.J. NEELY
EXECUTIVE SECRETARY
TUSKEGEE GENERAL ALUMNI ASSN.

Tuskegee Alumni Honor A. J. Neely

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, Ala. —In a deserved surprise that pleased everyone, Capt. Alvin J. Neely, who for more than four decades, served as registrar, dean of men, executive secretary of the Tuskegee General Alumni Association, was given a plaque containing a silver dollar for each of his forty-five years of service at Tuskegee Institute by a group of friends at the regular monthly meeting of the Tuskegee Institute Chapter of the Alumni Association in the Alumni Hut on the Tuskegee campus.

The special dance feature performed by Misses Barbara D. Williams, "Miss Tuskegee," Letitia Smith and Ann White, was an attractive interlude in the program which elicited praise from those present on the skill, precision and beauty displayed by the dancers.

A medley of songs with Mrs. Ruth West Adams at the piano in which everyone present joined in singing was another most enjoyable feature of the evening most pleasantly spent in a fitting tribute to a veteran worker.

Mrs. Laura Buck McCray served as chairman of the committee which arranged the program for the April meeting. Assisting Mrs. McCray in the arrangements for this delightful affair were Mrs Ruth Peterson, Miss Ruth Wright, Mrs. Harriet Webb, Mr James E Snowden and Mr. D C Webb.

Tuskegee Honors Capt. Alvin Neely With Silvet Plaque

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, Ala. — In a deserved surprise that pleased everyone, Capt. Alvin J. Neely, who for more than four decades, served as registrar, dean of men, executive secretary of the Tuskegee General Alumni Association, was given a plaque containing a silver dollar for each of his 45 years of service at Tuskegee Institute by a group of friends at the regular monthly meeting of the Tuskegee Institute Chapter of the Alumni Association Tuesday night, in the Alumni Hut on the Tuskegee campus. Capt. Neely's life was part and parcel of Tuskegee Institute from the time he entered until he retired recently.

Gaining his inspiration from Booker T. Washington, he took strong pride in the fact that service to one's school, one's community and to one's fellowman constituted the very essence of education. His long service in the registrar's office and as dean of men endeared him to countless Tuskegee graduates because of the help he gave them in getting an education.

Capt. Neely, a veteran of many public appearances, was completely surprised when Mr. Andrew W. Walker arose and began to enumerate the contributions made by the former registrar and presented him with a plaque, artistically designed by Mrs. Elaine Freeman Thomas, of the Art Department, with the silver dollars attractively arranged in numerals "45."

14n 1953 Alumni and Former Students Los Angeles, California-Tuskegee Club

Tuskegee club installs new officers; plans for formal

Installation of officers highlighted the Los Angeles Tuskegee club's first meeting of the year last Saturday at the home of A. C. Kitchens, the unanimously re-elected president.

Installations were made by Ralph Davis, president of the Inter-Collegiate Council. Officers installed for the new year were: A. A. Kitchens; Mrs. Augusta Glover, vice president; Mrs. Edna G. White, recording secretary; Demmit Griffin, corresponding secretary; Walter L. Hutcherson, business manager; Jesse Holmes, financial secretary; I. H. Pillors, treasurer; Mrs. Claire C. Williams, reporter; and John Tolson, chaplain.

Following the ceremony, reports were given on the dinner meeting given Jan. 8 at the Crystal Tearoom, honoring Dr. F. D. Patterson, president of Tuskegee Institute, and J. Henry Smith, general alumni secretary of Tuskegee. Reports on the club's donations and expenditures were also received.

Before refreshments were served by the hostess, Mrs. Kitchens, plans were discussed for the club's Spring Formal, which will be given early in April.

Members attending the meeting were Mr. and Mrs. John Tolson; Mr. and Mrs. Demmit Griffin, Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Holmes, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Williams, Mrs. Augusta Glover, Mrs. Edna G. White, Mrs. Zenola Clark, Mrs. Alice Maysanders Page, Miss Mamie Hamilton, Mrs. Addie Graves, Major Frank L. Drye, Mr. I. H. Pillors, Mrs. Ella Cole, and the Kitchenses.

Review Works Of Dr. Carver And Booker T.

DETROIT — Forty persons of both races met last Thursday at a dinner meeting to recall the lives of two great leaders, George Washington Carver and Booker T. Washington.

The dinner was held at the Veterans Memorial in downtown Detroit, with Circuit Judge Ira W. Jayne as toastmaster.

A background talk on Dr. Carver was given by Dr. Austin W. Curtis. jr., who was a close associate of Dr. Washington and shared more of his secrets about the peanut, potato and clay than any other person.

Dr. Carver's research secrets were willed to Dr. Curtis who operates a laboratory here manufacturing a line of cosmetics and liniments.

The life of Booker T. Washington was reviewed by Conrad Vaughn, president of the Detroit Tuskegee Alumni club.

14n 1953

JOHN A. ANDREW MEMORIAL HOSPITAL ALUMNI ASSOCIATION

Hospital Alumni Organized Here

14

The John A. Andrew Memorial Hospital Alumni Association was recently organized here. Members of the group are registered nurses who have completed the requirements of the department of nursing [illegible] from the School at Tuskegee Institute.

Objectives of the organization are to stimulate more harmonious relationship among graduates; to elevate the standard of the profession by increasing knowledge and broadening the scope through [illegible] of ideas, [illegible] advancements and new trends in nursing; to assist and encourage undergraduate nurses [illegible].

Officers elected were Miss Doris Pulliam, president; Mrs. Minnie Howard, vice president; Mrs. Florence Robinson, secretary; Miss Frankie Johnson, assistant secretary; Miss Betty Dixon, Treasurer; Mrs. Katherine Parker, journalist.

Herald
Tues.
3-31-53
Tuskegee,
Ala.

CLEVE ABBOTT, director of athletics at Tuskegee institute, was very happy when he received a telegram announcing the abolition of the two-platoon system in football. Abbott has opposed the system since it was installed in 1941.

COACH ABBOTT STRESSES WIDER PARTICIPATION IN ATHLETICS

ATLANTA, Georgia — (SNS) — Cleve L. Abbott, director of athletics and head football coach at Tuskegee Institute, stressed the need for wider participation in athletics, especially for girls, and pointed to possible dangers of the subsidization program in an address delivered at the 10th annual Athletic Dinner, Friday night, at the Butler Street YMCA. Hubert M. Jackson, presided.

Speaking to participants in the physical activities at the YMCA, athletes and coaches from the Atlanta high schools and colleges, the veteran Tuskegee mentor centered his address on the subject: "Life's Battle Requires Sportsmanship."

Coach Abbott commented on the values derived from good sportsmanship, called for extended participation and emphasized the need for re-evaluating our present system of handling athletes, particularly in the matter of subsidization. In this connection he made a distinction between the student-work-aid program and out-and-out subsidization.

The program opened with the invocation by Rev. J. E. Garnett and after opening remarks by Toastmaster Jackson and a solo by Miss Barbara Evans, Coach Abbott was introduced by B. T. Harvey, SIAC commissioner.

CITED FOR SPORTSMANSHIP

Three of the members of teams in the YMCA Senior Basketball League were cited for sportsmanship. A special award was presented to Willie James Norman (Radcliff Aces); and also cited were James Pace (WERD) and Herman King (Scripto). Others given recognition for good sportsmanship were James Kelly, Richard Wright, Eddie Moss, Bobby Westberry, John Alexander, Mayfield Holloway, John Showers; Walter Rogers, Charles Frye and Willie Phillips. These awards were made by Warren R. Cochrane, secretary of the YMCA.

The championship, second and third place basketball awards went to the Radio Station WERD, Scripto Inc., Summerhill, Radcliff and 'Y' Delta quints. The presentations were made by Frank L. Forbes, Luther Frazier, Walter Smith, Bill Nunnally, William T. Greene and L. C. Baker.

Marion E. Jackson, sports editor, Atlanta Daily World, was the recipient of a special award presented by L. M. Smith.

Also receiving individual awards were Charles Frye; Eddie Moss; J. J. Pharrow; Robert Hendrick, Alma Walker; Raymond Anderson; Herman Calhoun; Charles Scott, J. D. Hudson, Lonnie King; Alfred Myrick, Howard Williams and Charles Foster.

Awards were presented the captains from Carver, Howard, Turner, Washington High Schools; Clark, Morehouse and Morris Brown colleges.

These individual and team awards were presented by T. Herman Graves Raymond Wainwright, Geo. Gray, Leonidas Epps, Marshall Arnold, Alex Harvey, E. D. Laws, Claude George, Sr.; James H. Penn, Dr. W. A. Mason, Oliver Jones and Tommy Tombleson.

Claude George, Jr., presented participation awards to the following teams: East Point; Marietta Air Base; Sportsmen; Scripto, Radcliff; Delta; Hilliard Trotters, Howard Hi-Y; Carver Hi-Y: Radio Station WERD; Explorers and Lockheed.

Old Athletes Of Institute On Campus

Among the recent visitors to the Tuskegee Institute campus were several former athletes, who are rendering the same high type of service in their respective fields of activity that they gave while performing on the gridiron, on the basketball court, the baseball diamond and in track and field at the Institute.

Those recently registered at the Alumni office were Cornelius (Siki) Robinson, now a law enforcement officer at Bay City, Tex. Robinson was a guard on the 1923, 1924, 1925 and 1926 football team/ He was a 60-minute man, and had never heard of the two-platoon system.

Owen J. Duncan, rated as an outstanding end, also spent several hours on the campus. He was enroute to Mobile, his first visit to his native city in several years. Duncan is now principal of the Campbell County High School at Rustburg, Va.

Bernard J. Flood visited with friends at the Institute for two or three days. Flood was not only a baseball player (catcher) of unusual ability, but he was also an excellent musician, and was a member of the band and the orchestra. He is now in government service with headquarters in New York City.

One woman athlete to return for a visit recently with parents and friends was Mrs. Florence Wright Mitchell, a former member of the Tuskegee women's championship track and field team and the women's championship basketball team.

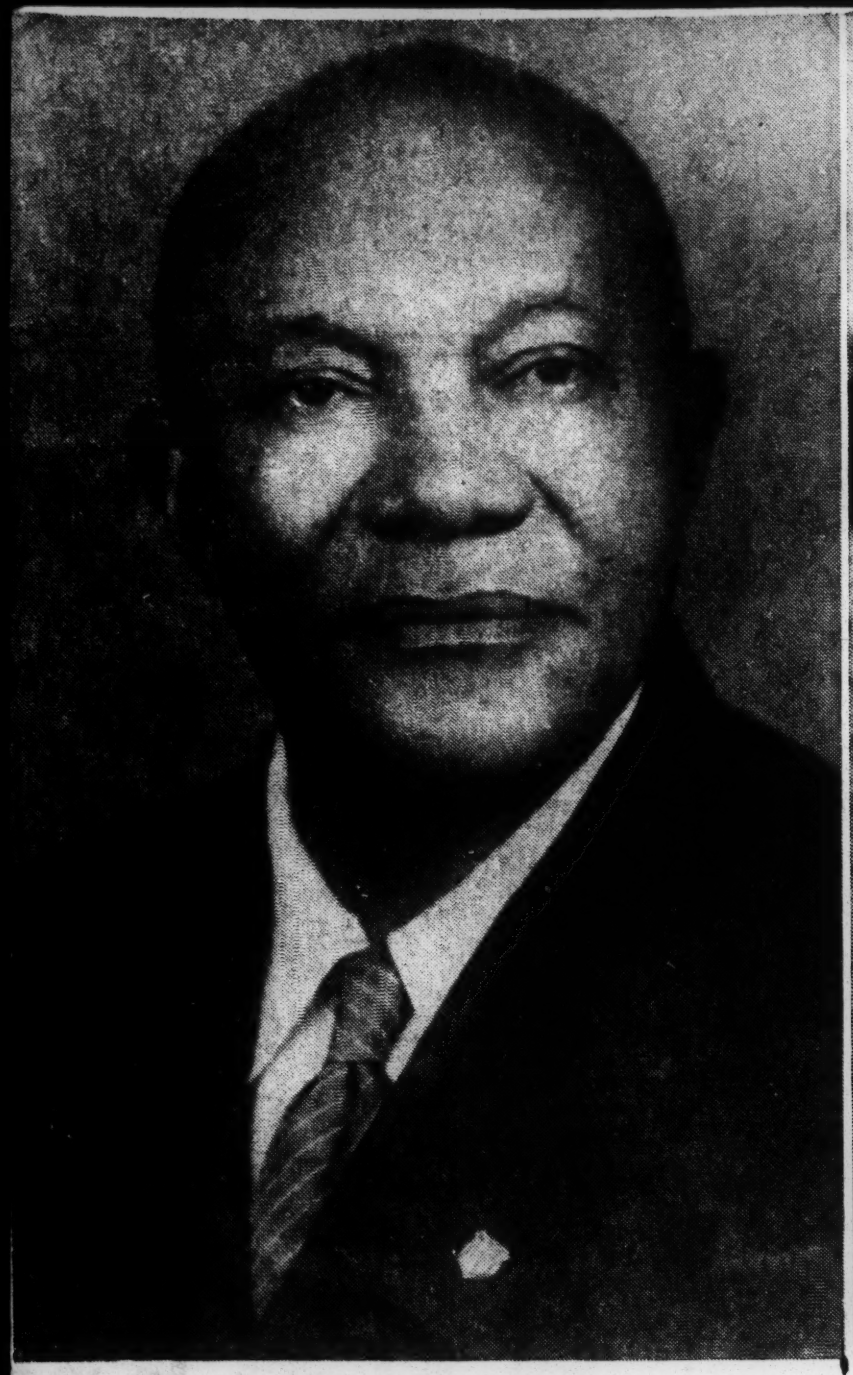
After graduating from Tuskegee Institute with a bachelor of science degree in physical education, Miss Wright attended Western Reserve University, Cleveland, Ohio, and was awarded the master of science degree in physical education. She spent the Summer at Springfield College, Springfield, Mass., pursuing studies leading to the Ph. D. degree in the field of physical education. Mrs. Mitchell is director of the department of physical education for women at Livingston College, Salisbury, N. C.

Tuskegee Team Wins First Place In National Meet

Coach Cleve L. Abbott, Mrs. Abbott and their daughter, Miss Jessie Abbott, have just returned from a successful and delightful trip to San Antonio, Texas, where they took a team of fifteen Tuskegee Institute women students to compete in the National Field and Track Meet. The Tuskegee contingent won first place in the junior meet and the second place in the senior meet.

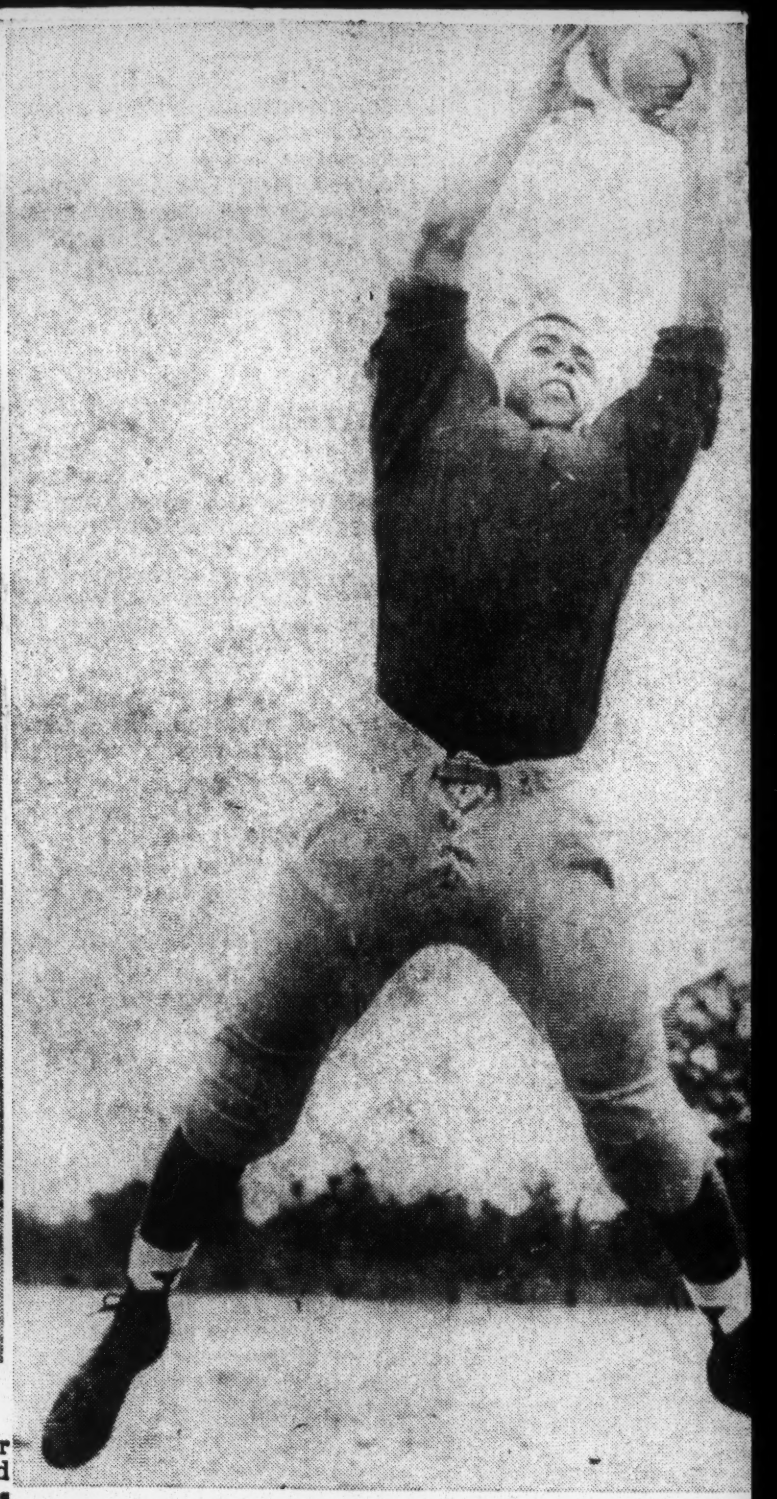
The group enjoyed air-conditioned living quarters at Fort Sam Houston, where they were assigned to the nurses' barracks. Excellent meals were available right next door in the Service Club.

On the trip down the group stopped over at Grambling College and at Prarie View College. On the way back they went by Galveston, where they had a wonderful fish dinner with Miss Christine Shannon Strode, a graduate.



COACH CLEVE ABBOTT

LEON STEWART



REYNOLD BOSCOE

TUSKEGEE INVADES MONTGOMERY TODAY—Thousands are expected to file into Montgomery's Cramton Bowl today for the annual grid classic between Alabama's two top Negro schools. Coach Cleve L. Abbott of the Tuskegee Institute, left above, brings his Tigers to clash with the favored Alabama State Hornets. Two of his main mentors will be Leon Stewart, Birmingham senior playing at guard. Stewart, center, above, weighs 180 pounds and hurls a 5-foot, 9-inch defense. Also expected to star in today's performance, is Reynold Bosco, 162-pound end from Hastings, Fla.

14n 1953

ATHLETICS

MR. CLEVE L. ABBOTT
CAPT.R.S.DARNABY

Darnaby, Abbott Of Tuskegee On Sports Boards

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, Ala—At the quadrennial meeting of the U. S. Olympic Association, held at the Willard Hotel in Washington, D.C., Cleve L. Abbott, director of Athletics at Tuskegee Institute, was named a member o the U. S. Olympic Games Committee.

R. S. Darnaby, Tuskegee Institute, has been appointed District 3 representative on the voting committee of the National Intercollegiate Athletic Association This committee will be in charge in charge of the voting and ballot boxes at the 48th Annual Convention of the National Intercollegiate Athletic Association to be held in Cincinnati, Ohio, January 4-9, 1954. The chairman of this committee is A. E. Lumley, Amherst college, Amherst, Massachusetts.

SPORTS OF THE WORLD

By Marion E. Jackson

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, Ala. — (SNS) — The wonder tales of basketball written in Tuskegee Institute's massive Logan Hall could have been lifted from the folklore of Jakob and Wilhelm Grimm, the German philologists who collected fairy tales. For every element associated with the 42 basic plots in story-telling has been utilized in the wild finishes associated with this hoop festival. Last year, it was a double-overtime game, made even more bizarre by the strange shenanigans of three Florida A&M players winning over a darkhorse Alabama State team which had led all the way, only to surrender its advantage in the last moments of play.

Look up the rag-to-riches heroes, Frank Merriwell, the Rovers boys, Tom Sawyer, Rip Van Wrinkle, Hans Christain Anderson and Patrick Henry and the hot stove boys will find you a counterpart in tournament history. Basketball is sports' 'Alice in Wonderland. At tournament time there are always wonders to behold. The Tuskegee tournament guarantees them.

The passing parade of stars, unequalled in the other branches of sports, have blazed across the boards of Logan Hall for their brief hour of stardom and applause. Looking out over the audience into the faces of hundreds of new, eager and excited spectators you catch the expectancy of the crowd. Which team will win? Who will be the star of the hour? What are the new coaching devices to be unveiled? Wheer will mantle of victory fall at the eleventh hour?

We don't have the answer. To me the tournament looks wide open. Tenacious, greedy, covetous wheel of fortune can stop at favored Florida A & M, 'team to beat Xavier U., thirdseeded Morehouse, fourth-ranked Fisk, or Fort Valley State, Bethune-Cookman, Knoxville College, Alabama State, Tuskegee Institute or Clark College.

For basketball is the great equalizer of sports. Victory depends on hustle, determination, aggressiveness and the golden touch. Heroes of the past had these requisites, while the loser lacked them. It's a see-saw game.

One thing all observers agree. This twentieth anniversary version is likely to be the most notable in history. The teams are few personnel advantages to to height, depth and calibre of material. There are really no exceptional teams. Never before have the experts been so completely stumped.

Last year, glittering record were chalked up by Florida A & M. In '49, '50 and 51, Morris Brown sent top-heavy favorites. Look back down the years and you will see Tuskegee, Florida A & M, Morehouse, Xavier, Clark and 'Bama State alternating in the favored role.

Bust a guess at this year's tournament isn't worth a plugged nickel. For fans have been Knoxville defeat Florida, Bethune-Cookman win over Florida A & M at the district at large of the NAIA tournament them succumb twice in a row to the Rattlers in Daytona Beach and Tallahassee. Xavier University has split with Florida A & M while defeating Bethune-Cookman. Alabama State and Tuskegee have posted wins over Florida A & M. This type of run-around could go on and on.

However, what is apparent is that today's SIAC heroes will have to be born on the tournament floor. Individual stars like Willie Irvin and Harold Donald of Florida, John Chaney and Wycliff Martin of Bethune-Cookman, Esmo Woods and work of Fisk, and Donald Weaver and Ross of Morehouse will have to catch fire, singe the hops and designs and pattern of victory.

Down through the years, this has been true. Coaches like C. Johnson Dunn of 'Bama State, Ted A. Wright, former coach of the fabulous Xavier Ambassadors, Frank L. Forbes of Morehouse, H. B. (Bus) Thompson (who won two championships while at Morris Brown), Thomas Caldwell, the former Morris Brown mentor who had the distinction of winning the visitation and tournament titles in 1951 and they got sacked, Ross C. Owen of Tuskegee Institute and many others will tell you of stars being born on the floor.

One of the most notables instances witnessed by these eyes was in the 1951 tournament when Robert Graves of Morris Brown subbing for Theodore Benson fired the Wolverines to a win over Florida A & M.

Others like to tell of Jerome Harris of Morehouse and even before George Coffee.

All of the colleges have heroes who are now steeped in legend for having performed beyond call of valor in tournament compeition. I can't list them all. As the tournament progresses, they will be exhumed from the archives as the boys argue over beer and pretzels.

However, all will conceded that this year's meet is a tossup. No overwhelming favorite exists. The team to beat is the team that plays. I can't see it any other way.

HERE AND THERE — Morris Brown leads Atlanta's SIAC colleges tournament victories with three. Morehouse has two championships and Clark College one.... Fort Valley State has never won a conference basketball title...

Frank A. Young, venerable sports editor emeritus of the Chicago Defender is on hand for the tournament. Young is one of the wheels behind the national High School basketball tournament which will be held in Nashville, March 26, 27 and 28...

Basketball races are rapidly coming to a close. Last week, the CIAA race tournament was held in Durham, N. C. This weekend, the CIAA race tournament t HD) Southeastern tournament is in progress at Savannah State College, while the SIAC extravaganza goes on here...Midwestern and Southwest conferences do not sponsor tounrnaments...

The Southern Intercollegiate Athletic Conference owes a tribute to Captain R. S. Darnaby, one of the msot respected sports publicists in the Deep South. Every collegiate publicity organization rates Darnaby tops..

Tuskegee Institute is waiting for the close of tournament competition to step up baseball drills...

Tuskegee Nine Drop Maroon Tigers Twice

TUSKEGEE, Ala.— Tuskegee Institute swept a two-game baseball series from Morehouse College of Atlanta, Ga., last weekend 13-4 and 8-7.

The Saturday game was a close with the Golden Tigers barely emerging with an 8-7 verdict after powering four runs across in the opening frame. However, the Maroon Tigers stiffened their defense and held the Tuskegeeans scoreless until the eighth stanza when four more capered across the plate.

Morehouse after absorbing a 13-4 shellacking Friday made a game out of the contest Saturday. Scoring two runs each in the third and fourth innings, Morehouse took the lead by chalking up two additional markers in the fifth. Apparently this lead inspired the Atlanta combination who added another score in the seventh. Here the roof caved in. Tuskegee scored four runs to clinch the game and win the series.

Promising pitching material for Tuskegee should enable the Golden Tigers to make a strong bid for conference championship honors. Eddie Lavelle and William Grant showed to good advantage as pitchers in the Morehouse games, while Ronald Bryamon and Luther Noland gave Tuskegee considerable d epth in catching.

Tuskegee's championship honors will depend on what the Tigers do against Florida A & M College Monday and Tuesday, April 6-7 at Tallahassee.

Grambling Nine Trips Tuskegee Tigers 9 To 3

BY COLLIE J. NICHOLSON

GRAMBLING, La. — The Grambling College Tigers flogged two Tuskegee pitchers for 13 hits here Monday afternoon to lump the 'Bama club 9-3 in ine sparkling inningsc of strife.

The Singleton gave president-coach R. W. E. Jones' crew a 3-0 vantage in the home and home series and helped them maintain their habitually glossy pace.

Grambling has won 13 and lost three.

Ed Mitchell paced Monday's assault with a fourth hit snarl which punched across three runs.

The Tigers drove the opening wedge in the first inning when six hits mustered some five runs. Following this initial display of gunsmoke, Grambling feasted gluttonously on whatever the visitors had to offer.

President Jones and his combat team went into the game bristling from a severe case of perlexion.

Grambling walloped Texas Southern 18-2 in the opening game of a doubleheader Saturday and went buck-kneed in the nightcap.

TSU won the second contest 8-5 to take over first place in the Mid-West diamond race.

XU Downs 'Skegee In First Tilt 6-1

With heavy rains cancelling the Friday night encounter in Pelican Stadium, Xavier's Gold Rush nine breezed to a 6-1 victory over the Tuskegee Golden Tigers in the first melee of a scheduled doubleheader last Saturday on the Gold Rush home diamond and in the second contest the Catholics had to settle for a 1-1 deadlock with Allison Tilman's visiting chargers.

Michael Houlemard was the winning pitcher in the first outing. Houlemard was touched for only four hits while his teammates banged out 12 blows off L. Johnson, the losing hurler for the Tigers.

In the second fray, which was called at the end of seven frames, Roy Marrero was on the mound for Xavier. Marrero gave up six hits during his stint on the rubber, the local stickmen collected eight hits off of two Tiger tossers.

On Friday and Saturday, May 1-2, Coach John Crowe's diamondmen will invade Montgomery, Ala., and Atlanta, Ga., for three games. Friday, Xavier will clash with Alabama State Hornets in a two-game series, with one tilt slated for the afternoon and the other billed under the lights. Saturday, the Catholics will move over to Atlanta for a single contest with Morehouse.

Xavier now has a season record of six wins against four losses, with a 4-1 mark in Southern conference play.

Grambling Tigers Beat S'keege, 9-3

GRAMBLING, La.—The Grambling Tigers flogged Tuskegee pitchers for 13 hits here last Monday to defeat the Alabama school, 9-3, in nine sparkling innings of strife.

The victory gave the Tigers a 3-0 advantage in the home-and home series.

Ed Mitchell paced the assault a four-hit barrage that mustered home three runs.

Who coached the baseball team? President Jones, of course.

Chief executive of the north Louisiana college of 1,651 students, he has been teaching athletic fundamentals for 27 years and still doesn't consider it a futile undertaking. An astute judge of baseball talent, his teams have won the astonishing total of 169 games and dropped only 19 in the last eight seasons.

At the present pace it will only take another season or two for the coaching exective to make his expert staff look like bungling amateurs.

Bethune-Cookman Wins Southern Cage Tourney

Courier p. 15 Sat. 3-21-53

By FAY YOUNG

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, Ala.—The Bethune-Cookman Wildcats from Daytona Beach, Fla., won their first Southern Conference cage tournament here at Logan Hall before 3,000 sweltering fans, 72 to 61, from Xavier University's Gold Rush from New Orleans Saturday night.

The curtain rang down on the twentieth annual tournament with the Florida team victors over a youthful but stubborn Louisiana quintet. Bethune-Cookman took the lead at the outset and were never headed, although Xavier pulled to within one point of tying the score in the final period.

Morehouse College of Atlanta bested the strong Florida A. and M. College Rattlers from Tallahassee 66 to 33 for third place.

Xavier dropped Morehouse in the first semi-final game Friday night, 61-58. Bethune-Cookman got its revenge over Florida A. and M., which has two recent wins over the Wildcats, by taking them into camp 62 to 59. The four seeded teams were able to live up to pre-game predictions.

The tournament got under way Thursday afternoon with Tuskegee winning from Clark College of Atlanta, 74 to 62, and Florida trouncing Alabama State 101 to 97. That night, Xavier won over Knoxville College 79 to 58. Morehouse trimmed Tuskegee 72 to 60. Florida won from Fisk, 53 to 36, and Bethune-Cookman was victor over Fort Valley (Ga.) State, 74 to 58.

Institute Tigers Slap A. & M. With Score Of 60 To 49

Tuskegee Herald Tuskegee, Ala. Dec. 2-10-53

A fast and accurate shooting Tiger five found their range here Saturday night and slipped a win past the Florida A&M to the tune of 60-49. p. 1

The Tigers took the court at the beginning of the game with a determination to get back into the win column and thought that Florida was to be the victim. Charles Bonner started the scoring for the locals and the Tigers were never headed from here on. Willis Hockett and Bonner racked up the scores for Tuskegee and the Tigers led at the quarter, 16-13.

Florida was showing strength and control of the backboard but was not able to head the Tigers. Here the entire Tiger team began to look like a million dollar group on the floor with each of the five time after time racking the ball through the strings. "Rege" Gracia demonstrated that he belonged on the first five for Tuskegee; working the ball under the basket and slinging it in from falling positions. When things were about to get out of hand, Garcia would take over and take the ball out court to cool things down. The buzzer sounded for the half with Tuskegee leading 31-24.

Florida elected to take their men out with four fouls on them, but Tuskegee went along with their same starting line-up. Florida's second team seem to work against Tuskegee better than the first five and shot basket for basket against their opponents. Irvin continued to play heads up ball for Famcee and helped bring his team within five points when the buzzer ended the third quarter with 'skegee still ahead 44-39.

Florida entered their first team into the game at this point and that seemed to be just what Tuskegee was waiting for. The Rattlers seemed to be ready to move from here on but the Tigers matched basket for basket and when Florida began to throw the ball away the Tigers started to play with their opponents giving the ball away and slipping it back away from them. The buzzer sounded and the ball went wild at the final count of 60 to 49.

Willis Hockett was high scoring man with 17 points. Charles Bonner was second with 16. For Florida, high scoring man was Irvin with 14 points.

Grambling Rips Tuskegee Five By 101-63 Score

By COLLIE J. NICHOLSON

GRAMBLING, La. — The Grambling College Tigers used a big height advantage with telling effect here Friday night to sweep to a 101-63 victory over Tuskegee Institute. Weekly

Man-Mountain Robert Hopkins, the nation's leading Negro college scorer with 632 points for 22 outings, was the bravo cager for Coach Eddie Robinson's famished tyros. p. 4

"Lil Abner" had his most eventful evening since joining the Tigers and ended the contest writing two new school marks in the record book. Atlanta Daily World

He broke Ezell Kin[illegible]'s one-season record of 629 points and erased "Bots" Moore's old free-throw mark of 159 points. Hopkins has 166 conversions out of 212 attempts.

Generally acclaimed one of the nation's best small college performers, Robert got Grambling off to a good start and the visitor's found the handicap too great to surmount.

Grambling held at 51-27 halftime lead. Sat. 2-21-53

Hopkins wasn't the only Tiger who damaged the Maroon's cause. Payne Montgomery controlled both backboards and Eugene Elliott contributed 21 points for a share of scoring honors.

"Lil Abner" took scoring honors with 26 points.

Willie Hockett was the chief detonator in Tuskegee's uphill haul. He scored 22 points.

SPORTS OF THE WORLD

By Marion E. Jackson

Like old man river, Frank Forbes and his incredible basketball teams keep rolling along. Now comes another final and the spotlight again beams on the maroon and white hoopsters from Atlanta.

Win, lose or draw, the Maroon will give a creditable showing in the consolation round here tonight in the cavernous reaches of Logan Hall where so many Forbes-coached greats have had their day in the sun.

Sitting here pecking away on this piece, as the crowds file out after the semi-finals, I remember Jerome Harris, the showman, the incomparable, leading the Forbesmen to a storybook conquest back in 1946. Even today there comes tears as one remembers the Atlantans scrambling out of the stands, in ones and twos and bunches, onto the main floor where they shouted the school song. And then there was another year and another star, Irwin "Mr. Basketball" Tompkins. And always Frank "Mr. Cool" Forbes, imperturable, inscrutable, thinking thinking and organizing.

He turned out many, many other stars Silas "Smoky" Davis, Pinky Haines, Felix Harris, George Coffee, Junie Cobb, Oliver Brooks, Bruce Phillips, Wiley Jackson and many others.

And here in Tuskegee, the man has become something of a legend. Blase Tuskegeeans have become used to a Maroon Tigers quintet in the finals. Atlanta Daily World

Already, the stream of cars are pouring in from Atlanta where will be more, come nightfall. Many stayed at home, waiting for the results which indicated that an Atlanta team would be in the finals. Sat. 3-14-53

HERE AND THERE — Walter Dukes, the Seton Hall scoring whiz closed his regular season play with a total of 791 points for 30 games and an average of 26.4 points which placed him behind only Furman's Frank Selvy, 29.7 and Seattle's Johnny O'Brien....

The fabulous Bobo Newsom of the Philadelphia Athletics is baseball's most traded player. Records show Newsom has been swapped 27 times in 27 years. At one time or another he pitched for all three New York clubs—Dodgers, Yankees and Giants....

Logan Hall, Tuskegee Institute's all purpose facility, is the largest athletic installation in the Southern Intercollegiate Athletic Conference....

The Savannah State Tigerettes won the Southeastern Athletic Conference visitation crown under the helm of Coach Ella W. Fischer and Assistant Coach Jerry Hooper. The Tigerettes won all conference games and wound up the season with a seven and one record. Their only setback was to the Bethune-Cookman girls.

In a return engagement the Tigerettes outhustled the Bethune girls 73-25....

Buzzy Bavasi, Dodger vice-president made a bet with Roy Campanella of a 30 dollar hat that he couldn't report to training camp in shape. After winning Campy settled the bet for $20 cash....

Xavier University cagers are Rush closed their regular season happy over their best season in play by topping Alabama State 78-years. The 49ners defeated all of 68....

Ever wonder why Larry Doby was a holdout in his baseball negotiations with the Cleveland Indians? Well, in six seasons with the Tribe he has compiled a .293 batting average with 729 hits out of 2,487 times at bat. In 713 games, Doby has hit 127 doubles, 30 triples and 115 home runs!!!!

If you doubt his beef against the contract offered him by Hank Greenberg then note last season's record when he played in 140 games and went to bat 519 times collecting 143 hits for a 276 average. He banged out 26 doubles, 8 triples and 32 home runs to win the homerun batting crown from Luke Easter. Along with this Doby scored the most runs in the American League—104....

OFF THE CUFF—Morehouse College was tremendously happy over the success of it Windy City basketball game with

CO-EDS LEAD NATIONAL ANTHEM—Just before the start of the 20th annual championship basketball game of the Southern Inter-collegiate Athletic Conference last week end this charming group of Tuskegee Institute senior co-eds led the more than 3,000 persons assembled in Logan Hall in singing the National Anthem. Left to right, they are Eula Patrick, Tuskegee; Frances Morgan, Queenstown, British Guiana; Ann R. Elliot, Albany, Ga.; Magnolia Ivy, East St. Louis, Ill., and Barbara Milan, Hopkinsville, Ky.

Fisk University. A huge turnout of Morehouse and Fisk supporters virtually assures a repeat engagement in 1954.

Morehouse and Fisk Alumni in St. Louis are also dickering for a game. There is a possibility such a tilt will be scheduled as a phase of the school's public relations program. Tentative plans for '54 call for Fisk and Morehouse to play in Chicago Saturday night, then spend Sunday sightseeing, before making the trek to St. Louis.

Incidentally, expenses for the game were relatively small. Alumni backers solidly sold the game to Chicago and without a doubt a great deal of goodwill (and prospective students) will come out of the game for both institutions.

Morris Brown Wolverines Halt Tuskegee Golden Tigers, 75-52

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, Ala. — With William "Bill" Hannan, uncanny sharpshooter from Augusta, Ga., setting a blistering pace, the Morris Brown College Purple Wolverines shot their way to a 75-52 victory over the Tuskegee Institute Golden Tigers, Thursday night, at the Logan Hall Gymnasium.

Hannan, Jimmie Adams, Walter Atkins and Leroy Lewis of Morris Brown traded baskets with Charles Mackel, Rigoberto Garcia, Randall Sterlin, Thomas Abernathy and Walter Craig of Tuskegee, as the friendly SIAC rivals battled to a 14-all deadlock in the first quarter.

Hannan and Adams continued to drop shots, then Howard Hinton and Harold Jackson found the range as the Purple Wolverines pulled away for a 39-29 margin at intermission.

"Bill" Hannon Bags 24 Points To Emerge Top Scorer Of Contest

BOTH TEAMS RIPPLE STRINGS CONSISTENLY

Both teams rippled the strings consistently in the wild scoring third quarter. Garcia, Mackel, and Cornelius Stewart did most of the damage for Tuskegee, while Hannan all but put on a "one-man" show for Morris Brown.

The Wolverines came up with a tight defense in and went on to pile up a convincing triumph.

Hannan knocked in 24 points to emerge high scorer for the evening and Mackel finished in the runner-up spot with 19. Lewis and Adams shared third place scoring laurels with 14 points apiece.

SUMMARY

MORRIS BROWN	B.	F.	TP.
Hannan, f	8	8	24
Adams, f	6	2	14
Lewis, g	6	2	14
Hinton, c	0	0	0
Rivers, g	3	1	7
Atkins	1	0	2
Glover	4	2	10
Jackson	2	0	4
TOTALS	30	15	75

TUSKEGEE	B.	F.	TP
Mackel, f	7	5	19
Jefferson, f	0	1	1
Craig, c	2	1	5
Trawick, g	1	1	3
Garcia, g	4	2	10
Sterlin	1	2	4
Dunn	0	1	1
Abernathy	1	0	2
Stewart	3	1	7
TOTALS	19	14	52

OFFICIALS: Ballard and Taylor.

Morehouse Rips Tuskegee, 61-44 For Sixth Consecutive Victory

BY JOEL W. SMITH

Ronald Weaver, towering 6-6 center of Atlanta, turned in a scintillating performance as he led the Morehouse College Maroon Tigers to a 61-44 victory over the Tuskegee Institute Golden Tigers, Saturday night, at the Morehouse Gymnasium. This clean-cut verdict gave the Maroon Tigers their sixth consecutive win.

Weaver Racks Up 32 Points To Capture High Point Laurels

In a thrilling preliminary contest the star-studded WERD cagers of the Butler St. YMCA Basketball loop overpowered the Morehouse Intramural All-Stars, 43-32 Maceo Holloway set the pace with 15 points, as WERD came from behind to win after trailing 20-17 at half-time. Wiley Jackson was high point man for the Intramural All-Stars with 10 points.

FIRST QUARTER NIP-AND-TUCK

The first quarter was a typical nip-and-tuck affair and the lead see-sawed back and forth exactly six times. George Ross, Clifford Jackson and Weaver gave Morehouse a 4-0 lead. Willie Hockett, Tuskegee's free-wheeling sharpshooter from Wichita, Kansas scored twice from the free throw lanes and cashed in on a field goal to knot the score, 4-4.

The Golden Tigers stepped out front on a double-decker by Joe Trawick, setting the stage for the see-saw battle. Then after the score was deadlocked 6-6 and 11-11, Weaver forged a 16-12 Morehouse lead at the end of the period.

Bobby Jones rippled the strings with a long shot as the Maroon Tigers pulled away for a 1912 count. Charles Mackel, Chicago, Ill. sank two field goals to close the gap, 22-18, then Ross, Weaver and Jones teamed up to increase the margin to 29-19 at intermission.

MAROON TIGERS CONTINUE PACE

The Maroon Tigers continued their sensational pace in the third period and inspite of a quick bas-Hope, Ala.; and three charity toss-ket by Charles Bonner, of Fair es by Regoberto Garcia, of ampa, Fla., maintained a comportable 10-point advantage. Ross poped in two long one-handed shots to give Morehouse a 45-29 margin at the end of the third period. From this pointfi the Maroon Tigers went on to win with ease.

Weaver caged 32 points to emerge high point man for the evening and Ross finished in second with 14. Hockett was the top scorer for Tuskegee with 11 points. Bonner left the game for excessive fouls early in the third period and Trawick made his exit at the nine-minute-mark.

SUMMARY

MOREHOUSE	B	F	TP
Jackson, f	1	4	6
Jones, f	2	1	5
Weaver, c	12	8	32
Alexander, g	0	0	0
Ross, g	4	6	16
Clendenon	1	1	3
Richardson	0	1	1
TOTALS	20	21	61

TUSKEGEE	B	F	TP
Hockett, f	3	5	11
Garcia, f	1	4	6
Bonner, c	1	3	5
F. Johnson, g	0	1	1
Trawick, g	2	0	4
Mackel	2	1	5
Abernathy	2	1	5
Dunn	1	1	3
L. Johnson	1	0	2

'Skeege Ends Year By Whipping 'Bama

TUSKEGEE, Ala. — The Golden Tiger quintet closed the regular playing season by edging the Alabama State College Hornets, 73 to 61, in Logan Hall Saturday.

Paced by Willis Hockett, Rigoberta Garcia, Frank Johnson, Charles Bonner, Joe Trawick and Fred Gaston, the Tiger combination displayed form, that could spell serious difficulty for their prospective opponents in the annual Southern Conference Basketball Tournament to be played in Tuskegee March 12, 13 and 14.

In defeating Alabama State, classy, smooth, clever ball-handling quintet which is a contender for tournament championship honors, Tuskegee ranks as a threat to any possible favorite.

Clark Panthers Fall To Tuskegee Tigers, 56-49

By ERNEST M. PHARR

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, Ala. — With fangs much sharper than those of the Clark College Panthers, the Golden Tigers of Tuskegee Institute handed the Atlanta crew their eighth conference loss with a 56-4 final score at Logan Hall Gymnasium in Tuskegee Friday night.

The Eppsmen jumped off to an early 7-3 lead when guards Robert Thompson and John Swain dumped in a couple of two-pointers. However, the Tigers who were not anxious of becoming victims of a Panther attack slowly nibbled away at the Clark lead until the first quarter count stood at 15-all.

The Tigers' Hockett, Trawick and Bonner connected with their shots from the floor and maintained a slim lead of 3 points at halftime as Roman Turmon bucketed the only two field goals for Clark in the second quarter. The halfway mark saw the Tigers ahead with 27-24.

A devastating blow to the Clark offensive attack came with less than two minutes remaining in the half. Roman Turmon went up for a 56-49 final score at Logan Hall down with the sphere, twisting his ankle, and leaving the Panthers without their "guiding light."

Harold Hubbard took the lead for the Clarkites in the third quarter and in "Dock's" absence bucketed for field goals to keep the Panthers in the running. Turmon returned late in the third quarter and hit the nets for two points as did Robert Thompson. However, the Tigers kept their stingy lead with seven buckets to the Panthers' six and as the final stanza began, the Eppsmen found themselves on the short end of a 41-36 count.

The home team's forward, Hockett, added insurance points to their total and led the visitors to a 52-42 count with less than three minutes remaining. The quick succession of baskets by Turmon, Hairston and Tate went for naught as the Panthers heard the whistle resounding their eighth conference loss.

LINEUPS

Clark	Tuskegee
Turmon (15)	Hockett (15)
Hairston (7)	Abernathy (3)
Hubbard (10)	Garcia (9)
Swain (4)	Trawick (11)
Thompson (10)	Gaston (3)
Tate (3)	Bonner (7)
	Johnson (8)
Totals—(49)	Totals (56)

'Skeege Downs Hornets, 73-61

TUSKEGEE, Institute, Ala.—Tuskegee's Golden Tiger quintet closed its regular playing season here by edging the Alabama State Hornets, 73-61, in Logan Hall here Saturday night.

High scorers for the game were: for Tuskegee, Hockett, 21; Garcia and Johnson, 13 each. For Alabama State, Cotton, 18; Smith, 18, and Jesse White, 10.

The Tigers will compete in annual Southern Conference tournament to be played here March 12, 13 and 14.

Tuskegee Golden Tigers Conquer Morris Brown Wolverines, 86-66

BY JOEL W. SMITH

Willis Hockett, sensational shooting star from Wichita, Kans as, was blazing as the Tuskegee Institute Golden Tigers breezed to an 86-66 verdict over the Morris Brown College Purple Wolverines, Monday night, at the Joe Louis Gymnasium.

After pouring 26 points through the hoop in the first half, the Tuskegee sharpshooter had the fans hoping to see a new SIAC scoring record enter the ledger in the second stanza. He annexed 17 points for a total of 43 points for the evening.

TIGERS SLIP AWAY EARLY

A one-handed toss by Arlester Russ gave the Purple Wolverines an early 2-0 lead, then the Golden Tigers, sparked by Hockett, Joe Trawick, of Abbeville, Ala.; Frank John son, Tampa, Fla.; and Charles Bonner, of Fairhope, Ala., slipped away for a 23-12 lead at the end of the first period.

Rigoberto Garcia, fast-moving playmaker from Tampa, Fla., knock

Willis Hockett Bags 43 Points To Capture High Scoring Honors

ed in two straight baskets as the second period got underway. Walter Atkins, William Fields, Russ and Ray Hinton started hitting as the Purple Wolverines tried to close the gap, only to trail, 52-31 at half-time.

WOLVERINES SPURT IN THIRD PERIOD

The Purple Wolverines pulled themselves together in the third period and with Russ, Robinson and Fields leading the way reduced the margin to 54-46 (a mere 8 points). Hockett went into action again to put Tuskegee in command, 63-50 at the end of the third period.

Leroy Lewis, Russ and Robinson continued to hit the strings, but were unable to match the dazzling pace of Hockett, Trawick and Johnson and the Golden Tigers were out front 20 points (86-66) at the final buzzer.

Willis Hockett was high point man with 43 points and Russ pulled up in the runner-up spot with 20. Other high scorers were: Charles Bonner, 15; Eugene Robinson, 14; William Fields, Frank Johnson, 11 points apiece; and Walter Atkins 10. Making their exit via the foul route were Garcia, Russ and Fields.

SUMMARY

TUSKEGEE	B.	F.	TP.
Hockett, f	15	12	43
Garcia, f	3	1	7
Bonner, c	5	5	15
F. Johnson, g	5	1	11
Trawick, g	4	1	9
L. Johnson	0	1	1
TOTALS	32	22	86

MORRIS BROWN	B.	F.	TP.
Russ, f	8	4	20
Robinson, f	6	2	14
Atkins, c	4	2	10
Lewis, g	1	4	6
Fields, g	3	5	11
Myles	0	1	1
Hinton	1	0	2
TOTALS	23	20	66

OFFICIALS: Raymond Wainwright (Clark) referee; T. Herman Graves (Morehouse) umpire.

Tuskegee Five Outclassed

By COLLIE J. NICHOLSON

GRAMBLING, La.—Grambling College Tigers used a big height advantage with telling effect here Friday night to sweep to a 101-63 victory over Tuskegee Institute.

Man-Mountain Robert Hopkins, the nation's leading Negro college scorer with 632 points for twenty-two outings, was the bravo cager for Coach Eddie Robinson's famished tyros.

"Lil Abner" had a good night and ended the contest writing two new school marks in the record book as he bagged twenty-six points.

He broke Ezell King's one-season record of 629 points and erased "Boots" Moore's old free-throw mark of 159 points. Hopkins has 166 conversions out of 212 attempts.

Generally acclaimed one of the nation's best small college performers, Robert got Grambling off to a good start and the visitors found the handicap too great to surmount.

Grambling held a 51-27 halftime lead.

Hopkins wasn't the only Tiger who damaged the Maroon's cause. Payne Montgomery controlled both backboards and Eugene Elliott contributed 21 points for a share of scoring honors.

Will Hochett was the chief detonator in Tuskegee's uphill haul Hochett scored 22 points.

Clark Cagers Top Tuskegee 83 To 62

Clark College defeated Tuskegee Institute 83-62 Tuesday night in Joe Louis Gymnasium. The Panthers led all the way against the visiting Golden Tigers and had a 24-9 spread at the end of the first quarter.

The Cardinal and Black continued as hot as a firecracker and poured it on the Alabama quintet in the second stanza to lead 49-27 at halftime. The locals didn't cold their fire after the midway point had expired. The Panthers piled up points to lead 66-39 at the end of the third frame and coasted home.

The Golden Tigers perhaps disappointed Gate City fans who wanted to see one of those nip-and-tuck melodramas. This selfsame team had defeated Morris Brown 86-66 Monday night and the Panthers had rallied to defeat the Wolverines last Saturday 72-65.

However, the touted Willis Hockett had a disappointing night except in the waning moments of the game. His teammates, Charles Bonner, Frank Johnson, Rigoberto Garcia, Water Atkins and William Fields played in spells and a fitting appraisal would be the old "Have You Ever Seen a Dream Walking" song for their efforts.

On the artistic side fans saw plenty of offense as dispensed by Romar (Doc) Turmon and Hal Hubbard. Likewise, Robert Thompson is forging to the forefront as one of the best Atlanta floormen since G. B. Hannan.

There was an amazing dearth of defense on either side. In the score and score tradition which neglects any semblance of defense, both Clark and Tuskegee were prime worshippers. The rituals payed off only for Clark.

The Panthers hit them from without and tipped in the rebounds. — They were amazingly accurate from any range point and if previous point-production had matched last night's efforts then last year's visitation champions would be in the saddle against as far as the SIAC set.

Clark's win over Tuskegee Institute was its second in a row. The win boosted the Panthers SIAC mark to 6 wins and 14 defeats. When the Panthers met Tuskegee Feb. 6 in Tuskegee they dropped the game 56-49. The win Tuesday night even the tally.

Clark College's status in regards to the March 12, 13, 14 tournament at Tuskegee Institute remained in doubt. Their chances no doubt hinge up a three game South Carolina series which starts at Orange burg, S. C. where the team plays South Carolina State. Saturday night, Clark is scheduled against Allen University and remains in the Palmetto State over Sunday to play Benedict College.

Roman (Doc) Turmon walked away with scoring honors Tuesday night. He was pressed by Hal Hubbard and Robert Thompson.

Tigers Shaded In Thrilling Finish By Morris Brown

In an overtime thriller the Wolverines of Morris Brown College, Atlanta, shaded Tuskegee Institute, 59 to 53 in the opening basketball home game for Tuskegee Wednesday night. Tuskegee showing considerable promise this year on the hardwood had vanquished Alabama A&M College and Fisk University on tour.

Wednesday night, however, Tuskegee displayed a little nervousness in getting started against the annually highly touted Morris Brown College quintet from Atlanta.

Morris Brown had to hustle all the way. The first quarter ended, 12-11, in the Atlanta quintet's favor; the half ended with Morris Brown five points in the lead, 23-18.

The second half saw the Tiger combination which gave Morris Brown an early season scare by tying the score several times. When the buzzer to end the game sounded the score was 47-47.

In the overtime period Morris Brown showed to the advantage by out-scoring Tuskegee and winning the game, 59-53.

For the Golden Quint, Charles Bonner, the captain, led the attack with 18 points, followed by Joe Trawick and Willis Hockett with 12 points each.

SPORTS OF THE WORLD

By Marion E. Jackson

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, Ala. — (SNS) — The wonder tales of basketball written in Tuskegee Institute's massive Logan Hall could have been lifted from the folklore of Jakob and Wilhelm Grimm, the German philologists who collected fairy tales. For every element associated with the 42 basic plots in story-telling has been utilized in the wild finishes associated with this hoop festival. Last year, it was a double-overtime game, made even more bizarre by the strange spectacle of three Florida A&M players winning over a darkhorse Alabama State team which had led all the way, only to surrender its advantage in the last moments of play.

Look up the rag-to-riches heroes, Frank Merriwell, the Rovers boys, Tom Sawyer, Rip Van Wrinkle, Hans Christain Anderson and Patrick Henry and the hot stove boys will find you a counterpart in tournament history. Basketball is sports' 'Alice in Wonderland. At tournament time there are always wonders to behold. The Tuskegee tournament guarantees them.

The passing parade of stars, unequalled in the other branches of sports, have blazed across the boards of Logan Hall for their brief hour of acclaim and applause. Looking out over the audience into the faces of hundreds of new, eager and excited spectators you catch the expectancy of the crowd. Which team will win? Who will be the star of the hour? What are the new coaching devices to be unveiled? Wheer will mantle of victory fall at the eleventh hour?

We don't have the answer. To me the tournament looks wide open. Tenacious, greedy, covetous wheel of fortune can stop at favored Florida A & M, 'team to beat Xavier U., thirdseeded Morehouse, fourth-ranked Fisk, or Fort Valley State, Bethune-Cookman, Knoxville College, Alabama State, Tuskegee Institute or Clark College.

For basketball is the great equalizer of sports. Victory depends on hustle, determination, agressiveness and the golden touch. Heroes of the past had these requisites, while the loser lacked them. It's a see-saw game.

One thing all observers agree. This twentieth anniversary version is likely to be the most notable in history. The teams are few personnel advantages to to height, depth and calibre of material. There are really no exceptional teams. Never before have the experts been so completely stumped.

Last year, glittering record were chalked up by Florida A & M. In '49, '50 and 51, Morris Brown sent top-heavy favorites. Look back down the years and you will see Tuskegee, Florida A & M, Morehouse, Xavier, Clark and 'Bama State alternating in the favored role.

Bust a guess at this year's tournament isn't worth a plugged nickel. For fans have been Knoxville defeat Florida, Bethune-Cookman win over Florida A & M at the district at large of the NAIA tournament them succumb twice in a row to the Rattlers in Daytona Beach and Tallahassee. Xavier University has split with Florida A & M while defeating Bethune-Cookman. Alabama State and Tuskegee have posted wins over Florida A & M. This type of run-around could go on and on.

However, what is apparent is that today's SIAC heroes will have to be born on the tournament floor. Individual stars like Willie Irvin and Harold Donald of Florida, John Chaney and Wycliff Martin of Bethune-Cookman, Esmo Woods and work of Fisk, and Donald Weaver and Ross of Morehouse will have to catch fire, singe the hops and designs and pattern of victory.

Down through the years, this has been true. Coaches like C. Johnson Dunn of 'Bama State, Ted A. Wright, former coach of the fabulous Xavier Ambassadors, Frank L. Forbes of Morehouse, H. B. (Bus) Thompson (who won two championships while at Morris Brown), Thomas Caldwell, the former Morris Brown mentor who had the distinction of winning the visitation and tournament titles in 1951 and they got sacked, Ross C. Owen of Tuskegee Institute and many others will tell you of stars being born on the floor.

One of the most notables instances witnessed by these eyes was in the 1951 tournament when Robert Graves of Morris Brown subbing for Theodore Benson fired the Wolverines to a win over Florida A & M.

Others like to tell of Jerome Harris of Morehouse and even before George Coffee.

All of the colleges have heroes who are now steeped in legend for having performed beyond call of valor in tournament compeition. I can't list them all. As the tournament progresses, they will be exhumed from the archives as the boys argue over beer and pretzels.

However, all will conceded that this year's meet is a tossup. No overwhelming favorite exists. The team to beat is the team that plays. I can't see it any other way.

HERE AND THERE — Morris Brown leads Atlanta's SIAC colleges tournament victories with three. Morehouse has two championships and Clark College one.... Fort Valley State has never won a conference basketball title...

Frank A. Young, venerable sports editor emeritus of the Chicago Defender is on hand for the tournament. Young is one of the wheels behind the national High School basketball tournament which will be held in Nashville, March 26, 27 and 28...

Basketball races are rapidly coming to a close. Last week, the CIAA race tournament was held in Durham, N. C. This weekend, the CIAA race tournament t HD) Southeastern tournament is in progress at Savannah State College, while the SIAC extravaganza goes on here...Midwestern and Southwest conferences do not sponsor tounrnaments...

The Southern Intercollegiate Athletic Conference owes a tribute to Captain R. S. Darnaby, one of the msot respected sports publicists in the Deep South. Every collegiate publicity organization rates Darnaby tops..

Tuskegee Institute is waiting for the close of tournament competition to step up baseball drills...

A & M Bulldogs Outshoot Tuskegee Institute Tigers

Coach Frank Lewis' sharpshooting Alabama A. and M. College Bulldogs jumped to a one-game edge in the series as they outshot the Tuskegee Institute Tigers, 61 to 58, in the Third Annual Birmingham Cage Classic at Parker High School Gymnasium last Friday night.

A. and M.'s Claude Harrison eked out Tuskegee's R. Garcia for high-point honors in this thrill-packed cage show of collegians. Harrison banked 14 in the net while Garcia threatened his position with 13 smackers.

Other Bulldog shooters who hit the jackpot were Danny Littlefield who shoved in eleven points, Caldwell, ten, Wesley Reevy, nine, John Webb, eight, and Roland Nelson and Julius Ford, four apiece.

Tuskegee net-busters were O. Dunn with ten points, C. Mackel, nine, Morris, seven, E. Scarbourgh, five, T. Smith and Hollis, four apiece, J. Trawick, three Walter Craig two, and Abernathy, one, respectively.

The court war remained a nip-and-tuck affair throughout the entire game. Fast as A. and M. would get a ten or 12-point lead, the South Alabama Bengals would gnaw it down to five and seven points. At the end of the first quarter, A. and M. led Tuskegee 15 to 14. In the second period, the scores read A. and M. 35, Tuskegee 27. As the warfare pulled into the third quarter, A. and M. moved up to 50 while Tuskegee remained at 38. In the final three minutes, Tuskegee 27. As the warfare pulled into the third quarter, A. and M. moved up to 50 while Tuskegee remained at 38. In the final three minutes, Tuskegee threatened A. and M.'s lead by launching a shot-for-shot attack.

This victory gave A. and M. a one-game edge over Tuskegee in the three-year-old series. In 1951, it was A. and M. 64, Tuskegee 48. Last year the game ended with A. and M. 67 and Tuskegee 87.

..ROSEDALE STUNS ULLMAN

The Rosedale High Sons of Kong picked up their first win, in as many starts this season, as they turned back the stubborn Ullman High Wolfpack, 36 to 33, in the preliminary phase of the A. and M. Tuskegee event at Parker.

Bennie Miles hit 13 points and Peter Mitchell and Columbus Parker, eight apiece to push the Rosedale five in each quarter. Tommy Johnson shot twelve and Henry Lewis, eight points, respectively, for Ullman.

Rosedale led Ullman 25 to 19 in the first half; 30 to 28 in the third quarter.

ALA. A. & M. (61)	F. G.	FT.	PTS.
Caldwell	3	4	10
Kennedy	0	1	1
Dan Littlefield	5	1	11
Wes Reevy	3	3	9
C. Harrison	6	2	14
J. Ford	2	0	4
Webb, J.	3	2	8
R. Nelson	2	0	4
TOTALS	24	13	61

TUSKEGEE (58)	F. G.	FT.	PTS.
R. Garcia	5	3	13
O. Dunn	4	2	10
J. Trawick	1	1	3
C. Mackel	4	1	9
T. Smith	2	0	4
Hollis	2	0	4
Morris	2	3	7
Abernathy	0	1	1
E. Scarborough	2	1	5
W. Craig	1	0	2
TOTALS	23	12	58

Tuskegee Has 21 Game Cage Slate For '54

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, Ala. — The remaining games on the 1953-54 Tuskegee Institute basketball schedule were released by Ross C. Owen, basketball coach.

The season opened December 2 at the Institute with Morris Brown College of Atlanta as the opponent. In the opener the Wolverines defeated the Golden Tigers, 75 to 55. On the road trip Alabama A and M College Bulldogs were the victors, 52 to 44, and the Bulldogs of Fisk University turned back the Tigers 75 to 50.

The schedule:

Jan. 4 — Tuskege Institute Vs Morris Brown College at Atlanta

Jan. 8 — Tuskegee Institute Vs Alabama State College at Montgomery

Jan. 9 — Tuskegee Institute Vs Alabama State College at Montgomery

Jan. 14 — Tuskegee Institute Vs Fort Valley State College at Tuskegee

Jan. 16 — Tuskegee Institute Vs Morehouse College at Tuskegee

Jan. 18 — Tuskegee Institute Vs Bethune-Cookman College at Day-

Jan. 19 — Tuskegee Institute Vs Florida A and M University at Tallahassee

Jan. 22 — Tuskegee Institute Vs Grambling College at Tuskegee (Boys and Girls)

Jan. 23 — Tuskegee Institute Vs Grambling College at Tuskegee (Boys and Girls)

Jan. 27 — Tuskegee Institute Vs Opponent to be announced

Jan. 29 — Tuskegee Institute Vs Alabama State College at Montgomery.

Feb. 1 — Tuskegee Institute Vs Fort Valley State College at Fort Valley, Ga.

Feb. 3 — Tuskegee Institute Vs Florida A and M University at Tuskegee

Feb. 6 — Tuskegee Institute Vs Morehouse College at Atlanta

Feb. 10 — Tuskegee Institute Vs Benedict College at Tuskegee

Feb. 12 — Tuskegee Institute Vs Grambling College at Grambling (Boys and Girls)

Feb. 19 — Tuskegee Institute Vs Opponent to be announced

Feb. 20 — Tuskegee Institute Vs Fisk University at Tuskegee

Feb. 24 — Tuskegee Institute Vs Bethune-Cookman College at Tuskegee

Feb. 27 — Tuskegee Institutee Vs Alabama State College at Tuskegee.

Tuskegee Cage Games Listed

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, Ala., Dec. 18 — The remining games on the 1953-54 Tuskegee Institute basketball schedule were released today by Ross C. Owen, basketball coach.

The season opened Dec. 2 at the Institute with Morris Brown College of Atlanta as the opponent. In the opener the Wolverines defeated the Golden Tigers, 75 to 55. On the road trip Alabama A&M College Bulldogs were the victors, 52 to 44, and the Bulldogs of Fisk University turned back the Tigers, 75 to 50.

The schedule:

Jan. 4 — Tuskegee Institute vs. Morris Brown College at Atlanta.

Jan. 8 — Tuskegee Institute vs. Alabama State College at Montgomery.

Jan. 9 — Tuskegee Institute vs. Alabama State College at Montgomery.

Jan. 14 — Tuskegee Institute vs. Fort Valley State College at Tuskegee.

Jan. 16 — Tuskegee Institute vs. Morehouse College at Tuskegee.

Jan. 18 — Tuskegee Institute vs. Bethune-Cookman College at Daytona Beach, Fla.

Jan. 19 — Tuskegee Institute vs. Florida A&M University at Tallahassee.

Jan. 22 — Tuskegee Institute vs. Grambling College at Tuskegee (boys and girls).

Jan. 23 — Tuskegee Institute vs. Grambling College at Tuskegee (Boys and Girls).

Jan. 27 — Tuskegee Institute vs. Opponent to be announced.

Jan. 29 — Tuskegee Institute vs. Alabama State College at Montgomery.

Feb. 1 — Tuskegee Institute vs. Fort Valley State College at Fort Valley, Ga.

Feb. 3 — Tuskegee Institute vs. Florida A&M University at Tuskegee.

Feb. 6 — Tuskegee Institute vs. Morehouse College at Atlanta.

Feb. 10 — Tuskegee Institute vs. Benedict College at Tuskegee.

Feb. 12 — Tuskegee Institute vs. Grambling College at Grambling (Boys and girls).

Feb. 13 — Tuskegee Institute vs. Grambling College at Grambling (Boys and girls).

Feb. 19 — Tuskegee Institute vs. Opponent to be announced.

Feb. 20 — Tuskegee Institute vs. Fisk University at Tuskegee.

Feb. 24 — Tuskegee Institute vs. Bethune-Cookman College at Tuskegee.

Feb. 27 — Tuskegee Institute vs. Alabama State College at Tuskegee.

Golden Tiger Cagers To Open 1953-54 Season Here Against Morris Brown

The Tuskegee Institute Golden Tiger cagers will tee off for the 1953-54 basketball season at home Wednesday night and then hit the road for two games. Two other games, one at home and one away, will wind up the pre-holiday part of the season. The opening opponent here will be Morris Brown, Atlanta.

Friday the Golden Tigers will start the first of their games away from home when they move to A. & M. College for one game. Saturday they will meet Fisk at Nashville. Their other two pre-holiday games will be with Texas Southern on the local court on Thursday, Dec. 17, and a game with A. & M. at Birmingham on Friday, Dec. 18.

The remainder of the schedule, starting after the Christmas holidays, is as follows:

Monday, Jan. 4, Tuskegee at Morris-Brown; Friday, Jan. 8, Capital Classic at State; Saturday, Jan. 9, Captial Classic at State; Thursday, Jan. 14, Fort Valley at Tuskegee (9:00); Saturday, Jan. 16, Morehouse at Tuskegee; Monday, Jan. 18, Tuskegee at Bethune-Cookman; Tuesday, Jan. 19, Tuskegee at Florida A&M University; Friday, Jan. 22, Grambling at Tuskegee (Boys and Girls); Saturday, Jan. 23, Grambling at Tuskegee (Boys and Girls; Wednesday, Jan. 27, Game to be announced; Friday, Jan. 29, Tuskegee at Alabama State.

Monday, Feb. 1, Tuskegee at Fort Valley; Wednesday, Feb. 3, Florida A&M University at Tuskegee; Saturday, Feb. 6, Tuskegee at Morehouse; Wednesday, Feb. 10, Benedict at Tuskegee; Friday, Feb. 12, Tuskegee at Grambling (Boys and Girls); Saturday, Feb. 13, Tuskegee at Grambling (Boys and Girls); Monday, Feb. 15, Tuskegee at Texas Southern; Tuesday, Feb. 16, Tuskegee at Texas Southern; Friday, Feb. 19, Game to be announced; Saturday, Feb. 20, Fisk University at Tuskegee; Wednesday, Feb. 24, Bethune-Cookman at Tuskegee; Saturday, Feb. 27, Alabama State at Tuskegee.

Florida, Xavier, Bethune Cookman Quints Advance In 20th SIAC Hardwood Tourney

BY MARION E. JACKSON

LOGAN HALL GYMNASIUM, TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, Ala. — (SNS) — Florida A. and M. College, Xavier University and Bethune Cookman College, three of the four seeded teams chalked up their opening games in the win column as the 20th annual SIAC Basketball Tournament got underway here Thursday afternoon.

At press time, the Morehouse College Maroon Tigers, seeded in the No. 3 spot, were matching shots with the Tuskegee Institute Golden Tigers.

FLORIDA, 'BAMA STATE SET SCORING RECORD

In the second opening round contest, the Florida Rattlers, defending tournament champions, out-shot the fast-breaking Alabama State Hornets, 108-97. These traditional conference rivals scored a total of 205 points to set a tournament scoring record for a single game.

The second-seeded Xavier Gold Rush hoopsters breezed to a 79-58 verdict over the Knoxville College Bulldogs to move into the semi-finals. Xavier led 25-21 at the quarter; 44-35 at half time and forged a 56-42 margin at the end of the third period.

The fourth-seeded Bethune Cookman Wildcats rolled to a 74-58 victory over the Fort Valley State Wild cats. Bethune Cookman out front, 21-14 at the quarter; 38-34 at intermission and 51-46 at the end of the third period. Fort Valley State closed the gap and led for a brief period in the third quarter.

CLOCK DELAYS PLAY

The big electric time clock got out of order, delaying play throughout the afternoon and night.

Officials for the tournament are Vernon Colbert (Johnson C. Smith); Lunis C. Ballard (Virginia State); Pete Butler (Colorado); and Franklin Taylor (Alabama State).

The first semi-finals game gets underway at 6:30 (CST) tonight.

FIRST ROUND

TUSKEGEE	73
CLARK	62
FLORIDA	108
ALABAMA STATE	97

QUARTER - FINALS

XAVIER	79
KNOXVILLE	58
BETHUNE COOKMAN	74
FORT VALLEY STATE	58

GAMES TONIGHT

Xavier Vs. Winner Morehouse-Tuskegee game.

Bethune Cookman Vs. Winner Florida-Fisk game.

Tuskegee Rips Clark, 73-62 In Opener Of SIAC Tourney

BY MARION E. JACKSON

TUSKEGEE, Ala. — (SNS) — Tuskegee Institute defeated Clark College 73-62 in the opening round of the SIAC tournament.

The Panthers led 16-13 at the end of the first period. Tuskegee knotted the count at 31-31 at halftime. The Golden Tigers led 54-41 at the end of the third frame.

A flurry of baskets sent the victors ahead to stay in the fourth frame although Clark College fought within the range.

Fouls hurt the Panthers and with four of their starters flagged from the contest. The margin was too great to overcome.

Big Roman (Doc) Turmon fouled out with eleven and a half minutes remaining on the game clock. With seven and a half minutes to go officials thumbed Robert Thompson to the sidelines. Harold Hubbard and Darius Hairston were next to go the exit route.

With four of the Panthers big scorers watching from the bench, the Panthers were impotent but they never stopped hustling and gave the Golden Tigers anxious moments until the final gun.

Tuskegee finished the game minus Willis Hockett, Rigoberto Garcia, and Charles Bonner.

BOX SCORES

Tuskegee (73)	FG.	FT.	TPS.
Hockett	5	4	14
Johnson	4	7	15
Trawick	6	2	14
Bonner	4	2	10
Garcia	5	3	13
Gaston	2	1	5
L. Johnson	0	1	1
C. Mackel	0	1	1
TOTALS	26	21	73

Clark (62)	FG.	FT.	TPS.
Turmon	5	2	12
Hairston	9	2	20
Hubbard	3	1	8
Swain	2	2	6
Thompson	1	1	1
Daniels	0	1	1
Holloway	3	1	7
Clark	2	1	5
TOTALS	25	12	62

Gala Parade Will Precede "Dixie Classic" Game In Cramton Bowl

Bands, floats and marching units in a colorful parade down Montgomery's historic Dexter Avenue will make up the opening spectacle of the traditional Thanksgiving Day meeting between Tuskegee Institute's Golden Tigers and the Hornets of Alabama State College. The parade is scheduled for 9 a.m. and kickoff time will be 1:30 p.m. in Cramton Bowl.

The game is rated as one of the most colorful in the South and advance reports indicate that this year's "Dixie Classic" may break all attendance marks. As usual, a large crowd of Tuskegee fans will follow their favorites to Montgomery.

The Hornets triumphed last year, 28-13, after one of the most torrid battles played between the two schools.

Alabama State coaches and players have scouted the Golden Tigers several times this season and should know what to expect from Tuskegee Tuesday

Tuskegee Coach Cleve Abbott and several of his key players were in Montgomery during the past week end. The Golden Tigers mentor spent a lengthy session in the Bowl in an effort to familiarize his players with the Cramton layout.

Players designated by Coach Abbott to start for Tuskegee are: Tyree Allen, left end; Robert Cooper, left tackle; James George, left guard; Captain Milton Ward, center; Freddie Baker, right guard; George Sherrell, right tackle; Edward Scarborough, right end; William Grant, quarterback; Fred Gaston, left halfback; Eugene Dickerson, right halfback; James Davis, fullback.

Golden Tigers Start Drive For Top Position In 1953 Conference Football Race

A small number of Golden Tigers Monday afternoon threw their hats in the ring, declaring themselves in the running for a top spot in the Southern Intercollegiate Athletic Conference 1953 football race.

Monday night coaches and players assembled in the lecture room of Logan Hall and spent an hour and a half getting acquainted, talking over the Summer season and outlining the work which must be done in the immediate future in order to be ready for the opening game with Alabama A. & M. College to be played in the Alumni Bowl Saturday afternoon, Sept. 19.

The coaches plan two workouts a day—a drill in the early morning with the men as thin clads, and another in the later afternoon in regular football equipmnet. A regulation game has been scheduled for the early part of next week, Coach Abbott said.

Among the men reporting are James Reddick, right halfback, Bay Minette, Ala.; Miles McAfee, left halfback, Atlanta; Flournoy Lynch, fullback, Miami, Fla.; Eugene Dickerson, halfback, Atlanta; William Grant, quarterback, Auburn, Ala.; William Atkinson, quarterback, Aiken, S. C.; Augustus Taylor, quarterback, New Orleans; James Davis, fullback; Birmingham.

Allen Williams, end, Miami; Leon Stewart, guard, Birmingham; Reginald Renthrope, guard, Tuskegee Institute; Clarence Burley, center, Miami; Clayton Payton, tackle, Rome, Ga.; Bernadean Showers, end, Birmingham; James George, guard, Jacksonville, Fla.; Reginald Bassa, end, Hastings, Fla.; Fred Baker, guard, Atlanta; Leon Leonard, tackle, Birmingham and Milton Ward, center, Atlanta.

It will be several days before the freshmen, who have just begun to arrive, can be properly placed in positions where they will be most useful. Th coaches talked with three promising prospects and indicated later that they would use these men in places where they had not previously playde. These men indicated that they would be willing to respond to the coaches' wishes in the matter.

The coaches will devote much time in preparation for the opening clash with the Bulldogs of A. & M. College. Last year at Nromal, where the Bulldogs have their headquarters, they held the Golden Tigers to a 6-6 tie score.

Coach Cleve Abbott has it on good authority that this year the Bulldogs are heavier and faster than they were last year and that they are anxious to get a crack at the Golden Tigers. A lively battle may be expected.

Tigers Lose To Tenacious Fisk Team

The Fisk University Bulldogs, displaying all the tenacity of that species, conquered the Tuskegee Golden Tigers, 13 to 7, in a well-played game in the Alumni Bowl Saturday afternoon.

Receiving the kickoff, Fisk started a sustained drive which ended in the first score of the game. Parker went over from the four-yard line. The try for the extra point failed. Tuskegee elected to receive, but made little headway, whereupon the game assumed its defensive character that continued well into the fourth quarter.

Late in the waning moments Fisk scored again when J. W. White terminated another continuous Bulldog drive by going over from the four-yard line to give the Fisk Bulldogs their second touchdown. J. W. White, who scored the tally, made the conversion.

This last touchdown for Fisk apparently stung the Golden Tigers to the quick. Tuskegee elected to receive the kickoff and immediately thereafter Atkinson, Tiger quarterback, passed to Scarborough which resulted in a gain of 45-yards to the Fisk 15-yard line. William Morris, former Tuskegee Institute High School star, skirted the end for 15-yards and the Tiger score. Miles McAfe booted a perfect placement for extra point as the game ende

Clark Puts Over Three Tallies To Defeat Institute

Coach Sonny Epps' Clark College Panthers packed far too many guns for the Tuskegee Golden Tigers last Friday night at Rickwood Field in Birmingham and as the Georgians came off on the long end of an 18-0 win before 400 spectators.

Quarterback Offie Clark spearheaded the Panthers attack and for the second year in a row Coach Cleve Abbott's eleven saw too much of the talented T quarterback.

The Atlanta team scored in the first quarter from one yard out to climax a 77-yard drive, Halfback Newt Solomon getting the clincher on a smash through the line. During the scoring march the Panthers went to the air to pick up 42 of the 77 yards.

Quarterback Clark engineered the second score for the visitors in the second quarter, taking a punt on his own 10-yard line and going all the way to pay dirt, leaving a string of would-be tacklers in the wake of his 90-yard gallop.

With the ball resting on the Tigers' 38-yard stripe in the fourth quarter, Halfback Melvin Brown took charge to get the final points for the Panthers, scotting all the way to the goal in one wild dash.

The Clark forewall outplayed the Tigers all night and the 'Gees were never able to get a scoring march under way.

It was Clark's fourth win in the 11-game series, the Tigers having won 11 and one tilt ending in a tie.

Statistics:

	Clark	usk.
First Downs	11	4
Passes Attempted	17	14
Passes Completed	7	5
Yards Rushing	322	30
Yards Passing	147	65
Yards Penalized	100	30
Fumbles Recorved	3	3
Punting Average	34	37

Golden Tigers Will Open 1953 Football Campaign At Home Against A. & M.

Tuskegee's Golden Tigers—1953 version—will open the football season at home on Saturday, Sept. 19 against Alabama A & M College, the first of a 10-game campaign that will see the Institute warriors perform five times on the home grounds. The season will close with the traditional Thanksgiving Day game with Alabama State College in Cramton Bowl, Montgomery.

The Tiger coaching staff foresees a formidable task in rounding out a team for one of the toughest schedules undertaken in the past several years. Candidates for the team have been called for their first practice Tuesday morning, Sept. 1, at 8 a.m. The day before, on Monday, Aug. 31, candidates will report for physical examination and issuance of uniforms.

A promising crop of freshman is coming up and the coaching staff hopes to be able to return to the kicking and passing game that was quite a factor in keeping the Tigers rolling along in former years.

The team this year will be built around James Reddick, Miles McAfee, Flournoy Lynch, Eugene Dickerson, William Grant, William Atkinson, Taylor Augustus and James Davis in the backfield. The forward wall will rely on such stalwarts as Allen Williams, Leon Stewart, Reginald Renthorpe, Clarence Beverly, Clayton Payton, Bernadean Showers, James George, Reginald Bassa, Freddie Baker, Leon Leonard and Milton Ward.

The schedule:

Saturday, Sept. 19, Alabama A. & M., here; Saturday, Sept 26, Xavier University, here; Saturday, Oct. 3, Fisk University, here; Friday, Oct. 9, Clark College Birmingham, (night); Saturday, Oct. 17, Knoxville College, here (Homecoming); Friday, Oct. 23, Morehouse College, Columbus, (night); Saturday, Oct. 31, Fort Valley State College, there; Saturday, Nov. 7, Tougaloo College, here; Sautrday, Nov. 14, Dillard University, New Orleans; Thursday, Nov. 26, Alabama State College, Montgomery.

Tuskegee Takes TougalooCollege In Battle 39-0

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, Ala. — Scoring in every quarter the Tuskegee Institute Golden Tiger offensive rolled into high gear against Tougaloo College, Tougaloo, Miss., in the last home game of the season, 39 to 0 here this afternoon.

Fred Gaston, climaxed the first Tuskegee sustained drive by circling left end for 20 yards for the initial Tiger score. William Grant, Golden Tiger quarterback, sneaked over from the 3-yard line to score Tuskegee's second markeer, midway the first period. James George interceted a Tougaloo pass and sprinted 40 yards for the Cadets only score in the second period.

Fred Gaston, who enjoyed one of his best afternoons, gaining ground for the Golden Tiger attack, slipped around left end in the third quarter to put Tuskegee in the lead. 26 to 0. Miles McAfee continued what Fred Gaston had started. McAfee sparked two Tuskegee drives, going over late in the third quarter from the 1-yard line and kicking the extra point himself. In the fourth quarter McAfee, after several long runs, hit pay territory from his 5-yard line to give the Abbottmen a 39 to 0 lead which ended Tuskegee's. Greatest parade of touchdowns for the current season.

Making many determined efforts the Tougaloo attack, though varied and cunning, simply could not gather the impetus needed to score. Especially notable were the passing and the punting that gave the Tiger secondary some moments of apprehension throughout the game.

Tuskegee, Xavier Elevens Battle To Scoreless Tie

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, Ala. — The Golden Tigers of Tuskegee Institute played the Gold Rush team of Xavier University of New Orleans to a scoreless tie on a soggy field drenched by heavy rains here Saturday afternoon in the Alumni Bowl.

In pre-season rating the Xavier Gold Rush was definitely the favorite. However, Tuskegee staged a surprise by preventing Xavier from crossing the goal line. Last year in New Orleans Xavier outclassed Tuskegee, 46 to 0.

The most threatening drive of the visitors came in the second period when Xavier after making two first downs, deep in Tiger territory, lost the ball when halfback Miller fumbled.

PUNTING DUEL DEVELOPS

Immediately thereafter the game became a punting duel between Peter Pristley, quarterback, and William Atkinson, quarterback, Tuskegee. Priestley did some exceptional punting although the field and ball were slippery. In one series of punt exchanges Priestley booted the ball 62, 45, and 30 yards; while Atkinson made two 45 yard punts at strategic moments to help the Tiger cause.

Statistically Xavier enjoyed the advantage. By rushing Xavier made 7 first downs to Tuskegee's 2; in yardage Xavier gained 118 to Tuskegee's 83.

Tuskegee's one golden moment came in the closing seconds of the game. With 55 seconds left to play Benjamin Prescott, Xavier University's safety man attempted to run after receiving Atkinson's punt Prescott was tackled and fumbled the ball. Tuskegee recovered but failed to score after four valient attempts.

Morehouse Batters Tuskegee 32 To 12

BY BOB PRUITT

COLUMBUS, Ga. — Scoring in every period, the Maroon Tigers of Morehouse College of Atlanta defeated Tuskegee Institute Golden Tigers, 32-12, last Friday night at Memorial Stadium in the 18th annual football classic before an estimated crowd of 10,000 fans.

The victory by the Atlanta crew avenged the 59-6 loss suffered last year when the Maroon Tigers, entering the game as a top-heavy favorite, never could get rolling, and tasted its worst defeat in the history of the classic.

Morehouse, led by ace quarterback Joe McCoy, one of the finest "T" ball handlers seen in these parts in many a year, scored a touchdown in the initial period, added two more in the second and one in each the third and fourth periods. Tuskegee's two TD's came in the final canto.

McCoy along with Walter Booker, Donn Clendenon, Phil Darley, Jitters Smith and Wade, kept the Morehouse offensive machine in high gear throughout the entire game. The best offensive weapon for Tuskegee was quarterback Bill Atkinson along with Fred Gaston, Miles McAfee, Willie Scott and Willie Vincent who did most of the ball carrying for the Golden Tigers.

HALFTIME SHOW

The halftime show, one of the great attractions of this annual game, was again brilliant and colorful. Spencer High of Columbus, making its first appearance in the long series, took the field first. Tuskegee was next, with Morehouse last in a colorful lightspangled array of marching and musical selections.

As to the game itself, Morehouse kicked off, but three plays by the Golden Tigers failed to net a first down and forced a kick. A fumble by Morehouse on the first play from scrimmage returned the ball to Tuskegee but again the Golden Tigers failed to gain.

Following three exchanges of punts, Morehouse took possession on its own 46 to start its first touchdown drive. A McCoy to Clendenon pass, good for 17 yards and with Smith picking up 22 yards on four carries, put the ball on the Tuskegee six where McCoy, on a wide end sweep, went over for the initial score of the game. The placement was blocked and Morehouse led, 6-0, late in the first period.

Early in the second period, a bad Tuskegee punt gave Morehouse the ball on the Golden Tigers' 42 yard line and the Maroon Tigers were off to another TD drive. Dawson Lewis and Booker carried for two quick first downs and two more rushing plays put the ball on the six. McCoy attempted to hit Clendenon again but the aerial was wide, but the second attempt by the wiley Morehouse quarterback to the slim, fast-moving end, was completed for a touchdown. Again the kick was no good and it was a 12-0 score.

A fumble on the first play following the kickoff returned the ball to Morehouse and set the stage for the third Maroon Tiger score. Carries by Booker, Lewis and Leonard Lee moved the ball to the 16 where Wade hit tackle, picked up two blockers and went the distance for the score. This time a pass from Clendenon to Fred Holmes accounted for the extra point and Morehouse led, 19-0. The half ended without further scoring.

COMES BACK STRONG

Following the intermission, Morehouse came back as strong as ever and picked up its fourth TD of the game after a little over three minutes of the period had elapsed. A sustained Maroon Tiger drive that netted 47 yards to put the ball on the 37 after a 15-yard penalty had been imposed on Morehouse, McCoy hit Holmes on the three and Holmes, side-stepped a would-be tackler, went over for the score. The play was good for 7 yards and gave Morehouse a 26-0 advantage.

Neither team managed to get an offensive rolling in the remaining minutes of the period, but as the fourth and final quarter started an inspired Tuskegee team took command of the game to score twice and threaten again only to lose the ball six yards from the goal on a fumble.

The first Tuskegee touchdown drive started late in the third period but really gained speed in the fourth as Morris, Dickerson and Vincent led the attack. The 43 yard drive was climaxed when Atkinson plunged over from a yard out to crack the ice for the Golden Tigers. Allen's placement attempt was blocked and it was a 26-6 ball game.

A fumble on the kickoff sparked another Tuskegee scoring drive. This time the drive started on the 36 yard line of the Atlanta school, and with Atkinson, Morris and Gaston paving the way, the Golden Tigers pushed to the 25 where Scott, replacing Atkinson at quarterback, hit Dickerson with a 22-yard pass. Dickerson was hit hard and fumbled, the ball rolling into the end zone where Leonard Mathews recovered for a Tuskegee touchdown. The placement failed and Morehouse led, 26-12.

With less than five minutes remaining in the game, Morehouse chalked up its final touchdown. Led by Johnny Lester who carried the mail for 42 of 77 yards in the drive, the Maroon Tigers scored when Wade hit Holmes on the three and he went over for the score. Lester then kicked the extra point and that was the game.

Tuskegee threatened in the waning stages of the game, moving the ball from its own 25 to the Morehouse four before Grant, attempting to score on a quarterback sneak, fumbled and Morehouse recovered The Maroon Tigers then ran the clock out.

Score by periods:

Morehouse	6	13	6	7	—32
Tuskegee	0	0	0	12	—12

Scoring: Morehouse — touchdowns—McCoy, Clendenon, Wade, Holmes (2). PAT — Holmes (on pass from Clendenon), Lester. Tuskegee — touchdowns — Atkinson, Mathews.

Institute Tigers Play Scoreless Tie With Xavier

The Golden Tigers of Tuskegee Institute played the Gold Rush team of Xavier University of New Orleans to a scoreless tie on a field drenched by heavy rains Saturday afternoon in the Alumni Bowl.

In preseason rating the Xavier Gold Rush was definitely a favorite. However, Tuskegee staged a surprise by preventing Xavier from crossing the goal line. Last year in New Orleans Xavier outclassed Tuskegee, 46 to 0.

The most threatening drive of the visitors came in the second period when Xavier after making two first downs, deep in Tiger territory, lost the ball when Halfback Miller fumbled. Immediately thereafter the game became a punting duel between Peter Priestley, Xavier quarterback, and William Atkinson, quarterback, Tuskegee. Priestley did some excellent punting although the field and ball were slippery. In one series of punt exchanges, Priestley booted the ball 62, 45 and 30 yards; while Atkinson made two 45 yard punts at strategic moments to help the Tiger cause.

Statistically, Xavier enjoyed the advantage. By rushing Xavier made 7 first downs to Tuskegee's 2; in yardage Xavier gained 118 to Tuskegee's 83.

Tuskegee's one golden moment came in the closing seconds of the game. With 55 seconds left to play Benjamin Prescott, Xavier University's safety man attempted to run after receiving Atkinson's punt. Prescott was tackled and fumbled the ball. Tuskegee recovered. But failed to score after four valient attempts.

Tuskegee Grid Schedule Tough

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, Ala. — Football practice at Tuskegee institute will start at 8 o'clock Tuesday morning, Sept. 1. All candidates for the team will report Monday, Aug. 31, for physical examination and to be issued uniforms. Considerable hard work must be done in order to prepare the Golden Tigers for the toughest schedule of 10 games which has been attempted during the past several years.

The team this year will be built around James Readick, Miles McAfee, Flournoy Lynch, Eugene Dickerson, William Grant, William Atkinson, Taylor Augustus and James Davis, backs.

Allen Williams, Leon Stewart, Reginald Hunthrope, Clarence Beverley, Clayton Payton, Bernadean Showers, James George, Reginald Bassa Freddie Baker, Legh Leonard and Milton Ward, linemen.

Members of the coaching staff hope with the large number of freshmen expected to enroll early in September, that Tuskegee may be able to return to the kicking and passing game, quite a factor in keeping the Tigers rolling along not so many years ago.

No punting prospects have been uncovered, but the Tiger Chieftain has a way of developing players to meet the emergency. The 1953 season opens at the institute Saturday, Sept. 19, with Alabama A. and M. college as the opponent, and ends with the traditional Thanksgiving day game with Alabama State college at Cramton Bowl in Montgomery.

THE SCHEDULE

Sept. 19—Tuskegee vs. Alabama A. & I. college at Tuskegee.
Sept. 26—Tuskegee vs. Xavier U. at Tuskegee.
Oct. 3—Tuskegee vs. Fisk U. at Tuskegee.
Oct. 9—Tuskegee vs. Clark college at [illegible] (night).
Oct. 17—Tuskegee vs. Knoxville college (Homecoming).
Oct. 23—Tuskegee vs. Morehouse college at Columbus (night).
Oct. 31—Tuskegee vs. Ft. Valley State college at Ft. Valley.
Nov. 7—Tuskegee vs. Tougaloo college at Tuskegee.
Nov. 14—Tuskegee vs. Dillard U. at New Orleans.
Nov. 26—Tuskegee at Alabama State college at Montgomery.

Institute Tigers Swamp Tougaloo By 39 To 0 Score

Scoring in every quarter, the Tuskegee Institute Golden Tigers offensive rolled into high gear against Tougaloo College, Tougaloo, Miss., in the last home game of the season, 39 to 0, here Saturday afternoon.

Fred Gaston climaxed the first Tuskegee sustained drive by circling left end for 20 yards for the initial Tiger score. William Grant, TI quarterback, sneaked over from the three yard line to score the second marker midway the first period. James George intercepted a Tougaloo pass and sprinted 40 yards for Tuskegee's only score in the second period.

Gaston, who enjoyed one of his best afternoons, gaining ground for the Golden Tiger attack, slipped around left end in the third quarter to put Tuskegee in the lead, 26 to 0. Miles McAfee continued what Gaston had started after several long runs, hit pay dirt in the fourth quarter from the one yard line and kicking the extra point himself. In the fourth quarter McAfee sparked two Tuskegee drives, going over late in the third quarter from his five yard line to give the Abbottmen a 39 to 0 score. Especially notable were the greatest parade of touchdowns that gave Tuskegee the impetus needed to tinued many a determined efforts of the Tiger secondary some momforts, the Tougaloo attack, though varied and cunning, simply could not gather the passing and punting that gave for the current season.

Golden Tigers Lose To Morehouse In Hard-Fought Game At Columbus

Scoring in every period, the Maroon Tigers of Morehouse College of Atlanta defeated Tuskegee Institute's Golden Tigers, 32-12 last Friday night at Memorial Stadium, Columbus, Ga., in the 18th annual Negro football classic before an estimated crowd of 19,000 fans.

The victory by the Atlanta crew avenged the 59-6 loss suffered last year when the Maroon Tigers, entering the game as a top-heavy favorite, never could get rolling, and tasted its worst defeat in the history of the classic.

Morehouse, led by ace quarterback Joe McCoy, one of the finest "T" ball handlers seen in these parts in many a year, scored a touchdown in the initial period, added two more in the second, and one in each the third and fourth periods. Tuskegee's two TD's came in the final canto.

McCoy, along with Walter Brooker, Donn Clendenon, Phil Darley, Jitters Smith and C. Wade, kept the Morehouse offensive machine in high gear throughout the entire game. The best offfensive weapon for Tuskegee was quarterback Bill Atkinson along with Fred Gaston, Miles McAfee, Willie Scott and Willie Vincent who did most of the ball carrying for the Golden Tigers.

The halftime show, one of the great attraction of this annual game, was again brilliant and colorful. Spencer High of Columbus, making its first appearance in the long series, took the field first. Tuskegee was next, with Morehouse last in a colorful light-spangled array of marching and musical selections.

A fumble on the kickoff sparked another Tuskegee scoring drive. This time the drive started on the 36 yard line of the Atlanta school, and with Atkinson, Morris and Gaston paving the way, the Golden Tigers pushed to the 25 where Scott, replacing Atkinson at quarterback, hit Dickerson with a 22-yard pass. Dickerson was hit hard and fumbled, the ball rolling into the end zone where Leonard Mathews recovered for a Tuskegee touchdown. The replacement failed.

Score by periods:

Morehouse	6	13	6	7	—32
Tuskegee	0	0	0	12	—12

Scoring: Morehouse — touchdowns—McCoy Clendenon, Wade, Holmes (2). PAT — Holmes (on pass from Clendeoon), Lester, Tuskegee — touchdowns — Atkinson, Mathews.

Golden Tigers Face Xavier After Beating A. & M. Here

The Gold Rush, Xavier University's strong talent-studded grid combination of New Orleans, will play Tuskegee's Golden Tigers Saturday afternoon in the Alumni Bowl, starting at 2 p. m.

Usually a vigorous contender for Conference championship honors, Xavier this year, led by Captain Nathan Lewis, tackle, Houston, Tex.; Ernest Campbell, 222-pound guard; Thomas Rhodeman, Vidal Easton, Jesse Garrison, Richard Carter and Herman Prevost, will field a team that should win the respect of all Southern Conference foes. Xavier has excellent reserve strength, a good running attack as well as a sturdy forward wall.

While the Tigers did not score a convincing victory over the Bulldogs of Alabama A & M College, Huntsville, however, the 6-2 triumph is now in the books. The A & M team was heavier and more experienced, but the Tigers were and their strategy paid off.

The entire squad was idle Monday. Practice was called off on account of the sudden death of Mrs. Amelia Cromwell early Friday morning, which saddened the campus and community. Mrs. Roberts' association with physical education and athletics at Tuskegee Institute dates back to the year 1905 when she joined the faculty as head of the physical education departmet for women.

Regular periods of practice were held each afternoon, beginnig Tuesday, Coach Abbott stated, and inasmuch as there were several Xavier scouts in the stands Saturday, several changes will be made in the Tiger lineup.

A scoring pass four minutes after the kickoff gave Tuskegee's Golden Tigers a 6-2 victory here Saturday over a hard-running Alabama A&M College foe that couldn't hold onto the rain-soaked, mud-covered ball.

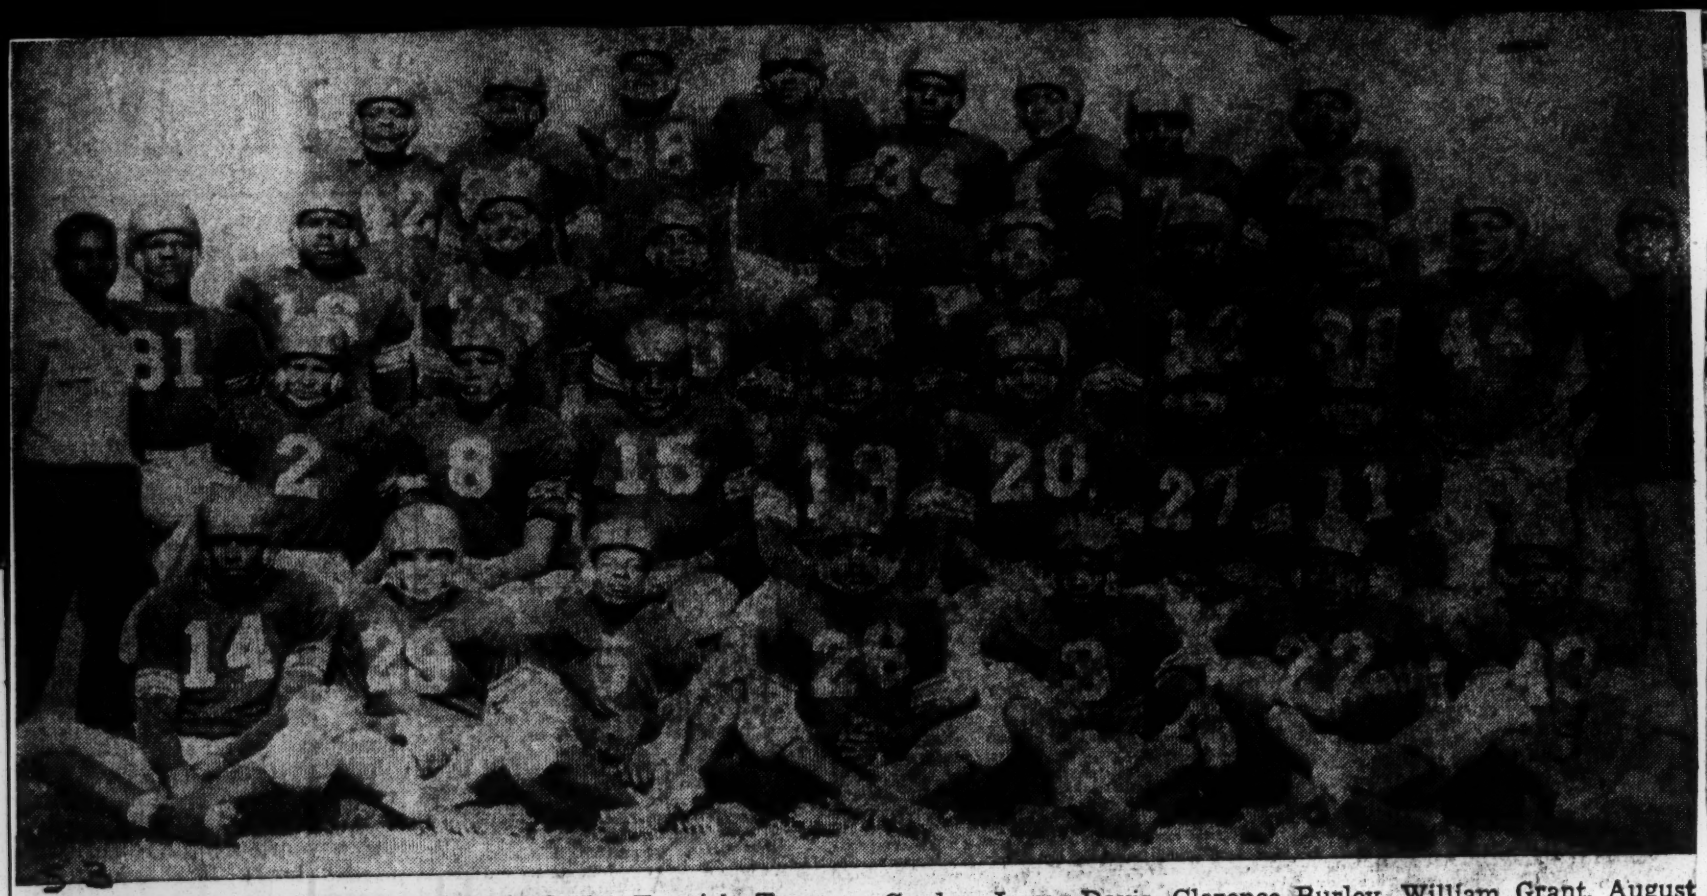
Fumbles by the Bulldogs from Huntsville saved the game for Tuskegee. A&M backs broke through the Golden Tiger line repeatedly only to lose their scoring chance through one fumble after another.

Tuskegee's touchdown came after Bulldog back Ruben Pierce let the ball get away on his own 21. Three line smashes covered seven yards, then Tiger halfback Fred Gaston fired a 14-yard scoring pass to Allen Williams in the end zone. Gaston's kick failed.

A&M's two points came in the closing period when the Bulldogs' James Reddick intentionally grounded the ball behind his goal for a safety. But it brought the ball out to the 20, so Tuskegee could punt out of danger.

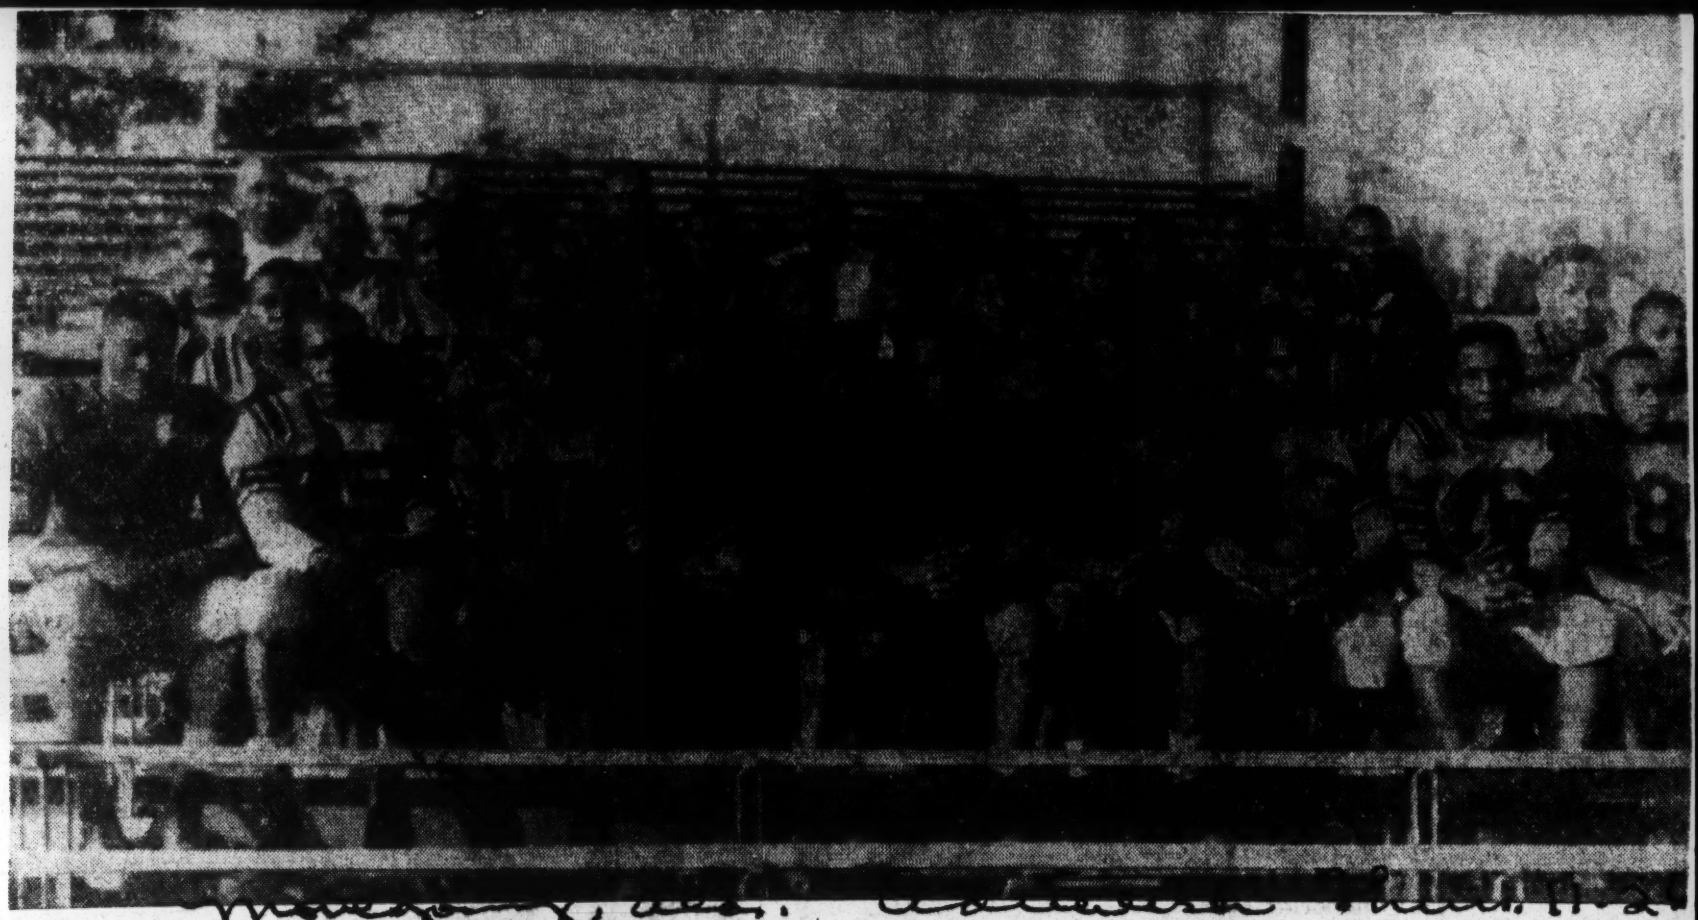
The visitors made several thrusts deep into Tuskegee terrain. One drive went to the six but fizzled when a pass oozed away from the receiver.

It's Football In The Air Today At Cramton Bowl!



FIRST ROW SITTING, LEFT TO RIGHT: Joe Trawick, Tyree Allen, David Scott, Lorenzo Whitfield, Flournoy Lynch, Jodie Jones, John Ellis. Second row, left to right: Miles McAfee, Eugene Dickerson, Milton Ward, Leon Stewart, James Reddick, Reginald Rentrope, William Atkinson. Third row, left to right: Elevel Jackson, manager; James George, Clayton Patman, Willie Corder, James Davis, Clarence Burley, William Grant, August Taylor, Charles McDonald, Robert Cooper, Thomas Dixon, manager. Fourth row, left to right: Leroy Jackson, James Scissum, George Sherrell, Harold Upshaw, Herman Hollis, Arnold Flack, Donnie Fielder, Willie Vincent.

PICTURE ON RIGHT—Miss Tuskegee and her attendants (left to right) are Miss Helen Moore (attendant), a senior in the school of education; Miss Jacquelin Herman (Miss Tuskegee of 1953), a senior in the department of institution management; and Miss Gwendolyn Martinez (attendant), also a senior in the school of education. Picture above is Algernon Boddie, a senior in the school of industrial education, twirling his baton.



'BAMA STATE 1953 VARSITY FOOTBALL SQUAD — Reading left to right: (first row) Theodore Ward, Cornell Torrence, Charles L. Carter, David Bonner, William Stokes, Henry Webb, Howard Green, Maurice Williams, Henry Bey; (second row) Patrick Greer, Lorenza Williams, James C. Hall, Ulysses Williams, Edward Patterson, Fred Jackson, Edward Davis, Jimmie L. Johnson; (third row) Arthur Shellman, Alfred Peavy, Jackie Middleton, James A. Hardy, Robert Baxter, Otis Leftwich; (fourth row) Calloway Sherman, Willie Tolliver, Ervin Thompson, Luther Jordan, Robert Hogan, Walter White; (fifth row) Coach C. E. Anderson, Jesse Clay, John Stinson, Coach Arthur E. Simmons, William Gary, Clarence White.

MISS GERALDINE JOHNSON
(Miss Alabama State)

MISS BETTY JEAN JOHNSON
(Attendant)

MISS DOROTHY BELL
(Majorette)

MISS MART ALICE SPEARS
(Attendant)

Morehouse Rips Tuskegee, 61-44

Atlanta Wined

For Sixth Consecutive Victory

Atlanta, Ga.

BY JOEL W. SMITH

Ronald Weaver, towering 6-6 center of Atlanta, turned in a scintillating performance as he led the Morehouse College Maroon Tigers to a 61-44 victory over the Tuskegee Institute Golden Tigers, Saturday night, at the Morehouse Gymnasium. This clean-cut verdict gave the Maroon Tigers their sixth consecutive win. Sat. 1-14-53

In a thrilling preliminary contest the star-studded WERD cagers of the Butler St. YMCA Basketball loop overpowered the Morehouse Intramural All-Stars, 43-32 Maceo Holloway set the pace with 15 points, as WERD came from behind to win after trailing 20-17 at half-time. Wiley Jackson was high point man for the Intramural All-Stars with 10 points. 12.4

FIRST QUARTER NIP-AND-TUCK

The first quarter was a typical nip-and-tuck affair and the lead see-sawed back and forth exactly six times. George Ross, Clifford Jackson and Weaver gave Morehouse a 4-0 lead. Willie Hockett, Tuskegee's free-wheeling sharpshooter from Wichita, Kansas scored twice from the free throw lanes and cashed in on a field goal to knot the score, 4-4.

The Golden Tigers stepped out front on a double-decker by Joe Trawick, setting the stage for the see-saw battle. Then after the score was deadlocked 6-6 and 11-11, Weaver forged a 16-12 Morehouse lead at the end of the period.

Bobby Jones rippled the strings with a long shot as the Maroon Tigers pulled away for a 1912 count. Charles Mackel, Chicago, Ill. sank two field goals to close the gap, 22-18, then Ross, Weaver and Jones teamed up to increase the margin to 29-19 at intermission.

MAROON TIGERS CONTINUE PACE

The Maroon Tigers continued their sensational pace in the third period and inspite of a quick bas- Hope, Ala.; and three charity toss- ket by Charles Bonner, of Fair es by Regoberto Garcia, of ampa, Fla., maintained a comportable 10- point advantage. Ross poped in two long, one-handed shots to give Morehouse a 45-29 margin at the end of the third period. From this pointfi the Maroon Tigers went on to win with ease.

Weaver caged 32 points to emerge high point man for the evening and Ross finished in second with 14. Hockett was the top scorer for Tuskegee with 11 points. Bonner left the game for excessive fouls early in the third period and Trawick made his exit at the nine-minute-mark.

SUMMARY

MOREHOUSE	B	F	TP
Jackson, f	1	4	6
Jones, f	2	1	5
Weaver, c	12	8	32
Alexander, g	0	0	0
Ross, g	4	6	16
Clendenon	1	1	3
Richardson	0	1	1
TOTALS	20	21	61

TUSKEGEE	B	F	TP
Hockett, f	3	5	11
Garcia, f	1	4	6
Bonner, c	1	3	5
F. Johnson, g	0	1	1
Trawick, g	2	0	4
Mackel	2	1	5
Abernathy	2	1	5
Dunn	1	1	3
L. Johnson	1	0	2
Craig	1	0	2
TOTALS	14	16	44

OFFICIALS: Raymond Wainwright (Clark) referee; Charles Boswell (Morehouse) umpire.

SPORTS OF THE WORLD

By Marion E. Jackson

Like old man river, Frank Forbes and his incredible basketball teams keep rolling along. Now comes another final and the spotlight again beams on the maroon and white hoopsters from Atlanta.

Win, lose or draw, the Maroon will give a creditable showing in the consolation round here tonight in the cavernous reaches of Logan Hall where so many Forbes-coached greats have had their day in the sun.

Sitting here pecking away on this piece, as the crowds file out after the semi-finals, I remember Jerome Harris, the showman, the incomparable, leading the Forbesmen to a storybook conquest back in 1946. Even today there comes tears as one remembers the Atlantans scrambling out of the stands, in ones and twos and bunches, onto the main floor where they shouted the school song. And then there was another year and another star, Irwin "Mr. Basketball" Tompkins. And always Frank "Dr. Cool" Forbes, imperturable, inscrutable, thinking, thinking and organizing.

He turned out many, many other stars Silas "Smoky" Davis, Pinky Haines, Felix Harris, George Coffee, Junie Cobb, Oliver Brooks, Bruce Phillips, Wiley Jackson and many others.

And here in Tuskegee, the man has become something of a legend. Blase Tuskegeeans have become used to a Maroon Tigers quintet in the finals.

Already, the stream of cars are pouring in from Atlanta. There will be more, come nightfall. Many stayed at home, waiting for the results which indicated that an Atlanta team would be in the finals.

HERE AND THERE — Walter Dukes, the Seton Hall scoring whiz closed his regular season play with a total of 791 points for 30 games and an average of 26.4 points which placed him behind only Furman's Frank Selvy, 29.7 and Seattle's Johnny O'Brien...

The fabulous Bobo Newsom of the Philadelphia Athletics is baseball's most traded player. Records show Newsom has been swapped 27 times in 27 years. At one time or another he pitched for all three New York clubs—Dodgers, Yankees and Giants....

Logan Hall, Tuskegee Institute's all purpose facility, is the largest athletic installation in the Southern Intercollegiate Athletic Conference....

The Savannah State Tigerettes won the Southeastern Athletic Conference visitation crown under the helm of Coach Ella W. Fischer and Assistant Coach Jerry Hooper. The Tigerettes won all conference games and wound up the season with a seven and one record. Their only setback was to the Bethune-Cookman girls. In a return engagement the Tigerettes outhustled the Bethune girls 73-25....

Buzzy Bavasi, Dodger vice-president made a bet with Roy Campanella of a 30 dollar hat that he couldn't report to training camp in shape. After winning Campy settled the bet for $20 cash....

Xavier University cagers are happy over their best season in years. The 49ners defeated all of the outstanding teams in the SIAC including Florida A and M, Bethune-Cookman, LeMoyne, Alabama State and Morris Brown. The Gold Rush closed their regular season play by topping Alabama State 78-68....

Ever wonder why Larry Doby was a holdout in his baseball negotiations with the Cleveland Indians? Well, in six seasons with the Tribe he has compiled a .293 batting average with 729 hits out of 2,487 times at bat. In 713 games, Doby has hit 127 doubles, 30 triples and 115 home runs!!!!

If you doubt his beef against the contract offered him by Hank Greenberg then note last season's record when he played in 140 games and went to bat 519 times collecting 143 hits for a 276 average. He banged out 26 doubles, 8 triples and 32 home runs to win the homerun batting crown from Luke Easter. Along with this Doby scored the most runs in the American League—104 ..

OFF THE CUFF—Morehouse College was tremendously happy over the success of it Windy City basketball game with Fisk University. A huge turnout of Morehouse and Fisk supporters virtually assures a repeat engagement in 1954.

Morehouse and Fisk Alumni in St. Louis are also dickering for a game. There is a possibility such a tilt will be scheduled as a phase of the school's public relations program. Tentative plans for '54 call for Fisk and Morehouse to play in Chicago Saturday night, then spend Sunday sightseeing, before making the trek to St. Louis.

Incidentally, expenses for the game were relatively small. Alumni backers solidly sold the game to Chicago and without a doubt a great deal of goodwill (and prospective students) will come out of the game for both institutions.

SPORTS OF THE WORLD

By Marion E. Jackson

Atlanta World

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, Ala. — (SNS) — The wonder tales of basketball written in Tuskegee Institute's massive Logan Hall could have been lifted from the folklore of Jakob and Wilhelm Grimm, the German philologists who collected fairy tales. For every element associated with the 42 basic plots in story-telling has been utilized in the wild finishes associated with this hoop festival. Last year, it was a double-overtime game, made even more bizarre by the strange spectacle of three Florida A&M players winning over a darkhorse Alabama State team which had led all the way, only to surrender its advantage in the last moments of play. Atlanta, Ga.

Look up the rag-to-riches heroes, Frank Merriwell, the Rovers boys, Tom Sawyer, Rip Van Wrinkle, Hans Christain Anderson and Patrick Henry and the hot stove boys will find you a counterpart in tournament history. Basketball is sports' 'Alice in Wonderland. At tournament time there are always wonders to behold. The Tuskegee tournament guarantees them.

The passing parade of stars, unequalled in the other branches of sports, have blazed across the boards of Logan Hall for their brief hour of stardom and applause. Looking out over the audience into the faces of hundreds of new, eager and excited spectators you catch the expectancy of the crowd. Which team will win? Who will be the star of the hour? What are the new coaching devices to be unveiled? Wheer will mantle of victory fall at the eleventh hour?

We don't have the answer. To me the tournament looks wide open. Tenacious, greedy, covetous wheel of fortune can stop at favored Florida A & M, 'team to beat Xavier U., thirdseeded Morehouse, fourth-ranked Fisk, or Fort Valley State, Bethune-Cookman, Knoxville College, Alabama State, Tuskegee Institute or Clark College. P.7

For basketball is the great equalizer of sports. Victory depends on hustle, determination, agressiveness and the golden touch. Heroes of the past had these requisites, while the loser lacked them. It's a see-saw game. Sat. 3-14-53

One thing all observers agree. This twentieth anniversary version is likely to be the most notable table in history. The teams are few personnel advantages to to height, depth and calibre of material. There are really no exceptional teams. Never before have the experts been so completely stumped.

Last year, glittering record were chalked up by Florida A & M. In '49, '50 and 51, Morris Brown sent top-heavy favorites. Look back down the years and you will see Tuskegee, Florida A & M, Morehouse, Xavier, Clark and 'Bama State alternating in the favored role.

Bust a guess at this year's tournament isn't worth a plugged nickel. For fans have been Knoxville defeat Florida, Bethune-Cookman win over Florida A & M at the district at large of the NAIA tournament them succumb twice in a row to the Rattlers in Daytona Beach and Tallahassee. Xavier University has split with Florida A & M while defeating Bethune-Cookman. Alabama State and Tuskegee have posted wins over Florida A & M. This type of run-around could go on and on.

However, what is apparent is that today's SIAC heroes will have to be born on the tournament floor. Individual stars like Willie Irvin and Harold Donald of Florida, John Chaney and Wycliff Martin of Bethune-Cookman, Esmo Woods and work of Fisk, and Donald Weaver and Ross of Morehouse will have to catch fire, singe the hops and designs and pattern of victory.

Down through the years, this has been true. Coaches like C. Johnson Dunn of 'Bama State, Ted A. Wright, former coach of the fabulous Xavier Ambassadors, Frank L. Forbes of Morehouse, H. B. (Bus) Thompson (who won two championships while at Morris Brown), Thomas Caldwell, the former Morris Brown mentor who had the distinction of winning the visitation and tournament titles in 1951 and they got sacked, Ross C. Owen of Tuskegee Institute and many others will tell you of stars being born on the floor.

One of the most notables instances witnessed by these eyes was in the 1951 tournament when Robert Graves of Morris Brown subbing for Theodore Benson fired the Wolverines to a win over Florida A & M.

Others like to tell of Jerome Harris of Morehouse and even before George Coffee.

All of the colleges have heroes who are now steeped in legend for having performed beyond call of valor in tournament compeition. I can't list them all. As the tournament progresses, they will be exhumed from the archives as the boys argue over beer and pretzels.

However, all will conceded that this year's meet is a tossup. No overwhelming favorite exists. The team to beat is the team that plays. I can't see it any other way.

HERE AND THERE — Morris Brown leads Atlanta's SIAC colleges tournament victories with three. Morehouse has two championships and Clark College one.... Fort Valley State has never won a conference basketball title...

Frank A. Young, venerable sports editor emeritus of the Chicago Defender is on hand for the tournament. Young is one of the wheels behind the national High School basketball tournament which will be held in Nashville, March 26, 27 and 28...

Basketball races are rapidly coming to a close. Last week, the CIAA race tournament was held in Durham, N. C. This weekend, the CIAA race tournament t HD) Southeastern tournament is in progress at Savannah State College, while the SIAC extravaganza goes on here...Midwestern and Southwest conferences do not sponsor tounrnaments...

The Southern Intercollegiate Athletic Conference owes a tribute to Captain R. S. Darnaby, one of the msot respected sports publicists in the Deep South. Every collegiate publicity organization rates Darnaby tops..

Tuskegee Institute is waiting for the close of tournament competition to step up baseball drills...

Jay SAYS

It's A Toss Up!

Chicago, Ill.

TUSKEGEE, Ala. — The 20th annual Southern Intercollegiate conference basketball tournament swings into action Thursday morning of this week and believe you me, at this writing, it is anybody's guess as to the outcome. Xavier university of New Orleans, rated second best team in the conference; Bethune Cookman college of Daytona Beach, Fla., and Tuskegee are being backed heavily by their followers to triumph. But lurking in the shadows of Logan hall, Tuskegee Institute [illegible] be the 1952 tournament cham[illegible] Alabama State college of [illegible]t- gomery. The Horners are [illegible]to sting the hell out of 'em [illegible]ain."

It was Alabama State and Florida A. and M. Rattlers last year in that never-to-be-forgotten final which ended with State victories, 71-67 after two thrilling overtime periods. The score at the end of the regulation game was 56-56 with Florida having pulled everything in the books in the rally from the count. Now holding State to four points in the fourth quarter is a man-sized job. But Florida did it.

The first overtime period found the knot tied at 64 all and it was State's time to put on an airtight could do was to ease in three points to State's seven.

BUT THAT WAS ONLY half of the story to be written in that last five minutes. In the last two minutes each team had but four men on the court—and no replacements because the balance of the two squads had fouled themselves out of the game. And two remaining players on each team had to be over cautious because four fouls also had been called on them.

It was the first time for a double overtime game in the long history of the tournament. The last time Florida had won was back in 1947 when the Rattlers triumphed over Alabama State, 40-37. State won the in 1936. Florida went to the finals by defeating Morris Brown, 67-62 and Alabama State topped Morehouse, 57-53. Morehouse was handicapped by the loss of three of its stars on fouls. Leading 48-47, Morehouse dropped the lead when its own Clifford Jackson stunned the jam-packed hall by getting set and making one of the sweetest over-hand shots imaginable—BUT HE PUT THE BALL IN THE WRONG BASKET.

Bethune-Cookman went to the finals before losing to Tennessee State in the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletic district-at-large tournament in Nashville on Feb. 28. The Southern conference champs will "shoot the works" against the field this week. Florida A. and M. was picked as the second best team in the Southern conference and went to Nashville where the Rattlers drew Bethune-Cookman in the first round. Sat. 3-14-53

Many of the coaches plus Marion Jackson, Atlanta sport writer and radio commentator, insist that Xavier university should have Florida A. and M. However, no committee ever pleases everybody. Xavier will have an excellent chance to display its basketball ability here. P. 8-2

Coach Mathews, somewhat chagrined over what he termed "poor officiating" (those are his quotes and not mine) in Nashville is confident he has the best quintet in these parts. There are many coaches who differ with him. Mathews will start four of his northern boys in each game. They come from Philadelphia and are Carl Richardson (6-6), center; Hurbert Hemsley (5-11), guard; John Chaney (5-11), guard; Wycliff Martin (6-4), forward. This quartet with 6-foot, 4-inch Jack McClairen of Panama City, Fla., who plays both forward and center, is predicted by Mathews to come through with colors flying. We got our fingers crossed because we have to be neutral.

NOTE: Chicago Keglers be alert. When the Women's International Bowling Congress meets watch out. The plan, according to the grapevine is to have the Negro women teams roll against each other. Ain't so hot, ain't so hot. Hope it isn't.

Tuskegee Squad Reports Aug. 31

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, Ala.— Football practice at Tuskegee Institute will start at eight o'clock Tuesday morning, Sept. 1. All candidates for the team will report Monday, Aug. 31, for physical examination and to be issued uniforms. Considerable hard work must be done in order to prepare the Golden Tigers for the toughest schedule of ten games which has been attempted during the past several years.

The team this year will be built around James Readick, Miles McAfee, Flourney Lynch, Eugene Dickerson, William Grant, William Atkinson, Taylor Augustus, and James Davis, backs.

Allen Williams, Leon Stewart, Reginald Renthrope, Clarence Beverly, Clayton Payton, Bernadean Showers, James George, Reginald Bassa, Freddie Baker, Leon Leonard and Milton Ward, linemen.

Members of the coaching staff hope with the large number of freshmen expected to enroll early in September, that Tuskegee may be able to return to the kicking and passing game, quite a factor in keeping the Tigers rolling along not so many years ago.

No punting prospects have been uncovered, but the Tiger Chieftain has a way of developing players to meet the emergency. The 1953 season opens at the Institute Saturday, Sept. 19, with Alabama A and M college as the opponent, and ends with the traditional Thanksgiving Day game with Alabama State college at Cramton Bowl in Montgomery.

THE SCHEDULE:

Sat., Sept. 19 — Tuskegee institute vs Alabama A&M college at Tuskegee; Sat. Sept. 26 — Tuskegee Institute vs. Xavier university at Tuskegee; Sat. Oct. 3 — Tuskegee Institute vs. Fisk university at Tuskegee; Fri. Oct. 9 — Tuskegee institute vs Clark college at Birmingham (Night); Sat. Oct. 17 — Tuskegee institute vs. Knoxville college (Homecoming); Fri. Oct. 23 — Tuskegee institute vs. Morehouse college at Columbus (Night); Sat. Oct. 31 — Tuskegee institute vs. Ft. Valley State college at Ft. Valley; Sat. Nov. 7 — Tuskegee Institute vs Tougaloo college at Tuskegee; Sat. Nov. 14 — Tuskegee institute vs Dillard university at New Orleans; Thur. Nov. 26 — Tuskegee Institute vs. Alabama State college at Montgomery.

Tuskegee Golden Tigers To Start Grid Drills On Sept. 1

Golden Tigers Face Tough 10-Game Grid Schedule This Fall

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, Ala.— Football practice at Tuskegee Institute will start at 8 o'clock Tuesday morning, Sept. 1. All candidates for the team will report Monday, August 31 for physical examination and to be issued uniforms.

Considerable hard work must be done in order to prepare the Golden Tigers for the toughest schedule of ten games which has been attempted during the past several years.

The team this year will be built around James Readick, Miles McAfee, Flourney Lynch, Eugene Dickerson, William Grant, William Atkinson, Taylor Augustus and James Davis, backs.

Allen Williams, Leon Stewart, Reginald Renthrope, Clarence Beverly, Clayton Payton, Bernadean Showers, James George, Reginald Bassa, Freddie Baker, Leon Leonard and Milton Ward, linemen.

LARGE NUMBER OF FRESHMEN EXPECTED

Members of the coaching staff hope with the large number of Freshmen expected to enroll early in September, that Tuskegee may be able to return to the kicking and passing game, quite a factor in keeping the Tigers rolling along not so many years ago.

No punting prospects have been uncovered, but the Tiger Chieftain has a way of developing players to meet the emergency.

The 1953 season opens at the Institute Saturday, September 19, with Alabama A and M College as the opponent, and ends with the traditional Thanksgiving Day classic with Alabama State College at Cramton Bowl in Montgomery.

The schedule:

Sept. 19 — Alabama A and M College, at Tuskegee
Sept. 26 — Xavier University, at Tuskegee
Oct. 3 — Fisk University, at Tuskegee
Oct. 9 — Clark College, at Birmingham (Night)
Oct. 17 — Knoxville College, at Tuskegee (Homecoming).
Oct. 23 — Morehouse College, at Columbus (Night)
Oct. 31 — Fort Valley State College, at Fort Valley
Nov. 7 — Tougaloo College, at Tuskegee
Nov. 14 — Dillard University, at New Orleans
Nov. 26 — Alabama State College, at Montgomery

Tuskegee grid practice starts

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, Ala., Sept. 5—Football practice at Tuskegee Institute got under way here this week with about 40 men reporting, the smallest number of candidates for the Golden Tiger team in a long period.

Several regulars on the 1952 team have work assignments in various sections of the country and informed the members of the coaching staff that they will be late reporting.

These men, together with the freshmen who are expected to arrive during next week, will increase the number of candidates for the 1953 team to perhaps 60 men.

After a week of work, morning and afternoon, and an evening period of an hour, the coaches feel greatly encouraged. They are anxious to find a center and a quarterback immediately.

These are important posts which should be filled without delay.

Several prospects have shown up, but no decision has been reached as to the candidates to be named for these strategic positions.

Hornets Rally

Ala. State In 'Skegee Win, 6 to 2

MONTGOMERY, Ala. — Trailing by a 2-point margin registered in the first quarter by Tuskegee, the Alabama State Hornets rallied in the fourth quarter to send Jeppie Carnegie over from the 2-yard line and defeat their ancient rivals from Tuskegee, 6-2, in the thirtieth renewal of their football wars at Cramton Bowl, Thanksgiving afternoon, before 15,000 fans.

The highly favored Hornets were thrown into low gear late in the first quarter when Referee B. T. Harvey ruled an automatic safety for Tuskegee after a 15-yard penalty to the Hornets' 1-yard line. Jeppie Carnegie stepped out of the end zone in lining up for the kickout and the boys from Macon County led 2-0.

Timely kicks by Atkinson, Tuskegee halfback, kept the Hornets backed up to their own goal line for the greater part of the game, but early in the fourth quarter, the Hornets' offense started clicking. Jeppie Carnegie gathered in a William Stokes pass and covered 59 yards to the Tiger's 15, only to see the effort fail on the Tuskegee 8-yard line.

Late in the third quarter, the Hornets recovered a Tiger fumble on the State's 39 and started the winning touchdown drive. Highlight of the drive was a pass, Stokes to Leftwich, which covered 24 yards to the Tuskegee 1-yard line. Carnegie went over tackle for the touchdown and the sixth victory for Alabama State in the long series.

State rolled up 12 first downs to 4 for Tuskegee; gains 135 yards rushing to 57, had 106 yards passing to 32 for Tuskegee, intercepted one pass to one for Tuskegee, and averaged 38.6 yards to 36.5 on punting. Tuskegee lost 3 fumbles to 2 for Alabama State.

Turnout Smallest In Years

Forty Grid Candidates Greet Tuskegee Coaches

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, Ala.—Football practice at Tuskegee Institute got underway here early in the morning of Sept. 1, with about 40 men reporting, the smallest number of candidates for the Golden Tiger team in a long period.

Several regulars on the 1952 team have work assignments in various sections of the country and informed the members of the coaching staff that they will be late reporting. These men, together with the freshmen who are expected to arrive during next week will increase the number of candidates for the 1953 team to perhaps 60 men.

AFTER A week of work, morning and afternoon and an evening period of an hour, the coaches feel greatly encourage. They are anxious to find a center and a quarterback immediately. These are important posts which should be filled without delay. Several prospects have shown up, but no decision has been reached as to the candidates to be named for these strategic positions.

Among the candidates for the 1953 team are: James Reddick, right-halfback, Bay Minette, Ala.; Miles McAfee, left-halfback, Atlanta, Ga.; William Grant, quarterback, Auburn, Ga.; William Atkinson, quarterback, Aiken, S. C.; Augustus Taylor, quarterback, New Orleans, La.; James Davis, fullback, Birmingham, Ala.

LINEMEN EXPECTED to be available are: Allen Williams, end, Miami, Fla.; Leon Stewart, guard, Birmingham, Ala.; Reginald Renthrow, guard, Tuskegee Institute; Clarence Burley, end, Miami, Fla.; Clayton Payton, tackle, Rome, Ga.; Bernadean Showars, end, Birmingham; James George, guard, Jacksonville, Fla.; Reginald Bassa, end, Hastings, Fla.; Fred Baker, guard, Atlanta; Leon Howard, Birmingham, and Milton Ward, center, Atlanta.

The Golden Tigers will face the Bulldogs of Alabama A. and M. College, of Normal, Ala., in their opening game, to be played in the Alumni Bowl, Saturday afternoon, Sept. 19.

The Bulldogs are reported to have a better team than they had last year and they are determined to topple the Tigers. There is much interest in this game throughout the Southern Conference circuit.

TUSKEGEE CLOSES SECOND WEEK OF DRILLS AS SEASON NEARS

TUSKEGEE Institute, Ala. — The Tuskegee Institute coaches closed their second week of practice here late Saturday afternoon. No effort has been made to run any plays that will come later on, much time has been devoted to taking long laps around the field, punting and passing and general calisthenics. Henry P. Milligan, recently added to the coaching staff, has been assigned the task of developing the kickers inasmuch as that was his specialty when he was in college.

The two practice period a day, one in the morning and the other in the late afternoon, together with an hour in the lecture room for the evening have been beneficial, but much must be done to condition the men for the opening game to be played here Saturday afternoon, September 19. The Bulldogs of Alabama A&M College, Normal, Alabama, will be the opponents.

The missing men will be Ronald Braynon, quarterback; Lester Johnson, end; Frank Johnson, end; (no kin) Leonard Cobb, tackle; Levaughn Jekins, tackle; Robert Hunter, tackle; Johnson Haynes, guard, and Robert Mungin, star full-back, who have graduated and are now awaiting orders for assignments as Second Lieutenants in the Army and in the Air Force.

A regulation game is scheduled for Monday or Tuesday, Coach Abbott said. On Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, the men will walk through their assignments for the reason that there is a possibility that some player may be injured, if a hard scrimmage were undertaken, and it was pointed out that there are not enough men on the squad to take any chances whatsoever on men becoming injured. "I have a light team," Coach Abbott said, "and while the men are enthusiastic and quite willing, they are still light."

Tuskegee, Xavier Play Scoreless Tie

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, Ala.—The Golden Tigers of Tuskegee Institute played the Gold Rush team of Xavier university of New Orleans to a scoreless tie on a soggy field drenched by heavy rains here Saturday afternoon in the Alumni bowl.

In pre-season rating, the Xavier Gold Rush was definitely the favorite. However, Tuskegee staged a surprise by preventing Xavier from crossing the goal line. Last year in New Orleans, Xavier outclassed Tuskegee, 46-0.

The most threatening drive of the visitors came in the second period when Xavier, after making two first downs deep in Tiger territory, lost the ball when halfback Miller fumbled. Immediately thereafter the game became a punting duel between Peter Priestley, quarterback, and William Atkinson, quarterback, of Tuskegee.

Tuskegee's one golden moment came in the closing seconds of the game. With 55 seconds left to play, Benjamin Prescott, Xavier university's safety man, attempted to run after receiving Atkinson's punt. Prescott was tackled and fumbled the ball. Tuskegee recovered, but failed to score after four valiant attempts.

Knoxville Ties Tuskegee, 7-7

TUSKEGEE, Ala. — Dominating the play in the second half, the Knoxville college Bulldogs executed a 'sleeper' pass, good for 18 yards and a touchdown to tie the Tuskegee Golden Tigers, 7-7 here in Alumni stadium, Saturday afternoon.

The expertly executed sleeper pass, Lloyd Brannon to Joe Dean, caught the Golden Tigers completely unaware. James Wright made the conversion to knot the count.

The Tigers score came in the second quarter on an intercepted pass by Clarence Burley, who streaked 38 yards for the tally. Miles McAfee kicked the extra point.

Knoxville had the edge over Tuskegee in first downs, 11 to 6, in total yards gained, 167 to 101, yards averaged on punts, 33.9 to 27. However, in the matter of penalties Knoxville lost 95 yards Tuskegee's 25.

The Tuskegee supporters, augmented by the reunion of members of the class of 1903 and 1913, returned for the annual homecoming, experienced many hopes of victory, but Knoxville skillfully thwarted the Tiger efforts.

Tuskegee, Xavier Elevens Battle To Scoreless Tie

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, Ala. — The Golden Tigers of Tuskegee Institute played the Gold Rush team of Xavier University of New Orleans to a scoreless tie on a soggy field drenched by heavy rains here Saturday afternoon in the Alumni Bowl.

In pre-season rating the Xavier Gold Rush was definitely the favorite. However, Tuskegee staged a surprise by preventing Xavier from crossing the goal line. Last year in New Orleans Xavier outclassed Tuskegee, 46 to 0.

The most threatening drive of the visitors came in the second period when Xavier after making two first downs, deep in Tiger territory, lost the ball when halfback Miller fumbled.

PUNTING DUEL DEVELOPS

Immediately thereafter the game became a punting duel between Peter Pristley, quarterback, and William Atkinson, quarterback, Tuskegee. Priestley did some exceptional punting although the field and ball were slippery. In one series of punt exchanges Priestley booted the ball 62, 45, and 30 yards, while Atkinson made two 45 yard punts in quarter moments to help the Tiger cause.

Statistically Xavier enjoyed the advantage. By rushing Xavier made 7 first downs to Tuskegee's 2; in yardage Xavier gained 118 to Tuskegee's 83.

Tuskegee's one golden moment came in the closing seconds of the game. With 55 seconds left to play Benjamin Prescott, Xavier University's safety man attempted to run after receiving Atkinson's punt Prescott was tackled and fumbled the ball. Tuskegee recovered but failed to score after four valient attempts.

Tuskegee Rips Tougaloo 39-0

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, Ala., Nov. 7—Scoring in every quarter the Tuskegee Institute Golden Tiger offensive rolled into high gear against Tougaloo College, Tougaloo, Mississippi, in the last home game of the season, 39 to 0, here this afternoon.

Fred Gaston climaxed the first Tuskegee sistained drive by circling left end for 20 yards for the initial Tiger score. William Grant, Golden Tiger quarterback, sneaked over from the 3-yard line to score Tuskegee's second marker, midway the first period, James George intercepted a Tougaloo pass and sprinted 40 yards for the Cadets only score in the second period.

Gaston, who enjoyed one of his best afternoons, gaining ground for the Golden Tiger attack, slipped around left end in the third quarter to put Tuskegee in the lead, 26 to 0. Miles McAfee continued what Gaston had started. McAfee sparked two Tuskegee drives, going over late in the third quarter from the 1-yard line and kicking the extra point himself. In the fourth quarter McAfee, after several long runs, put pay territory from his 5-yard line to give the Abbottmen a 39 to 0 lead which ended Tuskegee's greatest parade of touchdowns for the current season.

Making many determined efforts the Tougaloo attack through varied and cunning, simply could not gather the impetus needed to score. Especially notable were the passing and the punting that gave the Tiger secondary some moments of apprehension throughout the game.

Clark Panthers Sink Tuskegee Golden Tigers By 18-0 Margin

Solomon, Clark And Brown Pace Panthers' Attack At Birmingham

BY E. M. PHARR

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. — Newt Solomon, Offie Clark and Melvin Brown crossed football's glorious "G" line once each Friday night at Rickwood Field to give the Clark College Panthers their first victory of the infant 1953 grid season as they humbled the Golden Tigers of Tuskegee 18-0 before approximately 4,500 fans.

The victory-minded Eppsmen let it be known from the opening kickoff that there will be no more teasing" when Offie Clark picked the initial boot up-on his own 19 yard marker and traveled to his 35 yard white line before he was flagged down.

FUMBLE EASES PRESSURE

The time was 8:09 p. m. and dragnet music floated on the field from the stands as the Eppsmen staged a goal line drive. Clark Givens, Brown and Solomon rushed the 'Skeegans for consistent gains. This, coupled with a 34-yard (Solomon to Stinson) aerial and a 6 yard Clark to Stinson completion pressed Tuskegee's backs close to the wall. With second and goal to go, a costly Panther fumble, recovered by Tuskegee, eased the pressure off the Tigers for the moment.

Lynch's boot for Tuskgee on first down was very short and the Eppsmen once again started to roll from the enemy 29 yard marker. This time there was no stopping them as Clark, Givens, and Brown rested the leather on the Tiger one yard line where Newt Solomon found the necessary hole to swish through the 'Skegee line for six welcomed points. The point after, an attempted pass from Clark to Stinson, was no good.

CLARK SPRINTS 90 YARDS TO SCORE-

Last year at Birmingham, Clark's Arthur Johnson (now in the Service) hauled in a punt to race 80 yards for a touchdown to up the Panther point parade to 12 points. Preserving Clark's thoughts of Rickwood Field as the "Punt Return Field," Offie Clark stood on his own 10 early in the second quarter, reeled in the Tigers' Lynch's 34 yard boot (from his 44) and proceeded to parade. He swivel-hipped a prospective tackler on his own 16 and hit for the sideline where he picked up his "path-clearers" who left an array of Tigers sprawled on the ground Those graceful strides carried him down the sideline goalward with two Clarkites sauntering along beside him. The PAT, with Brown holding and Lofton kicking was no good.

BROWN RACES 35 YARDS TO PAY DIRT

Racing 35 yards to paydirt with less than four minutes remaining in the contest, Melvin Brown added insult to injury when quarterback Newt Soloman handed him the leather on the Tuskegee 35. Brown laughingly and gracefully icked the left corner of the field for his "spot." Hiptossing from the right side of the field, he lit out for his "spot" and the referee's hand signalled six more for Clark. Glenn attempted the PAT with Brown holding, but the attempt was fruitless.

Especially outstanding in the Panther line was the big, bruising tackle, Joseph Hart who has exhibited great potentialities. He is the only freshman to make the starting eleven. Other stalwarts were: Nathaniel Robbins, Thomas Lofton, Roman Turmon, Le Artis McNeil, Leon Cobbins, Ivan Mullins, Walter Vance, William Matthews, and Edward McClellan. Showing great promise in the backfield was subhalfback. Algin "3-D" Barnett, flashy neophyte runner who played service ball.

For Tuskegee, Freddie Baker, Alan Williams, Atkinson, Lynch and Reddick were thorns in the Eppsmen's sides.

Tuskegee Grooms For Dixie Grid Classic

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, Ala., Nov. 22—Coach Cleve Abbott and his associates have been busily engaged in changing and improving the Golden Tiger offensive for the annual Dixie Classic football game Thanksgiving Day against Alabama State College at Cramton Bowl in Montgomery.

Considerable stress has been placed on the ground attack. However, the air strategy has received adequate attention. Effective use of passes by the Golden Tigers when they defeated Tougaloo College here, 39 to 0, gave the Tuskegee staff the solid foundation on which to work. Improvement in ball handling for the air and ground have received the concentration which these skills deserve.

In the games played the Tuskegee team record has not been overly impressive, but the season record of either team is largely discounted when the traditional rivals, Alabama State and Tuskegee, meet.

Milton Ward, Tiger captain and center, has been an offensive and defensive standout for Tuskegee this season. Tyree Allen and Edward Scarborough will start at end; Robert Cooper and George Sherrell at tackle; James George and Freddie at guards. William grant will direct the attack from the T-quarterback position. Fred Gaston and Eugene Dickerson will be at the halfback posts and James Davis gets the nod at fullback.

The Tiger coach, Cleve Abbott, is widely known as a football strategist and during the Alabama State-Tuskegee series has puzzled the opposition with changes in maneuver.

Tuskegee Tigers Set To Collide With Clark Oct. 9

By MARCEL HOPSON

The famed Tuskegee Institute Tigers who suffered a runaway drubbing at the hands of the keyed-up Clark College Panthers, 14 to 2 in last year's Fall encoounter, have their sights set on retaining their grid supremacy in Birmingham as the two teams collide in their 11th Fall Classic at Rickwood Field next Friday night, October 9 at 8 o'clock.

TUSKEGEE LEADS IN SCORING

In their past ten Birmingham collisions, the Tuskegee Tigers have out-scored the Panthers from Gate City 107 points to 46. Tuskegee has blanked Clark in three contests and has been treated the same way by the Panthers in two other encounters. Both teams clawed, bucked and crawled over each other for a 0-0 draw back in 1945.

Since 1948, Tuskegee has gone home with three wins and Clark, two. Tuskegee is the only one of the two elevens to reach the 30-point mark in the series. Clark, in win or defeat, has never stepped over 13 points in a single game.

Here is how they stand in series play up to next Friday night's hum-dinger:

1943—Tuskegee 0, Clark 7.
1944—Tuskegee 19, Clark 0
1945—Tuskegee 0, Clark, 0.
1946—Tuskegee 33, Clark, 0
1947—Tuskegee 13 Clark 0.
1948—Tuskegee 14, Clark 13.
1949—Tuskegee 14, Clark 0.
1950—Tuskegee 0 Clark 7.
1951—Tuskegee 12, Clark 7.
1952—Tuskegee 2, Clark 12.
1953—Tuskegee—?, Clark—?
Totals—107 46

Fisk Bulldogs Spill Tuskegee Golden Tigers By 13-7 Margin

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, Ala. — The Fisk University Bulldogs displaying all the tenacity of that species, conquered the Tuskegee Golden Tigers, 13 to 7, in a well-played game in the Alumni Bowl here Saturday afternoon.

Receiving the kickoff, Fisk started a sustained drive which ended in the first scoring of the game. Parker went over from the 4-yard line. The try for the exta point failed. Tuskegee elected to receive, but made little headway, whereupon the game assumed its defensive character that continued well into the fourth quarter.

Late in the waning moments, Fisk scored again when J. W. White terminated another continuous Bulldog drive by going over from the 4-yard line to give the Fisk Bulldogs their second last touchdown of the game. White who scored the touchdown made the conversion.

This last touchdown for Fisk apparently stung the Golden Tigers to the quick. Tuskegee elected to receive the kickoff and immediately thereafter Atkinson, Tiger quarterback, passed to Scarborough which resulted in a gain of 45 yards to the 15-yard line. William Morris, former Tuskegee Institute high school star, skirted the end for 15 yards and the Tiger scored. Mcafee hit between the uprights for the extra point as the game ended.

No More Teasing

Clark Upsets Tuskegee For First '53 Victory

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. — Newt Solomon, Offie Clark and Melvin Brown tossed football's glorious goal line once each last Friday night to give the Clark College Panthers their first victory of the infant 1953 season as they humbled the Golden Tigers of Tuskegee 18-6 before 4,500 fans in Rickwood Field here.

The victory-minded Eppsmen let it be known from the opening kick-off that "there will be no more teasing" when Clark picked up the ball on his own 19 and ran it back to Clark's 35 before he was flagged down.

TIGERS EASE PRESSURE

Cark Givens, Brown and Solomon rushed through the Tuskegee line for consistent gains as the Panthers led a goal-line drive. A 34-yard pass, Solomon to Stinson, and a 6-yard pass, Clark to Stinson, put Tuskegee's back to the wall, but a Clark fumble was recovered by the Tigers to ease the pressure.

But this was only temporarily as Lynch's boot on first down was short and the Panthers launched another dirve from the 29-yard mark. This time there was no stopping the Panthers as Clark, Givens and Brown collaborated to put the ball on the Tiger 1, where Solomon rushed over for the touchdown. The extra point was missed.

Clark grabbed Tuskegee's kickoff on his own 10, snuggled it to his bosom, and then took off, pacing straight head to the 16, and then streaked for the sideline where he picked up his "p a t h-clearers" who left an array of Tiger jerseys sprawled on the terrain.

With the green light on, Clark, moving with graceful strides, flew over the ground for another touchdown. The extra point was again missed.

With less than four minutes remaining in the game, Brown took a hand-off from quarterback Somon on the Tiger 35 and ran down the sidelines for a touchdown. The extra point was missed.

Especially outstanding in the Panther line was the big bruising tackle, Joseph Hart, only freshman to win a berth on the team. Robbins, Thomas Lofon, Roman Burman, LeArtis McNeil, Leon Cobbins, Ivan Mulins, W a l t e r Vance, William Matthews and Edward McClellan.

Displaying great promise in the backfield was Alvin Barnett.

Tuskegee Loses To Ala., 6-2

MONTGOMERY, Ala. — After spotting Tuskegee a safety the direct result of a 15 yard penalty that carried the ball to States 1 yard line, the Alabama State Hornets came back with a fourth quarter touchdown that netted them a 6-2 victory in the 30th annual Tahnksgiving meeting between the two schools.

Following the 2 point safety shortly after the opening kickoff the two teams settled down to a terrificly fought defensive battle. The highly favored Hornes were kept at a disadvantage throughout on the fine punting of Tuskegee's Atkinson.

Late in the game Tuskegee fumbled and Alabama recovered on their own 25 yard line. On the first play Stokes passed to Leftick for 24 yards giving possession on the 1 yard line. Carnegie went over tackle for the touchdown. A. holiday jam of 15,000 witnessed the game.

14n 1953

Morehouse Batters Tuskegee 32 To 12

BY BOB PRUITT

COLUMBUS, Ga. — Scoring in every period, the Maroon Tigers of Morehouse College of Atlanta defeated Tuskegee Institute Golden Tigers, 32-12, last Friday night at Memorial Stadium in the 18th annual football classic before an estimated crowd of 10,000 fans.

The victory by the Atlanta crew avenged the 59-6 loss suffered last year when the Maroon Tigers, entering the game as a top-heavy favorite, never could get rolling, and tasted its worst defeat in the history of the classic.

Morehouse, led by ace quarterback Joe McCoy, one of the finest "T" ball handlers seen in these parts in many a year, scored a touchdown in the initial period, added two more in the second and one in each the third and fourth periods. Tuskegee's two TD's came in the final canto.

McCoy, along with Walter Booker, Donn Clendenon, Phil Darley, Jitters Smith and C. Wade, kept the Morehouse offensive machine in high gear throughout the entire game. The best offensive weapon for Tuskegee was quarterback Bill Atkinson along with Fred Gaston, Miles McAfee, Willie Scott and Willie Vincent who did most of the ball carrying for the Golden Tigers.

HALFTIME SHOW

The halftime show, one of the great attractions of this annual game, was again brilliant and colorful. Spencer High of Columbus, making its first appearance in the long series, took the field first. Tuskegee was next, with Morehouse last in a colorful lightspangled array of marching and musical selections.

As to the game itself, Morehouse kicked off, but three plays by the Golden Tigers failed to net a first down and forced a kick. A fumble by Morehouse on the first play from scrimmage returned the ball to Tuskegee but again the Golden Tigers failed to gain.

Following three exchanges of punts, Morehouse took possession on its own 46 to start its first touchdown drive. A McCoy to Clendenon pass, good for 17 yards and with Smith picking up 22 yards on four carries, put the ball on the Tuskegee six where McCoy, on a wide end sweep, went over for the initial score of the game. The placement was blocked and Morehouse led, 6-0, late in the first period.

Early in the second period, a bad Tuskegee punt gave Morehouse the ball on the Golden Tigers' 42 yard line and the Maroon Tigers were off to another TD drive. Dawson Lewis and Booker carried for two quick first downs and two more rushing plays put the ball on the six. McCoy attempted to hit Clendenon again but the aerial was wide, but the second attempt by the wiley Morehouse quarterback to the slim, fast-moving end, was completed for a touchdown. Again the kick was no good and it was a 12-0 score.

A fumble on the first play following the kickoff returned the ball to Morehouse and set the stage for the third Maroon Tiger score. Carries by Booker, Lewis and Leonard Lee moved the ball to the 16 where Wade hit tackle, picked up two blockers and went the distance for the score. This time a pass from Clendenon to Fred Holmes accounted for the extra point and Morehouse led, 19-0. The half ended without further scoring.

COMES BACK STRONG

Following the intermission, Morehouse came back as strong as ever and picked up its fourth TD of the game after a little over three minutes of the period had elapsed. A sustained Maroon Tiger drive that netted 47 yards to put the ball on the 37 after a 15-yard penalty had been imposed on Morehouse, McCoy hit Holmes on the three and Holmes, side-stepped a would-be tackler, went over for the score. The play was good for 7 yards and gave Morehouse a 26-0 advantage.

Neither team managed to get an offensive rolling in the remaining minutes of the period, but as the fourth and final quarter started an inspired Tuskegee team took command of the game to score twice and threaten again only to lose the ball six yards from the goal on fumble.

The first Tuskegee touchdown drive started late in the third period but really gained speed in the fourth as Morris, Dickerson and Vincent led the attack. The 43 yard drive was climaxed when Atkinson plunged over from a yard out to crack the ice for the Golden Tigers. Allen's placement attempt was blocked and it was a 26-6 ball game.

A fumble on the kickoff sparked another Tuskegee scoring drive. This time the drive started on the 36 yard line of the Atlanta school, and with Atkinson, Morris and Gaston paving the way, the Golden Tigers pushed to the 25 where Scott, replacing Atkinson at quarterback, hit Dickerson with a 22-yard pass. Dickerson was hit hard and fumbled, the ball rolling into the end zone where Leonard Mathews recovered for a Tuskegee touchdown. The placement failed and Morehouse led, 26-12.

With less than five minutes remaining in the game, Morehouse chalked up its final touchdown. Led by Johnny Lester who carried the mail for 42 of 77 yards in the drive, the Maroon Tigers scored when Wade hit Holmes on the three and he went over for the score. Lester then kicked the extra point and that was the game.

Tuskegee threatened in the waning stages of the game, moving the ball from its own 25 to the Morehouse four before Grant, attempting to score on a quarterback sneak, fumbled and Morehouse recovered. The Maroon Tigers then ran the clock out.

Score by periods:

Morehouse	6	13	6	7	—32
Tuskegee	0	0	0	12	—12

Scoring: Morehouse — touchdowns—McCoy, Clendenon, Wade, Holmes (2). PAT — Holmes (on pass from Clendenon), Lester. Tuskegee — touchdowns — Atkinson, Mathews.

Tuskegee Humbles Tougaloo

TUSKEGEE INST., Ala.—Scoring in every quarter, the Tuskegee Institute Golden Tiger offensive rolled into high gear against Tougaloo College, Tougaloo, Miss., in the last home game of the season, 39 to 0, here Saturday afternoon.

Fred Gaston climaxed the first Tuskegee sustained drive by circling left end for 20 yards for the initial Tiger score.

William Grant, Golden Tiger quarterback, sneaked over from the 3-yard line to score Tuskegee's second marker, midway the first period.

James George intercepted a Tougaloo pass and sprinted 40 yards for the Cadets' only score in the second period.

Fred Gaston, who enjoyed one of his best afternoons, gaining ground for the Golden Tiger's attack, slipped around left end in the third quarter to put Tuskegee in the lead, 26 to 0.

In the fourth quarter, McAffee, after several long runs, hit pay territory from his 5-yard line to give the Abbottmen a 39 to 0 lead which ended Tuskegee's greatest parade of touchdowns for the current season.

Making many determined efforts, the Tougaloo attack, though varied and cunning, simply could not score.

Ft. Valley Trips Tuskegee Eleven, 32-6.

FT. VALLEY, Ga.

A pair of rampaging halfbacks, Levon Green and Willie Jones, paced Fort Valley's Wildcats to a 32-6 Homecoming triumph over Tuskegee's Golden Tigers here recently. State's co-captain and all-American candate, Green pulverized the Alabaman's defense for a total of 107 yards in 10 rushes including the scoring of a touchdown and an extra point; while Jones set up tallies with his 126 yards gained rushing in 13 carries.

The Wildcats scored early in the first period after George "Shag" Marshall had recovered a Tiger fumble on the invaders 45. Green broke off tackle for eight yards. Bobby Henderson made it a first down at the 30. Green gained seven and 19 yards respectively to place the ball on the two. On the following play Green dived into the end zone for the tally. Bobby Brown's try for the extra point failed.

The Jackass Minority At Work

Montgomery's police force has improved a great deal in recent years, but there is a small jackass element within it that occasionally runs wild and discredits both the force and Montgomery. Such an incident was witnessed yesterday when the Tuskegee band appeared to serenade The Advertiser.

This serenade, following the parade, is a tradition of many years standing, as firmly established as the kickoff at the game in the afternoon. For years this splendid band has made a custom of marching up Lawrence Street to wheel and form in front of The Advertiser building for the concert.

But yesterday a gang of motorcycle policemen bore down on the band like cavalrymen and forced them to make their way on the sidewalk. They treated the band members as though they were defiant traffic violators.

Two boobs in a white squad car churned along the curb in reckless fashion to force the crowd into the sidewalk. Then, in a showoff frenzy, the boobs aforesaid backed the squad car down Lawrence Street at a remarkable rate of speed and made a spring-twisting left turn, backwards, into Washington. It is providential that these policemen-assailants did not grind somebody beneath the wheels of their car. They came close.

If there had been any officers performing their proper duty, they would have arrested these two officer menaces.

It was a rude and hostile reception for those who had come, as they had come for years, in good order and friendliness.

In all, the anthropoid antics of these policemen presented a sorry spectacle.

Rankin File

The Great Paraders; Gilmore Of Selma

By Allen Rankin

THE MEMBERS OF THE Negro race are the most gifted paraders in the world. No one who saw yesterday's procession down Dexter could doubt it. By contrast, the most spirited white parade makes a subdued, if not downright melancholy spectacle.

The main difference between the traditional Thanksgiving parade and any other down Goat Hill is obvious from a distance of many blocks. It is to be seen in its joyous release of physical vigor, its tremendous exhibition of energy. Are Negroes, on the average, more vigorous and energetic than whites? We think not, and doubt if medical studies on the subject would show it. Yet certainly few white drum majors and majorettes could maintain the terrific contortionary pace of yesterday's performers. Half a block of such inspired dancing and extravagant fuel consumption would ready most white paraders for an ambulance.

In music, marching or dancing—all essential ingredients in our annual Thanksgiving parade—the Negro enjoys an ability to play notes and improvise steps that are not "there" for any other race. No other people has such capacity for "shining," for letting itself go with such irrepressible joy.

Though this happy faculty came up to full expectations at the parade, it was, we feel, suppressed at the afternoon football game. Crowds there were quieter and more restrained than in previous years. There were fewer hot licks from bands than in the past, less of the tumultuous whooping it up in the stands that has given this football classic its chief distinction in the past.

Is the race, in its swift progress, growing self-conscious about its demonstrations? We fear so. We can only hope that Negroes will not try to immitate whites too closely at the business of parading, cheering or otherwise demonstrating personal enthusiasm. For at this, by comparison, we are cheerless and grave stoics. They are artists. They should take pride in their capacity for showing joy and communicating it to others. In this serious and inhibited old world it is a characteristic well worth preserving.

Tuskegee Is Bumped 26-8

NEW ORLEANS—With Halfback Milton Gibbs of Evanston, Ill., scoring three sensational touchdowns, Dillard's Bluedevils made it five in a row here Saturday by romping over the Tuskegee Golden Tigers, 26 to 8.

Gibbs, the freshman comet, rank like a seasoned performer in leading the Bluedevils to victory. With Dillard trailing 2 to nothing as the result of a first period safety when Tuskegee's Reginald Rentrope recovered a blocked kick in the end zone, the Bluedevils marched 63 yards with Gibbs driving over from the one for the touchdown. Halfback Richard Johnson kicked the extra point.

The Tigers came right back and drove 80 yards for their only touchdown with Fred Gaston going over from the 4. That, however, ended the Tigers' scoring and Dillard went ahead a few moments later when Gibbs finished a 64-yard drive in the same period by scampering 14 yards to score on an off-tackle spurt.

Then in the third period, again it was Gibbs who climaxed another Dillard drive which carried 56 yards. He sped like lightning for 11 yards and his third touchdown of the game.

Gibbs set up a final Diliard score by running 62 yards in the last quarter to place the ball on Tuskegee's 19. After two plays, Richard Johnson, another lad from Illinois, hit tackle for 2 yards and a touchdown. Johnson also converted, to make the final score 26 to 8.

Prancing, Rhythmic Marchers—

Nation's Top Negro Parade Attracts Huge Crowds Here

Dressed in brightly colored uniform and keeping a jumping rhythm to blaring band music, thousands of Negroes marched here yesterday in what is probably the nation's biggest annual all-Negro parade.

Fancy stepping majorettes prancing on Dexter Avenue to the music of 30 bands formed the top feature of the caravan celebrating the annual Alabama State-Tuskegee football game here.

Downtown streets were packed with spectators for the event.

Perennial grand marshals G. H. Lockhart and John Hill led the parade down Dexter Avenue from the State Capitol, followed by P. M. Blair, Montgomery's "Bronze Mayor" who rode a brightly-decorated float.

The 80-piece Alabama State Band, led by majorettes, and followed by "Miss Alabama State" and her attendants on a float was next in line. The float was one of 50—many sent by out-of-town schools—which took part in the parade.

Fairy-tale characters and scenes of the stories were depicted by the floats, which were in competition for a prize.

Among those represented were Mother Goose, Old Mother Hubbard, Story Land, Sleeping Beauty, and the Little Red School on the Hill.

Among the numerous marching groups was the crack Elks Drill Team, decked out in spanking new uniforms with purple ties. Each member of the team carried a cane. Also included in the parade were Boy and Girl Scouts, several veterans' organizations Y-Teens, Hi-Ys, Shriners of Shaaban Temple, and various school marching units from Central Alabama.

Out-of-town bands participating in the parade were from Conecuh County, Sumter County, R. B. Hudson School, Selma, J. W. Darden School, Auburn, Escambia County, Lee County, Walker County, Alexander City, East Highland, Sylacauga, Carver High School, Dothan, and the Industrial High School of Tuscaloosa. Local bands were from Carver and Booker Washington High Schools.

According to annual custom, Alabama State's band marched at the front of the parade line, and Tuskegee's "Crimson Pipes" brought up the rear.

Following the parade, the Tuskegee Band marched to The Advertiser-Journal building and played its annual serenade to "Old Grandma." The serenade is dedicated to the late Grover C. Hall Sr., who, as editor of The Advertiser, won the Pulitzer prize for his editorials against the Ku Klux Klan and gangism.

Shortly before the football game, which was won by Alabama State 6-2, the Negro high school bands gathered in a mass band and presented a musical and marching demonstration. The Alabama State and Tuskegee bands played at half-time.

Tuskegee Loses To Ala., 6-2

MONTGOMERY, Ala. — After spotting Tuskegee a safety the direct result of a 15 yard penalty that carried the ball to States 1 yard line the Alabama State Hornets came back with a fourth quarter touchdown that netted them a 6-2 victory in the 30th annual Tahnksgiving meeting between the two schools.

Following the 2 point safety shortly after the opening kickoff the two teams settled down to a terrificly fought defensive battle. The highly favored Hornes were kept at a disadvantage throughout on the fine punting of Tuskegee's Atkinson.

However late in the game Tuskegee fumbled and Alabama recovered on their own 39 yard line. On the first play Stokes passed to Leftick for 24 yards giving possession on the 1 yard line. Carnegie went over tackle for the touchdown. A. holiday jam of 15,000 witnessed the game.

Hornets rally to defeat Tuskegee

MONTGOMERY, Ala.—Trailing by a two-point margin, registered in the first quarter by Tuskegee, the Alabama State Hornets rallied in the fourth quarter to send Jeppie Carnegie over from the two yard line to defeat their ancient rivals from Tuskegee 6 2 in the 30th renewal of their football wars at Cramton bowl Thanksgiving afternoon.

The highly favored Hornets were thrown into low gear late in the first quarter when Referee B. T. Harvey ruled an automatic safety for Tuskegee after a 15-yard penalty to the Hornet one-yard line. Jeppie Carnegie stepped out of the end zone in lining up for the kickout and the boys from Macon county led 2-0.

Late in the third quarter the Hornets recovered a Tiger fumble on the State 39 and started the winning touchdown drive.

Highlight of the drive was a pass to Leftwich which covered 2 yards to the Tuskegee one-yard line. Carnegie went over tackle for the touchdown and the sixth victory for Alabama State in the long series.

Tuskegee 11 Schedules 10 Grid Games

TUSKEGEE, Ala. — Tuskegee Institute will have a new opponent included in the 10 games Coach Cleve Abbott's Golden tigers will play during the fall of 1953. The new opponent will be Tougaloo, Miss.

The Golden Tigers will open the season Sept. 19, with Alabama A and M college furnishing the opposition, at Tuskegee. A week later the Xavier university team comes to Tuskegee to meet the Tigers, and on Oct. 3, Fisk University Tigers invade the Alabama campus.

The Tigers make their first road trip, going to Birmingham to play Clark college, Friday night, Oct. 9. The game is slated for 8 p.m.

Knoxville college offers the competition for the Tigers' homecoming on Oct. 17, and will start at 1:30 p.m. Another night is slated for Columbus, Ga., Oct 23, when the Tigers play Morehouse in one of the big grid attractions of the year.

Alabama State will battle Tuskegee in Montgomery Thanksgiving Day.

SCHEDULE FOR 1953

Sat., Sept. 19 Tuskegee Institute vs Alabama A and M college at Tuskegee; Sat., Sept. 26, Tuskegee Institute vs Xavier university at Tuskegee; Sat., Oct. 3, Tuskegee Institute vs Fisk university at Tuskegee; Friday., Oct. 9, Tuskegee vs Clark college at Birmingham (Night); Sat., Oct. 17, Tuskegee vs Knoxville college at Tuskegee (Homecoming); Fri. Oct. 23, Tuskegee Institute vs Morehouse college at Columbus (Night); Sat., Oct. 31, Tuskegee Institute vs Ft. Valley State college at Ft. Valley; Sat., Nov 7, Tuskegee Institute vs Tougaloo college at Tuskegee; Sat., Nov. 14, Tuskegee Institute vs Dillard university at New Orleans; Thurs., Nov. 26, Tuskegee Institute vs Alabama State college at Montgomery.

The Alabama A and M college, Xavier university and Fisk university games will start at 2:00 p.m. The Tuskegee-Clark game in Birmingham is scheduled to begin at 8 p.m. The Homecoming game with Knoxville college as the opponent will get underway promptly at 1:30 p.m.

The game with Tougaloo college a new opponent on the Golden Tiger schedule, will also start at 1:30 p.m.

The traditional starting hour for the Alabama State college-Tuskegee institute game is 1:p.m.

Cheerleaders Pep Up Students At Homecoming Here

Tuskegee's all-girl group of cheerleaders sparked a continuous round of enthusiasm to keep the students singing and yelling for the Golden Tigers at the Institute-Dillard game Saturday afternoon.

Mrs. Jessie N. Gibson is the sponsor of the group and members are Lula Mae Bell, sophomore, Atlanta; Gloria Alma Boden, freshman, Pittsburgh, Pa.; Macie E. Bradsford, Tuskegee; Jessie L. Butler, freshman, Opelika; Anthony Mae Dotson, sophomore, St. Louis, Mo.; Christian S. Dukes, freshman, Memphis; Beverly Ann Gibson, freshman, Burlington, N. J.; Dorothea J. Heath, freshman, Tampa, Fla., and Curtistene Reed, freshman, Tampa.

Tuskegee Golden Tigers

Crimson And Gold

No.	Name	Pos.	Wgt.	Home Town
14	Miles McAfee	B	158	Atlanta, Ga.
15	William Grant	B	165	Auburn, Ala.
16	Flournoy Lynch	B	156	Miami, Fla.
17	Frank Johnson	E	175	Tampa, Fla.
18	Freddie Baker	G	175	Atlanta, Ga.
20	William Atkinson	B	170	Chester, S. C.
21	James George	G	182	Jacksonville, Fla.
22	Reginald Bassa	E	165	Hastings, Fla.
23	Leon Stewart	G	180	Birmingham, Ala.
26	Robert Mungin	B	160	Jacksonville, Fla.
27	Ronald Braynon	B	172	Miami, Fla.
28	Robert Glass	B	170	Tampa, Fla.
30	Emory McClinton	T	180	Atlanta, Ga.
31	Lester Johnson	E	165	Tampa, Fla.
32	James Young	B	160	Anniston, Ala.
34	James Reddick	B	155	Bay Minette, Ala.
36	Henry Holley	T	180	Montgomery, Ala.
37	Leon Wagner	C	185	Inkster, Mich.
38	Jimmy Askew	B	150	Atlanta, Ga.
40	Fred Gaston	B	190	Jackson, Miss.
42	Bernadean Showers	E	175	Birmingham, Ala.
43	Eddie Geary	B	179	Mobile, Ala.
44	Allen Williams	E	165	Miami, Fla.
45	Clayton Payton	G	190	Athens, Ga.
47	Milton Ward	C	177	Atlanta, Ga.
48	Eugene Dickerson	B	175	Atlanta, Ga.
49	Lorenza Whitfield	B	150	Sherman, Texas
50	Robert Hunter	E	175	Tuskegee, Ala.
52	Reginald Pentrope	G	177	Tuskegee, Ala.
53	Levaughan Jenkins	T	200	Mobile, Ala.
54	Billy Thompson	T	178	Houston, Texas
55	Leon Leonard	E	186	Birmingham, Ala.
56	James Davis	B	195	Birmingham, Ala.
57	Assia Marsh	T	165	Birmingham, Ala.
58	Clarence Burley	C	185	Miami, Fla.
59	Leon Cobb	T	218	Fort Valley, Ga.
60	Amos Barker	B	154	Birmingham, Ala.
61	Charles McDonald	E	161	Columbus, Mo.
62	Taylor August	B	160	New Orleans, La.
63	Samuel Cooper	B	141	Monrovia, La.
64	Robert Smith	E	178	Miami, Fla.
65	James Tinsley	E	172	Anniston, Ala.

Coaches: Cleve L. Abbott (South Dakota); Ross C. Owen (South Dakota); Allison Figaro (Tuskegee Institute); Dr. Reuben A. Munday (Hampton Institute); Ernest T. Bailey (Tuskegee Institute); Guy E. Trammell (Tuskegee Institute); Oscar Downs (Tuskegee Institute); Arthur Sawyer (Tuskegee Institute) Physician: Dr. Joseph R. Mitchell.

Alabama State And Tuskegee Collide At Bowl

Hornets Favored In 29th Renewal Of Ancient Rivalry

Tuskegee Institute and Alabama State will meet in the 29th renewal of their Cramton Bowl "Dixie Classic" football rivalry this afternoon at 1:30 with 19 high school bands participating in a mammoth pre-game program.

Gates at the Bowl will open at 12 noon and the bands will begin their show at 12:15. Thirteen city high schools and six county high schools will participate.

The 13 city high schools represented will be Alexander City Colored School, Cobb Avenue High of Anniston, Carver High of Dothan, Burrell Slater High of Florence, Carver High of Gadsden, Central High of Mobile, Booker Washington High of Montgomery, J. W. Darden High of Opelika, Sterling High of Sheffield, Hudson High of Selma, East Industrial High of Tuscaloosa, County Training School of Northport, and Walker County Training School of Jasper.

The six county high schools are Bethlehem Industrial Academy of Monroeville, Escambia County Training School of Atmore, Lee County Training School of Auburn, Tuskegee Institute High School. Tuscaloosa

These bands all participated in the 95-unit parade downtown this morning and will entertain early arrivals until game time at 1:30 p.m.

State had an open date last Saturday and Coach Arthur Simmons eased the tempo of workouts to permit a long string of injuries to heal. However, the Hornets were sent through long and five losses. The Golden Tigers, however, have a weight advantage and will be favored to extend their unbeaten streak over the Hornets.

State Outweighed

A comparison of season records State has won three games and lost five. Tuskegee, on the other hand, has two victories, two ties and five losses.

State has defeated Morehouse, Fisk and Savannah State while will show that the two teams meet today on about equal basis.

Probable Lineups

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE

OFFENSE		DEFENSE
44 Williams	LE	Hunter 50
59 Cobb	LT	Cobb 59
23 Stewart	LG	Baker 18
37 Wagner	C	Burley 58
52 Penthrope	RG	Stewart 23
53 Jenkins	RT	Jenkins 53
17 Johnson	RE	Johnson 31
26 Mungin	FB	Dickerson 48
14 MaAfee	LH	Trawick 14
28 Glass	RH	Atkinson 20
27 Braynon	QB	Braynon 27

ALABAMA STATE COLLEGE

OFFENSE		DEFENSE
47 Cotton	LE	Jordan 12
18 Rankin	LT	Shellman 74
16 Carter	LG	Sherman 30
34 Smith	C	Stewart 49
13 Evans	RG	Welch 42
68 Smith	RT	Smith 68
32 Stokes	RE	Stokes 32
51 Torrence	FB	Torrence 51
41 Davis	LH	Butcher 38
48 Hall	RH	Cheatham 45
28 Kincie	QB	Stokes 38

Highland School of Sylacauga.

losing to Xavier, Dillard, Clark, Alabama A. & M. and Lane.

The Tigers hold victories over Morehouse and Dillard while gaining tie decisions with Alabama A. & M. and Fort Valley. They have been defeated by Fisk, Clark, Xavier, South Carolina State and Benedict.

Althongh badly outweighed in every game, the Hornets have scored on all their opponents, except Xavier. They have a total of 17 touchdowns to their credit, but their opponents have scored a total of 28 six-pointers.

This is Simmons' first season as head coach of the Hornets, but the veteran Cleve Abbott continues to tutor the Tigers. Abbott has a record of 20 victories in the series with the Hornets at Cramton Bowl.

Six Seniors On State Squad

Six seniors will be playing their final game for State. Five of them —End Sampson Cotton of Montgomery, Tackle Mansfield Smith of Birmingham, Halfback Clarence Seldon of Detroit, End Hubert Stokes of Mobile, and Halfback Theordore Golden of Mobile—are on the offensive platoon. Robert Booth, also of Montgomery, is the other senior starter He fills one of the linebacker positions.

Levaughan Jenkins, 200-pound tackle from Mobile, is the hub of the Tuskegee team. He is a 60-minute performer and has been a standout on defense and offense all season. Miles McAfee and Robert Glass are the Tiger offensive threats.

So, like many other games in the series, this Tuskegee-State game shapes up as a thriller. On paper it looks like another one for the Tigers, but Coach Simmons has convinced the Hornets there is no such thing as a jinx. Consequently, State could crash the win column for the first time in the series since 1940.

Annual Safari To Game Planned By Detroit Fans

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, Ala., Nov. 25—Members of the Pathfinders Club of Detroit, who have witnessed every Tuskegee Institute-Alabama State College football game since the start of the series at Cramton Bowl in 1924, will make their annual pilgrimage to Montgomery for the 28th time, R. S. Darnaby has been informed by Theodore Smith, club president. Smith said the party will consist of 25 or more persons.

Reservations have been made for the following persons: Ollie Belcher, Thaddeus Green, William Mobley, Beecher Norton, Guy Weyman, Fred Long, Mrs. Mary Trotter, William Travis, Miss Lillian Dawn, Seymour Davis, Miss Winfred Acott, Harold Morgam, Robert Stewart, Mrs. Mattie McCray, Miss Pearl Wright.

Fred Thompson, Wiley Smith, Mrs. Thurman Jenkins, Mrs. Fred Thornton, Mrs. Ruth Hanna, Mrs. Laura Bock, Mrs. Fern Bruner. Smedley Williams, Mrs. Maria Maynard, Richard Cooke, Robert Bradley, Morris Moore and James Moore.

Morehouse Is Favored Over Tuskegee In Annual Grid Game Here Tonight

By BOB PRUITT

College football returns to Memorial Stadium tonight when the teams of Tuskegee Institute and Morehouse College of Atlanta clash in the local field in the annual Negro grid classic of the season. The kickoff is slated for 8 o'clock and an estimated 15,000 fans are expected.

This game needs no introduction to Columbus football followers as it has been a social affair here for a number of years and in every case has attracted not only the Negro fans of Columbus but a great number of whites as well.

As usual there will be a reserve section for whites. This year, the south half of the west stands will be for the whites, and they will enter the west gate. Also, patients from the Fort Benning hospital have been invited to see the game as guest of the two schools.

As to the game itself, Morehouses Maroon Tigers will be out to avenge a 19-0 defeat handed to them by the Golden Tigers of Tuskegee in the game tonight.

In last year's game, the winner wasn't decided until late in the final period when a touchdown and a field goal decided the victor. This year, however, Morehouse is being rated at least a touchdown favorite over the Institute team.

The Maroon Tigers of Morehouse have several ex-Spencer High stars on the team — Brice Carter, Roscoe Fortson, James King, and Amos Sheraid. All are expected to play an important part in the final outcome.

Other Georgia boys on the Morehouse team who are expected to see a lot of action tonight are James Gaines, Bernard Gay, George Goddard, Wendell Hamilton, Tom Mattison, Jackson Shafttall, Lyn Wade and George Williams.

Perhaps the most outstanding player on the Morehouse team is Harry "Jitters" Smith. The speedy Smith is the youth who trucked down the field four years ago, out-running Tuskegee tacklers to score the winning touchdown.

Smith has been out of the Morehouse lineup, as well as out of school for the past three years due to a serious illness, but he is now back in shape and ready to go and most Maroon Tiger followers expect him to repeat in performance of the past.

Heading the Tuskegee attack will be Ron Brayton, Miles McAfee, Bob Glass, and Fullback Bob Mungin. Up front, Morehouse is likely to find the going tough when Leonard Cobb is on duty.

The big 6' 1, 218 pound tackle, has proven that he is a hard man to fool, and it usually takes more than just one man to move the big fellow out of his positon. Cobb is from Fort Valley.

Up front with Cobb, will be Frank Johnson and Al Williams on the ends, Bob Hunter will be the other tackle while Leon Stewart and Reg Rentrope will be at guards. Milton Ward is the starting center.

In the backfield, Brayton is the team captain as well as the quarterback. McAfee and Glass will be at the starting halfback posts with Mungin at full

While the game is the big thing, in reality, it climaxes a full afternoon of gaity. In pre-game activities, the widely-known Crimson Pipers of Tuskegee will head a street parade through downtown area. The band, under the direction of Capt Alton A. Davenport, the Tuskegee musicians have entertained the people of Columbus for a number of years. The parade will form in front of the Ninth Street YMCA, and will move promptly at 4 oclock.

The line of march will be as follows: North on Sixth avenue to 12th street. West on 12th street to the Ledger-Enquirer building, where musical selections will be played. Then South on Broadway to 8th street; East on 8th to 6th avenue and back to the YMCA where the parade will disband.

A gala halftime ceremony is on tap for tonight. Dressed in Air Force blue, the Tuskegee band will put on a colorful show. A group of high-stepping majorettes, dressed in flaming colors of the Alabama school, will march in front of the band, entertaining the fans with fancy maneuvers and eye-catching twirling.

The Morehouse band is also planning a fascinating halftime show, and if either school can duplicate the performances of the past. then the halftime ceremony is well worth the price of the ticket.

Tuskegee Institute To Begin Football Practice On Sept. 1

TUSKEGEE, Ala. (UP) — Coaches begin whipping Tuskegee Institute's football team into shape here Sept. 1, it was announced today.

All candidates for the team will take a physical examination Aug. 31 and be issued uniforms.

The Golden Tigers, playing their toughest football schedule in several years, will build the offense around a backfield made up of James Reudick, Miles McAfee, Flourney Lynch, Eugene Dickerson, William Grant, William Atkinson, Taylor Augustus and James Davis.

Linemen returning from last year include Allen Williams, Leon Stewart, Reginald Renthrope, Clarence Beverley, Clayton Payton, Bernadean Showers, James George, Reginald Bassa, Fred Baker, Leon Leonard and Milton Ward.

Coaches this year will try to develop a kicking and passing game, but no good punting prospects have yet been found.

The season opens Sept. 19 at Montgomery when Tuskegee plays Alabama Agricultural and Mechanical College at Montgomery.

The schedule:

Sept. 19—Alabama A and M at Montgomery.

Sept. 26—Xavier Univ. at Tuskegee.

Oct. 3—Fisk at Tuskegee.

Oct. 9—Clarke College at Birmingham (night).

Oct. 17—Knoxville College (homecoming).

Oct. 23—Morehouse at Columbus (night).

Oct. 31—Ft. Valley State College at Ft. Valley.

Nov. 7—Tougaloo College at Tuskegee.

Nov. 14—Dillard Univ. at New Orleans.

Nov. 26—Alabama State College at Montgomery.

14n 1953

ATHLETICS

SPORTS OF THE WORLD

By Marion E. Jackson

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, Ala. — (SNS) — The wonder tales of basketball written in Tuskegee Institute's massive Logan Hall could have been lifted from the folklore of Jakob and Wilhelm Grimm, the German philologists who collected fairy tales. For every element associated with the 42 basic plots in story-telling has been utilized in the wild finishes associated with this hoop festival. Last year, it was a double-overtime game, made even more bizarre by the strange spectacle of three Florida A&M players winning over a darkhorse Alabama State team which had led all the way, only to surrender its advantage in the last moments of play.

Look up the rag-to-riches heroes, Frank Merriwell, the Rovers boys, Tom Sawyer, Rip Van Wrinkle, Hans Christain Anderson and Patrick Henry and the hot stove boys will find you a counterpart in tournament history. Basketball is sports' 'Alice in Wonderland. At tournament time there are always wonders to behold. The Tuskegee tournament [illegible] them.

The passing parade of stars, unequalled in the other branches of sports, have blazed across the boards of Logan Hall for their brief hour of stardom and applause. Looking out over the audience into the faces of hundreds of [illegible] eager and excited spectators you catch the expectancy of the crowd. Which team will win? Who will be the star of the hour? What are the new coaching devices to be unveiled? Wheer will mantle of victory fall at the eleventh hour?

We don't have the answer. To me the [illegible]ament looks wide open. Tenacious, greedy, covetous wheel of fortune can stop at favored Florida A & M, 'team to beat Xavier U., thirdseeded Morehouse, fourth-ranked Fisk, or Fort Valley State, Bethune-Cookman, Knoxville College, Alabama State, Tuskegee Institute or Clark College.

For basketball is the great equalizer of sports. Victory depends on hustle, determination, agressiveness and the golden touch. Heroes of the [illegible] these requisites, while the loser lacked them. It's a see-saw game.

3-13-53

One thing all observers agree. This twentieth anniversary version is likely to be the most notable in history. The teams are few personnel advantages to to height, depth and calibre of material. There are really no exceptional teams. Never before have the experts been so completely stumped.

Last year, glittering record were chalked up by Florida A & M. In '49, '50 and 51, Morris Brown sent top-heavy favorites. Look back down the years and you will see Tuskegee, Florida A & M, Morehouse, Xavier, Clark and 'Bama State alternating in the favored role.

Bust a guess at this year's tournament isn't worth a plugged nickel. For fans have been Knoxville defeat Florida, Bethune-Cookman win over Florida A & M at the district at large of the NAIA tournament them succumb twice in a row to the Rattlers in Daytona Beach and Tallahassee. Xavier University has split with Florida A & M while defeating Bethune-Cookman. Alabama State and Tuskegee have posted wins over Florida A & M. This type of run-around could go on and on.

However, what is apparent is that today's SIAC heroes will have to be born on the tournament floor. Individual stars like Willie Irvin and Harold Donald of Florida, John Chaney and Wycliff Martin of Bethune-Cookman, Esmo Woods and work of Fisk, and Donald Weaver and Ross of Morehouse will have to catch fire, singe the hops and designs and pattern of victory.

Down through the years, this has been true. Coaches like C. Johnson Dunn of 'Bama State, Ted A. Wright, former coach of the fabulous Xavier Ambassadors, Frank L. Forbes of Morehouse, H. B. (Bus) Thompson (who won two championships while at Morris Brown), Thomas Caldwell, the former Morris Brown mentor who had the distinction of winning the visitation and tournament titles in 1951 and they got sacked, Ross C. Owen of Tuskegee Institute and many others will tell you of stars being born on the floor.

One of the most notables instances witnessed by these eyes was in the 1951 tournament when Robert Graves of Morris Brown subbing for Theodore Benson fired the Wolverines to a win over Florida A & M.

Others like to tell of Jerome Harris of Morehouse and even before George Coffee.

All of the colleges have heroes who are now steeped in legend for having performed beyond call of valor in tournament competion. I can't list them all. As the tournament progresses, they will be exhumed from the archives as the boys argue over beer and pretzels.

However, all will conceded that this year's meet is a tossup. No overwhelming favorite exists. The team to beat is the team that plays. I can't see it any other way.

HERE AND THERE — Morris Brown leads Atlanta's SIAC colleges tournament victories with three. Morehouse has two championships and Clark College one.... Fort Valley State has never won a conference basketball title...

Frank A. Young, venerable sports editor emeritus of the Chicago Defender is on hand for the tournament. Young is one of the wheels behind the national High School basketball tournament which will be held in Nashville, March 26, 27 and 28...

Basketball races are rapidly coming to a close. Last week, the CIAA race tournament was held in Durham, N. C. This weekend, the CIAA race tournament t HD) Southeastern tournament is in progress at Savannah State College, while the SIAC extravaganza goes on here...Midwestern and Southwest conferences do not sponsor tounrnaments...

The Southern Intercollegiate Athletic Conference owes a tribute to Captain R. S. Darnaby, one of the msot respected sports publicists in the Deep South. Every collegiate publicity organization rates Darnaby tops..

Tuskegee Institute is waiting for the close of tournament competition to step up baseball drills...

FOOTBALL

Tuskegee Rips Clark, 73-62 In Opener Of SIAC Tourney

Atlanta World
Atlanta, Ga.

BY MARION E. JACKSON

TUSKEGEE, Ala. — (SNS) — Tuskegee Institute defeated Clark College 73-62 in the opening round of the SIAC tournament.

The Panthers led 16-13 at the end of the first period. Tuskegee knotted the count at 31-31 at halftime. The Golden Tigers led 54-41 at the end of the third frame.

3-13-53

A flurry of baskets sent the victors ahead to stay in the fourth frame although Clark College fought within the range.

P. 7

Fouls hurt the Panthers and with four of their starters flagged from the contest. The margin was too great to overcome.

Big Roman (Doc) Turmon fouled out with eleven and a half minutes remaining on the time clock. With seven and a half minutes to go officials thumbed Robert Thompson to the sidelines. Harold Hubbard and Darius Hairston were next to go the exit route.

With four of the Panthers big scorers watching from the bench, the Panthers were impotent but they never stopped hustling and gave the Golden Tigers anxious moments until the final gun.

Tuskegee finished the game minus Willis Hockett, Rigoberto Garcia, and Charles Bonner.

BOX SCORES

Tuskegee (73)	FG.	FT.	TPS.
Hockett	5	4	14
Johnson	4	7	15
Trawick	6	2	14
Bonner	4	2	10
Garcia	5	3	13
Gaston	2	1	5
L. Johnson	0	1	1
C. Mackel	0	1	1
TOTALS	26	21	73
Clark (62)	FG.	FT.	TPS.
Turmon	5	2	12
Hairston	9	2	20
Hubbard	3	1	8
Swain	2	2	6
Thompson	1	1	1
Daniels	0	1	1
Holloway	3	1	7
Clark	2	1	5
TOTALS	25	12	62

Tuskegee Rips Clark, 73-62 In Opener Of SIAC Tourney

BY MARION E. JACKSON

TUSKEGEE, Ala. — (SNS) — Tuskegee Institute defeated Clark College 73-62 in the opening round of the SIAC tournament.

The Panthers led 16-13 at the end of the first period. Tuskegee knotted the count at 31-31 at halftime. The Golden Tigers led 54-41 at the end of the third frame.

A flurry of baskets sent the victors ahead to stay in the fourth frame although Clark College fought within the range.

Fouls hurt the Panthers and with four of their starters flagged from the contest. The margin was too great to overcome.

Big Roman (Doc) Turmon fouled out with eleven and a half minutes remaining on the time clock. With seven and a half minutes to go officials thumbed Robert Thompson to the sidelines. Harold Hubbard and Darius Hairston were next to go the exit route.

With four of the Panthers big scorers watching from the bench, the Panthers were impotent but they never stopped hustling and gave the Golden Tigers anxious moments until the final gun.

Tuskegee finished the game minus Willis Hockett, Rigoberto Garcia, and Charles Bonner.

BOX SCORES

Tuskegee (73) FG. FT. TPS.
Hockett 5 4 14
Johnson 4 7 15
Trawick 6 2 14
Bonner 4 2 10
Garcia 5 3 13
Gaston 2 1 5
L. Johnson 0 1 1
C. Mackel 0 1 1
TOTALS 26 21 73

Clark (62)	FG.	FT.	TPS.
Turmon	5	2	12
Hairston	9	2	20
Hubbard	3	1	8
Swain	2	2	6
Thompson	1	1	1
Daniels	0	1	1
Holloway	3	1	7
Clark	2	1	5
TOTALS	25	12	62

Florida, Xavier, Bethune Cookman Quints Advance In 20th SIAC Hardwood Tournev

BY MARION E. JACKSON

LOGAN HALL GYMNASIUM, TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, Ala. — (SNS) — Florida A. and M. College, Xavier University and Bethune Cookman College, three of the four seeded teams chalked up their opening games in the win column as the 20th annual SIAC Basketball Tournament got underway here Thursday afternoon.

Consolations Finals Set For 6:00 P. M. Tonight

BY MARION E. JACKSON

LOGAN HALL GYMNASIUM, TUSKEGEE, Ala. — (SNS) — The Xavier University Gold Rush cagers, of New Orleans, La., put on a brilliant finish to turn back the Morehouse College Maroon Tigers, of Atlanta, Ga., 61-58 here Friday night in the opening game of the semi-finals of the 20th annual SIAC Basketball Tournament.

Tonight, the Maroon and White Tigers pair-off with the loser of the Florida-Bethune Cookman game in the consolation finals, which get underway at 6:00 P. M. (CST). The victorious Xavier hoopsters meet the winner in the championship game at 7:45 (CST).

Entertainment features tonight will include physical education demonstrations and unique dance exhibitions by students of the Tuskegee Institute Department of Physical Education.

TEAMS DISPLAY EXPERT COACHING

The Xavier fourteen and Morehouse Maroon Tigers treated the capacity crowd to the best all-around game of the tournament. The defensive play reflected remarkable coaching jobs by the rival mentors, and both teams displayed a plenty of offensive know-how.

Xavier move ahead 11-9 at the quarter and the score was knotted 22-all at intermission. Morehouse forged a 40-35 margin at the end of the quarter, then Xavier went on top, 50-48, at the five-minute-mark. The score was deadlocked exactly five times, 8-8; 22-22; 41-41; 45-45 and 48-48.

Clifford Jackson, Morehouse forward fouled out at the twelve-minute-mark; George Ross followed him to the sideline with four and a half minutes left to play; and Donald Weaver made his exit with two and a half minutes left to play. Frederick Jones, Joseph Jenkins and Prevost, of Xavier, also went out of the contest for excessive fouls.

The Bethune-Cookman-Florida game followed, but was halted due a power failure. The Logan Hall Gymnasium was in complete darkness, then play was resumed after a delay of approximately 25 minutes.

SUMMARY

XAVIER	FG.	FT.	FLS.	PTS.
Gaines	2	2	3	6
Priestley	1	1	3	3
Warlick	5	7	4	17
Jones	0	4	5	4
I. Joseph	2	5	5	9
Jenkins	5	1	5	11
J. Bennett	3	0	4	6
Streams	0	1	2	1
Prevost	1	2	5	4
TOTALS	19	23	36	61

MOREHOUSE	FG.	FT.	FLS.	PTS.
Jackson	0	0	5	0
Jones	0	7	5	7
Richardson	0	0	1	0
Weaver	4	6	5	14
Clendenon	6	5	2	17
Ross	4	6	5	14
Thomas	0	1	0	1
Alexander	1	3	3	5
TOTALS	15	28	26	58

At press time, the Morehouse College Maroon Tigers, seeded in the No. 3 spot, were matching shots with the Tuskegee Institute Golden Tigers.

FLORIDA, 'BAMA STATE SET SCORING RECORD

In the second opening round contest, the Florida Rattlers, defending tournament champions, out-shot the fast-breaking Alabama State Hornets, 108-97. These traditional conference rivals scored a total of 205 points to set a tournament scoring record for a single game.

The second-seeded Xavier Gold Rush hoopsters breezed to a 79-58 verdict over the Knoxville College Bulldogs to move into the semi-finals. Xavier led 25-21 at the quarter; 44-35 at half time and forged a 56-42 margin at the end of the third period.

The fourth-seeded Bethune Cookman Wildcats rolled to a 74-58 victory over the Fort Valley State Wildcats. Bethune Cookman out front, 21-14 at the quarter; 38-34 at intermission and 51-46 at the end of the third period. Fort Valley State closed the gap and led for a brief period in the third quarter.

CLOCK DELAYS PLAY

The big electric time clock got out of order, delaying play throughout the afternoon and night..

Officials for the tournament are Vernon Colbert (Johnson C. Smith); Lunis C. Ballard (Virginia State); Pete Butler (Colorado); and Franklin Taylor (Alabama State).

The first semi-finals game gets underway at 6:30 (CST) tonight.

FIRST ROUND

TUSKEGEE	73
CLARK	62
FLORIDA	108
ALABAMA STATE	97

QUARTER - FINALS

XAVIER	79
KNOXVILLE	58
BETHUNE COOKMAN	74
FORT VALLEY STATE	58

GAMES TONIGHT

Xavier Vs. Winner Morehouse-Tuskegee game.

Bethune Cookman Vs. Winner Florida-Fisk game.

Clark Panthers Fall To Tuskegee Tigers, 56-49

By ERNEST M. PHARR

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, Ala. — With fangs much sharper than those of the Clark College Panthers, the Golden Tigers of Tuskegee Institute handed the Atlanta crew their eighth conference loss with a 56-4 final score at Logan Hall Gymnasium in Tuskegee, Friday night.

The Eppsmen jumped off to an early 7-3 lead when guards Robert Thompson and John Swain dumped in a couple of two-pointers. However, the Tigers who were not anxious of becoming victims of a Panther attack slowly nibbled away at the Clark lead until the first quarter count stood at 15-all.

The Tigers' Hockett, Trawick and Bonner connected with their shots from the floor and maintained a slim lead of 3 points at halftime as Roman Turmon bucketed the only two field goals for Clark in the second quarter. The halfway mark saw the Tigers ahead with 27-24.

A devastating blow to the Clark offensive attack came with less than two minutes remaining in the half. Roman Turmon went up for a 56-49 final score at Logan Hall down with the sphere, twisting his ankle, and leaving the Panthers without their "guiding light."

Harold Hubbard took the lead for the Clarkites in the third quarter and in "Dock's" absence bucketed for field goals to keep the Panthers in the running. Turmon returned late in the third quarter and hit the nets for two points as did Robert Thompson. However, the Tigers kept their stingy lead with seven buckets to the Panthers' six and as the final stanza began, the Eppsmen found themselves on the short end of a 41-36 count.

The home team's forward, Hockett, added insurance points to their total and led the victors to a 52-42 count with less than three minutes remaining. The quick succession of baskets by Turmon, Hairston and Tate went for naught as the Panthers heard the whistle resounding their eighth conference loss.

LINEUPS

Clark	Tuskegee
Turmon (15)	Hockett (15)
Hairston (7)	Abernathy (3)
Hubbard (10)	Garcia (9)
Swain (4)	Trawick (11)
Thompson (10)	Gaston (3)
Tate (3)	Bonner (7)
	Johnson (8)
Totals—(49)	Totals (56)

FLYING FEMALES — Mae Faggs, left, snaps the tape to capture the 100-meter run in the National Women's track and field meet at Tuskegee Institute last week. Miss Faggs gave Tennessee State a first in this event. She's followed by Barbara Jones, center, of Chicago's CYO, and Cynthia Thompson, Tennessee.

(Clanton Photo)

Texas Southern First At Kegee

TUSKEBEE, Ala. — Texas Southern University won two relay championships and added three individual titles in the 27th annual running of the Tuskegee Institute Relays here, Friday and Saturday.

The Tiger baton-carriers cleaned up the quarter-mile, and the half-mile relay championships and in the individual events, Ralph Aldridge broke the tape in 9.8 to win the century; B. Roy cleared the bar at 6 feet, 2¼ inces in the high jump; and J. Westbrook scaled 11 feet, 6 inches to lead the pole vaulters.

Tennessee Gal Sets Mark In Tuskegee Track Meet

TUSKEGEE, Ala. — Patricia Monsanto, versitile Tennessee State university field star from Bay Side, N.Y., tossed the discus 116 feet, 7 inches to set the only new record in the silver anniversary Tuskegee Institute Women's Sports Day Program, Friday and Saturday, in Alumni Bowl.

Tuskegee and Tennessee battled right down to the wire for championship honors, with Tennessee finally gaining a hard fought 114-112 victory.

Scoring points in the senior women's division were Catholic Youth Organization (Chicago) 42; Alabama State college, 28; and Bethune Cookman college, 12.

Miss Monsanto, who shattered her old record of 109 feet, 2½ inches in the discus throw, and her hometown pal, Mae Faggs, U. S. Olympic star, shared individual honors with Lula Bell, brilliant Tuskegee star and product of Booker T. Washington High, Atlanta, with double victories.

In addition to tre discus throw, Miss Monsanto won the baseball throw. Miss Faggs streaked home first in the 50 and 100 meter runs; and Miss Bell scored clean-cut victories in the 80-yard hurdles and javelin throw.

Other individual winners were: Olympian Mabel Landry (CYO) running broad jump; Mildred McDaniel (Tuskegee) high jump; and Donnis Thompson (CYO) shot put. The Tennessee State combination hit the tape first in the 400-meter relay.

In the junior women's division, the David T. Howard High girls of Atlanta piled up 44 points to capture the team crown. Booker T. Washington High of Atlanta finished in the runner-up spot with 40 points, and Henry McNeal Turner High, also of Atlanta, was third with 31 points.

Tigers Protest

NASHVILLE — Tennessee State College track coach Edward Timple this week vigorously protested the claim of Tuskegee's Cleve Abbott that the latter won the Tuskegee Women's Relays last weekend at Tuskegee.

Timple's claim is that the host school used Annie Gordon in more than the four events stipulated for one contestant. Miss Gordon was on Tuskegee's 440-yard relay team, which finished second. Her use should have disqualified Tuskegee, Timple points out, and taken away eight points in the total claimed by the Alabamans. The team totals would then read Tennessee 112, Tuskegee 106, instead of a 114-112 margin claimed by Tuskegee.

SPORTS OF THE WORLD

BY MARION JACKSON

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, Ala. — (SNS) — There is a "Day Is Done' 'Last Rose of Summer" atmosphere that hovers like a cloud at ceiling zero over the Tuskegee Relays. It is the tense expectancy of the impending climax of the scholastic year here. It mingles with both students and visitors, even those unwitting of the fact that school here has less than two weeks to go. Visiting coaches and athletes absorb the note of finality for it will be trail's end for coaches on the competitive level for '53 and many athletes will sing their swan song to intercollegiate sports.

Now this wistful blend of nastalgia and anticipation is concocted is magical. For athletes gathered here represent six major conferences; but still they feel it and it stirs them as an awecome. insidious force from which they cannot escape. Their writhing and scrimming under its powerful elixir is like the fly trying to escape the gluey netting of the spider's web.

This is true. Real true—although the Southern Intercollegiate Athletic Conference championships come next week at Atlanta. The Central Intercollegiate Athletic Association is scheduled for Morgan State, Baltimore, Md., and the Southwest championships will be run at Southern University Baton Rouge, La.

However, the strange kinship is effected because this is the last full scale all-conference track and field meet—call it the Tuskegee Relays if you must.

Head Coach Cleve Abbott's skillful assemblage of the ranking Negro college track stars is not a cracy quilt thing. It is webbed together by splendidly forged alliances forged by Tuskegee over a period of years and since cemented and ripened.

It is a kaleidoscope remanant of a glorious era when the Tuskegee Institute Golden Tigers took on all comers in the Southwest, Midwest, CIAA and the SIAC. The ties remain although the Golden Tigers have shriveled into a new and lowly competitive orbit.

The link with the past show up at the relays. Present are Grambling, Texas College, Prairie View, Florida A. and M., Texas Southern, Lincoln (Mo.), N. C. A. and T., Clark College, Bethune Cookman, Morehouse, Alabama State Ft. Valley, Wiley, Southern and many others.

How they happen to gather here was not left to chance. Tuskegee plays an arduous basketball schedule in all sections of the nation. Its baseball team is the most traveled in the SIAC. Golden Tiger golf and tennis teams move silently into the Southwest and Midwest. Through these contacts Abbott has maintained diamond-studded contacts. They pay off at relay time.

Few men are consulted as much as Abbott on sports issues. He is the Father Confessor to athletic men in all conferences. He had plotted many a strategy.

So the atmosphere seeps into the relays. Everybody comes here although Tuskegee itself is knee-deep in studies. Examinations are only a few days off. The spectre of graduation and departure for home and vacation jobs is apparent in

These are the symbols of the waning days of the school year. Not

Tuskegee Girls Take Women's Sports Day Team Championship

Patricia Monsanto Sets New Record In Discus Throw

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, Ala. — Patricia Monsanto, versatile Tennessee A. & I. State University field star from Bay Side, N. Y., tossed the discus 116 feet, 7½ inches to set the only new record in the silver anniversary Tuskegee Institute Women's Sports Day Program, Friday and Saturday, in Alumni Bowl.

The Tuskegee Institute and Tennessee State lassies battled right down to the wire for team championship honors, with Tuskegee rolling up 114 points foor a hard-earned victory. Tennesee State was only two points back with 112 points.

Also scoring points in the senior women's division were: Catholic Youth Organization (Chicago) 42; Alabama State College, 28; and Bethune Cookman College, 12.

Miss Monsanto, who shattered her old record of 109 feet, 2 1-2 inches in the discus throw, and her hometown pal, Mae Fagg, U. S. Olympic star, shared individual honors with Lula Bell, brilliant Tuskegee star and product of Booker T. Washington High, Atlanta, with double victories.

In addition to the discus throw, Miss Monsanto won the baseball throw; Miss Faggs streaked home first in the 50 and 100 meter runs; and Miss Bell scored clean-cut victories in the 80 yard hurdles and javelin throw.

Other individual winners were: Mabel Landry (CYO) running broad jump; Mildred McDaniel (Tuskegee) high jump; and Dennis Thompson (CYO) shot put. The Tennessee State combination hit the tape first in the 400 meter relay.

HOWARD GIRLS WIN

In the junior women's division, the David T. Howard High girls of Atlanta finished in the runner-up spot with 40 points, and Henry McNeal Turner High, also of Atlanta, was third with 31 points.

The other points were distributed as follows: Lincoln High, Port Arthur, Texas, 28; McIntosh High McIntosh, Ala., 24; Monroe High, Albany, Ga., 21; Tuskegee Institute High, Tuskegee, 15; Beach High, Savannah, Ga., 14; Carver High, Jakin, Ga., 14; Howard Academy, Ocala, Fla., 13; Pittsview High, 10; Springfield A and I, 8; Oliver High, 8; Brooks High, Quitman, Ga., 3; Camden Academy, Camden, Ala., 2; and Wilcox County Training School 1.

COLLEGE SUMMARIES

50-METER RUN — 1 Mae Faggs (Tennessee State); 2 Cynthia Thompson (Tennessee State); 3 Mabel Landry (CYO); 4 Margaret Davis (Tennessee State); 5 Oretha McMillon (Bethune Cookman); 6 Corine Dade (Tuskegee). TIME: 6.4

80-METER LOW HURDLES — 1 Lula Bell (Tuskegee); 2 Robbie Hendrix (Tuskegee); 3 Dorothy Chisholm (Tennessee State); 4 Willie J. Williams (Alabama State); 5 Loretha Blackburn (Tennessee State). TIME: 12.5

100-METER RUN — 1 Mae Faggs (Tennessee State); 2 Barbara Jones (CYO); 3 Cynthia Thompson (Tennessee State); 4. Josephine Gilmore (Tuskegee)); 5. Rosa Williams (Bethune Cookman); 6 Margaret Davis (Tennessee State). TIME: 12.3

400-METER RELAY — 1 Tennessee A and I State University; 2 Tuskegee Institute; 3 Alabama State College; 4 Bethune Cookman College; 5 Alabama State College. TIME: 53.3

BASEBALL THROW — 1 Patricia Monsanto (Tennessee State); 2 Ester Hardy (Alabama State) 3 Mamie Brown (Tuskegee); 4 Bertha Sanders (Alabama State) 5 Frances Newbern (Tennessee State) 6 Annie Gordon (Tuskegee). DISTANCE: 181 ft., 5 in.

RUNNING BROAD JUMP — 1 Mabel Landry (CYO); 2 Orlene Pugh (Tuskegee); 3 Barbara Jones (CYO); 4 Evelyn Wong (Bethune Cookman); 5 Loretha Blackman (Tennessee State); 6 Two-way tie —Frances Newbern and Margaret Davis (Tenn. State). DISTANCE: 18 ft., 2 in.

DISCUS THROW — 1. Patricia Monsanto (Tennessee State); 2 Annie Gordon (Tuskegee); 3 Curistene Reed (Tuskegee); 4 Emma Phillips (Alabama tate); 5 Beulah Robertson (Tuskegee); 6 Dorothy Bell (Alabama State). DISTANCE: 116 ft., 7 1-2 in. (NEW RECORD).

HIGH SCHOOL SUMMARIES

50-METER RUN — 1 Margaret Mathews (Howard, Atlanta); 2 Jean High (Howard, Atlanta); 3 Colernia Jackson (Howard Academy, Ocala, Fla.); 4 Hazel Watkins (Beach High, Savannah, Ga.); 5 Pelnes Brown (Brooks, Quitman, Ga.); 6 Annie McDonald (Lincoln, Port Arthur, Texas). TIME: 6.4

80-METER LOW HURDLES — 1 Rosa Williams (Pittsview); 2 Edna Callahan (Howard, Atlanta); 3 Beverly Tidwell (Washington, Atlanta) 4 Annie Butts (Turner, Atlanta); 5 Cherry Jackson (Howard, Atlanta); 6 Mary Fields (McIntosh, Ga.) TIME: 13.3

100-METER RUN — 1 Hazel Watkins (Beach, Savannah); 2 Edith Moton (Washington, Atlanta); 3 Burnaden Dwyer (Lincoln, Port Arthur, Texas; 4 Isabell Daniel (Carver, akins, Ga.); 5 Jean High Howard, Atlanta); 6 Mildred Charley (Wilcox County Training School, Millers Ferry, Ala.) TIME: 12.6

400 Meter Relay — 1. Beach (Savannah, Ga.); 2. Lincoln (Port Arthur, Texas); 3. Howard (Atlanta); 4. Howard Academy (Ocala, Fla.); 5. Washington (Atlanta); 6. Turner (Atlanta). Time 54.0.

Baseball throw — 1. Jean Wilcox (Carver, Atlanta); 2. Louise Collins (Turner, Atlanta); 3. Barbara Jacket Lincoln, Port Arthur, Texas); 4. Cherry Jackson (Howard Atlanta); 5. Beverly Tidwell (Washington, Atlanta); 6. Delores Brown (Brooks, Quitman, Ga.). Distance 225 ft., 7 in.

Running Broad Jump — 1. Calpurnis Jackson (Howard Academy, Ocala, Fla.); 2. Rosie Bryant (Tuskegee High); 3. Mary Clement (Tuskegee High); 4. M. Hall (Monroe, (Albany); 5. Ollie Johnson (Howard Academy, Ocala, Fla.; 6. A. Wesley Monroe, Albany, Ga.. Distance 15 ft., 4 in.

Discus Throw — 1. Barbara Jacket (Lincoln, Port Arthur, Texas); 2. Minnie Jones (McIntosh, McIntosh, Ala.; 3. Annie Burns (Washington, Atlanta); 4. Dorothy Raiford (Washington, Atlanta); 5. Isadelle Rubin (Camden Academy, Camden, Ala.); 6. Daisy Reed (McIntosh, McIntosh, Ala.) Distance 94 ft., 11 in.

High Jump — 1. J. Cantrell (Turner, Atlanta); 2. M. Dugans (Springfield) 3. A. Wesley (Monroe Albany); 4. D. Holt (Howard Academy, Ocala, Fla.); 5. O. Collier (Howard, Atlanta); 6. E. Callahan (Howard, Atlanta). Height 5 ft.

Javelin Throw — 1. Emma Christian (Monroe, Albany); 2. Eunice Haskin (Oliver); 3 Ora Gresham (Turner, Atlanta); 4. Cherry Jackson (Howard, Atlanta); 5. Annie Burns (Washington, Atlanta); 6. Barbara Jacket (Lincoln, Port Arthur, Texas). Distance 99 ft. 1 1-4 in.

Savannah State Takes Top Honors In Annual Relays

Savannah State College paced the 26th annual Tuskegee Relays by winning three events, the sprint medley, the mile and the two mile, while Texas College, close on the heels of the leaders, captured the 440 yards and the 880 yards relays in the Alumni Bowl last Saturday afternoon.

James Rogers, the best miler developed at Tuskegee since John Carroll, won his specialty, the Moton Mile, by pacing the field all the way.

James Hall, of Alabama State College, placed first in the running broad jump with a leap of 21 feet, 7½ inches; Eddie Shellman, of Bethune-Cookman, took the 100-yard dash, and Edward Carter, of A. & T. College Greensboro, N. C., was the victor in the 120 yards high hurdles.

Frank Prince, the anchor man on the Savannah State relay team, lived up to his advance billing by turning in the sparkling performances on that mile championship relay team. Prince has been selected to represent his country, Panama, in the Olympics.

For the second time in 24 years Tuskegee bowed to Tennessee State University in the women's sports carnival by a very close margin. The score was Tennessee 48, Tuskegee 46. Fort Valley State College was third, with 13 points, as a result of the splendid efforts of Catherine Hardy, who placed in the 50 meter and 200 meter runs. Alabama State College and Albany State College tied for fourth place with four points each.

In the junior women events David T. High School ,of Atlanta, placed first with 42 points; Booker Washington High, of Atlanta won second place with 39 points, Henry McNeal Turner High School, also of Atlanta, was third with 12. Beach High, of Savannah, placed fourth, with seven points.

One of the most startling upsets in the women's events was the victory scored by Catherine Hardy, Fort Valley State College, Fort Valley, Ga., in defeating the talented Jean Patton Lattimer, Tennessee State University's foremost contender for Olympic honors, in the 200 meter race. In this event Cynthia Thompson, of Tennessee State, was second; Jean Patton Lattimer, third, and Arlene Pugh, Tuskegee Institute, fourth. Time: 24.3 seconds

Patricia Monsanto, another member of Tennessee State's star spangled cast, won three field events, the shot put, the discus throw and the javelin throw, to score the highest number for the winning Tennessee State combination.

Lula Bell, of Tuskegee, scored two firsts in the high jump and the baseball throw.

Tuskegee Team Wins First Place In National Meet

Coach Cleve L. Abbott, Mrs. Abbott and their daughter, Miss Jessie Abbott, have just returned from a successful and delightful trip to San Antonio, Texas, where they took a team of fifteen Tuskegee Institute women students to compete in the National Field and Track Meet. The Tuskegee contingent won first place in the junior meet and the second place in the senior meet.

The group enjoyed air-conditioned living quarters at Fort Sam Houston, where they were assigned to the nurses' barracks. Excellent meals were available right next door in the Service Club.

On the trip down the group stopped over at Grambling College and at Prarie View College. On the way back they went by Galveston, where they had a wonderful fish dinner with Mrs. Celestine Shannon Strode, a Tuskegee graduate.

Mae Faggs, U. S. Olympic Star, Sparkle In Tuskegee Relays

Atlanta World
Atlanta, Ga.
Sat. 5-2-53
P. 5

BY MARION E. JACKSON

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, Ala. — Mae Faggs, ranking U. S. Olympic ace, won the 50 and 100 meter runs in the women's competition of the 27th Tuskegee Relays.

The Tennessee tate flash chalked up the only double win of the day.

Clark College of Atlanta won two championship as John Cannon copped the 120 high hurdles and Roman Turmon lofted the shotput 46 feet, one and three-fourths inches.

Cannon's feat was easily the most spectacular of the day. He led the field in the qualifying heat and came back with less than five minutes rest for the finals, he finished five yards ahead of the field.

Cannon And Turman Cop Championship Laurels For Clark

Lula Bell of Tuskegee won the 80 meter hurdles in 12.5. Miss Bell's artistry was unquestioned in this specialty although her teammate Robbie Hendrix made a flight of it to the finish line.

Melvin Frazier, unattached, Atlnta, Ga., topped the men's collegiate field in the javelin with a heave of 172 feet 2 and three fourth inches.

The Chicago CYO team making its first appearance here triumphed in the shot put as Donnis Thompson threw the shot put 36 feet one fourth inch.

SUMMARIES

SENIOR WOMEN 80 METER HURDLES — 1 Lula Bell, Tuskegee; 2 Robbie Hendrix, Tuskegee; 3 Dorothy Chisholm, Tennessee State; 4 Willie J. Williams, Alabama State; 5 Mamie Brown, Tuskegee; 6 Loretha Blackburn, Tennessee State. Time: 12.5

50 METER RUN — 1 Mae Faggs, Tennessee State; 2 Cynthia Thompson, Tennessee State; 3 Mabel Landry, CYO; 4 Margaret Davis, Tennessee State; 5 Oretha McMillon, Bethune Cookman; 6 Corine Rede, Tuskegee. Time: 6.4

100 METER RUN — 1 Mae Fagg, Tennessee State; 2 Barbara Jones, CYO; 3 Cynthia Thompson, Ten-Tuskegee; 5. Rosa Williams, Benessee State; 4. Josephine Gilmore, thune Cookman; 6 Margaret Davis, Tennessee State. Time: 12.3

SHOT PUT — 1 Donnis Thompson, CYO, 36 feet 1-4 inch; 2 Patricia Montsanto, Tennessee State; 3. Lula Bell, Tuskegee Institute; 4 Dorothy Chisholm, Tennessee State; 5 Annie Gordon, Tuskegee; 6. Frances Blackburn, Tennessee State.

SHOT PUT — 1 Roman Turmon, Clark 46" 1 3-4"; 2 Callivan Gladden, Florida A and M 39' 6 1-2"; 3 Joseph Generette, Tuskegee, 39' 6 1-2"; 4 Matthew Hill, Bethune Cookman, 39' 1"

120 HIGH HURDLE — 1 John Cannon, Clark; 2 Clifford Provost Lincoln High, Port Arthur, Texas; 3 Bennie Roy, Texas Southern; 4 James Hicks, Huston-Tillotson. Time: 15.3

DISCUS THROW — 1 Jack McClairen, Bethune Cookman (144 ft 11 in); 2 Bennie Roy, Texas Southern (134 ft 8 in.); 3 Nathaniel Murphy, Fort Valley (131 ft. 3 1-2 in.); 4 Joseph Generette, Tuskegee (127 ft. 2 in.)

JVELIN — 1 Melvin Frazier unattached (172.3 3-4); Levon Greene, Fort Valley State (164.4 1-2); 3 Steve Daniels, Morris Brown (157. 4); J. Williams, Risley High (153.4)

100 YARDS RUN — 1 Ralph Aldridge, Texas Southern; 2 Henry Dagraff, Grambling; 3 James Moore Florida A and M; 4 Edward Etienne Grambling. Time: 9.8

SPORTS OF THE WORLD

BY MARION JACKSON

Atlanta World

The men's division of the Tuskegee Relays is likely to be overshadowed by a glittering turnout of AAU and Olympic women aces. Among the competitors will be the Chicago CYO, Tennessee A&I, Bethune Cookman, Alabama State, Prairie View and Tuskegee Institute ..... Philadelphia Phillies' Robin Roberts has seven straight victories over the Brooklyn Dodgers, including six without a loss in '52. Now, Roberts not Sal Maglie, is the Dodgers' hoodoo pitcher!!! A three-states boycott of the Cotton States League is being pressed by Negro leaders in the area in which the league operates .....

Pitching appears to be keeping the Phillies on top.. Their aces are Curt Simmons, Karl Drews, Phil Konstanty, and Robin Roberts,..

Atlanta, Ga.

B T. Harvey's sportcast "Bench Talk Heard" is a good listening. It is cram full of informal and provocative chatter on topical issues in sports...

"Our Sports," a new monthly magazine featuring Negro athletes almost its editor—Jackie Robinson —after the first issue. Jackie lookde over the payroll for articles published in the first issue and saw jimcrow staring him straight in the face. White conributors were being paid in the high brackets—and as usual Negro writers were getting peanuts. Jackie hit the ceiling!!!

Boxing Note—Davey Gallardo, California featherweight champion, who impressed TV fans and boxing experts by winning over 'interim' titleholder Percy Bassett, meets Charles Riley, St. Louis, May 6 in Washilngton, D.. C.

Sat. 5-2-53

HERE AND THERE — Spec Richardson, Jacksonville manager and Dick Butler, president of the South Atlantic League, circulated through the crowd during the initial appearance of Negro players in Columbia, S. C. The only reaction they got from white spectators was a lot of "go on back to the cotton field" remarks and booing from the stands but little of it seemed to have overtones of viciousness.

P. 4

What did create a stir was one thousand Negroes paid 65 cents or $1, depending on where they sat in the Negro section or a section of the grandstands. Usually about 100 Negroes turn out in Columbia. The overall crowd was good, too, totaling 2,500. It was a chilly night and expected white attendance normally would have been around 600.

The attendance which packed 'em in was Jacksonville's three Negro players..The Southern Association should take not!!

NOTES ON SPORTS — Paine College, Augusta, Ga., took team honors at the Southern Conference track and field meet last week at Savannah State College...

A statewide meeting of Mississippi Negro leaders converged at Greenville recent to plot a boycott against the Cotton States League which refused to permit Jim and Leander Tugerson to play for the Little Rock Bathers.

Among the organizations represented were the Inter-Denominational Ministerial Alliance, Negro Voters League, Business League and all Fraternal organizations, Washington County Democratic Club.

Representatives adopted a resolution which attacked in part: the undemocratic attitude taken by powers that be, an attitude outmoded, farfetched, and out of line with present day trends..."

The resolution went on to state "...we gave unstintingly of our time, money, presence and moral support to Mississippi towns in the Cotton States League and have been rewarded by the refusal to allow Negro players in the league...

GOLDEN TURNOUT — Friday's Women Sports Day at Tuskegee Institute will have a crack field of women athletes. Tuskegee will lead off with Lula Bell and Josephine Gilmore. Tennessee State will bring Olympic stars Mag Faggs and Cynthia Thompson plus Patricia Monsanto, Dorothy Chisholm, Revoyda Fuller, and Loretha Butler.

Good women's squads will come from Alabama State, Bethune-Cookman and Prairie View.

Tuskegee has had mixed competition in men's events in past relays but if the Chicago CYO team is present it will be the first time for mixed women competition.

A number of past Tuskegee women Olympic champions will be honored during this year's meet.

LAST MINUTE NOTES — Eddie Hurt has come up with another crack team at Morgan State. Last week, his famed cindermen dazzled the Penn Relays by winning three championships...the Cleveland Indians in a nutshell: Best pitching in the American League. Catching, good-field, not hit. Infield, good hit, no field. Outfield, Good power fair fielding, but will go the way Larry Doby does...

Jay SAYS

CYO To Tuskegee Meet

TUSKEGEE, Ala.—The 25th annual Women's Sports day will be run Friday, May 1, and the 27th annual Tuskegee relays is on tap the following day. Interspersed will be the annual Southern conference tennis championships and the annual collegiate golf tournament.

The women's track meet, both junior and senior, is run on the point system. The relays for the boys and men are not—each event being a race, such as in the Kansas, Drake and Penn relays. Last year, Tennessee State university's girls nosed out the Tuskegee lassies. This year, the women's meet takes on a national aspect.

May Faggs of New York city, member of the 1948 and 1952 U. S Women's Olympic teams, and Cynthia Thompson, who represented Jamaica in London in the 1948 Olympic, are two of the mainstays on the Tennessee State 400-meters relay foursome. Missing this year will be Jean Patton, who is about to become a mother, having married last fall. The Nashville team will have to step some if they can turn back the Catholic Youth Organization, which is being represented by two members of the 1952 U. S. Women's Olympic team and three others.

THIS IS THE FIRST time that the Chicago CYO has made a bid for the senior championships in the Women's Sport day meet. Mabel Landry, 19, a student at DePaul university, holds the AAU national women's broad jump championship and is entered in that event and will run on the relay team. Barbara Jones, 15, a sophomore at St. Elizabeth high school and who ran on the U. S. 1952 400-meters relay team, will run in the 50 meters and the 100 meters events and on the relay team. L. Francis Lyman, 16, a Marshall high school student, is down for the 200 meters and will run on the relay team. June Spahn, 15, student at Wendell Phillips high, is entered in the 50 meters and may be picked as the fourth member of the relay quartet. Oldest member is 20-year-old Donis Thompson, who is majoring in physical education at George Williams college, Chicago. There is a possibility that Coach Percy Franklin may switch one or two of the runners on the relay team. The Misses Jones and Landry are sure starters.

Miss Jones was a teammate of Miss Faggs in the 1952 Olympic 400-meters relay.

Another 1952 Olympic team member and who ran on the U. S. 400-meters relay team is Catherine Hardy, who will represent Fort Valley (Ga.) State college in Friday's meet.

ARTENE PUGH, TUSKEGEE, has done 6.5 for 50 yards and 11.6 for the century. Both times were made in the Prairie View State college meet the first week in April.

Tuskegee is well fortified in the field events. Mildred McDaniel has done 5 feet, 5 inches in the high jump this spring. She does 15 feet, 4 inches in the broad jump.

Lula Bell is Tuskegee's best bet in the baseball throw, her winning distance at Prairie View was 197 feet, 2 1-2 inches. She was second at P. V. i nthe high jump and third in the shot put with a distance of 30 feet, one and 3-8 inches.

Other Tuskegee dependables are the Misses Henderson in the broad jump, Gordon in the discus and the shot put which she heaves 32 feet, 2 1-2 inches, Brown in the baseball throw, Robinson in the 200 meters and Hendrix in the century.

Miss Pugh was winner of the broad jump at Prairie View. Her distance was 18 feet, 10 1-2 inches.

The Tuskegee relay team has been timed in 52-3 for 440 yards this spring, but Coach Cleve Abbott believes they can do better than that. Friday it will be 400 meters.

The Tuskegee relays will be as spectacular as ever. The Southwestern conference will be represented by Prairie View, Southern Texas Southern, Texas college, Langston and Wiley. All the Southern conference coaches are sending teams. Tennessee State eyes the hurdles championship, while Wiley's freshman, Charles Deegan, is looked to cop the Robert R. Moten memorial mile. Spirited competition has highlighted the 440, 880, one-mile and two-mile relay events.

Twenty colleges have already sent in their entries. Finals in several of the events, including high schools, will be run off Saturday morning.

Stars To Appear In Tuskegee Track Meet

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, Ala. — Review and preview of past, present and future Olympic champions will be on parade in the Alumni Bowl Friday, May 1, and Saturday, May 2.

Especially will this be true on women's sports day championship on Friday. Among those who will be present will be Mrs. Alice Coachman Davis, graduate of Tuskegee Institute high school and holder of a diploma from the school of Home Economics, Tuskegee. Mrs. Davis, as Alice Coachman, won the Olympic high jump at the Olympic games which were held in London, England in 1948. Mrs. Emma Reed, a graduate of Tennessee State university, Nashville, was a member of the 1948 Olympic team, taking part in the high jump and the broad jump. Mrs. Evelyn Lawler Lewis, a graduate of Tuskegee institute, who has been pursuing graduate work at McMurray State college, Jacksonville, Ill., was a member of the 1951 Pan American Olympic games team.

The games were held in Santiago, Chile. Following the Pan-American games, members of the American team participated in the games held in Buenos Aires, setting a new hemisphere record of 11.3 for the 80 meters hurdles. Mrs. Lewis is now an instructor at Alabama State college in Montgomery.

Three of the four members of the world's record-holding United States team on the 400-meter relay will also be on hand. These three young women along with Genett Meuro of Providence, R. I., set a new world's record and Olympic record at Helsinki, Finland last summer. Barbara Jones, a 16-year-old high jumper from Chicago, was a member of this quarter, along with Catherine Hardy, Fort Valley State college, Fort Valley, Ga., who is now a physical education instructor at the Booker T. Washington high school in Atlanta.

The other member of this famous team and the young woman who ran the anchor leg, May Diggs, is a freshman at Tennessee State university, Nashville, and will take part in the 50 meter run, the 100 and 200 meter run and run anchor on the Tennessee State 400 meter relay team.

Tuskegee Wins Junior Crown

SAN ANTONIO, Texas — Tuskegee Institute captured the junior title in the women's national AAU track and field meet here Friday, but lost the senior title to Chicago Youth Organization Saturday.

Mable Landry, member of the United States 1952 Olympic team, paced the Chicago team to victory winning both the 50 meter and broad jump for the only double victory of the day. She was defending champion in the broad jump and her leap of 18 feet 7 1-2 inches was 6 inches better than her winning jump last year.

ANCHORS RELAY TEAM

Miss Landry also anchored the CYO's winning 400 meter relay team that clipped two and eight-tenths seconds off last year's mark. The team of Hazel Watkins Alfrances Lyman, Barbara Jones and Landry ran the distance in :49.7.

New York Police Athletic league team, winners in 1952, did not enter this year, leaving the CYO and Tuskegee to battle for the title but it was the dash stars from Chicago who sprinted away with the title.

Tuskegee, winner of the national title 14 times in the last 16 years, finished second.

Barbara Jones, also a member of the United States 1952 Olympic team and now representing the CYO, won the 100 meters sprint in :11.9. Miss Landry was third, Arlene Pugh, who paced the Tuskegee team to victory in the junior events, was fourth, and Mildred McDaniels, Tuskegee, was fifth.

WINS HIGH JUMP

Miss McDaniels captured the running high jump with a leap of 5 feet 1-2 inch. Jeanette Cantrell and Lula Bell, both of Tuskegee; tied for second place at 4 feet 10 inches.

Barbara Jones, CYO, was second in the 200 meters, with Calpurnia Jackson, Tuskegee, third. Josephine Gilmore and Edyth Moten, Tuskegee, were fifth and sixth respectively.

Tuskegee captured two relays—the 800 meters and 280 shuttle hurdle.

Calpurnia Jackson, Josephine Gilmore, Arlen Pugh and Nan Jackson were members of the winning 800-meters relay team, while Hendricks, McDaniel, Brown and Bell ran the 280 shuttle hurdles.

Tuskegee Girls Take Women's Sports Day Team Championship

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, Ala. — Patricia Monsanto, versatile Tennessee A & I State University field star from Bayside, N. Y., tossed the discus 116 feet, 7½ inches to set the only new record in the silver anniversary Tuskegee Institute Women's Sports Day Program, Friday and Saturday, in Alumni Bowl.

The Tuskegee Institute and Tennessee State lassies battled right down to the wire for team championship honors, with Tuskegee rolling up 114 points foor a hard-earned victory. Tennesee State was only two points back with 112 points.

Also scoring points in the senior women's division were: Catholic Youth Organization (Chicago) 42; Alabama State College, 28; and Bethune Cookman College, 12.

Miss Monsanto, who shattered her old record of 109 feet, 2 1-2 inches in the discus throw, and her hometown pal, Mae Fagg, U. S. Olympic star, shared individual honors with Lula Bell, brilliant Tuskegee star and product of Booker T. Washington High, Atlanta, with double victories.

In addition to the discus throw, Miss Monsanto won the baseball throw; Miss Faggs streaked home first in the 50 and 100 meter runs; and Miss Bell scored clean-cut victories in the 80 yard hurdles and javelin throw.

Other individual winners were: Mabel Landry (CYO) running broad jump; Mildred McDaniel (Tuskegee) high jump; and Dennis Thompson (CYO) shot put. The Tennessee State combination hit the tape first in the 400 meter relay.

HOWARD GIRLS WIN

In the junior women's division, the David T. Howard High girls of Atlanta finished in the runner-up spot with 40 points, and Henry McNeal Turner High, also of Atlanta, was third with 31 points.

The other points were distributed as follows: Lincoln High, Port Arthur, Texas, 28; McIntosh High McIntosh, Ala., 24; Monroe High, Albany, Ga., 21; Tuskegee Institute High, Tuskegee, 15; Beach High, Savannah, Ga., 14; Carver High, Jakin, Ga., 14; Howard Academy, Ocala, Fla., 13; Pittsview High, 10; Springfield A and I, 8; Oliver High, 8; Brooks High, Quitman, Ga., 3; Camden Academy, Camden, Ala., 2; and Wilcox County Training School 1.

Patricia Monsanto Sets New Record In Discus Throw

COLLEGE SUMMARIES

50-METER RUN — 1 Mae Faggs (Tennessee State); 2 Cynthia Thompson (Tennessee State); 3 Mabel Landry (CYO); 4 Margaret Davis (Tennessee State); 5 Oretha McMillon (Bethune Cookman); 6 Corine Dade (Tuskegee). TIME: 6.4

80-METER LOW HURDLES — 1 Lula Bell (Tuskegee); 2 Robbie Hendrix (Tuskegee); 3 Dorothy Chisholm (Tennessee State); 4 Willie J. Williams (Alabama State); 5 Loretha Blackburn (Tennessee State). TIME: 12.5

100-METER RUN — 1 Mae Faggs (Tennessee State); 2 Barbara Jones (CYO); 3 Cynthia Thompson (Tennessee State); 4. Josephine Gilmore (Tuskegee)); 5. Rosa Williams (Bethune Cookman); 6 Margaret Davis (Tennessee State). TIME: 12.3

400-METER RELAY — 1 Tennessee A and I State University; 2 Tuskegee Institute; 3 Alabama State College; 4 Bethune Cookman College; 5 Alabama State College. TIME: 53.3

BASEBALL THROW — 1 Patricia Monsanto (Tennessee State); 2 Ester Hardy (Alabama State) 3 Mamie Brown (Tuskegee); 4 Bertha Sanders (Alabama State) 5 Frances Newbern (Tennessee State) 6 Annie Gordon (Tuskegee). DISTANCE: 181 ft., 5 in.

RUNNING BROAD JUMP — 1 Mabel Landry (CYO); 2 Orlene Pugh (Tuskegee); 3 Barbara Jones (CYO); 4 Evelyn Wong (Bethune Cookman); 5 Loretha Blackman (Tennessee State); 6 Two-way tie —Frances Newbern and Margaret Davis (Tenn. State). DISTANCE: 18 ft., 2 in.

DISCUS THROW — 1. Patricia Monsanto (Tennessee State); 2 Annie Gordon (Tuskegee); 3 Curistene Reed (Tuskegee); 4 Emma Phillips (Alabama tate); 5 Beulah Robertson (Tuskegee); 6 Dorothy Bell (Alabama State). DISTANCE: 116 ft., 7 1-2 in. (NEW RECORD).

HIGH SCHOOL SUMMARIES

50-METER RUN — 1 Margaret Mathews (Howard, Atlanta); 2 Jean High (Howard, Atlanta); 3 Colernia Jackson (Howard Academy, Ocala, Fla.); 4 Hazel Watkins (Beach High, Savannah, Ga.); 5 Pelnes Brown (Brooks, Quitman, Ga.); 6 Annie McDonald (Lincoln, Port Arthur, Texas). TIME: 6.4

80-METER LOW HURDLES — 1 Rosa Williams (Pittsview); 2 Edna Callahan (Howard, Atlanta); 3 Beverly Tidwell (Washington, Atlanta) 4 Annie Butts (Turner, Atlanta); 5 Cherry Jackson (Howard, Atlanta); 6 Mary Fields (McIntosh, Ga.) TIME: 13.3

100-METER RUN — 1 Hazel Watkins (Beach, Savannah); 2 Edith Moton (Washington, Atlanta); 3 Burnaden Dwyer (Lincoln, Port Arthur, Texas; 4 Isabell Daniel (Carver, akins, Ga.); 5 Jean High (Washington, Atlanta); 6 Mildred Charley (Wilcox County Training School, Millers Ferry, Ala.) TIME: 12.6

400 Meter Relay — 1. Beach (Savannah, Ga.); 2 Lincoln (Port Arthur, Texas); 3. Howard (Atlanta); 4. Howard Academy (Ocala, Fla.); 5. Washington (Atlanta); 6. Turner (Atlanta). Time 54.0

Baseball throw — 1. Jean Wilcox (Carver, Atlanta); 2. Louise Collins (Turner, Atlanta); 3. Barbara Jacket Lincoln. Port Arthur. Texas); 4. Cherry Jackson (Howard Atlanta); 5. Beverly Tidwell (Washington, Atlanta); 6. Delores Brown (Brooks, Quitman, Ga.). Distance 225 ft., 7 in.

Running Broad Jump — 1. Calpurnis Jackson (Howard Academy, Ocala, Fla); 2. Rosie Bryant (Tuskegee High); 3. Mary Clement (Tuskegee High); 4. M. Hall (Monroe, (Albany); 5. Ollie Johnson (Howard Academy, Ocala, Fla.; 6. A. Wesley Monroe, Albany, Ga.. Distance 15 ft., 4 in.

Discus Throw — 1. Barbara Jacket (Lincoln, Port Arthur, Texas); 2. Minnie Jones (McIntosh, McIntosh, Ala.; 3. Annie Burns (Washington, Atlanta); 4. Dorothy Raiford (Washington, Atlanta); 5. Isadelle Rubin (Camden Academy, Camden, Ala.); 6. Daisy Reed (McIntosh, McIntosh, Ala.) Distance 94 ft., 11 in.

High Jump — 1. J. Cantrell (Turner, Atlanta); 2. M. Dugans (Springfield) 3. A. Wesley (Monroe Albany); 4. D. Holt (Howard Academy, Ocala, Fla.); 5. O. Collier (Howard, Atlanta); 6. E. Callahan (Howard, Atlanta). Height 5 ft.

Javelin Throw — 1. Emma Christian (Monroe, Albany); 2 Eunice Haskin (Oliver); 3. Ora Gresham (Turner, Atlanta); 4. Cherry Jackson (Howard, Atlanta); 5. Annie Burns (Washington, Atlanta); 6. Barbara Jacket (Lincoln, Port Arthur, Texas). Distance 99 ft, 1 1-4 in.

Shot Put — 1. Annie Burns Washington, Atlanta); 2. Roberta Reed (McIntosh, McIntosh, Ala.); 3. Minnie Jones (McIntosh, McIntosh, Ala.); 4. Barbara Jacket (Lincoln, Port Arthur, Texas); 5. Wilmer Anderson Tuskegee High); 6. Ora Gresham (Turner, Atlanta). Distance 35 ft., 7 1-2 in.

Tuskegee Women Capture Junior AAU Track Title

SAN ANTONIO, Texas — Four smooth-striding cinder stars led Tuskegee Institute of Tuskegee, Ala., to the championship in the National AAU Junior Track and Field meet here Friday night.

Tuskegee scored 150 points to replace the Chicago CYO as junior division champions. The Chicagoans were second with 89 points

Josephine Gilmore, Arlene Pugh and Edyth Moten finished one-two-three in the 100-meter dash Miss Gilmore's time was 12.3 secs Miss Moten was first in the 200-meter dash in 25 seconds. Rosie Chapman, the fourth of the Tuskegee speedsters, failed to win an event, but placed in both sprints

LANDRY LEADS WAY:

Tuskegee streak snapped at 14 in AAU track meet

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (ANP)—United States Olympic ace Mabel Landry of Chicago starred as the only double winner in the 1953 National Amateur Athletic Union senior women's track meet, Saturday night, and led the Chicago Catholic Youth Organization to first place in team standings.

Tuskegee Institute, perennial champions of the meet, finished second among senior women. This was only the second time in the past 16 years that Tuskegee has not won. The Alabama lasses had taken 14 straight.

Friday night, however, Tuskegee, led by a group of youthful speedsters, overwhelmed the opposition to take first place in the junior division of the meet.

Star Of Stars

Among the seniors Miss Landry was the star of stars as she took the 50 meter dash in 06.(and the broad jump with a leap of 18 feet 7½ inches. She also anchored the CYO team to victory in the 400-meter relays in :40.7.

Also helping the CYO cause was Miss Landry's Olympic teammate, Barbara Jones. Miss Jones won the 100-meter dash in :11.9; (Miss Landry finished third) ran second in the 200 meter dash and sprinted the third leg for the winning 400 meter relay squad. She finished fifth in the broad jump with a leap of 15 feet 8½ inches.

Only One Title

Tuskegee lost out in the senior team battle because it captured only one individual event although it won two relays. 'Skegee's lone individual winner was Mildred McDaniel who took the high jump with a leap of 5 ½ inch.

With Calburnia Jackson, Josephine Gilmore, Arlene Pugh and Nell Jackson running, Tuskegee took the 800-meter relay in 1:46.4. The Tuskegee B team finished fifth.

Dominate Juniors

Miss Hendricks, Miss McDaniel, Miss Brown and Lula Bell took care of the 280-meter shuttle hurdle relay for Tuskegee in 41.9.

MISS MABEL LANDRY

Starring for Tuskegee in the junior division were Josephine Gilmore, Arlene Pugh, Edyth Moten and Rosie Clapman. Misses Gilmore, Pugh and Moten ran one, two three in the 100-meter dash with Miss Gilmore time at :12.3.

Miss Moten took the 200-meter dash in :25. Miss Pugh won the broad jump with a leap of 17 feet ¾ inches.

Dan SAYS

PRESS DISPATCHES from San Antonio, Texas, dwelt more on the victory of Miss Dolores Ann Dwyer of Long Island, N. Y., 1952 U. S. Olympic star, in the final of the 200 meters in the national women's senior A. A. U. track meet Miss Barbara Jones, Chicago C. Y. O. and teammate of Miss Dwyer on the Olympic team in '52, was second.

Due to the meet being held on Saturday night, July 25, most of the Sunday morning papers of July 26 carried scant notice of the senior event. The junior national championships were run off Friday night, July 24 and doxy Cleve Abbott, the veteran coach at Tuskegee Institute "tossed the books" at 'em. For years, the Tuskegee girls track teams have astounded the nation with their consistence excellent performance and spirit. Only the founder, Booker T. Washington, and the great scientist, George Washington Carver, could claim as much space having been given them in the newspapers as Abbott's track girls.

Plodding along, without a whole lot of finances, Major Abbott has inspired other organizations to go in for "women in athletics" and proudly points to the success of his proteges in the teaching field and to those who are mothers.

Just about the time others predict that Abbott is about to "run out of material," along he comes, like a magician, and "pulls victories out of his hat." Where does he get these girls? Tuskegee has fielded, with but a few exceptions, a national A. A. U. championship track team, either junior or senior and sometimes both.

Miss Alice Coachman, now Mrs. N. F. Davis, won the 1948 Olympic high jump in London, Eng. Before attending Albany State college, Georgia, Miss Coachman was a member of Tuskegee's years and her teammates were the Misses Lily Purifoy, Rowena Harrison, Jessica Abbott, Lula Hymes, Bessie Hayes and others. Tuskegee girls regularly are mainstays on U. S. Olympic track teams.

Some thought, after these girls had graduated, that "those days are gone forever." You never got so fooled in your life.

In San Antonio's national junior meet's 200 meters final—Edyth Moten, Tuskegee, first; Alice Pugh, Tuskegee, second; Rosie Chapman, Tuskegee, fourth, Josephine Gilmore, Tuskegee, sixth. Miss Gilmore was third in the 50-meters dash which was won by Hazel Watkins, Chicago CYO.

Lula Bell, Tuskegee, was third and Alice Gordon, Tuskegee, fifth in the shot put. Miss Bell was second in the 80 meters hurdles. Miss Pugh won the broad jump.

The 400-meters relay was won by Chicago CYO B team but Tuskegee's A and B teams finished second and fourth, respectively.

Tuskegee was second in the 280 meters shuttle hurdle relay which was won by the CYO. The Alabama team came through with flying colors in the 100-meters dash. The Misses Gilmore, Pugh and Moten finished one-two-three and Rosie Chapman ran fifth.

The quartet of Moten, Chapman Matthews and Jackson romped to victory over the Chicago CYO and first place for the A relay team in the 800-meters relay while the Tuskegee B. team was fourth. Lula Bell was second in the javelin toss with Tuskegee's Curtestine Reed, sixth. Joanette Cantrell and Mildred McDaniel both of Tuskegee tied for first place in the high jump and Anna Gordon's 108 feet, 4 inches gave Tuskegee victory in the discus event.

Tuskegee Women Capture Junior AAU Track Title

SAN ANTONIO, Texas — Four smooth-striding cinder stars led Tuskegee Institute of Tuskegee, Ala., to the championship in the National AAU Junior Track and Field meet here Friday night.

Tuskegee scored 150 points to replace the Chicago CYO as junior division champions. The Chicagoans were second with 89 points.

Josephine Gilmore, Arlene Pugh and Edyth Moten finished one-two-three in the 100-meter dash. Miss Gilmore's time was 12.3 secs. Miss Moten was first in the 200-meter dash in 25 seconds. Rosie Chapman, the fourth of the Tuskegee speedsters, failed to win an event, but placed in both sprints

Tuskegee Girls Win Over Tennessee

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, Ala.—Patricia Monsanto, versatile Tennessee A & I State university field star from Bay Side, N. Y., tossed the discus 118 feet, 7 1-2 inches to set the only new record in the silver anniversary of the Tuskegee Institute women's sports day program, Friday and Saturday, in Alumni bowl.

The Tuskegee Institute and Tennessee State lassies battled right down to the wire for team championship honors, with Tuskegee rolling up 114 points for a hard-earned victory. Tennessee State was only two points back with 112 points.

Scoring points in the senior women's division were: Catholic Youth Organization (Chicago) 42; Alabama State College, 28; and Bethune-Cookman College, 12.

Miss Monsanto, who shattered her old record of 109 feet, 2½ inches in the discus throw, and her hometown pal, Mae Faggs, U. S. Olympic star, shared individual honors with Lula Bell, brilliant Tuskegee star and product of Booker T. Washington High, Atlanta, with double victories.

In addition to the discuss throw, Miss Monsanto won the baseball throw; Miss Faggs streaked home first in the 50 and 100 meter runs; and Miss Bell scored clean-cut victories in the 80-yard hurdles and javelin throw.

Other individual winners were: Mabel Landry (CYO) running broad jump; Mildred McDaniel (Tuskegee) high jump; and Donnis Thompson (CYO) shot put. The Tennessee State combination hit the tape first in the 400 meter relay.

In the junior women's division, the David T. Howard High girls of Atlanta piled up 44 points to capture the team crown. Booker T. Washington High of Atlanta finished in the runner-up spot with 40 points, and Henry McNeal Turner High, also of Atlanta, was third, with 31 points.

The other points were distributed as follows: Lincoln High, Port Arthur, Texas, 28; McIntosh High, McIntosh, Ala., 24; Monroe High, Albany, Ga., 21; Tuskegee Institute High, Tuskegee, 15, Beach High, Savannah, Ga. 14; Carver High, Jakin, Ga., 14; Howard commission system, the fighters divide 10 points, six going to the winner and four to the loser. If Quitman, Ga., 3; Camden Academy, Camden, Ala., 2; and Wilcox County Training School, 1.

TUSKEGEE WINS WOMEN'S MEET; CHICAGO 2D

San Antonio, Tex., July 24 (AP)—A quartet of sprinters from Tuskegee Institute of Tuskegee, Ala., paced their team to the championship in the National Amateur Athletic union junior women's track and field meet tonight.

The Alabama contingent, second largest in the field with 15 entries, scored 150 points to replace the Chicago Catholic Youth organization as champions in the junior division. The Chicago team finished second with 89 points.

Josephine Gilmore, Arlene Pugh and Edyth Moten ran one, two, three in the 100 meter dash, which Miss Gilmore won in 12.3s. Miss Moten was first in the 200 meter dash, running the distance in 25s. Rosie Clapman, the fourth of the Tuskegee speedsters, failed to win an event but placed in both sprints.

Miss Pugh added another first place for Tuskegee by winning the broad jump with a leap of 17ft. ¾ inches. Summaries:

200 METER DASH—Won by Edyth Moten, Tuskegee; Arlene Pugh, Tuskegee, second; Rebecca Ayars, Chicago C. Y. O., third; Rosie Chapman, Tuskegee, fourth; Arfrances Lyman, Chicago C. Y. O., fifth; Josephine Gilmore, Tuskegee, sixth. Time, :25.

50 METER DASH—Won by Hazel Watkins, Chicago C. Y. O.; Annie McDonald, Gulf Coast A. C., Houston, second; Josephine Gilmore, Tuskegee, third; Burdanine Dwyer, Gulf Coast A. C., fourth; Margaret Holland, Gulf Coast A. C., fifth; Nancy Reid, Little Rhody A. C., Providence, R. I., sixth. Time, :06.7.

BASEBALL THROW—Won by Dueda McQueen, San Angelo, Tex., 225 feet 7 inches; Barbara Jacket, Gulf Coast A. C., second, 217-1; Bertha Chiu, Mexico City, third, 211-3; Melba Robinson, Chicago C. Y. O., fourth, 203-1; Malinda Roper, Chicago C. Y. O., fifth, 201-6; Helen Hale, Gulf Coast A. C., sixth, 201-5.

SHOT PUT—Won by Paula Deubel, Providence, R. I., 38 feet 10 inches; Donnis Thompson, Chicago C. Y. O., second, 27—65; Lula Bell, Tuskegee, third, 37—3¼; Ros Murphy, Berkeley, Cal., fourth, 35—10; Annie Gordon, Tuskegee, fifth, 34—½; Barbara Jacket, Gulf Coast A. C., sixth, 33—1.

80 METER HURDLES—Won by Barbara Mueller, Chicago C. Y. O.; Lula Bell, Tuskegee, second; Nancy Reid, Little Rhody A. C., third; Billie Jo Jackson, Gulf Coast A. C., fourth; Frances Newbern, Chicago C. Y. O., fifth; Joan Wolski, Equitable Life, N. Y., sixth. Time, :12.

BROADJUMP—Won by Arlene Pugh, Tuskegee, 17 feet ¾ inches; Joan Wolski, Equitable Life, second, 16—7; Anna Jordan, Chicago C. Y. O., third, 16—1¾; Wanda Cox, Dreyer A. C., Berkeley, Cal., fourth, 15—9½; Paul Deubel, Little Rhody A. C., fifth, 15—6; Mildred Martin, Chicago C. Y. O., sixth, 15—2½.

400 METER RELAY — Won by Chicago C. Y. O. B [Hazel Watkins, Mildred Martin, Rebecca Ayars, Alfrances Lyman]; Tuskegee A, second; Gulf Coast A. C. B, third; Mexico City, fourth; Tuskegee B, fifth; Gulf Coast A. C. A, sixth. Time, :50.7.

280 METER SHUTTLE HURDLE RELAY—Won by Chicago C. Y. O., [Frances Newbern, Melba Robinson, Anna Jordan, Barbara Mueller]; Tuskegee, second; Little Rhody A. C., third; Gulf Coast A. C. B, fourth. Time, :41.

100 METER DASH—Won by Josephine Gilmore, Tuskegee; Arlene Pugh, Tuskegee, second; Edyth Moten, Tuskegee, third; Hazel Watkins, Chicago C. Y. O., fourth; Rosie Chapman, Tuskegee, fifth; Annie McDonald, Gulf Coast, A. C., sixth. Time, :12.3.

800 METER RELAY—Won by Tuskegee A [Moten, Chapman, Matthews, Jackson]; Chicago C. Y. O., second; Gulf Coast A. C. B, third; Tuskegee B, fourth; Gulf Coast A. C. A, fifth; Gulf Coast A. C. C, sixth. Time, 1:48.4.

JAVELIN—Won by Bertha Chiu, Mexico City, 119 feet; Lula Bell, Tuskegee, second, 118-11½; Amalia Yubi, Mexico City, third, 110-1; Helen Hale, Gulf Coast A. C., fourth, 102-6½; Barbara Rickard, Little Rhody A. C., fifth, 98-10; Curtestine Reed, Tuskegee, sixth, 94-6.

HIGH JUMP—Tie for first between Joanette Cantrell, Tuskegee, and Mildred McDaniel, Tuskegee, 5 feet 1½ inches; tie for third between Barbara Mueller, Chicago C. Y. O., and Joan Wolski, Equitable Life, 4-9; tie for fifth among Freddie Dannhaus, Gulf Coast A. C., Jodell Walton, San Angelo, and Elaine Strube, Chicago C. Y. O., 4-7.

DISCUS THROW—Won by Anna Gordon, Tuskegee, 108 feet 4 inches; Concepcion Villanueva, Mexico City, second, 106-11; Bertha Chiu, Mexico City, third, 100-11; Betty Call, Long Island, N. Y., fourth, 97-3; Helen Hale, Gulf Coast A. C., fifth, 97-2; Paula Deubel, Little Rhody A. C., sixth, 96-4.

OLYMPIC STARS TOP FIELD FOR TUSKEGEE WOMEN'S SPORTS DAY

Three Members Of Olympic 400 Meter Team Are Expected

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, Ala. — Three of the four members on the United States' world record-shattering women's 400 meter relay team will be on hand for the Silver Anniversary junior and senior Women's Sports Day which gets underway Friday, May 1st in Alumni bowl.

Mae Faggs, Tennessee State; Barbara Jones, Chicago CYO, and Catherine Hardy, Atlanta, will be in the brilliant entourage of women aces present for the meet. Only missing member of the Olympic squad will be Janet Moret of Providence, R. I.

Miss Faggs, a freshman student at Tennessee State A and I, is one of the nation's ranking AAU stars.

Miss Jones, a Chicago high school girl, has been entered in the 50 meter run, 100 meter run, running broad jump and will anchor the CYO 400 meter team.

Mable Landry, a junior at DePaul University of Chicago, will take part in the broad jump. As a member of the U. S. Olympic team, Miss Landry jumped 19 feet, 6 inches, longest distance ever chalked up by an American woman. She will represent the CYO and has been entered in the 50 meter run, broad jump and will lead off the 400 meter relay.

Among those who will be present will be Mrs. Alice Coachman Davis, graduate of Tuskegee Institute High School and holder of a diploma from the School of Home Economics, Tuskegee Institute. Mrs. Davis, as Alice Coachman, won the Olympic High Jump at the Olympic Games which were held in London, England, in 1948.

Mrs. Emma Reed, a graduate of Tennessee State University, Nashville was a member of the 1948 Olympic team, taking part in the high jump and the broad jump. Mrs Evelyn Lawler Lewis, a graduate of Tuskegee Institute, who has been pursuing graduate work at McMurray State College, Jacksonville, Illinois, was a member of the 1951 Pan American Olympic Games team. The games were held in Santiago, Chile. Following the Pan American Games, members of the American team participated in the games held in Buenos Aires, setting a new hemisphere record of 11.3 for the 80 meters hurdles. Mrs. Lewis is now an instructor at Alabama State College in Montgomery.

Men's competition Friday will be limited to the javelin throw, 100 yard run (College trials); 100 yards run (high school trials); Pole Vault, shot put 440 yards run (trials); college quarter mile relay (trials); college one-half relay (trials) and sprint medley.

The sprint medley will be the only men's college final of the opening day competition.

Other events scheduled are the twenty seventh annual Southern Intercollegiate tennis championships and the annual Southern Intercollegiate golf championships.

Star-Studded Track Teams Coming Here For Annual Two-Day Tuskegee Relays

Tuskegee Herald
Tuskegee, Ala.
Tues. 4-28-53

Prairie View A. and M. College, Prairie View, Texas, with great middle distance runners; the Florida A. and M. College, featuring speedy sprinters, led by James Moore, who has not been defeated this season in the hundred, his best time is 9.5 seconds, and Blanton Owens, the best miler produced at Alabama State College in a decade, are banked on to stand out in the 27th annual Tuskegee Relays which begin a two-day stand in the Tuskegee Alumni Bowl, starting Friday.

The Prairie View contenders from "deep in the heart of Texas" are unbeaten this year in the two-mile relay. Their two fine middle distance men, Wendell Venerable and Carnegie Barnes are the stars of their team.. The two-mile relay championship for the Allen W. Gambrell Memorial Trophy shapes up to be one of the most outstanding races of the two day meet. Although Prairie View is favored, it is by no means certain that the contenders from Texas will make a runaway out of this event. Strong opposition will be offered them by Philander Smith College, Wiley College, Florida A. and M. College and Tuskegee Institute.

Savannah State College, the winner of three championships last year, the sprint medley, the mile and the two-mile, is back to defend its titles. Texas College is returning to defend its quarter-mile and half-mile championships, won last year.

The Robert S. Abbott Memorial 440-yard run has attracted a star-studded field. Among the entries are Rudolph Leverity, of Florida A. and M. College, Charles McNair and Jasper Harrell, of Bethune-Cookman College, Robert Matthews, of Xavier University, Ernest Sash, of Fisk University, Leroy Crawford, of Prairie View A. and M. College, Clyde Campbell and Charles Davis, of Houston-Tillotson, and Brandon Southern, of Morris Brown. Jack McClarin, last year's winner of the discus, is coming back to defend his title, and Reginald Bassa, of Tuskegee Institute, the 1952 high jump champion, will defend his title. Two hundred and five women and three-hundred and ninety-five men have been entered in their respective sections of the meet.

Track Stars Due Here For Sports' Day

Tuskegee Herald
Tuskegee, Ala.
Tues. 4-28-53

Past, present, and future Olympic champions will be on parade in the Alumni Bowl this coming week end, especially on Women's Sports Day Friday. Among those who will be present will be Mrs. Alice Coachman Davis, a graduate of Tuskegee Institute High School and holder of a diploma from the School of Home Economics, Tuskegee Institute. Mrs. Davis, as Alice Coachman, won the Olympic high jump at the Olympic Games which were held in London, England, in 1948. Mrs. Emma Reed, a graduate of Tennessee State University, Nashville, was a member of the 1948 Olympic team, taking part in the high jump and the broad jump. Mrs. Evelyn Lawler Lewis, a graduate of Tuskegee Institute, who has been pursuing graduate work at McMurray State College, Jacksonville, Ill., was a member of the 1951 Pan-American Olympic Games team. The games were held in Santiago, Chile. Following the Pan-American games, members of the American team participated in the games held in Buenos Aires, setting a new hemisphere record of 11.3 for the 80 meters hurdles. Mrs. Lewis is now an instructor at Alabama State College in Montgomery.

Three of the four members of the world's record-holding United States team for the 400 meter relay will also be on hand. These three young women, along with Anett Meuro, of Providence, R. I., set a new world's record and Olympic record at Helsinki, Finland, last Summer. Barbara Jones a 16-year old high jump girl from Chicago, was a member of this quarter, along with Catherine Hardy, Fort Valley State College, Fort Valley, Ga., who is now a physical education instructor at the Booker T. Washington High School in Atlanta. The other member of this famous team and the young woman who ran the anchor leg, May Biggs, is a freshman at Tennessee State University, Nashville, and will take part in the 50 meter run, the 100 and 200 meter run and run anchor on the Tennessee State Uiversity 400 meter relay team.

Barbara Jones, the Chicago high school girl, will represent the Catholic Youth Organization of Chicago. She has been entered in the 50 meter run, 100 meter run, running broad jump, and will run anchor on the CYO 400 meter relay team. Mable Landery, a junior at Depaul University of Chiacgo was a member of the U. S. Olympic team, taking part in the broad jump at Helsinki. Her best effort over there was 19 feet, 6 inches .This was farther than any American woman has ever jumped. She will represent the CYO and has been entered in the 50 meter run, broad jump and will lead off the 400 meter relay.

Say SAYS

Wrong Attitude

There is something that a youngster doesn't always get in college that he or she certainly will need later on in life. That "something" we have in mind is attitude — and you can spell it with capitals letters.

The week end of Feb. 28 we were at Tennessee State university for the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics area—at-large basketball tournament, the winner to be the first Negro college team to play in the national tournament in Kansas City, Mo.

We bumped into Mae Faggs, member of the 1948 and 1952 Olympic teams and former member of the Police Athletic League in New York City along with Cynthia Thompson, member of the 1942 Jamaican Olympic team. Both are at Tennessee State on scholarships. Miss Faggs seemed to be upset about two things. They were (1) that she wasn't sent to Boston to defend her title in the indoor meet because Tennessee State's athletic director did not see the need of spending that much money as no provisions had been made for such trips and (2) $10 per month had been cut from her scholarship allowance.

During the discussion, which was on the campus, we told her that Henry Arthur Kean, director of athletics, was running the athletic department and if his moves didn't suit her there wasn't but one thing for her to do. However, we said we would ask about the cut. We learned that the cut was made necessary rather than to take working scholarships away from some needy ones had the cut not been made. This sounded like good sense to us. We told them that should Mr. Kean decide NOT to keep the girls' track team together simply to compete in one or two AAU meets this summer that there would be nothing wrong in competing for a boni fide amateur team. We cited instances where eastern college runners ran for the Grand Street Boys club in New York City and the Shore A. C. in Atlantic City and told them that a Tennessee State hurdler competed for the Chicago CYO last summer but added that he had run for that organization before he came to Tennessee State.

Joe Robichaux, who directs the Sheil House in Chicago and helps coach the CYO men, was in Nashville for the National High School cage tourney. He talked to the Misses Faggs and Thompson. We forgot about the matter.

But Joe hadn't. It seems that, according to his own admission, he phoned someone in Nashville to find out if Tennessee State was entering a woman's team in the Tuskegee relays. It was. He says he planned to take the Misses Faggs and Thompson to the Tuskegee relays as a member of the Chicago CYO team if Tennessee State wasn't competing. What Joe didn't know but does now is that during the school year, neither girl could run for any outside organization and as they were not boni fide members of the CYO they certainly couldn't participate in the Tuskegee meet.

On the night of May 1, at dinner, we were informed that Shannon Little had said the CYO was in the meet illegally. We asked Shannon about it the next day, informing him that the CYO as an amateur team could compete in the Tuskegee women's meet, and this custom had been in vogue for 25 years of the meet. Little said he made no such statement. We never checked with those who told us because we preferred to believe him.

It happened that on Friday that a Tuskegee girl had placed in four events. With Director and Founder of the meet, Cleve L. Abbott and Referee B. T. Harvey away trying to get a scraper to clear some of the mud off the field, Coach Temple of the Tennessee State team appealed to us. There was some misunderstanding as to whether a girl could compete in the coming relay of that afternoon. We don't RUN the Tuskegee meet. We NEVER have. The matter would have to be taken up with Director Abbott.

But Miss Faggs proceeded to butt into the confab which (1) showed she had little manners and (2) proved that she has the wrong attitude. She blurted out, "If you are running the meet according to AAU rules then this girl should have all the places taken away from her."

She was informed that we were only the chief judge at the finish line. Her coach could take it up with either Mr. Abbott or Mr. Harvey but she didn't wait for us to finish. "'I realize," she let loose "that this is a Negro college, etc. etc."

What we would like to know is didn't Miss Faggs who came from Staten Island, New York state, know that when she came to Tennessee State that it was a Negro college and where has she been all these years that she hadn't known that Tuskegee Institute also is a Negro institution?

We know she wouldn't have stalked into a conference of a New York white coach to challenge any AAU official. We are wondering why, with all the prestige a woman should have after being a member of two United States Olympic teams, she had to come to "a Negro college" for an education.

Hunter college is in New York, the Springfield college of physical education in Massachusetts (where Nell Jackson is studying at present), Columbia, New York City college, New York university, Temple college and two dozen others were right in or nearby her home town.

Those of us who have spent 40 years in helping Negro youngsters in northern as well as southern schools aren't so seedy that we have to take any suggestions from any youngster who feels his or her importance because she is a damyankee.

New Yorkers don't worry us one bit, neither does any upstart who hails therefrom. We know plenty of youngsters who have manners and the right attitude who are from there and BESIDES:

MAE FAGGS, BARBARA JONES AND CYNTHIA THOMPSON

OUR BIRTHPLACE WAS WILLIAMSPORT, Pennsylvania.

Tuskegee Takes Title In Women's Sports Day Here

Tuskegee Herald
Tuskegee, Ala.

Patricia Monsanto, versatile Tennessee A & I State University field star from Bay Side, N. Y., tossed the discuss 116 feet 7½ in. to set the only new record in the silver anniversary Tuskegee Institute Women's Sports Day program last Friday and Saturday in Alumni Bowl. Jun. 5-5-53

The Tuskegee Institute and Tennessee State lassies battled right down to the wire for team championship honors, with Tuskegee rolling up 114 points for a hard-earned victory. Tennessee State was only two points back with 112 points. p-1

Also scoring in the senior women's division were Catholic Youth Organization (Chicago) 42; Alabama State College, 28; and Bethune-Cookman College, 12.

Miss Monsanto, who shattered her old record of 109 feet, 2½ inches in the discuss throw, and her hometown pal, Mae Faggs, U. S. Olympic star, shared individual honors with Lula Bell, brilliant Tuskegee star and product of Booker T. Washington High, Atlanta, with double victories.

In addition Miss [illegible] threw [illegible] first in the 50 and 100 meter runs; and Miss Bell scored clean-cut victories in the 80-yard hurdles and javelin th[illegible]

Other individual winners were Mabel Landry (CYO) running broad jump; Mildred McDaniel (Tuskegee) high jump; and Donnis Thompson (CYO) shot put. The Tennessee State combination hit the tape first in the 400 meter relay.

In the junior women's division, the David T. Howard High girls of Atlanta piled up 44 points to capture the team crown. Booker T. Washington of Atlanta finished in the runner-up spot with 40 points, and Henry McNeal Turner High, also of Atlanta, was third with 31 points.

The other points were distributed as follows: Lincoln High, Port Arthur, Texas, 28; McIntosh, Ala., 24; Monroe High, Albany, Ga., 21; Tuskegee Institute High, Tuskegee, 15; Beach High, Savannah, Ga., 14; Carver High, Jakin, Ga., 14; Howard Academy, Ocala, Fla., 13; Pittsview High, 10; Springfield A & I, 8; Oliver High, 8; Brooks High, Quitman, Ga., 3; Camden Academy, Camden, Ala., 2; and Wilcox County Training School, 1.

Texas Southern Cops Tuskegee Track Event

Montgomery Ala. Advertiser

Tuskegee Triumphs In Girls' Division

Mon. 5-4-53

TUSKEGEE, Ala., May 3—Texas Southern University won the 27th annual running of the Tuskegee Institute Relays Carnival here in Alumni Bowl Saturday.

Tuskegee edged the Tennessee State team in the girls' division, 114 points to 112. p. 3 B

Texas Southern won two relay championships and added three individual titles to rack up the victory.

The "Fightin' Tiger" baton-carriers cleaned up the quarter-mile, and the half-mile relay championships and in the individual events, Ralph Aldridge busted tape in 9.8 to win the century; B. Roy cleared the bar at 6 feet, 2 1-4 inches in the high jump, and J. Westbrook scaled 11 feet, 6 inches to lead the pole vaulters.

Heavy thundershowers Saturday made the previously rain-soaked track all but appropriate, yet failed to dampen the enthusiasm of more than 600 high school and college athletes competing in the two-day sports carnival.

Prairie View A&M College's quartet of Leroy Crawford, Ed Roberts, Wendell Vernerable and Carnegie Barnes, scored a smashing triumph in the two-mile college relay to cop the Allen W. Gambrell Memorial Trophy, and Ed Robinson came home first in the 440-yard run, to win the Robert S. Abbott Memorial Award.

Clark College won two individual championships when John Cannon, of New Orleans, La., to win a metal in the 1948 Olympic Meet in London, England, by setting a world's record in the high jump beamed brightly as she presented her husband with a son. The baby boy has been named Richard. Mr and Mrs. Davis reside at Tuskegee Institute where Mr. Davis is a member of the faculty at this college.

(Bethune Cookman) discus throw, and Melvin Frazier (Washington, Atlanta, unattached) javelin throw.

Booker T. Washington High of Atlanta and Tuskegee Institute High swept all team laurels in the high school division.

Baby Boy Born To Olympic Star

Atlanta Herald
Atlanta Ga.
Sat. 2-14-53
p. 8

MRS. ALICE COACHMAN DAVIS

Olympic high jump champion of 1948, Miss Alice Coachman who now is the Mrs. N. F. Davis gave birth to a fine baby boy Tuesday, January 29, 1953 at the Tuskegee Institute Hospital. Albany's internationally famous track star and the only member of the American Women's team finished out front in the 120-yard high hurdles and Roman Turmon, of Thomaston, Ga., topped the field in the shot put.

In other notable team feats, Morris Brown College wrapped up the one mile relay crown and Wiley College brought the baton home first in the sprint medley.

Blanton Owens, of Alabama State College, was timed at 4:52.7 in winning the classic Moton Mile Run. Other individual winners included: Brank Brown (Florida A&M) running broad jump; Jack McClairen

COLLEGE SUMMARIES

TRACK

100-Yard Dash—1. Ralph Aldridge (Texas Southern); 2. Henry DeGraff (Grambling); 3. Edward Etienne (Grambling) and James Moore (Florida A&M) tied. Time, 9.8.

120-Yard High Hurdles—1. John Cannon (Clark); 2. Clifford Provost (Lincoln High, Port Arthur, Tex.); 3. Bennie Roy (Texas Southern); 4. James Hicks (Huston-Tillotson). Time, 15.3.

440-Yard Run—1. Ed Robinson (Prairie View); 2. Abrams (Texas Southern); 3. Williams (Texas Southern); 4. Smoots (Bethune Cookman); 5. Shannon (Savannah State). Time, 54.5.

Moton Mile Run—1. Blanton Owens (Alabama State); 2. Wendell Venerable (Prairie View); 3. Charles Deganns (Wiley); 4. Carnegie Barnes (Prairie View). Time, 4:52.7.

FIELD

Running Broad Jump—1. Frank Brown (Florida A&M); 2. Edward Parks (C. A. Johnson High, Columbia, S.C.); 3. Mitchell (Brooks High, Quitman, Ga.); 4. Clifford Provost (Lincoln High, Port Arthur, Tex.); 5. Smooth (Bethune Cookman). Distance, 21 ft., 8½ in.

High Jump—1. Bennie Roy (Texas Southern); 2. E. Johnson (Washington High, Atlanta); 3. William Hannan (Morris Brown); 4. Eugene Hodges (Ft. Valley State); 5. Reginald Bassa (Tuskegee). Height, 6 ft., 1 1/4 in.

Discus Throw—1. Jack McClairen (Bethune Cookman); 2. Bennie Roy (Texas Southern); 3. Nathaniel Murphy (Ft. Valley State); 4. Joseph Generette (Tuskegee). Distance, 144 ft., 11 in.

Javelin Throw—1. Melvin Frazier (Washington, Atlanta, unattached); 2. Levon Greene (Ft. Valley State); 3. Steve Daniels (Morris Brown); 4. J. Williams (Risley High, Brunswick, Ga.). Distance, 172 ft., 2 3/4 in.

Pole Vault—1. J. Westbrook (Texas Southern); 2. Johnny Price (Prairie View); 3. Three-way tie: Frank Turner (Ft. Valley State), Willie Plummer (Morehouse), Fred Shields (Tuskegee, unattached). Height, 11 ft., 6 in.

Shot Put—1. Roman Turmon (Clark); 2. Callivan Gladden (Florida A&M); 3. Joseph Generette (Tuskegee); 4. Matthew Hill (Bethune Cookman). Distance, 46 ft., 1 3/4 in.

RELAYS

Quarter-Mile Relay—1. Texas Southern University; 2. Grambling College; 3. Xavier University; 4. Tuskegee Institute. Time, 42.9.

Sprint Medley—1. Wiley College (Elmer Gibson, Clarence Bailey, Joe Kirven, William Head); 2. Xavier University (Richard Alfredo, Alexandria Lemine, Granion Alfredo, Matthew Reginae); 3. Huston-Tillotson (Charles Davis, Fred Obleton, Clyde Campbell, Al Rison); 4. Tuskegee (Charles Bonner, Thomas McCormick, Ernest Gibson, Arthur Dunn). Time, 2:31.5.

One-Half Mile Relay—1. Texas Southern University; 2. Xavier University; 3. Grambling College; 4. Bethune Cookman; 5. Tuskegee Institute. Time, 1:32.5.

One-Mile Relay—1. Morris Brown College; 2. Bethune Cookman College; 3. Prairie View A&M College; 4. Tuskegee Institute. Time, 3:37.2.

Two-Mile Relay—1. Prairie View (Leroy Crawford, Ed Roberts, Wendell Venerable, Carnegie Barnes); 2. Tuskegee (Charles Brown, William Allen, Lee Powell, Arthur Dunn); 3. Wiley (Ed Gibson, R. Johnson, W. Head, C. Deggan); 4. Texas Southern (Major Abrams, Oliver Brown, Wise Clay, Henry Williams). Time, 8:15.0.

HIGH SCHOOL SUMMARIES

Quarter-Mile Relay—1. Washington (Atlanta); 2. Tuskegee High (Tuskegee); 3. Camden Academy (Camden, Ala.); 4. Mobile County Training School; 5. Beach (Savannah, Ga.); 6. Turner (Atlanta). Time, 46.2.

One-Half Mile Relay—1. Washington (Atlanta); 2. Beach (Savannah); 3. Mobile County Training School; 4. C. A. Johnson (Columbia, S.C.); 5. Woodville High. Time, 1:39.0.

Medley Relay—1. Washington (Atlanta); 2. Tuskegee (Tuskegee); 3. C. A. Johnson (Columbia, S.C.); 4. Ullman (Birmingham, Ala.); 5. Parker (Birmingham, Ala.). Time, 3:46.9.

One-Mile Relay—1. Tuskegee High (Tuskegee); 2. Risley (Brunswick, Ga.); 3. Washington (Atlanta); 4. Turner (Atlanta). Time, 3:56.

Two-Mile Relay—1. Tuskegee High (Bennie Smith, Hexser Holliday, Williams Morris, Alphonso Gamble); 2. Washington, Atlanta (John Jackson, Wilbert Judge, Robert Anderson, Willie Smith); 3. Turner, Atlanta (Charlie Sutton, Isiah Robinson, Freddie Jones, Theodore Ector); 4. Howard, Atlanta (Alfred Ellis, Roy Goer, Phillips, Walter Rogers). Time, 9:28.1.

Baseball Throw—1. Willie Peters (Turner, Atlanta); 2. John Beaty (Carver, Atlanta); 3. Olin Winfrey (Washington, Atlanta); 4. Leon Jamison (Washington, Atlanta). Distance, 188 ft., 8 in.

Tuskegee Girls Take Women's Sports Day Team Championship

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, Ala. — Patricia Monsanto, versatile Tennessee A. & I. State University field star from Bay Side, N. Y., tossed the discus 116 feet, 7½ inches to set the only new record in the silver anniversary Tuskegee Institute Women's Sports Day Program, Friday and Saturday, in Alumni Bowl.

The Tuskegee Institute and Tennessee State lassies battled right down to the wire for team championship honors, with Tuskegee rolling up 114 points for a hard-earned victory. Tennessee State was only two points back with 112 points.

Also scoring points in the senior women's division were: Catholic Youth Organization (Chicago) 42; Alabama State College, 28; and Bethune Cookman College, 12.

Miss Monsanto, who shattered her old record of 109 feet, 2 1-2 inches in the discus throw, and her hometown pal, Mae Fagg, U. S. Olympic star, shared individual honors with Lula Bell, brilliant Tuskegee star and product of Booker T. Washington High, Atlanta, with double victories.

In addition to the discus throw, Miss Monsanto won the baseball throw; Miss Faggs streaked home first in the 50 and 100 meter runs; and Miss Bell scored clean-cut victories in the 80 yard hurdles and javelin throw.

Other individual winners were: Mabel Landry (CYO) running broad jump; Mildred McDaniel (Tuskegee) high jump; and Dennis Thompson (CYO) shot put. The Tennessee State combination hit the tape first in the 400 meter relay.

HOWARD GIRLS WIN

In the junior women's division, the David T. Howard High girls of Atlanta finished in the runner-up spot with 40 points, and Henry McNeal Turner High, also of Atlanta, was third with 31 points.

The other points were distributed as follows: Lincoln High, Port Arthur, Texas, 28; McIntosh High McIntosh, Ala., 24; Monroe High, Albany, Ga., 21; Tuskegee Institute High, Tuskegee, 15; Beach High, Savannah, Ga., 14; Carver High, Jakin, Ga., 14; Howard Academy, Ocala, Fla., 13; Pittsview High, 10; Springfield A and I, 8; Oliver High, 8; Brooks High, Quitman, Ga., 3; Camden Academy, Camden, Ala., 2; and Wilcox County Training School 1.

COLLEGE SUMMARIES

50-METER RUN — 1 Mae Faggs (Tennessee State); 2 Cynthia Thompson (Tennessee State); 3 Mabel Landry (CYO); 4 Margaret Davis (Tennessee State); 5 Oretha McMillon (Bethune Cookman); 6 Corine Dade (Tuskegee). TIME: 6.4

80-METER LOW HURDLES — 1 Lula Bell (Tuskegee); 2 Robbie Hendrix (Tuskegee); 3 Dorothy Chisholm (Tennessee State); 4 Willie J. Williams (Alabama State); 5 Loretha Blackburn (Tennessee State). TIME: 12.5

100-METER RUN — 1 Mae Faggs (Tennessee State); 2 Barbara Jones (CYO); 3 Cynthia Thompson (Tennessee State); 4. Josephine Gilmore (Tuskegee)); 5. Rosa Williams (Bethune Cookman); 6 Margaret Davis (Tennessee State). TIME: 12.3

Patricia Monsanto Sets New Record In Discus Throw

400-METER RELAY — 1 Tennessee A and I State University; 2 Tuskegee Institute; 3 Alabama State College; 4 Bethune Cookman College; 5 Alabama State College. TIME: 53.3

BASEBALL THROW — 1 Patricia Monsanto (Tennessee State); 2 Ester Hardy (Alabama State) 3 Mamie Brown (Tuskegee); 4 Bertha Sanders (Alabama State) 5 Frances Newbern (Tennessee State) 6 Annie Gordon (Tuskegee). DISTANCE: 181 ft., 5 in.

RUNNING BROAD JUMP — 1 Mabel Landry (CYO); 2 Orlene Pugh (Tuskegee); 3 Barbara Jones (CYO); 4 Evelyn Wong (Bethune Cookman); 5 Loretha Blackman (Tennessee State); 6 Two-way tie —Frances Newbern and Margaret Davis (Tenn. State). DISTANCE: 18 ft., 2 in.

DICUS THROW — I Patricia Monsanto (Tennessee State); 2 Annie Gordon ((Tuskegee); 3 Curistene Reed (Tuskegee); 4 Emma Phillips (Alabama tate); 5 Beulah Robertson (Tuskegee); 6 Dorothy Bell (Alabama State). DISTANCE: 116 ft., 7 1-2 in. (NEW RECORD).

HIGH SCHOOL SUMMARIES

50-METER RUN — 1 Margaret Mathews (Howard, Atlanta); 2 Jean High (Howard, Atlanta); 3 Colernia Jackson (Howard Academy, Ocala, Fla.); 4 Hazel Watkins (Beach High, Savannah, Ga.); 5 Pelnes Brown (Brooks, Quitman, Ga.); 6 Annie McDonald (Lincoln, Port Arthur, Texas). TIME: 6.4

80-METER LOW HURDLES — 1 Rosa Williams (Pittsview); 2 Edna Callahan (Howard, Atlanta); 3 Beverly Tidwell (Washington, Atlanta) 4 Annie Butts (Turner, Atlanta); 5 Cherry Jackson (Howard, Atlanta); 6 Mary Fields (McIntosh, Ga.) TIME: 13.3

100-METER RUN — 1 Hazel Watkins (Beach, Savannah); 2 Edith Moton (Washington, Atlanta); 3 Burnaden Dwyer (Lincoln, Port Arthur, Texas; 4 Isabell Daniel (Carver, akins, Ga.); 5 Jean High (Washington, Atlanta); 6 Mildred Charley (Wilcox County Training School, Millers Ferry, Ala.) TIME: 12.6

400 Meter Relay — 1. Beach (Savannah, Ga.); 2. Lincoln (Port Arthur, Texas); 3. Howard (Atlanta); 4. Howard Academy (Ocala, Fla.); 5. Washington (Atlanta); 6. Turner (Atlanta). Time 54.0.

Baseball throw — 1. Jean Wilcox (Carver, Atlanta); 2. Louise Collins (Turner, Atlanta); 3. Barbara Jacket Lincoln. Port Arthur. Texas); 4. Cherry Jackson (Howard Atlanta); 5. Beverly Tidwell (Washington, Atlanta); 6. Delores Brown (Brooks, Quitman, Ga.). Distance 225 ft., 7 in.

Running Broad Jump — 1. Calpurnis Jackson (Howard Academy, Ocala, Fla.); 2. Rosie Bryant (Tuskegee High); 3. Mary Clement (Tuskegee High); 4. M. Hall (Monroe, (Albany); 5. Ollie Johnson (Howard Academy, Ocala, Fla.; 6. A. Wesley Monroe, Albany, Ga.. Distance 15 ft., 4 in.

Discus Throw — 1. Barbara Jacket (Lincoln, Port Arthur, Texas); 2. Minnie Jones (McIntosh, McIntosh, Ala.; 3. Annie Burns (Washington, Atlanta); 4. Dorothy Raiford (Washington, Atlanta); 5. Isadelle Rubin (Camden Academy, Camden, Ala.); 6. Daisy Reed (McIntosh, McIntosh, Ala.) Distance 94 ft., 11 in.

High Jump — 1. J. Cantrell (Turner, Atlanta); 2. M. Dugans (Springfield) 3. A. Wesley (Monroe Albany); 4. D. Holt (Howard Academy, Ocala, Fla.); 5. O. Collier (Howard, Atlanta); 6. E. Callahan (Howard, Atlanta). Height 5 ft.

Javelin Throw — 1. Emma Christian (Monroe, Albany); 2 Eunice Haskin (Oliver); 3. Ora Gresham (Turner, Atlanta); 4. Cherry Jackson (Howard, Atlanta); 5. Annie Burns (Washington, Atlanta); 6. Barbara Jacket (Lincoln, Port Arthur, Texas). Distance 99 ft, 1 1-4 in.

Shot Put — 1. Annie Burns Washington, Atlanta); 2. Roberta Reed (McIntosh, McIntosh, Ala.); 3. Minnie Jones (McIntosh, McIntosh, Ala.); 4. Barbara Jacket (Lincoln, Port Arthur, Texas); 5. Wilmer Anderson Tuskegee High); 6 Ora Gresham (Turner, Atlanta). Distance 35 ft., 7 1-2 in.

Texas Southern Thinclads Place High In Tuskegee Annual Relays

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, Ala., — Texas Southern university won two relay championships and added three individual titles in the 27th annual running of the Tuskegee Relays here, Friday and Saturday in Alumni Bowl.

The "Fightin' Texas Tiger" baton-carriers cleaned up the quarter-mile, and the half-mile relay championships and in the individual events, Ralph Aldridge busted tape in 9.8 to win the century: B. Roy cleared the bar at 6 feet, 2 1-4 inches in the high jump; and J. Westbrook scaled 11 feet, 3 inches to lead the pole vaulters.

Plenty Thrills

Many performances were packed with thrills in spite of the dismal weather conditions. Heavy thundershowers Saturday made the previously rain-soaked track all but inappropriate, yet failed to dampen the enthusiams of more than 600 high school and college athletes competing in the two-day sports carnival.

Prairie View A & M College's quartet of Leroy Crawford, Ed. Roberts, Wendell Vernerable and Carnegie Barnes, scored a smashing triumph in the two mile college relay to cop the Allen W. Gambrell Memorial Trophy; and Ed Robinson came home first in the 440-yards run, to win the Robert S. Abbott Memorial Award.

Clark College won two individual championships when John Cannon, of New Orleans, La., finished out front in the 120-yards high hurdles and Roman Thurmon, of Thomaston, Ga., topped the field in the shot put.

In other notable team feats, Morris Brown college wrapped up the one mile relay crown and Wiley College brought the baton home first in the sprint medley.

Owens Wins Moton Mile

Blanton Owens, of Alabama State College, was timed at 4:52.7 in winning the classic Moten Mile Run. Other individual winners included: Frank Brown (Florida A. & M) running broad jump; Jack McClairen (Bethune Cookman) discus throw; and Melvin Frazier (Washington, Atlanta, unattached) javelin throw.

Patricia Monsanto, versatile Tennessee A & I State University field star from Bay Side, N. Y., tossed the discus 116 feet 7½ inches to set the only new record in the silver anniversary Tuskegee Institute Women's Sports Day Program, Friday and Saturday, in Alumni Bowl. The Tuskegee Institute and Tennessee State lassies battled right down to the wire for team championship honors, with Tuskegee rolling up 114 points for a hard-earned victory. Tennessee State was only two points back with 112 points.

Also scoring points in the senior women's division were: Catholic Youth Organization (Chicago) 42; Alabama State college, 28; and Bethune Cookman College, 12.

THE WORLD OF SPORTS

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, Ala. — (SNS) — There is a "Day Is Done" "Last Rose of Summer" atmosphere that hovers like a cloud at ceiling zero over the Tuskegee Relays. It is the tense expectancy of the impending climax of the scholastic year here. It mingles with both students and visitors, even those unwitting of the fact that school here has less than two weeks to go. Visiting coaches and athletes absorb the note of finality for it will be trail's end for coaches on the competitive level for '53 and many athletes will sing their swan song to intercollegiate sports.

Now this wistful blend of nastalgia and anticipation is concocted is magical. The athletes gathered here represent six major conferences but still they feel it and it acts them as an awecome, insidious force from which they cannot escape. Their withing and scrimming under its powerful elixir is like the fly trying to escape the gluey netting of the spider's web.

This is true. Real true, although the Southern Intercollegiate Athletic Conference championships come next week at Atlanta. The Central Intercollegiate Athletic Association is scheduled for Morgan State, Baltimore, Md., and the Southwest championships will be run at Southern University Baton Rouge, La.

However, the strange kinship is effected because this is the last full scale all-conference track and field meet—call it the Tuskegee Relays if you must.

Head Coach Cleve Abbott's skillful assemblage of the ranking Negro college track stars is not a cracy quilt thing. It is webbed together by splendidly forged alliances forged by Tuskegee over a period of years and since cemented and ripened.

It is a kaleidoscope remanant of a glorious era when the Tuskegee Institute Golden Tigers took on all comers in the Southwest, Midwest, CIAA and the SIAC. The ties remain although the Golden Tigers have shriveled into a new and lowly competitive orbit.

The link with the past show up at the relays. Present are Grambling, Texas College, Prairie View, Florida, A. and M., Texas Southern, Lincoln (Mo.), N. C. A. and T., Clark College, Bethune Cookman, Morehouse, Alabama State Ft. Valley, Wiley, Southern and many others.

How they happen to gather here was not left to chance. Tuswegee plays an arduous basketball schedule in all sections of the nation. Its baseball team is the most traveled in the SIAC. Golden Tiger golf and tennis teams move silently into the Southwest and Midwest. Through these contacts Abbott has maintained diamond-studded contacts. They pay off at relay time.

Few men are consulted as much as Abbott on sports issues. He is the Father Confessor to athletic men in all conferences. He had plotted many a strategy.

So the atmosphere seeps into the relays. Everybody comes here although Tuskegee itself is knee-deep in studies. Examinations are only a few days off. The spectre of graduation and departure for home and vacation jobs is apparent in the hustle and bustle which abounds despite th relays.

All coaches talk in the coffee shop and parlors of Dorothy Hall you see them pondering the return to coaching which has been brought on by the demise of the two-platoon system. Others ponder the mounting costs of equip ment and the dearth of crowds. There are other administrative and professional woes.

These are the symbols of the waning days of the school year. Not even the excitement of track competition nor the pageantry wrought by the spectators can diminish them.

The atmosphere prevails. It is a common spectre which casts its ghostly fringe over the Tuskegee Relays each year. The faces change and new victors are declared but the relentless procession of nostalgia and sentiment continue each year.

Not will the note of finality be lifted when athletes and coaches depart for home campuses. It is impossible to push back the calendar and the swell of graduation roars near. The scholastic year is winding towards its end And not even the color of the Tusekee relays can stay its hand.

Tennessee Athlete Sets Only Record At Tuskegee Field Day

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, Ala., May 7—Patricia Monsanto, versatile Tennessee A & I State University field star from Bay Side, N. Y., tossed the discus 116 feet, 7 1-2 inches to set the only new record in the silver anniversary Tuskegee Institute Women's Sports Day program, Friday and Saturday, in Alumni Bowl.

The Tuskegee Institute and Tennessee State lassies battled right down to the wire for team championship honors, with Tuskegee rolling up 114 points for a hard-earned victory. Tennessee State was only two points back with 112 points.

Also scoring points in the senior women's division were: Catholic Youth Organization (Chicago) 42; Alabama State College, 28, and Bethune Cookman College, 12.

Miss Monsanto, who shattered her old record of 109 feet, 2 1-2 inches in the discus throw, and her hometown pal, Mae Faggs, U. S. Olympic star, shared individual honors with Lula Bell, brilliant Tuskegee star and product of Booker T. Washington High, Atlanta, with double victories.

In addition to the discus throw, Miss Monsanto won the baseball throw; Miss Faggs streaked home first in the 50 and 100-meter runs, and Miss Bell scored clean-cut victories in the 80-yard hurdles and javelin throw.

Other individual winners were: Mabel Landry (CYO) running broad jump; Mildred McDaniel (Tuskegee) high jump, and Donnis Thompson (CYO) shot-put. The Tennessee State combination hit the tape first in the 400-meter relay.

Howard Girls Win

In the junior women's division, the David T. Howard High girls of Atlanta piled up 44 points to capture the team crown. Booker T. Washington High of Atlanta finished in the runner-up spot with 40 points, and Henry McNeal Turner High, also of Atlanta, was third with 31 points.

The other points were distributed as follows: Lincoln High, Port Arthur, Texas, 28; McIntosh High, McIntosh, Ala., 24; Monroe High, Albany, Ga., 21; Tuskegee Institute High, Tuskegee, 15; Beach High, Savannah, Ga., 14; Carver High, Jakin, Ga., 14; Howard Academy, Ocala, Fla., 13; Pittsview High, 10; Springfield A & I, 8; Oliver High, 8; Brooks High, Quitman, Ga., 3; Camden Academy, Ala., 2, and Wilcox County Training School, 1.

College Summaries

60-Meter Run—1: Mae Gass, Tennessee State; Cynthia Thompson, Tennessee State; Mabel Landery, CYO; Margaret Davis, Tennessee State; Cretha McMillian, Bethune Cookman; Corine Dade, Tuskegee. Time 6.4.

80-Meter Low Hurdles—Lula Dell, Tuskegee; Robbie Hendrix, Tuskegee; Dorothy Chisholm, Tennessee State; Willie J. Williams, Alabama State; Loretha Blackburn, Tennessee State. Time 12.5.

100-Meter Run—Mae Faggs, Tennessee State; Barbara Jones, CYO; Cynthia Thompson, Tennessee State; Josephine Gilmore, Tuskegee; Rosa Williams, Bethune Cookman; Margaret Davis, Tennessee State. Time 12.3.

400-Meter Relay—Tennessee A & I State University; Tuskegee Institute, Alabama State College; Bethune Cookman College; Alabama State College. Time 53.3.

Baseball Throw — Patricia Monsanto, Tennessee State; Easter Hardy, Alabama State; Mamie Brown, Tuskegee; Bertha Sanders, Alabama State; Frances Newborn, Tennessee State; Annie Gordon, Tuskegee. Distance, 181 ft. 5 inches.

Running Broad Jump—Mabel Landey, CYO; Orlene Pugh, Tuskegee; Barbara Jones, CYO; Evelyn Wong, Bethune Cookman; Loretha Blackman, Tennessee State; two-way tie, Frances Newbern and Margaret Davis, Tennessee State. Distance, 18 ft. 2 inches.

Discus Throw—Patricia Monsanto, Tennessee State; Annie Gordon, Tuskegee; Curistene Reed, Tuskegee; Emma Phillips, Alabama State; Beulah Robertson, Tuskegee; Dorothy Bell, Alabama State. Distance, 116 ft. 7 1-2 inches, new record.

High School Summaries

50-Meter Run—Margaret Mathews, Howard, Atlanta; Jean High, Howard, Atlanta; Colernia Jackson, Howard Academy, Ocala, Fla.; Hazel Watkins, Beach, Savannah, Ga.; Pelnes Brown, Brooks Quitman, Ga.; Annie McDonald, Lincoln, Port Arthur, Texas. Time 6.4.

80-Meter Low Hurdles—Rosa Williams, Pittsview; Edna Callahan, Howard, Atlanta; Beverly Tidwell, Washington, Atlanta; Annie Butts Turner, Atlanta; Cherry Jackson, Howard, Atlanta; Mary Fields, McIntosh, Ga. Time 13.3.

100-Meter Run—Hazel Watkins, Beach Savannah, Ga.; Edith Moton, Washington, Atlanta; Burnaden Dwyer, Lincoln, Port Arthur, Texas; Isabel Daniel, Carver, Jakins, Ga.; Jean High, Washington, Atlanta; Mildred Charley, Wilcox County Training School, Millers Ferry, Ala. Time 12.6.

400-Meter Relay—Beach, Savannah, Ga.; Lincoln, Port Arthur, Texas; Howard, Atlanta; Howard Academy, Ocala, Fla.; Washington, Atlanta; Turner, Atlanta. Time 54.0.

Baseball Throw—Jean Wilcox, Carver, Atlanta; Louise Collins Turner, Atlanta; Barbara Jacket, Lincoln, Port Arthur, Texas; Cherry Jackson, Howard, Atlanta, Ga.; Beverly Tidwell, Washington, Atlanta; Delores Brown, Brooks, Quitman, Ga. Distance 225 ft. 7 inches.

Running Broad Jump—Calpurnis Jackson, Howard Academy, Ocala, Fla.; Roaie Bryant, Tuskegee High; Mary Clement, Tuskegee High; M. Hall, Monroe, Albany, Ga. Distance 15 ft. 4 inches.

Discus Throw—Barbara Jackett, Lincoln, Port Arthur, Texas; Minnie Jones, McIntosh, Ala.; Annie Burns, Washington, Atlanta; Dorothy Raiford, Washington, Atlanta; Isabelle Rubins, Camden Academy; Camden, Ala.; Daisy Reed, McIntosh, Ala. Distance, 94 ft. 11 inches.

High Jump—J. Cantrell, Turner, Atlanta; M. Dugans, Springfield; A. Wesly, Monroe, Albany; D. Holt, Howard Academy, Ocala, Fla.; O. Collier, Howard, Atlanta; E. Cahhlhan, Howard, Atlanta. Height, 5 ft.

Javelin Throw—Emma Christian, Monroe, Albany; Eunice Haskin, Oliver; Ora Gresham, Turner, Atlanta; Cherry Jackson, Howard, Atlanta; Annie Burns, Washington, Atlanta; Barbara Jackett, Lincoln, Port Arthur, Texas. Distance, 99 ft. 1 1-4 inches.

Shot Put—Annie Burns, Washington, Atlanta; Roberta Reed, McIntosh, Ala.; Minnie Jones, McIntosh, Ala.; Barbara Jacket, Lincoln, Port Arthur, Texas; Wilmer Anderson, Tuskegee High; Ora Gresham, Turner, Atlanta. Distance, 35 ft 7 1-2 inches

SIAC Fixes Relay Dates At Meeting

Special To The Herald

ATLANTA—Members of the Southern Intercollegiate Athletic Conference closed their 41st annual meeting here last Wednesday night. The first session was held Tuesday morning with representatives from 16 of the 17 member institutions in attendance. LeMoyne College, Memphis, Tenn., was not represented.

Dr. St. Elmo Brady was returned to office as president. Vice presidents who will serve during the ensuing year are A. S. Gaither, Florida A&M University, Tallahassee; Dr. J. J. Dennis, Clark College, Atlanta, and Dr. W. S. N. Banks, Fort Valley State College, Fort Valley, Ga. R. S. Darnaby, Tuskegee Institute, was continued in office as secretary-treasurer, and Dr. Frank L. Forbes, Morehouse College ,as assistant secretary-treasurer. B. T. Harvey, Morehouse College, was retained as commissioner, and A. J. Lockhart, Morris Brown College, will serve in the newly created office as commissioner of officials.

Football and baseball schedules for the season of 1954 were arranged and sites and dates for the Spring calendar of sports were set.

The Spring relays are as follows: Florida Relays, Bragg Field, Tallahassee, March 27; Alabama State College Relays, Hornet Stadium, Montgomery, April 17; Tuskegee Relays, Alumni Bowl, Tuskegee Institute, May 7-8; Xavier University Track and Field Meet, New Orleans, April 24; annual Southern Conference Track and Field Meet, Atlanta, May 14 and 15; annual Women's Sports Day, Alumni Bowl, Tuskegee Institute, May 7; annual Golf Tournament, Tuskegee Institute, May 7-8; and the annual Southern Conference Tennis Championships, Tuskegee Institute, May 7-8.

Dr. Frank L. Forbes, Morehouse College, chairman of a committee which will make a study of athletic practices and policies of the seventeen member institutions of the Conference, reported that the committee is engaged assemblying the necessary information for the study and summary.

Serving with Dr. Forbes are Dr. W. S. M. Banks, Fort Valley State College; Julian Bell, Knoxville College; G. H. Hobson, Alabama A&M College, and Cleve L. Abbott, Tuskegee Institute.

B. T. Harvey, Southern Conference Commissioner and A. J. Lockhart, Commissioner of Officials, submitted their annual reports to the Conference. Commissioner Harvey proposed that the Conference sponsor an annual bowl football game at some suitable place. Further consideration will be given the proposal by the Conference.

Allison Figaro, Tuskegee Institute, Acting Chairman of the Baseball Committee, reported that an increasing number of Conference institutions are playing baseball, and that Alabama A&M College, Normal, and possibly Fort Valley State College will field baseball teams in 1954.

The conference placed the matter of the selection of All-Conference teams in the hands of a committee which will formulate rules and regulations for the choosing of the successful candidates.

MONUMENT TO A MAN LOVED:

Annual Report Issued By Carver Foundation

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, Ala. —The Carver Foundation, during the fiscal year ending May, 1952, took in income of $48,748.88 while expenses amounted to $59,266.98, showing expenses over income of $788.10.

Total assets of the Foundation as of that date were $338,149.49, it was revealed in the annual report for 1951-52, recently published.

The Foundation, honoring Dr. George Washington Carver was founded in February, 1940.

As a part of the research activities and in co-operation with the graduate program in the sciences, the Foundation offers fellowships to students working toward masters degrees in chemistry, agronomy and foods and nutrition.

12 Fellowships

During the academic year 1951-52, twelve fellowships were awarded totalling $11,750.

The new Carver Foundation building was occupied in September, 1951, with the formal dedication taking place during the annual meeting of the board of trustees on Feb. 12, 1952.

One of the main features is the Hollis Burke Frissell library, which has a collection of more than 100,000 volumes, including some complete and nearly complete sets of the journals essential to scientific research.

Greenhouse Facility

Another facility available at the Foundation is the Damon Runyon Greenhouse.

Experimental plants are grown at this greehhouse in connection with the various research projects involving the use of either whole plants per se or any of their tissues.

Members of the Foundation research staff include::

Cecil W. Clift, agronomy; Dr. R. W. Brown, Dr. Charles M. Ford, Dr. James H. M. Henderson; Fred R. West Jr., biological sciences;

W. E. Belton, Dr. Louis F. Cason, Dr. Gerald A. Edwards, Lewis A. Gist Jr., Dr. Clarence T. Mason, chemistry;

Mrs. Ruth T. Carter, Dr. Cecile H. Edwards, foods and nutrition; and E. J. Jefferson and Reuben A. Munday, poultry husbandry.

Carver Foundation Assistant Studies At Oak Ridge

TUSKEGEE, Ala., July 19 — Lolla Patterson Carter, research assistant at the George Washington Carver Foundation, Tuskegee Institute, Alabama, is studying the techniques of using radioisotopes in a course being offered by the Special Training Division of the Oak Ridge Institute of Nuclear Studies, Oak Ridge, Tenn. She is there for a period of four weeks.

Mrs. Carter is one of thirty-two research workers from throughout the country who are enrolled in this course which includes lecture and laboratory instruction and is designed to teach basic techniques of utilizing this versatile new research tool.

Radioisotopes — or "tracer atoms"—are by-products of the atomic energy program and have proved applicable to research in every branch of general science.

They are being used in some phases of medical research and therapy and in industrial research and development. They emit energy in the form of radiation, which can be located and measured at any stage of a complicated chemical or biological reaction; this enables scientists to follow such reactions closely.

Mrs. Carter who holds B.S. and M.S. degrees from Tuskegee Institute, is especially interested in using radioisotopes in biological feeding experiments with adult male rats. Her attendance atthe Oak Ridge Institute of Nuclear Studies brings to four the number of persons from the Carver Foundation who have made the study.

Those previously attending were Dr. J. H. Henderson, Dr. Cecile Hoover Edwards, and Dr. Gerald A. Edwards.

Tuskegee Institute Elected Oak Ridge Institute Sponsor

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, Ala., Oct. 20—Tuskegee Institute and S.M.U. of Dallas, Tex., were elected sponsoring universities of the Oak Ridge Institute of Nuclear Studies this morning in a meeting of the Board of Directors.

In making the announcement, Dr. Paul M. Gross, vice-president of Duke University and president of the Institute, stated that the election of these two institutions brings to thirty-two the number of sponsoring agencies.

Serves As Governing Body

Dr. Russell W. Brown, director of the Tuskegee Institute Carver Foundation, was in Oak Ridge today as representative to sit with the council. The council, which is composed of one representative from each sponsoring group, serves as a governing body. The institute is managed by a Board of Directors elected by the council.

Tuskegee Institute has been actively identified with the Institute of Nuclear Studies for the past four years. The Carver Foundation, founded by the late Dr. George Washington Carver, has sent nine members of its staff to the institute for special study in use of radioisotpes.

The Carver Foundation engages in scientific research for both private and public agencies and has received grants and contracts up to June 1 totaling $45,880.60.

With headquarters at Oak Ridge, Tenn., the Institute of Nuclear Studies carries out an extensive educational program through a contract with the U. S. Atomic Energy Commission.

Among the several programs of the institute, it serves as co-sponsor with the Oak Ridge National Laboratory and brings university scientists to Oak Ridge to conduct research and serve on lecture tours to colleges and universities over the nation.

Skirting the News Front . . .

Bespectacled Tom Jones, freed last week after serving twenty-six years of a 100-year burglary sentence in the Florida state penitentiary, has accepted a job on a farm owned by a county jail official . . . The Carver Foundation at Tuskegee last month received $5,000 from the Damon Runyon Memorial Fund for Cancer Research . . . Bank embezzlements showed an increase this year of 25 per cent over 1952 and reported 1,022 arrests this year . . . A F branch in Florida is failing in i groes . . . Former Senator Willia Joseph McCarthy may prove to for the Republican party . . . court messenger, Harry N. Pa for thirty-four years, was atte six Supreme Court justices, incl Warren . . . More than 500 fo fices have been closed by Pos E. Summerfield because they . . . Methodist Board of Mis persons interested in becoming United States . . . Polio claim Toledo (Ohio) boy, Carlos Angeles newspaperman, John mental institution, has been s Doris Williams . . . Lionel Ha rope with his band, writes th crazy" over there and that he top."

Elect Tuskegee To Nuclear Institute

DR. R.W. BROWN

TUGKEGEE, Ala. — Tuskegee Institute was elected a sponsoring university of the Oak Ridge Institute of Nuclear Studies in a meeting of the board of directors.

In making the announcement, Dr. Paul M. Gross, vice president of Duke University and president of the Institute, stated that the election of Tuskegeeond Southern Methodist university brings to 32 the number of sponsoring agencies.

President L. H. Foster appointed Dr. R.W. Brown, director of the Carver Foundation, as Tuskegee's representative on the Institute's council.

Tuskegee has been interested in the program offered by this organization for a number of years and has been the recipient of many courtesies extended through it.

Since 1950, four members of the staff of the Carver Foundation have been participants in courses at Oak Ridge dealing with the techniques and uses of radioisotopes in various aspects of research. Tuskegee has also benefited from the Traveling Lecture Program sponsored by this organization.

On many occasions special seminars for the Tuskegee scientific group have been held through lecturers from the Oak Ridge Institute. Through this cooperative association with Oak Ridge Institute, Tuskegee's research progam hos at its lisposal one of the faciities of the national laboratories as well as the services of staff members as consultants.

At present radioisotopes research is being conducted at the Carver Foundation involving a study of the mechanism by which specific nutrents are used in the synthesis of blood, and the investigation, of thee structure of polymers. There are in the Carver Foundation two laboratories set aside for this research presently sponsored by the National Institute of Health.

Tuskegee Is New Oak Ridge Member

TUSKEGEE, Ala.—(ANP)—Tuskegee Institute was elected a sponsoring university of the Oak Ridge Institute of Nuclear Studies in a meeting of the board of directors.

In making the announcement, Dr. Paul M. Gross, vice president of Duke university, and president of the Institute, stated that the election of Tuskegee and Southern Methodist university brings to 32 the number of sponsoring agencies.

President L. H. Foster appointed Dr. R. W. Brown, director of the Carver Foundation, as Tuskegee's representative on the Institute's council.

Tuskogee has been interested in the program offered by this organization for a number of years and has been the recipient of many courtesies extended through it.

Since 1950, four members of the staff of the Carver Foundation have been participants in courses at Oak Ridge dealing with the techniques and uses of radioisotopes in various aspects of research. Tuskegee has also benefitted from the Traveling Lecture Program sponsored by this organization.

On many occasions special seminars for the Tuskegee scientific group have been held through lecturers from the Oak Ridge Institute. Through this cooperative association with Oak Ridge Institute, Tuskogee's research program has at its disposal one of the facilities of the national laboratories as well as the services of staff members as consultants.

At present radioisotopes research is being conducted at the Carver Foundation involving a study of the mechanism by which specific n:trients are used in the synthesis of blood, and the investigation of the struct·· of polymers. There are in the Carver Foundation two laboratories set aside for this research presently sponsored by the National Institute of Health.

Blood Needed For Polio Research

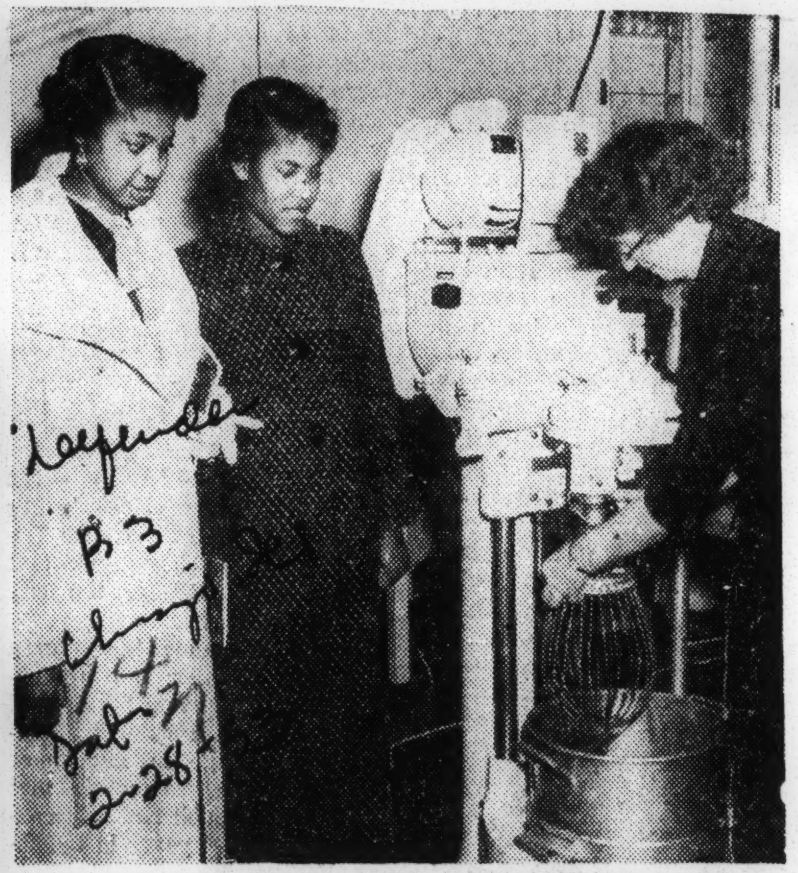
Under the sponsorship of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, the Carver Foundation is participating in the program of polio research by producing tubes of a human tissue cell to be used by other laboratories that are grantees of the National Foundation. The tubes produced by the Carver Foundation contain a culture medium for growth of the polio virus.

Previously it was necessary to use live monkeys for this purpose where as now the virus can be cultivated in test tubes in which the human cell has been grown.

Human blood serum is necessary for this tissue culture work and is needed in large quantities.

The Carver Foundation pays $15 per pint to donors and would appreciate being contacted by adults in the Tuskegee community who are interested in contributing blood. Volunteers may call 1221 or come by. The need is urgent.

USDA VISITORS—Julia Burns and Earline Fox, Tuskegee trainees in commercial dietetics, are shown visiting the school lunch institutional recipe development laboratory at the Beltsville, Md., Research Center of the U. S. Department of Agriculture. Mrs. Georgia Schlosser, right, food specialist, is operating a giant food mixer. Miss Burns, a junior, is from Memphis; and Miss Fox, a sophomore, is from Oxford, Miss.—USDA Photo.



MISSES JULIA BURNS and Earline Fox, Tuskegee trainees in commercial dietetics, are shown visiting the school lunch institutional recipe development laboratory at the Beltsville, Md., Research Center of the U. S. Department of Agriculture. Mrs. Georgia Schlosser, right, food specialist, is operating a giant food mixer. Miss Burns, a junior, is from Memphis; and Miss Fox, a sophomore, is from Oxford, Miss. The students, who are in Washington gaining practical experience in commercial dietetics in a large restaurant, took off one afternoon to visit the Research Center.

YOUTH BENEFACTORS—Two prominent Brooklynites (center), Mrs. Thomas G. Evans and the Rev. Milton A. Galamison, were honored by the members of the Zeta Phi Beta Sorority from seven east coast states for their "major contributions to human relations, achieving a better world for youth." The special scrolls were presented to the honorees by Dr. Deborah Partridge (right), a soror and teacher at New York University, at the public meeting of the sorority's Atlantic regional conference in Brooklyn as the regional director, Soror Evelyn B. Hunt (left), of New Rochelle, looks on.

Zeta Phi Beta sorors honor Mrs. Evans, Rev. Galamison

BROOKLYN—Members of the Zeta Phi Beta Sorority from seven east coast states joined Friday night in honoring two prominent Brooklynites for their "major contributions to human relations."

The occasion was the public meeting of the sorority's Atlantic Regional Conference at Siloam Presbyterian church, Marcy and Jefferson Avenues, Brooklyn.

The special honorees were Mrs. Thomas G. Evans, member of King's County Council of the State Commission Against Discrimination and former director of Brooklyn's National Conference of Christians and Jews, and the Rev. Milton A. Galamison, pastor of Siloam Presbyterian church and feature clergyman on the Dumont TV network's popular morning Chapel program. Presentation of the special scrolls was made by Dr. Deborah Partridge, a soror and professor at New York university.

A crowd of several hundred heard Benjamin I. Coleman of the New York State Department of Social Welfare, guest speaker, urge a "modern approach to vital problems of our youth." Expressing his preference for the term "child who rebels" rather than a "delinquent," Mr. Coleman stressed preventive action rather than cure as the answer.

The Rev. Mr. Galamison, who was cited for his "unselfish efforts and guidance toward character building in youth and community activities is chairman of the Board of the Stuyvesant Community Center, member of the Protestant Welfare Agency's Advisory Committee on Youth and advisor to the Geneva Fellowship of the Brooklyn-Nassay Presbytery.

Mrs. Evans was singled out for the sorority honor because of her "ever readiness to help her fellowman, regardless of racial or religious origin and for her guidance toward achievement of a better world for youth." She has long been prominent in Brooklyn and the nation. She is a former president of the National Council of Women of the USA; past president of the New York Branch of the American University Women and currently member of the Board of the Women's Medical College of Philadelphia.

The three-day conference was under the direction of Soror Evelyn Hunt of New Rochelle, the Atlantic regional director. Presiding at the Friday night meeting was Soror Louise Batson of Brooklyn, general chairman of the conference's local hostess committee. Host chapters were Beta Omicron, Soror O'Neal, basileus, and Delta Alpha Zeta, Soror Edith Bowen, basileus.

Tuskegee Official Appointed by NAIA

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, Ala. — R. S. Darnaby, Tuskege institute has been appointed District 3 representative on the voting committee of the National Intercollegiate Athletic association.

This committee will be in charge of the voting and ballot boxes at the 48th annual convention of the National Intercollegiate Athletic association to be held in Cincinnati, Ohio, Jan. 4-9. The chairman of the committee is A. E. Lumley, Amherst college, Amherst, Mass.

HEADS FUND CAMPAIGN—Dean T. W. Jones, (above) of Tuskegee Institute has been named fund chairman for the annual Red Cross drive which got under way this week. A quota of $4,200 has been set for the campaign this year.

1953 Red Cross Campaign Launched At Meeting Honoring Student Group

The Tuskegee Institute Red Cross campaign for 1953 received an initial thrust to set the ball rolling in the form of a "kick-off" meeting honoring the newly formed Tuskegee Institute student chapter last Friday. James Johnson, president of the Tuskegee Institute Chapter served as master of ceremonies. The principal address was delivered by Mrs. Marion W. Ritzert, assistant director of Service Groups, Southeastern area. Mrs. Ritzert told the student group that the only real recognition they could ever expect was in the intangible sense of realizing that they were serving humanity.

At a "pep" meeting, held later in the auditorium of Trades "A" building, Mrs. Ritzert told of personal experiences in the giving of blood and said that the true spriit of Red Cross was "giving when others could not do for themselves." She also told of how her own life was saved by the donation of blood and mentioned the new gamma globulin program in which special solutions of real blood and certain chemicals are used to relieve the effects of paralysis in polio. At this same meeting, Mrs. Marv Ellen Gardner distribute to the community workers present, their materials for solicitation.

Friday night a sports benefit dance was given in Logan Hall, music being furnished by the Fort McClellan orchestra. The dance was well attended by Institute students and visitors from the local high school basketball tournament that was held earlier in the day.

The goal for the Tuskegee Institute Chapter this year is $4,200 Dean T. W. Jones, fund chairman, indicates that there is every evidence that this goal will be reached.

ON 'COKE TIME.'—William L. Dawson, internationally prominent composer and director, will lead his famous Tuskegee institute choir on the Eddie Fisher—"Coke Time," NBC-TV shows for Christmas and New Year's, December 25 and January 1. The two TV productions will be televised at 6:30-6:45 p.m. CST on 88 NBC-TV outlets across the nation. The Coca-Cola company, Atlanta, sponsor of "Coke Time" suggests that TV-viewers in the various sections of the country check TV guides for exact time of programs in their areas.

NEW DEAN AND FAMILY—Dr. George T. Kyle, formerly of Tuskegee and now professor of psychology and vice-chairman of the Graduate Council at North Carolina College, has been named dean of the college of Arts and Sciences at that institution. He is shown here with his wife, Mrs. Miriam Pride Kyle, and their son, Gregory, 10. Dr. Kyle, who also served as head of the department of psychology, replaces Dr. Albert E. Manley, the president-elect of Spelman College, Atlanta. Dr. Kyle served as clinical psychologist at the Veterans Hospital in Tuskegee before going to N. C. C.

Officers Re-Elected As Local Chapter Mans Polio Fight

At its Summer meeting hel last Friday, in the office of Dr. John W. Chenault, the Tuskegee Ins e Chapter, National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, re-elect full slate of officers for the fourth consecutive term.

Officers are Mrs. Bettye Steele Campbell, Jr., vice-chairman; Mrs. Laura N. Jones, secretary; Charles E. Trout, treasurer, and Dr. John W. Chenault, medical director.

Members of the executive committee, other than the officers named, are Mrs. Louise Trigg, Bernard Cohn, Louis Rabb, Mrs. Turner, chairman; Dr. T. M Sallie Peterson Harris, and Dr. Luther H. Foster.

The chapter heard a report from the area polio meeting held in Memphis, Tenn., given by Mrs. Laura N. Jones.

A report was made by Dr. Chenault on the incidence of polio in the Macon County area on the recent installation of an air-conditioning unit in the isolation ward of the Infantile Paralysis Hospital.

The chairman, Mrs. Turner, reported several activities and projects which the chapter has engaged in over the past season. Among the items reported were contribution of a total of $2,500 to the National Foundation emergency fund; participation in several state and regional meetings; purchase of a set of filing cabinets to keep chapter records, honoring of Dr. F .D. Patterson for his long and fruitful work as a member of the executive committee of the chapter. A citation was given to Dr. Patterson.

The treasurer reported net receipts, to date, for the 1953 March of Dimes Campaign amounted to $4,390.56.

MRS. BETTYE STEELE TURNER has been elected for the fourth consecutive year to head the Tuskegee Institute chapter of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis.

Liberty Observes Woman's Day Sunday; Mrs. McCray To Speak

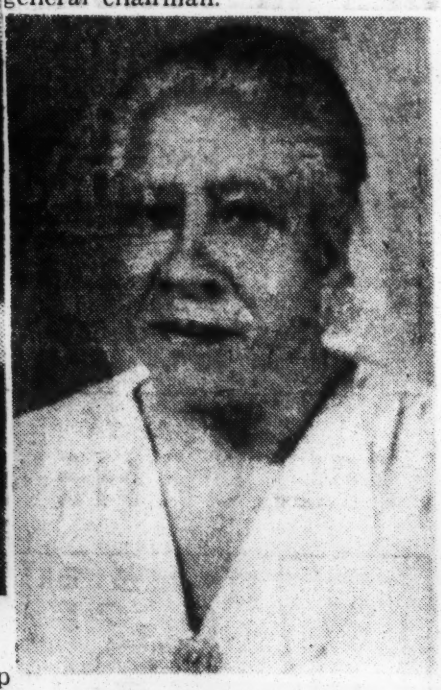
MRS. LAURA B. McCRAY
Speaker

Everyone is invited to worship with the Liberty Baptist Church, Rev. George W. Dudley, pastor, on Sunday, November 22. This day has been designated as ANNUAL WOMAN'S DAY. The women of Liberty under the leadership of Mrs. Essie G. Jones general chairman, have planned a full day of outstanding activities.

The day will begin at 9 a. m. with a Consecration Service under the leadership of Mrs. Lucile Barnes.

9:30 a. m., Sunday School, Mrs. L. E. Grier, Supt.

Promptly at 10:50 a. m., the Woman's Way morning worship will begin with the organ prelude. Mrs. I. A. Adams will preside. The Woman's Day address will be given during this service by Mrs. Laura B. McCray of Tuskegee Institute, Ala. Mrs. McCray is president of the Buck-McCray School of Business, Labor Co-ordinator of Tuskegee Institute, an active leader in the Parent-Teachers Association, and a very devote and loyal leader and member in the Greenwood Baptist Church. You will be greatly strengthened to hear her. Among the women of Liberty assisting in leading this worship service will be Mrs. Anna R. Durham, Mrs. L. B. Conner, Mrs. Florence Gambol, Mrs. Maggie Canty, Mrs. Maria August Bowden, Miss Madeline Graves, Mrs. Vesta Fuller, Mrs. Ida F. Henderson, Mrs. Espanola Daniel, Mrs. Lucile Barnes, and Mrs. Essie G. Jones, general chairman.



MRS. ESSIE G. JONES
Woman's Day Chairman

Music throughout the day will be led by a 50-voice woman's chorus under the direction of Mrs. Victoria Smith.

Following the morning worship service a turkey dinner will be served in the church's beautiful and spacious dining room.

5 p. m., Fellowship Tea will be held in the first unit of the church to which everyone is invited. Mrs. Shelby Matthews will be in charge of the tea assisted by Miss India Combs, Mrs. Lillian Spear, Mrs. Willie B. Ray, and Mrs. Ruth Robinson.

6 p. m., Baptist Training Union, Mrs. Photo L. Scott, director.

7:30 p. m., climaxing Woman's Day evening service with Mrs. Essie G. Jones, presiding. The Woman's Day Chorus will render a musical program. The Woman's Day treasurer will report. Others appearing on the program are Miss India Combs, Mrs. Genelle Jordan, Mrs. Louise Roseberry. This will be an eventful evening that you don't want to miss.

The various committees are as follows: Program, Mrs. I. E. Adams, chairman; publicity and contact, Mrs. Sarah Gordon, chairman; gift, Mrs. Fannie Walker, chairman; music, Mrs. Victoria Smith, chairman; decoration, Mrs. Mildred Ward, chairman; entertainment, Mrs. Shelby Matthews, chairman; welcome, Miss Mae Strickland, chairman; finance, Mrs. Senior Furlow, chairman.

Julius Carroll, Organist, In Recital Nov. 29

Julius Carroll, noted organist, wil be heard in recital at Thirgood C. M. E. Church at six o'clock Sunday evening, Nov. 29.

He is appearing under the auspices of the sponsoring committee of which Mrs. Mandlyne Crawford Williams is the chairman.

The Second Mile Club of Thirgood of which Mrs. E. V. Taggert is president has designated Nov. 29 as the date which will claim one of the most outstanding programss of the day benefiting the church's building fund.

Mr. Carroll is remembered locally for several appearances in Birmingham. During his stay in Alabama since 1948, he has served four years as organist and instructor at the Alabama State College, Montgomery, Alabama. For one year he rendered service at Tuskegee Institute as acting organist. At present he is serving in the capacity of music instructor at Lanier High School, Lanett, Central Alabama Methodist Conference and Pastors the Riverview-Shawmut Circuit on the Tuskegee District of that conference.

The musical training of Mr. Carroll was received at Howard University, Washington, D. C., Teachers College, Columbia University and privately for eight years with Dr. Norman Coke-Jephcott at the Cathedral of St. John the Divine, New York. He is an associate of the American Guild of Organists, and has served in several eastern cities as organist.

For the recital, November 29, Mr. Carroll has selected a program that will show the resources and musical advantages of the Connsonata electronic organ installed by Woods Piano and Furniture Company under the supervision of L. C. Robinson. The program consists of works by Bach, Borowski, Vierne, S. S. Wesley and Sibelius-Frickes.

Mrs. Williams, chairman of the affair promises each patron an evening of rich entertainment.

Other sponsoring members are Messers Geneva Hackett, Alberta Langford, Mattie Coar, Bessie Murray, Robbie Crawford, Miss Juanita Dobbins and Dr. E. W. Taggart.

The Rev. L. S. Brannon is pastor of the church.

Summer Faculty Member Reviews Two Novels Here

DR. CHANCELLOR WILLIAMS

Dr. Chancellor Williams, who for the past four years has served on the Summer School faculty at Tuskegee Institute, appeared before a group of interested persons before leaving the Institute to review two books recently written by him.

The books are "The Raven", a historical novel centered around the life and times of Edgar Allen Poe, and "Have you Been to The River", novelized study of the "store-front" church movement in America.

As professor of social science at Howard University in Washington, D. C., Dr. Williams did exhaustive research in preparation for his writing these two full-length novels. His vivid characterization of people and events stands out in both of his works.

Dr. Williams was born in South Carolina and graduated from Armstrong High School in Washington; holds an A. B. degree and an A. M. degree in sociology from the American University. He has done further study at the University of Chicago and the University of Iowa.

Late this month he sails for London where he has been granted a year's study at Oxford University.

Dr. Davis Speaks At Two Meetings In Arkansas City

Dr. Alonzo J. Davis, dean of the School of Education, at Tuskegee Institute, addressed an assemblage of executives at their luncheon meeting which was held during an administrators regional field conference at Forrest City, Ark., last Tuesday.

On the same day Dr. Davis also delivered the main address at the dedication program for the new additions to the Lincoln High School of Forrest City.

On his return to Tuskegee, Dr. Davis reported that it was very gratifying to him to be able to observe that the educators in this region are working cooperatively, as was indicated in the Administrators Regional Field Conference where the superintendents and principals of schools were working together on their common problems.

Trout At Session On Public Relations

Special To The Herald

KNOXVILLE—Charles Trout, director of public relations at Tuskegee Institute, was among approximately 100 college and university officials from five Southeastern states here last week for the District V convention of American College Public Relations Association.

Campbell Presented Achievement Day Award At Texas State Fair Program

In addition to the many honors that came to him in recent years, and particularly since his retirement earlier this year, Mr. Thomas M. Campbell, Class of 1906, has recently received a new award. The State Fair of Texas has presented him with its Annual Award for Achievement.

As the feature for the Negro Achievement Day at the State Fair of Texas, held in Dallas each year, Mr. Campbell was the guest of the Negro Chamber of Commerce of Dallas and the honoree for this occasion. This award is given annually to a person outstanding in human relations and was presented to Mr. Campbell at an appropriate service in the plaza of the Hall of State in Dallas before an audience of over 3000 viewers.

Until his retirement this year, Mr. Campbell was Field Agent for the U. S. Extension Service and was the first Negro agricultural agent having been appointed to the work in 1906, upon his graduation from Tuskegee Institute.

The award, a beautiful silver plaque, was presented to the honoree by Mr. James H. Stewart, vice-president of the Texas State Fair, and is engraved as follows:

"State Fair of Texas, Fifth Annual Award, Presented to Thomas Monroe Campbell, Sr., In Recognition of His Outstanding Achievement in the Field of Human Relations in These United States—Signed and Sealed This 19th Day of October, A. D. 1953. R. L. Thornton, President."

During the summer, Mr. Campbell received a fellowship grant from the Ford Foundation of New York City. The grant provides for the completion of a report on the progress and problems of Negro farmers in the United States with special emphasis on the growth of Extension Work in the South.

Campbell Presented Achievement Day Award At Texas State Fair Program

In addition to the many honors that came to him in recent years, and particularly since his retirement earlier this year, Mr. Thomas M. Campbell, Class of 1906, has recently received a new award. The State Fair of Texas has presented him with its Annual Award for Achievement.

As the feature for the Negro Achievement Day at the State Fair of Texas, held in Dallas each year, Mr. Campbell was the guest of the Negro Chamber of Commerce of Dallas and the honoree for this occasion. This award is given annually to a person outstanding in human relations and was presented to Mr. Campbell at an appropriate service in the plaza of the Hall of State in Dallas before an audience of over 3000 viewers.

Until his retirement this year, Mr. Campbell was Field Agent for the U. S. Extension Service and was the first Negro agricultural agent having been appointed to the work in 1906, upon his graduation from Tuskegee Institute.

The award, a beautiful silver plaque, was presented to the honoree by Mr. James H. Stewart, vice-president of the Texas State Fair, and is engraved as follows:

"State Fair of Texas, Fifth Annual Award, Presented to Thomas Monroe Campbell, Sr., In Recognition of His Outstanding Achievement in the Field of Human Relations in These United States—Signed and Sealed This 19th Day of October, A. D. 1953. R. L. Thornton, President."

During the summer, Mr. Campbell received a fellowship grant from the Ford Foundation of New York City. The grant provides for the completion of a report on the progress and problems of Negro farmers in the United States with special emphasis on the growth of Extension Work in the South.

Henderson Named "Man Of Year" By Sorority Chapter

DR. J. H. M. HENDERSON

Dr. James H. M. Henderson, alumnus of Howard University and of the University of Wisconsin, and research associate in the Carver Foundation, Tuskegee Institute, has been chosen by Iota Omega Chapter, Omega Psi Man of the Year for 1953.

In the Tuskegee Institute Chapel on a recent Sunday evening, Dr. Henderson was cited for his active participation in the civic life of the community, especially for his services to the Boy Scouts, and was awarded a plaque. The citation and award were presented at the close of the fraternity's program in observance of National Achievement Week.

In spite of the fact that Dr. Henderson is a plant physiologist and research specialist in the Carver Foundation, working long hours on research related to polio, he found time to serve as scout master to Troop 70, and as a leader in the local Civil Air Patrol. He is an enthusiastic and generous supporter of other civic and community activities, and is very popular among his colleagues and among other citizens in the community.

Dr. Henderson is an active member of several scientific organizations and has written numerous scientific articles which have been published in various scientific journals. He is a member of the following professional fraternal societies: Beta Kappa Chi, Gamma Alpha, Phi Sigma, and Sigma Xi.

MARRIAGES

MISS FARNESE INITA HUGHES

Miss Farnese Inita Hughes,
Instructor,Home Economics,
Tuskegee Institute,married
to Mr. Oliver Reese Lumpkin,
August 22, 1953, St.John's
A.M.E. Church, Columbus, Ohio.
Mr. Lumpkin, May 1953 Graduate of Tuskegee Institute, M.S.
Agriculture.
Graduate Student at Ohio
State University. Applicant for Ph.D. degree in Agricultural Education.

MISS SARAH MAE FELTON

Miss Sarah Mae Felton,
Instructor,Home Economics,
Tuskegee Institute, married
to Mr. Eddie Byron Bivins,
(Cpl. U.S. Army) December
23, 1953, Ayer, Mississippi.
Mrs. Bivins graduate of
Tuskegee Institute,1952.

MISS MARGARET JEANETTE LARKIN

Miss Margaret Jeanette Larkin,
Instructor,Home Economics,
(Clothing Instructor and Nursery School Assistant)
Tuskegee Institute,Married to
Mr. Herman C. Wilson, December
22, 1953, St.Paul A.M.E. Chruch
Raleigh,North Carolina.
Mr. Wilson is Industrial Arts
Instructor,Person County
Training School, Roxboro, N.C.

JOINS TUSKEGEE STAFF—Miss Nell Jackson, who has gained international repute in track, has joined the department of Physical Education and Athletics at Tuskegee Institute, effective September 1.

Miss Jackson, a native of Athens, Ga., first gained note as an athlete in high school at Tuskegee where she was a member of a district championship basketball team and a member of the Tuskegee Institute Track Club which won the 440 yard relay team championship in 1947 and the National AAU Championships 1944 through 1947. She placed second in the 200 meter run from 1945 through '47. Her collegiate honors include memberships on the AAU all-American Track and Field Team in the 200 meter event in 1947 and '49; on the 1948 U. S. Olympic Team in London, England and on the 1951 Pan-American Olympic team in Argentina.

Tuskegee Chaplain To Take Church To People In Germany

For the next two years, Dr. Carlton L. Lee, chaplain of Tuskegee Institute, will be taking the church to the people of Germany and training others to carry on the same kind of work.

Dr Lee, who left Atlanta by plane Friday night, is to engage in a series of conferences in New York City, early next week before embarking for Germany aboard the Holland American Lines' SS Ryndaam Thursday, October 8.

When he arrives in Germany, Dr. Lee is to serve as fraternal worker with the Gossner Mission at Mainz-Kastel in a project being staged under the joint auspices of Tuskegee Institute, the Department of Social Welfare of the United Christian Missionary Society, (Disciples of Christ) and the Congregational Christian Service Committee, Inc.

At Gossner, Dr Lee will work in association with Pastor Symanowski, director of the Mission which was founded principally for the training of missionary personnel

MISSION WORLD FAMOUS

The Gossner Mission, founded by Johannes Gossner, has gained international reputation. Famed originally as a site for training of missionaries to the Far East, the mission has—since World War II — trained missionaries to work all over the world. Composing the current student body are natives of nearly every country, including Africa.

While Dr. Lee's duties will include participation at the Mission, his actual position is more diversified He will have study and pastoral relations with laymen and clergy, students and missionaries He is to work among laborers, farmers and others in keeping with the mission's pronounced policy of gathering students and training them as missionaries to ordinary work-a-day life And he is to participate in various ecumenical and student conferences and conduct seminars for pastors

GREATLY HONORED

The naming of Dr Lee to the project is a distinct honor This past March, Dr Lee was a member of the evangelic mission of the National Council of Churches and the International Federation of Churches at Indianapolis when he was advised of the appointment

Included among those participating in the Indianapolis mission were such noted churchmen as Margaret Applegarth Charles Templeton and Jesse Bader Dr Lee was carrying out an assignment of conducting the mission in all Indianapolis high schools when he was informed by Dr James A. Crain that he was under consideration for the Gossner mission project

TO ENGAGE IN CONFERENCES

Before he leaves this country next Friday, Dr. Lee will be busy engaging in conferences with officials of th sponsoring church groups in New York. He is scheduled to confer with the executive secretary of Congregational Christian Church Service Committee and with other executives including Dr. Samuel McCrea, general secretary of the National Council of Churches who recently was named United States secretary of the World Council of Churches.

IS WELL TRAINED FOR JOB

Dr. Lee takes a wealth of experience and training with him to the mission. A native of Clayton, N. C., he is an honor graduate of Talladega College and holds graduate and professional degrees from the University of Chicago and the Chicago Theological Seminary. He received his elementary and secondary school training in his hometown, at Berry O'Kelly Institute at Method, N. C., and in New York City; holds a doctor of philosophy degree in the field of ethics and society from the University of Chicago.

He has served with the Home Boards of the Christian Congregational Churches, taught Philosophy at Morris Brown College, been secretary of the Southern Area Council of the YMCA, and on the program staff of the National Council of the YMCA.

During his sabbatical leave from Tuskegee, Dr. Lee will be replaced by the Rev. Daniel W. Wynn, formerly with Bishop College, Marshall, Texas

Dr. Lee Appointed To Mission

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, ALA. —Dr. Luther H. Foster, president of Tuskegee Institute has announced that Dr. Carleton L. Lee, Institute Chaplain, has been granted a leave of absence to accept an appointment with the World Council of Churches as a Fraternal Worker with the Gossner Mission at Mainz-Kastel, Germany.

Dr. Lee will sail on the Holland American Line early in October under the auspices of Tuskegee Institute, the Department of Social Welfare of the United Christian Missionary Society (Disciples of Christ) of Indianapolis, Indiana, and the Congregational Crhristian Service Committee Inc., of New York.

He will have study and pastoral relationships with laymen, clergy, apprentices, students and young missionaries. In this service, he will contact and work with laborers in the German factories as well as churchmen, in order to effect a better understanding of the sociological and church labor problems in Western Europe. He will participate in various economical and student conferences and conduct seminars for pastors.

Dr Lee is an honor graduate of Talladega College and holds graduate and professional degrees from the Chicago Theological Seminary and the University of Chicago. The degree of doctor of Philosophy was conferred by the University of Chicago in the field of ethics and society.

Tuskegee cleric Germany bound

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, Ala. —Dr. Luther H. Foster, president of Tuskegee Institute has announced that Dr. Carleton L. Lee, institute chaplain, has been granted a leave of absence to accept an appointment with the World Council of Churches as a fraternal worker with the Gossner Mission at Mainz - Kastel, Germany.

Doctor Lee will sail on the Holland-America line early in October under the auspices of Tuskegee, the department of social welfare of the United Christian Missionary Society (Diciples of Christ) of Indianapolis, and the Congregational Christian Service Committee, Inc., of New York.

He will have study and pastoral relationships with laymen, clergy, apprentices, students and young missionaires. In this service, he will contact and work with laborers in the German factories as well as churchmen, in order to effect a better understanding of the sociological and church labor problems in Western Europe. He will participate in various ecumenical and student conferences and conduct seminars for pastors.

CONGRATULATIONS! — Pictured above are Governor Johnston Murray of the State of Oklahoma, Atty. Chauncey D. Twine of Muskogee, Okla., and his daughter, Gloria Juanita Twine, who received her B. S. degree in 1951 and her M. S. degree in 1953 from Howard University, Washington, D. C. Governor Murray congratulates Miss Twine as she prepares to leave to attend the University of Pennsylvania where she has received an assistanceship in psychology to do further graduate work.

Grant Tuskegee Chaplain Leave For Church Study

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE — Dr. Luther H. Foster, president of Tuskegee Institute, revealed last week that Dr. Carlton L. Lee, Institute Chaplin, has been granted a leave of absence to accept an appointment with the World Council of Churches.

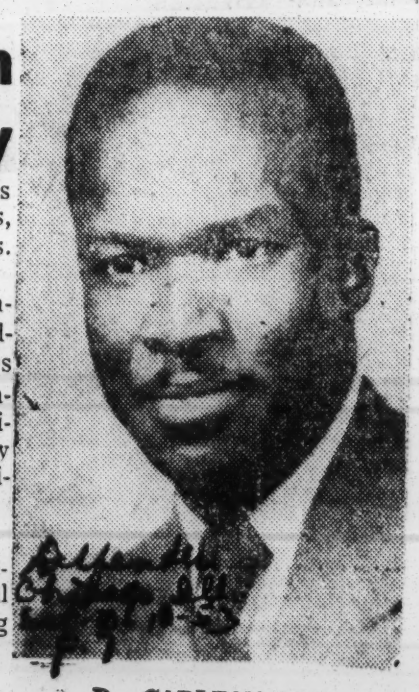
Doctor Lee, who will serve as a fraternal worker with the Gossner Mission at Mainz-Kastel, Germany, will sail on the Holland American line early this month. The appointment was made under the auspices of Tuskegee Institute, the department of Social Welfare of the United Christian Missionary Society of Indianapolis, Ind., and the Congregational Christian Service Committee, Inc., of New York.

Under this appointment, Dr. Lee will have pastoral relationships with laymen, clergy, apprentices, students and young missionaries.

HONOR GRAD

An honor graduate from Talladega college, Dr. Lee holds graduate of professional degrees from the Chicago Theological Seminary and the University of Chicago. The Doctor of Philosophy degree was conferred by the University of Chicago in the field of ethics and society.

The Rev. Danel W. Wynn, recently with Bishop college, will serve as acting chaplain during the leave of Dr. Lee.



Dr. CARLTON LEE

Nell Jackson Joins Faculty At Tuskegee

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, Ala. Nell Jackson, Tuskegee's sensational sprinterpath performer, has joined the department of physical education and athletics, assuming her duties Sept. 1.

Nell Jackson

..Miss Jackson came to Tuskegee Institute when her parents moved here from Athens, Ga. She attended elementary and high school at Tuskegee Institute.

Upon graduating from the Tuskegee institute high school in 1947, she entered Tuskegee institute where she enrolled in the school of physical education and in 1951, she received the bachelor of science degree with a major in health and physical education.

After graduating from Tuskegee institute, Nell began work toward the master of science degree in health and physical education at Wellesley college, Wellesley, Mass. She completed her work at Springfield Massechusetts last spring.

Many honors and achievements have come to Nell, both in high school and in college. Her high school honors include the following: 1. a member of the state district basketball championship team from 1946 to 1947, serving as captain in 1947; 2. a member of the Tuskegee institute track club and while with this club, the club was the winner of the National AAU championshps from 1944 to $947; 3. A member of the winning 440-yard relay team in 1947, and 4. placed second in the 200-meter run from 1945 to 1947.

Her collegiate honors are enough to fill a record book. A few of the more important ones would include the following: 1. member of the AAU All-American track and field team (1947 & 1849 200 meters); 2. member of 1948 U. S. Olympic team in London, England; 3. member of the 1951 Pan American Olympic team Buenos Aires, Argentina, placed second in the 200 meters, and ran a leg on the winning 40 meter relay team; 4 the holder of the AAU record for the 20 meters (24.2 seconds at Odessa, Texas, in 1949) and 5. the winner of the 20 meters championship, 1949-50.

While at Tuskegee she was active in basketball, track and field, tennis and swimming. She received her Red Cross swimming instructor's certificate in 1949. Nell's hobbies are sports, photography and listenting to semi-classical music.

Campbell Named Winner Of Texas State Fair Award

T. M. CAMPBELL

T. M. Campbell, of Tuskegee, retired field agent of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, has been selected by the Negro Achievement Day committee of the State Fair of Texas as the recipient of the fifth annual State Fair Negro Achievement Award for outstanding achievement in the field of human relations.

Mr. Campbell will go to Dallas Tex., to receive the award on Negro Achievement Day next Monday.

James H. Stewart, executive vice president and general manager of the Texas State Fair notified Mr. Campbell of the award and extended the invitation for him to attend the Achievement Day program.

"As recipient of this award you will be required to present various other awards in the several activities. A program of the day's activities will be forwarded to you at a little later date," Mr. Stewart wrote.

"You are certainly to be congratulated upon being selected for this honor, and we sincerely hope you will be able to accept our invitation to be with us on this occasion."

Eagle Tulsa, Okla. Thurs. 10-22-53

..VISITS STUDENT NURSES—Mrs. Queen E. Carter, dean of the school of nursing education at the Florida A and M university, recently paid her first official visit to junior student nurses on affiliation in Jacksonville. At her left is Jeanette Lindsey of Tallahassee and seated on her right is Gloria Walker of Pensacola. Both students are juniors. —Staff photo by H. Jones

Tuskegee Prof. Gets Doctorate

Word

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, Ala.—Withro McEnge, professor of Industrial Education at Tuskegee Institute, received his Doctorate of Education degree in Vocational Education from New York University during a recent convocation.

Since his graduation from Tuskegee Institute with a certificate in brickmasonry and a Bachelor of Science degree in Industrial Arts, Dr. McEnge has received a Permanent Teachers Certificate in Industrial Arts, University of the State of New York, also his Master of Arts degree in Industrial Arts from New York University.

Dr. McEnge's experience includes six years as a journeyman brickmason and as a teacher of Adult Education, New York City. For the past several years, Dr. McEnge has served as chairman of the Department of Industrial Education and Interne Supervisor of the School of Mechanical Industries, Tuskegee Institute.

The subject of Dr. McEnge's dissertation was: "The Development of Teacher Education Curriculum in Industrial Education with a Special Emphasis upon Industrial Interneship. This thesis deveolped the needs and requirements of future teachers in the United States.

Winthro McEnge Receives D. E. From N. Y. U.

P.1

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, Ala., Withro McEnge, professor of Industrial Education at Tuskegee Institute, received his Doctorate of Education degree in Vocational Education from New York University during a recent convocation.

Since his graduation from Tuskegee Institute with a certificate in brickmasonry and a Bachelor of Science degree in Industrial Arts, Dr. McEnge has received a Permanent Teachers Certificate in Industrial Arts, University of the State of New York, also his Master of Arts Degree in Industrial Arts from New York University.

Dr. McEnge's experience includes six years as a journeyman brickmason and as a teacher of Adult Education, New York City. For the past several years Dr. McEnge has served as Chairman of the Department of Industrial Education and Interne Supervisor of the School of Mechanical Industries, Tuskegee Institute.

The subject of Dr. McEnge's dissertation was: "The Development of Teacher Education Curriculum in Industrial Education with a Special Emphasis upon Industrial Interneship. This thesis developed the needs and requirements of future teachers in Industrial Education for prospective teachers in the United States.

Miss Ross Resigns Position At 'Skegee

Miss Jacquelyn Ross, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Ross, Sr., of 1706-25th Ave. No. has resigned her position as head dietician at the John A. Andrews Hospital, Tuskegee Institute, to accept a scholarship to further her education in the field of food nutrition.

Birmingham World 10-17-53 Birmingham, Ala.

MISS JACQUELYN ROSS

P.1

She had held the position from which she resigned for three months. Miss Ross holds a B. S. degree in institution management from Tuskegee Institute.

Miss Ross is currently studying at Columbia University, New York City, on a scholarship jointly sponsored by Tuskegee Institute and Doctor A. C. Eurich vice president of the Ford Foundation of New York City.

She did her intern work at Beth Israel Hospital, Boston, Mass. While interning, she visited the historic Plymouth Rock, where she said she gathered much wholesome information.

Miss Ross is a member of Delta Theta Sorority, a graduate of Parker High School, a member of Metropolitan AME Zion Church where she formerly served as secretary of the Sunday School, in the Junior Choir and Usher Board. In September, 1948, she represented her district in the United Christian Youth Movement held in Grand Rapids, Mich.

At Parker, she waded through with a 2.9 average and was valedictorian in a class of more than 300 students. She was one of the 29 Jefferson County students who made the first all-Negro citizenship tour to Washington, D. C. March 3, 1949, she enrolled at Tuskegee Institute.

She was a member of the Associated Women Students and the Commercial Dietetics Club. Through advanced study she plans to qualify for membership in the American Dietetics Association.

Funeral Is Held Monday For Mrs. Amelia C. Roberts

Funeral services for Mrs. Amelia Cromwell Roberts, who passed away at the John A. Andrew Memorial Hospital last Friday morning, were held in the Institute chapel Monday afternoon at 4 o'clock. Dr. Carleton L. Lee, chaplain of Tuskegee Institute, officiated. He was assisted by the Rev. Daniel W. Wynn who recently joined the Institute faculty.

Mrs. Roberts came to Tuskegee in September, 1905, at the request of Dr. Booker T. Washington shortly after her graduation from the Sargent School of Physical Education, Boston, to become head of the physical education department for women. She was a pioneer in the development of sports activities for women and her work in this field attracted national attention. She often was called upon to serve as lecturer and consultant and she gave unstintedly of her wide knowledge where ever she was called upon to serve.

In January, 1910, she was married to Ezra C. Roberts, who for a number of years served as director of the academic department at the Institute. The couple had two children—a daughter, now Mrs. Catherine Roberts Williams, and a son, Ezra Roberts, Jr., who died in 1918. Mr. Roberts died in 1936.

CHAPLAIN GIVEN LEAVE—

Dr. Lee Is Going Abroad

Herald

Dr. Luther H. Foster, president of Tuskegee Institute, has announced that Dr. Carleton L. Lee, Institute chaplain, has been granted a leave of absence to accept an appointment with the World Council of Churches as a fraternal worker with the Gossner Mission at Mainz-Kastel, Germany.

Tuskegee, Ala.

Dr. Lee will sail on a Holland-America Line ship early in October under the auspices of Tuskegee Institute, the Department of Social Welfare of the United Christian Missionary Society (Disciples of Christ) of Indianapolis, Ind. and the Congregational Christian Service Committee Inc., of New York.

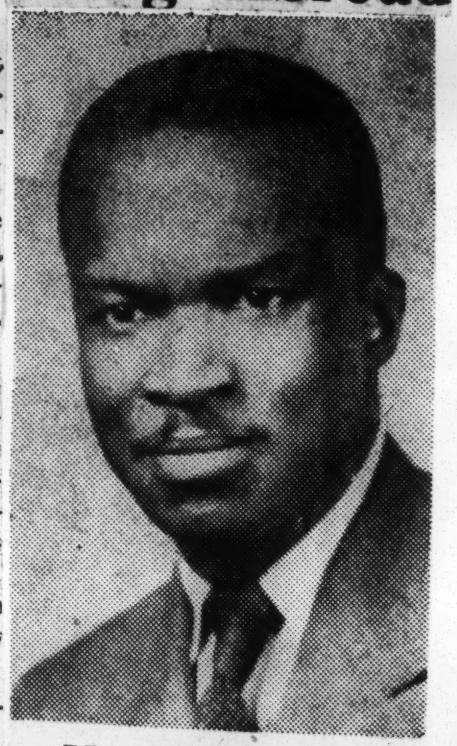
Jun. 9-29-53

He will have study and pastoral relationships with laymen, clergy, apprentices, students and young missionaries. In this service, he will contact and work with laborers in the German factories as well as churchmen in order to effect a better understanding of the sociological and church labor problems in Western Europe. He will participate in various ecumenical and student conferences and conduct seminars for pastors.

P. 1

In announcing Dr. Lee's appointment, Dr. Foster pointed out that Tuskegee Institute is sharing in a unique educational and ecumenical venture consistent with its tradition of service at home and abroad. He remarked that in recent years alumni and members of the Institute staff have gone into similiar types of foreign service in other parts of the world. Joseph Saunders, a senior pre-medical student at Tuskegee Institute, spent the Summer in India as a member of a studentteam from the University of California at Los Angeles.

Dr. Lee is an honor graduate of Talladega College and holds graduate and professional degrees from the Chicago Theological Seminary and the University of Chicago. The degree of doctor of philosophy was conferred by the



DR. CARLETON LEE

University of Chicago in the field of ethics and society. Prior to his cofing to Tuskegee Institute the chaplain, he had served with the home boards of the Congregational Christian Churches, professor of philosophy at Morris Brown College, the program service staff of the National Council of the Y. M. C. A., and Hi-Y secretary of the Southern Area Council of the Y. M. C. A.

During his leave from Tuskegee Institute, the Rev. Mr. Daniel W. Wynn, recently with Bishop College, will serve as acting chaplain.

Dr. Jackson Gets Dentistry Award

Herald

Jun. 8-18-53

Dr. Burnett L. Jackson, dental consultant at the John A. Andrew Memorial Hospital, was given an award for outstanding service in the field of dentistry from the governing council of the National Dental Association at its recent annual meeting in Philadelphia, Pa.

Tuskegee

Receiving similar awards at the same time were Dr. [illegible] Lombard Kelly, dean of the school of medicine at the University of Georgia, and Dr. Lonnie Smith, of Houston, Tex.

Nell Jackson, Sports Great Of Past Years, Is Added To Institute Staff

Nell Jackson, Tuskegee's sensational cinderpath performer, has joined the department of physical education and athletics.

Miss Jackson came to Tuskegee Institute when her parents moved here from Athens, Ga. She attended [illegible] elementary and high school at Tuskegee Institute. Upon graduating from the Tuskegee Institute High School in 1947, She entered Tuskegee Institute where she enrolled in the School of Physical Education, and in 1951, she received the bachelor of science degree with a major in health and physical education. After graduating from Tuskegee Institute, Nell began work toward the master of science degree in health and physical education at Wellesley College, Wellesley, Mass. She completed her work at Springfield College, Springfield, Mass., this Spring.

Jun. 10-6-53

Many honors and achievements have come to Nell both in high school and in college. Her high school honors include the following: Member of the state district basketball championship team from 1946 to 1947, serving as captain in 1947; member of the Tuskegee Institute track club during which time the club was the winner of the national A.A.U. championships from 1944 to 1947; member of the winning 440-yard relay team in 1947, and second in the 200-meter run from 1945 to 1947.

Her collegiate honors are enough to fill a record book. A few of the more important ones would include the following: Member of the A.A.U. All-American track and field team (1947 and '49, 200 meters); member of the 1948 U. S. Olympic Team in London, England; member of the 1951 Pan-American Olympic Team, Buenos Aires, Argentina, placed second in the 200 meters, and ran a leg on the winning 400 meter relay team; holder of the A.A.U. record for the 200 meters (24.2 seconds at Odessa, Tex., in 1949), and winner of the 200 meters championship, 1949-50.

While at Tuskegee she was active in basketball, track and field, tennis, and swimming. She received her Red Cross swimming instructor's certificate in 1949. Nell's hobbies are sports, photography, and listening to semi-classical music.

Campbell Project Is Given Funds

Herald

Dr. L. H. Foster announced this week that a fellowship grant, sponsored by the Ford Foundation of New York City, has been received by the Institute to support a project of T. M. Campbell Sr., retired field agent of the U S. D. A.

Jun.

The project, already under way, involves the completion of a report on the progress and problems of the Negro farmer in the United States with special emphasis on the growth of Extension work with Negro people.

Jun. 6-1-53

Tuskegee

Having served the Negro farmer more than 46 years as field agent for the United States Department of Agriculture, Mr. Campbell is well fitted for the assignment.

From his personal experiences in the work combined with well kept records, Mr. Campbell is expected to produce a report of outstanding importance.

10-1-53

Tuskegeeans At Florida A. & M. For Annual Clinic

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. — The twenty-seventh annual clinic and the twenty-fourth annual meeting of the Florida A. & M. College Clinical Association is being held Tuesday through Thursday at the college hospital and health center.

Among the outstanding guest clinicians slated to take part are several from Tuskegee, including Asa Yancey, M. D., Veterans Hospital; E. H. Dibble, M. D., John A Andrew Memorial Hospital; Alan P. Smith, M. D., Veterans Hospital; John Chenault, M. D., John A. Andrews Memorial Hospital; Miss Josephine Hadley, R. N., Veterans Hospital; Clifton O. Dummitt, D. D. S., chief of dental services, Veterans Nospital.

Dr. H. D. West, Meharry president, is slated to deliver the noon assembly address on Wednesday. Later in the evening Dr. Daily will deliver the annual banquet address in the college commons. He will cover experiences encountered while visiting Pakistan, India.

Dr. George W. Gore, Jr., A. and M. president, stated that all the facilities of the college have been placd at the disposal of the clinicians and the patients to make this year's clinic a success

Tuskegee Couple Has 50th Anniversary

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, Ala., Aug. 1—Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Evans will celebrate the 5th anniversary of their marriage here Wednesday, Aug. 12. They will receive their frends from 7 to 9 p.m., in Dorothy Hall Guests House, which is located on the Tuskegee Institute campus.

Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Holt, son-in-law and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Evans, have come from Okmulgee, Okla., for the celebration. Charles H. Evans Jr., and his wife are expected to arrive from Boston, Mass., and Mrs. Eleanor W. Wheeler, sister of Mrs. Evans, will come from Chicago.

Mrs. Evans is happily looking forward to another celebration as a similar nature in October. She was graduated from Tuskegee Institute in 1903 and the Institute has arranged to give special recognition to the graduates of the '03 Class who return to the campus for their fiftieth anniversary reunion.

Paine Dean Receives Award From Alumni

AUGUSTA, Ga. — At the 1953 annual meeting of the Paine College Alumni Association, Charles G. Gomillion, dean of students at Tuskegee institute, received the Alumni Association's Merit Award for meritorious service to his alma mater and to society. Gomillion was a member of the Paine college class of 1928.

Payne Honors C. G. Gomillion

AUGUSTA, Ga.—(SNS)—Charles G Gomillion, dean of students at Tuskegee Institute, was presented the "Alumni Association's Merit Award for meritorious service to his alma mater and society" at the 1953 annual meeting of the Paine College Alumni Association here.

Gomillion is a member of the Paine College class of 1928, and is currently serving as the secretary of the Board of Trustees. He is also national president of the Alumni Association, having been reelected to serve another two-year term.

Mr. Gomillion is well-known in Alabama and in the South for his work in civic and interracial organizations. He has held offices in, and appeared on the programs of such civic action and professional organizations as the Tuskegee Civic Association, the Alabama State Conference of NAACP branches, the Alabama Division of the Southern Regional Council, and the Southern Sociological Society. Recently, he wa selected to membership on the Board of Directors of the Southern Conference Educational Fund.

FOUR GENERATIONS — Above from left to right are Mrs. Edward Harris, of Philadelphia, great-grandmother, Mrs. Emory B. Smith Washington, widow of Judge Emory B. Smith, grandmother; Emory H. Smith, attorney, father; and Carolyn Smith the fourth generation, in the arms of her mother, Mrs. Thomasine F. Smith, formerly of Tuskegee, Ala.

Names Deans For Famcee

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (ANP) —Names of personnel to head schools and colleges at Florida A. & M. College were announced this week.

Dr. George W. Gore, Jr., president of France, has named the following persons—two of them newcomers—to serve as deans or acting deans for the coming year:

Dr. Mahlon C. Rhaney, dean of arts and sciences; Dr. C. E. Walker, dean, school of education; Dr. W. J. Maize, dean, graduate school.

Also, M. S. Thomas, dean, school of engineering and mechanic arts; Thomas M. Jenkins, acting dean, college of law; Queen E. Carter, dean, school of nursing education, and Howard McClain, acting dean, school of pharmacy.

Mrs. Carter At Atomic Plant To Study Technique

Lolla Patterson Carter, research assistant at the George Washington Carver Foundation, Tuskegee Institute, is studying the techniques of using radiosotopes in a course offered by the special training division of the Oak Ridge Institute of Nuclear Studies, Oak Ridge, Tenn. She is there for a period of four weeks.

Mrs. Carter is one of 32 research workers from throughout the country who are enrolled in this course which includes lecture and laboratory instruction and is designed to teach basic techniques of utilizing this versatile new research tool.

Radiosotopes—or "tracer atoms"—are by-products of the atomic energy program and have proved applicable to research in every branch of general science.

They are being used in some phases of medical research and therapy and in industrial research and development. They emit energy in the form of radiation, which can be located and measured at any stage of a complicated chemical or biological reaction; this enables scientists to follow such reactions closely.

Mrs. Carter who holds B. S. and M. S. degrees from Tuskegee Institute, is especially interested in using radioisotopes in biological feeding experiments with adult male rats. Her attendance at the Oak Ridge Institute of Nuclear Studies brings to four the number of persons from the Carver Foundation who have made the study.

Those previously attending were Dr. J. H. M. Henderson, Dr. Cecile Hoover Edwards, and Dr. Gerald A. Edwards.

THEIR GOLDEN DATE. In a charming reception in the Pine Room of Dorothy Hall on the campus of Tuskegee Institute Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Evans are surrounded by members of their family. From left are Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Holt of Wewoka, Okla., son-in-law and daughter; Christopher Evans, Live Oak, Fla., brother of Mr. Evans; the honoree; Mrs. Clifford W. Wheeler, Chicago, Ill., sister of Mrs. Evans; Charles H. Evans jr., Boston, Mass. and Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Johnon, Tuskegee Institute, nephew and niece.

'Skeegans Honored On Golden Wedding Date

TUSKEGEE INSTUTITE, Ala — Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Evans of this city observed their 50th wedding anniversary at a beautiful reception in the Pine Room of Dorothy Hall on the Institute campus.

The reception, held between 7 an 9 p. m., saw a constant stream of friends calling to extend congratulations and to felicitate the honored couple. Mrs. Dorinda M. Fair, close friend and classmate of Mrs. Evans and Mrs. Kate M. Mack were hostesses.

Mrs. Eugene H. Dibble, jr., and Mrs. T. T. Tilden presided at the punch bowls and Miss Thelma Lucas kept the guest register.

On a table on which were placed many congratulatory telegrams, letters, cards and numberous gifts was an attractively arranged tray containing highly prized pieces of paper which bore the likeness of former President U. S. Grant, gift of friends.

RETIRED INSTRUCTOR

Members of the Tuskegee chapter No. 150 Easter Star, of which Mrs. Evans has been a member over a long period of years, remembered the honorees with money also.

The table was centered with a basket of summer flowers, a token from local florists. Mr. Evans, a graduate of Hampton Istitute, was head of the division of carpentry at Tuskegee until his retirement a few years ago.

Mrs. Evans is a graduate of Tuskegee Institute, Class of 1903. She will observe her 50th reunion her class will be accorded special recognition by the Institute.

MRS. AMELIA C. ROBERTS

Mrs. Amelia C. Roberts, Instructor in Physical Education; Head Instruction for Women in Physical Education (1905- 1953) Passed-Friday, Sept.18,1953 John A. Andrew Hospital.

TUSKEGEE DEAN OF WOMEN AT CHARLES ST. CHURC

MRS. HATTIE E. WEST
Women's Day Speaker

November 15, 1953 - Women's Day at Charles Street A.M.E. Church, as planned by Mrs. Mary Artis and her group of Captains will be a glorious occasion.

The featured speaker for the day, Mrs. Hattie E. West, Dean of Women at Tuskegee Institute, Ala., leader of women's groups, noted educator, and a sister of Pastor W.C. Davis, will be introduced by Miss Gladys R. Holmes at morning service.

One need not go home for dinner, because a complete pre-Thanksgiving dinner will be served by Mrs. Ethel Morrison and her Stewardess Board No. 3. From 4-6 P.M. the ladies of the Church will honor Mrs. West at a Presentation Tea in the Church Dining Hall. At the close of evening services Mrs. West will crown the "Queen of Charles St. Church" and her Maid of Honor. This program was instituted to benefit the Parsonage Fund. The friends of Charles St. Church are invited to worship and fellowship with us all day.

Starred As 'De Lawd' In 'Pastures'

Was 82 At Time Of His Death In N.Y. Hospital

NEW YORK (ANP)—Charles Winter Wood, 82, actor, teacher, and minister who is best remembered for his portrayal of De Lawd in "The Green Pastures," died last week in Queens Hospital here after an illness of several months.

Born in Nashville, Tenn., Wood's family and educational background gave him adequate preparation to succeed Richard B. Harrison as De Lawd when the latter became ill on March 2, 1935 on the eve of his 1,658th performance.

Wood played the role until the close of play on March 14, 1935. Of his performance, a New York critic had only praise. Among other things, the critic said:

What Critic Said

"His playing is firm with sincerity. Particularly in the most compassionate scenes when the play gives him its best support —like the march into the Promised Land—Wood has the character. 'The Green Pastures' requires of its people."

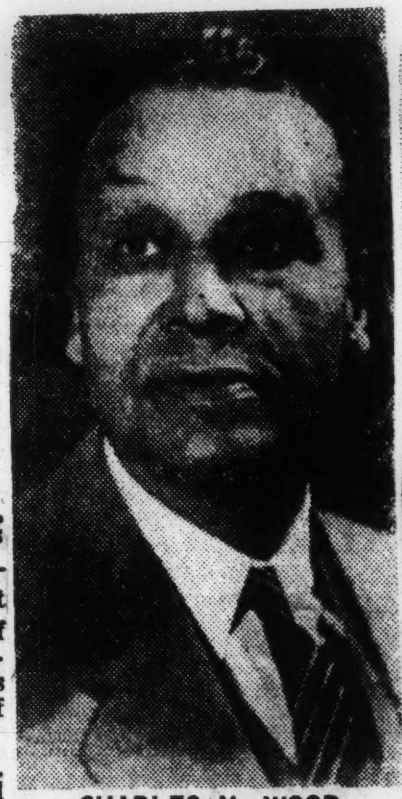
The son of a Methodist minister, Wood received his B.A. and M.A. from Beloit college, and a D.D. from Chicago Theological seminary. He preached for a while during his youth.

He later taught English, the drama and public speaking at Tuskegee Institute under the late Booker T. Washington.

He also directed his own plays, "In Defense of Him," and "College Life" at Tuskegee. He was director of th Tuskegee Players, and for 22 years he was Northern financial secretary of Tuskegee.

Taught At Bennett

Other schools where he taught included Bennett college, Greensboro, N.C., where he organized dramatic clubs, and Florida A. and M. College, Tallahassee.



CHARLES M. WOOD
'De Lawd' of Pastures'

Despite his long life of association with the stage, as teacher or actor, Wood probably will be remembered longer for his short career as De Lawd in the play by Marc Connelly.

"The Green Pastures" opened in New York on Feb. 26, 1930, with Harrison in the main role. Shortly afterwards Wood became Harrison's understudy.

The play went on to earn a Pulitzer prize, ran 640 performances here, played four road tours and reopened here on Feb. 26, 1935.

In 1949 Wood retired from acting and teaching to live at his Queens home here.

He is survived by a half-sister, Miss Ruth Stilwell.

MARRIED—President William J. Trent of Livingstone College, Salisbury, N.C., was married earlier this week to the former Miss Cleota Collins, dancing teacher, in New York City. The Rev. William E. Carrington of St. Catherine's AMEZ church, New Rochelle, N.Y., performed the ceremony at the home of his son, William J. Trent Jr., secretary, United Negro College Fund.

College Prexy, Socialite Wed

NEW YORK — William Johnson Trent, 79-year-old president of Livingstone college in Salisbury, N. C., was married to Miss Cleota Collins in New Rochelle Friday night, June 19.

The bride, a native of Columbus, Ohio, is the daughter of the late Judge Samuel Collins of that city. She is a concert singer and ex-school teacher.

The wedding took place at the home of William Trent, jr., and the ceremony was performed by the Rev. William E. Carrington of St. Catherine's AME Zion church in New Rochelle.

President Trent was attending the 132nd annual conference of the AME Zion church at Mood Memorial church here.

Tuskegee Dean Named To Encyclopedia Post

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, Ala., July 1—Dr. Alonzo J. Davis, dean of the School Education, Tuskegee Institute, has been appointed a member of the Advisory Board for the Doubleday Parent's Encyclopedia.

This encyclopedia is to be published by Doubleday and Company, New York. Sidonie M. Gruenberg is editor.

During the past term, Dr. Davis was a contributing author to the Encyclopedia of Vocational Guidance, published in two volumes by the philosophical library and edited by Oscar J. Kaplan.

Ex-Booker T. Washington Aide Buried In Georaia

BROOKLYN, N.Y.— Three Long Islanders returned last week from the funeral of their father, the late Rev. James H. Gadson, who was a Baptist preacher for 67 years and one of the first of his race to earn two college degrees, one at Morehouse College and the other at Virginia Union Theological seminary in the nineties.

Highest tribute was paid the 83-year-old leader at the rites in Macon, Ga., for his church educational and civic contributions. Among those paying homage to his achievements were two Atlantans, the Rev. William Holmes Borders, who delivered the eulogy, and the Rev. L. A. Pinkston, and the Rev. M. D. Whatley of Thankful Baptist church of Rome, Ga.

Survivors attending the services included his widow, Mrs. Nannie Hardeman Gadson, and his children, James H. Gadson Jr., and Anna Ruth Gadson, both of Corona, L. I., and Mrs. Nan Gadson Robeson of Brooklyn. His first wife, Mrs. Della M. Richardson-Gadson, died in 1942.

Never Left South

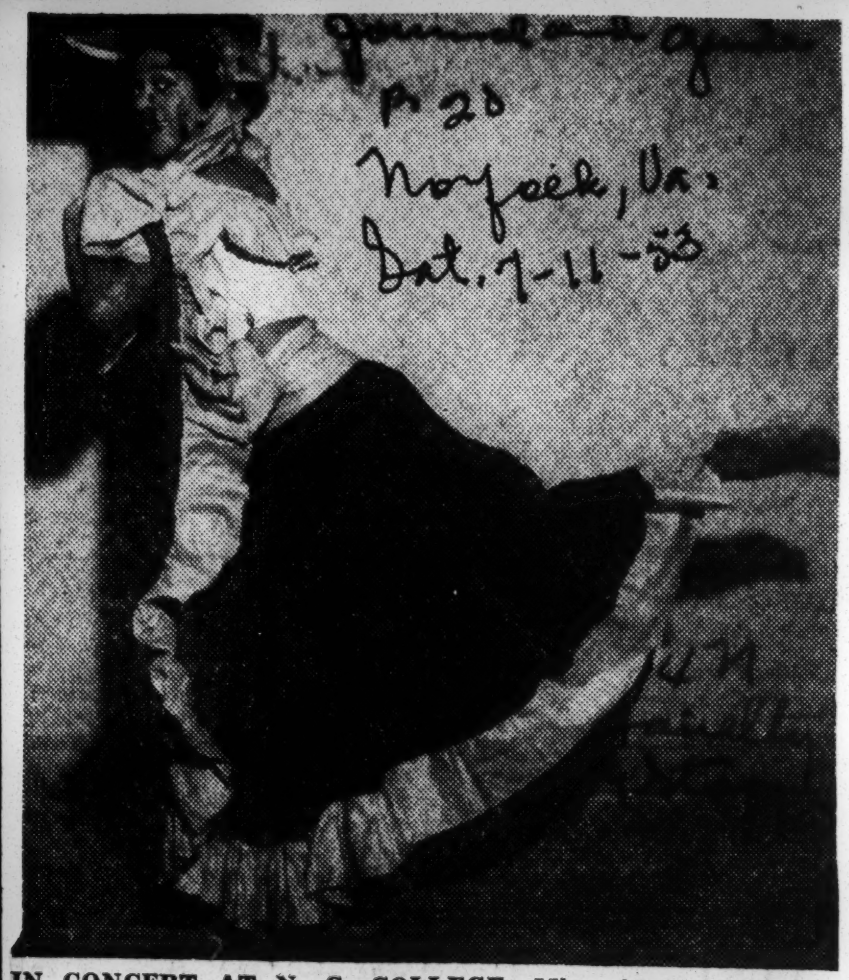
The Rev. Gadson never left his beloved South, where he was born in Augusta and where he said there was much to be done. Even after his retirement and retardment with failing eyesight, he continued to teach Sunday school at First Baptist church of Macon, and to fill occasional preaching engagements.

One of the Rev. Gadson's first charges was Mt. Oivet Baptist church in Tuskegee, Ala., where he also taught Old Testament Scripture and English under the late Booker T. Washington, who was one of his great admirers. Later he pastored Thankful Baptist church and was appointed president of Rome high school and Industrial institute.

Subequently he was elected president of Central City college and served as field worker for the Baptists of the state and as first president of Bryant Theological seminary for young ministers.

He was affiliated with all of his denominational associations and conventions locally and nationally. He also devoted much of his time to work for racial advancement and had been a member of the NAACP since its inception in Georgia.

EMPLOYED—Willa Jane Miller, 1953 graduate of the Atlanta University School of Social Work, is now employed as medical social worker with the John A. Andrews Clinic, Tuskegee Institute, Ala. Miss Miller hails from Welch, W. Va.



IN CONCERT AT N. C. COLLEGE—Miss Alaveta Hutson, chairman of the Dance department of the North Carolina College at Durham, will appear in the college's Duke Auditorium on Wednesday night, July 15, at 8:15 p. m.

The concert, a special presentation of the NCC Summer School, will be open to the general public without charge.

Miss Hutson formerly danced professionally with the Katherine Dunham Dance group. She has been enthusiastically received in several recent recitals in Eastern dance circles.

Dr. Alonzo J. Davis, dean of the School of Education, Tuskegee Institute, has recently been appointed a member of the advisory board for the Doubleday Parents' Encyclopedia.

This encyclopedia is to be published by Doubleday and Company of New York. Sidonie M.

Tuskegee Institute was represented at the recent 28th annual conference of the International Graphic Arts Education Association in New York City by Ignacio L. Guzman, of the School of Mechanical Industries.

Mr. Guzman, who has for many years been connected with the Printing Division, is now associate professor of printing and linotype and is in charge of photo-engraving.

While attending the conference, he was a member of a seven-man panel on "College, University, and Technical Training in the Graphic Arts."

Mr. Guzman reports that Tuskegee Institute was accepted as an institutional member of the Educational Council.

Following the conference, Mr. Guzman made many valuable contacts in the interest of the printing division.

Tuskegee Church Is Scene Of Prince-Kennedy Vows

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, Ala. —In an impressive double-ring ceremony on June 28, at the Greenwood Baptist Church, Miss Myllicent Kennedy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Warner Kennedy of Tuskegee Institute, married Robin Beecher Prince of Miami, Fla.

The Rev. T. R. Newman officiated.

Mrs. Emma Lou Roberts and Miss Jewette Reynolds furnished the music for the occasion. They were accompanied at the organ by Mrs. Beatrice Ashley.

The bride's attendants were Mrs. Dora Lee Hargrove, her sister from Langston, Okla., and Mrs. Norma Adamson Moreland, from Chicago.

THE BRIDE, who entered on the arm of her father chose a floor length gown of lace over ivory bridal satin with a fitted bodice of lace with a yoke of chiffon outlined in seed pearls and a high neckline of hands of lace and seed pearls. Tiny buttons covered with lace and satin lined the back from neck to waist. The fingertip veil of nylon illusion with a scalloped edge of chipped Chantilly lace was attached to a halo of Chantilly lace and seed pearls. She carried an airy spray of white roses tied with narrow white satin streamers.

Ushers were Oliver G. Prince, brother of the groom, from Atlanta, Ga., who served as best man, and Moses Beasley, James Bohannon, from Atlanta; Warner Kennedy Jr., from Washington, D. C., brother of the bride, and Dr. Louis F. Cason.

A reception was held immediately after the ceremony at the Kennedy residence on Washington avenue.

For her wedding trip to New York, the bride chose a pencil striped rayon and orlon suit with black patent accessories. Her corsage was white rosebuds.

After September 1, Mr. and Mrs. Prince will be at home in Miami, Fla.

A JOB WELL DONE — Is a phrase well fiting to Professor L P. O'Hara, Sr. shown above with his wife), who is retiring from his post at Talladega College, after thirty years of devoted and distinguished service to the institution as a teacher.

Prof. O'Hara, a native of Louisville, Ky., is a graduate of Fisk and Yale Universities and a member of the Omega Psi Phi Fraternity.

He also holds membership in Sigma Xi, American Association for the Advancement of Science and the Yale Chemistry Club. He has authored the research papers, "Chemistry Of Milk Proteins," "Chemistry of Seed Proteins,' 'and has done doctoral work in Physiology at the University of Chicago.

Before coming to Talladega, Professor O'Hara served as Head of the Department of Science at Cheyney School of Teachers, Pa.; Langston State University, Okla.; and Tuskegee Institute, Ala.

During the year Professor and Mrs. O'Hara have been felicitated and honored by many groups, one of the most outstanding affairs being the "Program of Songs" by the Omega Psi Phi Fraternity dedicated to Professor O'Hara.

The O'Haras will reside in St. Louis, Mo., where they will be near their son, Dr. L. P. O'Hara, Jr., a well known and successful Oral Surgeon of that city. Dr. O'Hara, Jr. is married to the former Geraldine Gore of St. Louis and they are the proud parents of three lovely children. A daughter, Minnie Elizabeth O'Hara, an honor graduate of Talladega College, having done the four year course in three years, is now the children's librarian at the Mott Haven Branch of the new New York Public Libraries.

The College Family, Alumni and many friends will indeed miss Prof. and Mrs. O'Hara and wish for them all the happiness in their new home and many, many more years of useful service.

Carver To Offer Business Courses

The Distributive Education Department at Carver Vocational School is announcing free courses to be offered in various phases of business for business managers, supervisors and employees.

Free classes will be offered in: salesmanship, business management (including restaurants), store mathematics and food cost control, purchasing, use and care of equipment, analysis of business trends, advertising and promotion, personnel organization and effective [illegible] speech.

Staffing the courses will be instructors from Jackson's, Inc. They are: Mortimer A. [illegible], assistant to the sales manager; R. R. Moton, Jr., executive vice-president, and Charles E. Taylor, comptroller.

Further information can be gotten from Mrs. Juliette E. Jackson, adult coordinator of distributive education, Carver Vocational School CY. 6902.

Claims African Music 'Better'

ACCRA, Ghana, B. W. A.—Tuskegee Director of Music William L. Dawson is here studying African music. Mr. Dawson said that he came to this country and found that African music was better than European because there was a lot of rhythm that "could hardly be found" in European music.

Ph. D. CANDIDATE — Carlon Winston Pryor, son of Mr. and Mrs. Swayze Merritt, 1824 Marshall, has been advanced to candidacy for the degree of Doctor of Philosophy at the University of Kansas, in an announcement by Dean J. E. Nelson. Mr. Pryor, a research fellow of the Federal Security Agency, is presently engaged in active research in the department of zoology and has recently published two technical papers concerning his fields of endeavor. He is a graduate of Dunbar and received his Masters last June. He was recently elected to full membership in the Rochester Sigma Xi, honorary research society for individuals in pure and applied sciences.

MABEL EVANS
... extends milling program

Ex-Tuskegee Staffer Joins Millers' Body

CHICAGO—Mabel Eugenia Evans, formerly head of foods and nutrition at Tuskegee Institute, has joined the staff of the Wheat Flour Institute, Chicago, as regional nutritionist.

Miss Evans will extend the milling industry program of nutrition, nutrition education, and home economics in areas of high Negro population.

Preliminary planning for this new phase of institute activity has already been launched, with a meeting of leading Negro educators at Atlanta University.

Plans call for similar meetings at North Carolina Agricultural and Technical College, Greensboro; Howard University, Washington, D. C.; Tuskegee Institute, Ala.; Grambling College, Grambling, La., and Florida A. & M. College at Tallahassee.

Engagement Announced

MISS ETHEL TOWNS HARVEY

Miss Ethel Towns Harvey whose engagement is announced today by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Burwell Towns Harvey to Lieutenant Stanley Georges, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph O. Georges of Flushing, Long Island. The marriage will take place later this month.

Moton Joins Atlanta Firm

Menelik Jackson, president of Jackson's Inc., 185 Auburn Ave., N. E., announces the appointment of Mr. Robert R. Moton, Jr., as Executive Vice President of the Company.

In training and in experience,

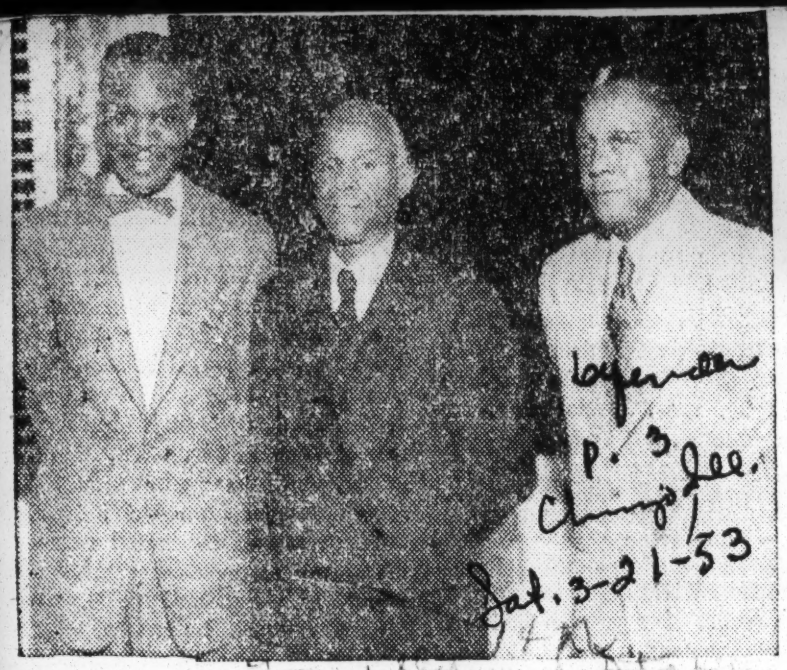
ROBERT R. MOTON, JR.

Mr Moton is unusually well qualified for his new position at Jackson's. After graduating from Tuskegee, where he attended the elementary school, the high school and the college, he did graduate work at New York University and Chicago University in the area of Business Administration in which his experience has been most vast.

For many years he worked as secretary to his late father, Dr. Robert R. Moton; served as Director of Negro Affairs, under the National Youth Administration, for the State of Alabama; Field Director and Assistant Secretary of the National Negro Business League; Assistitute. For a time he was also Assistant to the President and Secretary to the Board of Trustees at Tuskegee Institute. These varied positions of responsibility successfully filled by Mr. Moton certainly attest to his administrative ability and integrity.

But Mr. Moton is not only a well trained business man, he is a constructive civic worker whose interests lie in many ways. During his tenure at Tuskegee, he served as Chairman of the Athletic Committee; he was a member of the Executive Council as well as a member of the Faculty Club House Committee. He was the manager of the Tuskegee Institute Choir and Treasurer of the Local Chapter of the American Red Cross. He was also Secretary and Board member of the Tuskegee Federal Savings and Loan Association. He is a member in good standing of certain organizations like the National Association of Education Buyers, College and University Personnel Association, IBPOE of W, and Kappa Alpha Psi Fraternity.

Moton was born in Elizabeth County, Hampton Institute, Virginia. He is married to the former Laura Nicks of St. Petersburg, Fla., and Atlanta. Many will remember her as a teacher in the public school system here. The Motons have two children, a son, Robert; a daughter, Maricia. The Motons are members of the late President Robert R and Mrs Moton, young



RELIGIOUS EMPHASIS WEEK AT FAMCEE — These three person. played important parts in the annual Religious Emphasis Week observance held recently at Florida A and M college, Tallahassee. Left to right, Dr. Carlton L. Lee, chaplain, Tuskegee Institute; Dr. James Hudson, chaplain, A. and M., and Rev. R. A. Jackson, ...stor, Allen Chapel AME church, Daytona-Beach. ...

Tuskegee Tourists Entertain At Home Following Criuse

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, Ala., April 12—Mr. and Mrs. Walter T. Shehee and Mrs. A. G. Wright, Cleveland, O., sister of Mrs. Shehee, were at home Wednesday evening from 6 to 8 in the Pine dining room of Dorothy Hall.

Mr. and Mrs. Wright had just returned from a 39-day cruise to South America and since Mrs. Shehee's birthday and Mrs. Wright's birthday were just two days apart Mrs. Wright hurried to Tuskegee so that the two sisters could have a double natal day celebration.

In the receiving line with the honored guests in addition to Mrs. Shehee and Mrs. Wright, were Dr. Donald Hackley, a cousin, a member of the medical staff at the U.S. Veterans Hospital, Tuskegee, Ala.; Mrs. U. M. Downs of Cleveland, who accompanied Mrs. Wright to Tuskegee, and Shehee.

The hostesses who assisted in receiving were Mrs. J. Julius Flood, Mrs. Harold Webb, Mrs. Walter Pitts, Miss Beulah Cooper, Mrs. J. A. Kennedy, Mrs. Clarence W. Hunt, Mrs. Eugene H. Dibble Jr., Mrs. A. P. Smith, Mrs. Luther H. Foster Jr., Mrs. Theodore Matthews, Mrs. Kate M. Mack, Mrs. Edward L. Patterson and Miss Grace Pitts, who kept the guest book.

Lovely native spring flowers artistically arranged on the tables made a beautiful setting for this most enjoyable occasion.

More than 100 guests came to honor the sisters, but were not aware of the double birthday celebration until they reached the dining room and saw the birthday cake.

Wright, a prominent and successful business man in Cleveland, who had arranged to come to Tuskegee to enjoy the occasion with his family and friends, was detained on urgent matters which arose at the time he planned to leave Cleveland for the South.

Alumni Honor Tuskegee Dean

At the 1953 meeting of the Paine College Alumni Association held here Charles Gomillion, dean at Tuskegee In., was presented the Alumni Association's Merit Award.

Mr. Gomillion, a member of the Paine college class of 1928 is currently serving as the secretary of the board of trustets, and is national president-elect of the alumni association.

He is well-known in Alabama and in the South for his work in civic and interracial organizations.

Named Executive Vice President

Robert Moton Jr. Has Key Post As Jackson, Inc. Administrator

ATLANTA — Menelik Jackson, president of Jackson's, Inc., 185 Auburn Avenue, N.E., announces the appointment of Robert R. Moton Jr., as executive vice president of the company.

In training, and in experience, Mr. Moton is unusually well qualified for his new position at Jackson's. After graduating from Tuskegee Institute—where he attended the elementary school, the high school, and the college—he did graduate work at New York and Chicago Universities in the area of business administration.

For many years he worked as secretary to his late father, Dr. Robert R. Moton, president of Tuskegee Institute; served as director of Negro Affairs, under the National Youth Administration, for the State of Alabama; field director and assistant secretary of the National Negro Business League; assistant purchasing agent and later purchasing agent at Tuskegee Institute.

For a time he was also assistant to the president and secretary to the board of trustees at Tuskegee Institute.

The son of the late President Robert R. and Mrs. Moton, young Moton was born in Elizabeth City County, Hampton Institute, Va. He is married to the former Laura Nicks of St. Petersburg, Fla., and Atlanta. Many will remember her as a teacher in the public school system here. The Motons have two children, a son, Robert; a daughter, Maricia. The Motons are members of St. Andrew Episcopal Church.

When Mr. Moton joins Jackson's, Inc., June 1, another landmark in the expansion and growth of this institution will be reached.

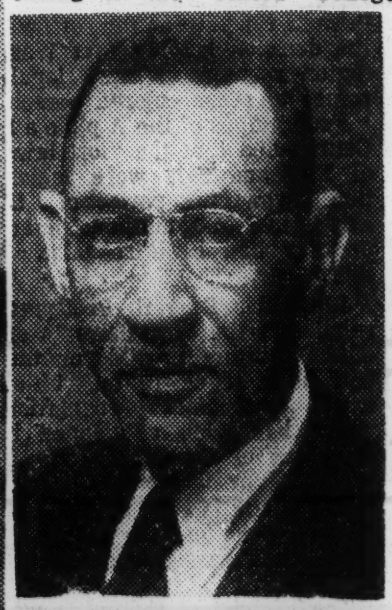
ROBERT MOTON JR.

Neal Back After Two Months Study Of India Problems

Ernest Neal, member of the Ford Foundation group of six persons recently invited to India by the Indian Conference of Social Work and the Indian Ministry of Education, returned to Tuskegee Institute after a two months stay in India. During the first month, Mr. Neal attended international conferences on child welfare and social work and also a seminar on India. The second month Mr. Neal served as a consultant on the Point Four technical cooperative adminstrative program in the fields of village housing and village community development.

UNCF Conducting Study Of Members' Efficiency

NEW YORK—During a recent board meeting, the presidents of the 31 member colleges participating in the United College Fund authorized the UNCF to conduct a study of possible additional areas of cooperation between the member institutions, looking toward improving the operational efficiency of these institutions while also saving them money.



G. L. WASHINGTON

The announcement was made at Fund Headquarters by W. J. Trent Jr., UNCF executive director, who pointed out that any steps taken by the member college following completion of the study would be carried out on a purely voluntary basis.

The study will be conducted by G. L. Washington, a graduate engineer, who has been retained for a year, after which time the presidents will determine whether to develop a special division of the Fund to carry out the study's recommendations.

GOES TO POLIO PARLEY—Mrs. Laura N. Jones, principal of the Chambliss Children's House and secretary of the Tuskegee Institute Chapter of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, was in Memphis Tuesday for the area meeting called by Basil O'Conner, national chairman. The meeting is being held at the Costica Hotel and will serve as a report to the people who last year gave a record amount in the annual March of Dimes.

Guzman Attends New York Parley

Herald

Tuskegee Institute was represented at the recent 28th annual conference of the International Graphic Arts Education Association in New York City by Ignacio L. Guzman, of the School of Mechanical Industries.

Mr. Guzman, who has for many years been connected with the Printing Division, is now associate professor of printing and linotype and is in charge of photo-engraving.

Tues 6-30-53

While attending the conference, he was a member of a seven-man panel on "College, University, and Technical Training in the Graphic Arts."

Tuskegee

Mr. Guzman reports that Tuskegee Institute was accepted as an institutional member of the Educational Council.

Following the conference, Mr. Guzman made many valuable contacts in the interest of the printing division.

Davis Named On Advisory Board

Herald

Dr. Alonzo J. Davis, dean of the School of Education, Tuskegee Institute, has recently been appointed a member of the advisory board for the Doubleday Parents' Encyclopedia.

Tues 6-30-53

This encyclopedia is to be published by Doubleday and Company of New York. Sidonie M. Gruenberg is editor.

Tuskegee

During the past term, Dr. Davis was a contributing author to the Encyclopedia of Vocational Guidance, which was published in two volumes by the Philosophical Library and edited by Oscar J. Kaplan.

14n 1953

FACULTY AND STAFF

ADMINISTRATIVE APPOINTMENTS
BY-DR. L.H. FOSTER,JR.

Tuskegee Fills 3 Key Posts

Logan, Fernandes, Bryant Appointed

TUSKEGEE, Ala.—In a move to fill key administrative positions left vacant by promotions and other causes, Dr. L. H. Foster, newly elected president of Tuskegee Institute, announced this week several important appointments.

Succeeding him in his former position as business manager will be Harold K. Logan. who, since 1950, has served as purchasing agent for the institute.

James W. Bryant was appointed, in addition to his duties as resident auditor, to serve as acting secretary to the Tuskegee board of trustees. This position was formerly held by Robert R. Moton Jr., assistant to the president, who resigned on June 1 to enter private business in Atlanta, Ga.

Fernandes Named

Appointed to fill the position of purchasing agent was John A. Fernandes, former manager of the institute book store.

In these three key positions the president has placed men with whom he has been closely associated over a period of years and in whom he places great confidence.

The 41-year-old newly appointed business manager, Mr. Logan, was born in Denver, Colo. He is the foster son of the late Warren Logan who served as treasurer of Tuskegee Institute under Dr. Washington's and Dr. Moton's administrations.

He attended high school at Tuskegee ,holds an A.B. degree from Talladega College and the master of business administration degree from New York University. He has been continuously employed by the institute since returning from overseas Army duty in 1946. He is married and has two children, a son and a daughter.

Both In Thirties

Mr. Bryant, new secretary to the board of trustees, is 37 and was born in Richland, Ga. He holds a bachelor of science degree in business administration from Tuskegee (1938), and the master of business administration degree from the University of Pennsylvania. He and his wife, who is also an alumnus of Tuskegee, have two children.

Mr. Fernandes, new purchasing agent, is 34, and was born in Massachusetts. He attended the Massachusetts State college at Amherst. He has a wife and three children.

MR. AND MRS. THOMAS T. WILLIAMS
wed in Tuskegee, Ala.

Evelyn Moore Marries Thomas Williams in Ala.

TUSKEGEE, Ala. — Evelyn Louise Moore and Thomas Thackeray Williams were married at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Moore on Fonville Street, in a recent ceremony. The Rev. Charles W. Kelley, pastor of Greenwood Baptist Church, performed the double ring ceremony.

Nuptial music was rendered by Mrs. Frederick Thomas, organist. She accompanied Mrs. James Cooper who sang.

Sherman Webster served as best man for the bridegroom, who is the son of Mrs. Eliza Williams and the late George Williams of Roanoke Rapids, N. C. Mrs. Herbert Sexton, cousin of the bride, was honor matron and only attendant.

The bride approached the altar on the arm of her father who gave her in marriage. She wore a short sleeve waltz length gown fashioned of white satin overlaid with imported Chantilly lace which formed an apron affect reaching to the hem of the wide skirt around the back. The fitted bodice had tiny self-covered buttons down the back and featured a high round neckline. The long satin gloves ended in points over the hands. She wore a fingertip veil of nylon illusion with head dress of seeded pearls. The bride carried a white satin Bible topped with a detachable white purple-throated orchid and showered with feathered carnations and dainty tie. Her jewels were a string of pearls and matching earrings, a gift of the groom.

A reception at the home of the bride's parents followed the ceremony.

Aides were Mrs. James R. Jones, Mrs. Lemuel Locklair, Miss Ann Crawle; Mmes. Sherman Webster, Edward L. Patterson, Wilson Allen, Theodore Gaillard, Nicholas Kollock, Willie P. Reed, James Harris and Allen Walton.

The couple left for a brief wedding trip to North Carolina, Delaware and New York. Upon their return, Mr. Williams will entrain for Ohio State University, where he is studying toward his doctorate degree.

The bride is presently employed at the Veterans Administration Hospital.

Ex-Tuskegean Named Nutritionist For Wheat Concern

CHICAGO. — (ANP) - Miss Mabel Eugenia Evans, formerly head of foods and nutrition at Tuskegee Institute, has been appointed to the staff of the Wheat Flour Instiute here as regional nutritionist.

Miss Evans will extend the milling industry program of nutrition, nutrition education, and home economics in areas of high Negro population.

Preliminary planning for this new phase of institute activity began last week with a meeting of leading Negro educators at Atlanta university.

Plans calls for similar meetings at North Carolina A&T college, Greensboro; Howard university, Washington; Tuskegee Institute, Alabama; Grambling college, Grambling, La., and Florida A&M college, Tallahassee.

Miss Evans will represent the milling industry in calls on editors, school authorities, dietitians, nutritionists, home economists, public health workers, extension leaders and other professional people.

Miss Evans, the daughter of the late Mrs. Grace Evans, noted politician of Terre Haute, Ind., is graduate of Indiana State Teachers college, the University of Wisconsin, and has studied at Columbia university.

Besides her work in nutrition at Tuskegee, she has served as foods editor of "Our World" magazine, and conducted a Nutrition Workshops at Howard university. She also conducted the "Bettern Pattern of Living Food clinic" in Toledo, Ohio.

She is a member of Pi Lambda Theta, and Kappa Delta Pi, honorary fraternities, and Alpha Kappa Alpha sorority.

DECEASED
SECOND GREEN PASTURES
LAWD PASSES AT 82.
New York-June 11(AP)
CHARLES WINTER WOOD, 82, college teacher who was the second actor to "De Lawd" in Green Pastures" in 1935 died yesterday. ....
He taught at Tuskegee Institute before and after his stage career. .....
SEE: Code 29
News. p. 16
Birmingham, Ala.
Thurs. 6-11-53

DR. CARLETON L. LEE, chaplain, Tuskegee Institute, Ala., will deliver the baccalaureate sermon at Alcorn A and M college August 31. Dr. Lee has worked with the Southern Area Council YMCA in Atlanta; has taught philosophy at Atlanta university summer school and has served as acting dean of Turner Theological Seminary of Morris Brown college.

GOMILLION GIVEN ALUMNI AWARD AT PAINE COLLEGE.

At the annual meeting of the Paine College Alumni Assn. .... Charles G. Gomillion, Dean of Students at Tuskegee Inst. was presented the Assn's Merit Award for meritorious service to his Alma Mater and to society.
Herald P.1
Tuskegee, Ala.
Tues. 6-9-53

MR. AND MRS. HOWARD CARTER
. . . simple rites at Tuskegee Institute, Ala.

In Tuskegee Institute, Ala.

Lolla Mae Patterson Weds Howard Carter

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, Ala. —Lolla Mae Patterson was united in marriage to Howard Carter in an impressively simple ceremony recently with the Rev. Willis C. Henderson, vicar of St. Andrew Episcopal Mission, officiating.

The service opened with the singing of the "Lord's Prayer" by Anne Elliot, senior at Tuskegee Institute, with Julius Carroll at the organ. Then entered the vicar and Erle Williams, the best man, with the groom, Howard Carter Jr., to station themselves at the chancel step to attend the bridal party.

Carole Patterson, maid of honor, chose a blue tulle coronation gown with redingote of blue lace, all overlaid upon satin. She carried a nosegay of pink rose buds with satin streamers, and wore a matching blue headdress trimmed with seed pearls.

WEARS TRADITIONAL WHITE

The bride, who entered on the arm of her father, Edward Patterson, wore a coronet of white seed pearls and a white gown matching that of her sister, except that the foundation was of heavy ice-blue satin, which gave a very delicate effect under the voluminous white tulle skirt with its self train. Miss Patterson carried a white prayer book and a white purple-throated orchid tied with long, narrow, white satin streamers.

The bridegroom and best man wore evening attire with white boutonnieres.

After the beautiful ceremony and blessing at the altar, Miss Anne Elliot sang a wedding hymn, following which the party went on its way to the reception at Dorothy Hall where was received the congratulations of some 500 wedding guests.

The ushers included: Singer Buchanan, Ernest Holland, Joseph Fuller Jr., George Busby Jr. and Dr. Edward Braye.

OUT-OF-TOWN GUESTS

Out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. Howard Carter Sr., of Houston, Tex., parents of the groom; Mrs. Louise Jones, godmother of the groom, of Galveston, Tex.; Mrs. Lillie Mitchell of Houston, Tex.; Reuben S. Taggett of Tuscaloosa, Ala.; Mr. and Mrs. George Elliot of Albany, Ga.; Dr. and Mrs. Thomas Brewer of Columbus, Ga., and Edward Patterson Jr., professor of law at Southern University, Baton Rouge, La.

Mrs. B. L. Jackson presented the guests to the receiving line. In the line were Mr. and Mrs. Edward Patterson, the bride and groom, Mr. and Mrs. Carter Sr., the Rev. Willis C. Henderson, Carole Patterson and Erle Williams.

To direct the guests from the receiving line to the register were Mrs. T. T. Tildon, Mrs. E. H. Dibble, Mrs. John Chenault, and Mrs. Asa Yancey. Nell C. Jackson and Elizabeth Tildon served as registrars.

To assist with the huge display of wedding gifts were Mrs. J. B. F. Williams, Mrs. K. B. May, Mrs. R. L. Waggener, Mrs. B. J. Beard, Mrs. M. L. Hemmons, Mrs. J. H. Blas and Mrs. E. L. Fears.

Among other aides were Mrs. T. W. Jones, Mrs. A. P. Mack, Mrs. Theodosia Kelley, Mrs. Thomas Brewer of Columbus, Ga.; Mrs. Curtis Franklin, Mrs. W. S. Allen, Mrs. G. W. A. Johnston, Mrs. Ethel Yates, Mrs. Harriet Booth, Mrs. Mai G. Young, Mrs. Bessie Scott and Mrs. Corinne Steele.

Other ladies who assisted Mrs. Dorothy C. Williams, who was in charge of the reception, were Mmes. J. E. Newton, T. Nofles, J. H. Holtzclaw, W. E. Lewis, E. Neal, L. A. Hayden, J. T. Bracken, M. J. Moore, Sara Jean Moseley, D. Trader, Elaine Thomas, L. Washington, J. J. Flood, Pearl Hunt, R. A. Jones, and the Misses Anne Dixon, Anne Cralle, June Holland, Marjorie Holland, Ann Dibble, Clarice Dibble, Louise Stivers, Constance Matthews, Juanita Matthews and Jewette Reynolds.

FISK DEAN MARRIES—In an informal ceremony in a church in her hometown, Winton, N. C., Dr. Ruth Brett, dean of students at Fisk University, became the bride of Dr. Benjamin A. Quarles, dean of Dillard University. The bride was graduated from Shaw and Columbia Universities. She has served as dean at several other institutions. The couple plan to live at Dillard University.—(ANP)

New Dietitian At Wilberforce Univ.

WILBERFORCE, Ohio — The new dietitian at Wilberforce University is Mrs. Dorothy Howard Chapman, of Hot Springs, Ark. Before coming to Wilberforce University, Mrs. Chapman served as dietitian at both Tuskegee Institute in Alabama and Bennett College in Greensboro, N. C. She is a graduate of the Tuskegee School of Commercial Dietitic and was "Miss Tuskegee" during the school year 1941-42. In addition to the above activities, Mrs. Chapman did special service for the War Department at Camp Butner, Durham, N. C., during the past war.

MRS. CHAPMAN

Sigma Xi Club Established At Tuskegee Inst.

Installation ceremonies for the Tuskegee Institute Club of the Society of the Sigma Xi were held Tuesday night on the Institute campus. Dr. George H. Boyd, den campus. Dr. George H. Boyd, dean of the Graduate School of the University of Georgia, served as the installing officer.

Installation activities were held at a banquet in the new Pine Dining Room of the Institute Guest House. The ceremonies included the granting of a charter to the Tuskegee Institute Sigma Xi Club, the ratification of the club by-laws, and the installation of officers.

Charter members of the Tuskegee Institute Sigma Xi Club are staff members of various departments on the Institute campus: School of Agriculture, School of Engineering, School of Home Economics, School of Veterinary Medicine, and the Carver Foundation They are Drs. R. W. Brown, Louis F. Cason, William C. Curtis, I. A. Derbigny, Cecile Hoover Edwards Gerald A. Edwards, Charles M Ford, J. H. M. Henderson, Clarence T. Mason, R. D. Mayberry Reuben A. Munday, and Alfreda J Webb. The charter members had previously been elected to membership in the Society of the Sigma Xi at the university or college which each had attended.

The officers of the Tuskegee Institute Club are R. W. Brown, president; Charles M. Ford, vice president; Cecile Hoover Edwards, secretary; and Alfreda J. Webb, treasurer.

Following the banquet, there was a scientific lecture by Dr. William Pollard, executive director of the Oak Ridge Institute of Nuclear Studies. The subject of Dr. Pollard's address was "The Origin of the Elements."

Having done research in many specific fields of physics, Dr. Pollard is nationally and internationally known. He is a member of Phi Beta Kappa, Phi Kappa Phi, the Mathematical Association of America, the American Physical Society, the Tennessee Academy, and the Society of Sigma Xi. He was recently elected a fellow of Sigma Xi clubs have now been established at three Negro schools—Howard University, Fisk University and Tuskegee Institute. Research in the Natural Sciences at Tuskegee Institute is conducted through the Carver Foundation. This research at the Institute is conducted through the various academic departments. Sigma Xi is devoted to the encouragement of original investigation in science, pure and applied. It was founded at Cornell University in 1886 and incorporated in 1942. Since its founding more than 100 chapters and clubs have been established at various colleges and universities in the United States, Canada and Mexico. Members are elected to Sigma Xi in recognition of their research abilities in the primarily the sciences. In addition, he has served as consultant to several large industrial corporations. The granting of a club or chapter is considered to be a high honor in recognition of the research being conducted at the institution. Following areas: agronomy, chemistry, organic chemistry and physical chemistry. Specific research projects in these areas are sponsored by governmental agencies or by private companies. Other scientific research at Tuskegee Institute is conducted through the Carver Foundation includes work in chemistry, poultry husbandry, bacteriology, plant physiology, bio-

14n 1953

Tuskegee Honors Capt. Alvin Neely With Silver Plaque

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, Ala. — In a deserved surprise that pleased everyone, Capt. Alvin J. Neely, who for more than four decades, served as registrar, dean of men, executive secretary of the Tuskegee General Alumni Association, was given a plaque containing a silver dollar for each of his 45 years of service at Tuskegee Institute by a group of friends at the regular monthly meeting of the Tuskegee Institute Chapter of the Alumni Association Tuesday night, in the Alumni Hut on the Tuskegee campus. Capt. Neely's life was part and parcel of Tuskegee Institute from the time he entered until he retired recently.

Gaining his inspiration from Booker T. Washington, he took strong pride in the fact that service to one's school, one's community and to one's fellowman constituted the very essence of education. His long service in the registrar's office and as dean of men endeared him to countless Tuskegee graduates because of the help he gave them in getting an education.

Capt. Neely, a veteran of many public appearances, was completely surprised when Mr. Andrew W Walker arose and began to enumerate the contributions made by the former registrar and presented him with a plaque, artistically designed by Mrs. Elaine Freeman Thomas, of the Art Department, with the silver dollars attractively arranged in numerals "45."

The special dance feature performed by Misses Barbara D. Williams, "Miss Tuskegee," Letitia Smith and Ann White, was an attractive interlude in the program which elicited praise from those present on the skill, precision and beauty displayed by the dancers.

A medley of songs with Mrs. Ruth West Adams at the piano in which everyone present joined in singing was another most enjoyable feature of the evening most pleasantly spent in a fitting tribute to a veteran worker.

Mrs. Laura Buck McCray served as chairman of the committee which arranged the program for the April meeting. Assisting Mrs. McCray in the arrangements for this delightful affair were Mrs Ruth Peterson, Miss Ruth Wright, Mrs. Harriet Webb, Mr. James E. Snowden and Mr. D. C. Webb.

Great American Negro Music Composer Arrives For Research

Mr William L. Dawson, Director of Music at Tuskegee Institute in Alabama, who is studying West African music, arrived in Lagos yesterday from Cotonu, French Dahomey.

Mr Dawson, one of the outstanding students of American Negro folk music, plans to spend several weeks studying the music of Nigeria.

He has already heard and recorded indigenous music of Sierra Leone, Liberia, the Gold Coast, and Dahomey.

Born in Anniston, Alabama, Mr Dawson was educated at Tuskegee Institute, Washburn College in Topeka, Kansas, the Chicago Musical College, the Horner Institute of Fine Arts where he received the Bachelor of Music degree, and the American Conservatory in Chicago where he received the Master of Music degree.

He studied privately under Carl Busch.

COMPOSITIONS

For three years Mr Dawson was first trombonist with the Chicago Civic Orchestra.

He played also with several of the leading jazz bands of the famous "Chicago period" in the history of American popular music.

Since 1931, Mr Dawson has been Director of Music at Tuskegee and Director of the Tuskegee Institute Choir which he has conducted in appearances at Radio City Music Hall in New York, in concerts in many sections of the United States, and on nation-wide radio broadcasts.

His arrangements of Negro folk songs are sung by concert artists and university and professional choirs.

Among Mr Dawson's compositions are, "Negro Folk Symphony Number 1," and "Scherzo," for orchestra; "Break, Break, Break" for chorus with orchestra; and "Trio in A" for violencello and piano, and "Sonata in A" for violin and piano.

Mr Dawson To Tour Villages In Search Of Ancient Music

For 65 minutes, soft-spoken, six foot-three Mr William Dawson, Director of Music at Tuskegee Institute, Alabama, USA, spoke passionately to the West African Pilot on what he described as the "romance of indigenous music." He spoke as a talented scholar of music, with a thorough grasp of the history of the evolution of Negro music.

Mr Dawson not only displayed a remarkable skill in being able to hum off scores of African musical tunes that he heard on the West Coast of Africa, but his love for them.

He plans to spend 14 days in Nigeria, touring remote villages and listening to local original indigenous music.

At any time from now, he will fly to the Eastern Region to hear old and young men sing their old songs recalling some pleasant memories and perhaps chant their sacred war songs.

ON HIS OWN

"I am not a commercial composer, and I have come out to Africa on my own, just for the love of listening to the music of my great ancestors," remarked Mr Dawson, when asked if he would sell his recordings in America.

From the age of 15, he said, he had met Africans in America, who sang to him their romantic songs and he in turn sang for them Negro folk songs.

"Since then, I had longed to come to Mother Africa, not only to get greater inspiration from their music, but to see also their way of life and people — I am glad that dream has come true," he added with deep emotion.

Mr Dawson holds a Master's degree in music and is one of the greatest composers in America, drawn from the Negro race.

Music, he said, is life to him and is an international language that he had given a greater part of his life to study.

INSPIRATION

From listening to local music, he hoped to get inspiration for his future compositions.

In 1934, his composition, the "Negro Folk Symphony," was played at the World Premiere by the famous Philadelphia Philharmonic Orchestra, conducted by the internationally reputed Mr Leopold Stokowski.

He also, in 1932, had the singular honour of conducting his 100 Tuskegee choir, that sang in the Music Hall, Radio City, New York, with a sitting capacity of 6,500.

In the United States of America, and throughout the world, Mr Dawson is regarded as a great scholar that has showed Negro ability in music, as Mr Joe Louis, the Brown Bomber, did in boxing.

When Mr Dawson leaves Nigeria around February 16, he will not only carry with him the inspiration of the music of his race and ancestors, but will become an ambassador of cordial Afro-American relations.

25-Year Keys Are Given 3 In Tuskegee

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, Ala. May 13—At the Sunday Vesper service in the chapel, Dr. F. D. Patterson, president, C. G. Gomillion, dean of students, and Mrs. Irene Jones McCoy, research clerk, department of records and research, received gold keys and certificates for having worked at Tuskegee Institute for 25 years.

Addressing the group on this occasion was President J. R. Otis of Alcorn A. and M. College, Alcorn, Miss., who, himself, served the institute for twenty-one years before going to Alcorn.

He said, "All man has to offer the world is his service. All service is equal in importance, if not in value. In the sceme of affairs at Tuskegee, from its very beginning, the service of the lowly janitor was quite as important as that of the august treasurer or the illustrious president.

No man has a monopoly on the quality of service he renders because of his position or his place in the affairs of men. This award is for period of service, not for nature of service. All work, honestly and intelligently done, is equally honorable."

Dr. Otis also stated that all men appreciative of the great contribution that Tuskegee Institute has made over the years "reverently wish and pray that its standards will not be lowered" by a change of administration.

A member of the local chapter of the Tuskegee Institute Alumni Association, Woodia Pryce, presented a special citation from that group to Dr. Patterson during this service, and a token which the spokesman said was intended to express their "love" for him.

Tuskegee Institute president at a reception on the campus last week.

The scroll was the highlight of a tribute paid to Dr. Patterson, who will retire as president, June 1, and his wife, Catherine Moton Patterson.

Also presented to Dr. Patterson and his wife were watches donated by the Tuskegee family.

Miss Barbara Williams, "Miss Tuskegee" for 1953, made the presentation to Mrs. Patterson, and Cedric Thompson, president of the student-faculty council, presented the watch to Dr. Patterson.

Received Other Honors

Later Dr. Patterson was one of several persons at Tuskegee who received gold keys and certificates of appreciation for having worked at the institution for 25 years.

Principal speaker for the service was Dr. J. R. Otos, president of Alcorn A. and M. college, Alcorn, Miss., who served Tuskegee for some 21 years before going to Alcorn.

Besides Dr. Patterson, other persons honored were C. G. Comillion, dean of students, and Mrs. Irene Jones McCoy, research clerk, department of records and research.

School Cites Retiring Prexy

Dr. Patterson At Tuskegee 25 Years

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, Ala. (ANP)—A scroll, containing "An Appreciation" to Dr. F. D. Patterson, was presented to the

THESE FOUR OPERATORS (photo at left) represent examples of outstanding results obtained by applying business principles to the business of farming. Left to right, J. D. Lewis, Shorter, Ala., who operates self-owned plantation; Bob Binion, Epes, Ala., successful operator of a family-sized farm; Mrs. Mamie J. Marbley, business woman and farm operator of York, Ala., and Lee Harris, Mound Bayou, Miss., planter and business man. In photo at right, Rev. R. D. Gragg, Pushmatha, Ala., receives "Rural Pastor of the Year" award. Award is given by the conference. Dr. F. D. Patterson, president of Tuskegee Institute, makes presentation.

Alabamam Grosses $130,101 In Year

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, Ala.—A 33-year-old Baldwin county (Alabama) farm operator, whose farming skill brought him a gross farm income of $130,101 last year, was recipient of Tuskegee Institute's annual Negro farm family merit award.

Hilliard P. Jenkins of Loxley, was presented the award at Tuskegee Institute's 62nd annual farmers' conference held on the school campus. The conference was attended by 3,000 farm people from six Southern states.

Jenkins is owner or operator of a 1,052-acre family farm near Loxley. It was disclosed that he, with the aid of his wife and other members of his family, acquired the vast acreage over a period of years through scientific farm practices and skillful managership of expanding farm resources.

Builds $16,000 Home

During the past year he built a $16,000 seven-room modern home on his farm with gas circulating heat, laundry, telephone and garage.

The farm has a large trench silo. A Quonset-type barn and modern farming equipment with a total value of $40,000. Jenkins said he employes from 10 to 45 workers on the farm.

The total acreage includes 68 acres of permanent pasture grass, 652 rented acres under cultivation, 350 acres of Irish potatoes, 40 acres in cotton, 70 acres in sweet potatoes, 400 acres of soybeans and 100 acres in corn.

Jenkins said his cotton crop alone brought $6,000; white or Irish potatoes, $93,000; sweet corn, $3,000; field corn $12,550; sweet potatoes, $9,622 and the marketing of 106 head of feeder steers, $22,560. He said there was a rather lucrative additional income from hogs and a number of smaller haul row crops.

Tuskegee Institute also awarded Rev. R. D. Gregg, pastor of the Gildfield Baptist church at Pushmatha, Ala., a certificate of achievement as the year's outstanding Negro rural pastor. The award was provided in the religious field for the first time at the 62nd conference.

John J. Haggerty, director of the Office of Foreign Agriculture Relations, Department of Agriculture was principal speaker at the farm conference.

Dr. F. D. Patterson, president of Tuskegee Institute, and L. A. Potts, dean of the School of Agriculture at Tuskegee, were co-chairmen of the conference sessions.

John Green At Tuskegee Farm Confab

STATESBORO, Georgia — The Willow Hill Chapter of the Farm Bureau sent its President, John Green to the Farm and Home Short Course and the Annual Farmers Conference held at Tuskegee Institute, Tuskegee, Alabama, January 25-28, 1953.

This is the fourth consecutive year that a representative from Willow Hill has been in attendance at the annual event where farmers from most of the southern states gather to discuss their problems and learn directly from specialists in the field of agriculture the latest trends and methods in farming and Family living.

The theme for the Short Course and the Farmers Conference was "Making the Family Farm a Better Business." One half day was devoted to "Avoiding Financial Tangles." Under this subject "The Cause and Results of Poor Titles to Property" was discussed by an able attorney from Birmingham. In making his report to the Chapter, Green stated, that much of the loss of property of Negroes is traceable to shady titles. He imparted valuable information to the group on making and liquidating mortgages, clear titles to property, and how to make a will.

The practice of sending a delegate each year to Tuskegee has proved highly beneficial to the farmers in the Willow Hill Community.

Sunday School Teacher Wins Annual Farm Merit Award

TUSKEGEE, Ala., Feb. 11.—A 33-year-old farmer whose gross income was $130,101 in 1952 has received Tuskegee Institute's annual Negro farm family merit award.

Hillard P. Jenkins, director of a 1580-acre farm near Loxley, Ala., received the award at Tuskegee's sixty-second annual farmers' conference which was held on the school's campus last week. More than 3,000 persons from six southern states attended the conference.

Jenkins is a Sunday school teachtoes and $22,560 from marketing 106 head of feeder steers.

The Rev. R. D. Gragg, pastor of the Gildfield Baptist Church, Pushmatha, Ala., received a certificate of achievement for the year's outstanding Negro rural pastor.

Farmer Earns $130,000; Wins Tuskegee Award

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, Ala. (ANP) — Tuskegee Institute's annual Farm Family Merit Award for 1952 was awarded last week to Hillard P. Jenkins whose gross farm income for the year was $130,10?.

The 33-year-old farm operator received the award at the institute's 62nd annual farmers' conference held on the campus here. The sessions were attended by 3,000 men, women and children from rural farm families in six southern states.

Jenkins, his wife and three daughters, run their 1,052-acre farm near Loxley. It was accumulated over a number of years. He attributes his high returns to sound management.

Builds $16,000 Home

In the last year, Jenkins built a $16,000 seven-room house on his farm. Features of the house include gas circulating heat, telephone, laundry and garage.

The farm, itself, features a large trench silo, a quonset-type barn and modern farming equipment with a total value of $40,000. During the year, the farm employs from 10 to 45 laborers.

Besides his duties at the farm, Jenkins serves as Sunday school teacher and deacon in the Mt. Airy Baptist church in the nearby community of Daphne. He also finds time to attend evening adult vocational agricultural classes in his home county.

Tuskegee, through its religious extension service, this year made a new presentation, a certificate of achievement to the year's "outstanding rural pastor," the Rev. R. D. Gragg of Gildfield Baptist church, Pushmatha.

Role Of Race In Building World Good Will Is Cited By Speaker At Farm Parley

Farm leaders from over the South, here for the fifteenth annual Farm and Home Short Course and the sixty-second annual Farmers Conference at Tuskegee Institute, were told last week that Negroes have an opportunity to make a special contribution to the promotion of good will in the world.

The speaker was John J. Hagerty, director of the Office of Foreign Agriculture Relations, U. S. Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C.

Speaking on world affairs and the necessity for cooperative help in the world, he said Negroes can play an important part in this field.

He said for historical reasons there are places in the world where a certain amount of predjudice and mistrust toward the white race exists.

"In many of these places," he said, "trained Negroes can do more effective work than anyone else."

The speaker paid tribute to Tuskegee Institute as "an outstanding example of American Democracy at work."

He stated that "So long as American Democracy continues to be alive and vital, we shall continue to have the faith and trust of friendly people in foreign lands.

More than 150 farmers and their wives from five Southern states and three foreign countries attended. The conference theme was "Making the Family Farm a Better Business."

Much of the session was devoted to discussion by leading farmers.

A feature was the presentation of the "Merit Farmer of Alabama" award to Hilliard P. Jenkins, farmer, who lives near Loxley, in Baldwin County.

Jenkins, operating his mother's farm, produced more than $130,000 last year. Major part of this income was made of 350 acres of Irish potatoes, 40 acres of cotton, 70 acres of sweet potatoes, 400 acres of soybeans and 100 acres of sweet corn.

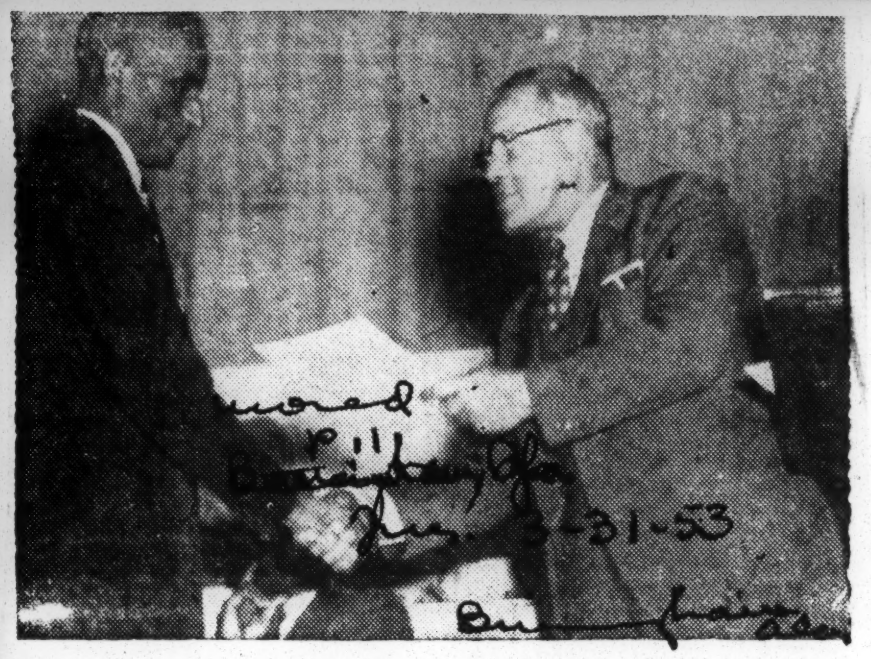
An achievement award for "Rural Pastor of the Year" went to Rev. R. D. Gragg, Pastor of the Goldfield Baptist Church of Pushmataha, in Choctaw County, Alabama.

A ringing challenge was thrown out to attendants at the Farm and Home banquet, the night prior to the regular conference, by Hobart Taylor, business executive of Houston, Tex. He urged farm people to make a business of their operations and seek the best sources of counsel and advice in their financial matters.

14n 1953

FARMERS CONFERENCE

SIXTY-SECOND ANNUAL FARM CONFERENCE—The Sixty-second Annual Farm Conference was held recently at Tuskegee Institute, attracting farm leaders and agents from several states. Hillard P. Jenkins, and his mother, Mrs. Amelia T. Jenkins, of Loxley community near Mobile, Ala., received the conference "good farming and good citizenship" award. (Bottom Photo) Meeting at historic Booker T. Washington Monument for a discussion of the conference, Dr. F. D. Patterson, president, shakes hand with John J. Haggerty, director, Office of Foreign Agricultural Relations (center). Others in the photo, left to right, are: L. J. Washington, agriculturist, Farmers' Home Administration, Washington, D. C.; T. M. Campbell, field agent, USDA; Robert Durr, editor, Birmingham Weekly Review, and W. B. Hill, state leader, Alabama Extension Service. (Upper left photo) Hobart Taylor, successful rancher and businessman of Houston, Tex., addresses the Annual Farm and Home Banquet at Tuskegee Institute. His message was one of vital importance to the assembled agricultural leaders, giving them an insight on sound money management.



MINISTER—FARM LEADER IN PUSHMATAHA—The Rev. R. D. Gragg (left), pastor of Gilfield Baptist Church of Pushmataha, is seen (above), receiving achievement award from resigning-President F. D. Patterson during the recent annual Tuskegee Farmers Conference at Tuskegee Institute. For leadership among rural families in Choctaw County and assistance to agricultural leaders, the Rev. Gragg was named "Rural Pastor of the Year."

14n 1953 FOOD S H O W

News Among The Colored People

BY REV. C. W. KELLY

The eighth annual Food Show, Nutrition Institute and Buyer's Conference will be held at Tuskegee Institute, March 26-27-28. Leaders in the foods industry from many sections of the country have indicated plans for attending the three-day meeting.

Robert R. Moton, Jr., in general charge of the Food Show, is expecting the largest participation in the history of the organization. He is being assisted by William Driggins, director of the Department of Commercial Dietetics; Mrs. G. E. Munday, editor of Service Magazine, and members of the Booker T. Washington tor to be considered. He said, "It is a wholesome sign of the new era of progress in the South.

Members of the Tuskege Institute class of 1933 will hold their reunion on the campus early in April. Leaders of the class,located in various parts of the country, have already circulated letters among their classmates to stimulate interest in the reunion. All members are urged to return to Tuskegee for the activities, which will be colorful and interesting.

Plans are being made for the entertainment of the full membership of the clas of 1933 by Robert R. Hall, Miss Irene B. Burroughs, Mrs. Dorinda K. Fair, Lee .A Jones and William Wiley, of the resident committee.
Culinary Association.

The Food Show is a project of the commercial dietetics program. It has done much to educate the public in better food habits and to induce higher standards in commercial food establishments.

Food shows are now being held in many sections of the country as a result of the pioneering efforts of the Tuskegee Institute Food Show.

As has been true in the past there will be 20 or more booths in the main exhibit section of the Student Center. Commercial food establishments and the several schools of the Institute will put up exhibit booths.

Sessions will begin Thursday, March 26, at 10 a. m. The annual meeting of the National Culinary Association will be held on the night of March 25.

Special features of the three-day meeting will be commercial exhibits, demonstrations and a workshop in nutrition directed by Dr. Cecile Hoover Edwards and Dean Mayme Powell, of the School of Home Economics.

From an initial grant of $55,000 from R. W. Woodruff, chairman of the board of the Coca-Cola Company and a trustee of Tuskegee Institute, work will soon begin on a new food processing and storage laboratory at Tuskegee Institute, Dr. F. D. Patterson announced this week.

In discussing details of the proposed project, Dean L. A. Potts, of the School of Agriculture, said that the laboratory will serve principally for teaching and research purposes. Graduates in agriculture, home economics, and the food service areas are being called upon more and more to assist in preparation, packaging, freezing and storage of foods.

The new unit will not only be opened for the training of students, but will offer in-service training for professional workers and render services to farm families.

Dean Potts stated that the principal objective is to make available more adequate food processing services for more people. It is planned that cold storage and freezer-locker service will be offered to local citizens.

Additional advantages listed include services to the food production units of the farm and animal science divisions of the School of Agriculture. These units can develop long range planning schedules of production as a result of the new plant.

It is expected that after the food processing and storage laboratory has become established it will become a part of Student Industries at Tuskegee Institute.

EXPERTS ON PROGRAM—

Nutrition Study Due Here

The eighth annual Nutrition Institute held in connection with the Food Show and Buyers Conference will bring to Tuskegee Institute this week some of the nation's outstanding nutrition experts.

Emphasis this year will be placed on the global aspects of adequate nutrition. Study will be given to defining the problem here in the South and around the world, to effective techniques for promoting good nutrition, and to organizing the forces that are engaged in the human relations aspects of the problem.

The keynote address on "Adequate Nutrition—A World Problem," will be given by Dr. Glenn C. King, scientific director of the Nutrition Foundation, New York City, at 9:15 a. m. Friday.

Dr. King's address will be followed by a symposium on nutritional problems in the South. Taking part will be Dr. Frank G. Boudreau, moderator and executive director of the Milbank Memorial Fund, New York City; Dr. Flemmie Kittrell, dean of the School of Home Economics, Howard University; Dr. Grace Goldsmith, professor of medicine, Graves, home economist, Farmers Home Administration, U. S. D. A., and Dr. William Darby, professor of biochemistry, Vanderbilt University.

The afternoon session will be given over to workshop sessions conducted in the School of Home Economics. Dean Mayme L. Powell and Dr. Cecil Hoover Elwards, head of the Department of Foods and Nutrition, will be in general charge of the Nutrition Institute.

EXPERTS ON PROGRAM—

Nutrition Study Due Here

The eighth annual Nutrition Institute held in connection with the Food Show and Buyers Conference will bring to Tuskegee Institute this week some of the nation's outstanding nutrition experts.

Emphasis this year will be placed on the global aspects of adequate nutrition. Study will be given to defining the problem here in the South and around the world, to effective techniques for promoting good nutrition, and to organizing the forces that are engaged in the human relations aspects of the problem.

The keynote address on "Adequate Nutrition—A World Problem," will be given by Dr. Glenn C. King, scientific director of the Nutrition Foundation, New York City, at 9:15 a. m. Friday.

Dr. King's address will be followed by a symposium on nutritional problems in the South. Taking part will be Dr. Frank G. Boudreau, moderator and executive director of the Milbank Memorial Fund, New York City; Dr. Flemmie Kittrell, dean of the School of Home Economics, Howard University; Dr. Grace Goldsmith, professor of medicine, Graves, home economist, Farmers Home Administration, U. S. D. A., and Dr. William Darby, professor of biochemistry, Vanderbilt University.

The afternoon session will be given over to workshop sessions conducted in the School of Home Economics. Dean Mayme L. Powell and Dr. Cecil Hoover Elwards, head of the Department of Foods and Nutrition, will be in general charge of the Nutrition Institute.

Tuskegee Has Food Show March 25-28

TUSKEGEE, Ala.—The Eighth annual Food Show, Nutrition Institute, Byers Conference and the annual meeting of the National Culinary Association will be held at Tuskegee Institute, March 25-28, President F. D. Patterson has announced.

The sessions of the National Culinary Association will begin Wednesday night, Marh 25, and the Food Show will officially open at 9 a.m., Thursday, March 26.

Mr. Matthew Bernatsky, food consultant and director of Food Training at the University of Denver, is scheduled to deliver the keynote address at the Culinary Association. Dr. C. G. King, scientific director of the Nutrition Foundation of New York, will open the nutritious institute sessions.

Eighth Annual Food Show Set At Tuskegee Institute

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, Ala., March 12 — The Eighth Annual Food Show, Nutrition Institute and Buyers' Conference will convene at Tuskegee Institute March 26-27-28. Leaders in the foods industry from many sections of the country have indicated plans for attending the three-day meeting.

Robert R. Moton Jr., in general charge of the Food Show, is expecting the largest participation in the history of the organization. He is being assisted by William Driggins, director, Department of Commercial Dietetics; Mrs. G. E. Munday, editor, Service Magazine, and members of the Booker T. Washington Culinary Association.

The Food Show is an agency of the Commercial Dietetics program. It has done much to educate the public in better food habits and to induce hibher standards in commercial food establishments.

Food Shows are now being held in many sections of the country as a result of the pioneering efforts of the Tuskegee Institute Food Show.

As has been true in the past, there will be twenty or more booths in the main exhibit section of the Student Center. Commercial food establishments and the several schools of the institute will put up exhibit booths.

Sessions will begin Thursday, March 26, at 10 a.m. The annual meeting of the National Culinary Association will be held on the night of March 25.

Special features of the three-day meeting will be commercial exhibits, demonstrations, and workshop in nutrition directed by Dr. Cecile Hoover Edwards and Dean Mayme Powell of the School of Home Economics.

The theme of the Commercial Dietetics Section will be "Modern Trends in Foods." The Home Economics Section will have the theme: "Nutritional Problems in the South."

Attendance is restricted to adults, including college students, if in class groups.

Tuskegee Nutrition Institute To Feature Foods Authorities

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, Ala., March 21—The eighth annual food show, Nutrition Institute and Buyers Conference will bring to Tuskegee Institute for the period, March 26-28 some of the outstanding persons in foods industry, Robert R. Moton, Jr., stated this week.

He has stated that from the keynote address by Semour Weiss, president and managing director of the Roosevelt Hotel of New Orleans, down to the Annual Alabama Dinner honoring seniors in the department of commercial dietetics, and the program is studded with talented people.

Robert L. Spicley, sanitation engineer, city of Chicago, will discuss "New Techniques in Refrigeration and Sanitation."

Senior chef Carson Gulley of the University of Wisconsin, is a perennial favorite at the Foods Shows. He and Chef Oliver J. Duffin of Washington, D.C., will perform near miracles in the chef's demonstration. Many younger chefs will be participatig, to display their arts and to learn from these master craftsmen.

On graduation night in the Trades 'A' Building, Herman McCall, a successful graduate will tell of his experiences in the field of foods while serving as director of Food Services at Grambling College, La.

Matthew Bernathsky, director of Food Training, will serve as discussion leader in the workshop session. William Driggins will be in general charge of the workshop.

Dr. C. G. King, scientific director, nutrition foundation, New York City, will be guest speaker at the Alabama dinner.

J. Fred Vollmer, president of the National Association and John O. Sabatos, chairman of the education committee for the same organization will participate on the program.

Other participants will be announced later.

Hold Annual Food Show On Tuskegee Institute Campus

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, Ala.—The Eighth Annual Food show, Nutrition institute and Buyers conference is currently meeting on the campus of Tuskegee, March 25-28.

Along with this the annual convention of the National Culinary association is holding its sessions. The meetings are sponsored by the Department of Commerical Dietectic and the School of Home Economics at Tuskegee.

The sessions will emphasize "Modern Trends in Foods" and point up the importance of sanitation in food preparation and service. Matthew Bernatsky, outstanding food consultant and director of food training at the University of Denver, delivered the keynote address.

Dr. C. G. King, scientific director of the Nutrition Founlation of New York opened the Nutritution insuiute with an address titled, "Adequate Nutrition — A World Problem."

A symposium on "Nutritional Problems in the South" was a special feature of the institute's program.

At the Food show, Semour Weiss, president and director of Hotel Roosevelt, New Orleans, La., gave the main address. Robert L. Spicley, Chicago Sanitation engineer, was the discussion leader.

Atlantans Attend 8th Annual Food Show At Tuskegee Inst.

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, Ala.—The eighth annual Food Show ended here recently on the college campus.

Among those attending the show were Mr. and Mrs. Martin Hawk, of Atlanta, Georgia.

At each session of the conference, discussion leaders in the special fields of buyers, managers, chefs and supervisors brought fruitful information and suggestions to the delegations. The theme was "Modern Trends in Foods."

One of the most colorful and delicious "CHIEF'S BUFFET" was directed by Carson Gulley, senior chef, University of Wisconsin, and assisted by Chef J. H. Williams, supervisory chef, New York Central Railroad. Chef Gulley who is an authority on herbs and spices, gave souvenir copies of his own publication Seasoning Secrets — Herbs and Spices.

New Techniques in refrigeration and sanitation were given the group in a discussion led by Robert L. Spicley, sanitation engineer, Chicago.

A unique display of the old kitchen and equipment and the modern kitchen and equipment was furnished for observation and comparison. Table settings were on diepay to show the proper uses of silver, glasses, dishes.

The Alabama Dinner climaxed the entertainment the menu consisted of delicacies as institute-grown roast young turkey, Mobile bay oyster dressing, our farm glazed yams, Alabama Julienne string beans, Huntsville vegetable toss salad, Carver potato rolls —deserts and beverages.

Mr. and Mrs. Martin Hawk, who had been invited by Dr. Patterson, President of the institution to atted the meeting, were also invited to join the National Culinary Association. With the information available only through such organization, a chapter will soon be organized in Atlanta whereby greater results can be realized by persons interested in Commercial Dietetics.

Elect Woman President Of Culinary Association

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, Ala.—Mrs. Marian Davis was elected president of the National Culinary association at the annual meeting here last week. The former secretary-treasurer of the association is head dietitian at Tuskegee's Veterans hospital.

Mrs. Davis, an ardent worker in the association, was the only woman charter member of the Culinary group when they organized in 1947.

NCA is a society of men and women engaged in all branches of food preparation and service. Chief objectives of the organization are to encourage pursuit of the culinary arts and the professional improvement of those in the foods field.

DRAWS RECORD GROUP

This year's meeting drew a record number of delegates and members from local chapters. The membership includes chefs, cooks dietitians, restaurant and hotel owners, school lunch workers waitresses, caterers, food demonstrators and others engaged in some branch of the food business.

The organization presented Dr. F. D. Patterson, retiring president of Tuskegee, with a carving set as a token of appreciation for his interest in and support of the Culinary association. The presentation was made by Chef Edouard Panchard of New York City.

Any person interested in the organization may obtain further information by writing Mrs. Davis, National president, at Tuskegee Institute, Ala.

NEW PREXY — Mrs. Marian Davis of Tuskegee, Ala., was recently elected president of the National Culinary association at the group's annual convention at Tuskegee institute. Mrs. Davis was the only woman charter member of the organization which was formed in 1947.

Tuskegee Conference Discusses Nutrition And Health Problems

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, Ala. — (ANP) — A new chapter in better health and nutrition was written at Tuskegee institute recently when the eighth annual Food Show, Nutrition Institute and Buyers conference convened here.

In his keynote address to the Buyers' conference, Somour Weiss, president and managing director of the Roosevelt hotel, New Orleans, said that sales volume is essential to profit and that volume is dependent on customer satisfaction. He emphasized the several methods that he employs to add to customer satisfaction.

These include quiet and appropriate dinner music, frequent use of top-named orchestras for entertainment, personal interest and concern in regular customers, attention to parking problems and serving good meals consistently, whether it is coffee shop or banquet service. "Over the years," he stated, his income from food service has equaled that from lodging.

Former director of the Department of Commercial Dietetics and now Sanitation Engineer, Chicago, Robert L. Spicley led a discussion on "New Techniques In Refrigeration And Sanitation," and served as general consultant.

A highlight of the conference was the Chefs' Buffet in the Pine room of Dorothy hall. Led by Chef Carson Gulley, senior chef, University of Wisconsin, the entire staff of chefs in attendance prepared and displayed for the buffet service, over 40 of their special dishes.

Robert R. Moton, Jr., general chairman, secured the top ranking persons in their fields of specialty to appear on the program.

The Nutrition institute, sponsored by the School of Home Economics, with Dr. Cecile Hoover Edwards, head, Department of Foods and Nutrition and a research associate of the Carver foundation as general chairman, portrayed what is being done in that field.

A global glimpse of the problems in nutrition was given in the keynote address by Dr. Charles Glenn King, scientific director of the nutrition foundation of New York City.

Four recommendations were named as part of an action program toward reaching the goal of better health. These were: (1) inclusion of reasons for maintaining good eating habits as a regular feature of elementary education, (2) an educational program for adults using advertising skills developed by the food industry, health organizations and government agencies, (3) research, and (4) a sound national program of training personnel through college and the professions, including sciences, medical nutrition, dietetics and nutrition education.

In a symposium, "Nutrition Problems In The South," speakers were Dr. Frank Boudreau, executive director, Milbank Memorial fund; Dr. Grace Goldsmith, professor of medicine, Tulane university; Dr. William Darby, professor of biochemistry and director of the Division of Nutrition, School of Medicine, Vanderbilt university; Dr. Flemmie Kittrell, dean, School of Home Economics, Howard university, and Miss Patsy Graves, home economist, Farmers Home administration, Washington, D. C.

The conference closed with the traditional Alabama dinner in the Student's cafeteria, with Dr. F. D. Patterson as master of ceremonies.

Board Defers Decision On Dr. Patterson Successor; $100,000 Gift Announced

Tuskegee Herald
Tuskegee Ala.
June 4-14-53

One of the largest crowd seen at Tuskegee Institute in many years turned out for the thirty-fourth annual Founder's Day, many of them attracted by the meeting of the board of trustees which had been expected to name a successor to Dr. F. D. Patterson, who has resigned as president.

The board held two sessions Saturday but adjourned without reaching a decision. One member said the board desires "additional information" before deciding on the person who will become Tuskegee Institute's fourth president.

Board chairman Basil O'Connor was authorized to appoint a committee superceding the committee which met in New York April 1, to consider a successor to Dr. Patterson. Those appointed in addition to the chairman, who will serve as ex-officio member, were Thomas D. Russell, of Alexander City; Claude A. Barnett, of Chicago; Archie A. Alexander, of Des Moines; John H. Pinson, of Geiger; Dr. W. J. Terry, of Montgomery; Daniel W. Andrews, of Winston Salem; and William Rosenwald, of Chicago. This committee is to report to a special meeting of the board not later than June 1.

Another highlight of the Founder's Day program was announcement by Dr. F. D. Patterson of two gifts received by the Institute. The first was a gift of $100,000 by the Russell Foundation of Alexander City, Ala., to erect and equip a Nursery School on the campus of Tuskegee Institute.

Given in memory of Benjamin Russell, Sr., who was a trustee of Tuskegee Institute from 1936 to 1941, the new unit will be used jointly by the School of Home Economics and the School of Education in Nursery School Education and Child Development programs.

Thomas D. Russell, president of the Russell Manufacturing Company, is on the present board solete and outmoded, must be discarded as we widen and enlarge the horizon of human rights, freedom and goodwill among men."

Mr. Thomas has established himself in Dublin, Ga., where he is veterans farm training instructor and a successful business man. He finished both the high school and the college at Tuskegee Institute.

Morris M. Martin, who in 1933 was president of his class, presented the group and told of the many successes they were having in their chosen fields. J. Henry Smith, executive secretary of the General Alumni Association, stated in opening the program that the four reunion classes which return to the campus each year offer an ever growing source of encouragement to faculty, students and well wishers of the Institute. He presented Theodore R. Green, of Chicago, president of the General Alumni Association, who in turn presented the speaker.

Following an established custom, the class presented a substantial gift to the Institute in appreciation for what their training here has meant to them.

A unique feature of the program was a gift of 20 silver dollars from Julian Thomas, son of the speaker and nephew of the late Julian Thomas, who while working as Linotypist on The New York Times found time to establish the Carver Seal Committee. This committee has been the source of several thousand dollars for the work of the Carver Foundation. The presentation made to Dr. Patterson is for the work of the George Washington Carver Foundation and represented one dollar for each of the 20 years young Thomas' father has been away from the Institute.

White Professor Foresees Ruling Against Segregation

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, Ala. — Dr. Guy Benton Johnson, professor of Sociology and Anthropology at the University of North Carolina, said he believes the United States Supreme Court will declare state laws enforcing segregation are acts of discrimination and therefore invalid under the Constitution, as he delivered the Tuskegee Institute Founders' Day address here Sunday afternoon, in the Institute Chapel.

The scholarly sociologist and anthropologist made a plea for a calm study of the situation once the Supreme Court hand down its decision.

Legislators should recess for a month before taking any action, he suggested.

"WRONG TURNS"

Dr. Johnson told the large Founders' Day audience that a series of "wrong turns" has brought to the South the impending crisis of segregation in public schools.

He pointed to bad decisions before the Civil War and during the Reconstruction era as having laid the groundwork for the present segregation issues before the United States Supreme Court.

"We have learned a lot from two wars and a great depression. But anyone who thinks the transition from segregation to racial co-education can be made without problems, tensions and even personal sacrifice is a fool," the noted educator said.

A great "uneasiness" is arising in the South, Dr. Johnson declared, over the "imminent threat" to the legal structure. He advised public discussion through the press, radio and television to "offset rabble-rousers."

"The operation of eliminating racial segregation may be a serious one," Dr. Johnson added, "but the patient will recover and will look back and find it was not near as bad as he thought."

The Founders' Day festivities opened Saturday with the Trustees' Meeting, in the Peabody Room at Dorothy Hall. The Class of 1933 held a reunion program Saturday evening in the Institute Chapel, with Emery C. Thomas, Veteran Farm Training instructor, Dublin, Ga., making the featured address.

Ushering in the Founders' Day service was an academic procession from Carnegie Hall to the chapel, and immediately after the program the Montgomery-Tuskegee placed a wreath on Dr. Washington's [illegible]e.

Founder's Day Program To Be Held Sunday, April 12

Annual Founder's Day at Tuskegee Institute will be held on Sunday, April 12, with Dr. Guy Benton Johnson, professor of sociology and anthropology at the University of North Carolina, delivering the main address at the exercises which will begin at 2 p. m. in the Institute Chapel.

Thirty-eight years have passed since the death of Booker T. Washington, who founded Tuskegee Institute in 1881. He was the school's first principal and served in this capacity for 34 years up until the time of his death in the Washington home, called "The Oaks", on the campus, in 1915.

The founder gained world-wide fame through his contributions to the cause of education while he was the head of Tuskegee Institute. Today, in the 72nd year of its existence, this school continues to receive hundreds of letters from all points of the globe requesting literature by or about Dr. Booker Taliaferro Washington and his photograph. To the school come inumerable visitors from far and wide who often refer to the school as "Booker T. Washington's School."

This year, it is expected that large crowds of people from Tuskegee and the surrounding communities will come to the Institute campus for Founder's Day as they have done each year in the past. Many of the alumni are expected to return to the school in addition to the members of the Class of '33 who will have their reunion on Saturday, April 11.

Tuskegee Institute Nursery Gets $100,000 From Russell Estate To Highlight Founder's Day

By TRUDY CARGILE

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, April 12—A $100,000 gift from the Benjamin Russell Estate was made to Tuskegee Institute here today for the erection of a new nursery school.

Mrs. Russell, widow of the late textile manufacturer of Alexander City, was on hand to see Dr. F. D. Patterson, president of institution, accept the gift.

Visiting alumni and friends of the institute, gathered to pay tribute to the late Booker T. Washington, founder of the Negro college, applauded wildly as Patterson accepted the $100,000 donation along with another gift of $500 from a group of Negro employes of the Cast Iron and Pipe Company of Birmingham.

Parade Is Staged

Ceremonies of the day got underway at 2 p.m. as Air Force and Army ROTC personnel passed in review. Heading the parade was Tuskegee Institute's band and bringing up the rear were snappily dressed coeds and nurses in uniform. The parade was reviewed by faculty members, alumni and visitors from Carnegie Music Hall.

The keynote speaker of the day, Dr. Guy Benton Johnson, professor of sociology and anthropology at the University of North Carolina, paid homage to Washington as the man "who was never frightened by the size of a problem, but met it as a challenge and with an opportunity to attack."

"Washington was perhaps the greatest power in the combining of the forces of the head, the heart and the hands," Johnson said.

He stated further that the Tuskegee idea implanted by Washington had transcended the boundaries of the race to become the ideals of many other groups.

"Washington changed the image of the Negro to himself and his destiny. . . . by so doing, he was able to change the image of the Negro in the eyes of the white man."

Notes Segregation Problem

Johnson advised Southerners to "count to 10" before saying anything in the event the Supreme Court rules against segregation in the South.

"In the long run no individual and no race can succeed which sets itself to war against the common good," Johnson said quoting from Washington.

Johnson said the gravity of the segregation situation was reflected in the delay of a decision from the nation's high court.

"The problem is one of the greatest sources of anxiety in the South," he said.

He mentioned that the court's decision might be to place accent on equal facilities for both white and Negro races, but warned that the added tax burden would bring protest.

The program was a combination of a week end of festivities honoring Washington and at the same time marking the 20th anniversary of the class of '33.

Other Contributions

According to custom, at the Saturday evening ceremony, a contribution was made by members of that class. Another contribution of 20 silver dollars was made by Julian B. Thomas for the George Washington Foundation.

At the regular Sunday morning worship hour, the Rev. Carleton L. Lee, chaplain of the Tuskegee Institute spoke to the group on "Harvest From Ashes."

Care Urged If Mixed Schools Win

TUSKEGEE, Ala., April 12—(AP)—A series of "wrong turns" has brought to the South the impending crisis of segregation in public schools, a noted Southern educator said today.

Bad decisions before the Civil War and during the Reconstruction era laid the groundwork for the present segregation issues before the U. S. Supreme Court, declared Dr. Guy Benton Johnson, professor of sociology and anthropology at the University of North Carolina.

LEARNED A LOT

"We have learned a lot from two wars and a great depression," Dr. Johnson said at Founders Day ceremonies at Tuskegee Institute.

"But anyone who thinks the transition from segregation to racial co-education can be made without problems, tensions and even personal sacrifice is a fool," he warned.

Dr. Johnson said he believes the Supreme Court will declare state laws enforcing racial segregation are acts of discrimination and therefore invalid under the Constitution.

RECESS URGED

A great "uneasiness" is arising in the South, Dr. Johnson declared, over the "imminent threat" to the legal structure of compulsory segregation laws. He made a plea for calm study of the situation once the Supreme Court hands down its decision.

Legislators should recess for a month before taking any action, he suggested.

There is a need for public discussion through the press, radio and television to "offset rabble-rousers," he advised.

"The operation of eliminating racial segregation may be a serious one," Dr. Johnson added, "but the patient will recover and will look back and find it was not near as bad as he thought."

News Among The Colored People

BY REV. C. W. KELLY

One of the largest crowd seen at Tuskegee Institute in many years turned out for the thirty-fourth annual Founder's Day, many of them attracted by the meeting of the board of trustees which had been expected to name a successor to Dr. F. D. Patterson, who has resigned as president.

The board held two sessions Saturday but adjourned without reaching a decision. One member said the board desires "additional information" before deciding on the person who will become Tuskegee Institute's fourth president.

Board chairman Basil O'Conner was authorized to appoint a committee superceding the committee which met in New York April 1, to consider a successor to Dr. Patterson. Those appointed in addition to the chairman, who will serve as ex-officio member, were Thomas D. Russell, of Alexander City; Claude A. Barnett, of Chicago; Archie A. Alexander, of Des Moines; John H. Pinson, of Geiger; Dr. W. J. Terry, of Montgomery; Daniel W. Andrews, of Winston Salem; and William Rosenwald, of Chicago. This committee is to report to a special meeting of the board not later than June 1.

Another highlight of the Founder's Day program was announcement by Dr. F. D. Patterson of two gifts received by the Institute. The first was a gift of $100,000 by the Russell Foundation of Alexander City, Ala., to erect and equip a Nursery School on the campus of Tuskegee Institute.

Given in memory of Benjamin Russell, Sr., who was a trustee of Tuskegee Institute from 1936 to 1941, the new unit will be used jointly by the School of Home Economics and the School of Education in Nursery School Education and Child Development programs.

Thomas D. Russell, president of the Russell Manufacturing Company, is on the present board solete and outmoded, must be discarded as we widen and enlarge the horizon of human rights, freedom and goodwill among men."

South will recover—

Educator urges 30-day 'cool off' period should court ban segregation in schools

BY THOMAS F. HILL
News staff writer

TUSKEGEE, Ala., April 13—The operation of removing racial segregation from Southern schools will be a serious one, but the patient will recover.

This opinion was expressed here Sunday by a noted Southern educator who recommended a 30-day "cooling-off" period be utilized by state legislatures before taking any radical action should the Supreme Court abolish segregation.

Speaking at the annual founders day ceremonies at Tuskegee Institute, Dr. Guy Benton Johnson, professor of sociology and anthropology at the University of North Carolina, exprsesed an opinion that the high court would, indeed, declare state laws enforcing racial segregation in schools are unconstitutional.

P. 18

A MAJOR HIGHLIGHT of the annual founders day event was the announcement Retiring President F. D. that the Russell Four xander City had m to the institu nursery s y of a re ation in public schools. H pointed out that bad decisions be fore the War Between the State and during the reconstruction er laid the ground work for the pres ent segregation issues before th U. S. Supreme Court.

HE SAID THE SOUTH ha learned lots from two wars and great depression. He said bitter ness had given way to calm deliber ation. Urbanization, industrializa tion, better education, better in come, all have broadened the op portunities for both races.

"But in the South today," he said, "there is a great uneasiness. It stems from the imminent threat to the legal structure of compulsory segregation in public schools."

He pointed out that separate but equal facilities would cost the South more than a billion dollars in initial costs, in addition to about one-half a billion dollars annually.

"The taxpayers eventually would begin to raise questions about the price tag of segregation," he said.

DR. JOHNSON urged patience and calm study be given the situation should the high court hand down a decision against segregation. He urged state legislatures to recess a month and study the question calmly and gather the sentiments of the majority before taking any rash action.

"There will be great need for public discussion," he said. "The press, radio and TV will have a grave responsibility to offset rabble rousers."

He pointed out that the proposed system of the state withdrawing from education and turning public schools over to private organizations would bring on more problems, and eventually bring the states right back to where they stand today.

"Anyone who thinks the transition from segregation to racial coeducation can be made without problems, tensions, and even personal tragedies is a fool," he said. "But, anyone who thinks the transition will mean the end of civilization in the South also is a fool."

PRAISING BOOKER T. Washington, founder of the Institute, Dr. Johnson said he "changed the image which the Southern Negro had of himself.

"He symbolized the hope of success and the success of hope—freedom from the bondage of fear and freedom from the fear of bondage."

Hundreds of visitors toured the campus for the annual Founders Day ceremonies.

Many outstanding medical figures were on hand to attend the 15th annual clinic of the John A. Andrew Clinical Society.

The founders day program opened Saturday with meetings of the board of trustees, class reunions, an alumni program, and an address by Emery C. Thomas, veteran farm training instructor, Dublin, Ga.

The Montgomery Tuskegee Club placed a wreath on Dr. Washington's grave Sunday afternoon. Another feature of the Sunday afternoon meeting was announcement of a $500 gift for building bleachers on the athletic field from employes of the Birmingham Cast Iron Pipe Company.

'Skegee Founders' Day Speaker

Educator Says Court Will Ban Segregation

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, Ala. — Dr. Guy Benton Johnson, professor of Sociology and Anthropology at the University of North Carolina, said he believes the United States Supreme Court will declare state laws enforcing segregation are acts of discrimination and therefore invalid under the Constitution, as he delivered the Tuskegee Institute Founders' Day address here Sunday afternoon, in the Institute Chapel.

The scholarly sociologist and anthropologist made a plea for a calm study of the situation once the Supreme Court hand down its decision.

Legislators should recess for a month before taking any action, he suggested.

Dr. Johnson told the large Founders' Day audience that a series of "wrong turns" has brought to the South the impending crisis of segregation in public schools.

He pointed to bad decisions before the Civil War and during the Reconstruction era as having laid the groundwork for the present segregation issues before the United States Supreme Court.

"We have learned a lot from two wars and a great depression. But anyone who thinks the transition from segregation to racial co-education can be made without problems, tensions and even personal sacrifice is a fool," the noted educator said.

A great "uneasiness" is arising in the South, Dr. Johnson declared, over the "imminent threat" to the legal structure. He advised public discussion through the press, radio and television to "offset rabble-rousers."

"The operation of eliminating racial segregation may be a serious one," Dr. Johnson added, "but the patient will recover and will look back and find it was not near as bad as he thought."

The Founders' Day festivities opened Saturday with the Trustees' Meeting, in the Peabody Room at Dorothy Hall. The Class of 193 held a reunion program Saturday evening in the Institute Chapel, with Emery C. Thomas, Veteran Farm Training instructor, Dublin, Ga., making the featured address.

Ushering in the Founders' Day service was an academic procession from Carnegie Hall to the chapel, and immediately after the program the Montgomery-Tuskegee placed a wreath on Dr. Washington's grave.

Earlier in the day, retiring President F. D. Patterson accepted a $100,000 gift to the institute for the erection of a nursery school. This money was donated by the Russell foundation.

Students also applauded a $500 gift from Negro employees of the Cast Iron and Pipe Company of Birmingham.

Dr. Johnson pointed out that the court might order the South to provide separate but equal schools. He said that this would cost the South more than a billion dollars in initial costs, in additio to about one-half a billion dollars annually.

"The taxpayers eventually would begin to raise questions about the price tag of segregation," he said.

Praising Booker T. Washington, the speaker said:

"Washington changed the image of the Negro to himself and his destiny——by so doing he was able to change the image of the Negro in the eyes of the white man."

Harvard Doctor Opens Clinic With Heart Talk

Dr. Paul D. White Is First Speaker At Andrews Conference

TUSKEGEE, April 12—Better child care is causing Americans to live longer, but the resulting old age is creating candidates for coronary diseases, a Harvard Medical School professor told a group of medical men here today.

Dr. Paul D. White, speaking at the 41st annual clinic of the John A. Andrews Society, opened its medical conference with a lecture on "What The Public Should Know About Heart Disease."

"Concentrated study began on heart disease after World War I," he said. "One of the basic reasons for the little knowledge of heart conditions was that the attention of medical men was diverted by an uncontrolled epidemic at that time," he assrted.

Cites Gains Made

Citing some instances in which gains have been made in the treatment of heart diseases, White said:

"A few years ago, inrlammation of the heart was 100 per cent fatal. Today it si about 80 per cent fatal."

Other advances he mentioned were the recognition of heart disease itself, contributions to the field of research, and inventions of more specialized equipment and medicines.

"At one time," he said, "at least 50 per cent of the cardiac cases were syphilitic. Now, scarcely 1 per cent are found to be so.

"Thyrotopsy cases involving goiter," White said, "once occupied a 3 per cent group of the patients who came to me for treatment. Such cases are rare now.

"Neuro-circulatory esthenia, or nervous heart condition patients," he said with a smile, "have a tendency to outlive anybody else. And it would seem that the more symptoms the patient has, the longer he lives."

Dr. White is to appear before Congress soon to appeal for support in the field of research on coronary diseases.

The program continues Monday at 7:30 a.m., with a surgical clinic at the main operating room of the John A. Andrews Memorial Hospital.

Americans living longer, more have heart ailment

TUSKEGEE, Ala., April 13 —(AP)—Americans are living longer but the resulting old age makes them prime candidates for heart diseases, a Harvard medical school professor said here yesterday.

Speaking at the 41st annual clinic of the John A. Andrews society, Dr. Paul D. White said concentrated study on heart diseases did not begin until after World War I.

Chief reasons for recent advances in coronary treatment Dr. White declared are recognition of heart diseases itself contributions to the field of research and inventions of more specialized equipment and medicines.

Many medical leaders are attending the clinic at Tuskegee Institute.

The meeting resumed this morning with a surgical clinic in the main operating room of the John A. Andrews Memorial Hospital.

Early Diagnosis Called Vital In Meningitis

Doctor Describes Disease At Medical Meeting In Tuskegee

By TRUDY CARGILE
Assistant State Editor

TUSKEGEE, Ala., April 16 — Early diagnosis is by far the most important factor in treating acute bacterial meningitis in children, doctors at the annual meeting of the John A. Andrew Clinical Society were told today.

Meningitis strikes most often in children under three years old, said Dr. Harry O'Rear, professor at the University of Georgia Medical College at Augusta, but early diagnosis and treatment brings "amazingly satisfactory" results.

Dr. Robert C. Major, another speaker from the Georgia Medical College, outlined the treatment of pulmonary granulemas —a condition caused by excessive production of glandular tissue in the chest and lung area.

Earlier, the white and Negro members of the clinical society were told that physicians are "returning to the treatment of man as a whole organism after acquiring more knowledge of his independent parts."

Especially is that true in psychiatry, said Dr. Alan P. Smith Jr., chief of the acute-intensive treatment service at Tuskegee Institute. Treatment and training in that field should include cultural development such as philosophy, sociology and literature "of all levels from fables to the Bible," he added.

Officers Elected At Tuskegee Clinic

TUSKEGEE, Ala., April 17 (AP) —A Negro physician, Dr. William Haskins, of Columbus, Ga., was elected president of John A. Andrew Clinical Society here today for the 1954 term.

He will take over the post next year from Dr. R. E. Tisdale, of Montgomery, who assumed the presidency today.

This year's president, Dr. Charles F. Sherwin, of St. Louis, Mo., was the only white president in the society's history. He died while in office, and his son, Dr. Charles S. Sherwin, presided at the five-day session which closed today.

Dr. Eugene H. Dibble, medical director of the John A. Andrew Hospital at Tuskegee Institute, was re-elected secretary-treasurer.

Over 500 white and Negro doctors from 34 states took part in the clinical meeting.

Doctors Name Georgia Man

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, Ala —The five-day session of the annual John A. Andrew Clinic closed here April 17 with the election of Dr. William Haskins of Columbus, Ga., as president for 1954.

In the meantime, Dr. R. E. Tisdale of Montgomery, Ala., assumed presidency of the society. He succeeds Dr. Charles F. Sherwin of St. Louis, who died in office. Dr. Sherwin was the only white physician to head the group. His son, Dr. Charles S. Sherwin, presided over the clinic.

Dr. Eugene H. Dibble, medical director of the John A. Andrew Hospital at Tuskegee Institute, was re-elected secretary-treasurer.

Some five hundred doctors from thirty-four states participated in the interracial clinic.

Clinical Society To Hold Meeting Here April 12-18

The John A. Andrew Clinical Society, in cooperation with the staff of the Veterans Hospital, announced this week that the forty-first annual Clinic and the thirty-fifth annual meeting of the Society will be held at Tuskegee Institute April 12-18.

In announcing the Clinic, Dr. Eugene H. Dibble, Jr., director of the John A. Andrew Memorial Hospital and secretary-treasurer of the Society, stated that this year's Clinic promises to bring together some of the nation's outstanding surgeons and clinicians.

Lectures and clinics by these specialists will be presented in many fields of specialization. Dr. Dibble announced that at least 12 areas will be studied during the period of the clinic.

Dr. Charles S. Sherwin, of St. Louis, is serving as acting president of the John A. Andrew Clinical Society, following the death of his father whom the Society had elected president but who never served. The medical group requested the son to serve.

The John A. Andrew Memorial Society sponsors a clinic which has pioneered in many important problems faced by practicing physicians in many sections of the country.

The program of residency training now in opration between the John A. Andrew Memorial Hospitan and the Veterans hospital and in which the Medical Schools of the University of Alabama and Emory University, in Atlanta, cooperate is an instance of the type of programs spearheaded by this organization.

Once primarily an operational clinic, its emphasis has in recent years been changed to that of a teaching clinic. From 200 to 300 medical and professional specialists appear here annually for the clinic.

Quick Action Necessary—

Noted Heart Surgeon Describes Reviving Heartbeat After Death

By ARTHUR S. OSGOODE
Advertiser State Editor

TUSKEGEE, Ala., April 14—The death of a patient on the operating table because his heart action has stopped is often a needless tragedy, one of America's foremost heart surgeons said here today.

Allowing a patient with good heart and lungs to die without attempting resuscitation is "like turning off the ignition of a car," said Dr. Claude Beck, of Cleveland, O., who did most of the experimental work on emergency heart massage.

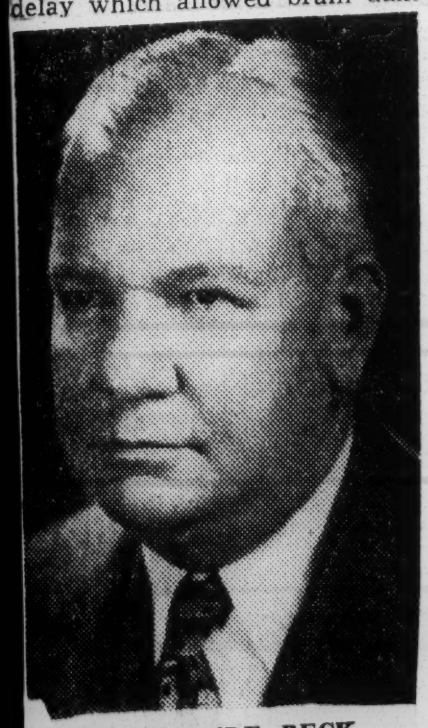
Dr. Beck called the technique of resuscitation "so easy that it makes the loss all the more tragic" when a patient dies because his heart stops.

Doctors should be prepared for this emergency whenever an operation is performed he said. He said breathing apparatus, including a tube and oxygen bag, should near the patients head.

"Society has a right to demand that it is there," he said.

He urged immediate action, since the heart can not stop for more that three to five minutes without damaging the brain.

A film showing the actual reviving of heart action in a patient who nevertheless died because of delay which allowed brain damage supplemented his explanation of the technique.



DR. CLAUDE BECK

Doctors also had an opportunity in the afternoon to watch the actual process of causing a heart to begin to beat.

Dr. Asa Yancey, chief surgeon of the John A. Andrew Memorial Hospital, demonstrated the technique on anesthetized dogs.

Doctors gathered at today's sessions of the John A. Andrew Clinical Society at Tuskegee Institute also heard the developer of the widely used Kahn test for syphilis describe recent research discoveries in his field.

Dr. Reuben L. Kahn, chief of the serology laboratory at the University of Michigan, also predicted that syphilis was disappearing from the earth.

The modern rapid tests, of which his own Kahn test was the forerunner, and quicker, more effective treatment have caused a decline in the disease that is "almost a miracle," he said.

Dr. Kahn said the disease is disappearing at such a rate that it is now hard to get material for clinical study, even in places like Brazil.

A professor in clinical obstetrics of the Medical College of Alabama, Dr. T. M. Boulware, of Birmingham, revealed that hemorrhage is now the "number one cause of maternal deaths in Alabama."

Last year, he added, there were 37 deaths in childbirth due to hemorrhage in Alabama. He said many of these deaths could be attributed to avoidable "man-made" hemorrhages.

He declared that immediate action is necessary to halt hemorrhaging.

Dr. Frank A. Kay, professor of psychiatry at the Medical College of Alabama, described the influence of the "masochistic factor" in certain patients who seem to suffer more than others from pain.

He described this as "indulging in misery."

The patient of this type has an attitude, which Dr. Kay expressed as: "You see how helpless I am; I'm depending on you to help me."

Patients with this masochistic factor should not be given total relief from pain, he warned, but should be tactfully shown that they are exaggerating their symptoms.

Dr. Gilbert F. Douglas, professor of gynecology of the Medical College of Alabama, described findings on cancerous growths in women as he spoke on "Carcinoma in Situ."

Dr. E. Perry crump, chairman of the department of pediatrics of Meharry Medical College, Nashville, described methods of treating extreme eczema in infants. Dr. J. M. Robinson, senior resident in pediatrics at Meharry, described methods of diagnosis and management of convulsive seizures in infants and children.

The sessions this afternoon ended with a symposium on psychosomatic medicine by Dr. P. P. Barker, Dr. E. T. Odom, Dr. I. D. London, Dr. D. J. Thompson, and Dr. James T. Morton, all of the staff of the Tuskegee Veterans Administration Hospital.

Doctors attending the clinical society meeting also watched a a color film showing the removal of cataracts from the eye, with a discussion of cataract surgery by Dr. H. G. Dwiggins, chief of the ophthalmology section of the Veterans Hospital.

Sessions continue tomorrow at the John A. Andrew Memorial Hospital.

PHYSICIANS URGED TO INFORM PUBLIC

A. M. A. Editor Tells Tuskegee Meeting to Link Research to Family Prosperity

By JOHN N. POPHAM
Special to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

TUSKEGEE, Ala., April 12—The medical profession was urged today by Dr. Austin Smith, editor of The Journal of the American Medical Association, to put more emphasis on acquainting the public with the role of recent advances in medical research in strengthening and enriching both the family and the community.

Dr. Smith spoke at the opening session of the forty-first annual meeting of the John A. Andrew Clinical Society on the campus of Tuskegee Institute. Some 500 physicians, medical teachers, research and clinical personnel, diagnosticians, public health experts and nursing directors from thirty-four states are attending the sessions, which will be held through Saturday.

The society's annual conferences are designed to foster interracial and intersectional relationships in the medical profession for sharing skills and experience to serve the needy sick of the rural South. Dr. Charles S. Sherwin of St. Louis is president of the society and Dr. Eugene H. Diddbe Jr., medical director at Tuskegee, is secretary-treasurer.

"America's strength comes not alone from its mechanical ingenuity or its great system of political freedoms," Dr. Smith told the conference. "It also is strong because of its general freedom from disease and the constant effort to prmoote the well-being of its people.

Impact on Economics

"Medical research has given us amazing new drugs and antibiotics which bring a great sense of security and happiness to the family unit by putting the breadwinner back on his feet in quick order and by greatly reducing the strain and costs on other family members formerly required to give long personal attendance to the ill member.

"This, in turn, strengthens the community unit because it means that workers are more often available for production."

"Too often," Dr. Smith said, "the medical profession has accepted the findings of its research division without taking pains to prepare answers for an inquiring lay public on what this research means in general living terms. I urge the teachers, clinicians and practicing physicians to improve the distribution of this kind of information."

Following Dr. Smith's talk, Dr. Fred D. Patterson, president of Tuskegee, announced that the Russell Foundation, established by the late Benjamin Russell Jr., an Albama cotton mill owner, had voted a gift of $100,000 to the institute to establish a nursery school and laboratory for studies in child care and child psychology.

Mr. Russell's widow and their son, Thomas, and daughter, Mrs. J. C. Allison, who direct the family foundation, were present for the announcement. They live in Alexander City, about fifty miles north of here.

"Most Important" Advance

Mrs. Frances P. Bolton, Republican Representative from Ohio, also addressed the opening session and expressed the hope that "the medical profession will take more cognizance of the nurses' value toe medical research because of bedside nursing that brings them closer to the patient for most of the ill period."

Mrs. Bolton said she would like to see better training programs to teach nurses greater skill in observing patients and reporting their findings to physicians.

Dr. Paul D. White, Professor of Medicine at the Harvard Medical School and a noted heart specialist, also stressed the need for an improved medical charting of sick persons. He said that "perhaps the most important advance of all in modern diagnostic procedures has been the improvement in the recording of the actual history of the patient."

Speaking on mental disease, Dr. White also said that "a return to the more rugged virtues of bygone days, such as courage, optimism, patience, equanimity and fortitude, may reduce somewhat the great mass of psychoneurotics of today, fostered in some instances, at least, by the soft pushbutton existence and the national paternalism that have become bad habits in this country during the last decade or two."

Founder's Day exercises, commemorating the establishment of the institute seventy-two years ago by Booker T. Washington, were held in conjunction with the opening session of the medical conference. The speaker was Dr. Guy B. Johnson, Professor of Sociology and Anthropology at the University of North Carolina.

Dr. Johnson said that if lawsuits attacking the constitutionality of racial segregation in the South's public schools were upheld by the Supreme Court, the people of the South should exhibit patience and "those who believe in the Christian way of life and the principles of American democracy [should] not hesitate to stand up and be counted, lest the rabble-rousers and the race-baiters lead the public to believe that they are in the majority."

500 Expected to Attend John Andrew Clinical Society Meeting at Tuskegee

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, Ala. — (ANP) — Some of the nation's leading medical and surgical specialists will address about 500 physicians from all over the nation who will attend the 41st annual meeting of the John A. Andrew Clinical society at Tuskegee institute here, April 12-16.

In conjunction with the clinic the society's dental section also will meet for its annual Dental Health assembly.

One of the highlights of the week will be a banquet on Wednesday evening, April 15, which will be attended by members of the clinical society, the staff of the Veterans hospital, Tuskegee institute, and members of the community. Dr. F. D. Patterson, president of Tuskegee institute, will be the speaker for the occasion.

A feature of the session will be the contribution of the dental service for the Veterans hospital to the meeting of the John A. Andrew Clinical society. This unit will present an exhibit, "The Growth And Development Of The Negro In Dentistry In The United States."

This exhibit will be presented in four parts, which are entitled: Crude Dental Practices During Slavery, Encouragement of Dental Apprentices to Study Dentistry, Negro Medical Societies Stimulate Formation of Negro Dental Societies and Functioning of Ladies Auxiliary to NDA.

Material for the exhibit is taken from a book by Dr. Clifton O. Dummett, chief, dental service, Veterans hospital, Tuskegee institute.

On the medical side, the local public will attend a lecture on, "What You Should Know About Your Heart," on Sunday, April 12. This lecture will be given by Dr. Paul White, noted heart specialist of Harvard Medical school.

The names of those medical personalities who will attend the meeting reads like a "Who's Who of Medicine." Among them are: D. T. Wolfe, dean of the School of Medicine, Meharry Medical college; Claude S. Beck, professor of Cardiac surgery, Western Reserve university school of medicine; Milton Davis, Jr., University of Wisconsin school of medicine; John B. Johnson, head of department of medicine, Howard university; Robert Elman, Washington university school of medicine; M. Jack Frumin, College of Physicians and Surgeons of Columbia university;

Also Harold D. West, president of Meharry Medical college; R. Frank Jones, Howard university school of medicine; Carter L. Marshall, Yale university school of medicine; Reuben L. Kahn, University of Michigan; W. C. Atkinson, president of the National Medical association; Austin Smith, editor and managing publisher of the Journal of the American Medical association; W. F. B. James, Meharry Medical college.

And Robert R. Smith, National Cancer institute and also of George Washington university school of medicine; Joseph F. A. McManus, Medical college of Alabama; Lloyd H. Newman, Howard university; A. Charles Posner, Harlem hospital, and Aaron Pristot, Harlem hospital.

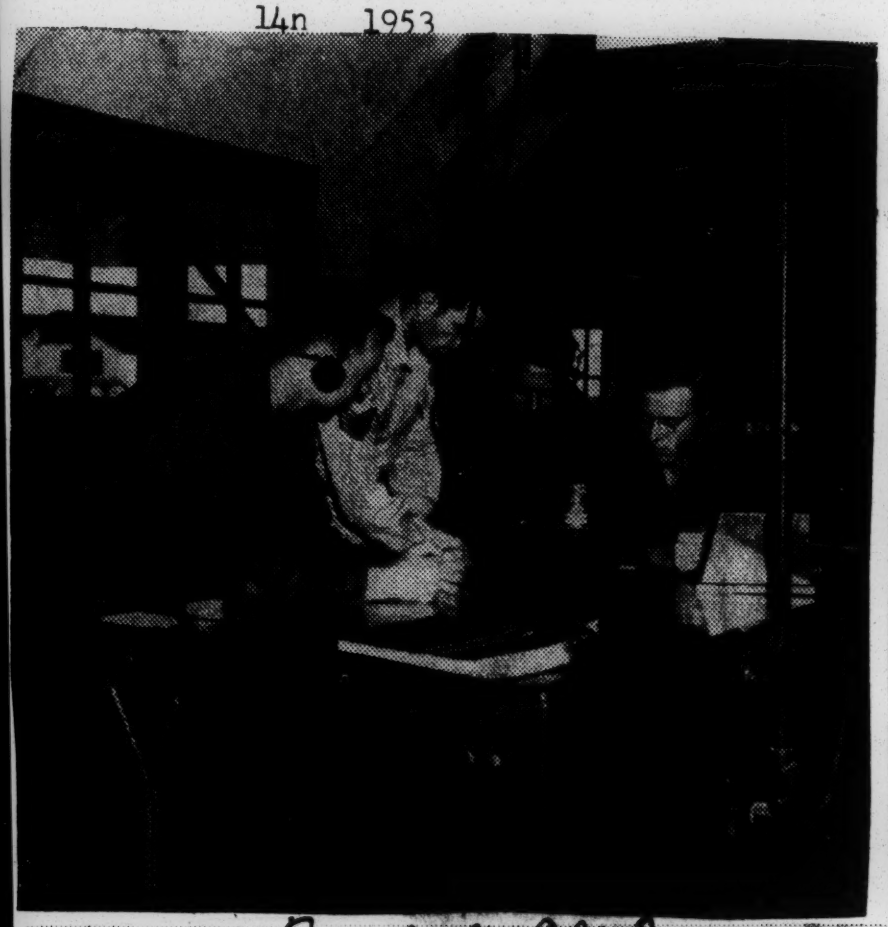
14n 1953

John A. Andrew Society to Meet

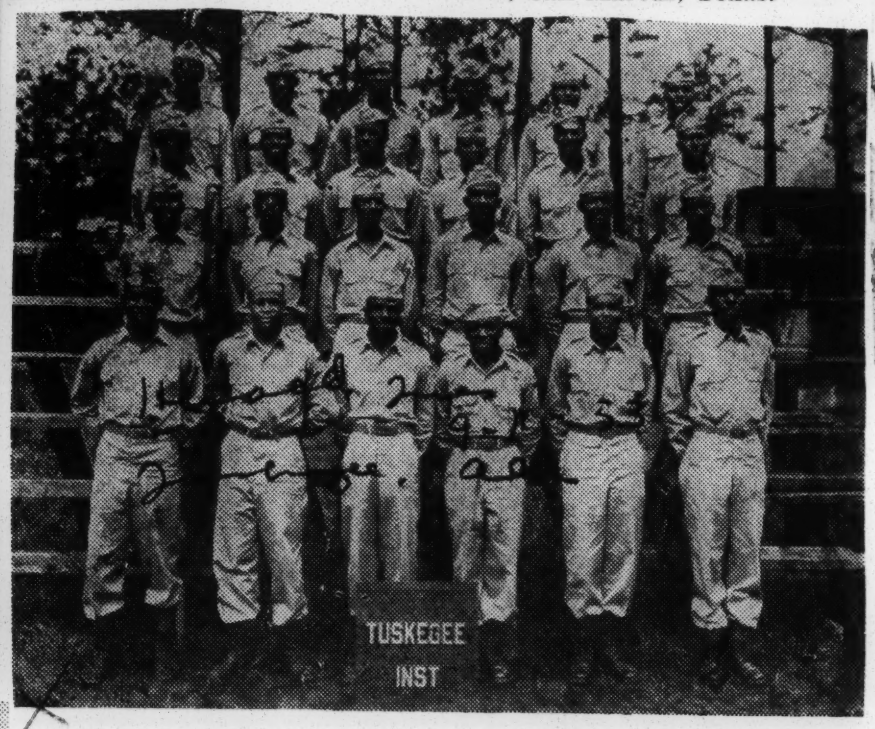
TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, Ala. —(ANP)—The forty-first annual clinic and the thirty-fifth annual meeting of the John A. Andrew Clinical Society will meet at Tuskegee Institute here April 12-18, it was announced last week.

14n 1953

ROTC



of AFROTC in summer encampment at Gary AFB, San Marcus, Texas. One is a Tuskegee Institute AFROTC cadet. The picture below shows Tuskegee Institute Cadets Sidney McLaurin and Charles H. Lawson examining apparel worn by firemen during aircraft fires and crashes at Gary AFB, San Marcus, Texas.



INSTITUTE ROTC AT CAMP—The Tuskegee Institute Infantry ROTC, headed by Maj. Walter H. Dabney, sent 24 cadets to the six-weeks Summer camp at Fort Benning, Ga. Of the several hundred college students enrolled for the Summer camp, Johnnie Carter, Tuskegee Institute student from Houston, Texas, was designated as the most outstanding cadet. He is a junior in the department of physical education. Shown above are left to right, front row: Wilford M. Bailey, Clayborn Williams, Lawrence Wilson, Raymond J. Tilghman, Willie Richards and Vernon Bethea. Second row: James Reddick, Donald Greene, James Glenn, Jimmy Clark, James Hardin, and Leo Powell. Third row: James Tyson, James Jackson, Willie Brundage, Amos D. Farrar, Norvie Oliver and Albert Jackson. Fourth row: James Harris, Milton ward, Joe Trawick, Aaron Kennebrew, John Jones, and Johnnie Carter.

Herald Tuskegee, Ala. Inst. 8-4-53

ATTENDS SUMMER CAMPS—Tuskegee Institute Infantry and Air Force ROTC Cadets attended five different camps this summer as a part of their training program. Many favorable reports have come in on their accomplishments. The picture above shows the operation of the Link Trainer being explained to three members

Reserve Company On Training Tour At Camp Rucker

14n ROTC

Officers and enlisted men of Company B, 926th Engineer Construction Battalion, at Tuskegee Institute, are taking two weeks training at Camp Rucker, Ala. They were joined by the Headquarters and Headquarters and Service Company from Opelika at Tuskegee. The 926th Engineer Construction Battalion, is training with its parent unit, the 412th Engineer Brigade, which consists of units from Alabama, Mississippi, Georgia and Florida. The officers and enlisted men will receive refresher training in all phases of military instruction.

Lt. Bennie T. Lyman, Jr., is the commanding officer of Company B. The other officers are Lt. Theodore Jones, Jr., Lt. George Brooks, Jr., Lt. Pedro Pointer and Lt. Sim Bellamy, Jr. Just prior to leaving for training, Lt. Jones was promoted to first lieutenant. n.m. 4-14-53

The enlisted men receiving training are M-Sgt. Wilson H. Richburg, SFC Harvey J. Guinn, SFC Charlie W. Hayden, SFC Cecil R. Walker, Sgt. Fred D. Brown, Sgt. Robert L. Gardner, Sgt. Francisco C. Herrera, Jr., Sgt. Elmer Jackson, Cpl. Jesse B. Gullante, Cpl. Wilson Moore, Cpl. Grant Pickins, Jr., Pfc. Ceotis Barrow, Pfc. Henderson Freeman, Pfc. Edward Harrison, Jr., Pfc. Otis Smith, Pvt. Edgar M. Crawford, Pvt. Ira L. Foster, Pvt. David McNeil, Jr., and Pvt. Miles, Jr.

ROTC System At Institute Due For Change In Fall

Herald June 7 1953

ROTC students at the Tuskegee Institute will find a change when they return to school in the Fall. Tuskegee has been picked as the first college in the state to try a new type of Reserve Officers Training Corps training system in an effort by the Army to streamline its ROTC program, announces Col. Herbert G. Sitler, chief of the Alabama Military District.

Previously, ROTC graduates from Tuskegee were commissioned only in the infantry. Under the new program, they will get a chance at other branches of the Army dependent on new tests, interviews and other criteria being set up by the Department of the Army.

Instead of specializing in one particular branch of the Army, such as infantry, the new program will be called general military science and will be designed to prepare an ROTC graduate for several branches of the Army.

Under the present system, after a cadet has finished two years of basic ROTC, required by most colleges for non-prior service students, and accepted for senior ROTC his last two years, he begins immediately to prepare for the branch of service he selects.

There are many drawbacks to class standing, his major subjects this system, such as an overflow in school, his leadership abilities, of officers in certain branches classification tests and interviews such as quartermaster, signal corps by Regular Army and College and others. Choices of branches representatives.
of service now at Tuskegee will depend on the student's ROTC

14n 1953

See Other Side-SCHOOL OF NURSING

ALABAMA STATE APPROPRIATION

House Zooms Appropriation Bill Approval

P. 1

$46,000,000 Measure Passed In 6 Minutes; One Question Asked

By GEOFFREY BIRT

The House of Representatives took only six minutes yesterday to give its stamp of approval to an almost $46,000,000 general appropriations bill.

Only one question was asked about the bill. No amendments were offered. No one in the state capitol can remember when the general appropriations bill, from which most state agencies will live for the next two years, was passed with such speed and ease.

The bill authorizes expenditures of $22,689,699 for next year, and $23,229,354 for 1954-55.

The speed with which this big money bill passed the House staggered former Lt. Gov. Clarence Inzer, of Gadsden, visiting here yesterday on business, and interested in some railroad bills.

With a surprised look Inzer left the House as soon as the 90-0 vote was announced, and went to the Senate, where he told friends that he didn't think it could happen here—but it had.

Twenty members of the state Senate signed an agreement yesterday to work 'til 5 p.m., with only an hour off for lunch.

So at 12:10 p.m., the Senate recessed for chow.

But when the hour was up and Lt. Gov. James B. Allen called the Senate back to order, only six members answered the roll call. That wasn't enough to transact business, so they recessed for another 50 minutes until 2 p.m.

One of those who didn't make it back on time was Sen. J. M. Bonner, of Wilcox County—the man who originated the "get down to work" petition.

As lieutenant governor, Inzer had presided in the Senate during the stormy 1947 and 1949 sessions of the Folsom administration. In 1949 the appropriation bills were only passed at the last minute after weeks of heated debate, and even one almost all night caucus in a Montgomery downtown hotel.

Time Table For Passage

Yesterday's time table for this record breaking passage of the general fund's appropriation bill was as follows:

Speaker Roberts Brown, Lee, resumed his seat on the dais where Speaker pro tem Bob Kendall, Conecuh, had been presiding.

It was 11:50 a.m. He gave the floor to Rep. Noble Russell, of Morgan, one of Gov. Gordon Persons' two chief floor leaders in the House.

Russell took up the money bill. He said that the members had reecived a copy of the big document last Friday and no doubt had now read and studied it.

He drew attention to the fact that the House Ways and Means Committee had been working on the bill for months; had held many public hearings; had heard from every affected department. Acknowledging that "you can't please everyone" he thought that, by and large, most interested parties were satisfied.

Russell said the bill before the House was a substitute bill. He said that it called for an expenditure of some $490,000 more than that recommended by the governor for the first year (1953-54), and $445,120 more than the chief executive had proposed for 1954-55.

The Morgan legislator warned the House: "If we go much higher we'll affect two things—appropriations proposed for the tuberculosis sanitariums and hospitals for the mentally sick, and monies proposed for welfare."

He said further that he had talked with the governor, and that the chief executive had concurred in the bill's proposals, and had thought the money would be available.

At this point Rep. Sam Engelhardt, Macon, asked: "As we all know, the Korean War is over. . . . Is consideration being given to the possibility that revenues may be down?"

Russell assured him that the matter had not been overlooked. He did not know if revenues would be affected. But he pointed out that "revenues supporting the general fund are from a fairly steady, stable source — not like some of the trust funds . . ."

The House voted to adopt the substitute bill, on Russell's motion, at 11:54. It did so unanimously.

Then Russell moved passage of the bill. There was no objection. Legislators pressed the switches on their desks to record their votes on the electrical voting register. Ninety green lights at once flashed on the board. No "nay" votes were cast. Speaker Brown called for the machine to be locked and the vote tallied.

At 11:56 a.m., Brown announced the bill was passed, and the gavel fell. The 1953 general appropriations bill was en route to the Senate.

Afterwards Rep. Russell was asked: "Were you surprised there was no opposition, no amendments?"

Russell replied: "Just say I was very pleased. I think it's a good bill, and one which can be paid. It will take care of the most crucial needs of the day.

Outside the House chamber, members were besieging the elevators to go to the capitol cafeteria, or downtown, for lunch.

And many were saying they had never before heard of such a bill passing with such ease and speed.

The House came along later to approve another to appropriate $225,000 a year to Tuskegee Institute for undergraduate and graduate instruction in engineering and veterinary medicine and for graduate work in home economics and agriculture.

A bill to take away employment rights of state employes who join labor unions or participate in them while working for the state touched off a floor battle in the lower chamber that lasted nearly two hours.

It finally passed 58-17 after opponents ran out of ammunition in the form of amendments and proposed substitute bills to modify its provisions.

Rep. Emory Solomon of Henry, the sponsor, said the people who pay the tax bills are entitled to protection against disruptions that can come from public employes being members of labor organizations.

Opponents, led by Rep. Ed Morgan of Tuscaloosa and Rep. George Hawkins of Etowah, contended the bill aimed at taking away constitutional rights of the employes to join any organization they please provided it was not subersive.

Rep. Morgan argued that a person doesn't have to give up any citizenship rights when taking a job with the state. He and others opposing the Solomon bill said they believed it was clearly unconstitutional.

Across the corridor, Sen. J. M. Bonner of Wilcox tried in vain to force another labor measure, the "right to work" bill, up ahead of schedule. Defeated, he said he will try again Friday.

Bonner sought to compel the Rules Committee to meet by objecting to immediate consideration of a House resolution adjourning the legislature until Friday. His obpection sent the resolution to the Rules Committee.

Had the committee met, Bonner could have moved for a special order calendar giving priority to the "right to work" measure, but Chairman Preston Clayton of Barbour declined to call a meeting and the two houses recessed separately.

Bonner said he will use the same strategy Friday on the theory that a joint resolution will be necessary to recess over the week end until the following Tuesday. The constitution prohibits adjournment for more than three days except by joint approval of both Houses.

The Senate meanwhile passed and sent to the House a compromise bill to put more teeth into Alabama's anti-stream pollution law. It would give the present water improvement commission much wider authority to control pollution from all sources instead of merely as a health menace.

Also approved, and sent to the governor, was a House bill raising the pay of supernumerary (retired) Supreme Court justices from $4,000 to $6,000 a year, plus $300 a month while actually on the bench.

Killed was a Senate bill to make dual wheel trucks use med flaps or shields to keep them from slinging rocks against cars behind them.

After lunch the House quickly passed a series of smaller appropriation bills which go along with the general spending measure, all without opposition.

They provide $34,000 a year to the Southern Industrial Institute, $13,000 to the Alabama Vocational School for Girls, $2,500 to the support of the Council of State Governments, and $2,000 to the State Employes' Suggestion Committee.

The House approved a $225,000 appropriation for Tuskegee Institute for undergraduate and graduate work in engineering and veterinary medicine, and graduate work in home economics and agriculture.

The bill was sponsored by Rep. Karl Harrison, Shelby.

Rep. Dave Mathews, Clarke, raised the question that a suit had been filed in Birmingham for Negroes to enter the University of Alabama. He thought that this appropriation should be voted only if the "segregation laws of Alabama" are "not broken down."

But when the vote was taken, only Mathews and Rep. Gregory Oakley, Wilcox, were recorded opposing the appropriation.

The oft-recurring poll tax question arose again, meanwhile, with the introduction of companion bills in the House and Senate to permit the payment of the tax any time during the year except within 30 days prior to an election.

The proposed constitutional amendment to give more time was sponsored in the House by Reps. Vester Bush and Willard Pienezza, of Elmore County, and across the hall by Sen. Truman Reneau, also of Elmore.

Raising School Revenue

Another constitutional amendment, aimed at raising more school revenue, made its appearance in the Senate under the names of Sens. E. W. Skidmore, of Tuscaloosa, Elvin McCary, of Calhoun, John Will Johnson Jr., of Chambers, and Herbert A. Byars, of Hale.

It would permit any county to raise its property tax limit to 12 mills. Along with it came companion bills providing for use of the additional revenue and for holding elections.

As the Senate moved along its calendar, Sen. Albert Boutwell, of Jefferson, sought in vain to get the controversial barber shop regulation bill passed as a gesture of friendliness toward Sen. Amos Jones, of Lauderdale, who is ill.

Opposition Too Great

But the opposition to the measure was too great, and it was recommitted to the health committee. The bill would regulate the barbering profession and set up sanitary standards in all counties except those which already have local laws.

The Senate killed a proposed constitutional amendment to require the advertising of general bills of local application which are used to get around the present constitutional provision that strictly local bills must be advertised.

Sens. John Pinson, of Sumter, the author, George Quarles, of Dallas, and Judson Locke, of Perry all appealed for passage of the amendment, but it lacked six votes of getting the required 21.

Quarles challenged his colleagues:

"If we want to pass local legislation, let's have the guts to advertise them and let the people know what we intend to do."

Locke protested that local bills "are getting worse all the time" and that the legislature is "abusing the courtesy privilege" of passing such legislation without question.

General bills with local application are handled on a population basis without mentioning any county, but usually breeze through the legislature with the same courtesy rule that prevails for local measures.

Sen. E. W. Skidmore, of Tuscaloosa, defended the practice on the grounds that it is necessary to meet problems that arise when it isn't enough time to advertise local legislation.

Although the proposed constitutional amendment is dead now, it could be revived Friday. Sen. John Whatley, of Lee, who voted for it, changed his vote so he can be in position to ask for reconsideration.

For Nursing Education At Tuskegee

Representative Frank Tennile, of Montgomery, and Senator John Pinson, of Sumter County, are serving the public interest in backing legislation that would establish a School of Nursing at Tuskegee Institute.

The shortage of well qualified nurses in Alabama is widely recognized. There can be no doubt that Tuskegee would find a wealth of applicants for training in this important humanitarian service.

The Tuskegee Institute record of accomplishment justifies the expansion proposed by Mr. Tennille and Mr. Pinson. Approval of the plan by the Legislature would be good for Alabama.

Work Slows Up In Legislature

House Unit Approves Tuskegee Nurse Bill

MONTGOMERY, Sept. 2 (AP)—Committee work tapered off sharply in the Alabama Legislature today as lawmakers shuffled through the few bills with any chance of passage this session.

With only three more legislative days left, measures which haven't passed one house or the other and can't make special order calendars are as good as dead.

While it is technically possible to get bills up for final passage if they come out of committee by next Tuesday, there is not much hope for them at this late hour.

A $40,000 conditional appropriation for graduate nurse training at Tuskegee won approval of the House Ways and Means Committee today. It goes on the calendar for final action next Tuesday.

The Senate Finance Committee gave clearance to a House-approved $100,000 conditional appropriation to compensate owners for livestock destroyed under the state campaign to stamp out deadly livestock diseases.

This group also approved a House-passed bill to hike the pay of the State Archives and History director from $4200 to $7500 a year.

The sponsor, Rep. Frank Tennille of Montgomery, said the salary for this position hasn't been raised substantially in 33 years.

Mrs. Marie Bankhead Owens, who has held the job since 1920, has announced she will not seek reappointment when her present term runs out in March, 1955.

State Money For Tuskegee Institute

According to newspaper stories, Tuskegee Institute, a private institution, is seeking to triple the amount of money it has been getting from the State. It seeks annually for the next two years $1,195,191 instead of the $300,000 it is getting each year at the present time. Used p. 8

There is the question of how much state money Tuskegee can accept and still remain independent. Another question is whether those who seek to assist Tuskegee in getting this money do so with the thought of denying to Negro citizens benefits provided in the state universities. Regardless of how much money the state puts into Tuskegee that does not lessen the obligations of the public institutions to its citizens regardless of race.

A further danger is that Tuskegee will come to look upon this state assistance as a necessity. Others hostile to Negro citizens having what is due them could eye that institution as a way of depriving Negro citizens of a right established by the federal courts.

Tuskegee Institute's fine president, Dr. F. D. Patterson is quoted as giving the impression to the budget planners in his testimony April 1 that certain courses offered to white students are not offered in Alabama state schools which admit Negroes but at all—Negro Tuskegee. Such testimony, if it is quoted correctly, could one day place that institution in the predicament of being asked to turn itself over to the state. Birmingham Ala.

It is a sad commentary on the Negro leadership of this state that the court decisions which could be used as a key to open the doors of the state-supported institutions to Negro schools are allowed to remain idle. No Negro is seeking admission to the state law school. No Negro is trying to get into the medical school. No Negro is insisting on attending the engineering school at Auburn.

It is obvious that this state cannot bring its education for Negro citizens up to that provided white citizens without new sources of money. Nor can increased appropriations to Tuskegee Institute catch up all of the racial inequality slack in higher education. This problem, we think, should be faced honestly and intelligently. Ms 4-3-53

This newspaper recognizes the excellent work being done at Tuskegee and believes that this institution can make a case on its merit for more money. To involve the appeal for more funds in the question of integrated higher education serves no useful purpose, it seems to us. It has nothing whatever to do with the grade school, cases pending before the Supreme Court, except in a larger way.

Let Tuskegee have an increased appropriation on merit.

Patterson Seeks More Funds For Tuskegee Inst.

Used Ms. 4-3-53 Birmingham Ala.

EARLIER IN yesterday's budget hearings Tuskegee's Dr. F. D. Patterson, its president, asked that the Legislature raise the state's appropriation to the graduate schools at the Negro college from the current $300,000 yearly to $1,194,191 for each of the next two years.

In asking this 300 per cent increase, Dr. Patterson warned that it probably would be wise for the Legislature to appropriate money for higher education for Negroes where there is a need for it.

He said that although some might be reluctant to appropriate more money for Tuskegee because of the impending segregation ruling by the U. S. Supreme Court, "it would be money well spent."

Dr. Patterson said that regardless of how the high court rules on racial segregation, there will be Negro students who will want to attend Negro schools.

Tuskegee's president urged more state support particularly for the school's veterinary medicine, nursing, agricultural and engineering programs.

Backing Dr. Patterson's plea before the commission was State Sen. John H. Pinson, Sumter County's veteran lawmaker and Tuskegee Institute board member, who has done much to help obtain state appropriations to the Negro school.

Sen. Pinson pointed out that "no Negroes are knocking on the door at Auburn or University of Alabama to get in as students," adding that he thought the state ought to do everything it can to aid in providing adequate facilities at Tuskegee for training Negro students.

"TUSKEGEE IS basically an Alabama institution and is not controlled and run by a bunch of rich Yankees," said Pinson. "It is not anti-Southern. As a matter of fact, it is pro-Southern.

Dr. Patterson told commission members Boutwell, Rep. Noble Russell, State Finance Director D. W. Hodo and State Budget Director Jake Jordan that the two largest gifts to the Negro school had come from Southerners -- an Alabamian and a Georgian. He said these would soon be announced.

"I hope you will go along with Dr. Patterson's request," added Sen. Pinson, "especially to provide more funds at Tuskegee for nursing and veterinary medicine."

MONTGOMERY, Ala. — Reminding educational budget makers that Alabama is providing training for white citizens in certain areas not available to Negro citizens, Dr. F. D. Patterson asked that appropirations for his institution be tripled over that of last year.

He asked a budget study committee April 1 for $1,195,191 for each of the next two years in contrast to the current yearly outlay of $300,000. This would amount to an increase of $894,191 annually.

Dr. Patterson suggested to the legislative budget committee that Tuskegee needed the money increase to bolster its courses in agriculture, home economics, engineering, nursing, natural science and medical technology.

The Tuskegee Institute head was quoted as saying that the committee should not wait to determine its course in finance for Negro-available education because there is a need for additional education for Negro people. (The cases pending before the United States Supreme Court have nothing to do with higher education. That question has been settled by the courts. It is possible that Negro students could legally win admission to the University of Alabama and to Auburn should they apply. Two Birmingham Negro students are currently awaiting admission to the University of Alabama although they have been refused enrollment.)

State Senator John H. Pinson who represents Pickens and Sumter Counties pointed out that Tuskegee, despite the fact that most of its trustees are from outside the South, maintains "the Southern outlook." He is one of the six state appointed trustees. He urged the committee to do everything humanly possible to provide better educational facilities.

14n 1953 ALABAMA STATE APPROPRIATION

BILL S. 68 by PINSON
CONDITIONAL APPROPRIATION
SCHOOL OF NURSING- TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE

Both general, local measures—

Senate, House push 133 bills through on final day

BY HUGH W. SPARROW
News staff writer

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Sept. 12—Working at a steady pace from 9 a.m. until well after dark, the House and Senate passed scores of general and local bills Friday, on the concluding day of the 1953 legislative session.

Among the wide assortment of Senate bills given final passage by the House was S. B. 317 which requires the sale of gasoline tax anticipation warrants by counties on a strict bidding basis.

Speaker Roberts Brown was so interested in passing the bill he surrendered his gavel and took the floor to debate.

The bill was regarded of particular significance in that it is expected to bring about a better price for county securities than under the so-called negotiated contract sale procedure now generally used by county governments.

During Friday's closing legislative session, 133 bills were passed —87 in the Senate and 46 in the House.

Among the House measures given final passage by the Senate was a measure prohibiting the State Planning Board director from accepting outside jobs.

Another bill passed Friday was the somewhat watered down version of Rep. James B. Morgan's bill which originally banned books and other writings in the public schools by Commies.

PASSED BY HOUSE:

S. 122, by Andrews: Amending Sec. 571, Title 37, so as to clarify the provisions under which bonds may be issued by muncipalities to pay the cost of public improvements after completion of the work.

S. 123, by Andrews: Amending Sec. 519, Title 37 to amend provisions pertaining to the items of expense which may be included in the cost of public improvements constructed by a municipality.

S. 126, by Andrews: Making further provisions respecting the payment of directors' fees to members of the board of directors of any corporation heretofore or hereafter organized pursuant to the provisions of Secs. 394 to 401, inclusive of Title 37, etc.

S. 130, by Andrews: Amending Sec. 3 of Act 648 of 1949 so as to eliminate therefrom any requirement for publication of notices of meetings of the board of directors of industrial development boards organized under provisions of said act so as to permit the filing for record of leases made by such boards without the payment of any tax thereon.

S. 127, by Andrews: Amending Sec. 279, Title 37, relating to the conduct of municipal bond elections so as to provide that in cases where voting machines are used the election officials shall be appointed and the election shall be conducted in accordance with the applicable provisions contained in the statutes pertaining to use of voting machines.

S. 129, by Andrews: Amending Sec. 447, Title 37.

S. 188, by Andrews: Authorizing any and every city or town to assess for the costs of street improvements and sewers any lot or lots, parcel or parcels of land purchased by the state at any sale for non-payment of taxes, and to provide that any redemptioner or purchaser at any sale by the state of any lot, parcel or parcels of land upon which an assessment has been levied shall take the same subject to such assessment.

S. 408, by Foster and others: Authorizing municipalities to create and establish municipal waterworks utility boards, etc.

S. 400, by Andrews: Providing for the validation, prior to the issuance of bonds, warrants, certificates of indebtedness nd notes of certain public corporations and public boards, etc.

S. 330, by Andrews: Amending Sec. 364, Article 1, Chapt. 7, Title 37.

S. 187, by Andrews: Amending Sec. 483, Title 37, relating to the filing of census reports so that the said election shall not be limited to municipalities of 7000 or less.

S. 214, by Andrews: Amending Sec. 793, Title 37, relating to the procedure to be followed by city or regional planning commission when adopting a plan for physical development of the municipality.

S. 271, by Farmer: Amending Act. No. 388. of 1945, which provides for the insuring of employes of the State Department of Public Safety, so as to provide for additional benefits not to exceed $10,000 per employe for the payment of hospital and medical expenses.

S. 68, by Pinson: Making a conditional appropriation to the state superintendent of education of $40,000 for the purpose of contracting with Tuskegee Institute for undergraduate instruction of Alabama residents in a four-year course leading to the bachelor of science degree in nursing.

S. 427, by Johnson: For the relief of Paul Strength.

S. 154, by Bocke of Perry: Providing that the day set by law for holding the regular primary in Alabama shall be a legal holiday, to provide for the dismissal of schools and state supported institutions of higher learning on that day, etc.

S. 302, by Wright: Amending Sec. 85, Title 22, relating to the promulgation and enforcement of rules for the operation of food-handling establishments.

S. 420, by Byars and McCary: Further relgulating the granting of certain scholarships to the University of Alabama.

S. 303, by Hollis and others: Making an appropriation for the erection of a permanent marker on the highway in front of the home site of the Hon. John Hollis Bankhead at Sulligent.

S. 473, by Boutwell: Authorizing the Birmingham Waterworks Board and all other waterworks boards in Jefferson County to collect sewer rentals or service charges authorized under the provisions of Act 61 of 1949.

S. 507, by Jones: Altering the boundary of Rogersville in Lauderdale County.

S. 508, by Johnston: Providing funds for the maintenance and operation of a county health department under the direction of the Mobile County health officer.

S. 484, by Jones: Permitting certain state banks in Lauderdale to operate branches.

S. 500, by Todd: Fixing the pay of the Franklin County commissioner of public schools.

S. 409, by Foster and others: Authorizing municipalities to create municipal gas utility boards, etc.

S. 71, by Robison: Amending Title 51, Sec. 504, relating to licenses for dentists.

S. 163, by Whatley: Amending an act of 1943 known as "the bread, flour and corn meal enrichment act."

S. 436, by Boutwell and Richardson: Defining the words, term and phrase "truck trailer and semi-trailer" when used in Art. 10, Title 51, relative to the use tax.

S. 22, by Boutwell and Phillips: Providing for the transfer on Sept. 30, 1955 of any surplus in the state treasury to the credit of the Alabama Special Educational Trust Fund, to the Alabama State Building Commission Fund.

S. 49, by Johnson and Skidmore: Amending Sec. 1 of Title 42, by providing for the appointment of the members of the Board of Pardons and Paroles.

S. 148, by Foster and others: Providing that in every primary, general or municipal election in which candidates are to be nominated or elected to two or more offices of the same classification, the candidates shall be elected by places designated by number. (Jefferson County excluded from the bill.)

S. 435, by Boutwell and Bonner: Amending Sec. 1 of an act of 1945 which created the Commission on Education with Respect to Alcoholism, etc.

S. 317, by Johnson, Whatley and Robison: Regulating further the issuance and sale of gasoline tax anticipation warrants by counties. (Requires sale on strict bidding basis.)

S. 149, by Hollis and others: Prescribing the purpose for which and the manner in which the seals of voting machines may be broken.

S. 150, by Foster and others: Requiring that all keys to voting machines not in the possession of election officials on election day be delivered to the authority having jurisdiction over the election by not later than 7 o'clock p.m. the day on which the election is held.

S. 151, by Foster and others: Amending Sec. 279, Title 17, relating to the itemization of statements of campaign expenditures and contributions, the swearing to such statements and the time of filing the statements.

S. 152, by Foster and others: Prescribing the rights of watchers at elections in which voting machines are used, etc.

S. 235, by Johnson and Whatley: Amending Sec. 299, Title 55, relating to the powers and duties of the director of the State Personnel Department, etc.

S. 456, by McCary: Providing for the city of Anniston in Calhoun County a civil service system of governing the appointment, removal, salaries, tenure and official conduct of employes of the city, etc.

S. 239, by Gamble: Amending Sec. 298, Title 61, which provides for notices on settlement of estates.

S. 344, by Robison: Ameding Sec. 65, Title 58.

S. 324, by Faulkner: Ameding Title 2, Sec. 661, relating to soil conservation.

S. 485, by Hollis: Amending Sec. 44, Title 23.

S. 324, by Faulkner: Amending Title 2, Sec. 661, relating to soil conservation districts.

S. 511, by Phillips: Amending Title 15, Sec. 343.

S. 415, by Andrews: Amending Sec. 587, Title 37, relating to appeals from recorder's court.

PASSED BY SENATE:

H. 194, by Harrison (Shelby): Further regulating the handling of statutory deposits heretofore or hereafter made by insurance companies with the state treasurer, etc.

H. 597, by Martin (Greene) and Branyon: Authorizing the governing body of each county which during the next preceding fiscal year collected as much as or more than $40,000 from the special tax of one fourth of one per centum levied under provisions of Sec. 215 of the constitution, etc.

H. 826, by Payne and Leonard: Relating to the boards of education of Talladega County; providing that such boards may secure insurance on school property, etc.

H. 1024, by Leonard and Payne: Further prescribing the duties of the sheriff and solicitor in the enforcement of laws in Talladega County.

H. 1012, by Malone (Houston): Authorizing the Houston County Board of Education to provide insurance for school properties.

H. 1011, by Mathison and Solomon: Amending Act 36 of 1953, which fixed the boundary lines of Abbeville.

H. 1013, by Malone: Authorizinz the Dothan Board of Education to insure school properties.

H. 978, by Plott: Amending Sec. 4 of Act 222 of 1949, which established the Chilton County Law and Equity Court.

H. 1010, by Burkhalter: For the relief of John H. Garrett.

H. 1025, by Grouby: Amending Sec. 3 of Act 445 of 1947 which established the Autauga County Court of Common Pleas.

H. 1009, by Denton: Altering the boundary of Blountsville.

H. 979, by Coburn: Authorizing night time hunting of raccoons and opossums in Colbert County.

H. 1014, by Oden: Providing for payment of certain traveling expenses incurred by the Franklin County sheriff.

H. 987, by Miller and Hawkins (Etowah): Abolishing the Etowah County fine and forfeiture fund.

H. 1020, by Dumas and others: Amending Sec. 302, Title 37, so as to exempt from the operation of some of the provisions thereof the official charged with the duty of collecting local improvement assessments in Birmingham.

H. 1026, by Meeks and others: Amending Act 929 of 1951 so as to make of such system retroactive as well as prospective.

H. 973, by Johnson and others: Providing for the use of certain fish as bait for fishing in the waters of Tallapoosa County.

H. 1017, by Black and Fite (Walker): For the relief of Maude Mooney.

H. 1016, by Black and Fite (Walker): For the relief of Mrs. Herman Treece.

H. 598, by Martin (Greene): Amending Sec. 43 of Title 23 so as to change the time within which the payment of the contract price for the construction or repair of public roads and bridges may be paid.

H. 673, by Molette and others: Empowering municipalities and other political subdivisions to promulgate, administer and enforce airport zoning regulations limiting the height of structures and objects of natural growth.

H. 632, by Wooten and others: Proposing a constitutional amendment relating to special elections to fill vacancies occurring in either house of the Legislature. (No election would be held if just one candidate is running.)

H. 778, by Malone (Houston) and Brannan: Amending further Act 183 of 1943 establishing the State Planning Board. (Bill would prohibit the director from doing outside work and prohibit a board member from holding a job under the board.)

H. 9, by Summerlin and others: Amending further Sec. 17 of an act of 1949 providing for absentee voting, etc.

H. 280, by Roberson: Further prohibiting the condemnation and forfeiture of prohibited liquors and beverages.

H. 649, by Harrison (Shelby): Providing for the disposition of the revenues derived from the sale of sand and gravel taken from public water bottoms and state lands, etc.

H. 813, by Roberson: Making the holding, owning or having in possession of or paying the tax for a federal wagering occupational tax stamp prima facie evidence of violation of the Alabama laws against gambling.

H. 336, by Garrett and Engelhardt: Authorizing the operation of four-wheel trailers on the highways.

H. 617, by Garrett and others: Authorizing the State Highway Department to construct, repair and maintain roads on land owned by the state.

H. 378, by Givhan: Eradicating the spread of disease of honeybees.

H. 525, by Englehardt and Harvey: Amending Secs. 2 and 3 of Act 560 of 1943, by prescribing the time in which the test to determine the percentage of germination must be made for vegetable seed sold in certain quantities.

H. 638, by Harrison (Shelby) and others: Repealing an act which created and established a legislative committee to investigate the granting of pardons and paroles.

H. 28, by McCoy: Amending Sec. 10, Title 42, which relates to the taking of paroled prisoners, etc.

H. 668, by Pfleger and others: Amending Sec. 732, Title 51.

H. 684, by Harvey and Lee: Authorizing the commissioner of agriculture and industries to adopt rules and regulations for the prevention of fungi diseases and noxious weeds from seeds and grains, etc.

H. 669, by Pfleger and others: Amending Sec. 744, Title 51, which defines "registered taxpayers."

H. 577, by Adams (Jefferson): Amending Sec. 673, Title 2 which relates to rules and regulations promulgated by the State Board of Agriculture governing persons engaged in entomological, pathological, etc., work.

H. 249, by Gallalee: Amending Sec. 202, Title 26, relating to unemployment compensation contributions by employes.

H. 553, by Martin (Greene) and others: Amending Sec. 50, Title 45, which relates to the labor of convicts on holidays.

H. 727, by Martin (Greene): Amending Sec. 1 of Act 534 of 1943 which provides for deductions from penitentiary and hard labor sentences for good conduct.

H. 728, by Martin (Greene) and Meeks: Amending Sec. 32, Title 45.

H. 43, by Malone (Houston): Amending Sec. 253, Title 45, relating to deductions from sentences for good conduct.

H. 409, by Sellers: Amending Sec. 85, Title 36.

H. 548, by Branyon and Martin (Greene): Amending the caption and Secs. 3, 5, 6 and 7 of the farm-to-market road act of 1943, so as to provide for payment out of the State County Aid Fund of sums equal to the interest on or depository's fees with respect to securities issued by a county etc.

H. 549, by Branyon and Martin (Greene): Amending Act No. 856 of 1951, pertaining to issuance of warrants by counties in anticipation of the receipts of monies under contracts with the State Highway Department under the farm-to-market road act of 1943.

H. 550, by Martin (Greene) and others: Amending Sec. 54, Title 45.

H. 551, by Martin (Greene) and others: Repealing Sec. 98, Title 45.

H. 562, by Pfleger and others: Amending further Sec. 69, Title 36, which prescribes penal ties for violation of the laws relating to drivers' licenses.

H. 567, by Langdon and Scruggs: Amending further Sec. 87, Title 36, relating to measurements and weights of loads of vehicles on highways by providing that certificates issued by the Department of Agriculture relating to scales on which such vehicles are weighed shall be received in courts as prima facie evidence under certain prescribed conditions.

H. 626, by Martin (Greene) and others: Amending Sec. I of Act 662, which amended Sec. 6777; pf the code of 1923, relating to payment of per diem of members of county governing bodies. (Permits payment out of gas tax proceeds.)

H. 627, by Martin (Greene) and others: Providing that in the discretion of county governing bodies a part of the compensation of members of county governing bodies may be paid out of the county gas tax revenues, etc.

H. 342, by Meeks: Amending Sec. 486, Title 51.

H. 375, by Adams (Jefferson): Providing limitations on the time in which actions at law may be brought for the recovery of undercharges and overcharges against common carriers, etc.

H. 345, by Garrett and Oakley: Relating to eminent domain, amending Sec. I of Title 19, which provides for the institution of condemnation proceedings in the probate courts.

H. 374, by Faulk: Amending Sec. 94, Title 11, which relates to coroners' fees.

H. 239, by Scruggs: Amending Sec. 618, Title 51.

H. 240, by Scruggs: Amending Sec. 619, Title 51.

H. 162, by Meeks and others: Amending Sec. 542, Title 51, which relates to privilege licenses.

H. 667, by Pfleger and others: Amending Sec. 745, Title 51.

H. 652, by Harrison (Shelby): Amending Sec. 496, Title 51.

H. 652, by Harrison (Shelby): Amending Sec. 496, Title 51.

H. 629, by Russell and others: Amending Sec. 268, Title 55. (Boosts annual pay of Archives & History Department director from $4200 to $7500.)

H. 920, by Miller: Exempting tangible personal property purchased for the sole use and benefit of public county, state or city schools, etc.

H. 806, by Beatty and Baker: Amending Subdivision 3, Sec. 3 of Act 402 of 1945, providing for the promotion of aeronautics, etc.

H. 872, by Brannan: Appropriating $15,000 for each of the next two fiscal years to the Department of Agriculture for control and eradication of the white fringed beetle.

H. 215, by Brannan and others: Amending Sec. 29, Title 11, by eliminating the provision which prohibits a probate judge from receiving a fee for discharging his duties, etc.

H. 565, by Davis: Exempting fuel oil purchased and stored or consumed as fuel for kiln use in manufacturing establishments from the sales tax, etc.

H. 504, by Scruggs: Making a conditional approproation out of any funds in the sum of $5000 for each of the next two fiscal years to the State Department of Conservation, etc.

H. 722, by Dawkins: Providing for the issuance of special license tags upon the payment of an additional fee of $1 to owners of motor vehicles who hold a valid amateur radio license, etc.

H. 408, by Scruggs and Kendall: Making it a misdemeanor for any person, firm or corporation with intent to defraud to wilfully destroy, change or remove the manufacturer's serial number or motor number on any item of heavy farm machinery, etc.

H. 300, by Russell and Wooten: Authorizing city boards of education to purchase school buses, etc.

H. 859, by Engelhardt and Beatty: Conferring on each city having a population of 6000 or more the same powers for the construction of street and sidewalk improvements, etc.

H. 801, by Dumas and others: Providing for the procedure for calling and holding an election in any school district and levying the school district tax authorized by any amendment to the constitution.

H. 802, by Dumas and others: Providing for issuance of warrants by school districts.

H. 954, by Harrison (Shelby) and others: Amending Sec. 44, Title 23.

H. 1008, by Harrison (Shelby): Amending Sec. 25, Title 34, relating to suits for divorce.

H. 644, by Morgan (Jefferson): Prohibiting use of certain text books and writings in public schools, etc.

H. 514, by Dawkins and others: Permitting payroll deductions from salaries or wages of public employes.

H. 923, by Gallalee: Amending and re-enacting Sec. 663, Title 7.

H. 800, by Dumas and others: Providing that all actions against physicians, surgeons and dentists for malpractice, error, etc., must be commenced within two years next after the act or omission, etc.

H. 522, by Hawkins and Miller: Providing that papers and documents pertaining to an appealed case shall be filed with the clerk of the court to which the appeal is taken within 60 days after the appeal bond has been filed.

H. 68, by Baker and Romine: Amending Sec. 374, Title 51, which relates to income tax.

H. 738, by Shelton: Providing for appointment of members of the advisory council for the state vocational trade schools, etc.

14n 1953

ALABAMA STATE APPROPRIATION

H. 182. by Tenille and others: Making an appropriation to the state superintendent of education for the purpose of contracting with Tuskegee Institute for undergraduate and graduate instruction of Alabama residents in engineering and veterinary medicine and for graduate instruction of Alabama residents in home economics and agriculture.

Bill- H.182 by Tenile and Others:
Tuskegee Institute
Engineering, Veterinary Medicine.
Graduate Instruction Home Economics and Agriculture.(Alabama Residents)

Right-To-Work Bill Approved By Committee

Funds For Tuskegee Might Help Racial Woes, Pinson Says

By a single vote margin, the Senate labor committee yesterday gave a favorable report to the hotly-contested "right-to-work" bill and sent it on to the Senate.

This moves the House-passed measure into position for a possible floor vote in that chamber next Tuesday where opponents openly concede there likely are enough votes to pass it.

Senate approval would put the issue squarely in the lap of Gov. Gordon Persons for his signature or veto.

The labor committee divided 5-4 on the bill, sponsored by Rep. Vernon Summerlin of Crenshaw County and some 40 other House members, after a sub-committee couldn't agree on it.

The measure proposes to outlaw union shops, closed shops or other contract provisions which seek to guarantee union membership.

Meanwhile, it was learned that three other members of the legislature beside Wilcox's Sen. J. M. Bonner, refused to accept their pay for the Fourth of July vacation.

Sen. Vaughan Hill Robison of Montgomery turned his check back to the state treasury. Two others, Reps. Wallace Malone of Houston and Hugh Kaul of Jefferson, arranged in advance not to be paid.

Sen. Bonner dramatically tore up his check in the Senate yesterday to express his disapproval of the vacation with pay.

An opponent of the "right-to-work" bill, Sen. Elvin McCary of Calhoun, chairman of the subcommittee which had it, conceded that supporters probably have more than enough votes to pass it in the Senate.

He observed that 18 senators, a majority of the 35-member body, signed a resolution yesterday asking the labor committee to send the bill back for a showdown in the Senate.

Proponents were claiming as many as 23 votes for final passage when the time comes.

Foes Fail In Strategy

The committee voted the "right to work" bill out after foes failed in two strategy moves. They first tried to keep it in the subcommittee two more weeks, then moved for an adverse report.

If the group had reported it adversely, the backers would have had more trouble passing it.

McCary's motion to delay action another two weeks was tabled 5-3. Then his move for an adverse report was turned down 5-4.

With the preliminaries disposed of, Sen. George Quarles of Dallas moved for a favorable report and it carried by the same 5-4 margin.

"I don't consider this an anti-labor or a pro-management bill," Quarles said. "To me it is a bill to guarantee the individual his right to make a living."

Representatives of labor and industry turned out in full force for the committee session.

Other committees went through their routine of passing on bills mostly of minor importance.

Meanwhile, a member of a legislative committee was told yesterday that a $390,000 annual appropriation to Tuskegee Institute might be influential in getting two Negro women to withdraw a court suit for admission to the University of Alabama.

Sen. John Pinson of Sumter County made the suggestion to the House ways and means committee and volunteered to undertake the task of presenting the matter to the Negroes' attorney.

The offer came while the committee was considering a renewal of the present $300,000 annual appropriation to the famed Negro school, plus another $90,000 for a school of nursing.

No immediate committee action was taken because the members are considering all educational appropriations together and will decide later.

Argued Favorable Action

Pinson, who is a member of Tuskegee's board of trustees, argued that favorable action on the appropriation would show that the legislature is trying to equalize facilities at Negro and white colleges.

When Rep. Paul Meeks of Jefferson County asked if there was anything the committee might do to influence the Negroes' suit for admission to the all-white university, Pinson replied that approval of the Tuskegee appropriation might help.

"I believe if it is shown to Arthur Shores (Negro attorney who is representing the two women) that they have the same facilities at Tuskegee that they would have at the University, he will agree to withdraw the suit at least until the Supreme Court rules on segregation," the senator said.

Some Negroes would "rather go to Tuskegee than Tuscaloosa (home of the University) or Auburn," Pinson said, if they can get the same educational opportunities there.

The suit demanding entrance to the University was filed in U.S. District Court at Birmingham on July 3 by Polly Ann Myers and Autherine J. Lucy. They said they had tried to enroll but had been turned down because of their race.

Racial Relations

Pinson also told the House committee that racial relations in Alabama "have definitely improved in the past five years, and the work being done at Tuskegee has helped."

But the relationship between the races, he continued, is like a sensitive Brazilian plant which wilts and droops at the touch of a human hand.

"All the work done by men of good will, both white and colored, can be changed and clotted out in an instant by some untoward act or word," the Black Belt senator cautioned.

"Let the Alabama legislature and this committee go on record now and in the future that it believes in equal educational rights for all its citizens, white or colored, without regard to race or creed, even though it be segregated."

It would earn the respect and good will of the colored people everywhere, he added, and "they can show us how to get us out of these troubles."

"The day of the demagogue has passed, Sen. Pinson declared.

"No more Bilbos, and Rankins —no more rabble rousers — no more Tom Heflins who thought an emissary of the Pope was hiding behind every bush and rock to do him bodily harm."

In other Capitol news — State Finance Director D. W. Hodo yesterday said the Alabama Medical College has returned to the state treasurer $122,625 as "funds spent which were unauthorized under the medical center budget."

Hodo said the money was used during the 1951-52 fiscal year. He said medical college officials turned the funds over to Jefferson-Hillman Hospital not in accordance with original budgetary instructions.

Jefferson Hillman is operated by the Medical College at its Birmingham Medical Center.

Hodo had asked last February that the college be required to return $278,000 to the state. He said the rest of the funds now had been accounted for by the medical college.

The finance director had said the college officials "had not kept faith with the university trustees and the legislative interim subcommittee" in using the money.

The funds came from a state appropriation of $1,013,000 to the medical college for the fiscal year ending Sept. 30, 1952. The legislative committee had specified how the money should be spent.

College officials denied there had been any wrong doing in disbursing of the money.

Pinson's Suggestion Rejected By Shores In 'Admittance Suit'

Sumter County Senator John Pinson's suggestion to withdraw a class suit challenging the banning of Negro students from public-financed universities and similar institutions in Alabama has been flatly rejected by Attorney Arthur D. Shores, it was learned this week.

Shores, chief counsel in a test suit filed July 3 by two Negro college honor graduates seeking admission to the graduate school of the University of Alabama, indicated that State Senator Pinson telephoned him Tuesday with a similar proposition to the one widely publicized last week in the daily press in connection with a proposed $390,000 annual appropriation for Tuskegee Institute.

It is understood that Shores explained to Mr. Pinson (1) that the Tuskegee appropriations have nothing to do with the suit; (2) that the litigation was a class suit on behalf of the whole Negro group; (3) that it dealt with a constitutional right; (4) that he was one of three lawyers in the case; (5) that his clients desired to continue with the suit and (6) that the pending school segregation cases before the Supreme Court are irrevelant to the issue in the university case which has been settled by the court.

The Sumter Senator is quoted as indicating that he would try to get Basil O'Connor, chairman of the Tuskegee Institute board of directors to talk with Thurgood Marshall and Robert L. Carter, the two associates of Shores, all of New York City. Marshall is director and counsel of the NAACP Legal Defense and Educational Fund and Carter is his chief assistant.

Mr. Pinson, a powerful Black Belt senator, testfying July 15 before a House legislative committee argued for adding $90,000 to the present $300,000 outlay for Tuskegee Institute because it might entice two Negro litigant to give up their legal effort to win admission to the University of Alabama.

Jefferson County Representative Paul Meeks of Birmingham asked Senator Pinson what the committee could do to influence the litigants to quit their admission suit. He (Mr. Pinson) suggested that passing the increased appropriations for Tuskegee might do the job.

He added: "I believe if its shown to Arthur Shores that they havethe same facilities at Tuskegee that they have the University, he will agree to withdraw the suit." Mr. Pinson promised to get in touch with Mr. Shores himself on the suit withdrawal proposition. He did but it did not work.

In the meantime, U. S. Judge Seymour H. Lynne, issued Tuesday his formal order granting a 40-day delay to the University of Alabama following the July 20 hearing to get its answer in to the enter-the university suit. The university asked for 60 days. The press and spectators were barred from the hearing on the motion held in Judge Lynne's office.

The case is sponsored by the Alabama State Conference of NAACP Branches.

Court's decisions removing racial bars from around state-supported institutions of higher learning. The other four states are Georgia, Florida, Mississippi and South Carolina.

Alabama is one of the five remaining states of the 48 which has not fallen in line with the Supreme

Tuskegee's Continuing Service

Tuskegee Institute's continuing service to Alabama is greatly appreciated. The record of administration under Dr. F. D. Patterson, who recently resigned, is certain, as we see it, to be ably carried on by Dr. Luther Hilton Foster, who has an impressive record of business management at the school for the past 11 years.

This week it is expected that the Senate finance and taxation committee of the State Legislature will consider renewing appropriations for a portion of the support of the school. As most persons know, Tuskegee is a private institution. Through the years, Alabama has become ever more conscious of Tuskegee's considerable values to the state generally, and hence the amount of appropriation over that period has grown. The current appropriation is for $300,000, and Tuskegee Institute is not now pressing for any increase in that basic amount. At least that sum is in order.

The institute faces, however, real financial problems in continuing to keep up standards in several areas of graduate study, such as work in veterinary medicine, graduate home economics, engineering and agriculture. Very high standards now are being met, but it is only by virtue of the closest management that funds are made to cover the necessary outlay. In the future, Tuskegee may be expected to face still more of financial challenge, as is the case with most institutions of higher learning.

For years Tuskegee has maintained a school of nursing. This year a special bill is to include a proposed appropriation of $90,000 to provide for operating expenses of the nursing school. The institute already has good facilities, integrated with the rest of the school, of course, and the projected amount would go only to operations.

That is an appropriation entirely merited, in our view, for Alabama has, itself, no facilities for Negro nurses' training, yet it is clear that need in this field is great and ever growing.

Nothing could be clearer, we believe, than the strong sentiment in behalf of continuing the maximum degree of feasible aid to Tuskegee, for it is very aptly said that there is no way to measure absolutely what Tuskegee has meant to and done for Alabama and Alabamians. The debt is, indeed, ours, and when Tuskegee, as it must, requests certain sums—the amounts asked are moderate, in our view—we would urge upon the Legislature that it continue to show its customary understanding of the great service rendered.

Institute Is Given $180,060 From Negro College Fund

Tuskegee Institute received $180,060 last week from the United Negro College Fund's $25,000,000 five-year building campaign, known as the National Mobilization of Resources for the United Negro Colleges.

The announcement was made by Dr. L. H. Foster, president of Tuskegee Institute, who stated that the grant brought the total received by the Institute to .564,188 since the inception of the Fund's National Mobilization program two years ago.

President Foster said that the three grants made to Tuskegee Institute since July, 1952, made possible improvement of facilities for commercial dietetics training, the first wing of the engineering building, and a new dormitory for faculty and staff women.

Stressing the role which Tuskegee Institute has played in its 72 years of operation in bringing about improved standards of living to the many thousands whom it reaches, Dr. Foster expressed gratitude for these additional funds. In the past 10 years the college has graduated over 3,000 students who are serving today in every part of the United States and in many foreign countries, as nurses, home economists, agriculturists, veterinarians, teachers, tradesmen, and operators of independent business establishments.

The Fund's National Mobilization program is headed by Dr. F. D. Patterson, former president of Tuskegee Institute and president of the United Negro College Fund. He heads a seven-man board, including such well-known businessmen and industrialists as Harvey Firestone, Jr., Devereux C. Josephs, Richard K. Mellon, John D. Rockefeller, Alfred P. Sloan, Jr., Robert E. Wilson, and Robert W. Woodruff.

Institute Given $180,060 Grant By College Fund

Tuskegee Institute received $180,060 last week from the United Negro College Fund's $25,000,000 five-year building campaign, known as the National Mobilization of Resources for the United Negro Colleges.

The announcement was made by Dr. L. H. Foster, president of Tuskegee Institute, who stated that the grant brought the total received by the Institute to .564,188 since the inception of the Fund's National Mobilization program two years ago.

President Foster said that the three grants made to Tuskegee Institute since July, 1952, made possible improvement of facilities for commercial dietetics training, the first wing of the engineering building, and a new dormitory for faculty and staff women.

Institute Is Given $180,060 From Negro College Fund

Tuskegee Institute received $180,060 last week from the United Negro College Fund's $25,000,000 five-year building campaign, known as the National Mobilization of Resources for the United Negro Colleges.

The announcement was made by Dr. L. H. Foster, president of Tuskegee Institute, who stated that the grant brought the total received by the Institute to .564,188 since the inception of the Fund's National Mobilization program two years ago.

President Foster said that the three grants made to Tuskegee Institute since July, 1952, made possible improvement of facilities for commercial dietetics training, the first wing of the engineering building, and a new dormitory for faculty and staff women.

Stressing the role which Tuskegee Institute has played in its 72 years of operation in bringing about improved standards of living to the many thousands whom it reaches, Dr. Foster expressed gratitude for these additional funds. In the past 10 years the college has graduated over 3,000 students who are serving today in every part of the United States and in many foreign countries, as nurses, home economists, agriculturists, veterinarians, teachers, tradesmen, and operators of independent business establishments.

The Fund's National Mobilization program is headed by Dr. F. D. Patterson, former president of Tuskegee Institute and president of the United Negro College Fund. He heads a seven-man board, including such well-known businessmen and industrialists as Harvey Firestone, Jr., Devereux C. Josephs, Richard K. Mellon, John D. Rockefeller, Alfred P. Sloan, Jr., Robert E. Wilson, and Robert W. Woodruff.

14n 1953

MONEY FOR

Tuskegee Gets $180,000 From United Negro College Fund

Atlanta World
Atlanta, Ga.

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, Ala. — (—) — Tuskegee Institute received $180,060 today from the United Negro College Fund's $25,000,000 five-year building campaign, known as the National Mobilization of Resources for the United Negro Colleges.

The announcement was made by Dr. L. H. Foster, president, Tuskegee Institute, who stated that today's grant brought the total received by the Institute of $564,188 since the inception of the Fund's National Mobilization program two years ago. Sun. 7-5-53

President Foster said that the three grants made to Tuskegee Institute since July, 1952, made possible the following improvements: (1) Facilities for Commercial Dietetics training; 2) the first wing of the Engineering Building; and 3) a new dormitory for faculty and staff women. P.1

STRESS ROLE

Stressing the role which Tuskegee Institute has played in its seventy-two years of operation in bringing about improved standards of living to the many thousands whom it reaches, Dr. Foster expressed gratitude for these additional funds. In the past ten years the college has graduated over 3,000 students who are serving today in every part of the United States and in many foreign countries, as nurses, home economists, agriculturist, veterinarians, teachers, tradesmen, and operators of independent business establishments.

SEVEN MAN BOARD

The Funds National Mobilization program is headed by Dr. F. D. Patterson, former president of Tuskegee Institute and president of the United Negro College Fund. He heads a seven-man-board, including such well-known businessmen and industrialists as: Harvey Firestone Jr.; Devereux C. Josephs; Richard K. Mellon; John D. Rockefeller; Alfred P. Sloan Jr. Robert E. Wilson, and Robert W. Woodruff.

Institute Given $180,060 Grant By College Fund

Tuskegee News
Tuskegee, Ala.
Thurs. 7-9-53

Tuskegee Institute received $180,060 last week from the United Negro College Fund's $25,000,000 five-year building campaign, known as the National Mobilization of Resources for the United Negro Colleges. P.1 1/4 col

The announcement was made by Dr. L. H. Foster, president of Tuskegee Institute, who stated that the grant brought the total received by the Institute to .564,188 since the inception of the Fund's National Mobilization program two years ago.

President Foster said that the three grants made to Tuskegee Institute since July, 1952, made possible improvement of facilities for commercial dietetics training, the first wing of the engineering building, and a new dormitory for faculty and staff women.

14n 1953

MONEY FOR

$100,000 GIFT FOR NURSERY SCHOOL
BENJAMIN RUSSELL ESTATE

SEE- CARD "FOUNDER'S DAY"

Advertiser
P.1.
Montgomery,Ala.
Mon. 4-13-53

14n 1953

MONEY FOR

$500.00
GIFT FROM GROUP OF NEGRO EMPLOYEES
CAST IRON AND PIPE COMPANY
BIRMINGHAM, ALABAMA

SEE- CARD "FOUNDER'S DAY

Advertiser
p.l.
Mon. 4-13-53
Montgomery,Ala.

14n 1953

MONEY FOR

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE
RECEIVES $10,000
GRANT FROM LADD FUND

Tuskegee Institute
received $10,000 from the Kate Macy
Ladd Fund for the Rehabilitation Program
at John A. Andrew Hospital.

Campus Chat
November,1953
P.1

14 o 1953

South Labeled 'Most Dynamic' Area In Nation

Vocational Training Needs Big Expansion, Industrialist Says

MOBILE, Ala., Nov. 19 (AP) — The South was described by a New Jersey industrialist here tonight as "the most dynamic and vigorous section of the United States—with a rising population and standard of living."

Edwin J. Schwanhausser, South Orange, N.J., told the Alabama Chamber of Commerce Executives Association in a prepared speech the South "is only beginning its industrial growth."

But he said to assure the South would continue to grow industrially, Schwanhausser said this section must expand its vocational training school program to provide more trained workers.

Schwanhausser is executive vice president of the Worthington Corp., which recently built a big air conditioning manufacturing plant at Decatur, Ala.

Some statistics listed by Schwanhausser indicating indicating industrial growth of the South:

1. More than half of the expansion in chemical manufacturing since the outbreak of the Korean war has come to the South.

2. This area is getting two-thirds of the new installations for processing aluminum and well over half of the new gasoline plants.

3. At the turn of the century 70 per cent of the nation's cotton spindles were located in New England; today 77 per cent of the spindles are located in the South.

A traffic specialist for the U.S. Chamber of Commerce told the group there had been a 50 per cent increase in street traffic load in the last 10 years.

Henry K. Evans, Silver Springs, Md., urged businessmen to pool their efforts in moves to "stretch our streets" so as to solve the traffic squeeze gripping shopping areas.

Evans recommended that cities of more than 50,000 population employ a traffic engineer to help work out traffic problems.

The meetin gof the Chamber of Commerce executives preceded start tomorrow of the 16th annual convention of the Alabama State Chamber of Commerce.

Principal speakers at tomorrow's convention will be Richard L. Bowditch, president of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States; Rep. Tuck, (D-Va.) and Rep. Andrews (D-Ala.).

Bowditch will speak at the annual dinner of the State Chamber of Commerce tomorrow night. Thomas D. Russell, Alexander City, president, will preside at the sessions.

146 1953

Conroe Normal and Industrial College

Bulletin Issued by one of the Texas Educational Schools Down in Conroe

The National Baptist Union-Review received last week the Conroe Normal and Industrial College Bulletin for 1953-54. It carries information for prospective students and is released for publication without charge.

Conroe Normal and Industrial College will open for the 1953-54 session Wednesday, Sept. 16, 1953 at Conroe, Texas.

Registration: 9:00 A.M. - 11:45 A.M. Special Chapel Exercise 11:55. Come and bring a student from your church. We major in preparing young people for leadership in the Christian Faith.

The graduates of Conroe College are leading in the areas of Pastoring, Preaching, Training, Church Music, Agriculture and Industries.

We offer courses lelading to completion of high school for those who wish to finish their high school work in order to enter college.

For those who wish to discover their field of work we have a special course.

We arrange our programs to fit the needs of our students.

We offer courses leading to the Bachelor of Theology Degree and Bachelor of Arts in Christian Education Degree.

You may attend Conroe College for $25.00 entrance fees, plus $30.00 per month, for room, board and tuition. The fees for non-resident students are $10.00 per month.

The first Quarter starts Sept. 16, 1953 and ends December 8, 1953. The second Quarter starts December 9, 1953 and ends March 2, 1954. The third Quarter starts March 3, 1954 and ends May 29, 1954.

For further information write the Registrar, Conroe Normal and Industrial College, Conroe, Texas.

L. Brown To Remain At Fargo Girls School

LITTLE ROCK, Ark.—(ANP)—Lloyd Brown last week reversed his plans to retire as head of Fargo Training School for girls here and will remain indefinitely.

Brown, the only superintendent the four-year-old state institution has had, submitted his resignation several months ago, effective on July 1.

Board Acts To Improve Negro Training School

From Friday's Late Editions.

Frankfort, Ky., June 11 (AP)—A detailed plan for improving Kentucky's only vocational-training school for Negroes, target of criticism by investigators in the past, was adopted by the State Board of Education tonight.

The board approved the plan submitted by a committee that studied conditions at the West Kentucky Vocational Training School, Paducah.

James L. Patton, State vocational-education director, said the plan is designed to define clearly responsibility for operation of the school. Before, he said, there had been "divided authority."

Under the plan, the school will report directly to Patton instead of through the trades-education section of his division. And the outline states specifically that C. L. Timberlake, president, "is the recognized head" of the school, to whom subordinates must make reports, and who is "clothed with the responsibility of personnel and other administrative functions . . ."

The investigating committee was headed by A. E. Meyzeek, Louisville. It included Patton, who became vocational-education director this year, and Whitney Young, administrative head of Lincoln Institute, the State's Negro high school near Simpsonville.

Saying Patton "will be the individual (in the State Education Department) responsible for working with the school," the report added that:

He will visit it twice every three months and at other times he deems necessary. He will make studies and recommendations for improving administrative procedures, budgeting, and purchasing, co-ordination, curriculum construction, maintenance of buildings and grounds, instruction as it relates to trade-school philosophy, public relations, and staff meetings. And he is to develop a program for upgrading and improving administration personnel and teaching staff.

He is to make a detailed report to the committee every three months on progress made by the school, and the committee will be required to check on the progress once a year.

Special reports will be made to the State board every three months to keep it informed of what is being done.

Trade School Case In Court

Pupils Denied Admission Sue

P-8 BALTIMORE

Seeking admission to Mergenthaler Vocational school of Printing two high school youths who were denied entry because of race took the matter to court today (Friday).

In an appeal filed for them by their parents, and presented by NAACP lawyers in Baltimore City Court, the teen-agers asked that the Court set aside the refusal and direct the school officials to reconsider their applications.

The plaintiffs are Carl Edward Smith, 14, son of Mr. and Mrs. S. Edward Smith, 1402 N. Carey st. and James Anthony Grove, 15, son of the Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Eugene T. Grove, 1100 N. Eden st.

NAACP attorneys Thurgood Marshall, Jack Greenberg, Juanita Mitchell and Donald G. Murray prepared the petition and will argue the case.

They point out that Mergenthaler, intended for an all white student body, is the only city institution having a complete three-year vocational high school course in printing leading to a high school diploma.

Refused In May

Both boys applied for admission to the printing school on April 22, 1953 to enter the tenth grade in September. They were refused admission on May 14.

The Board of School Commissioners, John H. Fischer, superintendent of public schools; Charles Sylvester, assistant superintendent, vocational education and Howard E. Ziefle, principal of Mergenthaler, are defendants in the suit.

In the brief filed in court the NAACP lawyers stated:

"...The Ottmar Mergenthaler Vocational High School of Printing of Baltimore City is the only vocational high school of the City... planned, built, equipped and staffed to offer a vocational high school diploma for instruction in printing..."

Also that:

"The superintendent of public instruction and the Board of School Commissioners have had ample notice of the petitioners' application but have refused to admit petitioners to the said school of printing aforesaid."

Twelve Graduates Awarded B. S. Degrees

Mississippi Vocational Holds First Commencement Exercises

ITTA BENA, Miss. — President J. H. White conferred upon twelve candidates the degree of Bachelor of Science, at the first commencement exercises held at Mississippi Vocational College, on Monday, May 18, at 10 A. M.

The graduates were awarded B. S. degrees based on concentrations in elementary education, English and the social sciences, following an address by Dr. H. M. Ivy, superintendent of schools, Meridian, Miss., and member of the Board of Trustees of Institutions of Higher Learning.

Baccalaureate service was held Sunday, May 27, at 3:30 P. M., with the Rev. Phillip E. Brooks, pastor, Mount Olive Cathedral, Memphis.

PLATFORM GUESTS during these ceremonies included the Revs. David Matthews, Indianola; S. W. Foster, Greenville; H. H. Humes, Greenville; W. M. Lindsey, Greenwood, and L. S. Rounds, Greenville; Dr. P. W. Hill, Clarksdale; Supt. L. S. Rogers, Greenwood, and Harry Carpenter, Rolling Fork.

Among the commencement events which precede the baccalaureate service were the junior-senior banquet on the night of May 13 and Senior Class Night on May 14.

State's Newest College

Miss. Vocational To Inaugurate Dr. J. H. White

ITTA BENA, Miss.—Young and progressive Mississippi Vocational College recently announced its plans for the inauguration of Dr. James Herbert White as its first president on Dec. 4-7. The school is a state-supported four-year college that has grown to amazing proportions during its three years of existence.

* * *

IN THIS educational center in the heart of the Mississippi Delta, one mile from the town of Itta Bena, the faculty, staff, and student body have been busy finishing their elaborate plans for the inaugural solemnities. All activites will be centered around the theme of the inauguration: "Balancing Agriculture with Industry Through Higher Education."

An educational conference is to be the center of attraction on Dec. 4-5, the first two days of the inaugural period. With President J. L. Reddix of Jackson College, Jackson, Miss., presiding in the first session, and President J. R. Otis of Alcorn College, Alcorn, Miss., in charge of the second session, the conference promises to be enlightening and entertaining in its presentation of the various aspects of the theme.

Dr. White is a native of Gallatin, Tenn.; a graduate of Tennessee State, Fisk, and Columbia Universities, and member of a number of professional and civic organizations including NEA, ATA, the American Council of Higher Education, Mississippi State Teachers' Association, and Omega Psi Phi Fraternity.

Dr. White was president of Lane College, Jackson, Tenn., from 1948-'50.

South's Newest State School Hails President

Itta Bena Is Scene For Inauguration of Miss. Voc'l Head

By VIRGIL ADAMS

ITTABENA, Miss.—(INS)—The South's newest major state-supported college, which appears destined to open a new era in Southern educational history, inaugurated its first president Sunday, Dec. 6, when Dr. James Herbert White was presented in the inaugural convocation program of Mississippi Vocational College.

An audience of about 2,000 persons, including about 250 white friends, witnessed the investiture of Dr. White and listened to inspirational addresses by Dr. John D. Williams, chancellor of the University of Mississippi, and by Dr. White.

The convocation was presided over by Dr. E. R. Jobe, executive of the board of trustees, institutions of higher learning, State of Mississippi, and an array of colleagues, who participated on the program and included graduates from thirty-two colleges and universities.

* * *

VISITORS FROM at least seventeen states attended, and some commented that the new institution is the most modern Negro college in the nation.

Chancellor Williams stressed as his central theme, "Ignorance is costly," and urged both races to take advantage of educational facilities at their disposal.

President White was accorded a special honor when he was presented with a medallion during the investiture service by Dr. H. M. Ivy, president of the board of trustees.

This honor has been accorded to only a rare few of the presidents of Negro colleges and universities, and represented the high esteem in which Dr. White is held.

* * *

THE PRAYER of consecration was led by the Rev. Kelly Miller Smith of Nashville, Tenn., and the invocation was by the Rev. L. S. Rounds, Greenville, Miss. The act of inauguration was performed by Alvin J. McNeil, registrar of the college.

Salutations to President White were made by Harry G. Carpenter, vice president, board of trustees; Frank E. Petty, class of '55; Mrs. Mabel Walker Anderson, for the faculty; Frank Ellis Young, president Alumni Association; E. P. Rawson, assistant supervisor of Negro School, Mississippi; Mrs. Lillian Rogers Johnson, for the American Teachers Association; President J. D. Boyd, Mississippi State Teachers Association; G. W. Brooks, executive secretary of the Tennessee Education Association.

The college choir furnished music, under the direction of Shelton J. McGee.

* * *

THE FOUR-DAY inaugural program opened on Friday, Dec. 4, with an educational conference on the topic, "Balancing Agriculture With Industry Through Higher Education."

Open house was held Saturday from 2 to 4 P. M., and at 7:30 P. M., a citizens banquet was held, featuring attendance by about fifty white friends of the colloge.

On Sunday, the inaugural worship service was held in the college auditorium at 10 A. M., and a band concert at 1 P. M. Following the convocation, a reception was held in the Home Economics Building.

THE INAUGURATION was concluded on Monday night, Dec. 7, with a very elaborate inaugural ball from 10 o'clock until 2 A. M. This event was held in the assembly hall and largely attended.

Among the distinguished persons attending the convocation, besides those who appeared on the program, were former Congressman Will M. Whittington, Samuel F. Marsh, alumnus, Oberlin College; Charles T. Morgan, alumnus, Berea College; Alan D. Daily, alumnus, Kansas State College; Marvin A. Riggs, Denver University; T. K. Martin, administrative assistant, Mississippi State College; William E. Riecken, dean, Millsaps College; Lawrence A. Davis, president, Arkansas A. and M. College;

Also, Johnny H. Davis, alumnus, Purdue University; W. A. Waters, dean, Rust College; A. A. Branch, dean, Tougaloo College; Hollis F. Price, president, LeMoyne College; J. B. Otis, president, Alcorn A. and M. College; H. Councill Trenholm, president, Alabama State College; Cora L. Hall, alumna, Wiley College; Jean K. Norris, alumna, Prairie View A. and M. College; Jacob L. Reddix, president, Jackson College; J. W. Fisher, director agriculture, Southern University; J. B. Isaacs, dean, Paul Quinn College; Timothy W. Jones, dean, School of Mechincal Industries, Tuskegee Institute; Herman Stone Jr., professor, Lane College;

Also, W. S. Maize, dean School of Graduate Studies, Florida A. and M. College; J. R. Buck, president, Natchez College; H. P. Wilburn, president, Campbell College; Earl W. Banks II, alumnus, West Virginia State College; W. M. Frazier, president, Mississippi Industrial College; W. A. Bell, president, Miles College; Willis L. Moore, alumnus, American Baptist Theological seminary, and James E. Miller, instructor, Coahoma County Junior College.

ITTA BENA CEREMONY — Inauguration ceremonies for President White of Mississippi Vocational College were held recently. Shown here, left to right, are Henry G. Carpenter, trustees' vice president speaks; Dr. H. M. Ivy, trustees' president, puts chain and medallion on President White; Dr. John D. Williams, University of Mississippi chancellor, delivers a convocation address, and Dr. White makes his inaugural speech. Bottom inset is President White and his son.

MRS. O'KELLY Receives Memory Book and Congratulatory Letters and Telegrams From Mrs. Juanita Payton, of Newport News, Va.

$750,000 Invested In New Welfare Plant

By A Staff Writer

The recent testimonial ceremonies honoring Mrs. Phyllis Stancil O'Kelly, superintendent of Janie Porter Barrett School for Girls, brought out a good deal that the public generally did not know about this institution.

The honor was paid Mrs. O'Kelly by the State Federation of Colored Women's Club. Joining in were Col. Richard W. Copeland, director, State Department of Welfare and Institutions; Dr. William H. Stauffer, a former state director, and Carol R. Minor, director of State Department of Youth Services, as well as many citizens from various parts of Virginia, and some from other states.

* * *

THE STATE of Virginia has builded on the foundation laid for this training school by the State Federation of Women's Clubs—the founders.

The story of this origin was told by Mrs. Wanser Bagnell Webb, of Norfolk, and appears on this page.

Shown on this page also are three new buildings completed by the State at a cost of approximately $750,000. There is an administration and class room building and two "cottage" buildings for girls. These buildings have individual rooms for the girls, where they have all of the health-giving, physical, mental and social improvement facilities and instructors needed for such a program.

The interest of the State in this institution is what this article is intended to emphasize. It demonstrates a rapidly changing approach to the problems of delinquent youths, and other social problems. It is the enlightened approach.

THE STATE was fortunate in the selection of a successor to Mrs. Janie Porter Barrett, for whom the school was named, after her death.

Mrs. O'Kelly is an alumnus of Shaw University, Raleigh, N. C. Speaking of her at the public testimonial, Dean Foster Perry Paine, of Shaw, said among other things:

* * *

"I CONGRATULATE the Virginia State Federation of Colored Women's Clubs upon preparing for and bringing to fruition this significant occasion, honoring Mrs. Phyllis Stancil O'Kelley. It is indeed fitting and proper to recognize publicly those who through untiring sacrifices and efforts have made and are making significant and unique contributions to the well-being of our social order.

"It is this unseen but felt spirit that Mrs. O'Kelley acquired at Shaw University along with a degree, attendant honors and a husband. As a student and in after years, she has been ever alert to the steady voice of humanity amid the din and noise that would drown it out. She has kept ever before her the vision of what ought to be and through preparation and hard work has sought to make the vision manifest.